THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

COURT CASES.

List of Plainfield Causes on the Calendar for This Term.

The following is a list of the Plainfield causes on the calendar of the court which convened in Elizabeth this morning:

SUPREME COURT CASES.

Walter Scott against Ebenezer A. Smith, on contract. Craig A. Marsh; J. Frank Fort.

Lillian A Schmit against Christopher Becker, in tort. Reed & Coddington; W. R. Codington.

Henry L. Kline against Plainfield Street Railway Company, in tort. Reed & Coddington; Depue & Parker.

The Albany Hardware Company against Frank S. Rose, on contract. W. R. Codington; George W. DeMeza.

CIRCUIT COURT CASES.

Anna Gwynette against John M. C. Marsh, in replevin. W. R. Codington; William A. Coddington.

John Williams, surviving partner, against Harry Gwynette, on contract. Reed & Coddington; W. R. Codington.

William D. Johnson against Clarence W. Smith, et als., on contract. Craig A. Marsh; James R. English and George Holmes.

Mary E. Whitehead against Herman A. Weber, on contract. S. S. Swackhamer; Craig A. Marsh.

DeWitt C. Irvins, et als., against James W. Mitchell, et als., on contract. William M. Stillman; William K. McClure.

Lemuel B. Woolston against James W. Mitchell, on contract. William M. Stillman; William K. McClure.

JUSTICE JURY APPEAL CASES.

Lorenzo Paoli against Edward M. Thorn, on contract. Justice J. E. Mosher.

Frederick Endress against Jacob Geiger, in tort. Justice William Newcorn.

Charles McGinley against Henry H. Lowrie, on contract. Justice William Newcorn.

Julia Peck against Charles H. Lyman. Justice William Newcorn.

Edward T. Douglass against Adam C. Blair, et al., Justice William Newcorn.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company against Julia Pendelton. Justice Joseph E. Mosher.

Sigmund Frucht against Adolph Knip. Justice V. W. Nash.

Howard Woolston against Walter N. Mague. Justice William Newcorn.

TOO MUCH SOMETHING.

For He Couldn't Climb In the Wagon, But Took a Fall Instead.

The rotation of the earth seemed rather irregular to a man from the west end last evening, and he staggered a bit in consequence. In front of the Trinity Reformed church, the tipsy man tried to climb into a wagon with two friends, but the effect of the liquor was to much for him and the man fell over striking his head against the curb. He was knocked insensible by the fall and when Officer Frederickson came up a few minutes later he found the west ender lying there apparently lifeless, with a deep cut over one eye. The officer straightened him out and discovered that the man was still alive. Then, with the help of his friends, he placed the inanimate figure in the wagon and allowed his friends to take the man home.

Plainfield '96.

The following reasons are put forth by the Christian Endeavor why the State convention should come to Plainfield:

1st—The local union were the first to ask for it.

2d—It is easily accessible from all parts of the State.

3d—It has the largest inclosed hall in the State.

4th—It is abundantly able to care for the convention delegates.

5th—It can raise all moneys needed for the convention expenses.

6th—It needs the spiritual awakening the convention will infuse.

7th—Plainfield wants the convention.

Park Club Election.

The annual meeting of the members of the Park Club will be held this evening at the club house on Washington avenue for the purpose of electing a full board of nine new governors. A full attendance of members is desired.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

SEWAGE BEDS COST $24,000.

CONTRACTS GIVEN OUT BY THE COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Washburn & Washburn, of New York, Get the Contract—Three Other Bidders—Street Railway Matter Laid Over a Week.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held last evening, principally for the purpose of receiving bids for the construction of the sewage beds in connection with the system of sewers that are being put in.

President See called the meeting to order and to the roll call by Clerk MacMurray the following Councilmen answered: Messrs. Bird, Dumont, Erickson, Frazee, Fish, Frost, Ginna, Moore, See and Westphal.

The clerk then read the call of the meeting, after which President See announced that the hour had arrived to receive bids for the construction of the sewage beds. Four bids were received. Councilmen Ginna and Fisk were appointed assistants to the clerk in the work of opening the bids. The latter were read off in detail and referred to the sewer committee, who retired to ascertain the total figures of the bids, and report later in the evening.

Mr. Fish reported that the street railway matter would have to be laid over till next Monday evening. He offered a resolution that Monday evening, November 4th, be set as the time to have the property owners along the proposed extension of Watchung avenue meet at the council rooms to make a final settlement in regard thereto. It was adopted.

Another resolution by the same Councilman was adopted that the said property owners be given due notice. He then presented a notice to be sent to them and also published in the city papers, providing the Corporation Counsel so directed. On his motion it was adopted.

A recess was then taken till the sewer committee returned with their report. Chairman Frost reported that four bids had been received as follows:

Patrick Plunkitt, of Jersey City, $34,126.20; Washburn & Washburn, of New York and Chicago, $24,662.50; T. H. Harrison & Sons, of Newark, $34,867.60; M. Honan & Sons, of Chester, Pa., $27,566.55.

Mr. Frost then offered a resolution that Washburn & Washburn, of New York and Chicago, be given the contract and that the bond be arranged within the specified time. It was so adopted all voting yes, except Mr. Frazee and Mr. Moore.

The work is to be commenced on October 15th, 1895.

Mr. Erickson offered a resolution which was adopted, that on due execution of contract the checks of the various bidders be returned to them.

After a resolution was offered by Mr. Dumont and adopted that $3,000 be borrowed to carry on the sewer work, Council adjourned to meet on Monday evening, October 7th.

PREFERRED THE ROAD.

So He Dished the Wheel, Upset the Wagon and Spilled the Cakes.

He was a new horse and thought it an indignity to be driven on the sidewalk, so he ran away. The horse was attached to the wagon belonging to Schlief, the baker, of West Fourth street, near Park avenue. Charles Schlief, the young brother of Mr. Schlief, was driving down West Fifth street nearly opposite the High School building, when he dropped one of the reins. He pulled on the other to stop the horse, but instead of stopping, the horse turned upon the sidewalk. He then became frightened and turned down Arlington avenue on a run. Young Schlief jumped out and tried to seize the horse by the head, but failed. Wilbur F. Cornwell, who was just about to enter the High School yard, caught the back of the wagon and started to climb through, but he had hardly got into the wagon when the horse turned into West Fourth street and struck the curb dishing a wheel. Cornwell jumped out and the wagon went over on its side. The harness broke and the horse galloped down to North avenue where he was caught by John Rafferty, Jr., and returned to his owner. The wagon was righted and the loaves of bread, rolls and pies scraped up.

The Fleischhauer Sale.

The sale of the stock, fixtures, etc., in the drug store formerly conducted by H. J. Fleischhauer on East Front street, took place this morning. There was a large crowd present, but only one bidder, who was the mortgagee, H. W. Liefke, who purchased the same for $100. Hezekiah Hand, of Scotch Plains, was the auctioneer and V. W. Nash, attorney for the mortgagee.

READY TO INSTRUCT.

Formal Opening of the Plainfield Business College.

The Plainfield Business College opened last evening in a very promising manner. Although there was not a large attendance at the opening exercises, a goodly number of pupils entered and the college promises, after it becomes known, to be largely attended.

The pupils, who have already entered, are of both sexes, while both day and evening sessions are patronized.

After a few words of welcome by Rev. A. A. Phelps, Rev. L. E. Livermore offered the opening prayer.

President Phelps then told of the work of the college, the different courses and the text books to be used. Prof. E. E. Ferris, of Indiana, the instructor in the commercial course, was introduced and told of the work in his department. The shorthand course instructor, Prof. R. M. Wade, was next introduced and explained his methods of teaching in an interesting manner. Then the visitors responded to an invitation to address the assembly, and Dean Rodman, Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, Rev. L. E. Livermore, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, Garret Q. Packer, and Mr. Randolph, spoke a few words.

The exercises then came to an end, and the visitors enjoyed an informal talk with President Phelps and his assistants.

FOOLED AGAIN.

The Fire Department Turn Out to Find Nothing But Smoke.

There were several fires that started this morning, but they were either in a furnace or stove. One of the last, however, brought out the fire department about 9 o'clock. As John Devine was passing by the residence of Patrick Keely on LaGrande, corner of Scott avenues, he saw smoke pouring out of the windows. He immediately sent in an alarm from Box 23 at the corner of Fifth street and Franklin place, and the department turned out to find that the stove pipe would not draw and the smoke had gone out of the windows instead.

COAL GOES UP.

Retail Price of the Commodity Raised Fifty Cents a Ton.

The local members of the New Jersey Coal Exchange met at the office of Wm. D. Thickstun on Madison avenue last night, and decided to raise the price of all domestic sizes of coal from $4.50 to $5 00 per ton, which includes nut, stove egg and broken. This action was taken on account of the wholesale dealers increasing their price.

A Special Train.

All those intending to attend the State Christian Endeavor Convention at Atlantic City should bear in mind the only train on which special rates will be given is the Plainfield '96 special, which leaves Somerville at 12:30 o'clock, Wednesday, October 9th. The total expense for railroad fare, board and room at the hotels, souvenir caps, which are to be worn at the convention, etc., will be only $6.50, which will be less than the regular railroad rates for Somerville to Atlantic City and return. Those wishing to go on this train are urged to make it known to E. E. Anthony, 50 Westervelt avenue, as soon as possible.

A Benefit.

The Pond Tool Social Club will give a benefit to Daniel Manly, one of their members, who is deserving at present of substantial aid. The benefit will be in the form of a festival and dance and will take place in T. A. B. Hall, Friday evening, October 18th. O'Reilly will furnish the music.

Republican Primaries.

The borough Republican primaries to elect delegates to the county convention will be held in the public school building on Saturday evening next.

The Somerset County Republican Convention will be held in the Court House at Somerville, Wednesday, October 9th.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

KICKS AND PUNTS.

Items of Interest Concerning the Great Game of Football.

The Y. M. C. A. football team met on the old Harned Academy field for practice by moonlight, last evening, but they found it too dark to see the ball, so they adjourned to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and practiced there.

Lewis E. Waring, manager of the Y. M. C. A. eleven, has been forced to give up his position on the Elizabeth Athletic Club team on account of an injured shoulder. It is expected, however, that he will fill the position of quarter-back on the Y. M. C. A. team. The addition of Mr. Waring in that position will greatly strengthen the team.

The Leal's school football eleven will play their first game Saturday afternoon at Orange against a team from that city.

The strong team which represents the Elizabeth Athletic Club will try their strength against the Princeton players tomorrow at Elizabeth. The college men are hardly in good form yet, as the active training has scarcely begun. The training table will be started tomorrow. Phil King is back at Princeton coaching, especially the candidates for quarter-back, of whom Sutor and Smith are the most promising. Among those trying for the eleven is Everett Dwight, of this city.

THE MEANEST CUT OF ALL.

He Ruined Both Tires and Fled in the Night.

Another malicious tire destroyer is enjoying himself in the borough. Last Sunday afternoon Frederick S. Bishop, of Somerset streeet, went out riding on his wheel. When he returned he locked his wheel up as usual in the bicycle house in the rear of his yard. Monday morning when he went to get his safety he discovered that both tires were flat. On examining them he found that someone out of pure deviltry had taken a knife and cut several gashes in the tire two or three inches long. The front tire was in the same condition. Of course the tires were utterly ruined, and Mr. Bishop has vowed vengeance on the miscreant should he ever find him.

Wedding Reception.

The reception tendered the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Meyers, at the bride's parents, Valley road, Washington Valley, last night was largely attended. All the neighbors around and about and a large number from this city were present. A large platform was erected on the lawn where all who desired could dance. It was a pleasant affair and all who participated expressed themselves as well pleased with the reception and left many tokens to the newly wedded couple.

The Boys Brigade.

There were eighteen boys present at the First Baptist church last night when under the direction L. H. Biglow, Jr., a boys' brigade was organized. A stack of guns, surrounded by an American flag, and a drum was attractively arranged on the platform.

Nice Weather for Ice Cream.

The very thought of ice cream may chill you to the marrow, but Tier's candies are as good in cold weather as in warm, and his assortment is a varied one. Suppose you stop in this afternoon when you go down town and take a look at them.

To Operate the Fowler Works.

The Lewis Car Company, of Brooklyn, is said to have purchased the Fowler Car Works at Elizabeth, and will at once take steps to reopen the extensive plant. Several hundred men will be employed.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

The Young Ladies Missionary Society of the First Baptist church hold their first meeting of the season this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Y. M. C. A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, football players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

THE BOROUGH IRE IS UP.

ACROSS-THE-BROOK PEOPLE SAY THE CITY MUST DO SOMETHING.

Borough Board of Health Claim That the Brook is Fouled by Sewage From the City Side Only—Talk of Indictments.

The following is a copy of the letter which the North Plainfield Borough Board of Health has prepared to be sent to the City Common Council, and which is expected to be presented to the latter body next Monday evening:

The Board of Health of the borough of North Plainfield begs to call your attention to the unsanitary condition of Green brook. Into this stream many citizens of your city habitually sewer. Of this fact this board has ample evidence. The bed of the brook is overgrown with weeds and grass upon which the sewage matter collects with the result that offensive odors arise and germs of disease are spread. Many of your physicians can cite instances of disease traceable to this source. This condition has repeatedly been called to the attention of the Board of Health of your city, but that board fails to treat the matter with the serious attention it deserves. After great efforts on our part your board last year finally consented to pay one-half of the expense of removing the grass and weeds and flushing out the brook. This year your board refuses to take any action. We feel that inasmuch as we have entirely stopped any sewering into the brook from our side, and the foul and unhealthy condition which now exists is due entirely to the action of your own citizens, we should not be called upon to contribute toward the expense of remedying the evil. We know that the law of 1893, found on page 281 of the laws of that year, would enable us to put a stop to the practice of emptying sewage into the brook indulged in by your citizens. That law provides a penalty of one thousand dollars fine and two years imprisonment.

We recognize the fact that you are endeavoring to provide a system of sewers which will be adequate to your needs, and for that reason we have temporized for years and restrained any attempt to indict those who are constantly violating the law. But, when your Health Board neglects to make the slightest effort to counteract the evil, and refuses to take those precautions which the most casual examination shows are imperative if the health of the community is of consequence, we feel that it is our duty to act. We should deplore the necessity of setting in motion a law which is so severe as the one mentioned, and for that reason we call the matter to your attention in the hope that such prompt action will be taken that we will be justified in permitting the matter to rest for the present. The situation requires immediate action and we trust that your honorable body will recognize this fact and that we shall not find it necessary to appeal to any different tribunal.

ODD FELLOWS ENTERTAIN.

They Will Celebrate Their Anniversary on October 28th With a Big Time.

A number of visiting Odd Fellows attended the regular meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. of O. F. last evening, among whom was District Deputy Grand Master Stamets, of Westfield. He delivered an address in the first part of the evening and afterwards gave a recitation. A number of other members from in and out of town spoke.

Three delegates were elected to attend the district meeting to be held at Westfield on October 23d.

The anniversary committee reported that all arrangements were being made to have the anniversary of the lodge, which takes place on October 28th, a most enjoyable one. An entertainment will be provided after which a collation will be served. One application for membership was received.

A MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

Presbyterian Women's Synodical Society of New Jersey to Meet Here.

The Women's Synodical Society, the missionary society of the Presbyterian church, will hold its annual State conference at the Crescent Avenue church on Thursday, October 10th. The services in the morning will be devoted to home missions, and those in the afternoon to foreign missions.

The delegates will be entertained by the women of the Crescent Avenue and the First Presbyterian churches. A lunch will be served in the church parlors during the intermission between the two sessions.

Delegates from all over the State will attend.

A Guild Sale.

The Guild of the Church of the Redeemer will give a tea and sale of cake and fancy articles at the home of Mrs. Charles Matthews, 49 Grove street, Saturday, Oct. 19th, from four to seven o'clock.

The old-fashioned man cannot be very inferior to the new woman or the latter would not be so anxious to disguise herself in his clothes, says the Evening Sun.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

SHAVING ON SUNDAY.

The Barber Evades the Ordinance By Visiting His Customer.

There is one thing in obeying the letter of a law and another in obeying the spirit of it. Several of the barbers who were foremost in pushing forward the Sunday closing agitation are now, although obeying the ordinance by closing their shops on Sunday, working as hard as ever on the day of rest. Instead of the customer coming to the barber on week days the barber goes to his customer and there, at his residence, the business man gets his Sunday shave after all. Although many of the other barbers know of this scheme to get around the ordinance, they have taken no action as they believe it is a losing game to play. They are, however, very indignant at their brother tradesmen for breaking faith in this matter.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John A. Crane, of LaGrande avenue, was confined to his home with illness yesterday.

Mrs. Clarence Howe Hall has arrived home from her summer's stay at Newport.

Miss Ella Raylbert, of North avenue, is visiting Miss Florence Spaulding of Bound Brook.

Mrs. Lyle Marshall, of Park avenue, celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday on Sunday.

Whitney Frazee and family, of 117 West Second street, have moved to 707 South avenue.

Justice Mosher has recovered from a recent illness and is once more able to attend to business.

Miss Frantz, of Scotch Plains, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Putnam, on Orchard place.

Ernest E. Ackerman, of West Seventh street, was able to be out again today for the first time since his illness.

George Ryder, of East Front street, will enter the College of Physicians and Surgeons on its opening next week.

Robert Clark, of Washington Valley, returned to his studies in the Senior class in the New York University Law School this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. VanEmburgh, of Westfield, spent Sunday at the home of their father, George L. VanEmburgh of East Second street.

Mr. Demarest's Good Luck.

The President of the United States, by an executive order issued Monday, has placed about one-half the U. S. consulships, including that here, under the Civil Service regulations. This means that Colonel Demarest will leave us only in the event of his promotion and not upon a change of administration. When the day comes for his promotion, Brockville will be sorry indeed to lose him. His friends here are reduced to the seeming unfriendliness of wishing that he may never be promoted. Uncle Sam could not find anywhere a representative who would be better liked here than Colonel Demarest is, or who would deserve better the esteem in which he is held.—Brockville (Ont.) Times.

Fears She Has Been Decoyed Away.

Miss Anna Sichelsteil, of Bremen, Germany, arrived on the steamship Salle on Monday. She left Ellis Island the same day, saying that she was going to C. W. Babel's in Rahway. She has failed to put in an appearance at Mr. Babel's, and he fears that she has fallen in with some one who has lured her away for immoral purposes. She had quite a sum of money. The Ellis Island authorities are investigating the case.

—Choice coffees and teas at Neuman Brothers.

—The water in small puddles at Dunellen was frozen over this morning.

—The Board of Education will meet in regular session on Monday evening, October 7th.

—The choir of Holy Cross church are planning for a harvest festival to be given in the near future.

—A flagstone flag walk is being laid in front of Mrs. Hanigon's lot, corner of Grove street and Craig place, to replace the worn out board walk.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. Then Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

IN SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

Public and Private Educational Statistics.

Figures Showing the Number of Institutes of Learning, Pupils and Teachers and the Cost—Value of School Property in the United States—Dr. Harris' Report.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Dr. William T. Harris, United States commissioner of education, has made public his fifth annual report for the school year ended November 30, 1893. It comprises three parts, the first of which is devoted to statistics. These show that in the year 1892-93 the whole number of pupils enrolled in schools and colleges, public and private, in the United States was 15,083,-880 or 22.5 per cent. of the entire population. This was an increase over the preceding year of 370,697, and the total would be increased to 15,400,000 if pupils in attendance upon special educational agencies were included. The enrollment of pupils in the public schools for the year numbered 13,510,719, an increase of 1.92 per cent. over the preceding year, while the average attendence increased 3.45 per cent. The details of attendance show that children in the United States leave school for about two-fifths of the year to engage in labor or from other motives.

Value of School Property.

There were employed in that year 122,-056 male teachers and 260,954 female. There has been a decrease in the number of male teachers since 1880 and the number of female teachers has increased 70 per cent. in that period. The number of school houses in 1893 was 235,426, valued with their contents and appurtenances at $398,435,039. The school revenue for the year was $165,000,000; the total expenditures were $153,000,000. Of this amount $104,000,000 were paid for teachers wages; $31,000,0000 for the construction of school houses and $28,000,000 for fuel, supplies, etc. In the last twenty years the value of school property in the United States and the common school expenditures have more than doubled. The number of public high schools reported to the bureau in 1893 was 2,812, employing 9,489 teachers and having 232,951 pupils enrolled. Reports were received from 1,434 private high schools and academies employing 6,261 teachers and giving instruction to 96,147 pupils. There were 451 universities and colleges for men of both sexes. Of these 310 were co-educational, an increase of three per cent. in two years. The total number of instructors was 10,-247 and of pupils 140,053.

Colleges for Women.

Colleges for women alone numbered 148 with 2,114 teachers and 22,949 students. These institutions had 5,319,602 volumes in their libraries; their equipment was valued at $128,872,801; endowment funds, $98,095,705; income for the year $17,671,550 and the benefactions during the year $6,715,138. State appropriations for agricultural schools which received aid from the United States under the act of 1862 amounted during the year to $1,684,715. As a result of professional education in the year there were graduated 4,911 medical students, 2,652 dental students, 3,394 pharmacists, 6,776 law students and 7,886 theological students. Theoiogical schools are more heavily endowed, compared with their expenses, than any other class of institutions; of theological students one-half get their collegiate training in denominational schools, one-sixth in non-sectarian schools and only 3 per cent. in state universities. The graduates of normal schools numbered 4,491; the number of students 58,465. The amount appropriated by states for support of normal schools that year was $1,452,914. and for buildings $816,826.

NEW YORK PRESBYTERY.

Its Semi-Annual Meeting Held in New York City.

New York, Oct. 1.—The semi-annual meeting of the New York Presbytery was held in the first Presbyterian church, this city, yesterday. Messrs John Campbell Neill, of Princeton theological seminary, and John Fogg Valient of Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., were taken under the care of the Presbytery. Col. Ketcham, the treasurer of the committee on church extension, presented a report which showed the receipts amounted to $10,897.50, and that the balance in hand was $354.23. In the selection of officers, Rev. Thomas Douglass, was elected clerk.

DARED TO ORDER A YACHT.

Attache Paget Criticised for Wanting a Herreshoffer.

London, Oct. 1.—The Evening News expresses itself editorially as being indignant at the fact that Almeric Hugh Paget, an attache of the British legation at Washington, has ordered a 2 1-2 rater twenty-seven feet long, and having a fin of Tobin bronze, from the Herreshoffs. Commenting on the subject, the Westminister Gazette remarks: "The crop of attaches is abundant, and we might find better than this Yankee-smirched one."

Howgate's Bail Application.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The application for the release of Captain Howgate on bail was made to the court of appeals and was argued at some length. The chief justice announced that the matter would be disposed of in the near future. In the meantime Captain Howgate is in the district jail.

Catholic University Faculty.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The official list of the Catholic university has been increased by the addition of registrar. The first incumbent of the position is P. N. Robinson, a son of Prof. Robinson of the faculty of social sciences. Mr. Robinson is a graduate of Yale, in the class of '86, and the Yale law school.

To Increase Its Capital Stock.

Boston, Oct. 1.—It is announced that the Bay State Gas company of Delaware will issue $10,000,000 of new stock, thereby increasing the capital stock of the company to $15,000,000.

Cannot Reach the Mariposa.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 1.—Owing to the severe northeast gale which is raging, it is impossible to dispatch any steamers to the scene of the wreck of the Mariposa.

ATLANTA'S EXPOSITION.

Questions of Sunday Opening Settled by an Overwhelming Vote.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—The question of Sunday opening was settled by an overwhelming vote at the directors meeting on the exposition grounds last evening. There was a very full meeting of the board and Mr. Cabaniss, manager of the Atlanta Journal, moved that the grounds be opened and the midway closed on Sundays. Howard Palmer, ex-director general, moved that the grounds be closed on Sundays and that this action be speedily published. Captoin J. W. English, chairman of the executive committee, moved as a substitute that the whole matter be laid on the table. The motion to lay it on the table was adopted by an overwhelming vote. It is not believed that any further attempt will be made to open the exposition grounds on Sunday.

BIG CARGOES OF LEMONS.

Arrival of Two Fruit Steamers May Break the Present Famine.

New York, Oct. 1.—The lemon famine will probably be removed temporarily at least by the arrival here of two big cargoes of the fruit. Not since 1883, when lemons were quoted at $16 a box, have they been so high as at present. Last week lemons sold at auction by the box at $10.25, and by the case at $12.50, while the buyer for the household had to pay from 40 to 50 cents a dozen to the retailers. The steamer Sylvia arrived here last evening from Messina and Palermo with a cargo of lemons consisting of over 28,000 boxes, and the steamer Victoria from Malaga, Spain, is due in a few days with 22,000 more boxes. The greater portion of these cargoes will be sold at auction.

DRIVEN FROM THEIR HOME.

Fierce Forest Fire Near Cape May Checked After the Wind Died Out.

Cape May, N. J., Oct. 1.—While the wind was blowing a gale from the northwest yesterday a forest fire was started near Goshen station, on the South Jersey railroad. It burned with alarming rapidity over a track a mile wide towards the main seaside road. Station Agent Eldridge and family, at Swains, were driven from their home by the smoke and flames. Section men and residents were out fighting what seemed to be the worst looking forest fire of the September series, when the wind fell and the flames were got under control.

FOR THE TAILENDERS.

A New Opera To Be Produced for the Louisville Nine's Benefit.

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—Early last week while the baseball pennant hung in the balance Digby Bell and Tunis F. Dean of the Harris Academy of Music telegraphed the Louisville baseball club offering a benefit if they would beat Cleveland a game. Last night Manager McCloskey telegraphed: "Having won game from Cleveland, what is date of benefit promised?" Messrs. Dean and Bell agreed to name Saturday, October 12, when the new opera Nancy Lee will be produced at Harris' Academy for the benefit of the Louisville players.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED.

But Greene Says He Is a Victim of Intimidation.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Francis P. Greene, who is wanted in Philadelphia for the alleged embezzlement of $139 from the Prudential Insurance company of that city, and who was arrested in Auburn, Me., last Friday as a fugitive from justice, has been turned over to Detective Bond of Philadelphia, who has left that city with his prisoner. Greene was arrested at the instance of a New York surety company which was on his bond. He declares that he is the victim of intimidation on the part of the insurance company.

SEVERAL ARMENIANS KILLED.

Others Wounded and Many Arrested After a Fight with the Police.

London, Oct. 1.—The Morning Post to-day prints a dispatch from Constantinople saying that a number of Armenians made a hostile demonstration against the authorities there yesterday. The police attacked the mob, killing several persons and wounding others. Many persons were arrested. Order was finanall restored.

Postoffice Fraud Order.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The postoffice department has issued a fraud order against H. C. Knowles & Co., of Calais, Me. This firm was conducted by a man who sold beer in the prohibition state. He would order large quantities of beer upon a thirty day order, sell the beer without paying for it and decamp. He is now in Canada and the authorities cannot reach him.

London Athletes Dined.

New York, Oct. 1.—The London Athletic club's team, which competed in the recent international contest at Manhattan field, were tendered an informal dinner last evening by the New York Athletic club's team in the gymnasium of the latter's club house.

Washington's New Opera House.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The Lafayette Square opera house was opened here last night. The new structure stands upon the site formerly occupied by the Blaine house. It fronts Lafayette square, the executive mansion being just to the left.

Senatorial Deadlock.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The dead lock in the forty-first district republican senatorial convention is still unbroken. Twelve more ballots have been taken making a total of 252.

Dead from Hydrophobia.

Ashland, Pa., Oct. 1.—Mrs. Andrew Kane, who was attacked by a wild cat near her home at Germantown several weeks ago and severely bitten, is dead from hydrophobia.

Gen. Mahone's Condition.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Gen. Mahone's physicians on leaving their patient this morning said that there was no change to report in his condition.

Cincinnati at Cedar Keys.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The cruiser Cincinnati, now cruising off the Florida coast watching filibusters, has reached Cedar Keys.

To Bond Itself for Sewers.

Rome, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Rome yesterday voted in favor of bonding the town for $240,000 for a system of sewers.

FORTY REBELS KILLED

Government Victory Reported at Havana.

Many Insurgents Also Said To Have Been Wounded, Among Them Gen. Sanchez—Loss on Government Side Reported at Eleven, Including One Officer.

Havana, Oct. 1.—Information has been received that Lieutenant Colonel Rubin with a force of infantry and cavalry, has routed and dispersed a force of 1,500 rebels, under General Serafino Sanchez, at Las Varas, in the Sancti Spiritus district of Santa Clara province. In the engagement forty rebels were killed and a large number wounded. Among the wounded are General Sanchez and Ruperto Pina. The government troops took four prisoners. The loss on the government side is eleven wounded, including Lieutenant Colonel Rubin, whose wound is slight.

SYMPATHY FOR CUBANS.

Two Big Meetings in Chicago Last Night.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Surrounded by patriotic mottos, with the American flag in the background, the declaration of independence as a text book and the spirit of liberty as an inspiration, 4,000 persons yelled themselves hoarse last night in the cause of Cuban independence. There could scarcely have been more enthusiasm had the meeting been held in Cuba itself. Central Music hall was not big enough to hold all the sympathizers and there was an overflow meeting in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association building. At both meetings the same resolutions were adopted and speeches were made by men prominent in civic affairs, all of which uncompromisingly favored the freedom of the little island in the thralldom of Spain. The resolutions express sympathy for the revolutionists; call on the United States to recognize them as belligerents and ask other countries to join in making this demand. They begin with the best known paragraph in the Declaration of Independence and end with a determination to continue the work begun at last night's big assemblages.

Messages of Sympathy.

Messages of sympathy were read from Senator Cullom, Governor Altgeldt of Illinois, Russell A. Alger, Mayor Pingree of Detroit, Senator Call of Florida, Mayor Bostwick of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mayor Caldwell of Cincinnati, Mayor Salmonson of Tampa, Fla., and others. Nearly every prominent club and organization in that city was represented on the list of vice-presidents, which included also the best known business and professional men. Among the associations represented were the Loyal Legion G. A. R., Confederate association, Sons of Revolution, State Federation of labor, Irish American, Scandinavian, German and Afro-American societies.

Proceedings at Central Music Hall.

Mayor Swift presided at the meeting at Central Music hall. In opening the proceedings he made no speech, but took occasion to express himself as in full accord with the movement. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. Gunsaulus, Thos. B. Bryan, Judge Hines, Congressman Mason, Rev. Dr. Barrows, Bishop Fallows and others. The proceedings closed with the singing of two verses of America. The meeting at Association hall was no less enthusiastic or crowded. Judge Vincent made a few remarks as presiding officer, saying he was a believer in the independence of Cuba, but did not wish to see a violation of national laws. The audience was deeply interested and any good point made was taken up at once.

WOULD SEND 200,000 MEN.

Spain's Mighty Effort To Crush the Cuban Rebellion.

Havana, Sept. 23, via Key West, Oct. 1.—Cable advices received here state that rumors circulated in Madrid as to the sending of from 150,000 to 200,000 men to Cuba created much surprise, and that the press of the whole peninsula is discussing the matter. Senor Castellanes, minister for the colonies, gave a guarded opinion, saying that the number had been over estimated, but added that if it became a necessity, the reinforcements would be made up to 200,000 men, but in his opinion, 30,000 will be ample. In Madrid it is also reported that Captain General Martinez Compos wrote to Senor Sagasta stating that a combined force of 100,000 men regulars and volunteers would be ample to crush the rebellion, and that in closing his letter he said that all relief expeditions to the rebels must be stopped at all hazzards. The Cuban financial question has had full attention, the Spanish ministry having made ample provisions for all war supplies and expenses.

WAR ON PRIZE FIGHTS.

Kentucky's Governor Issues a Proclamation Against One.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 1.—Gov. Brown has issued a proclamation to the mayor, chief of police and other peace officers of Louisville to prevent the Murphy-Griffin fight taking place in that city Friday.

The French in Madagascar.

Paris, Oct. 1.—Advices have been received from Madagascar that General Cuchesnee crossed the Omkaraka mountains on Sept. 28. The two divisions commanded by General Voyrons and General Metzinger will concentrate for the capture of Antananarivo, the Malagasy capital.

Salmon for Lake Champlain.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Car No. 1 of the United States fish commission arrived here last night carrying 5,000 small landlocked salmon from Green Lake, Me. The fish will be placed in the brooks near the head of lake Champlain.

New York State's Health.

Albany, Oct. 1.—The bulletin of the state board of health for the month of August shows that the average daily mortality during the month has been 357, against 377 in July, there having been 600 fewer deaths.

Is De Witte To Resign?

Berlin, Oct. 1.—The Kleine Journal asserts that the immediate resignation of M. de Witte, Russian minister of finance, is assured.

Typhoid Fever.

 Rapid Convalescence

is experienced in this slow and dangerous disease, when the patient's strength is properly maintained until the crisis is passed. Don't force the stomach and other organs already weakened by sickness to wear themselvess out in a vain attempt to obtain nourishment from improper foods. Feed the sufferer with milk and that great food product. It is absorbed immediately into the system with the least possible effort on the part of the various organs. Besides making new flesh and blood, it strengthens all of the vital centres, enabling them to expel existing poisons. It is a germicide, and antidotes the fever microbes. In addition, its beneficial effect on the ulcerated condition of the bowels, so common in this disorder, is marvellous.

Bovinine

You will ride a Bicycle

Of course you will ride. All the world will—fashion, pleasure, business — men, women, children. It takes a while sometimes for the world to recognize its privileges; but when it does it adapts itself promptly. Therefore, you who are in the world will ride a bicycle—a bicycle if you desire the best the world produces, a Hartford, the next best, if anything short of a Columbia will content you.

COLUMBIA

Columbias, $100; Hartfords, $80 $60; for boys and girls, $50.

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Providence, Buffalo.

A Catalogue—comprehensive, beautiful—4c and agency free, or by mail for two 2-cent stamps. The book tells of all the new Columbias and Hartfords.

The Eldridge Cycle Co.,

Park ave. and 4th st.

Easy payments.
Repairs.
Rentals.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

328 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Nothing Antequated

will be found in our stock of wall paper. We are now showing the very latest fall designs and most of them are gems. The getting up of new, fanciful and pleasing patterns is an art, and we have the advantage of displaying the handiwork of the best artists of the day in that line. It's like going through a picture gallery to walk about in our store, and there is no admission. Paints, oils and varnishes.

E. C. MARSHALL, 167 North Avenue

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.

P. M. DECKER, PROP.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MAC DONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

SPECIAL!

Tomorrow, Saturday, August 24.

White potatoes	50c bushel
Creamery cheese	9c a pound
Creamery butter	18c a pound
Potted ham and tongue	6c can
Whole ox tongue, large size, 42c; regular price	60c

Full line fresh vegetables and fruits at very low prices.

FULPER'S,

207 West Front Street.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office,

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and careful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager.

Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

COAL

Best Lehighs, all domestic sizes, $4.50 per ton delivered. No. 2 coal $3.75 delivered.

FRED W. HAND,

922 South ave. 132 North ave.

TELEPHONE 139.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.50 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

CLIMAX STOPPER CO.,
Machine Works,
Corner Washington and 4th sts., manufacturers of bicycle specialties. Electric and special machinery, experimental work, tools etc. Contractors for electric light wiring, telephones, burglar alarms, etc.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.

Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS. — EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

Do not be deceived by infringements of name, package or cigarette.
THE ONLY GENUINE
Sweet Caporal Cigarettes
Bear the fac simile signature of
Kinney Bros
on the package and on each cigarette.
TAKE NONE WITHOUT.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel, Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now ope for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

THE WORK OF FIENDS

Passenger Train Wrecked at Homer Station, Pa.

Seventeen Persons, Mostly Women and Children, Injured—One Man Will Probably Die—Car Rolled Down the Embankment—The Second Wreck Within a Week.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 1.—Train wreckers threw a passenger car on the Altoona, Clearfield & Northern railroad off the track last evening and all of the seventeen passengers were injured, one of whom, John Sellers of this city, will hardly recover. The fiends threw a car from the track at exactly the same spot last Friday and at the time the coaches rolled over in a ditch, as did the derailed car last evening. As the regular passenger train was crossing a switch at Homer station near here last evening the rear passenger car was upset and dragged some distance.

Nearly All Women and Children.

The passengers, who were nearly all women and children, were dumped out of the car, which was an open one, and all were severely bruised. John Sellers, who is a lumberman, was probably fatally hurt by being caught under the wreck. After the accident it was discovered that the switch had been tampered with, the rods holding it in position having been removed. When the wreck occurred last Friday it was not known that this was the work of rascals, but the disaster last evening shows that both were caused by the same gang.

FOR ILLEGAL SEALING.

An American and a British Schooner Seized by the Rush.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Capt. Hooper of the revenue cutter Rush reports to the treasury department that the British schooner E. S. Marvin was captured on Sept. 2 for violation of the regulations of the Paris tribunal of arbitration governing seal fishing in Behring sea. She was sent in charge of a prize crew to Dutch island harbor, Alaska, and turned over to the British war vessel Pheasant. The American schooner Louis Olsen was captured on Sept. 3, and in charge of Lieut. Dunwoody was sent to Astoria, Ore., with directions that she be placed in charge of the United States marshal there. The British schooner had on board firearms and the American schooner had shotguns and had no license. Both were within the limits of the sixty-mile zone about the Pribyloff islands.

MRS. M'CANN'S SUIT.

A Verdict of $2,400 Against a New Jersey Railway Company.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 1.—The case of Mary McCann against the South Orange Railway company, which has been on the court list for two years, came up for trial yesterday before Judge Depue in the supreme court. Miss McCann on April 13, 1893, boarded a car of the defendant company at Plane street. When near Grove street she fell from the car. She remained unconscious for twenty-seven days. She then sued the company for $10,000 damages, as she claimed she told the conductor to stop as she was sick and wanted to get off. A verdict of $2,400 was rendered.

TO TEST THE LAW.

Boston Hebrews Think They Can Legally Do Business on Sunday.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Two of the leading Jewish houses in Salem street have decided to test the law under which the Hebrews have been ordered to refrain from doing business on Sunday. In both cases summons were issued, and the matter will come up for a hearing tomorrow. Their defence is that they observed the Sabbath from 6 o'clock Friday evening until the same hour Saturday evening, in consequence of which they felt privileged to open on Sunday.

THE SANDY HOOK ACCIDENT.

Lieut.-Col. Parker To Investigate the Cause of the Explosion.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Gen. Flagler, chief of ordnance, has ordered Lieut.-Col. H. H. Parker from Allegheny (Pa.) arsenal, to the Sandy Hook proving ground to investigate the cause of the killing of two privates by the premature explosion of a cartridge which was being placed in the Canet gun for firing. A dispatch received by Gen. Flagler states that the two men injured by the explosion will recover.

Nearly the Whole Crew Disabled.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 1.—The bark Lavinia, Capt. Thoms, from Pernambuco, has arrived. Three members of the crew died of yellow fever shortly after the vessel sailed for Brazil. Nearly all the remainder of the crew were afflicted and were unable to work the ship, and she was buffeted about for two weeks until she reached a colder climate, when the fever gradually disappeared.

Ex-Gov. Russell's Denial.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Regarding the statement printed in a New York morning paper that ex-governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts would formally announce himself a candidate for the presidency to-day that gentleman said: "The statement is all nonsense."

English Cricketers Defeated.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—The third and last game of the cricket matches between the team of the Oxford and Cambridge universities and the Philadelphia cricketers was finished at Haverford yesterday afternoon, the home players winning by an inning and 39 runs.

Senator Quay's 62d Birthday.

Beaver, Pa., Oct. 1.—Senator Quay celebrated his 62d birthday yesterday. It was marked by a pleasant reunion of the members of his family. The only absent member of the family was Lieut. A. G. C. Quay of the U. S. A.

Supt. Aldridge's Condition.

Albany, Oct. 1.—Supt. Aldridge of the department of public works, who is now staying at Dr. Strong's sanitarium in Saratoga, is still very weak, but expects to gain strength rapidly.

Inter-State Fair Opened.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 1.—The inter-state fair opened yesterday with an at[illegible] [illegible]ations.

YALE'S TRACK TEAM.

An Important Change Made in Its Composition.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The management of the Yale track team has decided to make an important change in its composition. George F. Sanford will not be a member. Sanford was officially announced last week as a member of the Yale team by Capt. Sheldon and Capt. Horan said that he would not object to the entry. There was a slight question as to whether Sandford was eligible, owing to a "condition" he had in his studies last spring and the track management determined not to enter a single man upon whom rested the suspicion of a doubt as to eligibility. Who will take Sanford's place is not yet decided. Sanford is much affected by the decision of the management, as he has never been in such fine physical form and was practically sure of one of the events.

18 VESSELS STRANDED.

Great Damage to Shipping Done by a Storm on the Lakes.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—No less than eighteen vessels have been reported stranded at various points on the lakes during the past thirty hours, while reports continue to be received of others flying the signals of distress. At Milwaukee the schooner Condor is long overdue and grave fears are felt for her safety. Thirteen persons narrowly escaped drowning when the steam barge Kershaw went on the reef at Choclay beach, breaking completely in two. Five steamers are grounded near Detroit, and the barge R. J. Henry went to pieces on the rocks near the Saulte Ste. Marie. Several vessels lost deck cargoes and also were stripped of all canvas and steering gear.

EARTHQUAKES IN MEXICO.

Seismic Disturbances Alarm the People—Much Damage Done.

St. Louis, Oct. 1.—A special from Oaxaca, Mexico, says that word comes from Pinotepa that seismic phenomena continue there. At one place the earthquake and the ocean have been so violent as to destroy the beach and the waves have rolled up to the walls of neighboring ranches. Great drouth has accompanied these alarming manifestations and the farmers are nearly ruined. Fishermen dare not go out to sea, as earthquakes have been continuous for many days. They say a volcano is forming under the ocean. Priests have ordered that the church bells be rung and prayers offered imploring divine mercy.

NOT TO BE UTAH'S SENATOR.

J. S. Clarkson Denies a Rumor Containing That Assertion.

New York, Oct. 1.—J. S. Clarkson of Iowa in commenting on the report sent out from Des Moines that Charles M. Shortlidge of San Francisco was in Iowa and reported to be working in the scheme to make Mr. Clarkson United States senator from the new state of Utah said: "The report does Mr. Shortlidge as much injustice as it does me. My residence is in Iowa and always will be, and I could not under the law be elected to an office in Utah, a state in which I am not a resident."

MINERS' DEMANDS GRANTED.

Indiana Coal Operators Expect Trouble in Other States.

Brazil, Ind., Oct. 1.—The block coal operators and miners of this district met here to arrange a new schedule of mining rates. The operators granted the miners' demand of 70 cents per ton, and work in the mines will be resumed at once. A prominent operator said that the advance was granted the miners in face of a rumor that Ohio and Illinois operators would not grant an increase to the miners, and that a strike would be called in those states and probably several others very soon.

MARLBOROUGH IN NEW YORK.

Arrangements for the Vanderbilt Wedding Expected Shortly.

New York, Oct. 1.—The young Duke of Marlborough, who is soon to marry Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, has returned to this city after a trip through the east with Sir Rivers-Wilson of the Canadian Trunk lines. The duke is at the Waldorf, which place he left early in the morning for a stroll through the park. It is said that the details of his marriage to Miss Vanderbilt will be speedily arranged.

Newspaper Transfer.

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Late yesterday afternoon a bill of sale was filed in the Chemung county clerk's office by which James Hill, publisher of the Elmira Budgets and Albany Telegram transfers both newspapers and plaints and equipments to Bulkeley, Dunton & Co. of 35 Duane st., New York, and F. Ottman, also of New York, creditors, who furnished print paper and other supplies to the two papers.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Demand slow and prices on spot unsettled. October, 67 1-8c.; December, 68 1-8c.; May, 72 5-8c.

Corn—Spot easy with fair demand. No. 2 white 37 5-8c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 37 5-8c.; Nov. 37 3-8c; May, 35 1-2c.

Oats—Spot slow and prices doubtful. No. 2 white, 27 1-8c.; No. 3 white, 25c.; No. 2 mixed, 24c.

Pork—Spot steady and prices firm. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $9.75a$10.00.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and steady. October, $6.20.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery remains moderate, but the lower grades are slow and very irregular. Creamery, western extras, 22c.; creamery, western, seconds to firsts, 15a20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 18 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a18c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—The market shows slight improvement. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 7 1-2a8c.; large colored fancy, 8c.; state part skims, choice, 6 1-2c.; fair to prime, 3 1-2a4 1-2c.; common, 2a3c.

Eggs—Increased receipts withe prices firm at 23c. The great bulk of western receipts are offered freely at 16 1-2c. All grades below fancy are pressed for sale at easier figures.

Potatoes—Trading slow; continued liberal receipts, prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.00a$1.12; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.10a$1.05; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

CHINA BACKS DOWN

Yields in Full to the British Ultimatum.

The Viceroy of Sze-Chuen Stripped of His Rank—Will Never Again Be Allowed to Hold Office—His Punishment to Serve as a Warning to Other Officers.

London, Oct. 1.—Now that China has yielded in full to the ultimatum of Great Britain, it is more than probable that no naval demonstration will be made by Admiral Buller, commanding the British squadron in Chinese waters. A dispatch from Pekin received at the foreign office confirms the statement that China has acted favorably on the demands of the Marquis of Salisbury for the punishment of the viceroy of Sze-Chuen. The dispatch says that the Chinese official Gazette has published an imperial edict announcing that the viceroy of Sze-Chuen has been stripped of his rank for failing to protect the missionaries, and will never again be allowed to hold office so that his case will serve as a warning for all future time to officers who may be disposed to do wrong. The decree also dismisses the subordinate officers of the province who failed to take proper action for the protection of the missionaries.

Satisfied with the Terms.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that the tsung-li-yamen (the board controlling Chinese foreign affairs) formally communicated its decision to the British minister, who expressed himself as satisfied with the terms of the edict. "It is now probable," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "that the British war vessels which have entered the Yang-tse-Kiang river for the purpose of enforcing the demands of Great Britain will forthwith descend the river and resume their former stations."

Confirmed at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The report from London that China has yielded to the pressure of the British ultimatum by degrading the viceroy of Sze-Chuen and according in full all other demands of England was confirmed at the Chinese legation in this city last evening. It was not stated definitely that such was the case, nor was it asserted that any news at all in regard to the matter had been received, but it was said with much positiveness that Great Britain would not make a naval demonstration as the morning papers said was her intention.

FIGHT AT CORPUS CHRISTI.

An Extravagant Reception Accorded the Pugilist.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Oct. 1.—Fully one thousand people assembled at the Aransas pass depot last night, all eager to get a glimpse of the pugilist Fitzsimmons. He was met at the train by a committee of representative men and escorted to the Constantine hotel, where his wife and Mrs. Julian were quartered and where the most extravagant preparations had been made for his reception. Fitzsimmons, who is in splendid condition, had but little to say in reference to the fight. Martin Julian, Ernst Roberts, Dallas Ross, Charles White, Joe Rancher and the lion constitute the personnel of the party. Fitz will move into his quarters to-day.

May Fight in Mexico.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 1.—It is rumored in sporting circles here this morning that plans are under way to pull off the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight in Mexico, just across the border, and that assurances of protection have already been accorded by Mexican officials.

REFUSED THE REQUEST.

Campos Declines To Release Cuban Patriot Prisoners.

Madrid, Oct. 1.—A dispatch from Havana to the Imparcial says that a committee of the autonomist party visited Captain-General Martinez Campos and presented a petition for the release of a number of prisoners who were recently brought to Santiago. The captain-general refused to release the prisoners, who will start for Europe to-day.

For Bondholders' Benefit.

Portland, Me., Oct. 1.—Judge Putham in the United States circuit court has ordered the foreclosure of a mortgage to the American Loan & Trust company of Massachusetts on the property of the Portsmouth company. He directs that the entire property of the Portsmouth company be sold and the proceeds divided among the bondholders pro rata.

Crowds Hear the Blind Chaplain.

London, Oct. 1.—The Westminster Gazette publishes a column interview with the Rev. William H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the United States senate, who, according to the paper mentioned, is drawing large crowds to the various chapels in London, where he has been requested to preach.

Schooner Josie F. Floated.

New London, Conn., Oct. 1.—British schooner Josie F., which went on Napatree Point Sunday morning, was hauled off yesterday by Wrecker Scott and towed into Stonington pretty badly used up. It was not expected she could be saved. Most of her cargo of lumber was also saved.

Treasury Statement's New Features.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The treasury's daily statement beginning to-day will have added to it details giving the redemption of United States notes and treasury notes by the day, month and fiscal year to date.

Refused To Indict Carpenter.

Belvidere, N. J., Oct. 1.—The Warren county grand jury after a lengthy investigation refused to indict Samuel Carpenter, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Rue Blackwell at Phillipsburg in April last.

To Admit Women Delegates.

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 1.—The Rock River Methodist conference by a vote of 142 to 27 has decided in favor of the admission of women as delegates to the general conference.

Pugilistic Encounter Postponed.

Boston, Oct. 1.—The contest between Leslie Peck of Philadelphia and Martin Snee of Haverhill at Lowell has been postponed until to-morrow.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

106 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 1, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Fair, with Westerly Winds.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 61 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 1—Gymnasium classes in Y. M. C. A open.
October 1—Lecture on "The Influence of Food on Health," by Mrs. Etta Morse Hudders, at Y. M. C. A. Hall, at 4 p. m. Miss Rue, of the Delsarte Company, New York, will exhibit bicycle and golf costumes before and after lecture.
October 1—Union County Circuit Court opens at Elizabeth.
October 1—Annual meeting of the Park Club.
October 2—Meeting of the Crescent Wheelmen
October 2—Special meeting of Hillside Tennis Club.
October 3—Opening reception of the Plainfield Art School at 212 West Front street.
October 3—Meeting of Victor Wheelmen.
October 3—Reception of the Cypress Fife and Drum Corps at T. A. B. Hall.
October 4—Borough Democratic primary to elect delegates for the county convention.
October 4—Annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church.
October 6—Rally services in the First M. E. church.
October 6—Meeting of the new Catholic Club.
October 7—Entertainment and dance at Saengerbund Hall.

A half-mile of highway built by the Massachusetts Good Roads Commission in the town of Russell cost $10,000. Another stretch of a mile and a half in Fairfield cost $16,000.

The grand jury of the District of Columbia completed its labors by recommending that the whipping post be established in the district for the punishment of wife-beaters and petty thieves.

The Duke of Marlborough thinks that this is a big country. A most natural conclusion when he comes to win an heiress whose future wealth has been made by the bigness of the country and its people.

The delays which are constantly being made by the Plainfield Street Railway Company with reference to complying to the conditions necessary for the granting of a franchise for extending their lines, are very aggravating to those who want to see the extensions made. Last night the common council was obliged to postpone action on the ordinance because of the neglect of the railway company to get their maps ready. The railway people ought to get a move on themselves. Plainfielders are getting tired of their dilly dallying methods of doing business.

Street Roller Being Tested.

The new steam street roller is being tested this afternoon on East Fifth street, between Park avenue and Sycamore street, by an engineer from the works where the machine was built. A committee of gentlemen from Lebanon, Pa., are present witnessing its operation with a view of purchasing a similer machine for their town. They seem to be well satisfied with its workings.

Two Dozen Bow Wows

During the month of August and September, Dog Catcher Frisbie captured twenty-four canines in the borough, twenty of whom were killed. Yesterday was the last day in which dogs were compelled to be muzzled, and he caught four of them on a final roundup.

Worthy of Inspection.

As long as there are peaches on the market Neuman Bros. will have the best that there is. It is the same with apples. Examine his stock of choice cooking and eating apples; they are worthy of inspection.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

Councilman Frost Proposes a Series of Popular Winter Events.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The large attendance on the recent open-air band concerts demonstrate that such concerts are popular and will be even more so as the band improves by increase of practice and public encouragement. When it is considered that each member of the Plainfield band is a working man, busy during the day bread-winning for himself and those dependent upon him; that he has had to make a considerable investment out of his earnings to pay for his instrument, and that up to now there has been practically no encouragement by the people of Plainfield for him to devote much time to music except for personal gratification, it is a matter for congratulation that our Plainfield band has been able to acquit itself so well when suddenly called upon for the September concerts. Including the leader, Mr. Guttman, there are eighteen members of the band and the charge for each concert given was only $25, a very reasonable price indeed; The Plainfield Gas & Electric Light Company generously donated the cost of extra lighting; the city will probably donate the small charge for police attendance, and the daily papers were most generous in their free notices of the concerts.

This makes the total cash cost of five concerts $125. Messrs. Fisk and Ackerman paid $25 for the concert in the Third ward; voluntary and quite unsolicited contributions amounting to $30 have been kindly handed me on account of the other concerts, and the opportunity is now offered for further voluntary contributions from residents of the Second ward who wish to encourage this effort towards the formation of an excellent home band and a continuation of open air concerts throughout next season's summer months. It is a principle in human that to whomsoever we have once spoken a kind word or rendered a good service, we cherish a kindly feeling thereafter; on this principle an active, wide awake interest in popular music by a home band is earnestly solicited, and the smallest sums will be acceptable as expressing an interest in the direction indicated. There need be no fears but that a deficit will remain for me to take care of.

Efforts are being made to give several "promenade concerts" at an admission fee of 25 cents during the winter months to aid in providing funds for a series of thirteen open air concerts to be given during the summer months of 1896 and in the several wards of the city; if the winter concerts are not given the others will be, and there is every reason to believe that similar concerts will thereafter become a pleasant and assured feature of Plainfield summer evening life. Geo. H. Frost.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

LIBRARY ACQUISITIONS.

Bulletin of Books Added to the Free Public Library During September.

American Economic Association. Publications 1894, v. 9.
Atlanta Monthly, 2 v.
Bevan, W. L., Sir William Petty.
Blackwood's Magazine, 2 v.
Brooks, J. G., Papal encyclical on the labor question.
Burckhardt, J., Civilization of the renaissance in Italy.
Century Magazine, 2 v.
Charities Review.
Clark, J. B., Modern appeal to legal forces in economic life.
Contemporary Review, 2 v.
Dewey, D. R., Irregularity of employment.
Doyle, A. C., Study in Scarlet.
Fortnightly Review, 2 v.
Forum.
Hadley, A. J., Population and capital.
Hardy, A. S., Passe Rose.
Harper's Magazine, 2 v.
Library Journal, 2 v.
Littell's Living Age, 4 v.
New Jersey Court of Chancery—Reports, 2 v.
New Jersey Law Journal, v. 17.
Nineteenth Century, 2 v.
North American Review, 2 v.
New York Herald, 3 v.
New York Tribune, 3 v.
Oliphant, Mrs., Makers of Florence.
Popular Science Monthly, 1894.
Review of Reviews, 2 v.
St. Nicholas, 2 v.
Scientific American, 1894.
Scientific American supplement, 1894.
Scribner's Magazine, 2 v.
Saint Amand, I. de., Revolution of 1848.
Seligman, E. R. A., Progressive taxation.
Tiemann, W. F., 159th Infantry N. Y. State Volunteers.
U. S. Congress, Wholesale prices, wages, etc., 4 v.
U. S. Department of Agriculture, year book, 1894.
U. S. Division of Entomology, Insect life, v. 6.
U. S. War Department, Rebellion records, v. 46, pt. 2.
Westminster Review, 1894.
Wright, C. D., Chicago Strike.

Vegetarians say

we should eat no meat. Dr. J. A. Deane says we should eat of all kinds of nourishing food, and if the stomach and bowels are lazy and rebel we should make them digest it. Dr. Deane is the greatest authority on diseases of the digestive organs.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills aid digestion and assimilation of food, and cure all forms of Dyspepsia. White wrapper if constipated, yellow if bowels are loose.
DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, N. Y.

Additional Loca News on Page 8

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. H. N. Spencer, of Somerset street, is ill.

James Field, of Somerville, was in town today on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac R. Giles, of East Sixth street, spent Sunday at Stelton.

H. J. Martin, of Fairview avenue, was in Somerville yesterday on business.

Henry L. Bogert, of East Ninth street, will spend the winter in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnstone, of East Fifth street, went to Philadelphia today.

Mrs. Edward Cooley, of Watchung avenue, is entertaining a young lady cousin.

Mrs. James Way, of Duer street, has returned after a two weeks visit at Millington.

William Case, of East Second street, returns to the Columbia School of Arts on Monday.

Bert Reed, of Reed & Coddington's law office, has returned from a trip to Washington.

Frank J. Blatz and William Kitchen, both of Somerset street, spent Sunday in Brooklyn.

J. N. Edmondson, of Central avenue, went to Washington this morning on business.

Wm. Lane, of Brooklyn, is visiting at the home of his uncle, J.P. Homan, of West Fifth street.

E. M. Laing, the Park avenue hatter, has returned after a pleasant sojourn at Millstone.

A. B. Clemens, Assistant State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was in town last night visiting friends.

Miss May Haberle, of Orange, is visiting her cousin, Miss Lillian Haberle, on Harmony street.

Edward H. Ladd and family, of Franklin place, returned yesterday from their summer vacation.

William M. McCutchen, of Rockview Terrace, returned last evening after a summer's outing at Belmar.

Miss Fanny Spencer, daughter of H. N. Spencer, of Somerset street, spent Sunday with Rahway relatives.

J. W. Sandford and family have returned to their home on West Seventh street after enjoying a summer outing.

Henry Rogers, of Washingtonville, returned last night from Sea Cliff, L.I., where he spent a week most enjoyably.

H. L. Bogert and family, of East Ninth street, returned to New York today, where they will spend the winter.

H. O. Hance and wife, of Grandview avenue, have returned home after spending the summer at Far Hill, N. J.

Alven Beveridge, who has been residing on Plainfield avenue, has moved to 114 West Seventh street, New York.

George Rockafellow, Jr., has secured a position with B. F. Crane, the butcher, corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Robert Tingley, of Orchard place, who has been night operator at the Telephone Exchange for some time, has resigned his position.

Dr. S. F. Anderson, of Brooklyn, returned yesterday after spending several days at the home of John V. Beekman, of West Eighth street.

S. Clinton Crane, of East Second street, returned to New York yesterday and will begin his studies on Monday at the Columbia Law School.

Mrs. J. W. Pangborn and her daughters, Miss J. Louise Pangborn and Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, are home again, at 31 Rockview avenue, from Ocean Grove.

Norman Probasco, of East Front street, left today for New York to settle down at his boarding house before returning to his duties in the Columbia School of Medicine on Monday.

Frank J. Blatz, of Somerset street, who has been studying law for some time with John H. VanWinkle, began his studies today in the New York University Law School. He will attend the afternoon session.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street, Councilman and Mrs. V. L. Frazee, of West Front street, Peter V. Weaver, of West Front street, and John Bolsterli, of Chatham street, drove over to Morristown Sunday and spent the day there.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy, or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

SAVE YOUR CHILD.

St. Vitus' Dance Getting Fearfully Prevalent.

Comes From Weak Nerves and Attacks Nervous Children.

Do Not Neglect Your Children's Weak and Irritated Nerves.

There appears to be almost an epidemic of St. Vitus' dance among children. The disease comes directly from weak nerves and an irritated condition of the nerve centres.

Its approach is shown by the nerves becoming weak, the child is pale, nervous, restless, irritable, does not sleep well at night, but tosses restlessly, talks in sleep, grits its teeth and has irregular appetite. There will be a twitching of the eyelids, the hand, the arm, the leg, or portion of the body, which spasmodic movements will gradually increase until the child is more or less helpless.

It is a very serious disease and should never be allowed to run, as the most serious consequences ensue in the utter wreck of the nervous system. It must be cured at once.

The cure of little Luke, son of L. C. Reed, of Hegewisch, Ill., is wonderful and should be known to the parents of every nervous child or sufferer from St. Vitus' dance.

"It affords me great pleasure," says Mr. Reed, "to state that my son has been cured of St. Vitus's dance by the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the best medicine in the world. My little son had scarlet fever and was sick about two years after he got over the fever.

LITTLE LUKE D. REED.

"He was very nervous, and got so bad that he could not hold his right arm and leg still. I employed a physician but he got worse all the time.

"A friend advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I got one bottle of Nervura and before he had taken half of it he began to improve, and when he had one bottle taken, the St. Vitus dance was gone. It is wonderful the way this medicine worked.

Watch your children, and if you detect any of the above symptoms, any weakness of the nerves, pale and sallow condition of the skin, loss of appetite, and observe the child growing thin, sharp featured and puny, give it immediately the only sure cure for this distressing nervous disease, recognized by physicians, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will cure the St. Vitus' dance, give the child strong nerves, good digestion, pure blood and make it grow sturdy and strong.

It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

A Great Day Tomorrow AT PECK'S.

4 Pair Ladies' Fine Black Hose $1.

WILL YOU COME?

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

CONTINUATION OF

EDSALL'S

GREAT FALL

Millinery Opening

We Will Continue our Opening Until

TUESDAY, OCT. 1.

We have excelled all former openings. Beautiful visions of Royal bonnets and all of fashion's latest conceptions in Parisian Novelties will be displayed in our parlors during our opening. We are prepared to give extra satisfaction in styles, workmanship and prices.

TRIMMED HATS A SPECIALTY,

Will Exhibit and Place on Sale Wednesday,

Sept. 25, in our Dress Goods and Silk Department, rich silk creations in beautiful and artistic colorings and designs, fashionable fabrics in black and colored dress goods, comprising the newest plain and fancy weaves, made in the most modern designs, for early fall and winter wear.

Silk Department.

79 Cents All silk colored fancy Taffetas, comprising the newest chameleon effects, handsome designs, 20 inches wide, especially adapted for waists; worth 93c yard.

83 Cents 24-inch all-silk black broaded Taffetas, heavy quality, exquisite designs, high lustre, undoubtedly worth $1 a yard.

98 Cents Black satin with colored figures, excellent combinations, latest Parisian colorings; worth $1.25 per yard.

Dress Goods Department.

29 Cents All-wool Tweed suitings, 39 inches wide, in two-toned colorings, newest designs, very handsome value at 45c yard.

50 Cents All-wool Sangalin Tweeds in two color blendings of blue and green, blue and brown, brown and tan; novelty designs; a high grade fabric; worth 69c.

75 Cents Congo Bouclé, 45 inches wide, in rich colorings and designs of the newest rough weaves; actually worth $1 a yard.

79 Cents Drap dor Serpentine, a handsome silk and wool mixed novelty, very superior finish in two color blending in green, garnet, brown effects; worth $1.

50 Cents A beautiful line of all-wool Scotch plaids in a large variety of colors; worth 65c.

Black Dress Goods.

55 Cents All-wool 50-inch black wide wale diagonal serges, worth 75c a yard.

Visit our Housefurnishing Department and see

WITCH KLOTH.

It is bewitched. It works wonders. It does not scratch.

CLEANS

Gold, brass, nickle, copper plated ware, bicycles, etc., bright, clean and free from corrosion, tarnish, stains or dirt. We will show you how to use it this week. Bring in your silverware and have it cleaned

FREE

All the World Knows that the school boy or girl needs good solid shoes.

Our Efforts

in building our school shoes have been directed toward providing an article that, while shapely and dressy in appearance, will, at the same time and above all withstand the rough and tumble knocking about of the play ground.

Bring your boy and girl to us and have them properly fitted.

DOANE & EDSALL.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Gazelle Engine Company, No. 1, will hold a meeting tomorrow evening.

—An interesting meeting of the Reform Club will be held Thursday evening.

—The Norwood Athletic Association will hold its regular business meeting on Thursday evening.

—Mr. Work, of Carleton avenue, has just purchased a handsome grey horse from Frank Hedden.

—The Norwood Athletic Association are making preparations to light their clubhouse with electricity.

—The case of French vs. Hoffman, on contract, was adjourned for two weeks in Justice Nash's court.

—The work of macadamizing Harrison street in the borough is about completed and is a big improvement.

—The damage caused by the recent fire at the residence of Isaac R. Giles, of East Sixth street, is now estimated at $400.

—Chief VanHorn, of the borough, lost a very valuable bunch of keys last night, and has not been able to find them yet.

—The stench arising from the Elizabeth River, which is used as a sewer for Elizabeth, is arousing great public indignation.

—You must begin to think of fall, and be prepared for changes of temperature. Peck has a full stock of the goods you need.

—Honan & Sons, the sewer contractors, expect to finish their work in Plainfield in about three weeks, weather permitting.

—The regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Public Library on Wednesday morning, Oct. 2d, at eleven o'clock.

—Yesterday was a busy day with Borough Tax Collector H. N. Spencer, making out the tax bills to be delivered before election.

—Dog Catcher Frisbie, of the borough, captured George Summer's dog yesterday, and he is now doing penance in the dog pound.

—Mrs. Peter Brun says that the statement of her husband that she called him hard names or treats her children cruelly is entirely false.

—At the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, you can obtain a latest style derby hat in black or brown for $1.25, worth $2.50. 6

—Ex-Chief Marshal Wm. Pangborn has been appointed a member of the board of registry and election in the first district of the borough.

—The old front of the First National Bank building has now been entirely removed, and the work of putting up the new one will commence at once.

—If Contractor John Marsden completes his portion of the sewer work by November 1st he will have to lay 100 feet of pipe every day until that time.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will hold a meeting tonight. The by-laws which were read at the last meeting will come up for adoption tonight.

—The Union County Court will convene in Elizabeth today, and the grand jury will be drawn by Sheriff Kyte. The civil and criminal calendars promise to be long.

—The Elizabeth City Council will meet tonight, when it is expected that they will break the deadlock that has existed for the last two months, and pay the police and other city claims.

—Meeting of the Christian Alliance this evening at 7:30 at 317 East Front street. Mrs. James Cruikshank, a returned missionary from Jerusalem, will be present and address the meeting.

—Mrs. L. Adams takes pleasure in announcing that her fall and winter opening of millinery goods will take place on Wednesday, October 2d, at 114 East Front street, opposite First National Bank.

—At the Primary Teachers' Union meeting held yesterday afternoon there were eighteen members present. Mrs. Powlison conducted the meeting. Next Monday afternoon Mrs. Haff, of Clinton avenue, will have charge.

—Mrs. Barry, of Passaic, a sister of Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, of West Third street, died at her residence in that city on Sunday morning. Her funeral occurred today. High mass was held over her remains. Mrs. Sullivan and her sons were present at the funeral.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

☞Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Dunellen.

The brickyard has stopped making brick, but will continue the carting of wood.

Albert Carman, who has been taking care of the Rider place, has moved to Evona.

Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of this place, has been elected treasurer of the local W. C. T. U.

The Misses Staats, of North avenue, entertained the Misses Uhdal, of Netherwood.

The case of Wm. H. Cole against C. W. Johnson will come off on Oct. 3d at New Brunswick.

Mrs. A. Vail, of Greenbrook, is entertaining Mrs. Shotwell, of New York for a few days.

Mrs. Al. Randolph, of Washington avenue, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Sprowl, of Jersey City.

The Misses Bently, who have been visiting Miss L. Titsworth, of New Market, have returned home.

J. F. Snell, of Somerville, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. VanMiddlesworth, of Front street.

Mrs. John Wehrley, of Somerville, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Swackhamer, of Church street.

The engagement of Miss Maggie Voorhees, of Greenbrook, to Harry Penrose, of Newark, is announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, of Elizabeth, were the guests on Sunday of his sister, Mrs. T. J. Jones, of Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Giddis, of Springdale, were the guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Giddis, of North avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smalley, of Plainfield, were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Smalley, of North avenue.

At the birthday party which was held in the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening of last week, $91.04 was made, which will go toward the repairing of the church spire.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swackhamer returned home Saturday morning from their wedding trip of two weeks to Joliet. They will go to housekeeping in the house with Mr. Blaine.

The autumnal services in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was largely attended. No services were held in the Methodist church, the congregation uniting with the Presbyterians. The platform was filled with products from farm, garden and field. The organ was trimmed with corn, and also the doors. The pastor selected songs and gave a history about each writer. The Rev. Mr. Custard, of the Methodist church, made an address and invited the congregation to be with them at their autumnal exercises.

Scotch Plains.

Miss Eva Baker resumed her duties as assistant postmaster today.

Mrs. Edward Pitcher, of Brooklyn, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Paff, Jr.

Miss Lulu Robison spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robison.

J. E. Flannery, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston.

Miss Lizzie Archibold, of Westfield, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Archibold.

The well on Front street which has been such a solace to the thirsty wheelmen and others is about dry.

Mrs. J. S. Braker led a very interesting young people's meeting in the Baptist church last evening.

Several of the ball players of the Harlem Y. M. C. A. team were the guests of E. L. Hand over Sunday.

Mrs. John R. Haskard starts for Boston today for a month's visit with her sons, who are engaged in business there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Paff, Sr.

Mrs. Thomas Gere, of Brooklyn, has returned to her home after a few days visit with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Paff, Jr.

Rev. J. S. Braker is home from his summer vacation and will occupy his pulpit next Sunday when the evening services will be resumed.

The crushed stone lately put on Front street by the township should have a top dressing of fine stone or gravel and then rolled as it is a nuisance to wheelmen. Even people in vehicles will not drive over it.

John Cook met with what came came near being a serious accident several days ago while prying stone in a excavation in the side of the mountain back of his crusher. A large bowlder dropped from overhead striking him on the shoulder, knocking him down and brusing him quite severely. Had the bowlder struck Mr. Cook on the head it would no doubt have killed him.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will meet tomorrow evening.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Frank Demarest, George Rockfellow and Clifford Miller, rode to Stelton on their wheels Saturday and spent the day there.

A cyclist from Elizabeth while riding on the Crescent Oval Sunday afternoon was badly smashed up by an accident to his safety. The front wheel dished as the rider rounded the curve and he was thrown and badly cut and bruised by the fall. His clothes were also left in a very dilapidated condition.

Walking is very good sometimes and Garret Powers, of South avenue, is aware of the fact. Last Sunday afternoon he rode to New Brunswick on his wheel. Shortly after he left Metuchen, on his way home, his rear tire laid down and refused to hold air. He tried blowing it up and riding hard until it flattened down again as it did in several minutes. This grew too monotonous so he decided that walking was the best and footed it home.

BEAUTY.

How to Increase in Weight and Otherwise Improve One's Personal Appearance.

Every normally constituted man and woman wants to look well. This is natural and right. We have little sympathy for those people who through indolence and gluttony have permitted themselves to take on too much flesh. They know by living abstemiously and taking plenty of exercise they can get back to their normal weight.

We do have a great deal of sympathy for those poor, pale, thin sufferers who either have no appetite or else whose food distresses them to such a degree that they are forced to live on a most frugal diet.

Their trouble arises from the fact that that they are unable to digest sufficient food and when the stomach is out of order and fails to do its proper work, foods are worse than useless. They simply ferment in the stomach and fill the system with poisonous principles.

What these people need is something that will digest their food after it has been eaten, and it is in just such cases that the Digestive Cordial as made by the Mount Lebanon Shakers is proving remarkably successful.

It is so prompt in its action that a sense of relief almost immediately follows the first dose, and a rapid increase in weight is soon noted.

The Shakers have issued an interesting pamphlet which may be obtained upon inquiry at any drug store.

Try a twenty-five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you.

Mr. Leal's School.

Young men and boys over sixteen years of age, who cannot attend school during the entire session, and who wish to take such studies as will speedily prepare them for business, are informed that they may enter classes already formed in book-keeping, penmanship, English, rhetoric composition and commercial arithmetic. Should there be a sufficient number of applicants for instruction in shorthand, an expert stenographer will direct the class. Instruction in all these branches is given by teachers whose ability is unquestioned. This work will occupy about two and a half hours per day, and the rates of tuition will be made known on application.

Mrs. Julius Williams, of Elmwood place, is expected home this week after an enjoyable vacation spent in the country.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

See Our Name,

Take Our Number,

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will surely do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenue. (Established 1868.)

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Notice is hereby given that whereas, my wife, Delia R. Voehl, has left my bed and board, I will not pay or be responsible for any debts which she may contract.

Dated Sept. 28, 1895.

GEORGE VOEHL,
129 West Front st., Plainfield, N. J.

9 28 12

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

TO LET—Suite of rooms on first floor, furnished or unfurnished; also single rooms; central location; prices reasonable. Home, care Press. 9 30 2

LOST—Small open-face silver watch with initials E. B. W. on back. Finder kindly return to B., care Press. 10 1 3

GIRL 14 wants situation at housework in small family, with good reference. Call at 206 Manson place.

TIN and sheetiron shop to let; all machinery. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 2

YOUNG girl one year in this country wants work. 320 Manson place.

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

GOOD dressmaker wants more fall engagements by the day. A., care Press. 10 1 2

FOR SALE—Piano at great sacrifice. $75; excellent tone and condition; owner leaving town. 24 Sandford avenue. 10 1 tf

WANTED—3 or 4 good boys to deliver circulars at stores and residences. Address by letter only, giving name, age and residence, E. C. Howard, 237 East 9th st. 10 1 3

WANTED—Competent girl to cook, wash and iron in a private family, where second girl is kept; references required. Apply 11 Rockview Terrace.

BOARD wanted in Plainfield or vicinity, by gentleman, wife and two children, aged five and three; good table a requisite; and three rooms preferred. Address Board, care Press.

WANTED. — Gardener, married; woman to cook, wash and iron; man to grow vegetables under glass; must come well recommended and understand his business. Address S. C., care Press.

WANTED—Girl for general housework. 65 Grandview ave.

FOR SALE—Milk route; first-class trade. Milk, care Press. 10 1 2

WANTED—Phaeton in A 1 order; state price and condition for cash. Address Phaeton, care Press. 10 1 2

FOR SALE—Cheap, or will exchange for heavier horse, a well-bred mare, fine saddler for lady or gentleman to ride or drive. Call 214 Richmond st. 9 30 tf

FORSALE—Bargain, 26 school desks with combination seats of the best make. Call in the morning at 1045 Arlington ave. 9 30 6

LOST—Hunting case gold watch; Waltham works; lost between Scotch Plains and Neuman Brother's store; probably lost on 5th st., near Richmond. Liberal reward at Neuman Bro's store. 9 28 4

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

DESIRABLE rooms to let with board. No. 5 LaGrande ave. 9 28 3

FENCE wanted; 300 to 400 feet if very cheap; state price expected. Bargain, care Press. 9 28 3-eod

TWO connecting rooms with board. Also table board. 231 East 6th st. 9 26 6

ROOM to let, with or without board to a lady. Address 322 East 5th street. 9 26 tf

THREE pleasant rooms to let. 404 West 3d st., corner Central ave. 9 24 6

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 9 20 tf

FIRST flat, 165 North ave; 6 rooms, all improvements; no better in the city; $20. Mulford, broker. 9 23 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

FOR SALE—Bargain, fine parlor stove, nearly new. F. M. Masker, 197 North ave 9 14 tf-eod

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

STORAGE, separate rooms, to let in Stillman block. 9 19 tf

FLATS and offices to let in Babcock block; steam heat; elevator service, etc. Wm. M. Stillman. 9 19 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 9 7 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 8 20 tf

THE STORE SHOWS

Hardly a counter or shelf in the store but what is filled with new, pretty fall and winter fabrics, richly trimmed hats, handsome dress goods, both black and colors, new gloves and hosiery. All well worth your while to come and see.

There is Money to Be Saved.

KID GLOVES. Have the gloves you have been wearing given satisfactory wear? If not, why not try ours? We import them direct from the manufacturer and know they will be satisfactory.

HANDKERCHIEFS. We put on sale today 50 dozen of men's silk initial handkerchiefs, reg. 50c value; price 25c.

39c for ladies' night robes, well made and nicely trimmed.
18c for 36-inch dress goods; all the new fall colorings.
25c for all-wool eider down flannel; all shades.
$2.75 for a 10x4 fine wool blanket.
5c each, large cotton towels, size 18x36.
10c, all-linen huck towels, size 20x40.
45c, 70-inch cream damask table linen; the 60c kind.
12c, ladies' fast black seamless hose.
10c, children's fast black seamless ribbed hose.
55c, 10x4 cotton blankets, white, tan and grey.
30c, men's medium weight shirts and drawers; the 50c kind.
27c for ladies fine ribbed vests; same as you usually pay 50c for.
20c for two-quart granite stew kettles.
13c for fine china cups and saucers; pink decorations.
27c for four-quart granite stew kettles.
55c for No. 7 granite tea kettles.
5c each for Mason's quart jars.
13c each for china tea pot stands.
10c for fine china cream pitchers.
10c for Japanese tea pots.
$6.98 for a 100 piece English porcelain decorated dinner set.
$1.89 for a fine decorated ten piece toilet set; worth $2.50.
75c. See those new chamois gloves in cream, tan and black. The best gloves made for wear.
12c per yard for 50 different styles of fine oriental laces.
12c each for gingham aprons. All well made.
12c each for silk Windsor ties.
13c for men's fast black half hose; same as you usually pay 25c for.
15c for the new satin crepons; beautiful effects.
49c for 54-ich Gilbert suitings; the best cloth in the market for wear.
45c for a 54-inch all-wool imperial serge; all shades. The best value we have ever offered.

You take no chances on anything you buy, as we are always willing to refund money on any article you buy that is not satisfactory.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Ladies fast black hose, seamless and narrow ankle.....10c
Ladies fast tan hose, drop stitch.....25c
Childreds fast black hose, double knee, seamless.....18c
Gents fast tan half hose, seamless, spliced heels and toes.....15c
Gents seamless half hose, extra 10c.....pair for 25c
Gents colored border handkerchiefs.....5c
Gents colored border hemstitched handkerchiefs.....3 for 25c
17x34 huck towels.....only 12c
22x44 huck towels.....only 18c
The above goods are of extra value for the prices.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices

U. B. CRANE Hatter and Furnisher
120 West Front Street.

Van Emburgh's & Son's.

Hustling all the while, always busy as bees.

The Newest Fall Goods

displayed only in Plainfield's Brightest Dry Goods Store. Plenty of day light. No danger of being deceived.

Ladies Lace Edge Handkerchiefs,.....5c. each
Gingham Aprons, Fancy Borders,.....12c. each
Ladies Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs,.....10c. each
Ladies Cashmere Gloves, Extra Fine,.....25c. pair
Fine Quality, Wide Oriental Lace,.....8c. yard
New Fall Outing Flannel,.....6c. yard
Red Damask Table Linen, Full Width,.....20c. yard
Ladies Muslin Night Dresses,.....49c. each
Half Bleached Table Linen, Extra Wide,.....25c. yard
Fine Quality Writing Paper,.....10c. box
Ladies White Skirts, Lace Trimmed,.....49c. each
Shelf Oil-Cloth, all new colors,.....5c. yard
All Linen Russia Crash,.....12c. yard
Ammonia,.....5c. Bottle
Tooth Picks,.....3c. Box
Lamp Chimneys,.....5c. each
Chopping Bowls,.....10c. each
Floor Brooms,.....10c. each
Sink Brushes,.....3c. each
Dish Mops,.....3c. each
Egg Whips,.....3c. each
Nutmeg Graters,.....1c. each
Fancy Suspadores,.....10c. each

VanEmburgh & Son.

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 23, 1895.

Britten Floyd	Kendall Miss F
Bateman H E	Kenna Lawrence
Bailey Jacob	McGrath Chas
Bridge Madeleine	Nikander Tina
Benson Rufus M	Noles Squire
Brown Lizzie	Pinney Mrs F H.
Cumming M E	Preston Henry A
Cave Mrs E H	Parker Nellie
Clarkson J	Potter Thomas
Catling Robt	Post W B
Dilts Geo M	Richards Mrs Hulda
Fletcher Lizzie	Rutter C M
Foley Julia	Rittles Mrs
Falls Mrs Hattie	Stiner Jno E
Gray W H H	Shaw Prof
Henihan Mary	Smith C A
Higgins Richard	Sherwood Florence
Higgins Miss	Sutton Chas G
Hemminway & Sons M	Talmadge Mrs F N
Hamill Miss Francis	Thorne Harry
Hankersen A	VanAnken Mrs F K
Johnson Mrs Rena	White Carrie
Jennings Mrs Littie	Williams W S
Johnson Lee	Wright M B
Julice	Willard D E
Krissig F	Young Elijah

Educational.

PLAINFIELD
BUSINESS COLLEGE

Babcock Building. Largest room; elevator. A great need to be supplied. Four regular courses—Commercial, Shorthand, Penmanship, English Branches. Everything first-class; 5 days and 4 nights a week. Public opening evening of Sept. 30; school begins Oct. 1. Address Rev. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N.J. 9 11 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY
will re-open
SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.
(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.
D. W. HYDE,
TEACHER OF
PIANO AND HARMONY,
will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson
will re-open classes in
Physical Culture & Rendering
OCTOBER 1. 1895.
Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

MISS ALICE O. SMITH,
Teacher of piano, organ and harmony, will resume study Saturday, Sept. 14th, in W.C.T.U. Rooms, cor. Watchung ave. and 4th st. Particular attention given to formations of the hand. Pupils taken from rudimentary to the highest grades. For further particulars, terms, etc., call or address (Saturdays) at W. C. T. U. Room. 9 4 m

Miss Fawcett's School
And Kindergarten,
25 WASHINGTON AVENUE,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

MISS ROCAP
will re-open
Her School for Boys,
Thursday, Sept. 19, 615 Central Av.
Special teacher for German, French and Drawing. Miss Ida Rocap will re-open her class for girls on the same date.

Kindergarten Only.
FROBEL SYSTEM,
525 Madison Avenue.
Will Open September 25.
Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address
MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.
9 4 tf

Rockview Home and Day School
REOPENS SEPT. 18.
Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,
PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,
Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.
will resume her private lessons and classes in French German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.
SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.
Address 426 East 2d st. eod

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's
School for Girls
Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.
Plainfield French Kindergarten
Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, Principals
303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.
Will Reopen Sept. 18.
MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

The Dancing Class
AT THE SEMINARY
will re-open on
Wednesday, October 16,
under the management of
ROBERT RUTLEDGE.
master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

AUSTRALIAN SLANG.

HOW A LANGUAGE MAY BE ENRICHED BY CIRCUMSTANCE.

Words Adapted From Foreign Languages or Coined Outright—Eventually a New Dictionary May Be Necessary For the Convenience of Newcomers.

Every year and every month more and more Englishmen go out to Australia to try to take advantage of the flowing tide of fortune, while of those who stay at home an ever increasing number interest themselves pecuniarily in Australian ventures and become insensibly acquainted in consequence with an entirely novel group of ideas and modes of expression. At first these new words and phrases are very confusing to the English mind. Many of them indeed are literally taken from foreign languages—namely, those of the various Australian aboriginal tribes or "back fellows," as they are called. Others are old English slang, forgotten now in this country, and others new English slang imported direct from America. There is some excuse, therefore, for the temporary confusion of the newly arrived stranger, or "new chum," when he first hears this odd jargon mingled with the queen's English.

There are certain words which even Englishmen generally understand, words which constantly recur, but which, as it is unsafe to take anything for granted, shall be explained and defined at the outset. Such a word is "bush." This means uncleared ground, and especially the enormous areas covered with open forests of eucalyptus, or "gum," as it is locally termed. A "bushman" is not a black fellow in the sense in which the Dutch used the word at the Cape, but means a man accustomed to traverse the bush and able to look after himself therein. To be "bushed" is to be lost in the bush, a fate usually reserved for those who are not bushmen and very commonly ending in death. It may be said that bush is a general word, including what the government statistician of New South Wales terms "open, brush and scrub forests." The "brush" forests are found chiefly along the coasts and consist largely of fern trees, palms, cabbage trees, Moreton Bay figs, etc. The "scrub" forests are mostly stunted pines, acacia and gum. Having disposed of these three important words, we may pass on to say that a "squatter" is a large landowner, and his holding is called a "station."

The "squatocracy" corresponds to our squirearchy. A station far removed from centers of civilization is called a "black block;" a small farmer is a "cockatoo" or a "stringy barger;" a young man working on a station for the sake of learning how to farm is called a "jackeroo;" a "selector" is a man who, under certain conditions, is allowed to occupy a small portion of the squatter's holding and farm it until he is bought out by the squatter. Such selectors used formerly to be able to fix on the most valuable parts of the holding. They were then said to have "picked the eyes out of it," and hence, from a connection of this idea with a peacock's tail, to have "peacocked" it. This is still done in some parts of Australia. Naturally holders of stations often have their cattle stolen, especially by these selectors.

Stealing stock from a station is called "duffing." To prevent this it is customary to brand stock. At certain times, however, there are likely to be great numbers of unbranded young stock running wild. These are called "clearskins," and, more rarely, "cleanskins." A "crawler" is a sheep left behind on the road. To "bail" cattle, as is well known, is to secure them by means of a bail; hence to "bail up" is to drive into a corner, and, more generally, to render helpless. The cry of "bail up" signifies "hold your arms above your head and keep them there till further orders or I'll shoot you." The idea of the position is that the person bailed up shall be rendered helpless and not be able to reach his revolver.

So much then for stations and stock. We may now pass on to the station hands. Not many, as a rule, are permanently engaged on one place. A man of all work, especially at shearing time, is called a "rouse about." The ordinary Australian laborer who travels from station to station, carrying his kit or "swag" on his back, is called a "swagman," or "swagger." While on the tramp through the bush with this object in view, he is said to be "on the wallaby" (wallaby being a small form of kangaroo common in the bush), or to be "carrying bluey," and, general speaking, to "hump one's swag" is to make a start, to set out, or continue on a tramp or journey, etc. The man who appears at stations at sunset, ostensibly in search of work, but really desirous only of a night's lodging and some provisions, goes by the name of a "sundowner." Such a man, like all those who are not fit to be accommodated in the squatter's house as guests, is sent to sleep in an outhouse built for the purpose and commonly called the "barracks." Hence a "barracks" has come to mean a rough, or a rowdy of any sort. This word is more common in New Zealand than in Australia, though the slang of both countries is practically the same.

The swagman and the sundowner invariably carry a "pannikin" and a "billy." The former is an open pot, and the latter is usually a tin pot with a lid holding a quart. Perhaps it would be more correct to say that it is usually without a lid, for the lid is soon lost. In this the swagman makes his everlasting drink—tea. Beer and spirits are not very easy to be got in many parts of the bush. But tea can be easily carried, and every one drinks it in Australia to excess. Billy tea is rather good. You boil water in the billy over your little fire in the bush, then throw in a handful of tea and about half a handful of sugar, leave to boil for a few seconds, take it off and drink as soon as it is cool enough. Needless to say, there is no milk in it. The swagman's chief food is "damper"—that is, bread made by himself without yeast and baked on a hot stone in the bush. To make damper well is a high art, and there is not space here to explain how to do it. When there is not time to make damper he makes "beggars on the coals" or something which he calls by a name very similar. "Johnnycake" is thin damper fried in a pan.—London Standard.

Looking Her Best.

The inborn and ineradicable instinct of woman is to look her best under any and all circumstances. Only the most powerful causes can affect or alter this. "When a woman stops crimping her hair, you may know that something serious is the matter," some one has remarked. Compare a woman's instinct in this respect with that of a man. Men and women of the same age, the same influences and possessing the same tastes and ideas will be totally different in this one regard. It is the carelessly dressed woman who is the exception. It is the carelessly dressed man who is the rule.

EPIGRAMMATIC AND POETIC.

Story About Augustus Thomas That Shows Authors Are Not a Jealous Lot.

A very pretty story is told of Augustus Thomas and a fellow playwright. "Let me read you a scene from my new piece," said the friend.

"Very well," was the reply, and the author stretched himself on a lounge and prepared to listen.

The scene was from a war drama—the parting of a soldier from the girl he loved, but to whom he had not yet proposed marriage. He was on the eve of an engagement and resolved to take this opportunity of asking her to become his wife. Opening his manuscript to this place, the author read:

"'I have something in my heart to tell you. You know the family whose name I bear'"—

"Hold on!" exclaimed Thomas. "What's that fellow doing?"

"He's proposing to the girl."

"On the eve of a great battle?"

"Yes."

"And talking like that? Telling the girl all about his family? Offering her a lot of chestnuts from his genealogical tree at a time like that? Nonsense!"

"Well, what would you say?"

"I'd say this."

His friend wrote as he dictated.

"'Miss ——, I love you.'"

"Is that all of his speech?"

"Yes."

"What does she say?"

"'But on the eve of conflict? Surely today is not the time to talk of love.'"

"That's good. And what does he say to that?"

"He says, 'Today is the only day in a soldier's life.'"

"'Today is the'—I say, that is simply great! It's epigrammatic and poetic and true, you know."

And to show you that there is not the jealousy among authors that is supposed to exist it is worth noting that the author of the play considered that scene one of the best in it.—New York Herald.

A WELSH FESTIVAL.

The Spring Hiring Day and the Manner In Which It Is Observed.

I had the luck to be in Aberdaron during the spring hiring day. This great domestic festival—or otherwise—took place at Sarn, a market village six miles away. It upset the economy of a multitude of homes far and wide. From an early hour the lanes were thick with flighty young women who had given their mistresses notice and meant to lease themselves out for the coming six months at largely enhanced wages; with carts containing farmers and their wives in quest of servants and farm-hands, and with loose limbed men in black, carrying boxes under their arms, which held all their worldly kit and which, with themselves, they were anxious to transfer to a new regime. The fair sex, without one exception, were imposingly attired. I cannot say that they were dressed up to date. They told me in Aberdaron at the millinery shop that the servant girls of the district do not care for a fashion until it is two or three years old, somewhat crusted, in fact. But there was no doubting their taste in bonnets. They wore them as large nearly as the narrowness of the district lanes would permit. Seen in the Sarn market place, the damsels were suggestive of nothing so much as a grove of palm trees with rather short trunks.

The evening of this important day was devoted to revelry of a kind scandalous to the stricter Welsh people. There was a slip of a circus in the village, and some gingerbread stalls. These, with beer, made up a gala occasion of a very emphatic kind. The carts reeled home through the night. Their noise and that of their occupants awoke me several times during the dark hours. And the next day those of the servant girls who had got their wages in advance (a £5 note or so for the half year) trooped into the village and indulged themselves en masse with new gowns and bonnets.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Cheerful View.

The following story is told of a correspondent who has recently returned from a trip to the far west of the United States.

Two men who had been sitting together in the seat near the door of a railway car became engaged in an animated controversy, and their loud voices attracted the attention of all the other passengers.

Suddenly one of them rose and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I appeal to you to decide a disputed point. My friend insists that not more than three persons out of five believe they have souls. I take a more cheerful view of humanity than that. Will all of you who believe you have souls raise your right hands?"

Every hand in the car went up.

"Thank you," he said, with a smile. "Keep them up just a moment. Now, will all of you who believe in a hereafter please raise your left hand also?"

Every hand in the car went up.

"Thank you again," he said. "Now, while all of you have your hands raised," he continued, drawing a pair of revolvers and leveling them, "my friend here will go down the aisle and relieve you of whatever valuables you may happen to have. Lively now, Jim."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Fulminate of Mercury.

A peculiarity of fulminate of mercury is that it produces a shock to which all other substances are sensitive, and its supreme value as an explosive rests in this fact and in the known liability of all explosives to be detonated by more or less distant explosions. There is a current of sympathetic influence in these terrible chemical compositions that is as strange as it is dangerous.

What is required to produce explosion is the rapid generation of great heat along with large quantities of oxygen. In gunpowder, for instance, the nitrate of potash—saltpeter—which is the chief ingredient, is practically imprisoned oxygen, and when it is decomposed along with charcoal an immense heat is developed, which causes the gases to expand suddenly; hence explosion.—All the Year Round.

Indian Ocean Serpents.

Among the most venomous serpents in the world are the marine snakes of the Indian ocean. They are the dread of fishermen and it sometimes happens that vessels are obliged to thread their cables through barrels to prevent the reptiles from swarming on board. Great numbers of them may often be seen floating on the surface of the water as if asleep. They are exceedingly fierce and will commonly attack human beings without provocation.—New York World.

Their Favorite Topic.

Mistress (to her domestic)—I suppose you girls talk about each other just the same as we ladies do about each person in our set?

Domestic—No, mum; we mostly talks about the mistresses.—Boston Transcript.

New! New!
YES
But Stop, Consider
what a combination of valuable medicines,
Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,
BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.
Try a bottle and be convinced.
50C.
Leggett's Pharmacy.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.
(Estate D. I. Smalley.)
94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.
We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

SPECIAL SALE
OF
FINE STATIONERY
AND
School Supplies.
A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.
HARPER'S
411 Park Avenue.

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents
Showers included, at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

A. Lusardi,
120 North Ave.,
will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Brandy store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.
(Established half a century.)
contractors to the United States Government.
Marvin Patent Safes
(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to
S. W CLARK,
General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.
Marsh, Ayers & Co.

WHY SUFFER FROM LACK OF LIGHT,
Get Vexed Every Day with Poor Lamps?
BUY "THE MILLER" LAMPS,
which give plenty of light (made in four sizes,) are as easy to light as gas, easy to wick, wick does not have to be "trimmed," chimneys are not "smoked" or broken by the flame, perfectly simple and safe. The NEW IDEAS (our patents) used exclusively in "The Miller" make it the best and so the cheapest lamp made. If by accident any part is broken it can be replaced, so there is practically no wear out to a "Miller" Lamp.
We make more than a thousand variation—all styles, BEAUTIFUL and staple designs suited to light Homes, Club, Store, Factory, Church, &c., &c. If your dealer will not supply genuine "Miller" Lamps come to our store.
FOR GIFTS nothing more beautiful or useful than a "Miller" Lamp, or an elegant Onyx and Brass Table.
Established as MANUFACTURERS in 1844.
EDWARD MILLER & CO., 28 & 30 WEST BROADWAY, (or Park Pl.) bet. Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.
Convenient to all "down-town" Ferries, and Elevated Stations at Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.
For Cool Weather buy a "MILLER" OIL HEATER.
Save This Card, It Is Valuable.
FOR SALE BY W. L. GAVETT & CO

Waverley Fair.
As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to
Amos H. VanHorn
LIMITED.
73 Market st., Near Plane Street,
For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry,
Curly birch chamber suit.
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit,
Antique oak hat rack.
All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 65c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.
Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best building, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.
AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,
73 MARKET STREET,
Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters
will be found at
Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.
All sizes in Packing Trunks.
E. M. Laing,
105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield at 6 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 14, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 59 a m; 12 01, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 00, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 45, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 45, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 2 35, 2 39, (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 05, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 25, 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 3 32, 3 45, 4 [illegible], 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 28, 11 23, p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 58, a m; 2 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 20 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 4 59, 6 35, 8 [illegible], 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 8 45, 8 16, 9 54 a. m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 28 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 49, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 7 [illegible] 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 5 14

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS

5 45 a. m. For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coaches to Williamsport.

12 46 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p. m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 14 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m., 12 18, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a, m, 12 18 3 51 5 24 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27 a. m., 12 18, 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44, 9 56, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37, 10 53 p. m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 42, 2 17, 4 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, 5 14*, 6 35*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m. 5 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 5 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

For Sale or to Let
The frame dwelling and barn 1040 Arlington avenue, below Arlington place; lot 60x132, running through and fronting on Rose st; house has all modern conveniences and in good order; barn is in good condition; will be sold or rented low and on easy terms. Particulars by P. J. and W. H. Ryan, Elizabeth, N. J.
9 2 2w

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.

S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y. 917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

GEO J. TOBIN,

187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,

Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.

Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.

Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale

AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,

High-Class

PORTRAITS

In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.

483 Lexington ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,

COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Supreme Court Commissioner.

First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's

LAW OFFICES,

Corner Park ave and 2d st.

Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Even though you have

A Comfortable Bed,

You should

Lay in Your Coal

for the Winter.

George O. Stevens

747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager. 104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,

Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.

128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day. 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in COAL AND WOOD.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.

MRS. L. ADAMS,

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

Opp. First National Bank. Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,

Fresh, and from

Pure Materials.

TIER'S,

116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address

MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

Scott's Emulsion

will cure a stubborn cough when all the ordinary cough remedies have failed. Try it for yourself. We are putting up a fifty-cent size chiefly for that purpose. A cough is usually the telltale of a weakened physical condition. Correct that condition by the use of a proper remedy and the cough will soon disappear.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites acts in two ways. It nourishes, strengthens and builds up the system, at the same time allays the irritation and heals the inflammation. It gives immediate relief at night from the choking sensation so often accompanying a cold.

Don't be persuaded to take a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c. and $1.

LOOK IN THE CLOSET

SEE if you can't find some old clothes that you have put aside because of the worn-out look they have, or some clothes that are badly spotted.

We want you to bring any old clothes of that sort to us—or better yet—we'll send for them.

We propose to clean those clothes—or to dye them for you—either way to make them wearable. This is an economical suggestion.

We take out grease spots so they stay out, or we dye clothes with a color that wears. We charge as little as possible for the work.

Just a dollar or two—and you'll have a lot of new clothes.

HILLIER & CO., 179 North Ave.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.

—BRANCH—

OLYMPIA HALL,

416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. E. LeRoy Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., No. 8 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J. beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes every Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 10 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms—For term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons mornings, any hour, by appointment. 9 5 m

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W. RANDOLPH'S,

Prescription Druggist,

143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895, by Irving Bacheller.)

I.

More than one attempt has already been made to explain an incident which, at the time it took place, threw the whole diplomacy of Europe into a state of not unnatural consternation. The one prominent fact was as simple as it was astounding. Whilst a congress was sitting to settle the terms of a treaty between two belligerent powers, and the success of the assembled diplomatists was known to depend largely on their keeping their proceedings absolutely secret until they should have arrived at a definite result, a draft-copy of the treaty suddenly appeared in the columns of a well-known London newspaper. A thunderbolt falling in their midst could not have startled the plenipotentiaries more. In fact, for the moment this premature revelation threatened to put an end to the congress altogether, as it seemed to point inevitably to a breach of faith on the part of one of the members. Of course, an attempt was made to disavow the draft-treaty, and, as a matter of fact, this premature publication rendered it absolutely necessary to modify some of its provisions, more especially those of the famous thirteenth clause. But none the less, the draft-treaty as orignally published was known to be correct in all its main details, and the question arose how it had been possible for any newspaper to obtain a knowledge of these details whilst the congress was still sitting, and all its deliberations were veiled in the profoundest secrecy.

As I have already said, various attempts—more or less ingenious—have been made to solve the mystery, but these attempts have all stopped short of the actual solution. Many interesting details have been given which were false, and some less interesting which were true, but how that raptor quotidianus—the daily press—came to be able to carry off in its beak this most secret of secrets has remained a puzzle to everybody (except myself and two other men) up to the present day.

It seems to me, that the time has at length come when the long desired revelation may be made without indiscretion. Originally there were four persons more or less concerned in the mystery, though only three of them, if so many, were in full possession of the secret. Of these four, two are dead; another has entirely disappeared; and I, the fourth actor in the drama, have made up my mind to relate the circumstances of this extraordinary affair. However, even now I propose to proceed cautiously, and not to define too clearly either the individuals concerned, or the countries represented.

I should mention at the outset—for it is to this circumstance that I owe my connection with the mystery—that I was at one time myself in the diplomacy, as an unpaid attache. Whilst acting in this capacity, at a foreign court, I had the good fortune to be able to render a great service to one of the ministers of state—a man of European reputation. He was more grateful than diplomatists are generally supposed to be, and honored me ever afterwards with his affectionate regard. As I write I have on my finger a magnificent emerald he left to me when he died. It was owing to my intimacy with him, that I came to be mixed up with the affair of the treaty. I will call him Prince Schatzenberg.

At the time the congress assembled, I chanced to be staying at the capital, where they were to hold their sittings. I was not alone; an English friend named Gresham was with me. He was one of those Englishmen who wander about without any very definite aim in life, but with plenty of money in the pocket, and who, suffering at times a little from the ennui of idleness, are generally ready to take up with any new fad to diversify the routine of their existence. In my friend's case, the latest of these fads was Graphology, which he professed to have brought to a great pitch of perfection. This was a science in which at that time I hardly believed at all, but circumstances afterwards led me to think that in the hand of an acute and original observer it might be turned to good account.

The day before the congress was to commence its sittings the diplomatists gathered together from every part of Europe. In all, seven powers were represented. Amongst the plenipotentiaries was Prince Schatzenberg, on whom I made a point of calling without delay.

The prince was staying at the Schweizerhof, and directly I sent up my card I was admitted to his presence. I found him lying on a couch, and looking older and frailer than when I had seen him last. But his manner was as charming as ever, and I could entertain no doubt that he was really glad to see me. He excused himself from getting up, but put out his delicate hand and grasped mine with a gentle, but affectionate pressure. I noticed it was the left hand that he gave me.

"So glad to see you again, mon cher," he said. "Excuse my left hand; the right is crippled with the gout. I gave orders that no one was to be admitted, but of course that was not meant to apply to you. You are always welcome."

"I have been longing to see you, prince," I answered. "It is some time now since we met. But I am afraid you are not quite so well as I should like to see you."

"Well, no, I am not so young as I was, and the long journey has knocked me out. Besides, I am tormented with my old enemy, neuralgia in the face. There, take that fauteuil. You won't mind my finishing a letter I know, and then I can release my amanuensis."

I had noticed the amanuensis as I entered the room, and it had puzzled me to define his exact position socially. He was a young man—about thirty, as I judged—neatly and quietly dressed, but he did not seem to be quite what we in England call a gentleman. This surprised me, as the prince's secretaries were generally men of aristocratic birth. I noticed also, that when the prince resumed the dictation which my entrance had interrupted, the amanuensis bent his head very close to the paper as if he were short-sighted.

It did not take long to finish the letter. When it was done the prince said:

"Thank you, Maubeuge; I need not keep you any longer; I shall not want you again before ten."

The young man got up, bowed to the prince and to me, and left the room with a noiseless step.

"My new factotum," said the prince, when the door had closed behind him, "and a perfect treasure."

"I thought I did not remember him," I said.

"No; I had Francois when you were with me last, but Francois was a Gaul of the Gauls. He was always sighing for his beloved France, and finding every other country triste in comparison. So at last I had to let him return home. When he went I thought I would get a valet who could do a little writing for me sometimes. Francois was no good at that. Assis sous and six sous were the same to him as far as spelling went. Of course, one has one's secretaries, but only at stated hours. Besides, there are letters it is not necessary that secretaries should see. And I am now quite unable to write a line myself, owing to this gout in my hand. So I find Maubeuge very useful. Not so good a valet as Francois, but far superior in other ways. And with no home-sickness. He is a Belgian, not a Frenchman. And he is really well educated, so that, altogether, he suits me admirably.—But what am I thinking of, to chatter in this way, instead of asking you about yourself? No need to inquire after your health—your looks are sufficient. But how have you been getting on? Tell me all about yourself."

CHLOROFORM.

There was not much to tell. The prince knew already that my father was dead, and that I had succeeded to the family estates. Nor did I wish to prolong the conversation, for I could see that the prince needed rest. So after a few minutes I rose to go.

"Well," he said, "I will not try to detain you now, for we shall have, I hope, many opportunities of meeting. You must come and see me whenever you can. Au plaisir. And now for a nap."

As he spoke, he took up a white silk handkerchief that lay beside him on the couch, shook it out, and poured over it some liquid from a bottle on the table. As he did so the smell of chloroform diffused itself through the room.

"I can get no sleep without it," said the prince, catching my look. "Don't be alarmed. It is not a habit; it is only a temporary resource whilst the neuralgia troubles me."

II.

Where the carcass is, there will the vultures be gathered together; and wherever diplomatists assemble for a special purpose, there you will assuredly find a crowd of special correspondents also. This was conspicuously the case on the occasion of which I am writing. Every great newspaper in Europe had sent a representative to watch the proceedings of the congress. Of course the watching had to be done from the outside, and very tedious and disappointing work it was. The plenipotentiaries were even more cautious and reticent than usual; they dropped none of those little crumbs of information on unimportant topics which keep the special correspondent from absolute starvation. They were watched as they went in to the sittings, and watched as they came out; but the keenest scrutiny was unavailing; an elusive smile baffled all observers.

Prominent among these special correspondents was a man of European reputation. He represented a famous English journal, but whether he himself was an Englishman no one knew. He was pleased to call himself Le Grand, but it does not follow that this was his real name; he may have adopted it for the sake of the idea that it embodied. It was said that he was a native of the Channel Islands; his French was, however, the purest Parisian. But, then, he spoke with equal purity English, German, and I daresay various other languages in which I was less able to judge of his proficiency. Never was there a man more thoroughly cosmopolitan, and never was there a correspondent who exhibited greater enterprise and audacity in securing tid-bits of early information for the paper he represented. He was personally acquainted with every prominent statesman in Europe, and had been admitted to confidential interviews with many monarchs. On one occasion he had travelled tete-a-tete with a king across France, and, on another, he had forced his advice upon the most masterful of continental statesmen. When he chose, he could decorate his breast with an array of orders sufficiently numerous and distinguished to excite the envy of many a diplomatist.

Physically he was an immense man, but his appearance was not distinguished. His broad, fat face was clean-shaven, perhaps to favor the idea that he was an Englishman. The features, taken as a whole, were commonplace; the eyes small and cunning; the mouth wide; the upper lip stiff and strenuous; the chin determined; the nose long and flexible, as became such a seeker after news. The head was massive, and suggested great intellectual capacity. His manners were charming, when he chose, but it belonged to the cosmopolitanism of his nature that they should be capable of great variation. He could at times be positively haughty. As a consequence of his great stature, he had acquired the habit of looking down upon those with whom he conversed, and this physical necessity seemed to have engendered a corresponding moral attitude, for he affected to despise everybody, even crowned heads. His vanity was indeed egregious, and this failing went far sometimes towards neutralizing the effects of his extraordinary sagacity and enterprise, for, when he had achieved some great success, it was difficult for him to refrain from boasting of it prematurely.

On the present occasion he appeared on the scene in his usual consequential way. He was about saying the only point of real importance to be dealt with by the congress was how the various claims for compensation and indemnification were to be settled, and he boldly announced his intention of publish these provisions of the treaty as soon as the details should be settled. Of course this was mere brag; but if there was a man in Europe who could translate an idle boast into an actual performance, Le Grand was the man.

For seven days the congress continued its sittings whilst the world outside waited in vain for any indication of the course which its proceedings were taking. On the evening of the eighth day I received a note from Prince Schatzenberg asking me to go to him as soon as I possibly could.

I went at once, and found him, as I had found him on every previous occasion, reclining on a couch, and looking as if he were in great anxiety.

"I am afraid you are not so well, prince," I said.

"The neuralgia still troubles me, but it is not that. I have been greatly worried. This business of the treaty has harassed me beyond measure. It has been on my mind night and day, and would have kept me awake without the neuralgia. But yesterday I really thought that we had at last got into smooth water. All was settled to my satisfaction. And now—would you believe it?—I greatly fear that all our labor has been in vain."

"In vain!" I exclaimed, "how can that be?"

"You may well ask. I cannot imagine how it has happened, but it is a most serious business, especially for me. You know Le Grand. Well, he has just been here. I did not like to refuse to see him. One must keep on good terms with men like that. He came to ask me if he could be of any use to me, and reminded me how I had once availed myself of his services. Of course, no one knows better than you, mon cher, the value of a ballon-d'essai. It is sometimes very desirable to ascertain the drift of public opinion before one commits oneself to a definite course. But this is not the case now. Absolute secrecy is our only chance of accomplishing our aim. There are certain provisions which, if they are divulged prematurely, would no doubt stir up an amount of opposition which would render it impossible to persist in them. But if they are not made known until the treaty is actually signed and sealed, though, no doubt, there will be some grumbling, yet they will be allowed to stand.

"Well, now, Le Grand, who is always a dangerous man, has managed to excite the most uncomfortable suspicions in my mind. When he rose to take leave of me he said:

"'I must thank you, prince, for your courtesy in receiving me, and am only sorry that you do not need my services—not even with respect to the provisions of the thirteenth clause.'

"I pretended not to have heard the last words and kept my countenance until he had left the room. But in reality I was astounded and annoyed beyond measure."

"I think I can guess why," I said.

"Of course you see at once what it means. It is a fact that the clause which treats of the indemnifications, and which has given us almost all our trouble, is the thirteenth clause. Now, how could Le Grand possibly have discovered this fact?"

CORRESPONDENTS.

"You are indeed serious," I said, "for it could not have been a mere guess."

"Oh, no; that is impossible. And his air of triumph, and the significant emphasis which he laid upon the words were quite enough to convince me that he had some definite information. But if he knows this, he probably knows a good deal more. And should he publish his information, as of course he will, all our efforts will have been in vain. It is really a fatal business. That man must be the devil."

(To be continued.)

CATARRH

ELY'S Cream Balm

Is quickly absorbed, cleanses the nasal passages allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York.

YOU DO NOT KNOW WHICH IS THE BEST PIANO

Unless you have tried the

Mason & Hamlin

With their patent SCREW STRINGER which has proved such a success that it is pronounced "THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT IN PIANOS IN HALF A CENTURY."

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE BY MAIL FREE.

Terms of payment to suit reasonable requirements.

136 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in Doan's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

A FILTER INSIDE YOU.

How Your Blood is Kept Pure.

Health Comes From Pure Blood, Pure Blood Depends on Your Filter Inside of You.

Your Kidneys Keep Your Blood Pure if They Are Well—A Few Facts About Them, and How to Make Them Well When They Are Sick.

Your blood is what nourishes your body.

New blood is made every minute. It goes to the lungs, gets fresh air, and then passes through the body. In passing, it deposits new flesh, fat, bones, etc., and takes up worn out matter.

This worn out matter goes to the kidneys. The kidneys filter it out of the blood and throw it out of the body

That is, when they are well, they do.

When your kidneys are well, they act as perfect filters, to keep your blood pure. When they are sick they act imperfectly. They leave the bad matter in. Sometimes they take out the good.

There is nothing more poisonous than bad blood.

A proof of this is rheumatism. It is simply a blood poisoning, caused by the bad matter left in the blood by sick kidneys.

Bright's disease is the kidneys working the other way—taking the good food out of the blood.

Both kinds of kidney sickness are dangerous.

Both can be cured by Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

One of the most wonderful facts of our body is the natural filter inside us. Our kidneys are very important organs. We don't take enough care of them. We are sick oftener than there is any need for. It is simply because we take no heed of our kidneys.

Sick kidneys show their effects in many different diseases.

Rheumatism and Bright's disease are very common. Anæmia, neuralgia, pain in the back, dizziness, bladder troubles, gravel, diabetes, sleeplessness, nervousness.

These are only a few symptoms, or so-called "diseases." Back of them all are the sick kidneys.

Once the filters can be made to work all these symptoms will disappear.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are made principally from the roots of the asparagus plant, which has a special curative action on the kidneys. It gives them new life and strength. It helps them to do their work as it ought to be done. It cures their sickness. It cleans and renews the filter.

When the kidneys are well you will feel a great difference at once. Your complexion will clear, and your whole body will get renewed life and freshness.

This is the effect of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills on the sick kidneys, of the re-vitalized kidneys on the impure blood.

With a course of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills you will get new life. They will cure you when other medicines, which do not reach the real seat of disease, cannot help you.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are for sale by all druggists, price 50c. per box, or will be sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price.

An interesting booklet, explaining about the kidneys and their power for good and evil, sent free on request. Address Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

THEATRICAL.

Fredericke Warde will be seen at Music Hall Saturday evening in "The Mountebank," a romatic drama full of powerful scenes, and combining in its construction comedy, tragedy and pathos. In the character of "Belphegor," the Mountebank, Mr. Warde has found a role most eminently fitted to his versatile abilities, and his powerful rendition of it, he has added largely to his reputation as an arttst. As with all the plays in his repertory, Mr. Warde provides for "The Mountebank" special stage settings and mountings which are in complete keeping with the period and places where the action is presumed to have occured. The costuming is rich and handsome and every detail has received the same careful attention that has caused Frederick Warde to become noted as a liberal producer of plays as well as an eminent actor.

The skeptics may cry about the degeneration of the stage and rail about the truth of the fact that farce comedy, musical comedy, and comedy satire have succeeded in superseding the good old days of stock companies, but as a matter of fact the nearer you can give the American public a performance which is continuous, quick, bright, witty, full of songs, dances and specialties, just that much more certain can the managers of that sort of an entertainment can be assured that their venture will be crowned with success. In the production of "A Happy Little Home," which George W. Monrne is going to present here, that favorite comedian has succeeded in injecting any quantity of side-splitting situations, convulsing dialogue and catchy music which will be sung by, and fetching costumes which will be worn by a bevy of as pretty girls as one would care to see. Mr. Monroe can, therefore, count on a reasonable amount of s[illegible] company certainly has all the elements of one. At Music Hall, Thursday evening.

Proctor's Theatre, Twenty-third st., in New York, does not suffer from competition with its rival uptown, and its interests are attentively watched by Mr. Proctor. Among the new features are Richard Golden, who has torn a leaf out of his "Old Jed Prouty" and made it a vaudeville specialty. He makes up as the old Maine innkeeper, tells funny stories and sings Yankee songs. Unthan, "the armless wonder," will show what a trifling thing it is to be born without hands. W. T. Carleton, the baritone, and the Brothers Donaldson and Ardel have become favorites. There are many new entertainers in the bill, including the Judges, acrobatic trio, Barney Fagan, dancer, with his picturesque Knights Templar march, performed by sixteen girls; Mabel Hudson, Al Reeves, banjoist; C. W. Williams, ventriloquist; the Hiatts, Wills and Barren, Rowland and Keene and the two Franks, acrobats.

A Useful Cigar.

A good story is told of a sea captain, who died not long ago, and who was formerly in command of a ship in which passengers were carried from Loadon to Lisbon. On one occasion the ship caught fire and the passengers and crew were compelled to hurriedly take to the boats. The captain remained perfectly cool throughout all the confusion and fright of the debarkation, and, at last, everyone except himself war got safely into the boats.

By the time he was ready to follow, the passengers were almost wild with fear and excitement. Instead of hurrying down the ladder, the Captain called out to the sailors to hold on a minute, and, taking a cigar from his pocket coolly lighted it with a bit of burning rope which had fallen from the rigging at his feet. Then he descended with deliberation, and gave the order to push off.

"How could you stop to light a cigar at such a moment?" he was asked afterward, when some of the passengers were talking over their escape.

"Because," he answered, "I saw that if I did not do something to divert the minds of those in the boat, there was likely to be a panic, and, overcrowded as it was, there was danger of the boat being upset. The act took but a moment but it attracted the attention of everybody.

"I was not nearly so unconcerned as I seemed to be, but was in reality in a fever of excitement. My little plan succeeded. You all forgot yourselves because you were thinking about my curious behavior, and we got off safely."—Tid-Bits.

A Much Puzzled Husband.

There is one married man living who was badly frightened the other night. He sent a note to his wife about nine o'clock to say that he would not be home until late. The messenger boy when he delivered the note to the wife happened to mention that he had gone to the wrong house, and had been very wrathfully treated by a man for disturbing him. The wife read the note, which was on a scrap of paper. She thought a minute. Then she said to the messenger boy:

"I'll give you a shilling if you will take the note back to my husband and tell him that story without saying that you came here at all."

The boy pocketed the money and went back to the husband with the note.

"Well, why do you bring this back?" he asked.

"Because they wouldn't take it. A man came to the door and told me if I didn't go away he would break my neck for me."

The husband did not stay out late that evening. On the contrary he got home as fast as the underground train could take him. He looked suspiciously at his wife and said:

"I sent a note, but the boy must have taken it to the wrong house."

"I suppose so," said the wife, innocently; "I haven't got it."

The man was dying to find out if anybody had called, but he was afraid to ask.—Pearson's Weekly.

Baumgartner's Dog.

"Dot Baumgartner vas der piggest foolishness that I efer vas," said Blenker, of Canajoharie, as he came down street laughing.

"Why so?" I asked.

"Baumgartner keeps a lifery sthable undt a pull dog to take care fon dose horses und carritches in der nighd; so he cuts a hole der barn in so dot dog can go in und out all der vhile. Vell, der negst day vhen der parn door vas oben he seen dot it cofers dot dog hole, ain'd it! Oxectly. So he goes undt gits dot carbender undt cuts annudder hole pesides. See?

"Vell, his son Shake comes aroundt undt ask apout do' extra hole vhich he make, undt der oidt man shows Shake how vhen der door is oben it cofers up dot hole. Py gracions, den Shake he get madt undt swear undt say:

"'Couldn't dot planed dog go in undt out der door vhen it vhas open alreaty?' Py chiminetty! old Baumgartner feel so sheap dot he could go in undt out dot dog hole himsellif."—Judge.

For Sale or Exchange

For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of

Between 4 and 5 Acres

well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.

9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

MUNYON PERSISTS.

In Demonstrating to the Public That His Remedies Do Positively Cure.

To This End He Offers the Volunteered Testimony of Well-Known Citizens—Read What They Say.

George O. Fisher, Esq., a well-known artist of Allegheny, Pa., and who resides at 296 Robinson street, says: "I have suffered for years from rheumatism of my arms and legs; I have doctored with several different physicians, but to no avail; but since taking a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure feel quite well. I can heartily recommend it to all rheumatism sufferers."

John L. Gill, residing at 34 North Grant avenue, Columbus, O., aged 88 years, says: "I suffered from rheumatism for over 30 years. The pains were very severe, and often I was unable to move around. I have doctored with many physicians and taken all kinds of patent medicine, but never received any relief until I began using Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. Within 12 hours after taking the first dose I was free from pain and am now completely cured."

Thousands of testimonials covering every portion of the country could be published from people in all walks of life who have been cured by Prof. Munyon's Remedies and such diseases as catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney and liver diseases, female complaints, asthma, coughs and colds etc., etc.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

With Munyon's Remedies everyone can doctor themselves.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

"A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed."

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy. Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My son was afflicted with catarrh; I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one. J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,

—BEGINNING—

Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.

9 27-10 1 4 5 8 11 12 15.

Mrs. J. M. Potter

begs to announce that she will resume business at No. 9 Grove street on October 1st, when she will display a line of

Trimmed Bonnets and Hats

of the latest French designs. Especial attention will be given to the Trimming of Hats From Orders.

PRICES UNIFORMLY REASONABLE.

9 27 28 30- 10 1

Grand Autumn Excursion

via. Central Railroad of New Jersey, and Jersey City, on the palatial fast 3-deck steamer.

ST. JOHNS,

of the famous Sandy Hook Route, up the romantic Hudson, to

WEST POINT,

—ON—

Saturday, Oct. 5, 1895.

Special excursion tickets from Plainfield will be sold good to go only on train leaving Plainfield at 8 a. m. Oct. 5. Return will be made at a seasonable hour. Hotel, restaurant and refreshments at popular prices.

Fare for the Round Trip $1.20.

9 26 28-10 2 4

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

DRIVES

IN

DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.

At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.

At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.

At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.

At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.

At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.

At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.

At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?

Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.

At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.

At 3[illegible]c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations

ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,

140 West Front Street.

Stone for Flagging

of a superior quality and finish and at a moderate price. Apply to

J. C. DYER,

218 West Front Street

JUST A MINUTE

OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,

206 West Front st.

MISS BIGLOW

will resume instruction to pupils on the piano on Monday, Sept. 23, at 130 West 4th st, corner Arlington avenue. 9 19 3

HEATH & DRAKE

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House announce their

Grand Fall Opening

IN

ALL DEPARTMENTS,

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

October 1, 2 and 3.

You Are Cordially Invited to Attend.

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder ..... Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge ..... Resident Manager.

Thursday, October 3.

ONE NITE ONLY.

Must you go? What's your hurry? Here's your hat, but you'll regret it if you fail to

SEE

That Famous Funny Fellow,

Geo. W. Monroe

and his big Comedy Company in the greatest musical comedy success of the year,

A HAPPY LITTLE HOME

Chock full of the latest songs and dances. Funny situations, unique specialties, witty singing and comely girls. A perfect panecea for the blues

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

Saturday, Oct. 5.

Mr. Frederick

WARDE,

and his distinguished company, in a superb production of D' Ennery's celebrated drama,

THE Mountebank!

The entire scenery and stage mountings prepared specially for the production.

Prices—$1.50, $1, 75c, 50c and 35c.

SEE THE MILLER LAMP.

HAVILAND CHINA,
DORFLINGER'S CUT GLASS.

THE WELSBACH LIGHT.

CHINA FIRED.

Gavett's, 129 East Front Street.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 95c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

We Want Kickers

Principally boys, to wear our Steel Shod and School Shoes. These Shoes are made purposely for kickers. Once worn, always worn.

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 1st, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

EAT WELL IS TO THINK WELL.

MRS. ETTA MORSE HUDDERS' INTERESTING TALK ON FOOD.

Points on What We Should Eat and How We Should Eat It—Too Many People Eat in a Hurry—Good Advice.

The first of the five lectures arranged for the benefit of school suffrage for woman was given in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon at four o'clock by Mrs. Etta Morse Hudders, of New York, on "The Influence of Food on Health."

Aaron M. Powell was present and after stating the object for which the lectures are given, that of securing money to assist school suffrage, introduced Mrs. Hudders.

There was a large audience present that listened with deep interest to this well-informed speaker on a very broad subject. Mrs. Hudders used a table upon which she exhibited samples of various foods, etc. The speaker then went on to explain the great influence that food had on health. The fact that wheat contained sugar, fat and starch, she considered it to be the most nutritious, and with all the food eaten there must be vitalizers such as mineral waters. The latter acted also as an eliminator, an absorbent for fruit and light green vegetables. It is what we digest that builds up the system. The blood is the carrier of nutrition to every part of the body, and every day the different parts must receive their nourishment.

Our food should be well masticated. Max O'Rell once said that the reason so many American people had indigestion was that you could see a sign on the office door at the noon hour "Will be back in five minutes; gone to lunch."

The meat and bread that we eat should be thoroughly masticated, and the habit of general diet should be well established. If not, sick headache, sallow complexion, and stomach trouble results.

Oatmeal is a strong food and should not be eaten by people who are not very active, for its qualities are heating.

Excessive eating of all kinds of animal food are injurious. If we wish to retain our youthfulness we should eat fruits, grains and cereals. Nervous prostration is nothing more than starvation of the brain, and the nervous system must have nourishing food to keep it in excellent condition. The tendency, the speaker thought, among American people, was toward fatty degeneration, causing apoplexy, and heart failure.

When a person is tired they should eat lightly and when they are busy light food should be partaken of.

"To think well, eat well and breath well, is to live well and thus be well," was the motto that hung on the wall and Mrs. Hudders explained in a few words its meaning. Continuing, she said that sweet potatoes were more nourishing than white potatoes. She did not recommend salted almonds, for she believed them injurious Corn bread, as a winter food, was excellent and should be used more generally.

The balance of the afternoon was devoted to the answering of questions by different ones in the audience, and at the close slices of whole wheat bread were distributed among those present.

On account of the large number present it is probable that the next lecture will be given in the main hall of the building.

"The Ethics of Citizenship" will be the subject of the next lecture by Miss Jane L. Slocum, on Tuesday afternoon, October 8th, at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Rue was present with her costumes.

Camp Hand's Anniversary.

Arrangements for the second entertainment to be given by John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., Friday evening, October 25th, were completed at the meeting of the camp last evening. James L. Stryker, one of the members, presented the camp with a very handsome case in which will be placed the thirty guns in possession of the camp. The case is complete in every detail and the boys appreciate the gift very much. Under the direction of Sergeant of Guard H. S. Thatcher, the team worked the Degree of Friendship in a very satisfactory manner.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Y. M. C.A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, football players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale at Reynolds's pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

LIBRARY DIRECTORS MEET.

The Usual Amount of Regular Monthly Business Transacted.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Art Gallery, was held last night. Those present were: President M. W. Tyler, A. C. Baldwin, W. H. Larrabee, J. B. Dumont, J. Evarts Tracy and William M. Stillman. The minutes of the meeting of July 2d were read, amended and approved, and the following bills ordered paid:

Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Co., $11.56; Samuel H. Allen, $43.89; Miss E. E. Davie, $30; A. L. Force, $9.75; W. H. Williams, $27.90; Jones & Co., $12; A. M. Griffen, $11.49; Neuman Brothers, $61.35; Library Bureau, $16; Robert Brooks, $58.70.

It was moved that the sum of $500 be applied and appropriated for the purchase of books under the direction of the library committee.

It was moved and carried that the question about the preparation and printing of a list of juvenile books be referred to the library committee for their consideration and report at the next meeting. The matter of additional assistance to the librarian was referred to the library committee with power. The report of the librarian for September, was read and on motion placed on file. An estimate for placing stacks in the reading room was received from the Library Bureau.

THE DOCTORS DINE.

Men Who Make Pills and Bitter Decoctions Have a Good Time.

Although the physicians of this city supply their patients with pills, powders and sundry other decoctions to live on, the physicians themselves like to enjoy a good meal as well as anyone else. The Plainfield Medical Society, which is composed of the physicians of Plainfield and North Plainfield, held their semi-annual dinner at the Casino last evening and a very enjoyable time was spent. There was a fair attendance at the dinner, and funny incidents and amusing stories, professional and otherwise, kept the diners in a good humor. The dinner, too, added to the enjoyment, for Steward H. E. Peterson fairly outdid himself, and the menu was, by far, the best of any of the banquets of the doctors.

A resolution was presented to the assembled physicians and adopted by them that the City Council endeavor to make some arrangements in the future whereby all garbage should be cremated instead of dumped on vacant lots. The physicians feel that a great deal of sickness is caused by the present manner of the disposal of garbage.

PULLED OUT OF THE WAGON.

But Driver Wise Hung on and Stopped the Horse.

The electric cars are becoming a frequent excuse for horses that think they want to run away, and this morning about seven o'clock another horse, belonging to C. Frank French, tried to run away, but the driver was plucky and the attempt was not a success.

A horse and delivery wagon, belonging to C. Frank French, was coming up Somerset street to Front street, with Christopher Wise driving. An electric car went by and the horse jumped forward breaking the whiffletree and part of the harness. Wise pluckily hung on to the reins and was pulled out of the wagon, but stopped the horse before he had gone any distance.

Two Months a Bride: Now Dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Vanderbeek were summoned to Peapack today on a particularly sad errand, that of attending the funeral of Mr. Vanderbeek's niece, Mrs. Wm. Vanderbeek, who was a two-months bride.

She was taken ill a few days ago with pneumonia and passed away very suddenly. Mrs. Vanderbeek was the daughter of Lewis VanDorne, of Peapack and was a favorite among a large circle of friends.

The funeral was held at twelve o'clock today noon.

Will Lose a Finger.

Thomas Tompkinson, of Philadelphia, a pattern maker at The Walter Scott Printing Machine Company Works, caught his left hand in a machine, yesterday afternoon about five o'clock, crushing it severely. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where Dr. Endicott was called and treated him. Tompkinson will lose one finger and it is thought that the balance of the hand can be saved. It will be several days before he can the hospital.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

THE DAILY PRESS MEDAL.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES ARRANGE FOR THEIR FIELD DAY.

The Events Decided Upon—The Press Medal to Be For the All-Around Championship—List of the Officials.

The Plainfield High School Athletic Association is to have its usual handicap field day on Saturday, October 12th, and The Daily Press will offer, the same as last year, a medal for the all-around championship.

The P. H. S. A. A. met yesterday afternoon at the High School building. Six new members were admitted and then the report of the committee on the field day was made. Chairman Cornwell first gave the list of events which were amended and adopted in the following order:

One hundred-yards dash; one-third-mile bicycle race; two hundred and twenty-yards dash; putting the shot; one-mile bicycle race; running high jump; three-legged race; pole vault; four hundred and forty-yards run; running broad jump; two-mile bicycle race; one-half-mile relay foot race.

There was considerable discussion over the events and a number of suggestions were made to the committee.

The list of officials was then read and accepted.

Referee, Charles H. Angleman; Judges, Lyman R. Allen, D. A. McPhie, I. Winthrop Travell; Clerk of the Course, Charles B. Morse; Assistant Clerks, Henry B. Drake, J. Hazelwood Craig; Timers, S. C. Crane, Thomas A. Cuming, Walter B. Rittenhouse; Starter, A. M. Franklin; Announcer, Raymond A. McGee.

The handicapping is to be done by the following committee: C. B. Morse, T. A. Cuming, S. C. Crane. The entries are to be made with Secretary H. L. Richardson, and are to close on Monday, October 7th. Charles Noble was appointed committee on printing. After a lengthy discussion the report of the committee on the field day was accepted with the amendments made.

The announcement that The Daily Press would offer the all-round championship medal was made by a representative of The Press. The statement was hailed with delight by the members, and a unanimous vote of thanks immediately passed, thanking The Daily Press for their kindness in giving the medal. The medal will bring out a number of new candidates for honors, and the contest for the all-round championship promises to be a close and exciting one.

After the excitement had lessened, the report of the treasurer was heard, and several outstanding debts ordered paid. An assessment was made for the expenses of the field day. After settling other matters pertaining to the association and the field day, the meeting adjourned.

A FURNITURE SQUABBLE.

Murphy Buys on the Installment Plan and Gets Into Trouble.

There promises to be a lively time if John Murphy, formerly of Somerville, but now of Pennsylvania, does all that he promises. When Mr. Murphy resided in Somerville he purchased a quantity of furniture from Fairchild, the furniture dealer in Somerville, on the installment plan. He paid the first installment all right, but suddenly took up his bed and the rest of the furniture and walked out of town. He came here and stored the furniture in J. L. Marshall's storehouse on Park avenue, and then went to Pennsylvania. Both Fairchild and the landlord were wroth over the way that they had been treated and vowed vengeance. Several days ago the furniture was discovered in Plainfield and the former victims were happy again. Writs of attachment were immediately issued on the furniture.

Mr. Murphy has written Justice Nash, who issued the writs, that if the goods are sold they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Laid Off for Carelessness.

As a result of the smashup on the Jersey Central at Dunellen a few mornings ago the conductor, brakemen and switchman were all laid off for a time. The engineer and the firemen were held blameless from the fact that the switch was left open for them to pass through by the switchman.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

THE REGULARS DEFEATED.

THE MEMBERS' TICKET OF THE PARK CLUB ELECTED.

The Vote Was Three to One—Annual Report of the Officers Show the Club to Be In a Highly Prosperous Condition.

It was with an overwhelming vote that the members' tickets defeated the regular ticket at the Park Club last evening. The election took place at the annual meeting and was for the nine members of the Board of Governors in whose hands the management of the club rests. The regular ticket consisted of the following: George P. Dupee, Charles A. Reed, George D. Hallock, Benj. M. Day, George C. Worth, J. E. Erickson, Augustus VanDeventer, George T. Rogers, Wm. N. Runyon.

The opposition ticket was composed of George P. Dupee, Benj. M. Day, Charles A. Reed, George C. Worth, George D. Hallock, Henry A. McGee. Samuel Townsend, Elston M. French, Wm. J. Roome.

There were thirty-one ballots cast, of which the opposition ticket received twenty-three, the regular nominees seven, and one vote was irregular.

The treasurer of the club made his annual report at the beginning of the meeting which showed the club to be in excellent financial condition. President B. A. Hegeman, Jr., presided at the meeting.

After the annual meeting of the club was adjourned, the newly-elected board of governors met and selected officers for the ensuing year.

The following were chosen: President, Charles A. Reed; vice-president, Benjamin M. Day; secretary, George D. Hallock; treasurer, George P. Dupee.

The board will hold its regular meeting on next Tuesday evening.

GETTING READY FOR GOLF.

Hillside Club Meet Tonight to Arrange for the Sport.

The golf course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, the name by which the association will hereafter be known, is about finished, and before the present month is over some expert golfers from out of town clubs will be invited to play an exhibition game, at which time the members of the club and their many friends will have an opportunity afforded them to see the charm of the game.

The club has been most fortunate in securing land well adapted for golfing and the course is picturesquely laid out on the Stillman and Leonard properties east of Plainfield avenue, running north, east and south of the Barnaby estate.

This evening a special meeting of the club will be held at the club-house on Watchung avenue for the purpose of changing the constitution and by-laws of the club to conform with the interests of golf and to elect about forty new members who have made application for membership in consideration of the new feature. This will no doubt insure the future success of the organization.

Many are looking forward with great pleasure to the chance of playing the game, and it is proposed to have an expert on the grounds daily, for three or four weeks, to teach the game to those unfamiliar with it. Notice will be given later, when the members will have this opportunity.

—The regular quarterly business meeting and election of officers of the Congregational Y. P. S. C. E. will take place in the church parlors Thursday evening, October 3d, at 8 o'clock.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

THE ROLLER AT WORK.

Witnessed by a Number of Officials Who Are Pleased With It.

The new steam roller was given a test in a new line of work yesterday afternoon. The picks, sharp prongs of steel about five inches long, were placed around the large side rollers and as the roller moved forward, the picks broke up the thin upper layer of crushed stone. The work of the picks was shown on East Fifth street between Sycamore street and Park avenue, where there still remained a high ridge from the sewer trench. The ridge and the surface of the road on either side was loosened. Then a man with a rake rounded up the street and the roller, with the picks removed set at work. The entire block was picked up and partially rolled during the afternoon from one until about four o'clock. A committee of citizens from Lebanon, Pa., came to witness the test in company with Street Commissioner Meeker and were as enthusiastic as he was before the roller had completed its work.

Although the steam roller will be more expensive in the beginning than a horse roller, it is much cheaper in daily work. The horses necessary to pull a roller for one day cost $8 while all the expenses for the steam roller do not average over $5 daily.

The roller will be able to work up to about the first of December, when the ground becomes solidly frozen. Rainy weather will not hinder as the interior of the cab can be protected from the elements by curtains. The work this fall will be on the streets in which both central and house mains have been laid.

THE BOYS' RACES.

Entries for the Events for Saturday Next.

The following are the entries which have been made for the boys' races which will be held on the Crescent Oval on Saturday of this week:

One-Hundred Yards Dash—First heat, H. Keller, scratch; O. Fleming, three yards; R. Smith, five yards; W. Corwin, seven yards; G. Newman, seven yards. Second heat, W. Nash, one yard; W. Remsen, three yards; L. Stewart, seven yards; W. Jackson, seven yards; H. Slauson, nine yards.

One-Mile Bicycle Race—J. Taylor, scratch; D. Hand, forty yards; R. S. Radford, one hundred yards; H. Phillips, one hundred and twenty-five yards; F. Talmadge, one hundred and twenty-five yards; E. Waring, one hundred and twenty-five yards; W. Nash, one hundred and twenty-five yards; D. Demarest, one hundred and seventy-five yards; R. Smith, one hundrad and seventy-five yards; A. Denton, three hundred yards.

One-Mile Handicap—H. Keller, scratch; W. Nash, scratch; O. Fleming, eight yards; W. Remsen, eight yards; R. Schoonmaker, fifteen yards; E. Perkins, fifteen yards; W. Corwin, twenty yards.

Two-Mile Handicap—James Taylor, scratch; Benjamin Schenck, seventy-five yards; Irving Hand, seventy-five yards; Frank Talmadge, two hundred and fifty yards.

One-Mile—Harold Phillips, two hundred and fifty yards; W. Nash, two hundred and fifty yards; E. Waring, two hundred and fifty yards; D. Demarest, three hundred yards; W. Sweeney, three hundred yards.

MISS CLARK NO BETTER.

The Erratic School Principal Does Not Recover Rapidly.

Mrs. J. Edison Sweet, of Syracuse, and Miss Irene Yanne, of Johnstown, were in this city yesterday and went to the Stratford school building and packed up the effects of Miss Lucretia Clark, the principal whose mysterious disappearance caused such a furore of excitement in Plainfield and elsewhere, and had them shipped on to Syracuse, where Miss Clark is staying with her sister. The condition of Miss Clark remains about the same as when found by Detective Beck and Reporter Robert Campbell at Fitchburg. She moves about in a half-hearted manner and seems to possess but little energy and life. There is hope, however, that absolute quiet and rest will eventually restore her to her former intelligent and pleasant ways.

Railroad Company Settled.

The case of Mrs. Porr against a street railway company in New York was settled by the company recently before it went into the courts. It will be remembered that Mrs. Porr was on her way to Plainfield with a baby girl, and in alighting from a street car in New York the child was thrown to the ground and received injuries from which she never recovered. The accident was caused through the carelessness of the conductor. Mrs. Porr received $400 and funeral expenses from the company, for which she agreed to settle.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

FANWOOD BOROUGHITES WIN.

THE SPECIAL ELECTION CARRIED BY THE PROGRESSIVE ONES.

A Majority of Thirty-nine Recorded for Them—Capt. Tuzo and Son Establish a Camp, Residence But It Did Not Go.

The Fanwood boroughites gained another victory yesterday when the second special election was held to determine whether or not that section of the township near the railroad station should be separated into a borough government. An election for this purpose was held some time ago, but some irregularity was made by not keeping the polls open long enough and so as not to invalidate the formation of the borough the second election was held yesterday. The election was carried by those in favor of the borough government by a majority of thirty-nine.

The polls were opened at six o'clock in the morning and remained so till all had an opportunity to vote. The inspectors of election were Sheriff Geo. Kyte, Walter S. Force and Wm. Stanbury. In connection with the contest a very amusing incident happened.

Captain Tuzo and his son, who, by the way, are non residents of the township, were strongly opposed to the proposed change, and they were very anxious to defeat the object.

The Captain owns a small lot at the corner of Terrill road and King street, which is just on the line of the township, and he thought that fact entitled him to all the privileges accorded any citizen.

On Monday night he pitched a tent on his small domain, in which he and his son kept all night so as to be on hand early Tuesday morning to cast their votes against the township becoming a borough. Their efforts were in vain, however, for the votes did not count, from the fact that they had not been residents of the township long enough.

An election will be held at an early date to choose officers to govern the new borough.

It May Spoil His Wedding Trip.

A question that is agitating the lawyers in Elizabeth is whether the trial of the libel suit of Dr. Lawrence against the Summit Record will not interfere with Editor Thomas F. Lane's wedding tour. Mr. Lane was married yesterday at Washington to Senator Blackburn's daughter. His lawyer wanted an adjournment for the term, but Richard B. Lindabury, the opposing counsel, would not consent, and Judge VanSyckel said the case would be tried next Monday. Editor Lane intended to start off on a long trip with his bride this week, but the lawyers say he must be in court Monday if the case comes to trial, and from present indications it will.

A Prominent Hicksite Speaker.

In the ninetieth year of her age, Mrs. Elizabeth Thistlethwaite, of 347 East Third street, passed away early this morning. Her death was caused by a carper. She came here about twenty years ago and has been very prominent about the Hicksite Friends, spending much of her time as a speaker at the Friends' meeting house. She attended all the meetings in this vicinity and was very active in her work.

Benefit for the Library.

A bazar and fancy fair for the benefit of the Scotch Plains Public Library will be held at Excelsior Hall, this and tomorrow afternoons and evenings. Stages will run from Fanwood station to Excelsior Hall. The library deserves the warm sympathy of all residents, and this is an opportunity to give it a helping hand.

A Fall Outing.

A party from Asbury Park stopped at the Revere House last evening on their way to Sussex county on an outing. Bicycles and carriages were the conveyances that brought them here and that took them on this morning. Several spent the evening with friends in this city.

Mrs. Voehl Back.

Mrs. George Voehl returned to this city this morning, and had a consultation with a lawyer with reference to the trouble between herself and her husband.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. Let Chamberlain's Cough Remedy be given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

HITS THE NEGRO HARD

Effect of South Carolina's New Suffrage Law.

An Indirect Decision Against Suffrage for the Colored Residents—All Must Be Able To Read and Write—No More Divorces To Be Granted in the State.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 2.—After a debate continuing all through Monday night's session and through all of yesterday's, the constitutional convention has decided against negro suffrage indirectly. It has also decided that there shall never be a divorce granted in South Carolina for any cause. Senator Tillman did his best to have the divorces of other states recognized in this state, but for once his appeals were not heeded. The Bible was quoted from freely during the debate. Late in the afternoon the long looked for and all important article on the suffrage made its appearance. By the clause compelling voters to read and write the illiterate negro population is disfranchised. The provision reads as follows:

Qualifications for Suffrage.

"A—Residence in the state for two years; in the county one year; in the election districts in which the electors offer to vote four months; and the payment of a poll tax six months before any election. Provided, however, that ministers of the gospel in charge of an organized church shall be entitled to vote after six months' residence in the state if otherwise qualified. B—Registration which shall provide for the enrollment of every elector once in ten years. C—The person applying for registration must be able to read and write any section of this constitution or must show that he owns and pays taxes on $300 worth of property in this state. Provided that at the first registration under this constitution and up to January 1, 1898, all male persons of voting age who can read a clause in this constitution or understand and explain it when read to them by the registration officer shall be entitled to register and become electors.

PRINCETON FOOTBALL TEAM.

First Game of the Season To Be Played To-day at Elizabeth.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 2.—About fifty candidates for the Princeton football team have been practising for the past two weeks. The loss of Wheeler, Taylor, Brown, Trenchard, Hollp, Ward and Morse will leave several big gaps to be filled both in and behind the rush line. Among the new men are some very promising candidates, but as a class their weight is not up to the standard of a 'varsity eleven. In addition to this grievance the faculty has imposed a restriction upon the management which will not allow of their playing any men who have conditions standing against them. This rule will debar many desirable men from the field for the present, but its working on the whole cannot help being beneficial. The first game of the season occurs to-day when the team go to Elizabeth to play the Elizabeth Athletic club.

WILL NO LONGER RUN.

Steamship Line from New Orleans to Bluefields To Be Discontinued.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Consul O'Hara writes the department of state from San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, his station, that it is reported in Bluefields that the Southern Pacific Railway company will discontinue running its vessels of the Morgan line of steamships between New Orleans and Bluefields. The reasons assigned for this action are the low price of bananas and the difficulty of competing with vessels owned by Norwegians and manned by the poorly paid sailors of that nation.

SAY THEY CAN'T INTERFERE.

Louisville Authorities Unable To Stop the Murphy-Griffin Fight.

Louisville, Oct. 2.—The mayor, chief of police and members of the board of safety say they cannot interfere with the Griffin-Murphy fight, in spite of Governor Brown's proclamation, as it does not come under the law. They say a prize fight is a fight for a purse and that Murphy and Griffin are hired to spar. There is no probability of interference from the local authorities.

GEN. MAHONE BETTER.

His Condition, However, Is Still Precarious.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Gen. Mahone rested easily last night and this morning was better than at any time since his collapse. He is, however, in a precarious condition.

Divorces Becoming a Fad.

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—Domestic infelicity and consequent divorce proceedings have reached the fad stage in the aristocratic East End here. Judge Pugh refused decrees in every case brought before him last week, scored the attorneys for desperate attempts to secure sufficient evidence and said that Columbus was getting to be as bad as Chicago.

Yale Football Officers Elected.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2.—At a meeting of the Yale freshman class last night the following football officers were elected: President, O. Sheldon, Rutland, Vt.; vice-president, F. Hickok, Harrisburg, Pa.; treasurer, R. G. Brooke, Philadelphia.

Striker's Wife Commits Suicide.

Thompsonville, Conn., Oct. 2.—Mrs. William Allen, aged 40, wife of a striking carpet weaver, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by hanging. Despondency due to her husband's lack of employment led to the act.

Will Close and Sell the Mill.

Woonsocket, R. I., Oct. 2.—The Harris Woolen company, which is decreasing the number of looms in operation, will complete present orders in December, and it is believed that it will then close the mill and sell it.

The Carlisles Back in Washington.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Secretary and Mrs. Carlisle returned to Washington last evening from their visit to Marion Mass.

MUNHALL MANSION BURNED.

Dastardly Attempt of Incendiaries on the Lives of a Family.

Pittsburg, Oct. 2.—The Munhall mansion, owned and occupied by John Munhall, coal dealer, near Homestead, was burned to the ground yesterday by a fire of incendiary origin. The damage is about $20,000. Diamonds, gold watches and other personal effects of Mr. Munhall's family to the value of $3,000 were also lost. The mansion was one of the most picturesque country seats in Allegheny county. The fire bears evidence of a dastardly plot to destroy the Munhall family. The fire originated in an unoccupied room and had gained such headway that the family barely saved their lives by rushing from the burning house in their bedroom attire. It was the last night the family expected to occupy their home, it having been leased to General Superintendent Schwab of the Carnegie Steel company. A 13-year-old daughter heard footsteps in the unoccupied room a short time before the flames were discovered.

TRAIN KILLED TWO WOMEN.

Fatal Crossing Accident Near Monmouth Junction.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Clara Buckalew, aged 55, and her niece, Miss Griggs of Monmouth Junction, were instantly killed on the tracks of the Jamesburg branch of the Pennsylvania railroad near Monmouth Junction, yesterday, by a fast train bound for Philadelphia. The women were driving across the tracks and did not notice the approach of the train until it was upon them. The engine crashed into the carriage throwing the women out and freeing the horse which ran home. Both of the women were picked up dead. The young girl was decapitated. The women belong to prosperous families of Middlesex county.

WOULD-BE BENEDICTS DUPED.

Hundreds of Young Men Ready To Wed a Chinaman's Daughter

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 2.—Letters and telegrams continue to pour into the telegraph and postoffices addressed to Hip Sing Lee, the mythical Chinese merchant prince, in whose name an advertisement recently appeared in a San Francisco paper offering flattering inducements to any respectable white man who would marry his daughter, Moi Lee. There are at present nearly five hundred letters in the postoffice addressed to the mysterious Hip Sing Lee, all presumably in answer to the advertisement referred to.

NATIONAL GOLF TOURNAMENT.

Promoters of the Sport Jubilant over Prospects of Success.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 2.—The first day of the National Golfing association's annual tournament was voted a grand success at the close of play late yesterday afternoon and it is already assured that this tournament will be one of the sporting events of the year in future. The officers of the association are quite jubilant over the prospects. Yesterday afternoon's play was marked by a large attendance of society people who tramped over the links against a heavy northwest wind.

EVANS' NEW COMMAND.

"Fighting Bob" Will Take Charge of the Warship Indiana.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Capt. Robley D. Evans was at the navy department yesterday, having left his ship, the New York, off Cape Charles. He received his orders relieving him from the further command of the New York and assigning him to temporary duty on the Indiana, which ship he will command when she is completed. He will be succeeded in the command of the New York by Capt. W. S. Schley, at present a member of the board of inspection.

ON BENEDICT'S YACHT.

The President and Party on a Fishing Trip.

New London, Conn., Oct. 2.—Steam yacht Oneida, E. C. Benedict, arrived in this harbor last evening with President Cleveland, Secretary Thurber, Mr. Huntington, a friend of the president, and E. C. Benedict aboard. The Oneida remained a few hours, then steamed slowly out to the eastward. The party is on a fishing trip and will continue for a few days in Long Island sound. The Oneida will probably return to Gray Gables after the trip is finished.

HOPELESSLY DEADLOCKED.

Republican Senatorial Contest at Corning Still on.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The republican senatorial convention of the Forty-first district is still hopelessly deadlocked. A total of 258 ballots have been taken so far. Candidates Nichols, Sherwood and Sheppard held a conference lasting two hours, but were unable to arrive at any conclusion.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Demand slow and prices on spot unsettled. October, 65c.; December, 67c.; May, 70 3-8c.

Corn—Spot dull with fair demand. No. 2 white 37 3-8c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 36 3-4c.; November, 36 3-4c; May, 35 1-8c.

Oats—Spot slow and prices doubtful. No. 2 white, 25 3-4c.; No. 3 white, 24 3-4c.; No. 2 mixed, 24 1-4c.

Pork—Spot steady; demand moderate. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $10.00a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and steady. October, $6.22.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery remains moderate, but the lower grades are slow and very irregular. Creamery, western extras, 22c.; creamery, western, seconds to firsts, 15a20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 18 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a15c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a15c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—The market shows slight improvement. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, [illegible]; large colored fancy, 7 3-4c.; state part skims, choice, 6 1-2c.; fair to prime, 6 1-2a4 1-2c.; common, 2 [illegible]-4a3c.

Eggs—Unchanged receipts with prices in sellers favor. Fancy, fresh gathered are quoted at 17 1-2c.

Potatoes—Trading slow; continued liberal receipts, prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel $1.00a$1.05; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

PEARY HAS HAD ENOUGH

Done with Hunting for the North Pole.

Such Work, He Says, Requires a Man Under Thirty and a Trained Athlete—Ice and Darkness Too Much for Him—Believes the Pole Will Soon Be Reached.

Portland, Me., Oct. 2.—Lieut. Peary, the Arctic explorer, is done forever with hunting for the North Pole. He is here visiting his mother and recovering from the sea sickness of his Halifax voyage. "I shall never see the North pole," said the lieutenant, "unless some one brings it here. I am done with it. In my judgment the work requires a far younger man than I. The leader of such a party should be able not only to do as much as anyone else, but more than any other man. He should be under 30, rather than over 40. I am too old to snow-shoe twenty-five to thirty miles a a day, for weeks, and to carry a heavy load during most of the time. For that work one should be a trained man, a thorough athlete, and that I am not."

Believes the Pole Will Be Reached.

When asked if he believed the pole would ever be reached, Lieut. Peary said: "I believe that it will, and I think the work will be accomplished in a comparatively short time. I am, however, no believer in the existence of the open polar sea." While the lieutenant is convinced that a way to reach the pole will be found, he was not ready to express an opinion as to methods. He was asked if he believed in the possibility of reaching the pole by aid of a balloon. He said that he had not given the balloon theory any special thought. He said his party suffered much on the last trip.

Difficulties To Be Overcome.

"We were unable to keep sufficient steam in the human boilers; in other words, we could not carry with us food enough to enable us to fully sustain our strength. There are three things that operate against those who try to reach the pole. The ice that is in the way of the vessels, the darkness during so many months and the extreme difficulty in carrying about enough provisions in a condensed form. These are the difficulties that some one must largely overcome if the work is to be accomplished. The larger the party the greater the difficulty. It may be possible to find four men able to withsand the cold and the exposure, but in a large party one would be sure to give out, and the strength of a chain is to be judged by its weakest and not its strongest link. A party of explorers might fail through the weakness of a single man. You see, that this is so much a matter of detail, and removed from a base of supplies, the least change affects everything, and may involve great suffering."

SOLICITING PERJURY.

Claimed Not To Be a Crime Punishable in Pennsylvania.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Blair county court sat yesterday to hear a motion to quash the indictments in the prosecutions against county commissioners James Funk and John Hurd for alleged misdemeanors in office. Commissioner Hurd is charged in one indictment of approaching a witness who was to testify against him before the county auditor's court of inquiry and soliciting the witness to commit perjury. Ex-Judge Landis attorney, for the commissioners, created a sensation in court by claiming that solicitation to commit perjury was not an offense punishable in Pennsylvania. District Attorney Hammond was unable to find a case in the law books that fixes a penalty for the crime. The court reserved its opinion.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

Von der Ahe Endeavoring To Revive the Old Baseball Clubs.

St. Louis, Oct. 2.—The American association of baseball clubs will be revived next season if the wishes and plans of President Von der Ahe bear fruit. For several weeks he has been in communication with different baseball magnates and it is said he has found enough of them willing to join him to justify calling a meeting in the early winter months with the object of resurecting the old American association.

Colored People's Chautauqua.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 2.—The colored people of Atlanta have organized the Colored People's Exposition Chautauqua. The purpose of the organization is to give a series of lectures, and entertainments by negro talent during the exposition.

To Close All Saloons.

Buffalo, Oct. 2.—It is stated that all the saloon keepers of the city will voluntarily close their saloons on Sundays hereafter, with the view to showing the desirability of more liberal laws in regard to Sunday closing.

Clergyman Sent To Jail.

Mount Vernon, Ky., Oct. 2.—After forty hours' deliberation the jury gave Rev. W. G. Cappa two years in the penitentiary for shooting his wife five times some three months ago.

Will Not Affiliate with Tammany.

New York, Oct. 2.—After many days of deliberation among the leaders of the independent county organization it was finally decided last night not to affiliate with Tammany hall.

Analine Works Burned.

Albany, Oct. 2.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the Albany Analine works, situated in East Greenbush. The building is a total loss and the damage will amount to $50,000.

Lexow Renominated.

Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Clarence Lexow of Nyack was unanimously renominated for senator by the republicans of the Twenty-third district in this city yesterday.

France Gets Satisfaction.

Paris, Oct. 2.—It is announced that China has assured full satisfaction to France for the recent attack made upon the French missions in China.

MEN GROPE.

A WOMAN SEES THE LIGHT.

She Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid, did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances!

Those things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

This is why so many women suffer.

Twenty years ago Lydia E. Pinkham gave to the women of the world the result of her years of study in the form of her Vegetable Compound,—a universal remedy for all female complaints.

She well deserves the title, "Saviour of her Sex." She saw the light of reason, and gave it to her suffering sisters.

All female diseases put forth their symptoms, such as nervousness, lassitude, paleness, dizziness, faintness, leucorrhœa, faltering steps, sleeplessness, bearing-down pains, backache, and consequent melancholy and the blues.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has for twenty years saved women from all this. Hear this woman speak:—

"Five years ago at childbirth I did not have proper attention. I became very weak; could lift nothing without bleeding from the womb, which was ulcerated badly. I was examined by a physician, and treated for a time, but was compelled to leave the city before I received benefit from the treatment. I decided then to give your medicine a trial. I improved rapidly on the first bottle of Compound, and now feel like a new woman. Ulcers have ceased to form on the womb as they did. I advise all women in any way afflicted with female troubles to take your remedies, and trust that my testimonial will be seen by friends who knew me when I was so sick, and that they may know I am now well, and that I owe it all to your Vegetable Compound." MRS. JOHN OSTRANDER, 340 East Fifty-fifth Street, New York City, N.Y.

The leader in our corset department is the Kabo Corset—and justly so.

It's not only perfect fitting, but the bones won't break.

In case they do, come back and get your money.

Another reason—it has soft rubber elets which will not cut the laces.

I. LEDERER.

There is one DRESS STAY that
Won't melt apart,
Can't cut through the dress,
Don't stay bent.
It is
BALL'S PEERLESS
All lengths; all colors.
Seely Edsall, Putnam & DeGraw,
I. Lederer.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Nothing Antequated

will be found in our stock of wall paper. We are now showing the very latest fall designs and most of them are gems. The getting up of new, fanciful and pleasing patterns is an art, and we have the advantage of displaying the handiwork of the best artists of the day in that line. It's like going through a picture gallery to walk about in our store, and there is no admission. Paints, oils and varnishes.

E. C. MARSHALL, 167 North Avenue

P. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

Grenada Barber Shop,
No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.
Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

.NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year!

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY
to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,
301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,
—DEALERS IN—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.
Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS,
841 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,
formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at
No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office.
EVERY THURSDAY.
From 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

COAL

Best Lehighs, all domestic sizes, $4.50 per ton delivered. No. 2 coal $3.75 delivered.

FRED W. HAND,
925 South ave. 112 North ave.
TELEPHONE 139.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield,
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE.
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.50 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

CLIMAX STOPPER CO.,
Machine Works,
Corner Washington and 4th sts., manufacturers of bicycle specialties. Electric and special machinery, experimental work, tools etc. Contractors for electric light wiring, telephones, burglar alarms, etc.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.

Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS,—EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

A New World
opens to the man who finds quick relief from wearing pain. That is the testimony of multitudes who have used for all sorts of aches and pains, lameness, stiffness of the muscles and joints of the back, limbs or side.
Allcock's Porous Plaster
Make sure and get the genuine. Never put up with imitations "Just as good as Allcock's."
Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
relieve rheumatism and any disease arising from impurity of the blood.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace Y. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop.

WHOLESALE LAY-OFF

Consternation Among Capitol Employes.

About One Hundred Names Dropped from the Department of Public Buildings' Rolls at Albany—Democrats and Republicans Both Included—Dismissals Unexpected.

Albany, Oct. 2.—There was consternation in the ranks of the state department of public buildings last night, when it was learned that Supt. Easton had determined upon many changes. The total number employed in the maintenance department of the capitol, which has the care of all the state buildings here, including the executive mansion, is in the neighborhood of 250. To-day is the beginning of the coming fiscal year, and when the roll was called this morning in this department it was learned that about 100 names had been dropped. Those whose names have been eliminated from the rolls include three democratic night watchmen at the capitol, who have been there for the past ten years, orderlies, elevator men and members of the cleaning gang, including several women, and a number of the employes in the basement of the building as well as nearly all those at the executive mansion. This lay-off was unexpected. A number of republicans are included in it, although a large party of those discharged are democrats. One of the reasons given for the reduction of the force is that the payroll is too large for the appropriation which the department has at its disposal for the ensuing year.

PRAISE FOR CULBERSON.

Bostonians Compliment Him for Trying To Prevent the Fight.

Boston, Oct. 2.—At a meeting in the People's temple here the following resolution was adopted: "We, the representatives of different civic and religious organizations of Boston and vicinity, assembled in the People's temple, wish to express to Governor Culberson of Texas our hearty smypathy in the splendid efforts he is making to prevent prize fighting in that state, and to assure him of our earnest prayer that these efforts may be crowned with success." It was voted that a copy be sent to the governor of Texas.

MARIPOSA HOLDING TOGETHER

Salvors Making Good Work on the Wrecked Steamship.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 2.—The commander of the British flagship Cleopatra telegraphs from Bonne Bay that the wreck of the steamer Mariposa is still holding together, and it is likely that the salvors will do well. Schooners that have arrived here report that considerable cargo is being taken from the wreck. Much indignation is manifested at the charges which are freely made in Canadian newspapers that piracy is practised by fishermen near the wreck.

FOR DEATH OF HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Purinton Given a Verdict for $32,000 Against the D. L. & W.

Trenton, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Kate E. Purinton, whose husband was killed in the Meadow accident on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad eighteen months ago, has obtained a verdict for $32,000 in the federal court. She sued the railroad company for $50,000. Her husband was 33 years of age at the time of his death and was earning $4,800 per year. The jury took his age and income into consideration when making up the amount of damages for the widow.

STERN'S APPEAL DENIED.

The New York Merchant Must Serve His Sentence.

Munich, Oct. 2.—The Augsburger Abend Zeitung yesterday announced that it had learned upon good authority that the regent of Bavaria, Prince Luitpold, has declined definitely to entertain the appeal of Louis Stern of New York, who was sentenced to imprisonment for two weeks and to pay a fine of 600 marks for having insulted Baron von Thuengen as the result of a dispute between them.

MARLBOROUGH AT SING SING.

The Duke and Miss Vanderbilt with a Coaching Party.

Sing Sing, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Oliver H. P. Belmont's coaching party consisting of Col. and Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough arrived last evening and spent the night here. They left this morning for West Point.

Floating Wreckage Picked Up.

Cape May, N. J., Oct. 2.—Capt. Eldredge and crew of the Cape May Point life saving station yesterday found the cabin, apparently of a large schooner, floating out of the bay and landed it opposite the city. It had on it a bell, but no mark by which the vessel to which it belonged could be traced. It is supposed to belong to some sunken craft which has not been heard of.

Killed While Picking Coal.

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 2.—A passenger train on the Lehigh Valley railroad struck two boys who were picking coal in the yard of the Bethlehem Iron company's works. One of the lads, William Snyder, aged 10 years, was instantly killed, but his companion whose name is not known, was tossed to one side and escaped with slight injuries.

Killed by a Train.

Rutherford, N. J., Oct. 2.—While crossing the tracks of the Erie railway at Rutherford last night the Rev. S. Y. Lum, a Presbyterian clergyman, was instantly killed by an express train from Jersey City. He was about 65 years old and deaf.

An Old Constable Killed.

Scanton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Jefferson L. Rossler, a constable of this city for thirteen years, was struck by a Delaware & Hudson railroad passenger train last night at Hickory street crossing and killed.

New York, 16; Bridgeport, 5.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 2.—The baseball game yesterday afternoon resulted: New York, 16; Bridgeport, 5. Batteries—Clark and Wilson; Foster and O'Rourke.

A LEPER AT LARGE.

Mysterious Escape from a Philadelphia City Hospital.

Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—It has just leaked out that James Benjamin, the most recent acquisition to the leper ward at the Municipal hospital, escaped fully a month ago and is at large now. The fact that he escaped has been withheld, it being the desire of the hospital authorities to keep the matter a secret. Benjamin is the most interesting of the trio of lepers in that department of the hospital. He was arrested about six months ago. The man was about 30 years old, well built, swarthy complexion and exceedingly well educated. He claimed to be a West Indian, although his features more resembled those of the negro intermixed with the Caucusian. Where he came from originally, how or where he contracted the disease and who or what his family connections are, neither the police nor those who were more intimately acquainted with him were ever able to ascertain. It is hinted that the officials at the hospital knew that the leper left the institution on a number of occasions during the night for a few hours. On the last occasion he failed to turn up.

M'GILL ACCEPTS.

Notified of His Nomination for Governor of New Jersey.

Jersey City, Oct. 2.—Chancellor Alexander T. McGill was yesterday afternoon officially notified that he had been nominated for governor by the democrats in convention. The notification committee, which consisted of one member from each of the twenty-one counties of the state, met at Taylor's hotel and proceeded to the chancellor's home. After arriving at the house the nomination was tendered the chancellor, and he replied in part as follows: "It would be insincerity on my part to conceal or disguise my appreciation of the honorable nomination, made unanimously by 1,000 representative citizens, which comes as a call to a new field and the imperative duty, which, if ratified, commands earnest and loyal service to our state in a new sphere." He then accepted the nomination.

RECEIVED 1,000 VOLTS.

An Electric Lineman's Remarkable Escape from Death.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 2.—A lineman for an electric light company while at work at the top of a pole, 40 feet above the ground, yesterday afternoon attempted to connect two wires, making a "short circuit." As he grasped the wires a current of 1,000 volts passed through his body. The man was sitting on the cross piece at the time and when the current entered his body he hugged the pole. He remained in this position for some time, suffering great agony. Another workman with him saw what had happened and gave the alarm. A fire truck was called and the man was brought down. His hands were burned half to the bone and his tongue was half bitten in two, his jaws being shut convulsively as the electricity shot through his body. Despite the shock the physicians say he will recover.

GERMAN MAIL STEAMER LOST.

The Uruguay Wrecked Near Rio de Janeiro.

London, Oct. 2.—A dispatch received here by Lloyds from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, announces the wreck and total loss with her cargo of the German mail steamer Uruguay, of 1,460 tons. The Uruguay left Hamburg on August 7 for Montevideo and arrived there on September 3. She was on her homeward passage when she ran ashore off Cape Frio, not far from Rio de Janeiro, and all efforts to float her proved fruitless. Her crew and all her passengers were rescued.

PRINCE HEROYASA HERE.

The Japanese Nobleman Traveling Through This Country Incognito.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Prince Heroyasa, a member of the imperial family of Japan, who has been a student at Kiel, Germany, was in this city incognito. Prince Heroyasa is a sub-lieutenant in the Japanese navy. His visit is entirely unofficial. He left last night on his way to his own country via San Francisco, where he will complete his studies.

CORBETT OFF FOR TEXAS.

The Champion To Stop at Washington and Atlanta.

New York, Oct. 2.—The Corbett party started for Texas yesterday. Corbett was accompanied by his manager, William A. Brady, Steve O'Donnell, John Donaldson, Joe Corbett, Jim McVey, Billy Delaney and Jim Daly. Corbett will stop at Washington and Atlanta en route. He expects to reach San Antonio, by Oct. 9.

LORILLARD'S ENGLISH STABLE.

The American Horse Owner Adds a Branch at Newmarket.

London, Oct. 2.—It is stated that in addition to Lowthar park, Pierre Lorrillard, the well known American horse owner, has taken Park Lodge stables, Newmarket, for three years and that he will have twenty horses in training at Newmarket after next year.

Three Powers After the Sultan.

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—It is reported in official circles here that the envoys of three powers, Great Britain, France and Russia, will soon receive instructions from their governments to resume negotiations with the porte regarding the Armenian question.

Virginia's Tobacco Crop Injured.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 2.—Specials to the dispatch which about completely cover the tobacco belts of the state are to the effect that the frosts of last night did great damage to that crop. All standing tobacco was destroyed.

Schooner Naughton Safe.

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 2.—The schooner Capt. George W. Naughton, which rode out the gale at anchor three miles south of here, has reached port. The crew had been kept at the pumps since Saturday.

Admiral Buller at Shanghai.

Shanghai, Oct. 2.—Admiral Buller, commander-in-chief of the British fleet in Chinese waters, has arrived here on board of the dispatch boat Alacrity.

European Sugar Crop Short.

London, Oct. 2.—It is predicted by an eminent authority, Giesecker, that the European sugar crop will be 1,200,000 tons short of the average.

SPANISH CRUISER LOST

Cristobal Colon Wrecked in Cuban Waters.

Said To Have Been Driven on a Reef During a Cyclone—Officers and Crew Swim Ashore or Float in on Wreckage—Hints of Insurgent Work.

Havana, Oct. 2.—The Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon has been wrecked near Cape Antonio, the westernmost point of the island of Cuba, and it is believed that she will prove a total loss. The Cristobal Colon was a second class cruiser of about 1,200 tons displacement and 1,800 horse-power. She formed part of the fleet of Spanish warships detailed to watch the coast of Cuba in order to prevent the landing of filibustering expeditions from the United States and elsewhere. She carried four twelve-centimetre Hontoria guns, two seven-centimetre guns and two rapid-fire guns.

About 200 on Board.

Her crew numbered about 200 officers and men, but the exact figures are not known here at present as she had on board men intended for the smaller patrol vessels of the Spanish fleet and may have lost men ashore. The cruiser's station was the waters about Cape Antonio, her commander having particular instructions to watch the gulf of Corrientes and Guadiana, south and north of the cape.

Driven Ashore During a Gale.

The disaster occurred off Colorado point in the Gulf of Guadiana, south of the town of Mantua, in the province of Pinar del Rio. For some days a cyclone has prevailed over these latitudes. The cruiser encountered the storm off Cape Antonio and is supposed to have put into the Gulf of Guadiana for shelter, and while trying to ride out the gale there was driven towards Colorado point, off which there is a dangerous reef. When the commander of the cruiser saw that he could not make headway against the storm, he attempted to throw out additional anchors, but they would not hold.

The Cruiser Abandoned.

Another report says that the cruiser ran on the reef at night time when her commander believed her to be far enough off shore to continue steaming against the gale. She was finally abandoned and was pounding herself to pieces on the reef. Some of the crew swam ashore, others reached land by means of pieces of wreckage and in the boats, but all were saved. The commander of the cruiser reached Mantua during the day with the majority of the crew.

Work of Insurgents Hinted at.

It is hinted that this latest disaster to the Spanish government was the work of insurgents, that the cruiser was sunk by a torpedo exploded by rebels. This is denied from official sources. There is no doubt, however, that the government has not thought it proper to make public all the facts in the case, and this may not be done until the official report of the commander of the wrecked cruiser has been received and passed upon.

CAN'T EVEN PLAY CRICKET.

An English Paper Laments "Monotonous" Defeats at Sports.

London, Oct. 2.—The St. James' Gazette, referring to the defeat of the Cambridge-Oxford cricket team by the Philadelphians, remarks: "These defeats of English athletes across the Atlantic are becoming monotonous. If there is one thing we could do, we thought we could play cricket. America is now taking up that game, though it was never popular there, and even at cricket they have contrived to beat us."

NEW ATLANTIC CABLE.

It Will Shortly Be Laid from New York to Brest.

Paris, Oct. 2.—M. Endre Le Bon, the French minister of commerce, announced yesterday at the chamber of commerce of Calais that a contract had been signed for laying a cable from Brest to New York, which will connect the French telegraph system with the Antilles.

PROF. DAHL WANTS A DIVORCE.

Says His Wife Was Cruel to Him and Often Beat Him.

Guthrie, O. T., Oct. 2.—Prof. Anton Louis Dahl, manager of a conservative of music in New York city, has applied for a divorce here from Mattie C. Dahl, alleging that she was cruel to him and often beat and assaulted him.

Fashionable Wedding at Saratoga.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 2.—A fashionable wedding took place last evening at the North Broadway residence of D. W. Coon, of the firm of Cluett, Coon & Co., of Troy. The contracting parties were Grace Reynolds, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coon, and Warren Prescott Palmer, of Thompsonville, Conn.

Wages of 1,000 Men Increased.

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 2.—The iron mills of the Longmead company, the Alan Wood company, the J. Wood & Bros. company and the Conshohocken Tub company, employing over 1,000 men, have increased the wages of their employes ten per cent., to go into effect at once.

Naval Orders.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Captain Geo. C. Ramsey has been ordered to duty as a member of the naval examining and retiring board. Assistant naval constructor R. Robeson has been detached from duty on the North Atlantic station and ordered to duty at the New York navy yard.

First Frost of the Season.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 2.—This section of the state was visited last night by the first frost of the season. It was quite a heavy one and potatoe and peanut vines were badly bitten.

Coggeshall Indorsed.

Rome, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The democrats in county convention here left the office of senator blank, thus practically indorsing the nomination of Senator Coggeshall.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 2, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Fair, with Southwesterly Winds.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 70 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 2--Meeting of the Crescent Wheelmen
October 2—Special meeting of Hillside Tennis Club.
October 3—Opening reception of the Plainfield Art School at 212 West Front street.
October 3—Meeting of Victor Wheelmen.
October 3--Reception of the Cypress Fife and Drum Corps at T. A. B. Hall.
October 3—Meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein. Evening.
October 3—Bagamuffin party at Central Hall, given by the women of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church.
October 4—Meeting of the Stewards of the First M. E. Church in Vincent Chapel. Evening.
October 4—Business meeting and sociable of the Epworth League of the First M. E. Church.
October 4—Meeting of the Borough Council.
October 4--Borough Democratic primary to elect delegates for the county convention.
October 4—Annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church.
October 6—Rally services in the First M. E. church.
October 6--Meeting of the new Catholic Club.
October 7--Entertainment and dance at Saengerbund Hall.
October 7—Meeting of the City Common Council.
October 7—Meeting of the Board of Education.

Fusion for harmony is not proving a great success in New York.

The New Brunswick Daily Fredonian has been sold, but will be continued as a Republican paper.

When the thermometer is way up the price of coal is way down, and when the thermometer is way down the price of coal is way up. Why is it?

Every good man admires the stand taken by Gov. Culberson of Texas, on the matter of preventing the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight and yet nine-tenths of them are anxious to see the two pugilists come together and see if they are as good fighters as they are talkers.

The appeal for financial aid which the Board of Directors of the Muhlenberg hospital make through the columns of the Daily Press today should meet with a ready response by all Plainfielders who recognize the great benefits that this institution gives to the afflicted.

Passaic County Freeholders have decided it is cheaper to keep prisoners in idleness than to employ them in repairing roads, and the inmates of the county jail will not therefore be required to do any more labor. The work, it is said, can be done for less money by letting it out to contractors.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr, the eminent Republican who has made Plainfield his home, telegraphs to Candidate Griggs that "my coat is off for work to the finish and victory." Mr. Horr evidently means that he is willing to talk. But the Republicans will need something more than talk to win Jersey this fall.

Junior Members to Hold Their Rally.

The fall rally of the Junior department of the Y. M. C. A., will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building Saturday evening at eight o'clock. A. D. French, of Montclair, who has spoken to the boys on two previous occasions and is very popular, will address the meeting. Music and refreshments will follow and an enjoyable evening is promised to all those that attend.

Mr French will also address the boys on Sunday afternoon at quarter after four, when the first of their afternoon meetings will be held.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rolland Tomlinson left yesterday to begin his studies in a physicians' college.

P. Minturn Smith and son, Brunson, are registered at the Revere House on Park avenue.

Alfred Perrin, of West Front street, has entered the College of Dentistry in New York.

John DeMeza has resumed his old position with Asa Collier, the Park avenue jeweler.

Miss May Sebring has returned from Ocean Grove where she has been spending her vacation.

Miss White, daughter of Mrs. Wm. White, of Willow avenue, is visiting friends in Peekskill, N. Y.

Miss Laura Emmons, of Jackson avenue, has returned after a three-weeks visit at New Brunswick.

Miss Madeline Day, daughter of Elias Day, of Mercer avenue, has gone to Morristown to boarding school.

Frank Hart has rented a house at the corner of Central avenue and West Third street, and has taken possession of it.

Mrs. L. L. Martin, of Haynes Corners, N. Y., is visiting at the home of her son, F. H. Martin of Sandford avenue.

Miss Valentine L. Chandor, of East Fifth street, has passed her examinations and entered the Teachers' College in New York.

Harry Thornton, formerly employed in Randolph's pharmacy, was in town on business this morning and visited some of his old friends.

Miss Gertrude Rushmore, daughter of Isaac Rushmore, of Seventh street, left town yesterday to resume her studies at Wellesley College.

Clarence M. Smith, of Brooklyn formerly a member of the famous class of '95 in the High School in this city, has entered the Yale Law School

Clarence Brokaw, of Grove street leaves town today to spend the winter in New York, where he will make preparations for entering Cornell University.

Miss Kyle and the Misses McAneny, of Fanwood, have arranged for a subscription dance to be given at the Fanwood clubhouse Friday night of this week.

Jurors A. J. Winckler, A. Lutkins and Wm. Shotwell, of North Plainfield, returned to Somerville this morning on the opening of the Somerset county court.

Miss Langdon will entertain the Lady Cyclists with a card party at her home on East Ninth street tomorrow night. A number of New Brunswick young people will attend.

Louis Chase and Henry V. Ryder, both of East Front street, will return Friday from Yale College to see the Yale-Cambridge games in New York. They will spend Sunday here.

Will Watters, of Somerset street one of the expert engravers of the Whiting Manufacturing Company, is spending a few days at home on account of a sore thumb. He returns to work in a few days.

Wm. H. Lyon, after a three-months sojourn in South Hingham, Mass., returned yesterday to his home with his daughter, Mrs. A. W. Day, of Madison avenue, who is accompanied by Mrs. Henry W. Cushing, of South Hingham, who will visit Mrs. Day.

Walter Scott Wins.

Walter Scott & Company against Ebenezer A. Smith, on contract, was the first case ready for trial on the Supreme Court list at Elizbeth this morning. Craig A. Marsh appeared for Walter Scott & Company and at the conclusion of the evidence obtained an instruction from Judge VanSyckel that the jury should render a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $2,570.25, which the jury promptly did without leaving their seats. The defendant is a wealthy resident of Montclair, N. J.

Schomp Before the Grand Jury.

Fred Schomp and Miss Lucy A. Westphal were summoned before the Grand Jury at Elizabeth this morning in reference to the death of Samuel Clark which occurred sometime ago at Scotch Plains. Miss Westphal was called to the stand but before many questions were asked she fainted away. It is not believed that Schomp will be indicted.

CYCLING COMMENT.

W. A. McClurg and a friend spent yesterday afternoon on the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Co's new tandem. They agree with every one else that it is a beauty.

Gail Borden Eagle BRAND Condensed Milk HAS NO EQUAL

Additional Loca News on Page 8

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's BAKING POWDER.

Biscuit, cake, pot pies and buns,
Dumplings, puddings, Sally Luns,
Muffins, waffles, griddle cakes,
The very best it always makes.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. I. C. Vannatta has gone to Belvidere for a few days.

Isaac Runyon, of Elizabeth, spent yesterday with relatives in this city.

Miss May Shreve, of Grove street, returned from Philadelphia yesterday.

Walter Scott, of the Press Works, went to Philadelphia today on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Fulper are attending the Inter-State Fair at Trenton today.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Thomas, of Netherwood, are visiting friends in New York this week.

Harry Thornton, of New York, is spending a few days in town after a six weeks business trip.

Miss Mary A. VanFleet, of East Third street, has secured a position with C. Frank French & Co.

Mrs. Edman Sindall, of New York, is stopping at the home of I. C. Vannatta on East Third street.

Mr. Bicknell and family, of Philadelphia, was moved by L. B. Codding ton today to 335 Carleton avenue.

B. F. Crane, the Park avenue butcher, moved today from West Fourth street to 138 Grove street.

Captain Kaempff, of the steamer Augusta Victoria, was the guest yesterday of Charles Hyde of East Front street.

Letter-carrier Wm. B. Sharp resumed his duties at the post office yesterday, after a two weeks annual vacation.

John Van Houghton, of the Newark fire department, was the guest for the past few days of Samuel J. Neal, of Summit avenue.

Mrs. J. F. Garretson and daughter, Mrs. George M. Macintyre, of West Front street, went to Trenton today to attend the Inter-State Fair.

Mrs. E. Grubar returned to her home in New York yesterday after a ten days visit with her sister, Mrs. G. Sutterlin, of Greenbrook road.

W. E. Girard, of Dover, Morris county, was in town yesterday on business. He was the guest of J. Howard Leggett, the druggist.

Mrs. Wm. L. Saunders and children have returned to their home on Mercer avenue after spending the summer at Old Point Comfort, Va.

George Wilson and his daughter, Miss Carrie Wilson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., are visiting Mr. Wilson's sister, Mrs. J. N. Gulick and family, of Park place.

C. C. Burke and family, of Ravine road, Netherwood, will return to their New York residence on East Fifty-fifth street next Monday, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Hermance have returned to their home on Woodland avenue, Netherwood, after spending the summer at New Brighton, Staten Island.

Mrs. Isaac W. Pangborn, Miss Pangborn and Mrs. Charles H. Lyman and family returned home yesterday from Asbury Park where they have been spending the summer.

Daniel Nolan, formerly of this city, but now of Yonkers, make a flying visit to his parents on Manning avenue, yesterday. Mr. Nolan is the business manager of the Yonkers Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hale, late of Fish Creek, Wis., who, with their two children, have been visiting at the home of the Misses Verdon on Somerset street, left yesterday for Jersey City, where they will reside permanently.

Miss Marie Classen, formerly of Willow avenue, who has been seriously ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ladd, of Brooklyn, for sometime under the treatment of Dr. Lincoln, visited Plainfield yesterday and has about recovered from her illness. She will return today for further treatment.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

AN APPEAL.

Contributions for the Support of the Hospital Desired.

To the People of Plainfield and Vicinity:

Muhlenberg Hospital is in serious financial embarrassment. The income of the Hospital, derived from annual subscriptions, from donations, and from the few paying patients, is altogether inadequate to its needs; and at the close of a summer, during which the demands upon the institution have been unprecedentedly heavy, the Hospital is in debt to the amount of $2,100.

The Finance Committee earnestly appeal to you for assistance in this emergency.

Contributions, whether small or large, will be gratefully received by any member of the Finance Committee, by Mr. H. P. Reynolds, corner Park and North avenues, or by Mr. George H. Goddard, Treasurer, No. 205 East Ninth street, Plainfield, to whose order all checks should be drawn.

Regular annual subscribers for any amount from $10 upward are specially desired and blanks for such subscriptions may be obtained from the undersigned, from Mr. Goddard, or from Mr. Reynolds.

The committee hope that their appeal on behalf of sick and suffering humanity may meet with a prompt and generous response.

Francis Wood, 313 Franklin Pl.
Wm. E. Lowe, 1024 Park Ave.
John M. Whiton, 821 Central Ave.
Chas. W. Schipper, 705 W. 7th St.
Chas. P. Bull, 226 E. 9th St.
Finance Committee.

Can't Lose Charlie.

Thomas Cunningham, of Roselle, is mourning the departure of his hired man, "Charlie," and $20. On Saturday "Charlie," after driving Mr. Cunningham to the station, returned home and told Mrs. Cunningham that Mr. Cunningham directed him to get $20 and purchase a cow that he had talked about buying. Mrs. Cunningham gave him the money and he departed. It is believed that he went to New York.

No Need to Suffer.

Why need you suffer longer with headaches and the inconvenience of having, when reading, the print run together when you can have your eyes skillfully examined free and the proper glasses adjusted and guaranteed by Leech, Stiles & Co., the Philadelphia eye specialists, at 107 East Front street, next Thursday. Do not fail to call on them on that day.

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy: that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Catharine K. Vail, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate and reported, for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the twenty-third day of October, next.

Dated August 20, 1895.
8 21 10-oaw WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

New York Announcement.

"Our American Homes and How to Furnish Them."

'Horner's Furniture'

The Best in the Market.

All who desire to buy reliable Furniture in moderate priced or more costly grades will find our stock the most advantageous to select from for these reasons: It represents the productions of the best makers only, and is the largest and most varied in America.

The completeness of our assortments can best be understood from the fact that we exhibit more than two hundred and fifty different Bedroom Sets in every variety of wood, over 70 patterns of Brass Bedsteads, as well as endless lines of Parlor, Drawing Room, Library and Dining Room Furniture of the most artistic styles, and ranging from the modest and inexpensive to the most elaborately carved and inlaid.

In a word, every article required for use, comfort and adornment in the household can be had with its plainly marked moderate price at our

GREAT FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
61, 63, 65 W. 23d St., New York.
(Adjoining Eden Musee.)

Horner & Co.'s establishment is one of the sights of New York.—Newspaper Comment.

A Great Day Tomorrow AT PECK'S.

4 Pair Ladies' Fine Black Hose $1.

WILL YOU COME?

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,
$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT.

In this department we aim to give the patron's individuality to each special order, and will guarantee personal satisfaction, styles correct and prices always lowest (quality and workmanship considered.)

Ladies' trimmed hats at popularity prices. Untrimmed velvet hats at moderate prices on grades of velvet.

Latest novelties in feather effects, wings and ornaments.

Sailors in black, navy, brown and red 39, 49 and 65c.

Misses' hats trimmed in Nacre ribbon and quills $2.98 and $3.98.

Paris and New York styles for fall and winter of 1895-96 displayed in our parlors.

Will Exhibit and Place on Sale Wednesday,

Sept. 25, in our Dress Goods and Silk Department, rich silk creations in beautiful and artistic colorings and designs—fashionable fabrics in black and colored dress goods, comprising the newest plain and fancy weaves, made in the most modern designs, for early fall and winter wear.

Silk Department.

79 Cents — All silk colored fancy Taffetas, comprising the newest chameleon effects, handsome designs, 20 inches wide, especially adapted for waists; worth 93c yard.

83 Cents — 24-inch all-silk black brocaded Taffetas, heavy quality, exquisite designs, high lustre, undoubtedly worth $1 a yard.

98 Cents — Black satin, with colored figures, excellent combinations, latest Parisian colorings; worth $1.25 per yard.

Dress Goods Department.

29 Cents — All-wool Tweed suitings, 39 inches wide, in two-toned colorings, newest designs, very handsome value at 45c yard.

50 Cents — All-wool Satin Tweeds in two color blendings of blue and green, blue and brown, brown and tan; novelty designs; a high grade fabric; worth 69c.

75 Cents — Congo Bouclés, 45 inches wide, in rich colorings and designs of the newest rough weaves; actually worth $1 a yard.

79 Cents — Drap dor Serpentine, a handsome silk and wool mixed novelty, very superior finish in two color blending in green, garnet, brown effects; worth $1.

50 Cents — A beautiful line of all-wool Scotch plaids in a large variety of colors; worth 65c.

Black Dress Goods.

55 Cents — All-wool 50-inch black wide wale diagonal serges, worth 75c a yard.

Visit our Housefurnishing Department and see

WITCH KLOTH.

It is bewitched. It works wonders. It does not scratch.

CLEANS

Gold, brass, nickle, copper plated ware, bicycles, etc., bright, clean and free from corrosion, tarnish, stains or dirt. We will show you how to use it this week. Bring in your silverware and have it cleaned

FREE

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET O. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Built.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A few baskets of choice peaches are left at Neuman Brothers.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, meet tonight. Two adoptions will be made.

—Nineteen scholars attended the opening session of the Plainfield Business College yesterday.

—Benjamin F. Canfield, of East Front street, moved yesterday to 925 Leland avenue, Netherwood.

—Wm. Mullon, the Park avenue sign painter, is completing a large contract for L. G. Laggren of Elizabeth.

—Fred W. Hand and family moved yesterday from Leland avenue to 935 South avenue, in the house formerly occupied by J. P. Ellis.

—Members of the Hillside Tennis Club are requested to attend a special meeting of the club at the club house this Wednesday evening.

—At the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, you can obtain a latest style derby hat in black or brown for $1.25, worth $2.50. 6

—Fine wall papers, the best and celebrated Jersey mixed paints and pure linseed oils at Love's, corner of North and Watchung avenues.

—The Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters will give a library social at the home of Miss Lowrie, 514 Park avenue, on Monday evening at eight o'clock.

—A portion of the rear foundation wall of the new building being erected by Powlison & Jones fell down yesterday through the carelessness of one of the laborers.

—The Randolph mill-pond on Green brook between Grove street and Washidgton avenue, is being filled in with gravel from cellar excavations.

—Charles Maltby, of Plainfield avenue, claims the largest bass ever caught in New Market pond. It is said to weigh 5¾ pounds and is a "whopper."

—The semi-annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Friday evening. The election of officers will take place.

—Several members of Franklin Council, No. 41, of this city, and Somerset Council, No. 104, of North Plainfield, will attend the anniversary exercises of Ivanhoe Council, No. 72, Jr.O. U. A. M., of Somerville, this evening.

—H. P. Reynolds, the druggist, whild riding his wheel on Park avenue this morning ran into a piece of heavy wire, with the result of damaging his wheel considerably. The careless way in which the streets are left, at present, is causing much severe criticism.

—Asa Collier, the jeweler, has recently improved the appearance of his store by the addition of two handsome show cases of the latest design, in which may be arranged three shelves for the display of goods. The glass in the cases is of remarkable thickness, being guaranteed to hold the weight of a man weighing 125 pounds walking across the top of them.

—A Plainfield lady went to New York to look at the new fall and winter hats and bonnets, and came back to Edsall's Commercial Palace and said that his styles were the prettiest, best and cheapest of anything she saw in New York, and consequently bought her new fall bonnet at Edsall's. Edsall says that he has secured two of New York's best and most fashionable milliners, who are turning out the best work that can be done. That accounts for it.

Birthday Anniversary.

An enjoyable surprise was given to Henry Giles, of 518 West Front street, Monday evening, the occasion being the anniversary of his forty-second birthday. There were about thirty present and the evening was passed in dancing and playing games, after which refreshments were served. Mr. Giles received many handsome presents from his friends.

Autumn Delights.

With the appearance of winter comes the apple and Neuman Brothers will be prepared this fall to give their customers the best on the market. Already they are coming in and a lot of choice baskets of eating and cooking apples now on hand are going fast but there is more to follow.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

☞ Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

LEAL'S FOOTBALL TEAM.

Strong Young Fellows Will Kick the Pigskin.

Although Plainfield is to have a representative team from the Y. M. C. A., a football team will also be organized from the pupils of Leal's School. For the last week the players have been hard at work practicing their positions. There is plenty of material in the school, although several of the best players have not tried for the team on account of illness, but Captain McGee has succeeded in selecting a very good team. The first game of the season is to be played at Orange on Saturday afternoon, and a strong team will be sent. The eleven will not line up the same as they will later in the season. Gilbert Lovell will play fullback during Saturday's game, but the place will be filled later in the season by Joseph Wadsworth. The team has been selected with exception of left end, the choice for which position will depend on the physical condition of one of the players who is trying for the place.

The team will line up on Saturday as follows: Left end, undecided; left tackle, Herbert Stevenson; left guard, Frank Boone; centre, Captain Raymond A. McGee; right guard, William McClure; right tackle, Charles Rice; right end, George F. Rose; quarterback, W. Kirby Dwight; left halfback, Herbert Moore; right halfback, William Tracy; fullback, Gilbert Lovell.

Although light, the team puts up a strong, snappy game. The backs understand the interference and Rose manages to do his share of it at end. McGee, at centre, is a tower of strength and, with Boone and McClure on either hand, will make a hard trio to break.

The next game, after the one at Orange, will be on Saturday, October 12th, at Westfield against an eleven from that place, but not the team from the Central New Jersey Football League, however. A challenge has been received and accepted from Pingry's School at Elizabeth for a game on October 30th.

Grand Autumn Excursion to West Point.

October's cool crisp days are with us now, you cannot argue that you are deterred from enjoying a one day outing on account of the heat. The Central Railroad of New Jersey has had in mind for some time the idea of running an excursion up the beautiful Hudson river and has waited until the hot weather subsided before doing so. Saturday, October 5th, has been selected as the time, and the opportunity to go along is offered every person residing in towns along the line from Allentown to Jersey City at a price so low as to easily be within the reach of all. Special train leaves Plainfield at 8:00 a. m. connecting with steamer St. Johns of the famous Sandy Hook Route, that will take excursionists up the American Rhine as far as West Point, between New York and which place is embodied most of the grand scene that has made the old Hudson famous the world over. Some of the interesting points en route are the Palisades, (the destruction of which at the hands of vandals has been stopped by special legislation in New Jersey) the beautiful cities of Yonkers, Tarrytown, Irvington with "Lyndhurst," the palatial summer home of the late Jay Gould in plain view, Dobbs Ferry, Sing Sing, with its sombre prison, Haverstraw, Stoney Point, Iona Island and the varying beauties of the broad, winding river itself with its forest-clad shores, now in a blaze of glory wrapped in the fantastic craxy quilt of autumn. Aboard the St. Johns a hotel restaurant will be maintained and both food and refreshments sold at prices within reach of all.

All Old Licenses Granted.

The Grand Jurors from this city at the term of court now in session in Elizabeth are Nathan W. Sterling, William Addis, Eugene M. Laing and John M. Crane. The jurors selected as one of their attending constables, Amos Moffett, of this city

There was a session of the Court of Common Pleas at noon yesterday and the license applications from the townships were examined. All the old places were granted renewals, excepting in cases where there were remonstrances, and Saturday was appointed to hear the testimony. New applications will also be considered by the Court on Saturday.

—H. C. Sargeant, of Westfield, has been granted a patent on an air heating apparatus.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

THEATRICAL.

Nicholas Long, under whose direction the original production of "A Happy Little home" was made, is a player of more than ordinary intelligence; his particular line is French character work, as all those who remember Mestayer's Tourists in a Pullman Car can testify. Last season Mr. Long and his talented little wife, Idalene Cotton, were members of David Henderson's Burlesque Extravaganza Company. Mr. Long, besides directing the stage for Mr. Monroe's new comedy, "A Happy Little Home," will also play an important part. At Music Hall, Thursday night.

In his production of "The Mountebank," which is announced for Saturday evening at Music Hall, Frederick Warde requires the services of his entire company which numbers twenty-seven people and a large auxiliary force in addition. It is the avowed object of this eminent actor in all his productions to provide an entertainment that shall not only amuse but instruct his audiences, and to that end his stage settings and mountings, which he carries with him on his tours, are especially prepared to accord exactly with the scenes and surroundings of the period in which the action of his plays takes place. The scenery of "The Mountebank" represents some historic places in France as they existed in the early part of the present century, and in itself will form an attractive display.

Dunellen.

Mrs. Skinner, of Newark, was in town Saturday.

A. D. Pope, of Plainfield, called on his friends in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vail are entertaining relatives from Easton.

Miss Young, who has been visiting Miss Shepherd, has returned to New York.

Miss Newton, of Newark, was the guest yesterday of relatives on Front street.

Walter Apgar will move today into the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Baldwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vail, of Finderne, spent Monday with relatives on North avenue.

Mrs. A. Randolph, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Sprowl, of Jersey City, has returned home.

Miss Mary Bolton, who has been visiting her brother, John Bolton, of Somerville, has returned home.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church will hold their business meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Farrier has finished laying the flag sidewalk around Dealaman's store and is now laying the sidewalk around Taylor's Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. McElvar, who have been occuping the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Baldwin, have gone turned to their city home.

The Calliathumpian Band, of this place, gave Harry Swackhamer and his bride a ringing sernade Monday evening, to which the bride and groom responded in a very pleasing manner.

—Mrs. Clarence Seward, of Crainford, was taken to the asylum at Morris Plains Monday. Mrs. Seward has been suffering from brain trouble for over two years, and her condition had become so serious that it was necessary to confine her.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

See Our Name,

Take Our Number

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle

141 and 145 North ave.

'ONLY SKIN DEEP', yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will only do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only. Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Notice is hereby given that whereas, my wife, Delia R. Voehl, has left my bed and board, I will not pay or be responsible for any debts which she may contract.

Dated Sept. 28, 1895.

GEORGE VOEHL,
129 West Front st., Plainfield, N. J.

9 28 12

WANTS AND OFFERS.

LOST—Tuesday, Oct. 1, gold eye glasses. Suitable reward will be paid for their return to the Seminary on 7th st.

LOST—Small open-face silver watch with initials E. B. W. on back. Finder kindly return to B., care Press. 10 1 3

TIN and sheetiron shop to let; all machinery. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 2

TALENTED European dressmaker lately landed, would like position in dressmaking establishment, or seamstress in private family; wages a secondary consideration. 340 East 2d street, city.

WANTED.—Cook, washer and ironer. 97 Mercer ave.

GIRL wanted for general housework. 215 Church st.

WANTED—A young girl living at home to do light housework. Call 64 Sandford avenue.

WANTED—Woman to cook, wash and iron. Call at 40 Prospect place.

WANTED.—Competent chambermaid and waitress; must have reference. Call before 12 o'clock a. m., Thursday, 95 Mercer ave.

HELP wanted, female; bright and intelligent ladies wanted to canvass in Plainfield; genteel business; no samples; good pay to honest workers. Call any morning between 9 and 11, or address M. T. Lindenberg, rooms 58 and 59 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

WANTED—Competent woman to clean house. Address T. C. R., care Press. 10 2 2

WANTED—Two furnished rooms for light housekeeping; between Park and Plainfield aves. X., care Press.

LOST—$5 between Grandview avenue and depot. Liberal reward paid for its return to this office. 10 2 2

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

GOOD dressmaker wants more fall engagements by the day. A., care Press. 10 1 2

AGENTS make $5 daily; marvelous invention; retails 25c; 2 to 6 sold in a house; sample mailed free. Forshee & McMakin, Cincinnati, O. 1 2 y-w

FOR SALE—Piano at great sacrifice. $75; excellent tone and condition; owner leaving town. 24 Sandford avenue. 10 1 tf

WANTED—3 or 4 good boys to deliver circulars at stores and residences. Address by letter only, giving name, age and residence, E. C. Howard, 237 East 9th st. 10 1 3

FOR SALE—Milk route; first-class trade. Milk, care Press. 10 1 2

WANTED—Phaeton in A 1 order; state price and condition for cash Address Phaeton, care Press. 10 1 2

FOR SALE—Cheap, or will exchange for heavier horse, a well-bred mare, fine saddler for lady or gentleman to ride or drive. Call 214 Richmond st. 9 30 tf

FOR SALE—Bargain, 26 school desks with combination seats of the best make. Call in the morning at 1045 Arlington ave. 9 30 6

LOST—Hunting case gold watch; Waltham works; lost between Scotch Plains and Neuman Brother's store; probably lost on 5th st., near Richmond. Liberal reward at Neuman Bro's store. 9 28 4

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

FENCE wanted; 300 to 400 feet if very cheap; state price expected. Bargain, care Press. 9 28 3-eod

TWO connecting rooms with board. Also table board. 231 East 6th st. 9 26 6

ROOM to let, with or without board to a lady. Address 322 East 5th street. 9 26 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 9 20 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up. per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

STORAGE, separate rooms, to let in Stillman block. 9 19 tf

FLATS and offices to let in Babcock block; steam heat; elevator service, etc. Wm. M. Stillman. 9 19 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 9 7 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 8 20 tf

Twenty Years Ago

Store keeping was different. Then we used to sit around and wait for the trade to come, and everyone was happy and made money. Quite different now, and a sure sign that people appreciate good store keeping when we look back and see how this store has grown from mere nothing to Plaidfield's leading store, and we are going to stay where the people have put us—at the Head of the Heap.

37c is all you are asked to pay for white and natural wool underwear for ladies and gentlemen; they were 50 and 75c.

Blankets. We always had the name of selling the best blankets for the least money, and this year the name is still ours. See that 10x4 wool blanket that we ask $2.75 for.

Comfortables. Not the poor kind that are filled with shoddy. We don't sell that kind. Ours are filled with good white cotton and sold at the same prices that most stores ask for the poor ones. $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00.

39c for ladies' night robes, well made and nicely trimmed.
18c for 36-inch dress goods; all the new fall colorings.
25c for all-wool eider down flannel; all shades.
$2.75 for a 10x4 fine wool blanket.
5c each, large cotton towels, size 18x36.
10c, all-linen huck towels, size 20x40.
45c, 70-inch cream damask table linen; the 60c kind.
12c, ladies' fast black seamless hose.
10c, children's fast black seamless ribbed hose.
55c, 10x4 cotton blankets, white, tan and grey.
30c, men's medium weight shirts and drawers; the 50c kind.
27c for ladies fine ribbed vests; same as you usually pay 50c for.
20c for two-quart granite stew kettles.
13c for fine china cups and saucers; pink decorations.
27c for four-quart granite stew kettles.
55c for No. 7 granite tea kettles.
5c each for Mason's quart jars.
13c each for china tea pot stands.
10c for fine china cream pitchers.
10c for Japanese tea pots.
$6.98 for a 100 piece English porcelain decorated dinner set.
$1.89 for a fine decorated ten piece toilet set; worth $2.50.
75c. See those new chamois gloves in cream, tan and black. The best gloves made for wear.
12c per yard for 50 different styles of fine oriental laces.
12c each for gingham aprons. All well made.
12c each for silk Windsor ties.
13c for men's fast black half hose; same as you usually pay 25c for.
15c for the new satin crepons; beautiful effects.
49c for 54-ich Gilbert suitings; the best cloth in the market for wear.
45c for a 54-inch all-wool imperial serge; all shades. The best value we have ever offered.

You take no chances on anything you buy, as we are always willing to refund money on any article you buy that is not satisfactory.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Ladies fast black hose, seamless and narrow ankle.....10c
Ladies fast tan hose, drop stitch.....25c
Childrens fast black hose, double knee, seamless.....18c
Gents fast tan half hose, seamless, spliced heels and toes.....15c
Gents seamless half hose, extra 10c.....3 pair for 25c
Gents colored border handkerchiefs.....5c
Gents colored border hemstitched handkerchiefs.....3 for 25c
17x34 huck towels.....only 12c
22x44 huck towels.....only 18c
The above goods are of extra value for the prices.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices

U. B. CRANE Hatter and Furnisher
120 West Front Street.

Van Emburgh's & Son's.

Hustling all the while, always busy as bees.

The Newest Fall Goods

displayed only in Plainfield's Brightest Dry Goods Store. Plenty of day light. No danger of being deceived.

Ladies Lace Edge Handkerchiefs,.....5c. each
Gingham Aprons, Fancy Borders,.....12c. each
Ladies Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs,.....10c. each
Ladies Cashmere Gloves, Extra Fine,.....25c. pair
Fine Quality, Wide Oriental Lace,.....5c. yard
New Fall Outing Flannel,.....5c. yard
Red Damask Table Linen, Full Width,.....25c. yard
Ladies Muslin Night Dresses,.....49c. each
Half Bleached Table Linen, Extra Wide,.....25c. yard
Fine Quality Writing Paper,.....10c. box
Ladies White Skirts, Lace Trimmed,.....49c. each
Shelf Oil-Cloth, all new colors,.....5c. yard
All Linen Russia Crash,.....12½c. yard

Ammonia,	5c. Bottle	Sink Brushes,	5c. each
Tooth Picks,	3c. Box	Dish Mops,	5c. each
Lamp Chimneys,	5c. each	Egg Whips,	5c. each
Chopping Bowls,	10c. each	Nutmeg Graters,	5c. each
Floor Brooms,	10c. each	Fancy Cuspadores,	19c. each

VanEmburgh & Son.

New! New!

YES

But Stop, Consider

what a combination of valuable medicines,

Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,

BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.

Try a bottle and be convinced.

50C.

Leggett's Pharmacy.

Educational.

PLAINFIELD
BUSINESS COLLEGE

Babcock Building. Largest room; elevator. A great need to be supplied. Four regular courses—Commercial, Shorthand, Penmanship, English Branches. Everything first-class; 5 days and 4 nights a week. Public opening evening of Sept. 30; school begins Oct. 1. Address Rev. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N.J. 9 11 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY
will re-open
SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.
(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.
D. W. HYDE,
TEACHER OF
PIANO AND HARMONY,
will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson
will re-open classes in
Physical Culture & Rendering
OCTOBER 1. 1895.
Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

MISS ALICE O. SMITH,
Teacher of piano, organ and harmony, will resume study Saturday, Sept. 14th, in W.C.T.U. Rooms, cor. Watchung ave. and 4th st. Particular attention given to formations of the hand. Pupils taken from rudimentary to the highest grades. For further particulars, terms, etc., call or address (Saturdays) at W. C. T. U. Room. 9 4 m

Miss Fawcett's School
And Kindergarten,
25 WASHINGTON AVENUE.
North Plainfield, N. J.
Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Kindergarten Only.
FROBEL SYSTEM,
525 Madison Avenue.
Will Open September 25.
Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address
MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.
9 4 tf

Rockview Home and Day School
REOPENS SEPT. 18.
Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,
PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,
Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.
will resume her private lessons and classes in French German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.
SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.
Address 426 East 2d st. eod

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls
Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.
Plainfield French Kindergarten
Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals
303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.
Will Reopen Sept. 18.
MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

The Dancing Class
AT THE SEMINARY
will re-open on
Wednesday, October 16,
under the management of
ROBERT RUTLEDGE.
master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

SWIFT RETRIBUTION.

HUGO'S ACCOUNT OF AN INCIDENT OF THE RIOTS OF 1830.

How a Cowardly and Unprovoked Murder by a Disguised Police Agent Was Summarily Avenged by Enjolras, a Young Student, Leader of the Mob.

In that wonderful book, "Les Miserables," Victor Hugo devotes considerable space to descriptions of the riots of 1830, which were of such importance that they are often termed a revolution. He was an eyewitness of the events and says of them:

The facts we are going to record belong to that dramatic and living reality which the historian sometimes neglects through want of time and space, but they contain, we insist upon it, life palpitation and human quivering. Small details apparently unimportant are, so to speak, the foliage of great events and are lost in the distance of history.

Bands of rioters, it is well known, resemble a snow ball, and as they roll along agglomerate many tumultuous men who do not ask each other whence they came. Among the passersby who joined the band led by Enjolras, Combeferre and Courfeyrac there was a man wearing a painter's jacket, much worn at the shoulders, who gesticulated and had vociferated and had the appearance of a drunken savage. This man, whose name or nickname was Le Carbuc and entirely unknown to those who pretended to know him, was seated in a state of real or feigned intoxication with four others round a table which they had dragged out of the wineshop. This Carbuc, while making the others drunk, seemed to be gazing thoughtfully at the large house behind the barricade, whose five stories commanded the whole street and faced the Rue St. Denis. All at once he exclaimed:

"Do you know what, comrades, we must fire from that house. When we are at the windows, hang me if any one can come up the street."

"Yes, but the house is closed," said one of the drinkers.

"We'll knock."

"They won't open."

"Then we'll break in the door."

Le Carbuc ran up to the door, which had a very massive knocker, and rapped. As the door was not opened he rapped again, and no one answering he gave a third rap, but the silence continued.

"Is there any one in here?" Le Carbuc shouted. But nothing stirred, and so he seized a musket and began hammering the door with the butt end. It was an old, low, narrow, solid door made of oak, lined with sheet iron inside and a heavy bar, and a thorough postern gate. The blows made the whole house tremble, but did not shake the door. The inhabitants, however, were probably alarmed, for a little square trap window was at length lit up and opened on the third story, and a candle and the gray haired head of a terrified old man who was the porter appeared in the orifice. The man who was knocking left off.

"What do you want, gentlemen?" the porter asked.

"Open the door," said Le Carbuc.

"I cannot, gentlemen."

"Open, I tell you."

"It is impossible, gentlemen."

Le Carbuc raised his musket and took aim at the porter, but as he was below and it was very dark the porter did not notice the fact.

"Will you open—yes or no?"

"No, gentlemen."

"You really mean it?"

"I say no, my kind"—

The porter did not finish the sentence, for the musket was fired. The bullet entered under his chin and came out of his neck after passing through the jugular vein. The old man fell in a heap without heaving a sigh; the candle went out, and nothing was visible save a motionless head lying on the sill of the window and a small wreath of smoke ascending to the roof.

"There," said Carbuc as he let the butt end of the musket fall on the pavement.

He had scarce uttered the word ere he felt a hand laid on his shoulder with the tenacity of an eagle's talon, and he heard a voice saying to him:

"On your knees."

The murderer turned and saw before him Enjolras' white, cold face. Enjolras held a pistol in his hand and had hurried up on hearing the shot fired and clutched with his left hand Le Carbuc's blouse, shirt and suspenders.

"On your knees," he repeated.

And with a sovereign movement the frail young man of 20 bent like a reed the muscular and robust porter and forced him to kneel in the mud. Le Carbuc tried to resist, but he seemed to have been seized by a superhuman hand. Enjolras, pale, bare necked, with his disheveled hair and feminine face, had at this moment I know not what of the ancient Themis. His dilated nostrils, his downcast eyes, gave to his implacable Greek profile that expression of wrath and that expression of chastity which, in the opinion of the old world, are becoming to justice. All the insurgents had hurried up and then ranged themselves in a circle at a distance, feeling that it was impossible for them to utter a word in the presence of what they were going to see. Le Carbuc, conquered, no longer attempted to struggle and trembled all over. Enjolras loosed his grasp and took out his watch.

"Pray or think," he said. "You have one minute to do so."

"Mercy!" the murderer stammered, then hung his head and muttered a few inarticulate execrations.

Enjolras did not take his eyes off the watch. He let the minute pass and then put the watch again in his fob. This done, he seized Le Carbuc by the hair, who clung to his knees, with a yell, and placed the muzzle of the pistol to his ear. Many of those intrepid men who had so tranquilly entered upon the most frightful of adventures turned away their heads. The explosion was heard; the assassin fell on his head on the pavement, and Enjolras drew himself up and look around him with a stern air of conviction. Then he kicked the corpse and said:

"Throw this outside."

Enjolras, silent and collected, his virgin lips closed, stood for some time at the spot where he had shed blood in the motionlessness of a marble statue. His fixed eyes caused people to talk in whispers around him. Jean Prouvaire and Combeferre shook their heads silently, and leaning against each other in an angle of the barricade gazed with admiration, in which there was compassion, at this grave young man, who was an executioner and priest and had at the same time the light and hardness of crystal. Let us say at once that after the action, when the corpses were conveyed to the morgue and searched, a police agent's card was found on Le Carbuc. The writer had in his hands in 1848 the special report on this subject made to the prefect of police in 1832.

FREEDOM.

When I would think of what is free,
O timeless one, I think of thee!
Thou hast forgotten how we went together
Across the heather,
Where I am left behind,
And I rejoice thy motions are
Swift, indifferent and far.
The birthsprings of the wind
Are for thy roving, and for me
The joy of bringing all these things to mind
We thought together,
Treading the little pathways of the heather.
—Michael Field.

MICROSCOPIC WRITING.

The Wonders That May Be Accomplished In a Square Inch of Space.

Among the collection of microscopic objects in the United States Army Medical museum at Washington is a specimen of microscopic writing on glass which contains the Lord's Prayer, written in characters so small that the entire 227 letters of that petition are engraved within an area measuring 1-294 by 1-441 of an inch. So far this statement does not trouble us. If, however, we go a little further, we easily find that the area having the above dimensions would be only the 1 129,654 of a square inch, and consequently that an inch square covered with writing of the same size, or counting 227 letters to each such fraction, would contain 29,431,458 letters.

Let us put this figure into a concrete form by seeing how much of a book this number of letters would represent. The Bible is a book of which we may safely assume that every one has an approximate idea as regards its general size or extent. Some one has actually determined the number of letters contained in the entire Old and New Testaments and finds this to be 3,566,480. Hence the number of letters which a square inch of glass would accommodate, written out like the text of the Lord's Prayer on this strip of glass, is more than eight times this last number, or, in other words, a square inch of glass would accommodate the entire text of the Bible eight times over written out as is the Lord's Prayer on this strip of glass. I am free to confess that, though this fact has been known to me since 1873, and I have had in my possession photographs taken with the microscope of this writing, I cannot say that I fully apprehend or mentally grasp the fact just stated. I can form no mental picture of a square inch of glass with the entire text of eight Bibles engraved upon it, and yet when I have verified the measurements and calculations leading up to this conclusion I feel absolutely certain as to its truth, not as the result of intuition, but as a deduction from experience which has not yet developed into an intuitive consciousness.—Dr. Henry Morton in Cassier's Magazine.

A Typical Boer.

The man, Klaas Stuurmann, is a Boer of loose, ungainly frame. He stands 6 feet 1, is about 52 years of age, has a broad, deeply tanned face, in which are planted two watery blue eyes, a shock of hay colored hair and a long beard of the same uninteresting hue. He wears veldt broeks (field trousers) of soft, home tanned skin. He is about the last Dutchman in Cape Colony to use these old world garments, but his father and grandfather wore such clothes, and they are good enough for him.

He has no socks or stockings, and a pair of rude, homemade hide veldschoens cover his feet. He has a flannel shirt to his back, and over that a short jacket of much worn corduroy. Upon his head is the usual tall crowned, broad brimmed felt hat, which carries a hideous band of broad, rusty crape in memory of his deceased wife. The man's face is dirty, to be sure, but besides the dirt there is a dull, vacant, unthinking look, rather painful to see. It is the look of one bred through dull, listless generations of men, self banished from their own kind, whose only interests have been in sheep and goats and trek oxen, their only excitement an occasional hunt or a scrimmage with bushmen in time gone by.

Such a listless and vacant look you may see even now in some of the more remote dals of Norway, among the poorer of the peasant farmer folk. It is the look of men who gaze always without a spark of interest upon the silent face of nature around them, and who for generations have seldom exchanged an idea with their fellows. —Blackwood's Magazine.

A Greek Judge's Sentence.

A curious judgment was pronounced the other day by a judge in a court of law at Volisso, in the island of Scio. An action for damages was brought by two persons against the local railway company for losses sustained by a collision. It appeared that a man had lost an arm and a young woman had lost her husband. The judge—a Greek—assessed the damage thus: He gave 6,000 piastres to the man for the loss of his arm and 2,000 to the woman for the loss of her husband. At this there were loud murmurs, whereupon the judge gave his reasons in these terms: "My dear people, my verdict must remain for you will see it is a just one. Poor Nikola has lost his arm, and nothing on earth can restore that priceless limb. But you (turning to the woman)—you are still young and pretty. You have now some money; you will easily find another husband, who possibly may be as good—perhaps better—than your dead lord. That is my verdict, my people. And so it must go forth." So saying, the judge left the hall. The people cheered him and congratulated themselves on having such a judge.—London News.

Shows Her Home Training.

A Bostonian of mark has lately distinguished himself greatly, and letters and telegrams of congratulation have been pouring in upon him from various parts of the world. These have been the subject of conversation at the breakfast table, and the Bostonian's little daughter has heard of them. The other day she said to her mother, with a pathetic air of concern, "Mamma, do you suppose all those people would think so much of papa if they knew that he sometimes puts his elbows on the table?"—Boston Transcript.

Sweet and Lovely.

The woman who would fain be considered sweet and lovely will find the easiest way to attain that result is to think other people sweet and lovely. The mind which seems incapable of suspecting others of guile is always considered particularly innocent itself.

Professor Orton says that the condor soars higher than any other species of the feathered tribe. He further says that it spends nine tenths of its life at a height of over three miles above sea level.

The Royal academy is entirely self supporting. It devotes the surplus of a respectable income—$125,000 to $130,000 a year, it is said—to the relief of artists who are in distress.

Philip the Great of Macedon had a large mole on his neck.

Buy Your Clothing AT WHOLESALE PRICES

We are the largest wholesale manufacturers of exclusively good clothing in the world.

Orders for our wholesale customers being all filled, we have placed the balance of stock into our retail stores and will sell it at

Strictly Wholesale Prices

This represents nearly a half a million dollars' worth of fine Fall and Winter Clothing:

Look at the Prices!

Finest Quality All Wool Suits and Overcoats.	8.00	10.00
	12.00	15.00
Nicest and Best Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters.	3.50	5.00
	7.50	10.00
5,000 Trousers, Select Patterns, Best Goods.	3.50	4.00
	5.00	6.00

TWO BROADWAY STORES:
194 Broadway, below Fulton St.,
AND
Stewart Bldg., cor. B'way & Chambers St.
NEW YORK.

BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & CO.

SPECIAL SALE OF FINE STATIONERY AND School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S
411 Park Avenue.

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents
Showers included. at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

A. Lusardi,
120 North Ave.,
will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectionery, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Brazil nuts. corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.
Our motto—Good work, good materials at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,
(Established half a century contractors to the United States Government.
Marvin Patent Safes
(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a post-card
S. W CLARK,
General Agent, 118 West Front st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.
Marsh, Ayers & Co.

WHY SUFFER FROM LACK OF LIGHT
Get Vexed Every Day with Poor Lamps?
Save This Card, It Is Valuable.
BUY "THE MILLER" LAMPS
which give plenty of light (made in four sizes,) are as easy to light as gas, easy to wick, wick does not have to be "trimmed," chimneys are not "smoked" or broken by the flame, perfectly simple and safe.
The NEW IDEAS (our patents) used exclusively in "The Miller" make it the best and so the cheapest lamp made. If by accident any part is broken it can be replaced, so there is practically no wear out to a "Miller" Lamp.
We make more than a thousand varieties—all styles—in BEAUTIFUL and staple designs suited to light House, Club, Store, Factory, Church, &c., &c. If your dealer will not supply genuine "Miller" Lamps come to our store.
FOR GIFTS nothing more beautiful or useful than a "Miller" Lamp, or an elegant Onyx and Brass Table.
Established as MANUFACTURERS in 1844.
EDWARD MILLER & CO., 28 & 30 WEST BROADWAY, (66 Park Pl.) bet. Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.
Convenient to all "down-town" Ferries, and Elevated Stations at Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.
For Cool Weather buy a "MILLER" OIL HEATER.
FOR SALE BY W. L. GAVETT & CO.

Waverley Fair.
As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to
Amos H. VanHorn
LIMITED,
73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry.
Curly birch chamber suit.
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit.
Antique oak hat rack.

All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 50c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $8.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.

Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best buildings, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,
73 MARKET STREET,
Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters
will be found at
Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.
All sizes in Packing Trunks.
E. M. Laing,
105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street
Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2.[illegible], 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 1[illegible] 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 50 a m; 12 0[illegible] 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 1[illegible], 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, [illegible] 21, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 [illegible] 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, [illegible] 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 1[illegible] 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 10, 4 3[illegible] 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, [illegible] 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, [illegible] 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, p m; [illegible] 15, 1 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 [illegible] a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 [illegible] p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 [illegible] a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 2[illegible] 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 [illegible] 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 [illegible] 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at [illegible] 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, [illegible] 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 1[illegible] 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 2 35; 4 [illegible] 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 [illegible] 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 [illegible] 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 [illegible] 11 23, p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, [illegible] m; 2 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 5 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 4 50, 6 35, 8 0[illegible] 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; [illegible] 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] 5, 8 16, 9 54 a. m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 2[illegible] m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 0[illegible] 00, 8 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 49, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD SECTIONS

5 45 a. m. For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p m, way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D L & W R R

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p. m, way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 14 p m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at [illegible] 27, 8 00, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, [illegible] 15, 10 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 5 [illegible] 38, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 [illegible] p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 [illegible] a. m.; 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 [illegible] 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 24*, 6 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 [illegible], 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 5 24*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, [illegible] p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, 5 14*, 6 35*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m, 5 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21, p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

For Sale or to Let.
The frame dwelling and barn 1040 Arlington avenue, below Arlington place; lot 60x132, running through and fronting on Rose st; house has all modern conveniences and in good order; barn is in good condition; will be sold or rented low and on easy terms. Particulars by P. J. and W. H. Ryan, Elizabeth, N. J. 9 19 2w

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.
S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y.
917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

GEO J. TOBIN,

187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply: testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,

Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale

AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,

High-Class

PORTRAITS

In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.

483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 222 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building. C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street. D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,

COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Supreme Court Commissioner.

First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's

LAW OFFICES,

Corner Park ave and 2d st.

Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Even though you have

A Comfortable Bed,

You should

Lay in Your Coal

for the Winter.

George O. Stevens

747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,

Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.

128 NORTH AVENUE,

Fresh roasted peanuts every day. 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in

COAL AND WOOD.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue.
Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.

MRS. L. ADAMS,

114 EAST FRONT STREET,

Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,

Fresh, and from

Pure Materials.

TIER'S,

116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills

cure all Kidney Troubles, caused by overwork, worry, excesses, etc., and all Blood Troubles (Rheumatism, Gout, Anaemia, Skin Diseases, etc.), caused by sick Kidneys.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.
Sold by all druggists, or by mail prepaid for 50c. a box.

Write for pamphlet.

HOBB'S MEDICINE CO.,
Chicago. San Francisco.

LOOK IN THE CLOSET

SEE if you can't find some old clothes that you have put aside because of the worn-out look they have, or some clothes that are badly spotted.

We want you to bring any old clothes of that sort to us—or better yet—we'll send for them.

We propose to clean those clothes—or to dye them for you—either way to make them wearable. This is an economical suggestion.

We take out grease spots so they stay out, or we dye clothes with a color that wears. We charge as little as possible for the work.

Just a dollar or two—and you'll have a lot of new clothes.

HILLIER & CO.,

179 North Ave.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.

—BRANCH—

OLYMPIA HALL,

416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. E. LeRoy Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., No. 8 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J. beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes every Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 10 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms—For term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons mornings, any hour, by appointment. 25 m

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W. RANDOLPH'S

Prescription Druggist.
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895, by Irving Bacheller.)

"But how could he possibly have got the information?"

"How, indeed? We have taken every possible precaution. We hold our sittings, as you know, at the foreign office, in an immense saloon upstairs. The walls and ceiling are prodigiously thick. We sit at a table in the middle of the room, and never raise our voices; there is no occasion for us to do so. Perhaps you suggest the chimney—something was once done in that way, or supposed to be done, for I never quite believed the story. But with us it is impossible, for we keep up a roaring fire. Neither is it through the blotting paper that our secret has been betrayed, for we do not use any; we powder our writing in the good old-fashioned style. In fine, it is absolutely impossible for any outsider to get sight or hearing of our proceedings. And what makes the incident all the more painful is, that, in the discussion of this particular clause, we decided for the sake of greater security to dispense with the attendance of a secretary."

Of course I saw the significance of this. It seemed to point to treachery on the part of one of the diplomatists. I hinted as much to the prince, but he was staunch in defence of his order.

"No doubt," he said, "it looks like it. No other explanation seems possible, and yet that explanation is impossible. Diplomatists, as you and I know, are not considered a specially scrupulous class of people. But there is honor amongst thieves, and diplomacy itself would become impossible if there were not a certain background of confidence amongst diplomatists. Here, as in so many other cases, a rigid, professional etiquette serves as a succedaneum for conscience. When we act individually, no doubt we are liable to do all sorts of queer things. But when we agree to act collectively, and mutually pledge our honor to keep our proceedings secret, we know we can trust each other."

I was aware from my own experience that there was a great deal of truth in what the prince said; still, my curiosity prompted me to ask him, who had acted as secretary when the real secretary was absent.

"Oh, there need be no secret about that," said the prince; "it is Shrievaljieff. How pleased he will be if Le Grand upsets the treaty! My chief difficulty has been with him."

I knew Count Shrievaljieff well, but did not care much for him. He was a tall, fine man, between fifty and sixty, exceptionally ugly, but with wonderfully supple, and, if I may so speak, adaptable manners. And to match these he had an extraordinary command of the facial muscles. When in perfect repose, the clean-shaven skin looked very like a sheet of tight-drawn parchment, except that the color was much browner than that of parchment. But, when he wished, he could wrinkle up the entire surface of his face into a series of concentric curves which seemed to represent the ne plus ultra of human suavity and benevolence. But they came so suddenly and disappeared so completely that it was impossible not to harbor a suspicion that they were wholly superficial, and that this many-wrinkled smile stood in no vital relation to the man's inner nature. In fact it reminded me very much of the grimaces of an india-rubber doll when you squeeze its plastic countenance.

COUNT SCHRIEVALJIEFF.

It was said that the count had developed this talent for facial contortion to such an extent that he could, when he chose, make one side of his face assume a different expression from that of the other, so as to be able to present a sympathetic aspect to two different interlocutors at the same time. This was, of course, not literally true, but I always fancied that he turned a natural defect to such good account that there was an element of truth in the statement. For whilst his right eye was in all respects normal, the lid of the left eye drooped permanently over the eye-ball. This eye was, moreover, always suffused with an excess of moisture, which gave it a somewhat lachrymose appearance. This, no doubt, he sometimes turned to good account, when paying a visit of condolence. The explanation probably was that the left eye was an artificial one, as the irritation caused by such artificial eyes is apt to over-stimulate the lachrymal glands. At any rate, it was generally believed in diplomatic circles that the count was blind of the left eye, though he himself never acknowledged the defect.

Whilst I was conjuring up in my mind this image of Count Shrievaljieff, the prince had been prodigal of lamentations over the stolen treaty.

"It touches me more than any one," he said, "for it is precisely this thirteenth clause in which my gracious master is most interested. And I had just succeeded in arranging matters as I know he wishes them to be arranged. It has given me a world of trouble, and now Le Grand is going to upset it all. It is monstrous that the press should have such power."

"Is there anything I can do?" I asked. "If so, pray command me."

"Well, I thought that, as you know Le Grand, you would not mind trying to sound him, so as to find out, if possible, how much he really has discovered. He is such a braggart that he might commit himself."

"I will see what I can do," I said, "but I do not expect that I shall get much out of him."

"Thank you so very much," said the prince; "you are always doing something for me."

III.

Le Grand was staying at an hotel near the chief post office, so I bent my steps in that direction. I did not wish to call on him if I could avoid it; it would be far better that any conversation we might have should spring up casually. I was therefore not a little pleased when, as I was drawing near the post office, I saw my man a little distance in front of me. It was impossible to mistake his huge figure, and curious shambling gait.

By an instinct he seemed to know that some one was watching him from the rear, for he suddenly turned round and, catching sight of me, turned back to meet me.

"Ah," he said, in his grand manner, "going to the post office, I suppose. It is the real centre of civilization."

I thought it would be well to accompany him, so I said something about buying stamps.

We entered the post office together, Le Grand prepared to write a telegram. As he unbottoned his coat to take out his own special pencil—the gift of some monarch—I noticed the end of a blue official envelope sticking out of an inside breast pocket, and could not help wondering whether it contained the draft of the treaty.

When he had finished writing his telegram, he came up to me flourishing it in his hand.

"It is in one way lucky," he said, "that we correspondents have absolutely no news to send, for the censorship is very strict. No cypher telegrams are allowed to be sent during the sitting of the congress, and the ordinary telegrams are detained, or suppressed, or mutilated, as it suits the authorities. I have no doubt, too, that the black cabinet is at its old work of opening letters. However, if you have no news to communicate, it makes no difference. They can hardly object to a telegram like this—can they?"

With that, he handed me the telegram to read. It was very short and was addressed to the office of his paper in London:

"Cannot obtain much information. No good waiting in the hope to-night."

I have a trained memory, and when I read this telegram I took care to fix it indelibly in my mind. Then I returned it to Le Grand, and he handed it to the clerk, who accepted it without demur.

I had hoped that I might now get a little private conversation with the great man, but I was disappointed, for the moment we got outside, he made his adieux and, hailing a droschky, was driven back to his hotel. There was nothing for me to do but to return to mine; but, meanwhile, I took out my note-book, and wrote down the telegram word for word. Two or three things had already struck me with respect to it. The first was that he had evidently wished me to see it. This by itself was suspicious, as Le Grand seldom did anything without an object. The second was, why should he telegraph at all if he had no news to convey? The third was that, transparent as the telegram seemed, there was still somthing a little suspicious in its length. Why not have simply telegraphed: "No news"?

Altogether, I was satisfied that there was some deception about this telegram, and I therefore proceeded to treat it as a cryptogram. Now the plan of such every-day cryptograms is not, as a rule, very complicated. Unless, as was the case with me, there is some ground of suspicion to start with, a very simple cryptogram will effectually conceal the meaning of the writer. But, knowing what I did, I had something to work upon; and thus helped, I soon deciphered Le Grand's real meaning. At least I felt morally certain I had done so. I merely took the initials of the words in their order, and found that they made up this pregnant sentence:

"Coming with T."

"T" of course stood for treaty.

This was not only a piece of information, but just the piece of information that might have been expected. For, if Le Grand had really secured a copy of the treaty, he would, of course, be most anxious to transmit it at once to London. But how? It was impossible to send it by telegraph. No cypher telegrams were allowed to pass and any other, however ingeniously constructed, must needs betray itself through the proper names of persons and countries without which the treaty would be mere nonsense. Nor did I think it likely that Le Grand would commit such a momentous secret to the post, knowing as he did the unscrupulousness of the black cabinet. There remained only one course of action at once feasible and prudent, and that was for Le Grand to convey it in person to London. As he would travel by the mail, he would arrive just as soon as a letter, and no doubt would enjoy the ovation which he would assuredly receive.

I looked at my watch. It was already seven o'clock. The through train started at eight. I told my valet to pack my valise and to put in some official paper and envelopes. This done, I drove to the station by myself. As yet, there was no sign of Le Grand. I waited about on the platform in the hope that he would make his appearance, but I waited in vain. At last, at five minutes to eight, it suddenly occurred to me to make a thorough inspection of the train. It was well I did so, for there, huddled up in the corner of a first class compartment, with a traveling cap drawn down over his face, and the collar of his overcoat pulled up to the eyes, was Le Grand. And he must have been there for nearly an hour. He had done his best to disguise himself, but there was no concealing those huge proportions. I jumped into the carriage just as the train began to steam slowly out of the station.

No doubt Le Grand saw at once that it would be impossible for him to maintain his incognito, so he made a virtue of necessity, and said:

"What! are you running away too?"

"Only for a day or so," I said.

"That is just my case. I want a little change, and really there is nothing to be gained by dancing attendance on the congress. Never was there such a collection of dumb dogs."

"THERE WAS NO CONCEALING THOSE HUGE PROPORTIONS."

I had still doubted that Le Grand had obtained some valuable information, I could have doubted no longer. Nothing else could have justified this turning of his back upon the congress whilst it was still in the middle of its sittings. I determined to stick close to him in the hope that I might gain some definite information. However, during our long journey he was very reticent, and it was not until we were actually aboard the steamer which was to convey us to Dover that he allowed his habitual boastfulness to overcome his caution in even the smallest degree. Then, judging himself, no doubt, to be beyond the reach of any possible danger, he drew from his pocket the blue official envelope which I had once before caught sight of, and said with a triumphant smile:

"This is one of my surprise packages."

"Indeed," I said, "and what is the value inside?"

"Perhaps a crown," he answered grandiloquently.

Then he returned it to his pocket, but not before I had noticed two things about it. The first that it was fastened; the second that there was no writing upon it.

I had now to devise some plan to get possession of this envelope, and it was not long before I hit upon one.

I left Le Grand and went into another cabin. Here I opened my valise and took out a precisely similar envelope. Then I folded a sheet of foolscap paper and placing it inside fastened the envelope. I now had a dummy package not to be distinguished externally from the one in Le Grand's pocket.

All this was simple enough. The difficulty was how to effect the exchange—but I had my own scheme.

The custom house officers were, as usual, on board, and I went up to the chief of them and told him in confidence that there was a passenger on board whom it might be well for them to search for cigars or tobacco. "Of course," I added, "I do not wish to be mixed up with the business. I just give you the hint for what it is worth." You cannot mistake the passenger in question, he is so immense, and I can hardly believe that all his bulk is genuine.

The official was much obliged to me for the hint, and it was arranged between us that the search should not take place till just as we were reaching Dover, and that I should then place myself close to the suspected passenger in order to avoid the possibility of a mistake.

"I JUST GIVE YOU THE HINT FOR WHAT IT IS WORTH."

All came off as we had arranged. As the steamer was on the point of entering the harbor, I went up to Le Grand to fetch my valise which I had previously placed beside him. Then the revenue officers came up and asked him if he had anything to declare.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 23, 1895.

Britten Lloyd	Kendall Miss F
Bateman H E	Kenna Lawrence
Bailey Jacob	McGrath Chas
Bridge Madeleine	Nikander Tina
Benson Rufus M	Noles Squire
Brown Lizzie	Pinney Mrs F H
Cummings M E	Preston Henry A
Cave Mrs E H	Parker Nellie
Clark J	Potter Thomas
Catlin Robt	Post W B
Dilts M	Richards Mrs Hub
Fletcher Lizzie	Rutter C M
Foley Julia	Rittles Mrs
Falls Mrs Hattie	Stiner Jno E
Gray M H	Shaw Prof
Henry Mary	Smith C A
Higgins Richard	Sherwood Florence
Higgins Miss	Sutton Chas G
Hemenway & Sons M	Talmadge Mrs F
Hamilton Miss Francis	Thorne Harry
Hanson A	VanAnken Mrs F
Johnson Mrs Rena	White Carrie
Jennings Mrs Littie	Williams W S
Johnson Lee	Wright M B
Julien	Willard D E
Kriseman F	Young Elijah

A Sham Missionary.

Yesterday afternoon a large number of the members of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Presbyterian church met in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church. After the regular business Miss Emlie B. Tracy acted as a sham missionary from the dark lands of India.

A Plainfield Player Wins.

Henry Ryder, of East Front street, a member of the class of '99 in Yale College, defeated L. G. Billings, tennis champion of the class of '98, in the same college, after an exciting match last week.

Young Librarians.

The librarians in the North Plainfield Public School have been appointed by Miss Cutter, senior class teacher. They are the Misses Nellie Martin, Bertha Wilcox and Achia Holmes.

—The suit for libel which Rev. J. B. Jennings brought against the Newark News has been discontitued. Craig A. Marsh was his attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Day, of Duer street, went to Millstone, Somerset county, today to be present at the wedding of Mrs. Day's sister, Miss Minnie B. Voorhess to Rev. J. Edward Shaw, of Glendora, in the Millstone church this evening.

A SHOOTING EDITOR.

The Major Had a Sensitive Spirit and He Was Quick on the Trigger.

"Major Bloss back in the latest '70s," said a worker on newspaper row, "flourished as the editor-in-chief of the Kansas City Times. Dr. Manford was the publisher, but Bloss was the active agent who got out the paper. There were occasions suggested by the turns and twists of Western journalism of that day when editor's drank o'er deep. Major Bloss was no exception from the general run. One evening Major Bloss was a bit heavy from his libations. He strode deviously into Frank Alm's saloon and called huskily for fire water. The barkeeper was one of those guardian angels who tell men when they have enough. He declined to give Major Bloss the nourishment demanded.

"'You've got enough, Major,' remarked the barkeeper with an air of cold severity, 'you can't get anything to drink here.'

"Now the Major was a man of proud spirit and much hauteur. Moreover he was from Kentucky, and always accompanied his strolls about the city with a faithful derringer, the barrel whereof was about two inches long, with a bore like a stove pipe. No sooner did the barkeeper make the prudent remark quoted than the Major, his spirit wounded beyond any power of words to express, suddenly produced the faithful derringer and fired it with vast noise and smoke, bang! at the barkeeper.

"The pistol was so short it wasn't pointing direct at the victim, which was a good thing. As it was the bullet plowed a bad furrow through the scented foretop of the barkeeper and tumbled him in among his glasses as if he'd been hit with a mallet. Then the Major came composedly behind the bar and helped himself, remarking to the horrified spectators.

"'It would never do, hic! to allow such canaille, hic! as bartenders to go to, hic! prescribing for gentlemen.'

"With this highly satisfactory explanation of his attitude the Major staggered away. Dr. Manford got the barkeeper to go away, and the affair blew over.

"Major Bloss, on one occasion during his editorship of the Times, was lying on the sofa asleep. It was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and except for the Major, deeply asleep, and Billy Baker, the exchange editor, the place was deserted. Suddenly a man came up to whip the editor. He was a big, forcible man.

"'Who wrote that?' he hissed, striding up to Baker and shoving the casus belli under his alarmed nose.

"'Let me beg of you,' urged Baker, edging away as a first step toward an understanding, 'to bear always in mind that I didn't write it. Moreover I don't know who did. However, if you will come up at 7 o'clock this evening the gang will be here and I've no doubt a little research on your part will turn up your party.'

"The man who wanted to whip the editor said he'd surely come. That his life had but one purpose now; and that was to find the fellow who wrote that article and make an example of horror of him. Just as he was departing a malicious idea struck Baker.

"'Here,' he called after the visitor, 'come back here. I'll tell you what to do. Major Bloss is in the other room. He's the managing editor. He didn't write that article, but after all he's responsible for it, and he's the man you ought to see. You had better step in there and talk to him.'

"The visitor sprang into the room like a panther and seized the Major by the shoulder.

"'See here!' he roared, 'get up here. I want to talk to you.' At this point he shook the Major violently.

"The great journalist blundered to his feet with hearty promptitude; out came that rusty derringer, and the 'Bang!' which followed made the windows rattle. The bullet tore a hole in the partition big enough to thrust one's fist through. The man who came to whip the editor fled like an antelope, the doughty Major in hot pursuit, still half asleep. But the man was too swift. As he disappeared down the stairs the Major hurled the derringer after him. Then he came yawning and stretching his arms. As he lay down on the sofa to resume his snooze, he said to Baker with a prodigious yawn:

"'Who was that fellow, Billy?'"—[illegible] Post.

John Mullins,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

Everything Neceesary for Housekeeping! Cash or Credit! Liberal Terms to Everybody!

$12 For this handsome solid oak chamber suit, French bevel plate mirror, worth $20. 100 other styles to select from. $12

Bargains in Parlor Suits.

$20 Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in silk Brocatelle, tapestry or rug, actual value $40. $20

New Fall Carpets.

The very latest styles and patterns of the finest textures, and at prices lower by 25 per cent. than any other house in the country.

Moquette,	Velvet,	Brussels,	Ingrain,
$1.00	90c	50c	30c
per yd	per yd	per yd	per yd

Goods safely packed and delivered free to any part of the State.

JOHN MULLINS,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

BRANCH STORES:

121 to 125 Newark avenue, Jersey City, N. J. 136 and 138 Main street, Paterson, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. J. M. Potter

begs to announce that she will resume business at No. 9 Grove street on October 1st, when she will display a line of

Trimmed Bonnets and Hats

of the latest French designs. Especial attention will be given to the Trimming of Hats From Orders.

PRICES UNIFORMLY REASONABLE.

9 27 28 30- 10 1

CATARRH

ELY'S Cream Balm Is quickly absorbed, cleanes the nasal passages allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BOTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)

94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

125 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

For Sale or Exchange

For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of

Between 4 and 5 Acres

well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.

9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,

—BEGINNING—

Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.

9-27-10 1 4 5 8 11 12 15.

Grand Autumn Excursion

via. Central Railroad of New Jersey, and Jersey City, on the palatial fast steeck steamer,

ST. JOHNS,

of the famous Sandy Hook Route, up the romantic Hudson, to

WEST POINT,

—ON—

Saturday, Oct. 5, 1895.

Special excursion tickets from Plainfield will be sold good to go only on train leaving Plainfield at 8 a. m. Oct. 5. Return will be made at a seasonable hour. Hotel, restaurant and refreshments at popular prices.

Fare for the Round Trip $1.20.

9 26 28-10 2 4

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.

At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.

At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.

At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.

At 45c—An all wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.

At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.

At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.

At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?

Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.

At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.

At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations

ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,

140 West Front Street.

Stone for Flagging

of a superior quality and finish and at a moderate price. Apply to

J. C. DYER,

218 West Front Street

JUST A MINUTE

OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,

206 West Front st.

MISS BIGLOW

will resume instruction to pupils on the piano on Monday, Sept. 23, at 130 West 4th st, corner Arlington avenue. 9 19 3

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of

FINE STATIONERY,

consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes, and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

Thursday, October 3. ONE NITE ONLY.

Must you go? What's your hurry? Here's your hat, but you'll regret it if you fail to

SEE

That Famous Funny Fellow,

Geo. W. Monroe

and his big Comedy Company in the greatest musical comedy success of the year,

A HAPPY LITTLE HOME

Chock full of the latest songs and dances. Funny situations, unique specialties, witty singing and comely girls. A perfect panecea for the blues

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

Saturday, Oct. 5.

Mr. Frederick

WARDE,

and his distinguished company, in a superb production of D'Ennery's celebrated drama,

THE Mountebank!

The entire scenery and stage mountings prepared specially for the production.

Prices—$1.50, $1, 75c, 50c and 35c.

SEE THE MILLER LAMP.

HAVILAND CHINA, DORFLINGER'S CUT GLASS.

THE WELSBACH LIGHT.

CHINA FIRED.

Gavett's, 129 East Front Street.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

We Want Kickers

Principally boys, to wear our Steel Shod and School Shoes. These Shoes are made purposely for kickers. Once worn, always worn.

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 1st, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily, except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

FIREMEN'S FAIR TALKED OF.

THE SUBJECT IS BEING DISCUSSED BY FIRE LADDIES.

The Matter Broached at the Meeting of Gazelle Engine Company—An Old Relic, Which Killed a Man, Unearthed.

A firemen's fair has taken the place of the parade as one of the chief topics in the fire department. There was a meeting of Gazelle Hose Company last evening, and the question of the fair was informally discussed and a committee of three, consisting of Lewis Dunavan, Charles Johnson and J. Huntington, were appointed to confer with the other companies and discuss the advisability of holding the fair this winter. The regular routine business came up but nothing of importance was transacted.

At the close of the meeting a relic belonging to the company, in the shape of a piece of old iron, was brought in. This rusty, irregular-shaped piece of iron was thirty-three years ago a part of a cannon. In March, 1862, when the cannon was being fired on the common where Morgan Bird's mill now stands, it exploded and a large piece struck Henry Jennings, a member of the Gazelle company, and sent him flying through the air for a distance of over fifty feet. He was killed instantly, and the deadly iron that struck him was saved by his brother firemen as a relic. It was kept in the old Gazelle engine house until it was torn down, and then it was placed under a shed in the rear of Moraller's jewelry store, where it remained until, in excavating for the new Coddington building, the shed was torn down. The murderer of their brother fireman will now be kept in the new Gazelle headquarters.

FOR KILLING ANNIE ROGERS.

Johnson, the Colored Preacher, Indicted and Arraigned for Murder.

The Grand Jury of Somerset County came into court yesterday afternoon and handed up twenty-four indictments. Among them was an indictment for murder against Jacob S. Johnson, who is charged with the death of Annie Rogers, of Newark.

Justice Magie received the indictment and Johnson was at once brought up from jail and arraigned. He pleaded not guilty, but said he had no money with which to employ counsel. He said he would like to have Messrs. Steele & Meehan for his his counsel, and the court assigned them. Prosecutor Dungan asked for assistance, and James J. Bergen was assigned for that purpose. The county will have to pay both for the prosecution and defence of Johnson.

Johnson's wife and son and two men, Lewis and Haney, who lived in their house, who had been held since the coroner's inquest, were not indicted, and all were discharged by the court. Johnson's trial is set down for October 21st.

Cycling By Moonlight.

The following party of ten young people from Plainfield and Dunellen enjoyed all the delights of cycling by moonlight last evening in a ride to Metuchen: Misses Grace Langdon, Millie Langdon, Mattie Barrett and Jessie Maltby, and J. Hazelwood Craig, Daniel Richardson, Sydney Perrin, Alfred Perrin, Thomas Barrett and George Cathcart. The same party expect to go to New Brunswick Monday evening.

More Voices.

In addition to the quartette choir of the Crescent Avenue church a number of voices will be added so as to increase the volume of tone on the hymns. Quite a number of the choruses from the Holy City, it is expected, will be rendered by the chorus during the winter. The chorus will begin their duties next Sunday morning.

Minstrelsy to Comedy.

George Thatcher's new comedy company passed through here on a B. & O. train yesterday en route for Wheeling, W. Va., where they open the season tonight in "Cupid's Chariot," a new bicycle comedy. Thatcher is booked to appear in Plainfield later in the season.

A Dog in a Sewer Pipe.

A small dog was found in one of the sewer pipes on West Front street yesterday. How the animal got there is a mystery, but he was alive when taken out, and the experience didn't hurt him one bit.

Directed to the Borough.

A strange man, who had evidently been drinking, found himself in Plainfield yesterday looking for a friend. Sergeant Kiely directed the man to the borough for information.

—Peaches and apples are still the specialties at Neuman Brothers. Don't forget them when you go to the market tomorrow.

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW SUES.

Claims That the Son-in-Law Didn't Follow the Agreement.

The old story of the son-in-law and mother-in-law is to be presented in a new light at the Union County Circuit Court on Tuesday, when the case of Mary E. Whitehead against Herman A Weber will come up. Mr. Weber is the Liberty street grocer, and, in 1890, lost his wife. Mrs. Whitehead, his mother-in-law, then came to live with him on the condition that if she should do the housework and look after Mr. Weber's little child he would give her a home during life. Last spring he was remarrried, and the new wife looked after the house and child.

Mrs. Whitehead's occupation was gone, but Mr. Weber gave her a room in his house. On March 23d she left, claiming that she was not treated according to agreement. She now sues for $1,560 as salary during the five years as housekeeper and nurse.

S. S. Swackhamer, represented the plaintiff, and Craig A. Marsh the defendant.

A MISSIONARY AMONG WILD PEOPLE.

Miss Carpenter, of Dunellen, to Go to Japan.

Miss Minnie Carpenter, of Dunellen, was present at a meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society held in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon and spoke informally of her anticipated work in Nemuro, Japan, for which place she will leave her home next week, via San Francisco. Miss Carpenter, on her arrival at Japan, will join Mrs. C. H. Carpenter, who has been engaged in missionary work at Nemuro for the past nine years. The island of Yezo, on which Nemuro is situated, has a climate like Siberia, in the northwestern part where are the Aynos, an aboriginal race of people who are to Japan what the Indians are to America. Mrs Carpenter hopes to reach these wild people and reduce their language to writing that they may be taught the Gospel. In this work she hopes for great assistance from her young friend, Miss Carpenter, who is not a relative, though her name is the same.

Too Slow to Secure a Witness.

Judge VanSyckel yesterday morning in the Union County Court made an order discharging from custody James Malwell, who was held a prisoner in the Union county jail. He was wanted in Staten Island as an important witness against the pirates of the Kills, who are in jail there. Requisition papers were to be obtained for his removal to Richmond county, but the authorities there delayed too long in the matter, so Judge VanSyckel released the witness.

Somerset Prohibitionists.

Somerset Prohibitionists met Tuesday at Somerville and nominated a county ticket: For County Clerk, Thomas Mair, of North Plainfield; Sheriff, Richard Coriell, Millington; Assembly, B. K. Hoppock, Somerville; Coroners, Wm. N. Sorter, Martinsville, and John P. Rhodes, Roycefield. At a mass meeting in the evening H. W. Wilbur, nominee for Governor, made an address.

Lowest in Thirty Years.

James E. Martine told a Daily Press reporter yesterday that the water in Cedar creek and in the little pond in his door yard is lower today than he has seen it in thirty years, and that he believes the cause of it is in the fact that the water works company are pumping such immense quantities of water from the natural wells at Netherwood, and thus lowering the water strata in the ground.

Grand Officers Coming.

A regular conclave of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, will be held on Monday evening. A visit of the grand officers is expected on Monday evening, November 18th, and all the Sir Knights are requested to attend the intervening conclaves for inspection, rehearsal and review. At the close of the regular meeting of the Commandery, the Ninety-eight Club will meet and the committee on bylaws will report.

No Notices, No Meeting.

There was no meeting of the Crescent Wheelmen last evening on account of the failure of the secretary to notify the members, which was caused through a misunderstanding.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

TRAMPED ON WITH HOOFS.

RUTH BERG'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM FATAL INJURIES.

Riding Her Wheel on East Fifth Street She Dismounted in Front of Coddington's Team and Knocked Unconscious.

Ruth Berg, youngest daughter of Dr. Berg, of East Fifth street, had a narrow escape from fatal injury yesterday afternoon about four o'clock. The little girl was riding her wheel on Fifth street between her home and Watchung avenue. When near Hebard's drug store, L. B. Coddington's team, attached to his heavy truck, in charge of Michael McCarthy, came around the corner. Ruth was on the right of the road, but instead of keeping to the right, she tried to turn in the middle of the street. This brought her in front of the team, and when she saw the position she was in she stepped off her wheel. The horse nearest to her knocked her down, and one of his front feet struck her in the head, inflicting a severe cut in the back of the scalp, an ugly gash in the forehead, and a bad cut on the index finger of the right hand. The horse then stepped on the wheel, making a wreck of it.

Ruth was unconscious by this time, and Charles Mann, the barber, who was an eye witness, hastened to the scene and carried the little girl into Hebard's drug store. Her father was summoned immediately, but when he arrived his daughter had regained consciousness enough to recognize him.

Dr. Berg carried the injured girl home, where he made a thorough examination. It was found necessary to take several stitches in the cuts. Her left eye was very much enlarged as a result of the accident. However, nothing very serious is thought will result.

A rumor was circulated last night that the horses were frightened at the steam roller, but such was not the case, for the roller was more than a block away and could not possibly have frightened the animals.

MRS. VOEHL HOME AGAIN.

A Reconciliation Had Between the Estranged Couple.

As stated in the Daily Press last night Mrs. Voehl returned to this city yesterday morning. She went to the home of her husband on West Front street, and the scene that was enacted between her and her two little children was very effecting. The children were overjoyed at her return to them, after an absense of a week. Mr. Voehl was compelled to go to Newark in the afternoon and upon his return a reconciliation was had between the couple, in which it was decided to let the past remain a blank, the husband agreeing to stop all proceedings that he may have intended to institute against his wife.

A Bible Study Club.

To meet the demand for general Bible study the Young Men's Christian Association has decided to form a Bible Study Club which will meet every Tuesday evening at the building at eight o'clock. The first meeting will be held Tuesday, October 8th. The lessons to be studied will be a series used by one of the classes at Yale, and called "The Training of the Twelve." The life of Christ will be studied from this standpoint. The teacher will be William D. Murray. The director's room in the association building will be fitted up with a library of books on Bible study, and those who join the Bible Study Club may use the room at any time to prepare their lessons. This room and library will also be open at all times to any member of the association.

Reception and Sociable.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel are planning to give a reception and sociable to the members of the Berean Bible class this evening. An excellent programme has been arranged and refreshments will be served. All the old members of the class are invited.

Coming Nuptial Event.

The coming marriage of Miss Antoinette Gaines Thorne to Mortimer Lincoln Day is announced for October 9th at the home of the bride's parents, 411 LaGrande avenue. The ceremony will be a quiet one on account of recent death in the family.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

MAY'S LOVE FOR ANIMALS.

MRS. DEFOREST ERECTS A FOUNTAIN IN MEMORY OF HER CHILD.

To be Located on West Second Street, Near New Street—A Mistake in the Inscription — A Free Water Supply.

Plainfield is to have another free water fountain very much like the present one which was erected at the corner of Front and Somerset streets by the Christian Endeavor societies of this city and borough.

This new fountain will be placed on West Second just beyond New streets, in front of the property of Mrs. E. T. DeForest, who furnished the fountain and will have it erected in memory of her daughter May, who died about two years ago.

The fountain itself is very handsome in design, having a bronze finish. On one side are the faucets and small trough for the accommodation of passersby, while on the outside is a large trough for the benefit of horses. Above the horse trough is a plate with the following inscription: "In memoriam of our dear Mary, aged twenty-two years. She loved animals." Through a mistake the name was made "Mary," instead of May.

Mrs. DeForest applied for permission to erect the fountain early in the summer, but the Common Council delayed in granting it, and after the permission was received, the foundation had to be laid, so that it was only yesterday that the fountain arrived from the manufacturers. It will be placed in position at once. And the water necessary to supply the passing pedestrian and horse will be furnished by the Plainfield Water Supply Co., free of charge.

Mr. Crane to Go to Chicago.

John M. Crane, of West Eighth street, who has resided in Plainfield during the past eleven years, is about to leave and engage in business in Chicago at the first of January. The beautiful home now occupied by Mr. Crane and his family on West Eighth street is for sale, and the location being such an exceptionally fine one, offers a rare opportunity for anyone who desires to locate in what is considered by many to be the best part of town. Mr. Crane remains with his old company, the Standard of Detroit.

Women's Clubs Incorporated.

The New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs filed articles of incorporation in the County Clerk's office on Tuesday. The officers are: Margaret T. Yardley, president; Antoinette B Blackwell and Ada Loomis McGraw, vice-presidents; Laura Boormar, recording secretary; and Laura G. Collins, corresponding secretary.

Not Enough Evidence.

Joseph Green and John Cahill, of this city, who have been resting for sometime in the Somerset county jail awaiting the action of the Grand Jury in regards to a fight they were engaged in at Washingtonville sometime ago, were released from there yesterday afternoon and returned to Plainfield. There was not sufficient evidence to indict them.

To Run Against Time.

Arrangements are being made to have Engine 385 of the P. & R. Railroad to run against time at an early date. This is the new engine recently put on and passes through this city to New York every morning at 8:45. It is believed that the trip from New York to Philadelphia can be made in one hour and ten minutes by this engine.

Want a License.

An application for a hotel license has been made by Plainfield parties who wish to open a hotel at the corner of Elm street and North avenue, Westfield. The hearing will be next Saturday, and the Westfield people will oppose the granting of the license.

To See the Sights.

Among the Plainfielders who went to the Trenton fair today include G. Richter, G. Feller, F. Sandford, J. Haberle, Frank Hedden, Wm. Butler, Harry McDonald, Alfred Baker, Geo. Homan, Jr., and Wm. Feiring.

A Big Job.

A Plainfielder under the influence of liquor placed himself in the hands of two friends last night, and the latter had a contract to walk him around town till he was able to go it alone.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few, if any, who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

GOLF PLAYING THIS WEEK.

The Hillside Course Will Be Ready by Saturday Next.

At a special meeting of the Hillside Tennis Club last night the necessary amendments to the constitution were passed consequent on the introduction of the game of golf as an important feature of the club.

Among the amendments, besides the necessary provision for the management of the golf course and the increase of the limit of membership from 100 to 150, was the change of the name of the club, which will henceforth be known as The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

The temporary golf committee reported satisfactory progress in the building of the course, which will be ready for practice on Saturday, and it is expected that the members will take immediate advantage of their opportunities to familiarize themselves with the features of the game.

In appreciation of the excellent work done by the golf committee this summer, it was resolved to offer its members a sincere vote of thanks from the club at large. The resolution was passed by acclamation.

As a sufficient indication of the popularity of this new departure in Plainfield athletics it is only necessary to say that forty-one new members were elected by the governing committee after the special meeting of the club had adjourned.

The golf committee, to whose rules and regulations all play is to be subject, was elected by the governors as follows: Howard W. Beebe, chairman, J. S. Anthony, T. F. Sykes, Carl Pfeiffer, and G. P. Mellick.

The exceedingly dry weather has prevented the work of sodding the greens being finished, but as soon as the weather permits the work will be pushed to completion.

A large number are expected on the course on Saturday afternoon and after that golf will become an accomplished fact in Plainfield.

A Happy Surprise.

T. S. Armstrong and three brothers went to the pier of the National Steamship line in New York Tuesday morning and met the steamship Kensington, on which were their mother, brother, sister and nephew on board, coming home from a visit of several weeks in European countries. The returning party were much surprised at finding the relatives on the pier awaiting their return, as it was yet early in the morning, just at daybreak.

After happy greetings all around the party started for the mother's home in Camden, where another surprise was awaiting them. The wives of the three brothers had made the home ready for the party and a dinner was all prepared for them. This sort of welcoming, so little expected, was a most pleasant feature of the home-coming. Mr. Armstrong returned to his home in this city last night.

Former Plainfielder Weds.

George Dunshee, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Newark, was married last evening to Miss Charlotte Bender, of Newark, by Rev. Dr. Frazer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Miss Florence Bender, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Harvey Thorn, of this city, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Dunshee will spend the next three weeks at Saratoga, and upon their return will reside in Newark.

A Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given last night to Miss Kezia DeMott, at her home on Somerset street, in honor of her fourteenth birthday. The surprise was arranged by the Misses Mable Wraight, Anna Kirch, Lulu Jacob and Lyda Boyce. There were about thirty young people present. The evening was spent in playing games and a good time in general was had by all.

A Dance at Westfield.

A very pleasant dance was given at Coombs' Hotel at Westfield last evening by Miss Lizzie Coombs. About forty guests in all were present from Westfield, Plainfield, New Market and Brooklyn. The music was furnished by Prof. Guttman of this city.

Named at Last.

The East End Whist Club met at the home of Thomas U. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, Tuesday evening and played duplicate whist. The points in all the games this year will be kept and added together at Christmas time and the winner found.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

A BAZAR OF GOOD THINGS.

SCOTCH PLAINS AFFAIR FOR BENEFIT OF THE LIBRARY.

Excelsior Hall Transformed Into a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever—Pretty Booths Set Off By Handsome Attendants.

The Scotch Plains Public Library, a bright cozy place in the upper part of Excelsior Hall, has reached that point where it is recognized as an actual public benefactor, and after its six years existence has become thoroughly established both in location and in the hearts of those who live in Scotch Plains.

There are now 1,000 volumes in the library, and from year to year the number is increased. Of course there are expenses attached to the running of the library and the good women of Scotch Plains and vicinity have become so much interested in the institution that every year they plan to hold a bazar, and so in accordance with the custom one was arranged for this year.

After much earnest work the affair was opened at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and previous to that hour a Daily Press reporter dropped in and was very much interested in what there was to be seen.

One of the most active workers very kindly explained the objects of the bazar which are indeed worthy of everyone's attention.

The first floor of the hall was converted into an exceedingly attractive place, made so through the use of evergreens and asparagus vine.

The centre of attraction is probably the candy booth, which stands in the centre of the room, which is laden with all the toothsome sweets to be found. The booth is prettily made of greens and flowers and is in charge of Mrs. Moore, who is assisted by Miss Moore, Miss Tuzo and Miss Patterson. Directly back of this booth is the platform which represents a Japanese room, and an ideal one it is. Everything that is to be found in an apartment of this kind is arranged in the most artistic manner. Miss Nichol and Mrs. Homae are located here and find ready sales for the dainty Japanese wares that are so pretty.

To the right of the platform is the stationery booth that contains a complete stock of everything to be found in a stationery store. These goods were loaned by Seely Edsall, of Plainfield. Miss Townsend assisted by the Misses Nichol have charge of this department and they experience no trouble in selling the goods.

The fancy table is one of the most attractive sights at the bazar, and arranged by Miss Boice, Miss Johnson, and Miss Smith, they present a most inviting place for those in attendance. The display of useful and fancy articles show good judgment in selection, and many purchases were recorded yesterday.

The flower booth is a perfect beauty, arranged with the choicest plants and flowers from Miss Lincoln's flower store in Plainfield. The scene presented is that of a garden of flowers. Mrs. Reanell, assisted by Miss Lounsbury and Mrs. Robinson, look after the flowers and have good success in selling them.

The cake table is in charge of Mrs. Dr. Westcott, assisted by Miss Bliss and Miss Squires, while the ice cream is served by Miss Bornman and Mrs. Mead.

A lemonade booth and well stocked in one corner as pretty as a picture, where the best lemonade you ever had is served. Mrs. Force, assisted by Miss McAnemy and Miss Kyte, look after the needs of all who are thirsty and the beverage seems to satisfy everyone that partakes. L. Randolph, the Plainfield druggist, very kindly donated some things for the lemonade well.

In the room used for the library a number of tables are to be found where an excellent supper is served by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Marsh. All the appetizing things of the season are given for a nominal price that is within the reach of all.

Among the side-shows is a "nickel-in-the-slot," where mysterious packages are sold for a nickel. No one knows the contents till the package is opened. Again, there is a "Gentlemen's Hogge," knowledge of which can only be obtained by inquiry and paying a small fee.

The house committee, who arranged and planned this successful affair comprises Mrs. DeForest Thomas, Mrs. Thomas Paff, Jr., Mrs. Mead, Miss Kyte and Mrs. Thomas Nichol.

The attendance last night was large and the receipts excellent. It will be continued this afternoon and evening from four to ten o'clock.

It is earnestly hoped that there will be a large attendance at the covenant meeting in the First Baptist church tomorrow evening.

THE ARMENIAN RIOTS

Many Killed in the Constantinople Conflicts.

The Trouble Brought About by Armed Armenians Marching on the Porte To Present a Petition Asking for Redress—Terrell Notifies Secretary Olney.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Secretary Olney has just received the following dispatch from Minister Terrell, dated Constantinople, Oct. 2: "Monday several hundred Armenians marched on the porte, professedly to ask redress of grievances. The patriarch tried to prevent it. A conflict occurred between the Armenians and the police. Probably about sixty Turks and Armenians were killed, among others a Turkish major, and many were wounded. The Armenians carried pistols. Yesterday several more were killed. Last night there were eighty killed. Several hundred have been imprisoned. The porte had notice of the demonstration, which it is said was organized by leaders of the Hunchagist revolutionists, whom they have captured. Much terror exists. I think the porte will be able to restrain the fanaticism. Terrell."

THE PORTE IS ALARMED.

Police Make 500 Arrests in Connection with Armenian Riots.

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—The police have made 500 arrests in connection with the recent rioting of Armenians here. The government is greatly alarmed and the garrison is kept under arms. Owing to the serious state of affairs a dinner which was to have been given last night at the palace in honor of Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, has been countermanded and the French warship Petrel has postponed her departure.

Beaten, Bound and Shot.

London, Oct. 3.—A dispatch this morning from Constantinople says it is believed that ten persons were killed and forty wounded in the streets during the rioting which occurred Monday. Five hundred persons have been arrested on the charge of participating in the rioting. Among the prisoners are a number of Armenians. These, when arrested, were thrown down, disarmed, beaten and then bound. One Armenian was struck with a blundgeon and afterwards shot and killed. Two non-commissioned gendarme officers were about to seize an Armenian near the gate of the sultan's palace where the trouble originated when shots were fired from a crowd of students and both officers were killed. Several other gendarmes were wounded. It is stated that eight Armenians were killed within the ministry of police which was attacked by the rioters. A crowd of armed Saftas assembled later and threatened to massacre the Armenians. The police, however, dispersed them.

Demonstration Long Prearranged.

The demonstration of the Armenians had long been prearranged. Copies of the petition against the government to present which to the grand vizier was the object of the visit of the Armenians to the gate of the palace, were sent to some of the embassies with an intimation that the petition would be forwarded to the grand vizier. The police hearing of this orders were immediately given to prevent the petition from being presented.

Against the Patriarch's Advice.

About two thousand persons assembled in the Koumkapon cathedral to attend the celebration of the cross. After the service twenty Armenian ladies presented to the patriarch a petition begging him to summon the faithful to go to the porte to pray that it promptly enforce reforms in Armenia. The patriarch addressed the assemblage and exhorted them to make no demonstration, inasmuch as it would be contrary to law. He begged them to rely upon himself to do everything possible to obtain the desired reforms. Thereupon the crowd shouted: "We have had enough! We want liberty or death!"

Minister of Police Aide Shot.

The patriarch then withdrew and the Armenians tried to form a procession, but in this they were prevented by the police, who dispersed the crowd into various streets. Later, however, they gathered at an arranged point. There Major Serwet Bey, aide to the minister of police, addressed them, directing them to leave the petition with him. Some reports say that he insulted the Armenians. At any rate the latter became incensed and began shouting. Then shots were fired and Serwet Bey was killed and several gendarmes were wounded. A hand to-hand fight followed.

Killed Two Judges.

It is stated that the Armenians broke into the law courts and killed two judges. During the rioting Monday bullets pierced the carriages of the minister of the interior, the minister of foreign affairs and the minister of police.

CHOLERA IN RUSSIA.

Dreadful Extent of the Epidemic Shown by Recent Reports.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 3.—The cholera reports received from the province of Volhynia for first fortnight of September show that during that period there were 7,827 new cases of that disease, resulting in 3,085 deaths. In the province of Podalia, during the first fortnight of September, 51 new cases were reported and 19 deaths.

Cholera in Japan.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—The Japanese official cholera report for the week ending Sept. 14 received by the City of Peking last night shows that there were 620 new cases in the empire and 425 deaths. The total number of cases reported since the plague started is 42,073 and the number of deaths 28,078.

Football Games Yesterday.

At Philadelphia—University of Pennsylvania, 40; Bucknell, 0. At Elizabeth — Princeton, 14; Elizabeth, 0. At Hamilton, N. Y.—Colgate University, 4; St. Johns, 0. At Elmira—Elmira, 0; Scranton, 0. At New Haven—Yale, 4; Brown University, 0.

European Sugar Crop.

London, Oct. 3.—It is predicted by an eminent authority, Giesecker, that the European sugar crop will be 1,200,000 tons short of the average.

ROGERS' MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Expires Suddenly While Teaching a Class in Chemistry at Harvard.

Boston, Oct. 3.—A veil of mystery envelopes the death of Elliott A. Rogers, instructor in chemistry at Harvard college, yesterday afternoon. He had just dismissed his class and a number of the young men had departed from the classroom in Boylston hall, when Rogers was seen to throw his hands in the air and fall full length on the floor. He had a glass beaker in one hand and a piece of paper in the other. His shriek was heard by a number of persons, but when they reached his side life was extinct. He was carried into an adjoining room and the medical examiner was summoned. That his life had gone out instantly there was no doubt, but the cause is what puzzled the doctors. Rogers was about 35 years of age and came to college from Worcester. He graduated in '91 and since that time he has traveled extensively in Germany and other foreign countries. Of late he has avoided a number of his former acquaintances, and it was noticed that he appeared despondent and sad. This and the fact that he was fully acquainted with the deadly properties of all chemicals, led some to believe that he had ended his existence by a well laid plan. This theory, however, cannot be substantiated until after the autopsy and not even then, perhaps.

ONE FOR CLEVELANDS.

They Capture the First Game in the Series for the Temple Cup.

Cleveland, Oct. 3.—"The most exciting ball game that was ever played on any grounds," was the verdict of men who have followed baseball for years, after the first of the series of contests for the Temple cup between Cleveland and Baltimore yesterday. For four innings it was a pitchers' battle between Young and McMahon, both men pitching superbly. Then the batters got to work and the next five innings were replete with hard and scientific hitting and phenomenal fielding. When the Baltimores forged ahead in the eighth the game seemed lost to Cleveland, but Tebeau's men pulled together and tied the score in their half. In the ninth Baltimore again got one run to the good and again the crowd thought the Clevelands were defeated. In the last half of the ninth Tebeau's men greeted McMahon with a fusillade of hits and batted out a victory amidst the enthusiastic shouts of 8,000 people. The features of the game were the batting and fielding of McKean, the timely batting of Blake and the fine work of Jennings at short. Score: Cleveland, 5; Baltimore, 4.

CONCESSION TO AN AMERICAN.

Valuable Gold Mining Privileges in Korea Granted to J. R. Morse.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Mr. Still, United States minister to Korea, has informed the department of state that his Korean majesty has granted a limited mining franchise to James R. Morse, an American citizen. This is the first instance in which the right has been formally given over the proper seal. The mines in question are the richest (by Korean report) in the country, and are in the gold mine district of Uhnsan, which belongs to the royal family. The district is very mountainous and is from fifteen to twenty English miles broad and long, situated in Ping Yang province. The agreement of Mr. Morse associates him with his majesty's department of the royal household for the prosecution of this mining work.

SENATORIAL DEADLOCK.

Delegates at Corning Still Firm. A Break Is Expected To-day.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Last night the republican senatorial convention deadlock seemed as firm as ever. Up to date 265 ballots have been taken, all resulting the same—Nichols, 6; Sherwood, 6, and Sheppard, 6. The delegates are all instructed "ironclad" to stand by their candidates until they release them, and although the delegates are impatiently awaiting a release, none of the candidates has seen fit to grant one. There is a strong feeling that a nomination will be made to-day.

SHERMAN CHOSEN SECRETARY.

New York Prison Commission Deadlock Broken.

Albany, Oct. 3.—The new prison commission met yesterday, when the deadlock which has existed over the election of a secretary was broken and Augustus Sherman of New Baltimore was chosen to the place.

RUSSIAN STEAMER LOST.

Wrecked on the Crimean Coast, but All Hands Were Saved.

Odessa, Oct. 3.—The Russian mail steamer Tsarewna has been wrecked near Cape Tarkhanhut, on the coast of the Crimea. Her passengers and crew were saved.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot dull but held firmly. October, 66c.; December, 68c.; May, 71 3-8c.

Corn—Spot dull and prices irregular. No. 2 white 37 5-8c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 37 1-8c.; November, 37 1-4c; May, 35 3-8c.

Oats—Spot dull but prices are easy. No. 2 white, 25 1-2c.; No. 3 white, 24 3-4c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 3-4c.

Pork—Spot steady; demand moderate. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $10.00a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier. October, $6.20.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery remains moderate, but the lower grades are slow and very irregular. Creamery, western extras, 22c.; creamery, western, seconds to firsts, 15a20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 18 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a17c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—The market shows slight improvement. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 7 1-2a8c.; large colored fancy, 7 3-4c.; state part skims, choice, 6 1-2c.; fair to prime, 3 1-2a4 1-2c.; common, 2a3 1-4c.

Eggs—Light receipts and cool weather has caused prices to further advance on nearly all grades. Fancy, fresh gathered western, which are very scarce are now quotable at 17 1-2a18c.

Potatoes—Trading slow; continued liberal receipts, prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

FINEST CRUISER AFLOAT

The Brooklyn Launched at Philadelphia.

Uncle Sam's New Defender Is the Largest, Swiftest and Most Powerful Armored Vessel in the World's Navies—Miss Schieren Breaks the Bottle of Wine.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—The United States armored cruiser Brooklyn was launched from Cramps' shipyard into the Delaware river yesterday afternoon with the usual accompaniment of shrieking steam whistles, while the cheers of at least 15,000 spectators added to the din. The christening party took a position directly beneath the bows of the ship, and Henry Cramp, as he has done many times before, coached Miss Ida May Schieren, daughter of the mayor of Brooklyn, who was to christen the vessel, as to the best manner to perform her part of the ceremony.

Her Baptismal Plunge.

As the confining "shoe-piece" was being sawed through, a period of quiet that always preceeds the launching of a vessel set in, but as the big cruiser began to move a tremendous shout went up from the spectators and at the same moment Miss Schieren smashed the bottle of champagne against the hull and christened the vessel "Brooklyn." The vessel slipped smoothly into the water and another great cheer went up from the multitude. The big, handsome cruiser floated a hundred yards or so out and then two anchors were let go from her bow and she came to a stop and swung slowly around with the tide, looking every inch what she is—the finest and most effective ship of war in the world.

Finest War Vessel in the World.

The Brooklyn is an armored cruiser and belongs to the same type of vessels as the New York, but as the Brooklyn was designed several years after the New York she embodies in her construction all the most modern improvements in maritime warfare, and is superior to the New York in offensive and defensive strength. At the recent gathering of the fleets of the world at Kiel the New York attracted the most attention among naval experts and was admitted to be the finest vessel of her class afloat, and consequently, as the Brooklyn is superior to the New York, the claim that she is the finest war vessel in the world is founded upon the opinion of naval critics.

Dimensions of the Cruiser.

The Brooklyn is 460 feet 6 inches long, 64 feet beam and has a main draught of 24 feet and molded depth of 41 feet 3 inches. The battery is to consist of eight 8-inch guns, mounted in four turrets, two on the middle line forward and aft, and two amidships sponsoned on the sides; ten 5-inch guns mounted on sponsons on the gun deck, and sixteen 6-pounder rapid fire and machine guns. The Brooklyn will have three smokestacks, and these, from their great height, will give the ship a distinctive appearance. One of the distinguishing characteristics of the Brooklyn is the enormous berthing space for the crew, there being accommodations for 1,000 men. She will be the largest, swiftest and most powerful armored vessel in the world's navies. The next launch of a war vessel at Cramps will be the battleship Iowa, the sister ship of the Indiana. The Iowa is now nearly ready for launching.

BOUND FOR TUXEDO PARK.

Journey of the Duke of Marlborough, Miss Vanderbilt and Party.

Highland Falls, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The Duke of Marlborough and Miss Vanderbilt and her mother, Col. and Mrs. Wm. Jay and Oliver H. P. Belmont, arrived here by way of the West Point ferry last evening and stopped at Cranston's hotel for the night. The party's destination is Tuxedo park. They came up on the east side of the river in a tally-ho, but the ferryboat being inadequate to accommodate the coach the party have abandoned it and have hired carriages. The coach, however, will be sent here by way of Fishkill and Newburgh, when the duke and party will resume their journey.

LOSS OF THE CRISTOBAL COLON.

Reception of the News in Madrid. An Investigation Ordered.

Madrid, Oct. 3.—The news of the wreck of the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon, off the western coast of Cuba, has caused a profound sensation here, following so closely upon the loss of the cruiser Barcastegui. Official confirmation of the report has since been received indicating that the cruiser will prove a total loss. The Spanish minister of marine, Admiral Beranger, has ordered an inquiry into the causes of the disaster, and that all the reports in the case be forwarded to Spain as soon as possible.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION.

A Decrease of over $69,000,000 Since October 1, 1894.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The circulation statement just issued shows that the amount of all kinds of money in circulation in September aggregated $1,585,593,509, a decrease from August of $17,989,519, a decrease of $69,445,473 since October 1, 1894. The circulation per capita on October 1 was $22.57 based on an estimated population of 70,253,000.

Tobacco Crop Ruined by Frost.

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 3.—A killing frost last night with the mercury down nearly to zero destroyed from one-third to one-half of the tobacco crop of Buncombe and surrounding counties.

Placed on the Retired List.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Lieutenant A. B. H. Lillie has been placed on the retired list of the navy on account of disability. He was appointed from New York.

Cambria Company Dividend

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—The Cambria Iron company has declared a stock dividend of 12 1-2 per cent., payable Nov. 1 as registered Oct. 2.

Barred from the Mails.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The postoffice department has issued a fraud order against E. J. King & Co., and King's Stenographic institute, of Cairo, Ill.

Diphtheria
Less Fatal.

If the patient's strength can be maintained, and the great vital centres of the body "kept up" to the performance of their natural functions, they will thus dispel the disease germs that impregnate the entire body, and if sufficient vitality is experienced, the fatality of this dreaded disease is lessened a hundred-fold.

Bovinine

that greatest raw food, is a wonderful creator of new flesh and nerve tissue, is indispensible in the treatment of this malady, as it gives strength to the patient with the least effort on the part of the digestive organs, and in addition, being itself a germicide, it antidotes the existing microbes of the disease. The ease with which it can be taken when the lesions of the throat preclude the use of other foods, makes it an additional necessity for the sufferer's recovery.

You will ride a Bicycle

Of course you will ride. All the world will—fashion, pleasure, business — men, women, children. It takes a while sometimes for the world to recognize its privileges, but when it does it adapts itself promptly. Therefore, you who are in the world will ride a bicycle—a bicycle if you desire the best the world produces; a Hartford, the next best, if anything short of a Columbia will content you. Columbias, $100; Hartfords, $80 $60; for boys and girls, $50.

COLUMBIA

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.
Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Providence, Buffalo.

A Catalogue—comprehensive, beautiful—at any agency free, or by mail for two 2-cent stamps. The book tells of all the new Columbias and Hartfords.

The Eldridge Cycle Co.,
Park ave. and 4th st.
Easy payments
Repairs.
Rentals.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.
Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Nothing Antequated

will be found in our stock of wall paper. We are now showing the very latest fall designs and most of them are gems. The getting up of new, fanciful and pleasing patterns is an art, and we have the advantage of displaying the handiwork of the best artists of the day in that line. It's like going through a picture gallery to walk about in our store, and there is no admission. Paints, oils and varnishes.

E. C. MARSHALL, 167 North Avenue

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

Grenada Barber Shop,
No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.
Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of
NEW PIANOS
of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are these wonderful
Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.
221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's
UPTOWN GROCERY
Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.
J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO., —Dealers in—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY
to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant,
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,
301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,
—DEALERS IN—
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.
Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS,
441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,
formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at
No. 107 East Front St. Dunham's real estate office.
EVERY THURSDAY,
From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,
147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.
A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

COAL Best Lehighs, all domestic sizes, $4.50 per ton delivered. No. 2 coal $3.75 delivered.
FRED W. HAND,
[illegible] South ave. 132 North ave.
TELEPHONE 139.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.50 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

CLIMAX STOPPER CO.,
Machine Works,
Corner Washington and 4th sts., manufacturers of bicycle specialties. Electric and special machinery, experimental work, tools etc. Contractors for electric light wiring, telephones, burglar alarms, etc.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.

Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS.—EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Ten Sweet Caporal Little Cigars for 5 cts.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating,
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

GOLD BARS WERE BRASS

A Southern Farmer Caught at an Old Game.

Lugged 96 Pounds of Metal He Supposed Was Gold a Long Distance Only To Find He Had Been Duped. Out $1,000, But "Saved" $600, as the Sharper Demanded $1,600.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—A Mississippi farmer climbed up the stone steps of the mint in this city yesterday afternoon lugging two satchels which, according to his belief, contained two gold bars. He had given $1,000 of his hard earned cash to a man believed to be a Spaniard, but known to be a swindler. The latter traveled with the Mississippi farmer, who says his name is A. P. Peareifield, as far as Cincinnati, but there he disappeared, and the farmer came on to Philadelphia.

96 Pounds of Brass.

Peareifield presented himself with his weighty load to Deposit Clerk Jones when he reached the mint. To him the Mississippian explained that he had two gold bars weighing forty-eight pounds each which he would like to convert into ready money. Jones only handled one of Peareifield's bars for a minute when he saartled his visitor with the statement that his supposed gold was nothing more than brass decorated with gold paint. This assertion was so paralyzing in its effect upon Peareifield that he stood speechless for a minute and then rushed out of the mint without his satchels shouting to the doorkeeper as he passed him that he would be back.

Saved $600 Anyway.

When Peareifield was visited in his hotel several hours after the trick had been made clear to him, he explained that while working on his farm, near Benoyd station, Mississippi, on Friday last, a man offered to sell him the bricks claiming to have found them in a wood near Memphis, Tenn. He admitted that he paid $1,000 for them, but that the stranger first wanted $1,600.

HOWGATE ADMITTED TO BAIL.

Released by the Court of Appeals Under $15,000 Bonds.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Captain Henry W. Howgate was last evening admitted to bail pending the action of the court of appeals upon his appeal from the judgment of the criminal court of the district sentencing him to a term of imprisonment for crimes committed while acting as disbursing officer of the signal service about fifteen years ago. The order directing that this be done recites that the order was made "in view of the special circumstances of this case; the court acting upon its discretion under the rule this day adopted by it." This rule is a most important one, settling once for all the question of the right of the court of appeals and of the district supreme court to admit a convicted and sentenced defendant to bail pending the final disposition of his appeal to the court of appeals. The bond was fixed in the sum of $15,000, the sureties being Ada Howgate, the captain's faithful daughter, John H. Murphy and William Hornaday.

COINING SMALL SILVER.

Work on Gold Double Eagles Temporarily Suspended.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—There being a heavy demand just now for half and quarter dollars, work on double-eagles has been suspended for a time at the United States mint, and the presses will begin turning out silver this morning. It has not yet been decided just how many will be coined, but the number will probabaly run into the millions before the work on them stops. Since the 1st of September there have been coined 166,666 double eagles. This in addition to over 200,000 eagles, 32,000 half eagles and 20,000 one-quarter eagles. When enough silver is coined to supply the demand the presses will begin to stamp gold again.

MAUD STEIDEL ARRIVES HOME.

Father Wagner Confesses and Asks Permission To Marry the Girl.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 3.—Maud Steidel arrived home from Chicago yesterday accompanied by her brother-in-law, Eli Podvant. She looked happy when she alighted from the train but the meeting with her mother was very sorrowful. Elandt, Father Wagner's brother-in-law, was also one of the party. He was in the custody of a detective. Father Wagner confessed everything last evening and asked permission to marry the girl. His confession was made to Sheriff Adriano and Alexander Podvant, the girl's uncle. No action has yet been taken by the girl's relatives.

WAGES ADVANCED 10 PER CENT

Hosiery Company Working Double Time To Fill Orders.

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Norristown Hosiery company, employing 200 hands, has advanced the wages of its employes 10 per cent. The firm is compelled to run double time and has orders enough ahead to last six months.

LEXOW'S OPPONENT NAMED.

George Dickey Will Run Against the Little Senator.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 3.—George Dickey of Rockland county has been nominated for the senate by the democratic convention for the twenty-third district. His opponent is Senator Lexow.

Naval Promotions.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The president has approved the following naval promotions: Lieutenants W. P. White and G. H. Stafford to be lieutenant commanders, and assistant engineer A. B. Carnegie to be a passed assistant engineer.

Explosion in a Fireworks Factory.

Jersey City, Oct. 3.—Six persons were injured yesterday afternoon by an explosion of roman candles in the fireworks factory of Detwiller & Street, in West side avenue. One of the injured, Wm. Seckel, will probably die.

Southern Baseball Tour Abandoned.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—Manager Irwin of the Philadelphia Baseball club announces that the proposed tour of the Philadelphia and Baltimore clubs through the south has been abandoned.

HUMANE POLICY FOR CUBA.

Canovas' Cabinet Considers Early Crushing of the Rebellion Such.

Havana, Sept. 26, via Key West, Oct. 3.—The public announcement made here that the Canovas cabinet will pursue a moderate and humane policy in Cuba gives the greatest satisfaction. The recognized enemy of a moderate policy in the cabinet has been Senor Romero Robledo, who, as minister of justice and legal adviser to the government, has proven a violent obstructionist to the moderate policy that now has the cordial approval of a majority of the government, including the premier, Canovas del Castillo; the Duke of Tetuan, minister of foreign affairs; Senor Castellanos, minister for the colonies, and others. They, one and all, are in favor of the liberal measures for Cuba, being those voted by the cortes in March last. As soon as the war is closed, if the government and not the insurgents are successful, the new laws will be put in force.

Evidence of Our Friendliness.

Captain General Martinez Campos is in active touch and sympathy with the Madrid cabinet. He insists on a liberal and humane policy. The policy of the Canovas cabinet naturally is in favor of active operations and the early crushing of the rebellion which it regards as really the most humane course. Spain must be mindful of her unacclimated troops in Cuba. The strict neutrality observed by the American government has been cited by Premier Canovas del Castillo as the best evidence of the friendliness of the United States, likewise its activity in suppressing revolutionary expeditions.

Large Naval Fleet for Cuba.

Havana, Sept. 26, via Key West, Fla., Oct. 3.—Three of the gunboats now building in British shipyards for Spain's Cuban service have been launched. They will be equipped as rapidly as possible and will then be dispatched to Cuba. Cadiz cablegrams state that a large naval fleet is there being prepared for active service and at an early date will sail for Cuba.

Home Rule for Cuba.

A Madrid cablegram, just published here, states that the Canovas government will give full effect to the law of Abarzuza. This law, which was passed by the cortes before the rebellion broke out, gives Cuba a measure of home rule, and was accepted by the Cuban deputies in the cortes as a substantial advance towards home rule. Senor Sagasta, the leader of the liberty party in Spain, has taken firm ground for a moderate, broad guage policy in Cuba, and, advanced as his policy is, it will have the endorsement of the Canovas cabinet.

PANIC ON A FERRYBOAT.

When in Mid-Stream a Big Load of Waste Paper Catches Fire.

New York, Oct. 3.—The two or three hundred passengers on the ferryboat Washington of the Pennsylvania railroad which left Jersey City late last evening for the Courtland street slip, were thoroughly frightened before they reached their destination. When the boat was in mid-river a two horse truck on board loaded with waste paper caught fire from a lighted match and in a moment the whole truck was ablaze, whereupon a hundred frightened voices shouted to pilot Morris M. Hunt to go ahead at full speed. The crowded condition of the boat made it impossible for fire lines to be worked to advantage, and when the Washington bounded into her slip ten minutes later the woodwork at the entrance to the ladies' cabin on the port side of the boat aft was ablaze. The scene at this time was one of the greatest excitement. Men were running to and fro trying to quiet screaming women and assisting to keep the horses on the boat from becoming panic-stricken. As soon as the boat touched the bridge a tug came alongside and the flaming truck was thrown into the river. Firemen had by this time arrived and they quickly extinguished the blazing woodwork of the Washington. None of the passengers are known to have been hurt.

MR. SPOFFORD'S ACCOUNTS.

Generally Believed That Nothing Serious Is the Matter with Them.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The requisitions of Congressional Librarian Spofford are passing through the treasury department now regularly. It cannot be ascertained whether the alleged differences in his accounts as found by Auditor Holcomb have been satisfactorily adjusted. All the papers in the case are now in the hands of the president for his action. The impression is becoming more general every day that nothing serious is the matter with Mr. Spofford's accounts.

BUFFALO BILL IN WASHINGTON

The Old Scout Given a Reception by the Army and Navy Club.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Col. Wm. F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," was given a reception yesterday afternoon at the Army and Navy club by the officers of the army who had known him in former years. The affair was entirely informal and the renewal of old acquaintances and the formation of new friendships were exceedingly enjoyable.

GEN. MILES APPOINTED.

Ordered to Washington To Take Command of the Army.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Secretary Lamont issued an order yesterday afternoon detailing Gen. Miles to duty in Washington as general in the army, and Gen. Ruger, now on special duty in Washington, to command the department of the east with headquarters in New York.

Only One Bid Received.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The navy department received but one bid under its advertisement asking for proposals for making the Lee gun, the new small arm adopted by the navy. The bid was that of the Winchester Repeating Arms company of New Haven, Conn., and the amount asked $17.60 each.

Officers for Cruiser Boston.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The following officers have been ordered to prepare for duty on the cruiser Boston: Commander N. Ludlow, lieutenants H. R. Tyler, H. H. Hasley and J. L. Jayne, chief-engineer R. R. Leitch and paymaster J. R. Martin.

Yorktown at Chemulpo.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The navy department has been advised of the arrival at Chemulpo of the Yorktown.

AGAINST PRIZE FIGHTS

The Texas Legislature Upholds the Governor.

The Bill Prohibiting Prize Fighting Passed with Little Opposition—Severe Punishment Prescribed—Corbett and Fitzsimmons' Plans in Texas Are Thus Upset.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 3.—Corbett and Fitzsimmons must find another place than Texas in which to pull off their fight for the championship of the world. The special session of the legislature by a vote that was practically unanimous in the senate and only a little less in the house passed the bill prohibiting prize fighting and thus accomplished the purpose for which the governor assembled them in special session. The vote by which the bill was carried furnishes the strongest proof of the sentiment of the state with reference to prize fighting. The only rallying point of the minority was opposition to the emergency clause which carried the bill into immediate effect.

Opposed It Only To Prevent Loss.

Certain of the members honestly regarded it as an injustice to such of the citizens of Dallas as had spent large sums in anticipation of the fight and opposed it for that reason alone. Their arguments were not effective, however, and the vote in the house on the final passage of the bill showed but 5 votes in opposition with 107 in its favor. In the Senate the bill was carried with only 1 negative vote in the 27 that were cast.

A Few Amendments Adopted.

The senate made quick work of the measure. It had taken a recess until 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in order that the Dallas people might be given a full hearing by the judiciary committee. Within twenty-five minutes after reassembling the bill passed. The work in the house was not so expeditious. The house is the larger body and several members desired to be heard upon the senate bill which was substituted for the house bill then pending. Amid applause a number of amendments were offered. Several were adopted, but these do not change the measure in any material extent except to make it still more effective. As a result of these amendments the bill will be returned to the senate today, but its adoption in amended form will be delayed no longer than necessary to call the roll. It will then be sent to the governor and when his signature shall have been attached it will become a law.

Heavy Penalty Prescribed.

The bill makes prize-fighting a felony and imposes a punishment upon the principals for every infraction of the law by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of not less than two nor more than five years.

Sports Greatly Disappointed.

The Dallas promoters of the fight and sports in general are greatly disappointed at the action of the legislature, but it is said the fight will be pulled off somewhere outside the state. Several places are mentioned, but it is evident that a spot in Mexico or Indian Territory will be selected.

$18,000 ON FITZSIMMONS.

Riley Grannan Puts His Money on the Australian at Odds of 3 to 5.

New York, Oct. 3.—The betting on the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight has taken a sudden start, with odds in favor of the Californian. It was reported to-day that Riley Grannan, the race track plunger, placed large bets aggregating $18,000 on Fitzsimmons at odds of 3 to 5.

PRINCE HENRY BANISHED.

Quarrelled with the Kaiser and Practically Forced To Leave.

London, Oct. 3.—It is now known there has been a difference of opinion between Emperor William and his brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, which has assumed large proportions and the efforts of the Empress Frederick to arrange matters has been fruitless. Prince Henry has been practically banished on account of the quarrel which arose in connection with the Baltic canal and he has been given a year's leave of absence.

15-YEAR-OLD SUICIDE.

A Pretty Luzerne Girl Kills Herself for Love.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 3.—Isabel Bottoms, aged 15 years, the daughter of Thomas Bottoms, a well-known landlord at Luzerne, three miles from here, committed suicide yesterday, taking poison. It was said that she was in love with a man some years her senior, but her mother had objected to his suit. She was a pretty blonde and her rash act has caused the greatest surprise in the neighborhood where she lived.

SILK WEAVERS STRIKE.

Yonkers Workmen Quit Because Refused Regular Prices.

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The silk weavers employed by Pass Bros., manufacturers of silk hat bands and bindings, struck yesterday because the firm would not pay the regular prices for doing fall millinery work. The strike of the weavers throws all the hands out of work. The weavers gave in to the firm at a recent strike, but they are now determined.

HARVEST FOR THE SCHOONERS.

Many Secured Full Cargoes of Salved Goods from the Mariposa.

St. John, N. F., Oct. 3.—The wrecked Dominion line steamer Mariposa has not yet broken up and most of her cargo is being saved. There is, however, no prospect of her ever getting off the rocks. Nearly all the coasting schooners within a radius of fifty miles have secured full cargoes of salved goods.

Franco-Canadian Treaty.

London, Oct. 3.—The representative in this city of the United Press learns that the foreign office is again discussing a treaty between Canada and France. It is expected that the ratifications of the convention will be exchanged in a few days.

McKeever Knocks Out Valentine.

Maspeth, L. I., Oct. 3.—McKeever knocked Valentine out in one-minute of the seventh round in the bout before the Empire Athletic club last night.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 3, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Generally Fair, with Northeasterly Winds.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 74 Degrees.

Primary Meeting.

The Democratic voters of North Plainfield township will assemble in the First District in the basement of the School House and in the Second District in Saenger Bund Hall, on Friday evening, Oct. 4, at 8 o'clock to elect three (3) delegates in each district to attend the Democratic County Convention on Monday, Oct. 7. By order of

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 3—Opening reception of the Plainfield Art School at 212 West Front street.
October 3—Meeting of Victor Wheelmen.
October 3—Reception of the Cypress Fife and Drum Corps at T. A. B. Hall.
October 3—Meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein. Evening.
October 3—Ragamuffin party at Central Hall, given by the women of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church.
October 4—Meeting of the Stewards' of the First M. E. Church in Vincent Chapel. Evening.
October 4—Business meeting and sociable of the Epworth League of the First M. E. Church.
October 4—Meeting of the Borough Council.
October 4—Borough Democratic primary to elect delegates for the county convention.
October 4—Annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church.
October 6—Rally services in the First M. E. church.
October 6—Meeting of the new Catholic Club.
October 7—Entertainment and dance at Saengerbund Hall.
October 7—Meeting of the City Common Council.
October 7—Meeting of the Board of Education.

New Jersey has five Gubernatorial candidates in the field.

There will be no county officers elected at the November election.

A new law went into effect in New York State yesterday which makes it a misdemeanor to divulge anything heard in conversation over the telephone.

The last Pennsylvania Legislature passed an act providing that "all persons who use tires not less than four inches in width for hauling loads of not less than 2,000 pounds weight shall for each year after the passage of the act receive a rebate of one-fourth of their assessed highway tax."

The Bureau of Statistics of Berlin recently gathered some statistics which prove that accidents from lightning strokes have greatly increased of late. This is said to be due to the disappearance of forests, the use of electricity in various industries and to the carbon vapors arising from towns. The number of such accidents in France, where the records have also been kept, is also very much greater than at the beginning of the century.

The New Jersey Democratic State Committee, which has established headquarters in Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, organized yesterday afternoon. Edward F. C. Young, president of the First National bank, of Jersey City, was elected chairman, succeeding Allan L. McDermott, who held the chairmanship for several years. Willard C. Fiske was elected secretary and William Pintard, assistant secretary. Mr. Young was authorized to appoint an executive committee, and when he does so the active work of the campaign will be begun.

There had been a great falling off in the quanity of fruit shipped from California to the east up to Sept. 1st, this year as compared with previous years. This year's shipments fall 20,900,000 pounds below those of last year up to the same date. Only 2,900 carloads crossed the Sierra Nevada this year as against 4,280 car loads during the same period last year, or 71,760,000 pounds as compared with 102,020,000. It is estimated that 1,500 car loads will yet go forward this reason, but even then the shipments will be fully 1,500 car loads, or 26,000,000 pounds below last year's record. The decrease is attributed to the failure of the apricot and early pear and peach crops. Two severe frosts last spring caused most of the damage. The grape crop is very large, and the late pears and peaches have turned out well. As now estimated, the total fruit shipments by rail from California this year will foot up 107,700 pounds.

TIME TO GO HOME.

The Horse Thought So and Ran to a Livery Stable.

A runaway took place on Jackson avenue at about 2 o'clock this morning, when Howard Snowden, of New Market, was returning from the dance at Coomb's Hotel in Westfield, when his horse became frightened and ran away. At Duer street the bolt to the whiffletree come out and the horse went on leaving Mr. Snowden and the buggy behind. The horse was finally found at Roberts' livery stable.

Librarian's Report.

The following is the Librarian's report of the Public Library for the month of September:

Vols. on accession-book Aug. 31st, 1895	13,419
" added by purchase and exchange	7
" " " gift	13
" " " binding	38
Vols now in library	13,477
Number of card-holders	3,746
Cash received from fines and sales	$ 19.46
" " " subs. of non-resid's	6.00
" " " sale of catalogues	2.00

HOME CIRCULATION.

Fiction	1,279
Juvenile	425
Biography	117
Travel	134
Philosophy	17
Religion	28
Sociology	52
Philology	3
Natural Science	39
Useful Arts	19
Fine Arts	38
Literature	122
History	125
General works	9
Total	2,404
Total for Sept., 1894	2,201
Gain	203

Visitors to building—2,964.

Gifts during the month—

Sept. 3—From Monday Afternoon Club, Burckhardt's Civilization and Mrs. Oliphant's Makers of Florence.

Sept. 10—From State of New Jersey, Equity reports, v. 52.

Sept. 11—From U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Yearbook, 1894.

Sept. 16—From Miss E. R. Leonard, Charities Review, 1893-'94 [unbound].

Sept. 16—From Miss M. L. Hotchkiss, Littell's Living Age, 4 v. [unbound].

Sept. 16—N. J. Law Journal, Law Journal, v. 17, [unbound].

Sept. 16—U. S. Div. of Entomblogy, Insect Life, v. 6, [unbound].

Sept. 17—W. F. Tiemann, 159th Infantry, N. Y. State Volunteers.

Sept. 28—J. W. Murray, V. 46, pt. 2 and maps U. S. Rebellion Records.

EMMA L. ADAMS,
Librarian.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Victor Wheelmen meet tonight.

The Crescent Wheelmen will have a run to Rahway this evening.

Thomas A. Cuming has just received the gold watch which he won as first prize in the Gilchester Serial Handicap. The watch is a beauty.

A moonlight run is the most enjoyable of all evening runs and for this evening Captain T. A. Cuming, of the Y. M. C. A. Cyclers, has ordered a run to Summit. The start will be made from the Y. M. C. A. building at 7:15 sharp and all are invited to turn out.

George Homan, Alfred Baker and B. E. Mundy took a spin on the triplet, which is the property of three prominent Plainfield riders, last evening. The full moon made the riding very enjoyable and the three spent a pleasant evening on the machine.

A Plainfield cyclist came to grief in front of the First National Bank yesterday afternoon. A little black dog made a jump in front of the wheel, and rider, machine and howling canine went in a heap. The wheel man pulled himself together and rode off in a most disgusted manner apparently unharmed by his fall.

High School Notes.

The Cicero class received their books this week and are now deeply interested in the orations of the great Roman orator.

The medal which The Daily Press has offered to the young athlete of the P. H. S. A. A. who makes the largest number of points at the coming field day, October 12th, has stirred up many of the young men.

Among those who were training on the Crescent Oval Tuesday afternoon were: Wilbur F. Cornwell, Henry Eggerding, George P. Smith, L. Hillman, George Coard and Herbert L. Richardson.

—The Borough Council meet tomorrow evening.

—These cool nights bring thoughts of heavy underwear and while thinking of it take a trip to White's. They commence tomorrow a special sale of fine underwear for ladies, gentlemen and children. They say remarkably low prices.

Worried,

tired — overworked — sleeplessness — gloomy — nervous. Nervous prostration? No — Dyspepsia Indigestion. Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills cure this sort of nervous prostration, and is almost the only medicine that will.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills.

A sample will be mailed free for the asking. For sale at druggists', 25c. White wrapper if constipated, yellow if bowels are loose.

DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, N. Y.

Additional Local News on Page 8

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Edward E. Vail went to Trenton to attend the fair today.

Bert Fletcher, of New Market, is on a business trip to Boston.

Wm. VanSickle, the North avenue butcher, is in Trenton today.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Pope and son went to Philadelphia yesterday.

F. J. Miller and family, of Carleton avenue, have moved to East Orange.

Miss Martha Merrill, of LaGrande avenue, is visiting relatives in Trenton.

The Misses Tracy, of West Eighth street, are visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston, of East Fifth street, left yesterday for Philadelphia.

A baby girl has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Addis, Jr., on North avenue.

Pliny Fisk and family, of West Seventh street, have returned from the Adirondacks.

Bert Gardner, of Philadelphia, returned this morning after a visit with his mother in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of Willow avenue, are spending a week with Brooklyn friends.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Moore, of West Front street are in Trenton today attending the Inter-State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tully and daughter, of Netherwood, have returned from a visit at Philadelphia.

Miss Elizabeth A. Loux, of Philadelphia, is visiting at the home of J. E. Morse on Franklin place.

James D. Irwin and family, of Putnam avenue, left town today to take up their residence in Brooklyn.

City Judge Coddington and Lawyer George W. DeMeza went in New Brunswick yesterday on business.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Searles are visiting Mrs. Searles' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lowrie, on Park avenue.

John V. Beekman, of West Eighth street, has returned to his home after an extended visit on the Pacific coast.

Rev. Charles X. Hutchingson, of Newton, N. J., is visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Petrie of East Sixth street.

Miss Etta Raybert, of North avenue, attended a birthday dinner given in honor of Mrs. Lambert of Westfield yesterday.

Mrs. Brennan has left her home at Ridgewood and taken up her residence at the corner of Putnam and Carleton avenues.

C. W. McCutchen and family, of Rockview avenue, will return from Camp Pinafore, Adirondack Mountains, next week.

Miss May Coyn, of Jersey City, returned to her home yesterday after a visit with Miss Cora Richardson of East Sixth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Patterson returned to the home of Mrs. Patterson on Franklin place, this afternoon, after their wedding trip.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Heron, of South Plainfield, died at the home of its parents yesterday. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. H. M. Maxson returned from New York State yesterday, where she has been spending her summer vacation. Her health is much improved.

Dr. and Mrs. Russel and family, who reside in the northern part of Canada, are on a visit to Mrs. Russell's parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis.

Charles Wilson, of Summit, rode his wheel to Plainfield last night and called on his cousin, Wm. Wilson of the borough. His friend, J. Patterson, accompanied him.

Mr. Burnett and family, of Hillside avenue, Mr. Southard and family, of West Eighth street, and Mrs. J. S. Harberger, of West Front street, have gone to New York for the winter.

George Ball, of Front street, has resumed his course of study at the University of the city of New York Law School. His many friends in this vicinity wish him success in this, his senior year.

Captain Wm. Hand has gone to Connecticut with three loads of furniture for New York parties. His son, Frank Hand, went to New York yesterday to assist in loading the furniture.

—Tax-Collector H. N. Spencer, of Somerset street, is making some improvements about his store.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine your need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

BISMARCK.

Germany's Great Leader Speaks a Startling Truth.

And Gives a Lesson We Will Do Well to Heed.

He Says "Blood and Iron Rule the World."

Just What This May Mean to Every-One of Us.

Such Startling Words Bring the Truth Home to Us.

When Prince Bismarck, Germany's great leader said, "The world is not ruled by parliaments and political meetings, but by blood and iron," he uttered a truth, the extent of which few comprehend. The world is ruled by race—race is ruled by blood—pure blood. All genius and all talent, in war and in peace, is dependent on the conditions of the blood. It is the main spring of individual force and power. It vitalizes or enervates the physical and mental strength. We speak of blooded stock in the animal kingdom; it will apply with equal force to the human race.

When Greece was full of vital energy, when she cultivated her physical health she became mistress of the world, and her great Alexander wept for other worlds to conquer; but when she became effeminate a horde of barbarians overran and destroyed her, leaving behind them a path of mournful ruins. In tainted blood, impure and weak, was written that nation's sad epitaph. So queenly Roome and many another nation has suffered in the loss of physical prowess and been destroyed or hurt. We need, both as a nation and as individuals, to take this important lessen to ourselves. Be well and keep so; mend up the waste places; strengthen the nerves and purify the blood. Then, long life is assured; good work in the world will come, and you will know the blessings of sound body and happy mind. Nothing has yet been discovered to accomplish this like Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

The great Bismark did no more for Germany in discovering her elements of unity and enforcing them, than has this distinguished specialist done for mankind in discovering his wonderful remedy for all blood ailments and nerve weakness, giving health and strength and happiness to all who will take it and be cured of their suffering. Do not fail to improve this fortunate opportunity. Take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and you can be well and strong, strong to conquer what end you undertake in life.

Mr. F. A. Arnold, of Woodsville, N. H., says: "Three months ago I was in a very debilitated state. My stomach refused to act, and after eating I suffered pain from indigestion. My blood was in a very low state, and I was in no condition to work. I did keep around, but suffered continually. My kidneys bothered me considerably, and I had continual pain in the small of my back.

"I was considerably discouraged about my condition, and feared that I should be obliged to give up work. I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and its wonderful results upon others, and I determined to try it.

"I had no faith in the virtues of the remedy when I began its use, but now I am rejoiced to say that I cannot help having faith, for it completely cured me, and I work with comfort every day.

"My business is railroading, which I could not do now if it had not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and I gladly recommend it to all."

Why waste time in trying uncertain and untried remedies, when here is a physician's prescription, a discovery made by the greatest living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City. If you take this medicine you can consider yourself under Dr. Greene's professional care, and you can consult him or write to him about your case, freely and without charge. This is a guarantee that his remedy will cure, possessed by no other medicine in the world.

Darling Case Not Yet Investigated.

The Middlesex county grand jury have not yet investigated the case of William Darling, who killed Harry Dunham at New Market some weeks ago. Several indictments have been handed in, but as the work of the jury is not yet finished, it is yet possible the case may be investigated before an adjournment is taken.

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

The Camera Club will meet next week to act on some very important changes in the by-laws.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Yes

The Time Has Arrived to Buy

Fall Underwear

AT PECK'S.

Ever Ready PREPARED BUCKWHEAT FLOUR

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills. 24 Somerset street. Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT.

In this department we aim to give the patron's individuality to each special order, and will guarantee personal satisfaction, styles correct and prices always lowest (quality and workmanship considered.)

Ladies' trimmed hats at popular city prices. Untrimmed velvet hats at moderate prices on grades of velvet.

Latest novelties in feather effects, wings and ornaments.

Sailors in black, navy, brown and red 39, 49 and 65c.

Misses' hats trimmed in Nacre ribbon and quills $2.98 and $3.98.

Paris and New York styles for fall and winter of 1895-96 displayed in our parlors.

Will Exhibit and Place on Sale Wednesday,

Sept. 25, in our Dress Goods and Silk Department, rich silk creations in beautiful and artistic colorings and designs—fashionable fabrics in black and colored dress goods, comprising the newest plain and fancy weaves, made in the most modern designs, for early fall and winter wear.

Silk Department.

79 Cents — All silk colored fancy Taffetas, comprising the newest chameleon effects, handsome designs, 20 inches wide, especially adapted for waists, worth 93c yard.

83 Cents — 24-inch all silk black brocaded Taffetas, heavy quality, exquisite designs, high lustre, undoubtedly worth $1 a yard.

98 Cents — Black satin with colored figures, excellent combinations, latest Parisian colorings; worth $1.25 per yard.

Dress Goods Department.

29 Cents — All-wool Tweed suitings, 39 inches wide, in two-toned colorings, newest designs, very handsome value at 45c yard.

50 Cents — All-wool Meraglin Tweeds in two color blendings of blue and green, blue and brown, brown and tan; novelty designs; a high grade fabric; worth 69c.

75 Cents — Congo Bengalines, 45 inches wide, in rich colorings and designs of the newest rough weaves; actually worth $1 a yard.

79 Cents — Drap d'orsa Serpentine, a handsome silk and wool mixed novelty, very superior finish, in two-color blending green, garnet, brown effects; worth $1.

50 Cents — A beautiful line of all-wool Scotch plaids in a large variety of colors; worth 65c.

Black Dress Goods.

55 Cents — All-wool 54 inch black wide wale diagonal serges, worth 75c a yard.

Visit our Housefurnishing Department and see

WITCH KLOTH.

It is bewitched. It works wonders. It does not scratch.

CLEANS

Gold, brass, nickle, copper plated ware, bicycles, etc., bright, clean and free from corrosion, tarnish, stains or dirt. We will show you how to use it this week. Bring in your silverware and have it cleaned

FREE

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, waterproof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the First M. E. church met this afternoon.

—The Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church hold a meeting this afternoon.

—Minerva Temple, R. S., will hold an entertainment Thursday evening, October 24th.

—Three Saturday night scrappers were fined $5 apiece in city police court yesterday morning.

—The executive committee of the W. C. T. U. held their regular monthly meeting this morning.

—The Cypress Fife and Drum Corps hold their first grand reception in T. A. B. hall this evening.

—The McAll Auxiliary held the first of its fall meetings in the Public Library yesterday afternoon.

—M. F. Marcley, of New street, is building an addition to his house on the corner of New and Second streets.

—Swedish services will be held in Reform Hall this evening when Rev. Mr. Magnussen, of Dover, will preach.

—Look out for the electric sparks from Peck's packing case opener. His fall stock has arrived all at once.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps met Tuesday evening and adopted an entire new set of by-laws.

—Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet tomorrow evening.

—Captain Wm. Hand, of Park avenue, lost a valuable horse by death Tuesday night. He valued the animal at $200.

—The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church met this afternoon for the first time this fall.

—At the meeting of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 26, F. and A. M., last evening, one candidate received the third degree.

—Business first and pleasure afterwards will be the programme at the meeting of the Epworth League tomorrow evening.

—The annual meeting of the Relief Association will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building on Friday, October 6th at 10 o'clock a. m.

—The Norwood Athletic Association will meet this evening and the members will enjoy themselves initiating two new candidates.

—At the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, you can obtain a latest style derby hat in black or brown for $1.25, worth $2.50. 6

—The Young Ladies' Mission Band of the First Presbyterian church met this afternoon and made arrangements for work in the coming fall and winter.

—The Roselle sewerage system is nearly completed, and it is now possible to give figures as to its cost. Allowing for all extras the price will not exceed $30,000.

—Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening at which time there will be initiation. The committee on anniversary will also make a report.

—The junior auxiliary of Grace church will resume its meetings on Friday next at three o'clock in the chapel. Miss Starr, who has recently returned from China wearing the native costume, will talk to the children.

—The following are the committee who have charge of the benefit which the Pond Tool Social Club will give to Daniel Manley in the T. A. B hall on Friday evening, October 18th: L Stephen, C. Reagan, S. Stewart, D. Keefe and D. Morning.

—Home-made and sold on its merits is the principal claim that French Brothers' ever ready buckwheat flour is sold on. And it is a good claim too. There is nothing half so palatable these cool morning as a plate of steaming buckweat cakes, and when they are made from the product of French Brothers mill they just strike the right spot.

—E. E. Anthony, President of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, made the address at the anniversary exercises of the South Plainfield society on Sunday evening last. Mr. Anthony's remarks were full of enthusiasm for the Christian Endeavor cause, interspersed with just enough humor to make it entertaining and helpful.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AN APPEAL.

Contributions for the Support of the Hospital Desired.

To the People of Plainfield and Vicinity:

Muhlenberg Hospital is in serious financial embarrassment. The income of the Hospital, derived from annual subscriptions, from donations, and from the few paying patients, is altogether inadeqate to its needs; and at the close of a summer, during which the demands upon the institution have been unprecedentedly heavy, the Hospital is in debt to the amount of $2.100.

The Finance Committee earnestly appeal to you for assistance in this emergency.

Contributions, whether small or large, will be gratefully received by any member of the Finance Committee, by Mr. H. P. Reynolds, corner Park and North avenues, or by Mr. George H. Goddard, Treasurer, No. 205 East Ninth street, Plainfield, to whose order all checks should be drawn.

Regular annual subscribers for any amount from $10 upward are specially desired and blanks for such subscriptions may be obtained from the undersigned, from Mr. Goddard, or from Mr. Reynolds.

The committee hope that their appeal on behalf of sick and suffering humanity may meet with a prompt and generous response.

Francis Wood, 313 Franklin Pl.
Wm. E. Lowe, 1024 Park Ave.
John M. Whiton, 821 Central Ave.
Chas. W. Schipper, 705 W. 7th St.
Chas. P. Bull, 226 E. 9th St.
Finance Committee.

Dunellen.

Miss Maggie Voorhees, of Greenbrook, is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Laing are entertaining Miss Cecelia Laing.

Samuel Merrill is moving the household goods of Mrs. B. Ball to Brooklyn.

Mrs. Messler, of North avenue, spent Monday at Bound Brook visiting relatives.

Mrs. R. Rollison, of New York, is visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milligan.

A. D. Pope, of Plainfield, is busy papering the walls of the house occupied by Walter Apgar.

Mrs. VanArsdale, of Front street, spent Wednesday in Plainfield visiting among friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams, of Garwood, were the guests of friends on Front street, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Gregory, of Newark, who has been visiting the family of Alva Gray, has returned home.

A meeting of the Epworth League of the M. E. church was held Tuesday evening in the lecture room.

Miss May Paynton, of Plainfield, spent Sunday as the guest of Miss May Gise, of Jefferson avenue.

Miss VanDeventer, of Netherwood, was the guest on Tuesday of Miss Randolph, of Mountain avenue.

Mrs. Dorsit, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Laing, of Front street, has returned to her home in North Carolina.

Mrs. Wm. Van Middlesworth, of High street, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of Liberty street, Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peters, of Nyack, N. Y., rode to Dunellen on their wheels Sunday, and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, of North avenue.

Thanked by the Firemen.

John H. Tier, Jr., the popular ice dealer, is greatly in favor at the fire department head quarters at present. All through the warm weather he has been gratuitously leaving a large cake of ice every day to quench the thirst of the firemen. Now that winter is approaching and the need of ice done away with the members of the department wish to heartily thank Mr. Tier through the columns of The Press for his kindness in furnishing them ice during the hot summer months.

Mills to Speak.

B Fay Mills, the well-known evangelist will hold a series of meetings at Bayonne this week, beginning today. The meetings will continue for a week, and a number of Plainfield people are planning to go down and hear him.

Plainfield Commuters Delayed.

The train on the New Jersey Central which leaves New York at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, was delayed half an hour yesterday just outside of Jersey City by the engine breaking down.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Y. M. C. A. football team will meet for practice this evening.

The advisory committee of the Central New Jersey Football League will meet tomorrow evening evening in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

Report of the Condition

OF

The First National Bank,

at Plainfield, in the State of New Jersey, at the close of business,

SEPTEMBER 28, 1895.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$563,594 80
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		2,266 13
U. S. bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
Bills receivable		5,751 09
Stocks, securities, etc		1,800 00
Banking house, furniture and fixtures		11,121 85
Other real estate and mortgages owned		51,690 67
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		5,547 [illegible]
Due from approved reserve agents		63,862 [illegible]
Checks and other cash items		12,755 [illegible]
Notes of other National Banks		2,305 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		820 76
Lawful money reserve in bank, viz:
Specie	30,030 95
Legal tender notes	48,896 00	78,926 95
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer, 5 per cent. of circulation		2,250 00
Total		$852,369 [illegible]

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	200,000 00
Surplus fund	50,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	39,189 [illegible]
National bank notes outstanding	44,127 [illegible]
Due to other National Banks	7,273 [illegible]
Dividends unpaid	910 00
Individual deposits subject to check	465,669 [illegible]
Demand certificates of deposit	44,587 [illegible]
Certified checks	623 [illegible]
Total	$852,369 [illegible]

State of New Jersey, County of Union, ss:

I, F. S. Runyon, cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3d day of October, 1895.

NELSON RUNYON, Notary Public of N. J.

Correct attest:—
H. M. ESTIL,
WM. M. STILLMAN,
D. F. RANDOLPH,
Directors.

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 30, 1895.

Austin Annie B	Lee James
Anderson Archer	McKibben Mrs Alice
Allen James	Miller R W 3
Ashley Mrs L I	Miller W H
Brown Charlotte M	Mulligan Ellen
Brown Miss	Moran J M
Butsche Geo	McLaughlin Laura
Brown Mrs Annie	Mills Mrs F H
Bunner Mrs	Nathan Miss C 3
Chambers A	Osborn Mary
Campbell Fannie	O'Brien Lizzie
Cline John	Pugh Annie 2
Emery W H	Parker Edward 2
Gadling Jno J	Porteous J S
Gyllenberg Lotten	Rodriguez Mercedes
Giles H J	Tienan Mrs E
Godfrey D F	Voss Annie
Jennings Mrs L S	Vial Gus 2
Jones Miss S	Wigg C
Kelly Jacob 3	Wood Miss Maggie
	Watson Mike A

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

CATARRH ELY'S Cream Balm

Is quickly absorbed, cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BOTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York

See Our Name,

Take Our Number,

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

'ONLY SKIN DEEP', yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will surely do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

Councilmen Dissatisfied.

The councilmanic sewer committee are very much dissatisfied with Contractor John Marsden's work. At present he is laying about twenty-five feet of pipe daily, and in order to complete the work by November 1st, he would have to lay 100 feet of pipe. Mr. Marsden still says, however, that he will finish the work within the time limit.

DIED.

THISTLETHWAITE—In this city, 10th mo. 2d, 1895, Elizabeth W. Thistlethwaite, aged 90 years.

Funeral services from the Friends' Meeting House, Watchung avenue, 10th month, 4th, Seventh day, at 11:30 a. m. 2

HERON—At South Plainfield, Oct. 2, 1895, infant child of Mary and Neal Heron.

Funeral from parents residence Friday, Oct. 4, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives are respectfully invited to attend. Interment at St. Mary's Cemetery.

For Sale or Exchange

For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of

Between 4 and 5 Acres

well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.

9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given that the account of the subscriber, administrator of Patrick H. Day, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the thirtieth day of October next.

Dated August 28, 1895.

8 29 10-ouw JAMES J. DAY.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

LOST—Small open-face silver watch with initials E. B. W. on back. Finder kindly return to B., care Press. 10 1 3

THREE rooms to let on first floor. Address C. S. care Press.

GIRL for housework, small family. 817 First place. 10 3 2

WANTED—Competent woman to clean house. Address T. C. B., care Press. 10 2 2

WANTED—Experienced chambermaid and waitress; reference required. 93 Rockview ave.

WANTED—Competent girl for general housework; two in family; wages $12. Apply 817 First place.

SEPARATE teaching and dinner wanted for a girl of 13 years; slightly paralyzed. Address with terms, Good Care, Press office.

FOR SALE—The handsome property at 543 West 8th st. Apply to John M. Crane as above, or 53 Williams st., New York.

MIDDLE aged American woman wants situation as housekeeper for aged couple or widower; good plain cook. Address Mrs. C., care Press.

WANTED. — Work by the day; sweeping or cleaning by white woman. P. O. Box 302.

LOST—$5 between Grandview avenue and depot. Liberal reward paid for its return to this office. 10 2 2

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

FOR SALE—Piano at great sacrifice, $75; excellent tone and condition; owner leaving town. 24 Sandford avenue. 10 1 tf

WANTED—3 or 4 good boys to deliver circulars at stores and residences. Address by letter only, giving name, age and residence, E. C. Howard, 237 East 9th st. 10 1 3

FOR SALE—Bargain, 26 school desks with combination seats of the best make. Call in the morning at 1045 Arlington ave. 9 30 6

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

FENCE wanted; 300 to 400 feet if very cheap; state price expected. Bargain, care Press. 9 28 3-eod

TWO connecting rooms with board. Also table board. 231 East 6th st. 9 26 6

ROOM to let, with or without board to a lady. Address 322 East 5th street. 9 26 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up. per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

STORAGE, separate rooms, to let in Stillman block. 9 19 tf

FLATS and offices to let in Babcock block; steam heat; elevator service, etc. Wm. M. Stillman. 9 19 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield, $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

Twenty Years Ago

Store keeping was different. The people used to sit around and wait for the trade to come, and everybody was happy and made money. Quite different now, and a sure sign that people appreciate good storekeeping when we look back and see how this store has grown from mere nothing to Plaidfield's leading store, and we are going to stay where the people have put us—at the Head of the Heap.

37c is all you are asked to pay for white and natural wool underwear for ladies and gentlemen; they were 50 and 75c.
Blankets. We always had the name of selling the best blankets for the least money, and this year the name is still ours. See that 10x4 wool blanket that we ask $2.75 for.
Comfortables. Not the poor kind that are filled with shoddy. We don't sell that kind. Ours are filled with good white cotton and sold at the same prices that most stores ask for the poor ones. $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00.
39c for ladies' night robes, well made and nicely trimmed.
18c for 36-inch dress goods; all the new fall colorings.
25c for all-wool eider down flannel; all shades.
$2.75 for a 10x4 fine wool blanket.
5c each, large cotton towels, size 18x36.
10c, all-linen huck towels, size 20x40.
45c, 70-inch cream damask table linen; the 60c kind.
12c, ladies' fast black seamless hose.
10c, children's fast black seamless ribbed hose.
55c, 10x4 cotton blankets, white, tan and grey.
30c, men's medium weight shirts and drawers; the 50c kind.
27c for ladies fine ribbed vests; same as you usually pay 50c for.
20c for two-quart granite stew kettles.
13c for fine china cups and saucers; pink decorations.
27c for four-quart granite stew kettles.
55c for No. 7 granite tea kettles.
5c each for Mason's quart jars.
13c each for china tea pot stands.
10c for fine china cream pitchers.
10c for Japanese tea pots.
$6.98 for a 100 piece English porcelain decorated dinner set.
$1.89 for a fine decorated ten piece toilet set; worth $2.50.
75c. See those new chamois gloves in cream, tan and black. The best gloves made for wear.
12c per yard for 50 different styles of fine oriental laces.
12c each for gingham aprons. All well made.
12c each for silk Windsor ties.
13c for men's fast black half hose; same as you usually pay 25c for.
15c for the new satin crepons; beautiful effects.
49c for 54-ich Gilbert suitings; the best cloth in the market for wear.
45c for a 54-inch all-wool imperial serge, all shades. The best value we have ever offered.

You take no chances on anything you buy, as we are always willing to refund money on any article you buy that is not satisfactory.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Ladies fast black hose, seamless and narrow ankle	10c
Ladies fast tan hose, drop stitch	25c
Childrens fast black hose, double knee, seamless	18c
Gents fast tan half hose, seamless, spliced heel and toes	15c
Gents seamless half hose, extra 10c	3 pair for 25c
Gents colored border handkerchiefs	5c
Gents colored border hemstitched handkerchiefs	3 for 25c
17x34 huck towels	only 12c
22x44 huck towels	only 18c

The above goods are of extra value for the prices.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices

U. B. CRANE Hatter and Furnisher

120 West Front Street.

Van Emburgh's & Son's.

Hustling all the while, always busy as bees

The Newest Fall Goods

displayed only in Plainfield's Brightest Dry Goods Store. Plenty of day light. No danger of being deceived.

Ladies Lace Edge Handkerchiefs,	5c. each
Gingham Aprons, Fancy Borders,	12c. each
Ladies Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs,	10c. each
Ladies Cashmere Gloves, Extra Fine,	25c. pair
Fine Quality, Wide Oriental Lace,	8c. yard
New Fall Outing Flannel,	6c. yard
Red Damask Table Linen, Full Width,	20c. yard
Ladies Muslin Night Dresses,	49c. each
Half Bleached Table Linen, Extra Wide,	25c. yard
Fine Quality Writing Paper,	10c. box
Ladies White Skirts, Lace Trimmed,	49c. each
Shelf Oil-Cloth, all new colors,	5c. yard
All Linen Russia Crash,	12c. yard
Ammonia, 5c. Bottle	Sink Brushes, 3c. each
Tooth Picks, 3c. Box	Dish Mops, 3c. each
Lamp Chimneys, 5c. each	Egg Whips, 3c. each
Chopping Bowls, 10c. each	Nutmeg Graters, 1c. each
Floor Brooms, 10c. each	Fancy Cuspadores, 10c. each

VanEmburgh & Son.

New! New!

YES

But Stop, Consider

what a combination of valuable medicines,

Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,

BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.

Try a bottle and be convinced.

50C.

Leggett's Pharmacy.

Educational.

PLAINFIELD

BUSINESS COLLEGE

Babcock Building. Largest room; elevator. A great need to be supplied. Four regular courses—Commercial, Shorthand, Penmanship, English Branches. Everything first-class; 5 days and 4 nights a week. Public opening evening of Sept. 30; school begins Oct. 1. Address Rev. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J. 9 11 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE,

TEACHER OF

PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson

will re-open classes in

Physical Culture & Rendering

OCTOBER 1, 1895.

Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

MISS ALICE O. SMITH,

Teacher of piano, organ and harmony, will resume study Saturday, Sept. 14th, in W.C.T.U. Rooms, cor. Watchung ave. and 4th st. Particular attention given to formations of the hand. Pupils taken from rudimentary to the highest grades. For further particulars, terms, etc., call or address (Saturdays) at W. C. T. U. Room. 9 4 m

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE,

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM,

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.

9 4 tf

Rockview Home and Day School

REOPENS SEPT. 18,

Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.

THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's

School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

The Dancing Class

AT THE

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

ADS. IN STREET CARS

A BIG FORTUNE EXPENDED IN THE BUSINESS EVERY YEAR.

An Important Feature With the Advertising Agencies—Handsome Revenue For the Street Car Companies—How the Cities Rank as Desirable Fields.

The yearly expenditure for street car advertising in the United States has grown in five years from $300,000 to $3,000,000 and is constantly increasing.

The street car companies derive a handsome revenue from the leasing of their advertising spaces. One corporation, controlling several good lines in a neighboring city, receives annually $75,000 from this source, and over $65,000 annually is paid for the advertising privileges of the Boston street cars. But Boston is deemed by advertisers an exceptionally desirable field for them. It is indeed considered the best city in the country from this point of view, and Philadelphia ranks next. Chicago is third. Several factors enter into the problem of determining the hypothetical value of either a city or a car line to advertisers. The best line is that patronized most by observant, intelligent, English reading passengers, who have money to spend and are liberal in spending it—in brief, good average Americans, and the city in which those characteristics are distinctive is in like manner held to be best. Even in the several sections of a city, there is a sharp discrimination exercised by the experienced advertiser—as, for instance, between the east and west sides of New York, the latter being deemed worth much more than the former. In this case, the distinction does not imply that there is less intelligence on the east side, or that there is less money perhaps. But a vast proportion of the passengers on car lines east of the Bowery are foreigners, many of whom do not read English, and who are habitually frugal in their expenditures for other things than what they deem the necessaries of existence.

As a whole, New York does not rank high in the category of the advertiser's choice, and this is from two causes. In the first place, this city offers abundant space everywhere, on dead walls and billboards, for display advertising, which is not the case now in compactly built up Boston. There such conveniences are to be found only on the outskirts of the city and in the suburbs, and the advertiser has, outside the newspapers, no other means than the street cars of reaching the public. And, in the second place, it is enormously expensive to cover the street car advertising of New York. For $600 one can put a card in every street car in Boston and keep it there for a month. For a similar sum he can cover Philadelphia in like manner. But to put a card in each New York street car, including those on the elevated railways, for a month would cost from $1,800 to $2,000. Consequently advertisers are generally in the habit of making contracts only covering certain specified lines of New York cars and shifting about from one to another.

As a rule, all over the country the advertising privileges of street car lines are primarily leased to local speculators, who sublet the spaces, so far as possible, to local advertisers. It is seldom practicable for them to fill more than one-third, or at most one-half, of the 16 spaces in each car by the exclusively local patronage they are able to command. Then, as they would lose money by allowing the remaining spaces to remain empty, they are anxious to lease on whatever terms they can get all that are left. It would be difficult, if not impossible, for the local speculator in car spaces to deal directly with the big general advertisers, who are scattered all over the country and would not be bothered by a multiplicity of small local contracts, the faithful keeping of which they could in nowise be assured of. He must, therefore, seek an intermediary possessed of the capital to buy his space, the courage to take the risk of filling it, the influence to do so and the system to make sure of getting all the service it contracts for. This is the field of a corporation which now controls all of a great part of the advertising space in 11,380 cars—in New England, 1,551; middle states, 3,807; southern states, 1,494; Pacific states, 970; western states, 4,306, and Canada, 222. Three-fourths of those cars are on trolley lines, and very few in the smallest and most remote places are drawn by horses.

Some difficulty was, at the outset, encountered in the concentration and systemization of all these local fields for the use of the general advertiser, in consequence of the various sizes of car spaces, which necessitated a multiplicity of cards, of diverse forms and dimensions. Now, however, car builders have adopted a uniform scale of 16 card spaces, each 11 by 21 inches, which gives ample opportunity for handsome display. And it is indicative of the rapidity with which these handsome, big modern cars have supplanted those of older types that only about 9 per cent of the cars now in use have the old spaces, 10 by 24 inches. Helena, Mon., still has an exceptional dozen having the odd size of 13 by 18 inches. This is a more important matter than might readily be recognized, since many of the cards now prepared for street car display are expensive litho or zinc prints, in colors, artistically designed in form, and balanced in tints and shades to give as much effect as possible. To make them of various sizes would impose an almost prohibitive increase upon their cost.

To have assurance that the cards of its advertisers appear as contracted for the corporation referred to maintains agents in 127 cities, whose duty it is to keep watch upon the car service and make frequent reports of the most elaborate character, setting forth every fact of possible interest in full detail and with the nicest exactitude. The number of each car upon every line in which an advertiser's card appears, the number of days it is in service during the month, and the number of its runs a day and number of passengers carried, any omissions that may occur, the excuses offered for them and the compensatory service rendered, are only some of the matters covered by these reports.—New York Sun.

Against the Cigarette Fiend.

Passengers on the Bay Ridge ferryboats have never tired of looking at Governors island and making remarks upon its beautiful situation. The other day a small party under the escort of a lieutenant in the army were having pointed out to them the various places of interest on the island.

"What is that little house on the hillside for?" a young lady asked.

"That is the powder magazine," the lieutenant explained.

"And what is the fence around it for?"

"To keep the officers from throwing their cigarette stumps into the powder," was the solemn reply. The party took it all in seriously, and the lieutenant tipped a sly wink to an old soldier not many feet away.—New York Press.

ORGAN GRINDERS.

They Have Their Uses and Cannot Be Considered an Unredeemed Nuisance.

Most men probably sympathize with the testy old gentleman of sporting proclivities in Little Puck who hurls books, bricks or bric-a-brac with equal indifference whenever he hears an organ grinder under his window. There is one man in this town, however—a lawyer who has an office on La Salle street—who will go out of his way a couple of blocks if he can spare the time, in order to pass by a hand organ grinder. His excursions are not hostile either. He says the sound of music stimulates him. His brain works better, and he can grind out new ideas or polish off old ones while under the spell of the Italian's subtle art in a way which seems impossible to him under other conditions. The organ grinder must be down town, however, where the notes from his music mill are properly mingled with the noises of the streets. Organ grinders who stop in front of this same lawyer's residence, on the North Side, find an entirely different person to deal with. There he is hard and inhospitable, and invariably orders them to move on.

A preacher whom the lawyer told of this habit of his the other day admitted that he had the same experience and did not share in the general condemnation of organ grinders at all times and in all places. Music under any circumstances, he remarked, is stimulating and suggestive to most people, but notes mingled with the sounds of busy city thoroughfares have a different quality. This is business activity set to music, and its suggestions are definite and practical. Many men, he continued, can think out speeches while walking, and he found great benefit from it, but got better results from a long ride on the electric cars, the rush of the motor seeming to communicate itself to his mental faculties. Many of his sermons were manufactured in this way during the week. The exhilaration of bicycle riding, which he seemed to enjoy last year, was in his case, he added, mainly physical, but this he thought was probably because the exercise was new to him and would not permit that abstraction which is necessary to the elaboration of a discourse.

"Authors, we are told, soon learn to compose on the typewriter," suggested the lawyer, "and I don't see why preachers shouldn't compose on the bicycle."—Chicago Tribune.

DINING IN PALESTINE.

Knives and Forks Being Unknown, the Fingers Do Valiant Duty.

A very large circular tray of tinned copper, placed on a coarse wooden stool about a foot high, served as a table. In the center of this stood another big tray, with a mountain of pilaff, composed of rice boiled and buttered, with small pieces of meat strewn through and upon it. This was the chief dish, though there were other smaller dishes, both meat and vegetable. Ten persons sat around the table, or rather squatted on the carpet, with their knees drawn up close to their bodies. Each had before him a plate of tinned copper and a wooden spoon, which some used without the plate. Most, however, preferred to use the fingers of the left hand, several dipping their hands together into the dish, as the disciples did at the last supper.

As soon as any one had finished he rose and went into another room, to have water poured over his hands to wash them, and the vacant place at the table was instantly filled by a newcomer. The bread, I may say, was laid on the mat under the tray, so as to be easily reached, and a jar of water, the only beverage used during the meal, stood within reach. Besides rice, stews of beans or cracked wheat, with thick soup or sauce poured over them in the great central bowl, are also in fashion. Spoons, though sometimes provided, are often wanting—pieces of thin bread, doubled, serving instead. Knives and forks are unknown, and as there is no special dining room there is no furniture suited for one. Hence tables and chairs are never seen. The meat being always cut up into small pieces, there is no need for a knife, and chickens can easily be torn asunder with the hands. So far, indeed, are orientals from thinking it strange to dip their fingers into the common dish that it is a special act of politeness to grope in it for the visitor, and lay nice morsels before him, or even to insist on putting them into his mouth.—The Holy Land and the Bible.

Southern Negro Courtship Speeches.

"Kin' lady, ef I was to go up between de heavens an de yearth an drap down a grain of wheat over ten acres of land an plow it up wid a rooster fedder, would you marry me?"

"Good lady, I was in a garden in my dream, an I saw de lovelies' table an on de table was a fine cake an a glass of wine, an a beautiful lady was walkin in de garden, and you were de lady. Ef you saw a pea's hull in de garden, which one would you choose—one wid one pea in it, or a hull full of peas?" (The hull with one pea is a single man. The hull with many peas is a widower with children.)

"Suppose you was walkin by de side of de ribber, an dere was three ladies in a boat, an dat boat was upsot, which lady would you save, a tall lady, a short lady or middle sized lady?" The girl asks this if she wants to bring matters to a climax. The man's answer corresponds with the size of the inquiring young lady.

"Good lady, ef I was to give you a handkerchief to wash an iron, how would you do it widout water or iron?" Answer—"Iron it with love."

Here is a tender avowal: "Dear miss, ef I was a-starvin an had jes' one ginger cake, I would give you half, an dat would be the bigges' half."—Journal of American Folk Lore.

And She Didn't.

A lady passenger in a small plying steamer had been annoying the man at the wheel by asking questions.

At last he so far forgot himself as to tell her to "go to Jericho."

The lady was greatly shocked and insulted, complained to the captain and insisted on an apology from the man.

The captain politely promised to see to it.

Having called the man, he told him that he must apologize, and so he went off rather sulkily toward the cabin.

Having reached the door, he stood there till the attention of the lady was directed to him, when he called out to her, "You need not go," then turned and went on deck.—London Tit-Bits.

A Deadly Poisonous Beeswax.

Wax is a substance secreted by bees that is said to be analogous to the fat of the higher animals. In Patagonia, Terre del Fuego and other portions of southern South America honey is never eaten. In the countries mentioned all beeswax is a livid, whitish, blue color, and more poisonous than either strychnine or arsenic.—St. Louis Republic.

A JURIST TESTIFIES.

Unimpeachable Evidence From a Brooklyn Official.

Munyon Relieved Him, Cured Him of Rheumatism in a Few Hours.

Judge Nue, whose popularity in Brooklyn was demonstrated by the immense majorities by which he was elected, and a gentleman of unimpeachable character, in speaking of Prof. Munyon says: "I consider Munyon's Rheumatism Cure the best in the world. When I began to use his remedy I was unable to walk without the aid of crutches at times; this had been going on for nine years, and the day before I began using it I could not get up the steps to the court room. After taking a few doses I was immediately relieved, and in three days was completely cured."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism cured in from one to five days. It never fails to cure sharp, shooting pains in the arms, legs, sides, back or breast, or soreness in any part of the body in from one to three hours. It is guaranteed to cure lameness, stiff and swollen joints, stiff back, and all pains in the hips and loins. Chronic rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago or pain in the back speedily cured.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

Those who are in doubt as to the nature of their disease should address Professor Munyon, 1505 Arch street, Philadelphia, giving full symptoms of their disease. Professor Munyon will carefully diagnose the case and give you the benefit of his advice absolutely free of all charge. The Remedies will be sent to any address on receipt of retail price.

YOU DO NOT KNOW

WHICH IS THE

BEST PIANO

Unless you have tried the

Mason & Hamlin

With their patent SCREW STRINGER which has proved such a success that it is pronounced "THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT IN PIANOS IN HALF A CENTURY."

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE BY MAIL FREE.

Terms of payment to suit reasonable requirements.

136 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

WHY SUFFER FROM LACK OF LIGHT,

Get Vexed Every Day with Poor Lamps?

BUY "THE MILLER" LAMPS

Save This Card, It Is Valuable.

which give plenty of light (made in four sizes,) are as easy to light as gas, easy to wick, wick does not have to be "trimmed," chimneys are not "smoked" or broken by the flame, perfectly simple and safe.

The NEW IDEAS (our patents) used exclusively in "The Miller" make it the best and so the cheapest lamp made. If by accident any part is broken it can be replaced, so there is practically no wear out to a "Miller" Lamp.

We make more than a thousand varieties—all styles—in BEAUTIFUL and Staple designs suited to light House, Club, Store, Factory, Church, &c., &c. If your dealer will not supply genuine "Miller" Lamps come to our store.

FOR GIFTS nothing more beautiful or useful than a "Miller" Lamp, or an elegant Onyx and Brass Table.

Established as MANUFACTURERS in 1844.

EDWARD MILLER & CO., 28 & 30 WEST BROADWAY, (66 Park Pl.) bet. Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.

Convenient to all "down-town" Ferries, and Elevated Stations at Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.

For Cool Weather buy a "MILLER" OIL HEATER.

FOR SALE BY W. L. GAVETT & CO.

Waverley Fair.

As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED,

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry.
Curly birch chamber suit.
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit.
Antique oak hat rack.

All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 55c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $[illegible].00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.

Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best building, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material, fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield at 2 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 [illegible] 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 59 a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, [illegible] 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p.m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 [illegible] 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, [illegible] 40, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 [illegible] 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 [illegible] 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except saturdays) 5 30, 5 [illegible] 6 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 [illegible] 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, [illegible] m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 [illegible] 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 [illegible] 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 [illegible] 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 [illegible]5, 1 35, 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 4[illegible] 5 04, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, [illegible] m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 2 [illegible] 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 [illegible] 4 36, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 7 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 2[illegible] 10 26, 11 23, p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, [illegible] 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 8 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 4[illegible] 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 2 [illegible], 4 25, 4 59, 6 3[illegible] 8 07, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 [illegible] m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 10 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 3[illegible] 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 49, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 40, 10 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D L & W R R

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, (in buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p. m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 14 p m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

8 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

9 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

3 03 p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 00, 10 27, a m., 12 48, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27, a m., 12 48, 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a m; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 a. m., 10 44 a. m.; 2 [illegible] 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p. m. 1 17 night, Sundays—5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 44, a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 4*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37, 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55, [illegible] m. 4 55, 5 14*, 6 35* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m, 5 34*, 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p m Sunday 5 14 p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 7 03 p. m.

Trainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

For Sale or to Let.

The frame dwelling and barn 1040 Arlington avenue, below Arlington place; lot 60x132, running through and fronting on Rose st; house has all modern conveniences and in good order; barn is in good condition; will be sold or rented low and on easy terms. Particulars by [illegible] and W. H. Ryan, Elizabeth, N. J. 9 19 2w

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.

S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y. 917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

GEO J. TOBIN,

187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply: testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,

Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.

Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.

Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale

AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,

High-Class

PORTRAITS

In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.

483 Lexington ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building. C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street. D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,

COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Supreme Court Commissioner.

First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's

LAW OFFICES,

Corner Park ave and 2d st.

Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Even though you have

A Comfortable Bed,

You should

Lay in Your Coal

for the Winter.

George O. Stevens

747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager. 104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,

Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.

128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day, 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in COAL AND WOOD.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.

MRS. L. ADAMS,

114 EAST FRONT STREET,

Opp. First National Bank.

Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,

Fresh, and from

Pure Materials.

TIER'S,

116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY from taking medicine. They don't like its taste. But they are eager to take what they like—Scott's Emulsion, for instance. Children almost always like Scott's Emulsion.

Children Shrink

And it does them good.

Scott's Emulsion is the easiest, most palatable form of Cod-liver Oil, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda added to nourish the bones and tone up the nervous system. The way children gain flesh and strength on Scott's Emulsion is surprising even to physicians.

All delicate children need it.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c. and $1.

LOOK IN THE CLOSET

SEE if you can't find some old clothes that you have put aside because of the worn-out look they have, or some clothes that are badly spotted.

We want you to bring any old clothes of that sort to us—or better yet—we'll send for them.

We propose to clean those clothes—or to dye them for you—either way to make them wearable. This is an economical suggestion.

We take out grease spots so they stay out, or we dye clothes with a color that wears. We charge as little as possible for the work.

Just a dollar or two—and you'll have a lot of new clothes.

HILLIER & CO.,

179 North Ave.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.

—BRANCH—

OLYMPIA HALL,

416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. E. LeRoy Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., No. 8 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J. beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes every Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 10 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms—For term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons mornings, any hour, by appointment. 9 5 m

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W. RANDOLPH'S,

Prescription Druggist, 143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

"Nothing," said Le Grand impatiently. "Please to open your packages."

These were duly examined, but nothing contraband was discovered.

"And now, sir," said the chief official, "I must trouble you to turn out your pockets."

"What!" exclaimed Le Grand, swelling with indignation.

"Duty, sir."

"But it is unheard of. Do you know who I am?"

"That doesn't matter, sir; we have the right to search any passenger."

"You will hear more of this," said Le Grand.

But he had to submit, and he laid a motley collection of articles on the table. Amongst them was the blue envelope. This was my opportunity. I felt very nervous, but in reality the risk of detection was slight, as every one's eyes were riveted on Le Grand. In fine I made the exchange without difficulty. Then I quietly withdrew and went on deck. The gangplank had already been placed in position. As I was crossing it, Le Grand, foaming with impotent anger, came up behind me.

"Did you ever hear of such insolence?" he said. "I shall have the matter brought forward in Parliament."

I let him pass when we got on shore, and then made my way, not to the Lord Warden, but to a much smaller hotel where I knew I should be unmolested by enemies or friends. Here I opened the packet. True enough, it contained the draft-treaty in French with the thirteenth clause obtrusively marked with red ink.

"So the prince was right in his suspicions," I said to myself. "But how on earth did Le Grand manage to get hold of it?"

I knew that, though I had secured the draft, which might be useful for the detection of the traitor, whoever he might be, Le Grand was much too sagacious to allow himself to be dependent on any document. I did not doubt that he had learnt off the principal clauses by heart, and that we should, in spite of his loss, see the provisions of the treaty in next day's Dial. So I sent the following telegram to the prince:

"I have recovered the missing parcel, but I am pretty sure that most of its contents have been forwarded to London."

IV.

I stayed in Dover only until the next boat left for Calais. Then I retraced my route and in due course found myself again in the capital where the congress was sitting. My first visit was, of course, to the prince. I found him greatly agitated.

"How good of you," he said, taking both my hands in his, "to put yourself to all this trouble on my account. And so you have really recovered the document. I will not ask you how you managed it. In whatever way it was done, it was a righteous act, for Le Grand could have obtained it only by fraud of some kind. But the modus operandi is utterly beyond me. As I said before, Le Grand must be the devil."

I drew out the envelope and handed him the paper on which the draft-treaty was written.

"Perhaps," I said, "this will help you to detect the traitor."

The prince took the paper, and ran his practiced eye over the several paragraphs.

"It is, as I feared," he said at last, with something very like a groan. "Some of it is, no doubt, mere clever guess-work, but much is evidently amplified from significant hints given by some one who is familiar with our proceedings. And the thirteenth clause—the most important of all—is almost word for word as we finally agreed that it should stand. This makes it certain that we have been betrayed. And if it once gets into the papers, as you think it will, there will be such an outcry that we shall have to modify it. It is a terrible blow, especially for me, as it will be impossible for me now to secure anything like such favorable terms for my sovereign. No misfortune so great has ever befallen me in the whole course of my official career. And all through that unscrupulous Le Grand."

"WE HAVE THE RIGHT TO SEARCH ANY PASSENGER."

Sympathizing with the prince, I did my best to soothe and comfort him, but his chagrin was too profound for my efforts to have much success.

Then I tried to turn his attention to the document as a possible means of identifying the traitor.

"Do you know the handwriting?" I asked.

"Not in the least; it seems to me to be a disguised hand."

"So I thought. And there is nothing about the document to suggest to you any one in particular as the writer?"

"Nothing!"

We had a little further conversation and then I left him, taking the document with me. I had an idea that possibly Gresham might help me. At any rate it was a good opportunity of putting his boasted science to the test.

When I brought the subject before him he smiled a little sarcastically.

"So the scoffer has come to pray," he said.

Then he carefully scrutinized the writing, at first, with the naked eye, and afterwards with a pocket-lense. At last he said:

"Now I think I have mastered it. Pray ask me any questions you like. I will not undertake to answer them all, but, if I do not know, I will say so frankly."

"Very well, then, is this handwriting natural or disguised?"

"Undoubtedly disguised."

"2ndly.—Is it a man's hand, or a woman's?"

"A man's."

"3rdly.—Is the writer educated, or uneducated?"

"Highly educated."

"Can you fix approximately the age of the writer?"

"Only in the roughest way. He is certainly not a child—not even a youth—for the hand is perfectly formed. And he cannot be very old, for the writing is quite firm. But he might be any age between, say, twenty-five and fifty or even sixty."

I could think of only one more question. As yet Gresham's science had done but little to help us.

"Is there any peculiarity about the writing which enables you to give any further information respecting the writer?"

"Ah," he said, "that is a crucial question; the rest was mere child's play. I answer it by saying that there is something very peculiar about the writing which does enable me to give a piece of information about the writer. Only, you will not believe me when I tell you what it is."

"Tell me, nevertheless," I said.

"The writer is blind of one eye."

"How can you possibly know that?"

"Oh, it is easy enough, if you only take the trouble to observe. I know, too, that it is the left eye of which he is blind and that the sight of the right eye is not good."

"It is very remarkable, if true."

"It is perfectly true. You can judge for yourself. Did you ever see 'I's' dotted as these are?"

"I do not know. What is there peculiar about them?"

"Perhaps you have never noticed how people generally dot them. No one, except, perhaps, a schoolboy over his round hand, ever dots an 'I' at the time he forms the letter; he always waits at least until he has reached the end of the word. Well, now, a man who has lost the sight of his left eye, and whose sight is generally defective, bends over his paper, and his nose gets in his way when he wants to dot his 'I's.' The consequence is that it is all done haphazard. Now look at the dots of these 'I's'; they are here, there and everywhere; sometimes—but rarely—before the letter; more often behind it; sometimes too high up; sometimes too low down. You can see at once that it is all done by faith and not by sight."

I looked more carefully at the writing; it was indeed as Gresham had said. I thought at once of Count Shrievaljieff. Every one knew that he was blind of the left eye. He had acted as secretary to the congress. If, as seemed certain, it was on of the plenipotentiaries who had betrayed the secret, Count Shrievaljieff must be the man. I hastened with my new piece of information to the prince, but I had to wait till the evening before I could see him, as he had just gone back to the congress.

When we met, I told him what Gresham had said about the handwriting. The prince was no great believer in graphology, and said so.

"Still," I said, "just consider the actual position of affairs. Some one has divulged the main provisions of the treaty. That some one must be one of the plenipotentiaries, for no one else has had an opportunity of knowing them. And if it is one of them, the cui bono question arises. Which of them has the greatest interest in upsetting the thirteenth clause?"

"Undoubtedly," said the prince, "Shrievaljieff is the man most interested in upsetting that clause. So much must be patent to everybody. Still, I say again, it is impossible that he can have betrayed us. He may not be over-scrupulous, but, still, he would not violate the essential principles of diplomacy."

"But consider again," I said. "The count is the man to whom the cui bono test applies, and he is also the man to whom my friend's description applies. A man between twenty-five and sixty—that is nothing; but also a man blind of the left eye—that is really significant. Is there any other of the plenipotentiaries blind of the left eye?"

"It is very strange," said the prince, shaking his head mournfully. "This business will kill me; I can think of nothing else but that unlucky thirteenth clause."

Whilst we were thus discussing the affair, the post came, and from amongst a pile of letters and papers, the prince picked out the London Dial. His delicate, jewelled hands trembled visibly as he opened it. One glance was sufficient, and he passed it on to me with a doleful expression.

"There it is," he said. "The most sacred of secrets published urbi et orbi, and all my labor thrown away. It is monstrous."

V.

As I said at the beginning, this audacious publication of the treaty whilst the congress was still in sitting caused the most profound sensation throughout Europe. Even Le Grand, ambitious as he was, must have been satisfied. His name was in every one's mouth. How had he possibly managed to pluck from the diplomatists their secret? For no one doubted—or, indeed, could doubt—that, in the main, the treaty as published in the Dial was genuine. To the initiated it was clear that it could not be a mere clever invention.

The diplomatists themselves were in despair. True, they maintained an appearance of serenity, but they were really at their wits' ends to know how to account for the trick that had been played upon them, and how to repair the mischief that had been done.

Of course, they did what diplomatists always do in such cases—they disavowed the treaty as published. They could do this safely, as it was now a certainty that some of the most important provisions would have to be modified; but this disavowal is such a stereotyped resource of embarrassed diplomacy that it did not deceive even the outside world. And, of course, it could have no effect on their own state of mind. They looked askance at each other; they felt themselves betrayed by one of their own number. It seemed as if any further sittings would be useless. Yet, for the sake of appearances, they continued to meet and to discuss the clauses of the treaty. But, as Count Shrievaljieff said to the prince, as far as secrecy was concerned, it seemed as if they might as well meet in the market-place as in the foreign office.

"THE DIPLOMATISTS THEMSELVES WERE IN DESPAIR."

Here, however, I may at once say, that these fears proved unfounded. The secrecy of their proceedings was not again violated, and in due course they pieced together another treaty which did not suffer from premature publication, and which holds good to the present day.

It was generally thought that their success at the second attempt was due to Le Grand's absence. He had brought off his great coup and he took care not to return. It might even have been dangerous for him to do so, for it was certainly through his agency that the draft-treaty, however obtained, had been published. Whether he ever suspected me of having tricked him in the matter of the envelope I do not know. He never made any suggestion to that effect. In fact, he was not at all the man to allow that he could by any possibility be outwitted. And in everything connected with the treaty he kept up an air of mystery, content with the evident fact that in some way or other he had accomplished what had seemed to be impossible.

And yet, great though his triumph seemed to be, I doubt whether to the day of his death he knew exactly how he had been enabled to achieve it. And it was by the merest chance that I lighted upon the discovery.

The Dial with its unwelcome contents had reached the prince on a Saturday. On the Sunday evening I visited him again. He was lying on the couch as usual, and looked very wretched.

"Do you mind writing a letter or two for me?" he said, after the first preliminary greetings. "You are always so good and kind. And I have been obliged to give Maubeuge a holiday to-day."

Of course I was delighted to be of any service. He dictated one or two short notes and, when I had written them, he said:

"I hope you will dine with me this evening. I am really depending on you to cheer me up a little. This fatal business of the treaty has been such a grievous blow to me."

I accepted his invitation.

"Now don't run away meanwhile," he added; "I generally take a little nap, as you know, at this time, but I shan't be asleep more than half an hour. Meanwhile, there are the journals, or perhaps you have some letters to write."

"Thank you," I said, "that will suit me admirably. I will plunge into my correspondence while you take a dive into oblivion."

The prince answered with a smile.

Then he poured some chloroform on his handkerchief, threw the latter over his face, and was asleep almost immediately. Meanwhile, I had taken a sheet of paper and had written a few lines, when, to my great astonishment, I heard a muffled voice in the room. For the moment I did not realize that it was the prince who was speaking. When I did realize it, I pricked up my ears involuntarily. What was he babbling about in his narcotic slumber? Heavens! it was all about the one subject that dominated his mind at the moment—the treaty. Some of the phrases were confused, inconsequent, fragmentary, but over and over again came from beneath the handkerchief the words "clause thirteen" (in French, of course,) and then, in fashion more or less disconnected, the actual provisions of that unlucky clause.

"MAUBEUGE WAS STANDING ON THE THRESHOLD."

I sat there paralyzed with astonishment; the pen had fallen from my hand; I was as one in a dream. Here, then, at last, was the solution of the mystery. Nor was the villain far to seek. Maubeuge, sitting where I now sat, had taken down these unconscious and involuntary confidences, had pieced them cunningly together, and then had sold the secret to Le Grand.

How strange, how touching it was that the m[illegible] diplomatist in Europe [illegible] like a child—[illegible] was most [illegible] would have been the very one to divulge its most important provisions!

I was still sitting lost in wonder when I heard a slight noise behind me. I turned sharply round; the door was open, and Maubeuge was standing on the threshold. The prince was still innocently prattling of things that meant the ruin or salvation of empires. Maubeuge from under his heavy eyebrows cast a dull and yet most anxious glance first at him, then at me. As he did so, I noticed that his complexion turned to lead and the whole fashion of his face was altered. No doubt, he had taken in the situation at a glance, and knew that his villainy had been detected, for without a single word he turned round and withdrew, closing the door behind him.

I followed him at once. My anger was keen against him. I should have liked to take him by the throat and hand him over to the police. But for the sake of my dear friend the prince, I could not do this. He must never know what he had done. The knowledge that he had betrayed himself and the sovereign he loved so well would have overwhelmed him. In all probability he would never have recovered from the shock. It is for this reason that I have waited till his death before publishing this revelation.

So I reined in my anger as I went in pursuit of Maubeuge. I followed so swiftly on his heels that I caught him in the corridor.

"Monsieur Maubege," I said, "I must ask you to favor me with an interview."

He did not venture to decline the invitation, but followed me submissively into another room belonging to the prince's suite of apartments.

There I came to the point at once.

"Monsieur Maubeuge," I said, "I think it would be well for you to retire at once from the prince's service."

He was far too clever to bluster in a tete-a-tete. He knew that in my eyes he was irretrievably degraded, and there was no one else present whose opinion he could influence. So he took my remarks in a simple business-like fashion.

"I must give some excuse," he said.

"Is it not the case," I asked, suddenly remembering what Gresham had told me, "that your eyes are very bad, and that you have altogether lost the sight of your left eye?"

He looked greatly surprised.

"It is true," he said, "but I did not know that any one knew it except myself."

"Well, that is excuse enough. Say that your eyes are so bad that you must at any sacrifice resign your position at once. At once—you undersand me. On that condition I will refrain from communicating with the police. You will have to sacrifice a month's wages, but you will be able to afford that now. Besides, Monsieur Le Grand may find you employment. I recommend you not to remain in this country."

"I shall be pleased to carry out your wishes, sir," said the rascal suavely.

"That will do, then," I said. "You can go now. I hope that your eye-sight may improve, and that your hearing may be dulled a little in the interests of honesty."

He disappeared, and I never saw or heard of him again. If he is still alive, he passes probably under some assumed name.

As I have already said, the prince is dead, and Le Grand is dead. I only remain of those who were mixed up in the affair, and I am glad to have this opportunity of clearing up one of the most curious episodes in modern history.

The End.

THEATRICAL.

"The Mountebank," which will be produced at Music Hall Saturday evening, is a romantic drama of intense interest, whose scenes are laid in France during the early part of the present century. It was written by the celebrated author, M. D'Ennery, and was a favorite play of the great French actor, Frederick LeMaitre. Charles Dillon also made it a specialty in his repertoire, but it has been but rarely played in America. In the title role Frederick Ward has found a part that shows to great advantage his versatile histrionic abilities, and one in which it is generally conceded he is at his best. Special scenery and mountings are carried by Mr. Warde, and the production will, it is claimed, equal in all respects, the superb performances of classic plays for which this eminent actor has been noted in past seasons.

Miss Blanche Chapman will also render a song which is just now the popular rage in New York, entitled "He Wanted Something to Play With." Miss Idalene Cotton will during the course of the entertainment give imitations of celebrated actors and actresses of the time, present and past. Miss Cotton's work is said to be fully equal if not superior to that made familiar by the little English girl, Vesta Tilley, who was imported from England last season by Koster & Bial, and at whose music hall in New York city she was the reigning success for over three months. All of these specialties occur in the third act, and are brought in with the consistency that does not mar the plot or story of "A Happy Little Home" at Music Hall tonight.

Indictments Found.

The grand jury in Somerset county yesterday found bills of indictment against George Lewis, of North Plainfield, for larceny, and against the Italian who assaulted Miss Wyckoff in Washingtonville some weeks ago.

—B. K. Case will lead the East Third Street mission this evening.

—A parade of the fire department of Allentown is being held today and a number of men and engines went there from Jersey City.

—Demarest's grocery, Shaw's drug store and Edsall's Commercial Palace have all placed the Welsbach gas burner in their stores. Gavett's is the place to leave your orders.

—Charles E. Doane, one of Plainfield's contractors and builders, has purchased of John Darling a lot on the north side of Norwood avenue, 50 feet front, and will build himself a fine home and take up his residence on that avenue in the spring.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Built.

OUR BLOOD FILTERS.

Blood Should Be Pure as Water.

What Keeps It Pure and What Happens When It is Impure.

Our Natural Blood Purifiers, Our Kidneys—How They Keep Us Well, and How We Ought to Keep Them Well.

What make a sallow complexion, gout, rheumatism, muscular weakness, depression, lack of ambition, anæmia, chlorisis or green sickness, nervous headache, dizziness, hysteria, Bright's disease, gravel, sleeplessness, pain in the back, diabetes, etc.?

It is the failure of our blood filters.

Our blood should be as free from impurities as drinking water.

If it becomes impure we fall sick.

Our kidneys are simply blood filters. They filter the impurities out of the blood. That is why it is so dangerous to have kidney disease, because when our kidneys are sick they cannot keep our blood pure.

Diseases are generally caused by blood poisoning. Especially those mentioned above. The poisoning is caused by impurities in the blood.

These impurities could be kept out if our kidneys were healthy, if they were not worn out, or did not have too much work to do.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys out of sick ones. This means pure blood and the cure of all diseases caused by blood impurities.

Asparagus has a very strong tonic effect on the kidneys. Combined with other herbs it is used in Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills, and is the ingredient which does the kidneys the most good.

The filtering of the blood has probably never been explained to you in this way before.

Yet it is true.

Every physician knows it is true.

A medicine that will cure the kidneys will cure any disease caused by poisoned blood, because, as soon as the kidneys are well, they set about doing their work as it ought to be done.

When our drinking water is pure it will not poison us, and when our blood is pure it will not poison us.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will bring new life and ambition, cure your pains and aches, give you a bright rosy complexion, and health, freedom and comfort.

It is not a miracle.

It is simply pure clean blood.

It is only a question of renewing and cleansing your filters

It is Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills acting on your kidneys.

All the dangerous diseases of impure blood that doctors are often unable to cure can be cured with Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Rheumatism, gout, Bright's disease, kidney troubles, etc., will all disappear after taking a course of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.

Write for valuable pamphlet, explaining about the kidneys and their action on the blood. Free on application to Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago, or San Francisco.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)

94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE. Painting and Paper Hanging. 37 Chatham st.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

SPECIAL SALE —OF— FINE STATIONERY —AND— School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

411 Park Avenue.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,

88 FIFTH AVE.,

near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter, and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

Harry M. Jaquett,

123 EAST FRONT STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

The Clothier,

HATTER AND FURNISHER,

Cordially invites you to visit his store and inspect his

Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing,

for the Fall and Winter Season, complete in all its branches. Special attention given to Children's Clothing, Hats and Caps.

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods

Complete assortment in Neckwear, Underwear, Hosiery, etc., just received. New invoice of over 50 dozen suspenders.

In hats—John B. Stetson's celebrated make in Derby soft hats in latest styles. Also other makes and shapes. Complete assortment in Children's Hats and Caps.

One Price CASH. One Price

and money refunded if goods are not satisfactory.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.

At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.

At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.

At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.

At 45c—An all wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.

At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.

At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.

At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?

Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.

At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.

At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,

140 West Front Street.

Stone for Flagging

of a superior quality and finish and at a moderate price. Apply to

J. C. DYER,

218 West Front Street

JUST A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,

206 West Front st.

MISS BIGLOW

will resume instruction to pupils on the piano on Monday, Sept. 23, at 130 West 4th st, corner Arlington avenue. 9 19 3

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of

FINE STATIONERY,

consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

Thursday, October 3. Saturday, Oct. 5.

ONE NITE ONLY.

Must you go? What's your hurry? Here's your hat, but you'll regret it if you fail to

SEE

That Famous Funny Fellow,

Geo. W. Monroe

and his big Comedy Company in the greatest musical comedy success of the year,

A HAPPY LITTLE HOME

Chock full of the latest songs and dances. Funny situations, unique specialties, witty singing and comely girls. A perfect panecea for the blues. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

Mr. Frederick

WARDE,

and his distinguished company, in a superb production of D'Ennery's celebrated drama,

THE Mountebank!

The entire scenery and stage mountings prepared specially for the production.

Prices—$1.50, $1, 75c, 50c and 35c.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

We Want Kickers

Principally boys, to wear our Steel Shod and School Shoes. These Shoes are made purposely for kickers. Once worn, always worn.

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 1st, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

BOOKS OF A TALKING KIND.

NOVEL KIND OF A SOCIABLE TO BE GIVEN BY THE DORCAS CIRCLE.

The Admission Fee Will Be as Many Pennies as You Are Years Old—Profits to Be Given to Support a City Nurse.

A novel, but what promises to be a very enjoyable gathering, is to be held at the home of Miss Maud Lowrie on Monday evening. It is known as a library social and is given by the members of the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters, of which Miss Lowrie is the President. Although about four hundred invitations have been issued the social is not essentially an invitation affair but is for all. With the invitation is sent a little cloth bag with the request that as many cents be placed in it as the giver is years old. These bags with their unknown contents will constitute the admission fee and will be dropped in a large basket in the hall. Those receiving none may obtain one at the door.

Around the sides of the large double parlors will be placed about one hundred representations of books. There will be a picture of Chancer's Canterbury house and several furtails which will represent "Canterbury Tales," and others of a like nature. As each visitor enters he will be supplied with a blank catalogue and in the catalogue he puts his guess for the name of the different books represented around the room. A number of the members of the circle will also be dressed to represent books and their names must also be guessed. The correct names will finally be read and two prizes awarded to the longest correct lists held by a lady and a gentleman.

The circulating department of this library will be in another room. Here ten members of the circle, dressed to represent books, and masked, will be found. After guessing the name of the book that he wants, a young man can take a book out on payment of a small fee and chat with his book for a limited time.

The social part of the affair will be looked after and, during the evening, refreshments will be served.

The object of the sociable is to raise the necessary funds for the circle to work with. They have pledged themselves to the extent of $75 to assist the other King's Daughters in Plainfield to employ a nurse in the hospital. The rest of the money will go to assist in the work among the poor of Plainfield.

The following committees have been appointed to look after the different parts of Monday evening's entertainment: Committee on invitations, Miss Arline Crane; committee on arranging tables, Miss Grace Langdon and Miss Ethel Green; committee on refreshments, Miss Etta Blish and Miss Mary French.

The first meeting of the circle this fall was held at the home of Miss Langdon on September 23d, and the officers were elected as follows: President, Miss Maud M. Lowrie; vice-president, Miss Lizzie Maltby; secretary, Mrs. Corlies Pond; treasurer, Miss Blish.

An advisory board was elected for the first time this year; it is composed of Mrs. J. M. Crane, Mrs. Corlies Pond, Miss Mary Brown.

The President has appointed the following committees for the year:

Lookout—Miss Annie Wyckoff, Miss Grace Langdon, Miss Etta Blish.

Cutting—Mrs. Harry Lowrie, Miss Blish, Miss Lizzie Maltby.

Membership—Mrs. Samuel Clark, Miss Minnie French, Miss Bessie Titsworth.

Visiting—Miss Arline Crane, Miss Ethel Green, Miss Lulu French.

Hospital—Miss Ethel Green, Miss Alice Haynes, Miss Bessie Cornwell, Miss Florence Kline, Miss Millie Langdon.

High School Notes.

The High School Cadets drilled yesterday morning for the first time this year, under Captain V. F. Green. A large proportion of the company is new this year, but all entered into the drill with a hearty good will and the company promises to be a good one.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

The case of the Plainfield Beef Company vs. Frank R. Vanderhoff, on contract, was tried yesterday afternoon and judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for $65.39 and costs. Lawyer C. L. Murphy represented the plaintiff.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

THE FIDDLER WAS IN JAIL.

A Colored Event Delayed on Account of the Musician's Arrest.

There was a very good attendance at the ragamuffin party given by the women of the Mt. Olive Baptist church in Central Hall last evening, and the event was enjoyable in every way with but one exception, and that was the music. Music had been engaged for the occasion and the audience waited patiently for the musician to appear, but he did not, and at a late hour it was learned that he was securely fastened in the rookery, pending a hearing on a charge made against him.

Everyone was sorry, but the lateness of the hour made it impossible to do anything and in consequence it was nearly 10:30 before the affair commenced. At that hour twelve women, who had been in waiting, made their appearance after the fact had been announced by Rev. P. S. Gibson. Those present then began to sing a familiar song as the women marched in. They were dressed in all sorts of styles and wore masks.

Much merriment was furnished the spectators by their ridiculous dresses. They walked around the room as if there was a prize cake to be won. After the march all joined in a social good time and later partook of the refreshments on sale. The affair was arranged by the Building Guild of the church, headed by the following committee: Mrs. Catharine Manning, Mrs. Rebecca Wyckoff, Miss Tillie Ivison, Mrs. Sussie Reed, Mrs. Sally Fountain, W. H. Manning, and Mr. Fountain. The object was to raise a sufficient amount of money to finish paying for a carpet that was purchased for the church and it is thought that enough was secured, as a liberal amount was received.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION ELECT.

Officers for the Ensuing Year Chosen and Reports Made.

The Relief Association met this morning in the Y. M. C. A. building and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph; vice-president, Mrs. J. K. Myers; secretary, Mrs. C. C. Brooks; treasurer, Mrs. H. P. Reynolds; board of managers, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. T. Barnes, Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Miss Edith Leonard, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, Mrs. J. E. Tracy, Mrs. C. E. Ryder, Mrs. Slavin, Mrs. M. W. Tyler, Mrs. E. L. Suffern, Mrs. James Joy, Mrs. Alexander Gilbert, and Miss S. W. Simpson.

The treasurer's report shows that the gross receipts for the year were $2,762.25 and the disbursements $2,757.63, leaving a balance of $4 62 in the treasury.

AFTER-VACATION SERVICES.

First Methodist Church Will Welcome All Home.

The friends of the Methodist Episcopal church are arranging for after-vacation services, to begin on Sunday next. Many of its members have been absent more or less during the summer, but are now nearly all returned. At the Sunday morning service there will be a reception of members into full connection and by certificate.

The Sunday-school will hold its session at 2:30 p. m. and assist in celebrating the occasion. In the evening there will be a "Wesley" service of song.

The prayer meeting on Wednesday evening will also partake of the general nature of the services, and a sociable will be held on Friday evening. All members of church and congregation, and friends, are invited.

Big Apples.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Addis, Jr., of North avenue, received a box of twenty-ounce apples yesterday from Mrs. Addis' mother who lives at Jeffersonville, N. Y. Five of them, weighing four pounds eight ounces, are on exhibition at Mr. Addis' store on North avenue. The largest one of the five weighs seventeen ounces. On account of the apples being so large the name "twenty-ounce" is given them.

Lots of Business.

The Union County Grand Jury has an unusual amount of business on hand this term, and will probably be busy for three weeks.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

TO ENLARGE THE TREASURY.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS TALK OF A SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS.

Annual Business Meetings Held Last Night—Finances Talked Over and Officers Elected—Sociability Enjoyed at the Close.

About the most important question discussed at the semi-annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church last evening, was the plan of holding a series of three entertainments in the Y. M. C. A. hall.

President J. V. Beekman, Jr., called the meeting to order. Miss Pound reported as treasurer that the society was free from all debt and had a small balance in the treasury. The other committees reported, but owing to the fact that the church was closed for over a month, there was not much to tell.

The following officers were then elected: President, John V. Beekman, Jr.; Vice-President, Harold Tomlinson; Secretary, Miss Julia Belknap; Treasurer, Miss Bessie Pound. The chairman of committees were then elected as follows: Prayer Meeting, Miss Julia A. Butler; Lookout, Miss Edna Howell; Missionary, John C. Whiting; Good Literature, J. Louise Jenkins; Social, Miss Adelene Parsons; Flower, Miss Eda Beekman; Music, the election of this chairman was left over for a time.

The president then suggested a new method of choosing the committees, each chairman being given a chance to state their preference and each member to give the committee on which they prefer to serve.

The question of finances was then brought up and several suggestions made of how to increase the balance in the treasury. A plan was proposed that the society give a series of three entertainments in the Y. M. C. A. hall this winter and some humorous speaker, or a college glee club suggested as the kind of entertainment After a lenghthy discussion, it was decided to appoint a committee to look into the matter and find out the necessary expenses and the different entertainers that could be secured. The committee will be announced later.

The rest of the evening was spent in a social way and a short informal programme of music and recitation was given. Ice cream and cake was then served under the direction of the old social committee of which Joseph A. Robinson is the efficient chairman.

THE RAZOR SLIPPED.

And George Clark Is Now Nursing a Sore Thumb.

George W. Clark, of Griffin's hardware store, met with a painful accident at his home, 423 Orchard place last evening. He was shaving himself, and the razor seemed to be a trifle dull. He thought that possibly he might remedy the difficulty by stroping it on the palm of his hand. While doing this his wife called to him for something. He turned around to see what she wanted, and before he realized what he had done the edge of the razor passed along the side of the little finger of his left hand, inflicting a severe gash. The flow of blood was considerable and even though several thicknesses of linen were wrapped around the finger it was a long time before he succeeded in stopping the flow.

Mr. Warde's Production.

Messrs. Rich & Maeder take pleasure in announcing that they have secured the eminent actor, Frederick Warde and his distinguished company for one performance at the Stillman Music Hall on Saturday evening of this week, the 5th inst.

Mr. Warde is the leading exponent of classic dramatic roles now on the American stage; his large company is composed of talented artists; his plays are superbly produced, the entire scenery, costumes and accessories prepared especially for each being carried by the organization.

"The Mountebank" is the play selected for production here. We feel justified in thus calling this occasion to the attention of our patrons in the belief that Mr. Warde's appearance should be made a leading society dramatic event.

Respectfully yours,
Bristow Aldridge, Manager.

What's the Matter With Union County?

A rather uncommon sign in Plainfield has appeared on the telegraph pole at the corner of Front street and Park avenue. Ie is a statement that Morris Kadusky, aged thirty-six, a merchant of South Second street, has applied for naturalization papers. The application will be considered at the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas.

HIPP'S LICENSE GRANTED.

BOROUGH PEOPLE SURPRISED AT THE ACTION OF THE COURT.

No Chance Given to Present the Remonstrances Which Were Prepared—Thorn Application for Hotel License Refused.

At the Somerset County Court at Somerville this morning the liquor licenses that were laid over at the opening of the September term until today were acted on.

The application of Edward P. Thorn for a hotel license in the building on Somerset street, just across the bridge, owned by Charles Bock, was refused, the Court stating that no more new licenses would be granted in North Plainfield.

The renewal of Jacob Hipp's license for the Manhattan Hotel on Somerset street, opposite Watchung Park, which was also laid over at the opening of the September term of court, was granted.

James P. Powers, of this city, went to Somerville this morning with a number of remonstrances which he intended to present to the court protesting against the granting of the Hipp license, but by the time he arrived at court he was informed that the license had already been granted. An informal application was made by Alvah Clark, of Somerville, who was associated with Mr. Powers in the case, that an order be granted to take testimony to show cause why the case should not be reopened but no recognition of the motion was made by Judge Bartine.

Mayor Hegeman and a number of the citizens and councilmen of the borough journeyed to Somerville to attend the hearing, and were very much disappointed when they heard that the license had been granted before their arrival. After a conference it was decided to let the matter drop.

The license question in North Plainfield is indeed a troublesome one. A firm of beer bottlers have been doing business over there for several months without a license, and as the authorities were aware of the fact many persons supposed that they would surely be indicted by the late grand jury that was dismissed on Wednesday of this week. As no bill was brought in against them there was considerable surprise expressed. No charges were brought to the grand jury's notice.

Appointed Guardian.

In the lunacy proceedings of the Middlesex County Orphans Court, before Judge Rice Tuesday, touching the case of Simeon Harris, formerly of Plainfield, the Court appointed Postmaster John M. Hetfield, of this city, guardian of said Simeon Harris, and he has qualified and entered on his duties.

An October Wedding.

Invitations have been issued for the coming marriage of Margaret Wierenga to Joseph A. Hyland on Wednesday, October 16th, at St. Mary's church, at 4:30 p. m. A reception will be held at the residence of Thomas Hyland, on Rahway road, after the ceremony.

Killed in a Runaway.

Freeman Edgar and John King, of Metuchen, were driving out his afternoon, when the horse became unmanageable and both were thrown to the ground. Mr. Edgar being killed instantly. Mr. Freeman Edgar was a retired grocer of this place and was seventy-six years of age.

Change in Real Estate Firm.

H. H. Brokaw, of Duer street, has connected himself with Charles H. Lyman's real estate business, North avenue, opposite the depot, and invites his friends to remember him when they have real estate to sell or exchange.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chambertain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheuma- medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

CLIMAX GUNNERS ARE THIRD.

End of the Series of Matches of the State Shooting League.

The New Jersey Trap Shooters League held a tournament at Red Bank yesterday which proved very successful. The principal event was the team shoot, which was won by the Union Gun Club, of Springfield. The other clubs finished in the following order: Climax Gun Club, of Plainfield; Riverside Gun Club, of Red Bank; Maplewood Gun Club, of Orange; Endeavor Gun Club, of Jersey City; Boiling Springs Gun Club, of Rutherford, and Elizabeth Gun Club.

The individual score of the Plainfield team was: Keller, 28; Manning, 22; Breintnall, 21; Darby, 23; "Dutchy" Smith, 20. Total, 109.

This team shoot ends the series for the year. The Maplewoods won in the series and the Climax Club secured third.

Nine sweepstake matches also took place, from ten to twenty-five bird events, and the entrances ranging from $1 to $2.50. There were three moneys in each, all ties to be divided. "Dutchy" Smith won the twenty-five bird sweepstakes alone by a score of 23. There were twenty-five other contestants. In the fifteen-bird match he also took first alone from a field of thirty-two shooters by scoring 15 straight. In the twenty-bird contest he scored 19 and took second alone.

TWO-FOLD A SUCCESS.

Cypress Fife and Drum Corps Enjoy Themselves and Make Money.

A success socially was the verdict of all those who attended the first reception of the Cypress Fife and Drum Corps at T. A. B. hall last evening, and a success financially said the promoters of the reception. The colored people of the town turned out in full force to attend it and fill the hall to its utmost capacity. The corps marched down to the hall from their rooms on East Front street early in the evening and from that time the crowd began to gather. William Douglass acted as floor manager and made a very successful one.

The committee of arrangements consisted of the following: J. Scott, L. Pierson, J. Dennis, G. Randolph, O. TenEyck, E. Washington, C. Carr, C. Jefferson, R. Stevens, G. Peterson and W. H. Francis.

The officers of the corps are: President, Wm. H. Jones; Vice-president, Henry Peterson; Treasurer, Frank Kelso; Secretary, Oscar Nelson.

The music was very good and was furnished by Prof. Frazee.

A HORSELESS WAGON.

A Plainfielder Takes a Ride in a Wonderful Invention.

Upon invitation from those interested Charles E. Buell went to New York yesterday and took a ride in one of the celebrated horseless wagons. He was very much interested in the workings of this wonderful invention and in conversation with a Daily Press reporter, told some facts regarding it. A naptha engine is used, and air forced into the naptha makes gas which is conveyed to the engine. At this point it is fired by an electric spark, giving from three to four horse power. A portion of the axle on which the forward wheels turn, is pivoted to the main portion of the axle, making it possible for one wheel to be turned while the other remains stationery. The wagon can easily go eighteen miles an hour, and climb a grade of ten feet in every one hundred. A party of Wall street capitalists are thinking seriously of purchasing the invention and controlling the business in this country.

The Road Gave Way.

When the steam roller was at work the corner of Park avenue and Fifth street, the engineer forgot about the stone covered passage way for water under the road and ran the roller over it. The stones gave way and a gang of Street Commissioner Meeker's men worked up to late at night to make the street passable again.

A Growing Church.

Special services are being held this week at the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church with good results. Ten conversions were reported up to last night. The services will be continued next week and Rev. W. D. Johnson, of Westfield, Rev. J. A. Harris, of Orange and Rev. P. S. Gibson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, this city, will assist.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

SUING FOR INSURANCE.

MRS. PENDLETON AGAINST THE METROPOLITAN COMPANY.

The Company Claim That the Policy Was Issued on a Misrepresentation of the Condition of Pendleton—An Appeal Case.

A suit between a corporation and a poor family always excites considerable interest and the case of Julia Pendleton vs. Metropolitan Insurance Company is especially interesting.

Mrs. Pendleton is a colored woman who has resided in this city for some time. Her husband, who lived with her, died last spring and it is to secure his life insurance that she is suing. Mr. Pendleton fought in the Civil War and, when in the army, was prostrated by a sunstroke from the effects of which he never fully recovered. At times he was taken with fits of temporary mental derangement.

Last fall John R. Naylor, the insurance agent, saw Mr. Pendleton with the purpose of getting out a policy. Mrs. Pendleton and daughter both say that the agent was told that Mr. Pendleton had been sunstruck, but Mr. Naylor says that he remembers nothing of it.

Then Pendleton went before Dr. Manning to be examined and the doctor said that he was a good risk. Last spring Mr. Pendleton died of hemiplhegia brought on by the sunstroke of years ago. The company refused to pay, saying that Pendleton had not told all the facts correctly concerning his early life. The case came up before Justice Mosher with S. S. Swackhomer for Mrs. Pendleton and James C. Connolly, corporation counsel of Elizabeth, as counsel for the insurance company. The verdict was $55 and costs for the plaintiff and Connolly promptly appealed it. The case now comes up before Judge McCormick in the Court of Common Pleas on November 4th and promises to be a hot fight.

STUDY OF THE GOOD BOOK.

Warren Chapel Members Start the Berean Class Again.

Hearty, warm fellowship was the order of exercises at the reception given the Berean Bible Class at Warren chapel last evening. The members were very much disappointed in not having the pleasure of hearing their old teacher, Mr. Tyler, but he he was unable to be present owing to a previous engagement.

Joseph Gavett was chairman of the entertainment and introduced those who took part. The first number was a delightful recitation by Miss Ella Osborne.

Rev. J. G. McKelvey followed with a short address. He explained the object of the meeting, which was to promote Christian fellowship and get better acquainted. Among other things he said that there was one thing he hoped for and wanted to see, that was the enthusiasm, interest and zeal manifested among the members that was evidenced when Mr. Tyler was the teacher. He also said that he wanted to be a friend to all and whenever it was possible give advice and help. He wished to see the class grow spiritually and in numbers, thus becoming a great influence for good.

M. C. Evans then pleased the audience with an excellent whistling solo, accompanied by Miss Maggie Sheppard on the organ.

Refreshments were served during an intermission by the Misses Mair, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Swain, Miss Mabelle Giles, Joseph Gavett, Edward Ryder and Nelson VanWinkle, after which M. C. Evans rendered another whistling solo and Miss Osborne recited "Kentucky Belle."

This closed the programme and the balance of the evening was devoted to sociability.

A Whist Party.

The Lady Cyclers entertained a number of their friends at the home of Miss Grace Langdon, of Second place, last evening. Whist occupied the attention of the guests from nine o'clock until eleven, and the victors at the game were Mrs. A. Wilcox, who received a flower jar, and A. Wilcox, whose prize was a photograph album.

Mrs. J. M. Crane received a powder box as her second prize and Arthur Freeman a stamp holder. The winners of the third prizes were Mrs. S. S. Green and Fred H. Freeman, each of which received a bouquet holder. The prizes were all handsome hand-painted china articles.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of lines, full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 17½ North ave., Plainfield.

CITY RUNS WITH BLOOD

Scores Killed on the Streets of Constantinople.

Armenians Take Refuge in the Churches, Which the Police Now Threaten To Storm—People Slain After Being Place Under Arrest. The Sultan Losing Sleep.

Constantinople, Oct. 4.—Turmoil, rioting, carnage reign to-day in all the fury of maddened beings relentlessly harrassed by the police. Residents are terror-stricken. It is worth as much as a man's life to venture out where chance bullets may bring death at every turn. The uproar has intensified since the outbreaks of Monday night. Last night every Armenian caught on the street was pursued by the softas and attacked. Fifty unfortunates gave up their lives in the night. The fugitive Armenians are flying to the churches for relief and safety.

Murdered While Under Arrest.

The reports that Armenians who were arrested for taking part in Monday and Tuesday's rioting were killed after being taken into custody have been confirmed. It is known to a certainty that five of the prisoners were killed and it would excite no surprise to hear that others met their death in the same manner. Eye witnesses of the rioting say that the Armenians did not discharge their firearms until Major Servet Bey ordered the police to fire upon them. Turkish officials view the troubles as being the direct outcome of the agitation in Europe, especially in Great Britain, in favor of the Armenians as against the Turks. The foreign diplomats here met at the Austrian embassy and held a conference on the situation.

Fled from the City.

The Armenians in the employ of the porte, as soon as they realized the gravity of the emeute of their countrymen, fled from the city, being afraid that the government would treat them like traitors. They all returned to-day, however, with the exception of Artym Pasha, secretary of the foreign ministry, who is accused of being in sympathy with the Armenian aspirations.

Threats To Storm the Patriarchate.

The Armenian patriarch received a letter on Tuesday inviting him to call upon the government. The letter stated that none of his followers would be permitted to accompany him. The patriarch therefore declined to accept the invitation and remains at the patriarchate, where he is shut in with several hundred armed Armenians. The officials visited the patriarchate and summoned its occupants to surrender, giving them until 3 o'clock in the afternoon to comply, after which time if they did not surrender the building would be stormed. At the time mentioned the police surrounded the building and prepared to carry out their threat to storm it. It appears that the police generally were not supplied with ball cartridges. They were instructed to use the flats of their swords and the butts of their rifles.

Fears of an Awful Massacre.

The threat to storm the patriarchate has not yet been carried out. The church officials declare that they are not able to compel the refugees to leave the building, and the latter decline to leave their shelter. It is to be hoped that the police will not resort to force, as in that event a fearful massacre would result. The refugees are huddled together in the building with hardly standing room. They depend for food on such scraps as are brought to them. Seven corpses were delivered from the patriarchate for burial.

Consternation at the Palace.

Great consternation prevails at the palace. The sultan has not been in bed since Sunday. It is felt that a crisis has arrived. No such terror has prevailed since the Greek revolution.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT.

What the English Newspapers Have To Say About the Massacre.

London, Oct. 4.—The Graphic to-day says: "It is impossible in face of this serious state of affairs for the powers to proceed immediately with the scheme of Armenian reforms. The criminal folly of the Armenians has tied the hands of the authors of the scheme." The Post says: "It is all very well after the event to arraign the vehemence with which the Mohammedans retaliated against the Armenians, but all the circumstances show that a crisis affecting the peace of Europe had arisen. It it not surprising that the sultan's guards should not have shown discretion that would have been expected of police controlling ordinary European crowds." The Daily News denounces what it terms the disgraceful attempt of one or two English papers to represent the Turk as a lamb and the Armenian as a wolfe in this butchery, "which was a mere massacre promising to rank with some of the historic crimes of the Turkish capital."

Ripped Open with Swords.

London, Oct. 4.—A dispatch from Constantinope says: On Wednesday a respectable looking Armenian was arrested by two gendarmes while walking in the Galata quarter. When he protested against being arrested the gendarmes immediately ripped his body open with their swords.

Charged with Smuggling.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Annie Peterson, stewardess of the American line steamer Pennland, and Miss Cecilia O'Brien, a modiste of this city, were arrested on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Bell, on the complaint of the chief custom inspector. They are charged with smuggling.

Whirled to His Death.

Pittsburg, Oct. 4.—Ernest Will, fireman at the Western Leather company's works, Allegheny, was whirled to death yesterday, his clothing catching on the shaft of a rapidly revolving fan which he was oiling. His arms and head were severed from his body.

"Fish John" Hanged.

Jersey City, Oct. 4.—John Czech, better known as "Fish John," was hanged in the jail here yesterday for the murder of his wife, "Fish Mary," last June. The execution was devoid of any unusual scenes.

TWO FOR CLEVELAND.

Baltimores Again Defeated in the Contest for the Temple Cup.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 4.—Cleveland won the second game of the Temple cup series in a walk by a score of 7 to 2. They made enough runs in the first inning to win the game and Hanlon's men had no chance to win at any stage. Cuppy pitched a wonderful game. He was hit safely but five times and two of these were of the scratch order. He had great speed and control, giving but two bases on balls. While Hoffer was not hit hard, the Clevelands bunched their hits and most of them counted in the run column. McKean's work at short was gilt edged. He accepted 12 out of 13 chances, most of them hard ones. His only error was the fumble of a ground hit that bounded badly. Between 8,000 and 10,000 people saw the game and it was necessary to establish a two-base hit ground rule. Cleveland scored three runs in the first on singles by Burkett and McKean, a two-base hit by Zimmer and a passed ball. Errors by McGraw, Hoffer and Jennings let in another run in the fifth. In the sixth, two more were scored on doubles by Cuppy and Burkett, and two bases on balls. Hits by Tebeau and Cuppy and good base running by the former, scored the last run in the seventh. Baltimore scored one in the second on errors by McKean and McAleer and a hit by Carey. Hits by Jennings and Brodie scored another in the sixth. The teams will rest to-day and play the final game of the series in this city to-morrow.

A CHALLENGE FROM COXEY.

He Is Anxious To Meet Ex-Governor Campbell in Joint Debate.

Zanesvile, O., Oct. 4.—The following letter challenging ex-governor James E. Campbell, democratic candidate for governor, to a joint debate with J. S. Coxey, populist candidate for governor, has been sent from the headquarters of the Muskingum county populist executive committee to Charles M. Anderson, chairman of the democratic state committee at Columbia: "Chairman democratic state executive committee—Your committee having announced a meeting in this city for Hon. James E. Campbell on the night of Oct. 12, which date had previously been announced and billed for a populist meeting to be addressed by Hon. J. S. Coxey, populist candidate for governor, Mr. Coxey authorizes us to respectfully challenge Mr. Campbell to meet him in a joint political discussion on the night of Oct. 12, time to be equally divided between the two speakers, and both parties to have equal rights and privileges in the hall." Ex-Governor Campbell has declined the challenge.

HER FOURTH BIRTHDAY.

Miss Ruth Cleveland Celebrated the Event with a Children's Party.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Oct. 4.—Miss Ruth Cleveland attained her fourth birthday yesterday and as heretofore it was pleasantly observed at Gray Gables. In the afternoon a party was given to her young friends. As many who have been present on former anniversaries had returned to their city homes there were not as many present as heretofore. Those there yesterday were two sons and two daughters of Private Secretary Thurber, who came over from Marion with Mrs. Thurber; Master Frankie and Miss Loretta Jefferson. The weather was delightful and children's games and lunch were heartily enjoyed by the little ones. Earlier in the day Miss Cleveland took the Thurber children for a drive over to the village.

GOLF CHAMPION OF AMERICA.

C. B. MacDonald of Chicago Wins the Havemeyer $1,000 Cup.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 4.—Charles B. MacDonald of Chicago is first national champion golfer of America, yesterday's play having decided the question. Thus the Chicago club becomes custodian for a year of the $1,000 cup given by president Theodore A. Havemeyer, as a perpetual prize to the National Golf association. Besides, Mr. MacDonald receives an elegant gold medal. Charles E. Sands of St. Andrews club, who met with a defeat, will be awarded second prize, which is a silver medal. Dr. C. Claxton of Philadelphia and T. J. Amory of Boston will receive third and fourth prizes respectively, which are bronze medals of the same model as the first two.

COL. NORMAN CRITICALLY ILL.

An Operation for Appendicitis May Cause His Death.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 4.—Col. Reginald Norman, brother of Mrs. Fred Prince and of George H. Norman, jr., of Boston, is critically ill, as the result of an operation for appendicitis. The patient did not rally as expected, and a consultation of physicians will be held.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot trade dull and weak. October, 64 7-8c.; December, 66 7-8c.; May, 70 3-8c.

Corn—Spot remains quiet and easier. No. 2 white 38 1-8c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 36 3-4c.; November, 36 5-8c; May, 35 1-4c.

Oats—Spot dull but prices are easy. No. 2 white, 25 1-2c.; No. 3 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot steady; demand moderate. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $10.00a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier, October, $6.20.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 22 1-2c.; creamery, western seconds to firsts, 15a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a18c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—The market shows slight improvement. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 8 1-2a8 3-4c.; large colored fancy, 8 1-4c.; state part skims, choice, 8 1-4c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a7 1-2c.; common, 1a3c.

Eggs—Light receipts and cool weather has caused prices to further advance on nearly all grades. Fancy, fresh gathered western, which are very scarce are now quotable at 18c.

Potatoes—Trading slow; continued liberal receipts, prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

JERSEY FOREST FIRES

Further Destruction Near Egg Harbor.

Largest Cranberry Bog in the State Burned over Causing a Loss of Nearly $60,000—1,200 Acres of Valuable Pine and Cedar and Hundreds of Cords of Wood Destroyed.

Egg Harbor City, N. J., Oct. 4.—The large and destructive forest fire which started Wednesday night in the extensive pine belt owned by Weymouth & Co. of New York raged with unabated fury all that night and yesterday and last night was at its greatest height. Hundreds of people went out to check the fiery element. The largest cranberry bog in south Jersey, owned by the Atlantic Cranberry association of this city, has been totally destroyed. It covers an area of over 200 acres and the crop, which was ready for harvest, was entirely eaten up by the devouring flames. The association's loss is estimated at nearly $60,000.

Burned over Four Square Miles.

Last night the fire was but a mile from the well built up portion of the city and many houses were endangered. The buildings of James Butler and Henry Meyer, which are located near the main body of the fire, were threatened and their fruit orchards were damaged. The flames burned over four square miles, consuming over 1,200 acres of valuable pine and cedar, besides destroying hundreds of cords of wood used for piling. All yesterday afternoon the fire played havoc in the largest swamps owned by Congressman Gardner, which surround his large farm south of this place, and the Italian gang employed by Mr. Gardner were sent out to "back fire" it, his residence being in danger. The origin of the fire cannot be ascertained.

HER PRISON CONFESSION.

Mrs. Maybrick Took Ground Glass To Attract Attention.

London, Oct. 4.—A woman just released from Woking prison, who shared the occupancy of a cell in that institution with Mrs. Maybrick, says that the murderess continues to declare that she is innocent of the killing of her husband, for which she is serving a life sentenced. The woman says that Mrs. Maybrick admitted to her that her conduct had been indiscreet, her illicit relations with the man Baierly furnishing a seeming motive for getting her husband out of the way, but she stoutly maintained her innocence of any act in connection with his death. Two years ago, the woman says, Mrs. Maybrick became seriously ill and finally confessed that she had cut herself internally with broken glass. She had not intended to commit suicide, however, but had injured herself solely with the object of attracting attention to herself and exciting sympathy.

DEATH OF HARRY WRIGHT.

His Remains Taken to Philadelphia This Morning.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 4.—The remains of Harry Wright, the well-known baseball man, who died last evening in the sanitarium from pneumonia, were taken to Philadelphia this morning for burial. Harry Wright first became famous as captain of the Cincinnati Red Stockings twenty-five years ago. Afterwards he went to Boston with his brother George, the famous shortstop, and played there for several years. From Boston he went to Philadelphia, where he became the manager of the Philadelphia team, and remained at its head until a few years ago. Harry Wright was the chief of the umpires of the national league.

ASSIGNED HIS CONTRACT.

Milholland Turns over State Printing to an Albany Firm.

Albany, Oct. 4.—John E. Milholland of New York city has finally assigned his two year contract for doing the legislative printing to James M. Ruso of this city, who is one of the members of the Weed-Parsons printing firm. The assignment was agreed to by Secretary of State Palmer and Attorney General Hancock. Comptroller Roberts, the only other member of the commission of award is absent from the state.

NEW WORLD'S CYCLE RECORD.

A Toronto Wheelman Rides a Half Mile Unpaced in 0.53 4-5.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 4.—Harley Davidson of Toronto rode, unpaced, a half mile straight away on a bicycle in 0.53 4-5 yesterday on Jarvis street, breaking the world's record of 0.55 held by John S. Johnson. The course was asphalted and down hill, the grade being about two feet in a mile.

Indian Schools Discussed.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ryan and Archbishop Kain spent several hours yesterday discussing Indian missions and schools. They devoted themselves entirely to determining the relative apportionments of money for Indian and negro institutions under control of the church.

Business Outlook in the South.

Baltimore, Oct. 4.—Reports to the Manufacturers' Record show that the high price of cotton is greatly stimulating the business interests of the south, and while purchases of goods do not yet show a very large increase, the outlook is very favorable.

Man and Horse Killed at a Crossing.

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 4.—A passenger train on the Doylestown railroad yesterday afternoon at Lansdale struck a team that was being driven by Mahlon Gerhart of Hilltown. Gerhart was killed outright. One of the horses was also killed.

Allegheny City Bonds Sold.

Pittsburg, Oct. 4.—The finance committee of Allegheny City awarded $650,000 water bonds to Whann, Schlensinger & Co. of New York, who bid $689,292.50 for the same.

Bank Wrecker Convicted.

Indianapolis, Oct. 4.—The jury in the bank wreckers' case returned a verdict of guilty as to Frank A. Coffin and not guilty as to his younger brother Percy Percival.

PROOF IS POSITIVE

THAT LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is Daily Curing Backache, Dizziness, Faintness, Irregularity, and all Female Complaints.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Intelligent women no longer doubt the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It speedily relieves irregularity, suppressed or painful menstruations, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, leucorrhœa, womb trouble, flooding, nervous prostration, headache, general debility, etc. Symptoms of

Womb Troubles

are dizziness, lassitude, extreme lassitude, "don't care," and "want to be left alone" feelings, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all this trouble as sure as the sun shines. That causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in perfect harmony with the laws that govern the female system, is as harmless as water. It is wonderful for Kidney Complaints in either sex.

Bearing-Down Feeling,

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in union with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is frequently found of great value for local application. Correspondence is freely solicited by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the strictest confidence assured. All druggists sell the Pinkham remedies. The Vegetable Compound in three forms,—Liquid, Pills, and Lozenges.

ASK FOR KABO No. 353

Perfect fitting. Sure to give satisfaction.

Price only $1.00

I. LEDERER.

There is one DRESS STAY that
Won't melt apart,
Can't cut through the dress,
Don't stay bent.
It is
BALL'S PEERLESS.
All lengths; all colors.
Seely Edsall, Putnam & DeGraw,
I. Lederer.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

Nothing Antequated

will be found in our stock of wall paper. We are now showing the very latest fall designs and most of them are gems. The getting up of new, fanciful and pleasing patterns is an art, and we have the advantage of displaying the handiwork of the best artists of the day in that line. It's like going through a picture gallery to walk about in our store, and there is no admission. Paints, oils and varnishes.

E. C. MARSHALL, 167 North Avenue

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.

P. M. DECKER, PROP

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

Dealers in

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY
to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,
Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,
301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

Dealers in

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,
EYE SPECIALISTS.
441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,
formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at
No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office.
EVERY THURSDAY,
From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DEY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

COAL

Best Lehighs, all domestic sizes, $4.50 per ton delivered. No. 2 coal $3.75 delivered.

FRED W. HAND,
92 South ave. 132 North ave.
TELEPHONE 139.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.
New York Mails.
Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.
Somerville and Easton Mails.
Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.
Sunday Mails.
Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.
J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.50 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

CLIMAX STOPPER CO.,
Machine Works,
Corner Washington and 4th sts., manufacturers of bicycle specialties. Electric and special machinery, experimental work, tools etc. Contractors for electric light wiring, telephones, burglar alarms, etc.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.
Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS,—EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Purity
of ingredients is essential in medicines, else they are apt to do more harm than good.
Allcock's Porous Plaster
is absolutely pure. It can do no harm. It is effective. As an external remedy for pains in the chest, back or side, it is unequaled.
Let no Solicitation induce you to accept a substitute. ALLCOCK'S is absolutely the best.
Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
may be taken by old and young. They simply assist nature.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

A MILLION IN SMOKE

Large Cotton Mills Burned at Warren, R. I.

Engines Sent from Fall River and Providence—The Town Is Practically Ruined and 1,600 People Are Thrown Out of Employment. Cause of the Fire Unknown.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 4.—One of the most destructive fires that has occurred in this state in many years last evening destroyed the buildings constituting the mills of the Warren Manufacturing company at Warren, making fine sheetings and shirtings, and causing a loss of over a million dollars. Just how the fire started is not yet known, but an explosion is said to have occurred in the engine room. The fire broke out about 7 o'clock and before the Warren fire department could get water enough the mill was in a light blaze and burning fiercely. Aid was telephoned for to Fall River and this city and from here two steamers were sent. The mill buildings including warehouses and contents were totally destroyed and a lumber yard adjoining were badly scorched as were the company's tenements. The disaster will throw about 1,600 people out of employment. Insurance, so far as known is: On mills and machinery, $850,000; tenements, $100,000; warehouses and contents unknown. The town is practically ruined by the fire.

The Whole Place Was Threatened.

When the steamers from Providence, Fall, River and Bristol arrived they could do nothing on account of the scarcity of water. So, nothing to prevent its spread, the fire roared and crackled and gathered everything within its reach. Nothing could have prevented the destruction of the entire town if the wind shifted around to the east and blew the sparks on Main and Water streets. Instead, it turned to the northwest, and the only thing in reach was a coal and wood yard. This suffered some. When this point was reached the big mills were practically destroyed, but across Westminster street was a boarding and tenement belonging to the mills. These were burned.

COL. CROFTON WOUNDED.

Shot by Lieut. Sprague While Crazed with Drink.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Colonel R. E. A. Crofton of the United States Army was shot at and slightly wounded yesterday afternoon at Fort Sheridan by First Lieutenant Sprague, who had been confined in the hospital. Sprague entered the grounds and deliberately fired three shots at his superior officer. The first shot went wide of its mark, the second went through the colonel's coat and the third grazed his abdomen. Sprague would have fired again had not the colonel jumped from his horse and grappled with him. Lieutenant Sprague had been drinking and was pratically a maniac. Being so much younger and stronger than Colonel Crofton the latter was no match for him and was thrown to the ground before Lieutenant W. H. Plow and others rushed to his rescue and disarmed the would-be murderer. As soon as Lieutenant Sprague was subdued an ambulance was called to remove the wounded colonel, and Sprague himself was escorted to the guard house where he is now being closely watched. Sprague is hardly responsible for his act, and it is believed that he had no motive for shooting his colonel.

VALUABLE HORSES BURNED.

Fire Destroys the Barns at the Northern Indiana Fair.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 4.—A special from Kendallville, Ind., says: Yesterday while 20,000 people were in the grounds of the Northern Indiana fair the horse barns were discovered to be on fire. It took hard work by the people and fire department to prevent the grounds being swept clear of buildings. Four hundred feet of barns were burned and a number of valuable horses killed. Great excitement prevailed. Gov. Matthews was present during the conflagration. The total loss was about $10,000.

PROF. ROGERS' NOVEL SUICIDE.

Took Cyanide of Potassium and Drank a Glass of Water.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The autopsy on the body of the late Professor Eliot F. Rogers of the chemical department of Harvard colleged revealed a large quantity of cyanide of potassium in the stomach, and that immediately following its introduction the professor drank a glass of water. It is the opinion of the experts that death was almost instantaneous.

International Copyright Company.

Albany, Oct. 4.—The Authors' International Copyright company of New York city has been incorporated to deal in copyrighted productions and copyrights; capital, $5,000, and directors Herman E. Woltereck, Geo. F. Bentley of New York city; G. F. Levetzow of Berlin, Germany, and Ernst Eisenmann of Paris, France.

Mutilated Corpse in the Water.

Quarantine, S. I., Oct. 4.—The body of a woman, badly decomposed, clothed in a few rags, one leg and one arm missing and the features unrecognizable, drifted ashore at the foot of Cliff street, near the boarding station of the New York quarantine at Staten Island yesterday.

Was a Wealthy Albany Man.

Albany, Oct. 4.—Orvil Brown, who died of apoplexy at the Boody house in Toledo O., Wednesday, was a wealthy retired bachelor merchant of this city. He was about 65 years of age and had resided at the Rossmore hotel for the past fifteen years.

Egypt's Cotton Crop.

Washington, Oct. 4.—United States Consul Horace Lee Washington, stationed at Cairo, reports to the department of state that during the past two months the prospects have improved and that Egypt expects a good average cotton crop.

Kentucky Tobacco Crop Injured.

Maysville, Ky., Oct. 4.—Owing to the damage by frost the tobacco crop in this heavy producing section will suffer a loss of fully one-third the crop.

FINED FOR CONTEMPT.

McCoy's Remarks to a Durrant Juror Got Him in Trouble.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—A monotonous morning session in the Durrant trial was relieved by the contempt of court proceedings in the case of Secretary H. J. McCoy of the Y. M. C. A., who last Thursday remarked to a juror in the case that he would be hanged if he did not vote to convict Durrant. McCoy admitted the conversation, but said it had been made in jest and to a juryman who was an old friend of his. He regretted the remark the moment it was uttered and had regretted it ever since. He said he had nothing against Durrant and his remark had no significance. Judge Sanderson of the superior court, who overheard the remark and reported it to Judge Murphy, said that McCoy did not deliver the utterance in the manner of a man who really contemplated violence to the juryman. The court said he was satisfied that McCoy meant nothing by his remark else he would imprison him for the limit allowed by law. As it was he fined him $250 with an alternative of five days in jail, but suspended judgment until Saturday.

Woman Reporter in Contempt.

The proceedings of the day closed with contempt proceedings against Miss Carrie Cunningham, a reporter, who refused to divulge the name of the person from whom she got the information that Mrs. Leak saw Durrant enter the Emmanuel church with a young lady when he was thought to have gone thither with Blanche Lamont. Miss Cunningham was given until to-morrow morning to answer with an alternative of imprisonment.

MOVED THE BOUNDARY LINE.

A Maloney, N. Y., Man's Device To Evade Customs Laws.

Washington, Oct. 4.—An extraordinary case of "removing a neighbor's land marks" has been brought to the attention of Attorney General Harmon. The land mark in question is in fact the boundary line between the United States and Canada at Malone, N. Y. The facts as reported to the attorney general by F. G. Paddock, district attorney for Franklin county, N. Y., are these: He states that a man owning a saloon near the boundary line in Malone has taken up and removed ten feet into the United States an iron post which has heretofore designated the boundary line between Canada and the United States. The object sought to be gained by this move is to bring a building owned by the offender partly within the boundaries of Canada and partly in the United States. The ulterior purpose, Mr. Paddock suggests, was to enable the trespasser to escape the penalties of the customs laws and its other restrictions on the sale of liquors in his saloon by making it doubtful whether this offense was committed within the United States or Canada. Attorney General Harmon has called the attention of the state department to the matter and has also directed United States District Attorney Poucher for the northern district of New York state to investigate the affair.

INDIANS AT THE CAPITOL.

Seventy-five Have a Pow-wow with Commissioner Smith.

Washington, Oct. 4.—There was a picturesque scene in the office of Assistant Indian Commissioner Smith yesterday when about seventy-five Ogalallah and Brule Sioux of Buffalo Bill's Wild West show called to have a pow-wow in regard to affairs affecting their interests. The Indians are fine specimens of physical manhood, and were bedecked with feathered headgear and their features were decorated with variegated colors of paint. There were three squaws and one papoose among them. Several chiefs addressed Commissioner Smith through an interpreter, reviewing their affairs, and one old warrior, who spoke at length, stated that if he told all of the unfulfilled promises of the government to the Indians the show would have to be postponed, as it would take him two days to do it.

OLD LIBERTY BELL.

It Leaves Philadelphia for the Atlanta Exposition.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—The old cracked Liberty Bell which will be exhibited at the Atlanta exposition was yesterday removed from Independence hall to the Pennsylvania freight station, where it remained under guard until this morning when the journey south was begun. A parade was given yesterday afternoon when the bell was removed, Mayor Warwick and the heads of the different municipal departments reviewing the procession from the Union League clubhouse. The bell was accompanied southward by Mayor Warwick and a councilmanic committee, and Atlanta will be reached on Tuesday, a number of stops to be made en route.

To Move the Cotton Crop.

New York, Oct. 4.—Large bills to the amount of $165,000 were yesterday deposited in the sub-treasury for the transfer of a like amount in small bills to New Orleans to move the cotton. Exchanges of large bills for small ones "over the counter" at the sub-treasury amounted to $450,000.

Corning Senatorial Deadlock.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The seventh day of the deadlock in the republican senatorial convention of the Forty-first district was as barren of final result as days which have preceded. The candidates still refuse to release their delegates.

Shot While Pleading for Mercy.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Edward Moe surprised his wife in company with Peter Nelson yesterday and shot her twice while she was on her knees before him pleading for life. Physicians say the woman will recover.

Acquitted of Murder.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 4.—The trial of Arthur A. Albee, charged with the murder of Barber Leaman, at Brockton, resulted in Albee's acquittal. He is still in jail, however, being unable to furnish a bond to keep the peace.

New Ship Canal Opened.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The new Hutchinson River Ship canal, connecting this city with Long Island sound, was opened yesterday in a formal way by the board of trade in this city.

Monocacy at Shanghai.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The navy department has been advised of the arrival of the Monocacy at Shanghai from Chemulpo.

MAY FIGHT IN MEXICO

No Law To Prevent Pugilists Meeting There.

Minister Romero Says President Diaz's Opposition Might, However, Stand in the Way—Government Troops, If Necessary, Will Keep Pugilists Out of Indian Territory.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Minister Romero of Mexico, speaking without official information on the subject, inclined to the belief that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight might be brought off within the Mexican borders, if all parties concerned so agreed. The place said to have been selected is in the state of Tamaulipas, which touches the southern border of Texas, on the Rio Grande, and is convenient to the railroads. There appears to be no existing law that will prevent the fight there. Speaking of this possibility Mr. Romero said that as a general proposition the various states of Mexico were independent and supreme over their own territory in regard to police regulations and civil government exercising controlling at the seat of government, the City of Mexico. Although he could not say with positiveness, Mr. Romero was inclined to believe that the state of Tamaulipas had no law against prize fighting.

Diaz Opposed to It.

President Diaz had been quoted as being opposed to the fight taking place in Mexico, but this opposition, as Minister Romero understands it, was restricted to the City of Mexico itself. Although the president had no authority over the state of Tamaulipas, any suggestion from him to the governor of that state, Mr. Romero thought, would have much weight. As to the main question whether or not the fight would take place on Mexican soil, Mr. Romero had no opinion to express.

Can't Fight in Indian Territory.

Attorney General Harmon says there is no probability that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight will occur in Indian Territory. The government will not for a moment sanction it, and should the attempt be made troops, if necessary, will be called out to preserve order.

Arranging for the Fight.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 4.—The city is excited over the good prospects of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight being held at Juarez, over the river in Mexico. A citizens' committee is trying to raise the guarantee of $30,000 in Mexican money, required by the Juarez authorities. Stewart has wired here for information. The Texas & Pacific road is reported to be ready to put up $5,000 to bring the fight to Juarez.

THEIR SENTENCES MITIGATED.

The President Saves Cadets Seay and Wigmore from Dismissal.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The president has saved military cadets Ralph M. Seay and Hubert L. Wigmore from being dismissed from the service. These cadets belonged to the fourth class and were court-martialed at the military academy on the charge of "conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline." The specifications were, leaving camp without authority and reporting "all right" on their return. They pleaded not guilty, but the court found them guilty in both cases and sentenced them "to be dismissed from the service." The president approved the findings of the court, but mitigated the sentence to confinement to the barracks, area of barracks and gymnasium for three months."

THE ESCAPED LEPER.

Philadelphia Authorities Learn That He Is Now in the West Indies.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—Word has been received by the officials of the board of health that James Benjamin, the colored man who escaped from the leper ward of the municipal hospital about six weeks ago, had arrived at his home in the West Indies. The authorities deny that they have any encouragement to the man to leave the hospital," but they have no hesitancy in expressing satisfaction that they have been relieved of the care and maintenance of the man during the balance of his life. Although the hospital authorities may not have aided in the escape, the man was furnished with a new suit of clothing the day before his departure.

THIS YEAR'S GOLD.

Mint Director Preston Estimates the Production.

Washington, Oct. 4.—United States Mint Director Preston has received unofficial information from Russia to the effect that the gold production of Siberia would this year largely exceed the output of last year when Russia produced $25,000,000 of gold. Mr. Preston estimates the gold production of the world this year at more than $200,000,000 and that of the United States at $46,000,000, being an increase over last year of about $6,000,000.

Two Positions To Be Given Out.

Albany, Oct. 4.—Gov. Morton has two vacancies of county offices to fill. One is the district attorney in Saratoga and the other coroner in Rensselaer. The governor has awaited the results of the republican conventions of these counties and will lose no time now that both have been held in filling the places, taking the nominees of the conventions for that purpose.

Smokeless Powder for the Navy.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Bids for furnishing the army 700 pounds of smokeless powder for the twelve-inch breech-loading mortars were opened at the war department yesterday. The Maxim Powder company was the lowest bidder at $1 per pound.

Will be Launched Oct. 19.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The navy department received a letter from the Newport News Ship Building company stating that the gunboats Nashville and Wilmington would be launched on Saturday, Oct. 19.

Sentenced for Manslaughter.

Boston, Oct. 4.—Charles J. Parlow, aged 21 years, has been sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory for manslaughter in causing the death of James Cannon on Sept. 1.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 4. 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Generally Fair, with Southeasterly Winds.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 68 Degrees.

Primary Meeting.

The Democratic voters of North Plainfield township will assemble in the First District in the basement of the School House and in the Second District in Saenger Bund Hall, on Friday evening, Oct. 4, at 8 o'clock to elect three (3) delegates in each district to attend the Democratic County Convention on Monday, Oct. 7. By order of

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 4—Business meeting and sociable of the Epworth League of the First M. E. Church.
October 4—Meeting of the Borough Council.
October 4—Borough Democratic primary to elect delegates for the county convention.
October 4—Annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church.
October 4—Meeting of the Union Republican Club.
October 5—Borough Republican primary at public school building to elect delegates to the county convention. Evening.
October 5—Boys race meet at Crescent Oval. Afternoon.
October 5—Football. Leal's school against Orange, at Orange.
October 5—Fall rally of the Junior department of the Y. M. C. A. Eight p. m.
October 6—Rally services in the First M. E. church.
October 6—Meeting of the new Catholic Club.
October 7—Entertainment and dance at Saengerbund Hall.
October 7—Meeting of the City Common Council.
October 7—Meeting of the Board of Education.
October 7—Library social of the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters, at 514 Park avenue.
October 8—Meeting of Camera Club.
October 8—Lecture on "The Ethics of Citizenship," by Miss Jane L. Slocum, at Y. M. C. A. hall. Four p. m.
October 9-12—Christian Endeavor State Convention at Atlantic City.
October 10—Dance of the T. A. B. society in their hall. Evening.
October 10—Annual State Conference of the Woman's Synodical Society at the Crescent Avenue church.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Football. Leal's school against Westfield, at Westfield.

Close up the hard cider joints.

Hon. Augustus G. Cutler yesterday declined to become the Democratic Senatorial candidate in Morris county.

If Judge Gaynor would only decline nominations before they are made he would prove himself to be more of a man.

The Trenton Times thinks that the new personal registration law is quite liable to cause a light vote at the coming election.

The New Brunswick Board of Education believe that histrionic abilities are not a necessary adjunct to a practical education and they have, therefore, refused the students permission to present a play during the holidays.

Allan M. McDermott publishes a two-column letter in the New York World this morning in which he accuses ex-Senator Griggs of having voted to legalize pool-selling when he was a member of the Legislature, and that he was the employed counsel for men who desired to legalize bookmaking on race tracks in New Jersey.

Surprised by Friends.

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Alice Jenkins by a number of her friends at her home on East Sixth corner of Washinton streets last evening. About twenty were present and a delightful evening was spent in playing games and in sociability. Refreshments, daintely served, brought the good time to a fitting close.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. Gaston went to Trenton today on business.

Miss Anna Stephenson, of Bloomfield, is visiting friends in this city.

Wallace Smith, of New York, spent yesterday afternoon with friends in town.

Elmer Giddis, of Dunellen, has secured a position with Chas. R. Thiers the dentist.

Miss Weeks, of Elizabeth, was the guest yesterday of Miss Florence Pond of Washington avenue.

M. J. Cashin, of Watchung avenue, leaves Sunday morning on a business trip in New York State.

Albert Sampson, of East Fifth street, has accepted a position with a large hardware house in New York.

Miss Annie Brown, of New York, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Carr, of Leland avenue, Netherwood.

Miss Bertha A. Cushing, of Brooklyn, is visiting Mrs. Florence Ianson at the "Woodside," Netherwood.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dunster, of Somerville, are visiting at the home of J. M. Peckelle of West Front street.

Poole Voorhees, of Greenbrook road, was able to go out yesterday for the first, after a long and serious illness.

John Giddis and daughter, of Marion, Ohio, are visiting at the home of J. M. Peckelle of West Front street.

Samuel E. Hull, of Duer street, is enjoying a two weeks vacation with friends at Broadway, Essex county, N. J.

Miss Laura Worthington is visiting at the home of her aunts, Mrs. Talmadge and Mrs. Ege of Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Coe, of Cold Spring, N. Y., are the guests of Mrs. Coe's sister, Mrs. Pierre Mali, on East Front street.

Rev. H. F. F. Schnellendruesler, who resides at 1257 Milton place, is today seventy-seven years old, and as lively as many at fifty.

Miss Albertis and her brother, Arthur B. Albertis, left Plainfield this week for Los Angeles, Cal., which will be their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Thomas returned yesterday to their home on South avenue after a ten days visit with friends in New York.

Mrs. J. H. Wellwood, of New York, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Walsh, corner of Belvidere and South avenue, Netherwood.

A. W. Haviland and family will be at their home, 25 Rockview avenue from Garrisons, N. Y., where they spent the summer, tomorrow.

Mrs. J. P. May, who has been visiting relatives at Plainview, N. Y., for the past two months, returned yesterday to her home on Somerset street.

Mrs. L. K. Prescott, of Brookly, returned home this afternoon after a visit of two days with her mother Mary L. Force, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eveland and Miss Collard, of Jersey City, while riding through Plainfield called at the Wheelmen's Headquarters to see F. L. C. Martin.

Mrs. Geo. S. McGinnis, of Somerset street, and daughter, Mrs. H. M. Cooke, of Summit avenue, left yesterday for a visit with friends in Elizabeth.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, will attend the State Christian Endeavor Convention at Atlantic City as a delegate from the Warren chapel society.

Mrs. J. K. VanArsdale and daughter Miss Bessie, of Grove street have gone to Hawthorne, N. Y., to spend a week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Garrett Conover.

Mrs. R. W. Rice is again a resident of the borough, having moved into the house over her her late husband's store, Emily and Duer streets. The family of Wm. Huff, who formerly resided over the store, have removed to Plainfield avenue.

Justice Newcorn Busy.

Three cases were decided in Justice Newcorn's court this morning. In the first, Gillis against Hartwell, landlord and tenant, judgment was rendered for the landlord for possession of the premises. The plaintiff in the case of the Plainfield Beef Company against Vanderhoof, on contract, also received the judgment. The last case was of Henessey against Chase, and was settled in court.

—VanEmburgh & Son's special for tomorrow, Saturday, October 5th—Gentlemen's pure linen handkerchiefs 13 cents each. Read their ad in today's paper.

GAIL BORDEN
EAGLE Brand
..CONDENSED MILK..
Has No Equal
SOLD EVERYWHERE

Additional Loca News on Page 8

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's
BAKING POWDER.

Biscuit, cake, pot pies and buns,
Dumplings, puddings, Sally Luns,
Muffins, waffles, griddle cakes,
The very best it always makes.

THEATRICAL.

Just why the author of the piece presented in Music Hall last night by George Monroe should have called it a "Happy Little Home," will probably always remain a mystery, unless it is that after one has seen it he or she will go to their own home filled with joy that their domicle is not likened unto that portrayed on the stage last night.

"A Happy Little Home" is one of the funniest pieces seen in Plainfield for some time, and although its plot and action are ridiculously improbable the "musical comedy satire," as it is termed on the programme, is so smoothly constructed in the knack of getting the characters into ludicrous positions which are only straightened out after the audience have split their sides, figuratively speaking, in laughing at the antics of Mr. Monroe's dual characters, Owen Moore and Mrs. McGruder, that one forgets about everything save the humor that has been floating off the stage and touching the risibilities of all who have eyes to see and ears to hear. The first two acts are laid in the home of the Gayfeathers, with the wife wearing the trousers, and the husband a member of a bicycle club, which is in reality a place where the old man can go and have his fun, supposedly without knowledge to his wife.

But the author of the piece has fixed it so that the wife learns of her husband's midnight frolics and then the fun begins. Mrs. Gayfeather proposes to secure evidence and sue for a divorce, and Gayfeather from the drift of her tantalizing remarks opines that this is the case, too. To be positive about it he sends for Burke, a detective, whom he proposes to put on the case and find out her modus operandi. Before the detective arrives Owen Moore (Mr. Monroe) appears in search of Rose, Gayfeather's ward, with whom he is in love. Gayfeather, surrounded by his two cronies, Hector Savanac, a Frenchmen, and Theophilus Doolittle, mistake Moore for the detective. The latter is puzzled at first, but his Irish wit soon grasps the situation and he acquieses to their demands and is rapidly transformed into an Irish housekeeper, whom Mrs. Gayfeather employs. From that time on the fun runs fast and furious by the acts of Moore who pays love to Rose incog. and does other innumerable funny things that it would take too much space to record.

The last act, however, falls just a little flat. It represents the club rooms, and a private stag gives an opportunity of introducing several specialties, which are of a rather mediocre order. After witnessing two hours of really funny acting, the audience is left the last half hour without much to laugh at.

But "A Happy Little Home" was worth seeing if you wanted fun.

Frederick Warde is making a specialty this season of the romantic drama written by D Ennery, entitled "The Mountebank" in which he and his distinguished company will be seen at Music Hall on Saturday evening. That the representation as a production may compare favorably with those that Mr. Warde has been associated with in recent seasons he has caused to be prepared the entire scenery, costumes, stage mountings, and accessories necessary to place it upon the stage in a superb manner. The scenes and period, the action being laid in France during the early part of the present century, allow ample scope for scenic and costuming display. The leading role of "Belphegor, the Mountebank," affords Mr. Warde a wider range for the display of varied moods and histrionic abilities than any other in his repertoire.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

—Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., met last evening and transacted routine business. Comrade Drake, of Post 73, was present and made a few excellent remarks.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Orange and Montclair Y. M. C. A.'s have both placed elevens on the field and are trying to secure games. If Cranford does not play in the league the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team will meet them.

The Princeton varsity eleven played their initial game Wednesday afternoon at Elizabeth against the Elizabeth Athletic Club, and won by a score of 38 to 0 The college boys put up a snappy game, and, although the team was composed mostly of substitutes, they had easy work defeating the E. A. C. team. Rosengarten, at right half, did the brilliant playing for Princeton. The Elizabeth boys played a much weaker game than they did against the Crescent Athletic Club last Saturday.

Scotch Plains.

The Town Committee meet next Monday evening.

The Bucket and Engine Company, held their monthly meeting in their rooms Wednesday evening. One new member was elected.

George Collins and family intend moving to Rutherford where Mr. Collins has accepted a position.

William C. Corey, of Albany, a former resident of the town spent Monday and Tuesday with his brother-in-law, George W. Randolph.

Mrs. McGee has given up the Westcott cottage and will move back to Plainfield on Saturday.

Thomas Lee, Randolph Drake, George R. Nichols and Lynus Walpole are serving as petty jurymen at this term of court in Elizabeth.

Miss Hattie Coles, of Front street, is visiting friends in Trenton for a few days.

William Borkousky, who has been working for his uncle, Henry Cook, has left his position and accepted one in Plainfield.

Goodwill Lodge, K. of P., met in their rooms over Baker's store last night.

Twilight Council, No. 7, Jr. O. U. A. M., meet this evening in their rooms. Business of importance will come before the council.

Cards are out for the approaching marriage of Miss Grace Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson to William Bridges Noble, to take place at the Baptist church, Wednesday, October 16th, at 4 o'clock p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Mead, of Fanwood, leave today for a month's visit with relatives in New York State. Mr. Mead is taking the trip for the benefit of his health which has been very poor for some time.

Miss Edith Randolph has returned from a visit with her friend, Mrs. Charles Smith, of Westfield.

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

—Putnam & DeGraw say something that is worth remembering in their new ad in today's Press.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy: that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

New York Announcement.

"Our American Homes and How to Furnish Them."

Horner's Furniture.

Reasons why you should buy it in preference to any other.

(1). Because this firm have long enjoyed the reputation of keeping only the best Furniture that can be produced, both in medium and finest grades; (2). Because their assortments are unequailed; (3). Because their prices are the lowest at which goods of standard quality can be sold.

Latest productions in Dining Room, Bedroom Parlor, Drawing Room, Library and Hall Furniture—Venetian Carved Furniture—Novelties in Imported Furniture—White and Gold Enameled Furniture—Enameled and Brass Bedsteads—English Brass Bedsteads (75 patterns); Maple and Bamboo Furniture—Electric Reclining Chairs and Settees—Smoking and Billiard Room Furniture—Everything for city or country home—Eight spacious floors—All prices in plain figures.

R. J. HORNER & CO.,
Furniture Makers and Importers,
61, 63, 65 W. 23d St., New York.
(Adjoining Eden Musee.)

Horner & Co.'s establishment is one of the sights of New York.—Newspaper Comment.

Yes—

The Time Has Arrived to Buy

Fall Underwear

AT PECK'S.

"Ever Ready" PREPARED

Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mill's, 24 Somerset Street, Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

Seasonable Goods That Will Interest Economical

SATURDAY BUYERS.

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best, any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good qnality oil	9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can
Farrow's string beans	4½c can
Bear brand pettijohn	10c
Eli " "	10c
Best quality table salt	3c bag
Soda crackers, good quality	5c pound
Banner soap	2½c cake
B. T. Babbitt's best laundry soap at	4c cake
Magnolia brand condensed milk	8c can
Old Government Mocha or Java coffee very fine	29c pound
Mixed tea, our regular 25c grade at	19c pound

Many other good things will be offered not mentioned here. It will pay you to come in and see.

Carpet Department.

Our line of new fall styles embrace the largest variety we have ever shown Our prices the lowest, quality the best and we guarantee entire satisfaction in our upholstery work. Don't fail to visit this department.

$1.79 Japanese rugs, 1 yard by 2 yards, best quality and good styles while they last at $1.79

$4.98 All-wool art rugs 2½ yards, large variety of patterns.

19C Jointless matting; our regular 25 quality, at 19c per yard; special.

49C All wool extra super ingrain carpets at 49c. Window shades, poles and trimmings in large variety, 19c and up.

Millinery Department.

Latest novelties in feather effects, wings and ornaments.
Sailors in black, navy, brown and red 39, 49 and 65c.
Misses' hats trimmed in Nacre ribbon and quills $2.98 and $3.98.
Paris and New York styles for fall and winter of 1895-96 displayed in our parlors.

DSESS GOODS.

29c—All-wool cheviot tweeds in two color blending' new autumn colorings worth 40c a yard.

43c a yard—All-wool tweed suiting in an excellent combination of two colorings, a high grade fabric; actual value 50c a yard.

BLANKETS AND BED COMFORTERS.

65c a pair—10x4 white Empire wool finish blankets, extra quality; worth 75c a pair.

$1.25—Large size comforters, white filling, well stitched; worth $1.50.

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, waterproof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Union Republican Club meets tonight.

—E. E. Marshall, of North avenue, has the contract to paper two handsome residences in Elizabeth.

—Preparatory services in Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock. Communion services Sunday morning at 10:30.

—Wm. VanDevender, of East Fifth street, is laying a new flagstone sidewalk on the Franklin place side of his property.

—The libel suit of Dr. William H. Lawrence against Thomas T. Lane, has been set down for trial on Monday, at Elizabeth.

—A meeting of the new Catnolic Club will be held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the C. Y. M. L. hall for permanent organization.

—Honan & Sons, sewer contractors, will finish laying the sewer pipes today on Carlton avenue, between Watchung and Putnam avenues.

—Preparatory services will be held in Warren chapel this evening, and next Sunday morning the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

—J. T. Vail, the real estate agent, has leased H. B. Newhall's house on East Seventh street to George Strong of New York. He will take possession October 15th.

—VanEmburgh & Son's special for tomorrow, Saturday, October 5th—Gentlemen's pure linen handkerchiefs 13 cents each. Read their ad in today's paper.

—The Roselle sewerage system is nearly completed, and it is now possible to give figures as to its cost. Allowing for all extras the price will not exceed $30,000.

—The Boys Brigade of the First Baptist church will meet on Saturday evening, when it is hoped that something will be done toward a permanent organization.

—A complaint was made yesterday to Chief Grant that several hackmen at the North avenue railroad station were not wearing their badges. The matter will be attended to.

—The Independent Scheutzen Corps met at their club-house yesterday afternoon in Hyde's Grove and held a private shoot at clay birds. Two games of quoits were also played.

—Henry Perrine, a driver on one of Boice, Runyon & Co's coal wagons, was slightly injured Wednesday by the breaking of a spring on the elevated wagon which he has charge of.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its semi-annual meeting and election of officers tonight. The Junior Society met for the same purpose this afternoon.

—Marsh, Ayers & Company, painters and dealers in wall paper, are very busy at present. Their men are painting houses for the following Plainfield men: Mulford Estil, H. McGee, J. Leal and Chas. Matthews.

—The special list of seasonable goods mentioned in Edsall's advertisement in today's Press, for Saturdays economical buyers, is valuable information, especially to people who want to get a great deal for a little money.

—Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-SinqueTribe No. 193, I. O. R. M., at their meeting Wednesday night received and accepted an invitation from Miantonomah Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M, to attend the latter's sixth anniversary exercises Friday evening, October 11th.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, had two adoptions Wednesday evening, and after the meeting a collation was served. The council accepted Miantonomah Tribe's invitation to attend their sixth anniversary, to be celebrated Friday evening, Oct. 11th.

—Alex. Pargiter, the new Park avenue merchant, is well pleased with the patronage he has already received from the people of Plainfield, and as he discovers the needs of his shoppers he proposes to meet their wants. He is now offering a fine line of ladies plush capes. Muslin underwear is also another specialty. His store is at the corner of Park avenue and Second street.

—VanEmburgh & Son's special for tomorrow, Saturday, October 5th—Gentlemen's pure linen handkerchiefs 13 cents each. Read their ad in today's paper.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

☞Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AN APPEAL.

Contributions for the Support of the Hospital Desired.

To the People of Plainfield and Vicinity:

Muhlenberg Hospital is in serious financial embarrassment. The income of the Hospital, derived from annual subscriptions, from donations, and from the few paying patients, is altogether inadeqate to its needs; and at the close of a summer, during which the demands upon the institution have been unprecedentedly heavy, the Hospital is in debt to the amount of $2,100.

The Finance Committee earnestly appeal to you for assistance in this emergency.

Contributions, whether small or large, will be gratefully received by any member of the Finance Committee, by Mr. H. P. Reynolds, corner Park and North avenues, or by Mr. George H. Goddard, Treasurer, No. 205 East Ninth street, Plainfield, to whose order all checks should be drawn.

Regular annual subscribers for any amount from $10 upward are specially desired and blanks for such subscriptions may be obtained from the undersigned, from Mr. Goddard, or from Mr. Reynolds.

The committee hope that their appeal on behalf of sick and suffering humanity may meet with a prompt and generous response.

Francis Wood, 313 Franklin Pl.
Wm. E. Lowe, 1024 Park Ave.
John M. Whiton, 821 Central Ave.
Chas. W. Schipper, 705 W. 7th St.
Chas. P. Bull, 226 E. 9th St.
Finance Committee.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Robert Wyckoff returned yesterday afternoon after a cycling trip in New York State. He will begin his duties at the Crescent Cycling Academy next week.

Captain Dunham, Charles E. Head, B. Cornell, H. G. Parker and Vail Kinports, of the Y. M. C. A. Bicycle Club, rode to Plainfield last evening, says yesterday's New Brunswick Home News.

Miss Helen Baker and Frank Baker, of Brooklyn, came out on their wheels yesterday and spent the day at the home of W. B. White, of West Front street. They rode back in the afternoon and early evening.

Frank L. C. Martin entertained several prominent men in the bicycle trade yesterday. They were H. A. Lozier, President of the Lozier Manufacturing Company, makers of the Cleveland, which is so efficiently represented here by Mr. Martin; L. H. Bill, manager of the New York branch of the same concern, and Mr. Webbe, also of the Lozier Company. Mr. Martin showed them the town yesterday and all were highly delighted with it. Although Mr. Lozier weighs almost three hundred pounds he is an expert wheelman.

Grace M. E. Church Notes.

Tonight a business meeting of the Epworth League will be held at the residence of Dr. H. K. Carroll, corner of Grandview and Westervelt avenues.

The Ladies' Aid Society at their business meeting on Tuesday arranged for a sociable to be known as a "Birthday Social" to be held the latter part of this month.

The "Queen Esther Band," composed of a number of the young girls, under the direction of Mrs. H. F. Randolph and Miss Eella Voehl, is preparing for a season of activity in aiding the cause of Home Missions. A large and enthusiastic prayer service was held on Wednesday night and an address given by the pastor on "Buried Tallents."

The church membership has been increased during the month of September by the addition of twelve persons, five by letter and seven from probation.

Inspecting Streets.

The councilmanic street committee, consisting of Charles J. Fisk, Stephen A. Ginna and E. H. Bird, inspected a portion of the Third ward streets yesterday afternoon, which have been in the hands of Sewer Contractors Honan & Son. Some of the streets were found to be in good condition, while others were just the reverse. The balance of the streets will be inspected from time to time and the committee will make it a point to have them left in a condition that is satisfactory to the city.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

AN ACTIVE ENDEAVORER.

E. E. Anthony is Hustling to Bring the Convention Here.

The following recently appeared in The Christian Endeavorer about E. E. Anthony and Plainfield '96:

There are fewer more energetic and earnest workers in the field at the present day than President E. E. Anthony of the Union County C. E. Society: active and alive to the desires of the society to have the convention held in Plainfield in '96, he enthuses all those with whom he comes in contact and leaves them with the firm conviction that Plainfield is what they want for 1896, and without doubt that fact is gaining a foothold among the majority of the societies throughout the State, as the convenience offered by Plainfield to accommodate three to four thousand is a point not to be despised.

Besides which, the natural advantages it has for transportation to and from all parts of the State tends to form another point in its favor. To such a convention as the delegates of the societies through the State will form the reception that will be accorded them shall only be equaled by that of Boston '95.

Plainfield has already been honored by being selected as the meeting place of two large conventions, those of the Y. M. C. A. and the Seventh-Day Baptists.

So let your voice be cast for the Colorado of the East when the time comes.

Dunellen.

Freeholder F. H. Gise spent Tuesday in New Brunswick.

Dr. Nelson, of New Market, spent Wednesday at the Trenton fair.

Miss Julia Drake, of Piscataway, is spending a few weeks with Mrs. S. Dayton, of New Market.

George Teel, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Teel, of High street, has returned to his home.

Mr. Fairchild, of New York, called on friends in town Wednesday.

Isaac Stites has rented his house on Dunellen avenue, formerly occupied by Al Nelson, who has moved to Trenton, to Mr. Rea.

Mrs. N. B. Snell, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Waldron, of Springdale, has returned home.

Adam Dealaman intends enlarging his grocery store by building an addition for dry goods and notions.

Miss Mattie Nelson, of New Rochelle, who has been visiting in town for a few days, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer have returned from their visit with friends at Pluckamin.

Charles Dickarson has been busy laying a new sidewalk and stoop on the property owned by Mr. Skinner of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Black, of Lebanon, have returned home from their visit with friends on Dunellen avenue.

Mr. Lewis, of Front street, has moved his family into the house on Dunellen avenue formerly occupied by Peter Huff.

Miss Brown, of Somerville, was the guest of Miss L. Randolph, of Mountain avenue, Wednesday.

John Hunt, of Front street, is painting his house.

New Mission Organized.

The following members of the State and Local Missionary Society, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, went to Bound Brook on Wednesday night and organized a mission: Rev. and Mrs. P. S. Gibson, Miss Fanny Scott, Miss Harriet Jackson, Miss Emma Scott, Miss Smith, Mrs. Martha Rogers, Mrs. Rosa Jackson, Mrs. Mary Pendleton, Miss Betty Shelton, Mrs. D. W. Brown. The new mission starts off with a membership of eleven. They will hold their meetings every Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the schoolhouse which has been offered free of charge. As there is a colored population of about five hundred in Bound Brook the prospects of a successful mission is excellent.

A Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given to Mrs. Annie Stites at her home on Grove street last night, there being about fifty guests present. The principal features were dancing and good music which was enjoyed till early morning. A collation was served before the affair broke up.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will cure do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

Injured His Fingers.

John O'Brien, of South Second street, an employe at the Pond Machine Tool Works, had two fingers of his left hand injured yesterday while at work. He went to Muhlenberg Hospital and Dr. Endicott dressed the injured members. It is not thought that he will lose the fingers.

Bicycle Lamp Explosion.

People passing along West Front street last night near the Misses Gorsline's store were startled by a loud report and a blaze. On examination it was learned that a wheelman's lamp had explained. Beside demolishing the lamp there was no other damage.

DIED.

THISTLETHWAITE—In this city, 10th mo. 2d, 1895, Elizabeth W. Thistlethwaite, aged 90 years.
Funeral services from the Friends' Meeting House, Watchung avenue, 10th month, 5th, Seventh day, at 11:30 a. m. 2

Grand Autumn Excursion

via. Central Railroad of New Jersey, and Jersey City, on the palatial fast 3-deck steamer,

ST. JOHNS,

of the famous Sandy Hook Route, up the romantic Hudson, to

WEST POINT,

—ON—

Saturday, Oct. 5, 1895.

Special excursion tickets from Plainfield will be sold good to go only on train leaving Plainfield at 8 a. m. Oct. 5. Return will be made at a seasonable hour. Hotel, restaurant and refreshments at popular prices.

Fare for the Round Trip $1.20.

9 26 28-10 2 4

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

GIRL for housework, small family. 817 First place. 10 3 2

WANTED—By an English person, a situation at general housework in a good private family. Address Miss Priscilla Negus, Bound Brook, N. J.

FRESH Jersey cow for sale; imported stock, full pedigree, $75; also Jersey heifer calf, 7 months old; $20. Address Jersey, care Press. 10 4 2

YOUNG woman wants stead position as dressmaker. Address V., care Press.

BOY wanted, active and trustworthy state age and reference. Address Integrity, care Press. 10 4 2

FOR SALE—First-class grocery business, owing to death of owner. For particulars inquire of Geo. D. Morrison, agent, 48 Emily st., North Plainfield. 10 4 3

LOST—Pocketbook and letters Reward given corner Central avenue and Randolph road.

GIRL wishes situation at plain cooking or general housework, with good reference. 202 Manson place.

BOARDERS wanted; also table board. 10 Craig place. 10 4 3

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 1121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 tf

LOST—Lady's silk waist on Craig place, Duer or Emily sts., North Plainfield. Reward on returning to Rice's store, 48 Emily st. 10 4 2

WANTED.—Well recommended laundress for Mondays and Tuesdays. Address W., care Press.

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

FOR SALE—Piano at great sacrifice. $75; excellent tone and condition; owner leaving town. 24 Sandford avenue. 10 1 tf

FOR SALE—Bargain, 26 school desks with combination seats of the best make. Call in the morning at 1045 Arlington ave. 9 30 6

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

FENCE wanted; 300 to 400 feet if very cheap; state price expected. Bargain, care Press. 9 28 3-eod

ROOM to let, with or without board to a lady. Address 322 East 5th street. 9 26 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

STORAGE, separate rooms, to let in Stillman block. 9 19 tf

FLATS and offices to let in Babcock block; steam heat; elevator service, etc. Wm. M. Stillman. 9 19 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

Twenty Years Ago

Store keeping was different. Then we used to sit around and wait for the trade to come, and everyone was happy and made money. Quite different now, and a sure sign that people appreciate good storekeeping when we look back and see how this store has grown from mere nothing to Plaidfield's leading store, and we are going to stay where the people have put us—at the Head of the Heap.

37c is all you are asked to pay for white and natural wool underwear, for ladies and gentlemen; they were 50 and 75c.
Blankets. We always had the name of selling the best blankets for the least money, and this year the name is still ours. See that 10x4 wool blanket that we ask $2.75 for.
Comfortables. Not the poor kind that are filled with shoddy. We don't sell that kind. Ours are filled with good white cotton and sold at the same prices that most stores ask for the poor ones. $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00.
39c for ladies' night robes, well made and nicely trimmed.
18c for 36-inch dress goods; all the new fall colorings.
25c for all-wool eider down flannel; all shades.
$2.75 for a 10x4 fine wool blanket.
5c each, large cotton towels, size 18x36.
10c, all-linen huck towels, size 20x40.
45c, 70-inch cream damask table linen; the 50c kind.
12c, ladies' fast black seamless hose.
10c, children's fast black seamless ribbed hose.
55c, 10x4 cotton blankets, white, tan and grey.
30c, men's medium weight shirts and drawers; the 50c kind.
27c for ladies fine ribbed vests; same as you usually pay 50c for.
20c for two-quart granite stew kettles.
13c for fine china cups and saucers; pink decorations.
27c for four-quart granite stew kettles.
55c for No. 7 granite tea kettles.
5c each for Mason's quart jars.
13c each for china tea pot stands.
10c for fine china cream pitchers.
10c for Japanese tea pots.
$6.98 for a 100 piece English porcelain decorated dinner set.
$1.89 for a fine decorated ten piece toilet set; worth $2.50.
75c. See those new chamois gloves in cream, tan and black. The best gloves made for wear.
12c per yard for 50 different styles of fine oriental laces.
12c each for gingham aprons. All well made.
12c each for silk Windsor ties.
13c for men's fast black half hose; same as you usually pay 25c for.
15c for the new satin crepons; beautiful effects.
49c for 54-ich Gilbert suitings; the best cloth in the market for wear.
45c for a 54-inch all-wool imperial serge, all shades. The best value we have ever offered.

You take no chances on anything you buy, as we are always willing to refund money on any article you buy that is not satisfactory.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannel and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices.

U. B. CRANE Hatter and Furnisher
120 West Front Street.

Van Emburgh's & Son's.

EXTRA SALE.

OF

Genuine Irish Linen Handkerchiefs, full size for gentlemen,

13c Each.

The value of these handkerchiefs we leave for you to decide.

CHILDREN'S

School Handkerchiefs, fancy border, 1c each. School Handkerchiefs, hemstitched, 2 for 3c.

VanEmburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular House

A FORTUNE FOR A BUTTON.

The Tearing of One From a German Officer's Coat Cost the Money.

The Cyclops, Captain Vogelgesang, was making her regular round of calls among the Haitian ports in 1879 and touched at Gonaives just after the opposition to President Solomon had developed into one of the fierce local rebellions that often arose during his regime and rendered an existence in his domain a very precarious one. The lives of those who remained faithful to the government were put in jeopardy, and they were obliged to escape immediately. Some of them sought refuge on board the Cyclops, which had touched at Gonaives to discharge her cargo, and Captain Vogelgesang refused to deliver them up.

As the captain was returning to the landing place from his interview with the general commanding the rebel troops, the soldiers laid hands on him and tore a button from the breast of his coat (he was in uniform at the time), hustled him about and altogether subjected him to very rough usage. He got away finally through the intervention of the general, and by telling the people that it was not possible for him to send the refugees away from his ship unless he were allowed first to go on board. He agreed to land them if he got word from the consul before 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and promised not to start away before that hour. He also agreed to blow his steamer whistle as a signal that he was about to get under way.

No cargo could, under the circumstances, be landed or received on board, and as no word came from the consul, who had wisdom enough not to be found, the whistle was blown and the anchor engine started to heave in the cable. The troops ashore, not willing that their prey should so easily slip away, had anticipated this movement, and had manned the guns of a small battery just below the landing, which commanded the anchorage, fully determined to blow the Cyclops out of the water if she attempted to escape.

There was considerable excitement occasioned by the loading of the guns, and great dismay and consternation when the steamer, having weighed anchor, turned quietly round, passed close to the guns, and left without a shot being fired. The reason was quite apparent, as the vents of the guns were found securely spiked with nails that had been forced down into the chamber and bent so that they could not be withdrawn. The German government took up the cudgels for Captain Vogelgesang and succeeded in getting £1,000 indemnity for the brass button which had been torn from his coat in the scrimmage. —Pearson's Weekly.

GLASSMAKING.

Thebes' Artisans Were Proficient In the Industry Forty Centuries Ago.

The glass blowers of ancient Thebes are known to have been as proficient in that particular art as is the most scientific craftsman of the same trade of the present day, after a lapse of 40 centuries of so called "progress." They were well acquainted with the art of staining glass and are known to have produced that commodity in great profusion and perfection. Rosselini gives an illustration of a piece of stained glass known to be 4,000 years old, which displayed artistic taste of high order, both in tint and design. In this case the color is struck through the vitrified structure, and he mentions designs struck entirely in pieces from a half inch to three-quarters of an inch thick, the color being perfectly incorporated with the structure of the piece, and exactly the same on both the obverse and reverse sides.

The priests of Ptah at Memphis were adepts in the glassmaker's art, and not only did they have factories for manufacturing the common crystal variety, but they had learned the vitrifying of the different colors and the imitation of precious stones to perfection. Their imitations of the amethyst and of the various other colored gems were so true to nature that even now, after they have lain in the desert sands from 2,000 to 4,000 years, it takes an expert to distinguish the genuine articles from the spurious.

It has been shown that, besides being experts in glassmaking and glass coloring, they used the diamond in cutting and engraving glass. In the British museum there is a beautiful piece of stained glass, with an engraved emblazonment of the monarch Thothmes III, who lived 3,400 years ago.—Jewelers' Circular.

It Wasn't Law.

Judge Wallace was chief justice of the supreme court when an attorney from Montana, who is now a well known practitioner in San Francisco, applied for a certificate to practice before the courts of the state. He stood before the bar while another attorney made the motion for admission and presented the certificate.

"I don't like that fellow's looks," whispered Judge Wallace to his associate.

"Nor I either."

"Well, let's sit down on him."

"All right."

Judge Wallace cleared his throat, smiled upon the attorney and said:

"This court cannot recognize the certificate of a territorial court."

"But, your honor, I have here a decision of this very court upon that point holding directly the contrary," replied the applicant's attorney.

"Let me see it," demanded Judge Wallace.

It was passed up to him by the bailiff, and he observed that the opinion had been written by himself.

"Looks as if he had us, doesn't it?" whispered the judge to his associate.

"That's what it does. How are we going to get around that?"

Judge Wallace wiped his glasses carefully, adjusted them on his nose and read a few lines.

"That is not law," he declared emphatically as he slammed the book on his desk. "The application is denied."—San Francisco Post.

Who Was He?

A proud papa, not many hundred miles from the center of Syracuse, is boasting of the alleged brightness of his 10-year-old son. The said 10-year-old was looking over a newspaper the other day, not forgetting to take in the advertisements.

"Papa," he said, "I thought that Job and Lot was two different people?"

"Why, they were, my son," was the proud father's answer.

"Well, this newspaper is off of its base then," said he of the ten years. "Look here! It says 'Job Lot' at the head of this advertisement. Who's he, then?"—Syracuse Post.

A Singular Function.

Mrs. Gaswell—While I was in Chicago I received an invitation to a rather singular function.

Mrs. Dukane—What was it?

Mrs. Gaswell—Mrs. Lakefront invited me to a party given to celebrate the tenth anniversary of her first divorce.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Buy Your Clothing AT WHOLESALE PRICES

We are the largest wholesale manufacturers of exclusively good clothing in the world.

Orders for our wholesale customers being all filled, we have placed the balance of stock into our retail stores and will sell it at

Strictly Wholesale Prices

This represents nearly a half a million dollars' worth of fine Fall and Winter Clothing:

Look at the Prices!

Finest Quality All Wool Suits and Overcoats.	8.00	10.00
	12.00	15.00
Nicest and Best Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters.	3.50	5.00
	7.50	10.00
5,000 Trousers, Select Patterns, Best Goods.	3.50	4.00
	5.00	6.00

TWO BROADWAY STORES:
194 Broadway, below Fulton St.,
AND
Stewart Bldg., cor. B'way & Chambers St.
NEW YORK.

BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & CO.

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,

—BEGINNING—

Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.
9 27-10 1 4 5 8 11 12 15.

NOTICE.

Estate of Henry Dealman, deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, made on the application of the undersigned administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, within nine months from the twelfth day of August, 1895, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.

THEODORE KURZHALS,
8 30 10-oaw Administrator.

NOTICE

Estate of Chauncey M. Field, deceased

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the County of Union, made, on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the ninth day of Sept. 1895, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers

WM. A. CODDINGTON,
9 13 10-oaw Administrator

For Sale or Exchange

For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of

Between 4 and 5 Acres

well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.

9 30 6-e 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Jones & Co., EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

—Cesspools Built.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

New! New!

YES

But Stop, Consider

what a combination of valuable medicines,

Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery, BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.

Try a bottle and be convinced,

50C.

Leggett's Pharmacy.

Educational.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE

Babcock Building. Largest room; elevator. A great need to be supplied. Four regular courses—Commercial, Shorthand, Penmanship, English Branches. Everything first-class; 5 days and 4 nights a week. Public opening evening of Sept. 30; school begins Oct. 1. Address Rev. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J. 9 11 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE,

TEACHER OF

PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson

will re-open classes in

Physical Culture & Rendering

OCTOBER 1. 1895.

Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

MISS ALICE O. SMITH,

Teacher of piano, organ and harmony, will resume study Saturday, Sept. 14th, in W.C.T.U. Rooms, cor. Watchung ave. and 4th st. Particular attention given to formations of the hand. Pupils taken from rudimentary to the highest grades. For further particulars, terms, etc., call or address (Saturdays) at W. C. T. U. Room. 9 4 m

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,
25 WASHINGTON AVENUE.
North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM,
525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.
9 4 tf

Rockview Home and Day School

REOPENS SEPT. 18.

Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.

THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. 6od

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's

School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE,

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 30, 1895.

Austin Annie B	Lee James
Anderson Archer	McKibben Mrs Alice
Allen James	Miller R W 3
Ashley Mrs L I	Miller W H
Brown Charlotte M	Mulligan Ellen
Brown Miss	Moran J M
Butsche Geo	McLaughlin Laura
Brown Mrs Annie	Mills Mrs F H
Bunner Mrs	Nathan Miss C 3
Chambers A	Osborn Mary
Campbell Fannie	O'Brien Lizzie
Cline John	Pugh Annie 2
Emery W H	Parker Edward 2
Gadling Jno J	Porteous J S
Gyllenberg Lotten	Rodriguez Mercedes
Giles H J	Tienan Mrs E
Godfrey D F	Voss Annie
Jennings Mrs L S	Vial Gus 2
Jones Miss S	Wigg C
Kelly Jacob 3	Wood Miss Maggie

Watson Mike A

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name,

Take Our Number,

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)

94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

Waverley Fair.

As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED.

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry.
Curly birch chamber suit
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit.
Antique oak hat rack.

All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 55c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.

Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best building, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 39 a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 27, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 [illegible], 11 28, p m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, p m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 00, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, [illegible] (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sundays, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 5 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 27, 3 00, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 00, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 9 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 22, (Saturdays only) 3 00, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 6 00, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 00, 10 05, 11 25, p m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 10 35 a m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 05, 5 40, 6 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m. Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 46, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 1 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, 5 34, 5 54, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 22 p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 5 [illegible], 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 8 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 [illegible], 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 [illegible], 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 [illegible], 4 25, 4 59, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, 10 05 p. m. Sunday 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 [illegible], 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 [illegible], 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 1[illegible], 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 1[illegible], 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 [illegible] a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 [illegible] a m; 12 22, 3 42, 5 [illegible], 7 00, p, m. Sunday at 7 [illegible], 10 52 a m; 6 40, [illegible] p., m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKEWOOD PATCONG

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 5 14:

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS

[illegible] 45 a. m.: For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

[illegible] 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

[illegible] 46 p m, way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

[illegible] 11 p m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. (Buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] 05 p. m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] 14 p m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

[illegible] 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

[illegible] 28 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

[illegible] 1 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] 5 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

[illegible] 25 p. m, Sundays—For Easton.

[illegible] 33 p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

[illegible] 05 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, [illegible] 00, 10 27, a. m., [illegible] 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sundays (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 [illegible] p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 15, 10 27, a. m., [illegible] 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m. Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m. 3 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 [illegible] p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 [illegible] 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p. m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 8 55 10 44 a. m., [illegible] 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, [illegible] m. 12 46, 2 17, [illegible] 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, [illegible]. 6 35. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 5 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 [illegible] p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

For Sale or to Let.

The frame dwelling and barn 1040 Arlington avenue, below Arlington place; lot 60x132, running through and fronting on Rose st; house has all modern conveniences and in good order; barn is in good condition. Will be sold or rented low and on easy terms. Particulars by P. Ryan and W. H. Ryan, Elizabeth, N. J.

9 19 2w

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.

S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y. 917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

GEO J. TOBIN, 187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,

Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system. Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN, 119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J. Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale

AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,

High-Class

PORTRAITS

In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.

483 Lexington ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building. C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street. D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,

COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Supreme Court Commissioner.

First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's

LAW OFFICES,

Corner Park ave and 2d st.

Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Even though you have

A Comfortable Bed,

You should

Lay in Your Coal

for the Winter.

George O. Stevens

747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager. 104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,

Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.

128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day, 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in COAL AND WOOD.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.

MRS. L. ADAMS,

114 EAST FRONT STREET,

Opp. First National Bank.

Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,

Fresh, and from

Pure Materials.

TIER'S,

116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address

MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

Healthy Kidneys make Pure Blood

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills

Cure all Kidney Diseases.

At all druggists, or by mail prepaid, for 50c. a box. Send for pamphlet.

Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago. San Francisco.

LOOK IN THE CLOSET

SEE if you can't find some old clothes that you have put aside because of the worn-out look they have, or some clothes that are badly spotted.

We want you to bring any old clothes of that sort to us—or better yet—we'll send for them.

We propose to clean those clothes—or to dye them for you—either way to make them wearable. This is an economical suggestion.

We take out grease spots so they stay out, or we dye clothes with a color that wears. We charge as little as poasible for the work.

Just a dollar or two—and you'll have a lot of new clothes.

HILLIER & CO., 179 North Ave.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.

—BRANCH—

OLYMPIA HALL,

416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. E. LeRoy Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., No. 8 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J. beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes every Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 10 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms—For term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons mornings, any hour, by appointment. 9 5 m

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W. RANDOLPH'S,

Prescription Druggist.

143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

I.

Amid a tornado of excitement the winner darted under the wire, winner by a head. On the grand stand, ladies and gentlemen waved handkerchiefs, flourished hats and shouted themselves hoarse. The home stretch and space about the judge's stand were filled by a surging crowd of men, who joined in a mighty yell when the official announcement went up on the blackboard. Calm returned gradually and people talked of what they had won, or lost.

"It was a grand race," exclaimed a young man, seated in the front row on the grand stand, addressing a comrade, "and I don't begrudge what I lost. Give me a light. You must be made of wood, to be able to look at a heat like that and keep your cigar going. Two hundred out. Just my luck. The favorites I bet against were birds; those I backed, turned out pigs. It was always the rule. What did you lose?"

IT WAS A GRAND RACE.

"Fifty."

"Well; that's not so bad."

"No. The other fellow's losses never are."

"I meant that it wasn't much."

"Relatively, no. Actually, it couldn't have been more."

"How so?"

"Because it was the Omega, the finis, the last rose of summer."

"As Baron Giebeel says, 'I'll be ghosted' if I understand you."

"It is very simple. I took account of stock this morning. One fifty dollar bill and some loose silver, not much. It seemed to me the time was ripe for a project I've been rolling around in my mind and I made that bill my question to Fate. The oracle says 'Go ahead.'"

"What an oversight not to have arranged it so that the oracle's affirmative would have made you a winner."

"Impossible. I could not do what I purpose while I had anything left."

"It seems to me a fifty would come handy under any circumstances."

"No, not enough of it to be of any importance. With economy, it would keep a fellow for two or three weeks, but then he would be just where he would have been if he had not had it. Others would have got all the benefit of it. And what is the use of trying to stave off the inevitable? I have simply gone to meet it—that is all."

"And now—what are you going to do?"

"I don't think I have mentioned that yet, to any one."

"You are welcome to all the money you want, Jack."

"Thank you, Ross. Your proffer is kind, but I don't want any. To owe nothing and to have nothing are primary requisites to my project."

"Well, can't I join you and help? You can count me in on anything short of burglary. I'm afraid I haven't the nerve for that. I should dread barking my shins on strange furniture in the dark. And then the burglar's hours for business would be so likely to interere with one's social engagements. Just fancy leaving a Patriarchs' Ball to sally forth with a dark lantern and a jimmy."

"It is very evident," replied Jack, with a smile, "that burglary will not do at all."

"Well, how does Wall street strike you?"

"Oh! that's worse yet; less manly industry about it."

Laughing together the young men arose and started toward an exit. Neither noticed that their conversation had been listened to, with evident interest, by two ladies seated just behind them, one an elderly woman with a shrewd but kindly face and the other an exceedingly handsome girl, or that the latter, when their backs were turned, stood up looking eagerly for some one amid the bank of faces above and behind her. Had they observed her, they woud have seen that she found the face she sought, glanced once toward them, and resumed her seat, with a satisfied smile.

"For the land's sake!" exclaimed the older lady. "Did you ever hear of a Prodigal Son like that one? His last dollar! And what do you suppose he's going to do? I can guess. He's going home for some fatted calf. A good twisted strip of its hide is all he ought to get. I wonder who he is."

"I'll tell you when the next race is over, Aunty."

"You will! Sakes alive! Do you know him?"

"Not now. But Amy Thorpe does."

"How do you know?"

"She has just told me so."

Miss Keturah Truefitt looked puzzled and relapsed into silence. When she spoke again, her voice was softer. "Poor young chap!" she said meditatively. 'Like as not he's had no mother's care to guide him right. He's been led astray like many. And what a pity it is; he's a handsome, manly fellow; isn't he, Constance?"

"I—I didn't notice," answered the girl hesitatingly.

The loud clanging of the judges' bell, calling up the horses for the next race, put a stop to further conversation.

II.

Miss Constance Dessine spent part of the succeeding summer at Long Branch, part at Saratoga and part at Bar Harbor, not a litle to the disgruntlement of Aunt Keturah Truefitt, her chaperone, who heartily disliked so much flitting about in hot weather. "I can't see what possesses you this summer, Constance," she protested, "unless it's the uneasy, roving spirit of your French father workin' out. He was like Noah's dove that found no rest anywhere for its feet, only the dove did go back to the ark and settle down, while he never settled anywhere, until he died. You don't take after the Truefitts, not a mit. They were always great on stayin' where the Lord put them. Your mother Almiry was never twenty miles from West Framingham until your father came along and courted and married her, all in a whirl, as you may say, and whisked her off. If that husband of hers, Victor Dessine, had had his way, they'd never have stopped long enough in one place for letters to catch them up. And you are getting to be just like him. Are you looking for somebody, who may be in Dan, or Beersheba, or somewhere else?"

Constance would not admit that she was. Even Amy Thorpe, her most confidential friend, could only guess from her frequent inquiries by letter, "whether the missing man had yet been found," what was the hope inspiring her unrest. Amy had not been able to tell her much about "Jack." He was a friend of her brother, Ross Thorpe, and she knew him, but that was about all. His name was John Burroughs and he had inherited, only a year or two ago, an estate of over a million from his father. If he had spent it already, he must be an awful spendthrift, but Amy did not think he was. He was in the best society, but kept out of the "fastest" and seemed rather serious and quiet. One thing certain was that he had disappeared as completely as if he had left the planet. Even Ross, who had been his "chum," had no idea what had become of him.

"But he must turn up somewhere during the summer," thought Constance, "and I will find him yet." But that hope was faint by the time she reached Bar Harbor, where Amy had been all season.

Ross Thorpe, a few days later, joined his mother and sister there, having, as was his wont, wandered first to nearly all the other coast resorts. Nowhere had he seen or heard of John Burroughs. "And," he said, "I have concluded that he must have gone to Europe, and as he hadn't a dollar, he must have walked. Yes, that's it; he walked across." But he had learned what explained the young man's impecuniosity within a litle over a year after inheriting a million. Not a dollar of the estate had been squandered, but all was temporarily tied up by the machinations of a gang of rascals with whom Jack's father had become involved in an extensive land and mining speculation. They had trumped up a claim for an enormous amount against the Burroughs estate and, by corruption, it was believed, had obtained a favorable decision from a lower court. But that was only the beginning, practically, of the legal fight, and until it was ended the estate might as well be at the bottom of the Dead Sea, so far as any good to Jack was concerned.

"As a mere matter of curiosity," remarked Constance, "I really would like to know what has become of him."

Amy smiled knowingly.

III.

When the winter season opened and Constance was back in New York, her hope revived, for she felt that if John Burroughs was in the city she must meet him somewhere, at theatre, opera, ball, party, or some of the various bird and beast "shows" in which "society" deigns to affect an interest. Still, however, though she went everywhere, she was doomed to disappointmnt.

One afternoon, late in spring, she and Aunt Keturah, walking up lower Broadway from her lawyer's office, halted for a moment to look at the interesting and impressive spectacle of one of the enormous "steel-frame" office buildings in course of erection. It was simply a stupendous cage of ponderous columns and beams, twenty stories high. Workmen swarmed all through it; cranes on its upper line, seemingly in the sky, dropped long wire cables to the sidewalk, where men attached to them, by chains, huge forms of metal.

Just as the ladies stopped to gaze, one of those forms, a great steel beam, was made fast, guide lines were tied on its ends, and a signal to some one controlling a hoisting engine, far aloft, caused the taughtening of the cable. At the same instant one of the workmen, a stalwart young fellow in his shirt-sleeves, sprang nimbly on the beam, seized the cable to steady himself and was carried up with the ascending weight.

"Oh! My gracious!" exclaimed Aunt Keturah in alarm. "He will be killed'

CONSTANCE'S EMOTION WAS HARDLY TO BE WONDERED AT.

I'm sure he will!" Her excitement prevented her observing that her niece also uttered a cry and caught the lamp post beside her for fear of fainting. And Constance's emotion could hardly be wondered at. For in that young man, exposed to what in her eyes was deadly peril, she recognized John Burroughs. It seemed impossible, but it was true, she could not be mistaken.

While they still gazed, with the fascination of horror, the beam reached the top of the structure, stopped, and the young man, carelessly leaping across the gap between it and the twenty-th story platform, disappeared. Aunt Keturah ran across the street to a big man who seemed to be in authority, and in fact was the Superintendent of Construction, and fairly exploded at him: "You've got to find some other way of having that work done. In the name of humanity, I protest against it."

The Superintendent, a large, deliberate, ruminating sort of creature, stared in surprise, having not even a little idea of what was meant.

"Don't look at me as if your mind was off chasing wild geese, and Jack-o'-lanterns. I tell you you've got to find some way of gettin' those beams up there without riskin' a human life on every one to keep it straight."

As he comprehended her, a smile spread, slow and broad, over his big face and he replied: "The guide ropes steer the beam. He had nothing to do with that. He simply went up that way because he had business at the top of the building and that was easier than climbing ninety flights of ladders. It was his own choice."

"His own choice?" gasped Aunt Keturah. "Mercy! What a daredevil!"

"Not at all," answered the Superintendent, "it is perfectly safe, if the man is cool and his grip good, provided no accident happens."

While they were still talking, the young man came down to them, standing on the big hook at the end of the cable and reported to the Superintendent: "No, sir. He is mistaken. That irregular beam is the wrong one. Its angle is twenty-seven degrees. The one required must have thirty-four. The right one has not been sent."

"I wish you would ask Mr. Marcy for the number, if you can find him."

"He is up there now."

"Good! Get the number and I'll telephone to the works for it, at once."

By this time another beam was ready to go up, and the young man started with it, as before. He was not fifty feet above the sidewalk, when it was clearly apparent to those looking on that something was wrong with the hoisting engine at the top of the structure. The ascent was much more rapid than usual, and its speed was momentarily accelerated. It seemed as if the engineer had lost control. Should he have done so, the inevitable result would be the hoisting of the beam to the head of the crane and the giving way of something, under continuance of the terrific strain, with the consequent fall of the beam to the street. John Burroughs realized all this as quickly as anybody else, but was not alarmed. He waited until he was sure that something had gone wrong, then gathered himself for a spring to one of the platforms as he darted upon them, coolly calculating what allowance he would have to make for his momentum to avoid having his brains dashed out by a beam instead of alighting on the platform beneath it. Of course, if he missed the platform or was shot beyond it into one of the vast interior chasms of the skeleton-like structure, that would be the end of him. Finally, he leaped, clutched a column as he flew, and hung dizzy and faint three hundred feet above the pavement. At the same instant seemingly the cable-hook gave way, and the beam plunged downward, going with a thunderous roar through the sidewalk timbering into the deep excavation below.

(To be continued.)

BEAUTY.

How to Increase in Weight and Otherwise Improve One's Personal Appearance.

Every normally constituted man and woman wants to look well. This is natural and right. We have little sympathy for those people who through indolence and gluttony have permitted themselves to take on too much flesh. They know by living abstemiously and taking plenty of exercise they can get back to their normal weight.

We do have a great deal of sympathy for those poor, pale, thin sufferers who either have no appetite or else whose food distresses them to such a degree that they are forced to live on a most frugal diet.

Their trouble arises from the fact that that they are unable to digest sufficient food and when the stomach is out of order and fails to do its proper work, foods are worse than useless. They simply ferment in the stomach and fill the system with poisonous principles.

What these people need is something that will digest their food after it has been eaten, and it is in just such cases that the Digestive Cordial as made by the Mount Lebanon Shakers is proving remarkably successful.

It is so prompt in its action that a sense of relief almost immediately follows the first dose, and a rapid increase in weight is soon noted.

The Shakers have issued an interesting pamphlet which may be obtained upon inquiry at any drug store.

Try a twenty-five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you.

The New Fall Shapes Hats Out Today.

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

SPECIAL SALE —OF— FINE STATIONERY —AND— School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

111 Park Avenue.

WEATHER FALLACIES

THEY ARE KNOCKED ON THE HEAD BY AN ENGLISH INVESTIGATOR.

The Signs That Fail as Often as They Are Verified—Old Superstitions Exploded by Modern Meteorological Study—Animal Signs No Good.

Superstitious and proverbial lore about the weather was cruelly rent in the iconoclastic address on "Weather Fallacies" read to the Royal Meteorological society at its meeting in London by the president, R. Inwards, and printed in The Quarterly Journal of the society. In early times, when the weather had to be studied from cloud, sky and sea and from the behavior of animals and plants, men were pardonable for doing what is still often a cause of error, foretelling what they most wished for and putting down as a universal law what was only a coincidence of independent events. One class of prophecies connects the weather with certain seasons of the year, particularly days in the week or the days of certain saints, which was a convenient way of fixing a date, and even with particular times of the day. We often hear such sayings as "Fine on Friday, fine on Sunday," or "Friday is the best and the worst day of the week," and proverbs like "Rain at 7, fine at 11." When these sayings come true they are faithfully remembered, when they fail they are forgotten. There is no kind of foundation for such rules, which Mr. Inwards calls "self exploding," or for the belief that if it rains on St. Swithin's day, July 15, it will rain for 40 days after.

Equally unfounded are the scientific superstitions, presented under the shield of astronomy, which base infallible rules for the weather on the relative position of the moon, sun and planets. These appeal to analogy, to reason and to common sense. The known action of sun and moon on ocean tides is generally the starting point of such theories, and it is clear to common sense that when the earth is nearer to the sun or the moon to the earth, or both sun and moon are pulling together, there ought to be a tide of atmosphere similar to the tide of ocean which these influences undoubtedly produce. But the facts do not bear the theory out. The atmospheric tides do not ebb and flow, except in an infinitesimal degree.

Again, the sun and moon move in planes that are at an angle to each other, so that at times their attraction acts in widely diverging lines, at others almost in the same plane. Here is a clear case: When the angle is greatest, when the moon is "on her back," there must be atmospheric disturbance. Unfortunately the storms do not come, and we must find some other cause for our weather. Hardly a year goes by without a new moon theory to account for it. M. Flarguergues, as the result of 20 years of observations, has found that when the moon was farthest from the earth the barometer averaged 755 millimeters, and when nearest 754 millimeters, a difference of only one millimeter.

Some prophets have built their faith on cycles, predicting that weather changes would repeat themselves when sun and moon got back into the same relative position, which they do in 19 years, with an error of only an hour and a half. Others advocate a cycle of 54 years, but all the cycle systems have broken down when tested, and as far as we know there is no period within which weather changes repeat themselves. There are plenty of other fallacies about the moon, such as that the full moon clears away clouds; that you should sow beans or cut trees on the wane of the moon; that it is a bad sign if the moon changes on Saturday or Sunday; that two full moons in a month will bring a flood; that to see the old moon in the arms of the new brings on rain. M. Flammarion says that "the moon's influence on the weather is negligible. The heat coming from it would affect our temperature by twelve-millionths of a degree, and the atmospheric tides caused by it would only affect the barometric pressure a few hundredths of an inch, far less than the changes always taking place from other causes."

Even the halo round the moon is discredited. It has been found by observers that it is followed by fine weather as often as by rain.

About the sun there are many fallacies, and ever since the discovery that the spots on its surface appear with greater frequency theorists in shoals have tried to prove that they rule our weather. It has been proved that the frequency of sun spots and the variations of the magnetic needle are intimately connected and that the aurora appears and disappears in some sort of sympathy with the sun spot variations, but this is as far as we can get for the present, as these changes seem to have no definite relation to our weather. Mr. Scott has proved that there are no equinoctial gales.

Coming down to earth, we find a long list of statements of the behavior of animals and plants having a supposed connection with the weather. E. J. Lowe has carefully examined a number of well known signs, and all seem to break down completely. He took the signs of bats flying about in the evening, many toads appearing at sunset, great quantities of snails, fish rising to the surface, bees busy, crowds of locusts, restless cattle, land rails clamorous, flies and gnats troublesome, many insects, crows flocking and noisy, spider webs thick on the grass, spiders hanging from their webs in the evening and ducks and geese making more noise than usual. Calling a day fine when no rain was measured in the rain gauge, he found in 361 observations of such signs that they were followed 213 times by fine weather and only 148 by rain. Even swallows flying low cannot be depended upon, as especially in summer and autumn they almost invariably skim along the ground. Animals probably feel the dampness or darkness preceding wet weather, and this makes them uneasy, but not more than it affects man himself. As to cows scratching their ears and goats uttering cries, they are no more true as signs of rain than the adage which credits pigs with seeing the wind.

Only a selection has here been made of the vast catalogue of fallacies that have grown up about the weather. There are still people, Mr. Inwards remarked in conclusion, who believe that the saints' days rule the weather, that the sun puts out fire and that warm water freezes sooner than cold.

In Missouri.

"Just across the street from my room," said the traveler—this was in Missouri—"was the town clock. I had left a call for 6. I was awakened by a vigorous pounding on the door, and when I responded 'all right' the man who was doing the work of an alarm clock drawled out:

"'Just wanted to tell you, stranger, that if you heard that clock strike 6 you have 20 minutes more to sleep. The clock's that much fast.'"—Chicago Tribune.

John Mullins,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

Everything Neceesary for Housekeeping! Cash or Credit! Liberal Terms to Everybody!

$12 For this handsome solid oak chamber suit, French bevel plate mirror, worth $20. 100 other styles to select from. $12

Bargains in Parlor Suits.

$20 Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in silk Brocatelle, tapestry or rug, actual value $40. $20

New Fall Carpets.

The very latest styles and patterns of the finest textures, and at prices lower by 25 per cent. than any other house in the country.

Moquette,	Velvet,	Brussels,	Ingrain,
$1.00	90c	50c	30c
per yd	per yd	per yd	per yd

Goods safely packed and delivered free to any part of the State.

JOHN MULLINS,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

BRANCH STORES:

121 to 125 Newark avenue, Jersey City, N. J. 136 and 138 Main street, Paterson, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,

88 FIFTH AVE.,

near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

Harry M. Jaquett,

123 EAST FRONT STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

The Clothier,

HATTER AND FURNISHER,

Cordially invites you to visit his store and inspect his

Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing,

for the Fall and Winter Season, complete in all its branches. Special attention given to Children's Clothing, Hats and Caps.

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods

Complete assortment in Neckwear, Underwear, Hosiery, etc., just received. New invoice of over 50 dozen suspenders.

In hats—John B. Stetson's celebrated make in Derby soft hats in latest styles. Also other makes and shapes. Complete assortment in Children's Hats and Caps.

One Price CASH. One Price

and money refunded if goods are not satisfactory.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.
At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.
At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.
At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.
At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.
At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.
At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.
At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?
Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.
At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.
At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations

ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,

140 West Front Street.

Stone for Flagging

of a superior quality and finish and at a moderate price. Apply to

J. C. DYER,

218 West Front Street

JUST A MINUTE

OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,

206 West Front st.

MISS BIGLOW

will resume instruction to pupils on the piano on Monday, Sept. 23, at 130 West 4th st, corner Arlington avenue. 9 19 3

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

FINE STATIONERY

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

Pargiter's Special

FOR THIS WEEK.

Plush Capes & Muslin Underwear.

NEW STORE,

Cor. Park Avenue and 2d St., Plainfield, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

Saturday, Oct. 5.

Mr. Frederick

WARDE,

and his distinguished company, in a superb production of D' Ennery's celebrated drama,

THE Mountebank!

The entire scenery and stage mountings prepared specially for the production.

Prices—$1.50, $1, 75c, 50c and 35c.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

Watch This Space.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c; 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

MAYOR HEGEMAN AROUSED.

HE ARRAIGNS THE CITY FOR FOULING GREENBROOK WITH SEWAGE.

Says the Matter Must Not Rest But the City Must Be Made to Take Action—Other Important Matters Considered.

Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Councilmen Lounsbury, Peck, Valiant, Smith, and Clerk Arnold were present at the regular October meeting of the borough council held last evening.

The minutes of the last regular and adjourned meetings were read and adopted.

Tax Collector H. N. Spencer then reported the following license money received from the county clerk: E. Hoerster, $225; H. Wedemeyer, $225; G. Sutterlin, $150; which amounted to $600, less the county clerk's per cent, $30, $570. It was received and filed.

The clerk's financial statement was then read as follows:

	Balance.	Deficit.
Borough	$ 988.72
Fire department		$ 34.23
Light		$1,097.97
Roads	$1,576.59
Poor
	$2,565.31	$1,420.70
	$1,420.70
Total balance	$1,144.61

He also reported $119.08 collected from fines, licenses, etc. This report was also received and filed. The monthly budget of bills was presented and later ordered paid. Mr. Peck stated that minor repairs had been made in the rear of Warren Engine Company's house and that some were under consideration in front. Mr. Lounsbury said that the matter of securing overcoats for the marshals had been considered, and later in the evening offered a resolution that proposals for furnishing the same be advertised for. It was carried. He also spoke of the matter of stoves for the borough lockup, and another resolution offered by him was carried that two stoves be purchased, the cost not to exceed $35.

Mr. Smith reported that the stone for macadamizing Prospect place cost $201.42 and the labor $155.26. The report was received and filed. Mr. Smith offered a resolution that $111.61 which was due J. Y. Wilson for stone be paid, which was so ordered.

Mr. Valiant then introduced an ordinance relating to "licensing auctioneers," and on Mr. Smith's motion it was passed on first and second readings and laid over till next meeting. It provides that $25 be charged auctioneers, and $50 for violations of the ordinance.

Mr. Peck offered a resolution that a loan of $1,500 be secured and the same be charged to light account. It was so ordered.

The clerk then read a communication from Messrs. Smith and Lounsbury, committee on streets, in regard to matter of damages to be awarded residents along the proposed extension of Watchung avenue. The total amount of damages which the people were willing to settle for was $32,000. It was received and filed.

Mr. Lounsbury then offered a resolution that Friday evening, October 11th, at eight o'clock, be set as the time for the Council to treat with the property owners along the proposed extension of Watchung avenue. It was carried.

Another resolution was offered by Mr. Lounsbury and carried that printed notice be served the property owners notifying them of the meeting.

Mr. Smith moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Friday evening, October 11th. The motion was adopted.

After a recess of ten minutes, Mr. Smith stated bids for macadamizing Harrison street had been received and the clerk would read them.

They were read as follows: Thomas Doud, 65 cents per lineal foot; A. I. & N. B. Smalley, 75 cents; J. H. Wilson, 82½ cents; John Emmons, 62 cents. They were all referred to the street committee.

At this point Mr. Lounsbury took the chair, and Mayor Hegeman spoke in substance as follows:

The condition of Green brook has been for sometime a source of annoyance to me. The fault is not with us. It is Plainfield's fault, and the fair name she has always held is now smirched. They are introducing a system of sewerage, and pending that sewage matter is being dumped into that brook. Our Board of Health, with commendable zeal, has tried every method with the Plainfield Board of Health, but with no result. It has been reported that the condition of the brook is not so bad, but such is not the case. It is not for us to clean out this filth. Thus far we have been unable to obtain any redress from the City Council, but I hope it will be considered by that honorable body before long. Complaints are daily sent to us in regard to the matter. If people should come here from out of town and see the condition of that brook they would think that this was the last place on God's earth to live. I am aroused about this matter and it demands my attention. We are not going to stop, but we are going to the furthest extreme to punish the violators if necessary. One of the worst features about the thing is that a member of the City Board of Health is emptying his sewage matter into that brook. We are going to protect ourselves and save our reputation.

Mr. Lounsbury asked if the State Board of Health had any jurisdiction in the matter. He understood that Plainfield didn't intend doing anything till the sewers were completed.

Borough Counsel Reed stated that the State Board of Health could impose a $2,000 fine if the city was indicted.

Mr. Valiant thought every effort should be made to stop the nuisance at once.

Mr. Hegeman said he supposed that Plainfield didn't know anyone was living in the borough.

After the council had indorsed orally the excellent words of the Mayor the meeting was adjourned for one week.

MRS. FERNANDEZ'S PROPERTY.

A Trial to Determine Its Right Owner Adjourned to Next Monday.

The trial for the right of property once owned by Mrs. Ula Fernandez was to have been held yesterday afternoon before Justice Newcorn. Writs of attachment had been issued by Justice Nash for Samuel P. Mulford, Fred Dunn, J. W. VanSickle, Edwin H. Holmes, Miss Maggie Nugent, W. Edwin Martin and Mrs. Lamirah Adams, who are Mrs. Fernandez's creditors, but Adam C. Blair claimed all the property, and the question was brought before Justice Newcorn to decide. Judge W. A. Coddington represents Adam C. Blair and George W. DeMeza acts as counsel for two of the creditors, Miss Nugent and Mrs. Adams. Through a misunderstanding, Judge Coddington thought that Mr. DeMeza would not return from Somerville in time to try the case and dismissed his witnesses. Justice Newcorn then adjourned the case until Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the city court rooms.

POSTAL SERVICE COMMENDED.

Secret Service Agents Make No Complaints Against the Carriers.

Postmaster John M. Hetfield yesterday received the following letter from F. H. Jones, First Assistant Postmaster-General on the report of the secret service agents, who recently investigated the service in this city:

Postmaster, Plainfield, N. J.

Sir:—An investigation of your free delivery service was recently made by the Secret Service Agents of this Department, and I am pleased to announce that they found everything in the most satisfactory condition. I quote from their report the following: "They have the most active lot of men here we ever saw and consider the service excellent. The office is run in a very systematic manner. The carriers are all fine looking fellows; uniforms neat and clean and they are very active and attentive to their duties."

ANOTHER NEW STORE.

A Growing Business Demands Larger Accommodations.

Curtis M. Thorpe, who has been carrying on the mantel, tile and fireplace furniture business in the Y. M. C. A. building is compelled by increasing business to secure larger quarters and Boice, Runyon & Co., are arranging for the erection of a fine brick building, 35x100 feet, on the vacant lot on Park avenue, near Fourth street, adjoining VanZandt's feed store. The building will be two stories high and will make a decided improvement on that block. Mr. Thorpe will occupy the entire first floor. He will also have a large show room where he will be able to display his large and fine stock of mantels etc., to good advantage.

The Standard of Duty.

Mrs. Jane M. Slocum will lecture on "The Ethics of Citizenship," at four o'clock on Tuesday, October 8th, in Y. M. C. A. Hall. "It is around the standard of duty that man must rally to win the rights of man." This motto is printed upon Miss Slocum's tickets. Miss Slocum is thoroughly acquainted with her subject and has the rare form of making a difficult subject seem easy. She has the equally rare gift of making others see what she sees, and by her own enthusiasm awakens the enthusiasm of others.

Three Dollars a Week.

In city court yesterday morning a colored individual, Col. Hankerson, was held in $200 bond to pay a colored woman, named Wiggin, $3 a week for a year to support an illegitimate child.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

MORE ENDEAVORERS ELECT.

CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH SOCIETY ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

Pledge Themselves to Contribute to the Support of a Foreign Missionary and Agitate for the State C. E. Convention.

The annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church was held in the parlors last evening. The meeting was called to order by George S. Beebe, President of the society. Secretary Miss Mary Miller read the minutes of the last meeting and then gave her annual report which showed faithful work on the part of the secretary, besides the excellent work done by the society during the past year.

The next report was that of the Treasurer, Miss Lillian Oakley, which showed that the society had done exceedingly well financially.

Mr. Beebe, who has been a most excellent President during the past year, made a short address stating in a few well-chosen words what the work of an ideal society should be.

One new associate and six active members were welcomed into the society. Dr. William R. Richards, Jas. E. Kimball, Miss Caroline C. Dewey and Miss Caroline O. Hunter were appointed a nominating committee by the President, and after a brief intermission the committee brought back the following report.

President, Mr. Ira W. Travell; Vice-president, Miss C. M. Wood; Corresponding secretary, Miss Katharine R. Thorne; Recording secretary, Miss May Cahoone; Treasurer, Mr. Paul W. Kimball. This report was excepted and the officers were duly elected.

Mr. Beebe then gave the chair to Mr. Travell, who in a few words thanked the society for the honor they had conferred on him and asked them for their help and support for the coming year.

An interesting letter from George B. Pierson, a missionary in Japan, was read, after which the society voted to be counted in with the societies of the Presbytery of Elizabeth, who have pledged themselves to support Mr. Pierson in the foreign field.

The society decided to adopt some plan of systematic giving by which the treasury of the society should not be diminished by the absence of any of its members.

Almost all present signed the invitation from the people of Plainfield to the United Society of Christian Endeavor, of New Jersey, to hold the next convention in Plainfield.

Refreshments were served by the social committee at the close of the meeting. The several committees will be appointed at the next business meeting.

The election of officers was held at the regular quarterly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening, and by an amendment of the constitution just passed, they will hold office for one year instead of six months. The officers elected were: President, Miss Emma V. Fish; vice-president, Joseph M. Hawkins; secretary, Miss Myra Runyon; treasurer, Miss Adelaide Runyon.

The chairmen of committees were chosen as follows: Lookout, Mrs. D. C. Skaden; prayer meeting, Miss Adelia Runyon; social, Miss Alice Spangenberg; welcoming, Thaddeus Doane, Jr.; missionary, Mrs. Frank Clarkson; good literature, D. M. Runyon; flowers, Miss Anna Wyckoff; music, Miss Laura Runyon.

An Old Post Smashed.

A post that has stood for the past ten years in front of The Daily Press building on Park avenue was broken off yesterday by Frank Randolph's truck colliding with it. The thermometer that had set in the post for the same number of years was also smashed. Andrew Vanderbeek, who erected the original post, had it replaced today by a substantial new one, also a new thermometer which it is hoped will be as faithful as the old one.

New System of Indexing.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county Thursday adopted a new system for the indexing of records in the County Clerk's office at Elizabeth. Some time ago a petition from the members of the bar, numerous real estate men and others, interested in searching titles, etc., was presented to the board, asking for a more modern system of indexing, and a committee was appointed to investigate the subject with the above results.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

WAS THE WATCH TO BLAME?

THREE DELEGATIONS FROM TWO NORTH PLAINFIELD DISTRICTS.

Democrats in the Second District Hold Two Primaries and Two Sets of Delegates Elected—A Contest Will Probably Ensue.

The Democratic primary in the first district of the borough to elect three delegates to attend the Somerset County Democratic Convention on Monday next at ten o'clock a. m., at the court house in Somerville, was held in the basement of the school house last night and was called to order by J. R. Newman, the member of the county executive committee, promptly at eight o'clock. David J. Carney was elected chairman and Lewis R. Blackford, secretary. The secretary read the call as published in the Somerville Messenger, and nominations were called for. Ex-Mayor Wm. L. Saunders, John Emmons, Wm. N. Pangborn, John A. Thickstun, and John T. Case were nominated.

The chairman appointed as tellers John H. Whitenack and D. F. Godown. The ballot resulted in the election of ex-Mayor W. L. Saunders, John Emmons, and W. N. Pangborn. The meeting was then declared adjourned.

In the second district the meeting was advertised to take place at eight o'clock in the basement of the Saengerbund Hall. About eight minutes before that time Levi C. Kline, the member of the county executive committee for the district, called to order the four or five that were present and E. C. Morse was chosen chairman, and Levi C. Kline, secretary.

The call was read and E. C. Morse, Levi C. Kline, and John Becker, Jr., the latter being absent, were nominated and as there was no opposition the chair directed the secretary to cast the ballot and declared the above named persons elected. This all occured before eight o'clock, and as a number of voters residing in that district began to arrive and found that the caucus was over they crossed the street to the primary that was then being held in the first district. The first to arrive in the meeting of the first district was Ex-councilman George H. Neal, who came in just as Secretary Blackford was begining to read the call, less than five minutes after eight o'clock. Mr. Neal was was followed by several others who after the meeting in the first district returned to Saengerbund Hall basement and held another caucus which was also called to order by Levi C. Kline, the member of the county executive committee for that district. Ex Councilman George H. Neal was elected chairman and C. B. Van Winkle, secretary: David Bodine, C. B. Van Winkle, David D. Smalley and Levi C. Kline were nominated. Hiram O. Hance and Elston M. French were named as tellers and the ballot resulted as follows: D. Bodine, 10; C. B. Van Winkle, 8; D. D. Smalley, 7; Levi C. Kline, 4. Just at the close of the second caucus Mr. Morse appeared and a comparison between his watch and others showed a difference of seven minutes. Mr. Morse's watch being seven minutes fast There will probably be a contest.

The Proper Man.

Inasmuch as Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, is going to attend the State Christian Endeavor convention at Atlantic City, it is suggested that he be secured to make the appeal before the executive committee to have Plainfield selected as the place for holding the next convention.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chambertain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

WEDDED AT HIGH NOON.

A BRILLIANT NUPTIAL EVENT IN GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

Miss Caroline Noble Betts Becomes Mrs. Arthur Masters—Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. Rodman—Reception.

A beautiful bride and a beautiful day made the wedding at the Grace P. E. church at high noon today a brilliant one when Miss Caroline Noble Betts, daughter of the late William Henry Betts, and Arther Masters, son of the late Charles Masters, of England, were joined in wedlock by Rev. E. M. Rodman, D. D. They leave tonight on a two weeks wedding tour, after which they will spend a few days in Plainfield and then take up their residence at Germantown for the winter.

The bride was attired in a gown of white gro' de londre, made entrain trimmed with Brussels lace, worked by her grandmother for her own wedding. She wore a tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a white prayer book. The maid of honor was her sister, Miss Leila Betts, who was gowned in white organdie over white silk, and wore a hat trimmed with white chiffon and white ostrich plumes.

Frank Smith, of Hartford, Conn., was the best man and the ushers were Fordyce S. Caldwell, of New York, Stuart Patterson, of this city, Mr. Wolsey, of New York and Mr. Henderson, of Philadelphia.

Frank Betts, of Easton, Pa., a cousin of the bride, gave her away.

The Episcopal service was used and the singing by the regular surpliced choir of the church was very fine. The organ music was delightfully rendered by Miss May E. Chapman, of Rockville, Conn. The interior of the church was handsomely decorated with flowers, palms and greens which were arranged by Miss A. E. Lincoln, of this city.

After the ceremony was over the newly-married couple drove immediately to the residence of Edward B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, where an informal wedding breakfast was served, to which only the immediate relatives and a few near friends were present.

The house decorations were very beautiful and the table was arranged in a most artistic manner.

Mr. Masters has been residing in New York. His only relative living in this city is his sister, Mrs. Charles W. King, of Watchung avenue.

There was a large number of handsome and costly gifts to the couple from friends and relatives.

BUSINESS AND SOCIABILITY.

Fall Meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church.

A very short session of the Epworth League of the First M. E church was all there was needed to transact the business of the society. The reports of the different committees were made and showed that, like all the rest, the league had not been very active during the summer. The secretary read a communication stating that a district league convention will be held at Somerville on October 24th, and that Chapter 1, the Plainfield branch, was entitled to four delegates. It was decided, by motion, that they should be appointed by the President, J. R. Joy.

The rest of the evening was spent in conversation and games, of which "Ghosts" and "Who, Sir, Me, Sir?" were perhaps the most enjoyed. The social part was arranged by the regular social committee, of which Miss Elsie Horne is chairman.

TO RALLY WITH MR. MARTINE.

The Farmer Orator Will Entertain Big Democrats Next Week.

There will be a big gathering of Democratic politicians of Union county next Saturday afternoon, says the World, under the stately elms on James E. Martine's farm in Plainfield. The party war horse will all be there to discuss the best way of carrying Union county for candidate McGill. Incidentally they will indulge in a pigeon shoot, partake of a luncheon and sample Farmer Martine's prime old apple jack.

The Demosthenes of the Union county Democracy never does anything by halves and his hospitality is proverbial in Plainfield.

What's the Matter With Union County?

A rather uncommon sign in Plainfield has appeared on the telegraph pole at the corner of Front street and Park avenue. Ie is a statement that Morris Kadusky, aged thirty-six, a merchant of South Second street, has applied for naturalization papers. The application will be considered at the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas.

GENTLEMEN FROM NOWHERE.

PLENTY OF HOBOS IN CITY COURT THIS MORNING.

Some Sent to Jail and Some Let Go—A West Third Street Woman Arrested for Keeping a Disorderly House—Discharged

The knights of the road predominated among the prisoners that came up before Judge Coddington in the city court this morning, and they were all pretty tough customers, too.

The first two, Tim Connoly and Edward Burke, of nowhere, were professional railroad "bums." They belong to the gang which has been such a nuisance to the people of Graceland. Railroad Detectives Murphy and Flood have been after them for some time and yesterday afternoon at about four o'clock they found Connoly and Burke sitting on the steps of the Fanwood station. Burke called the officers names which did not exactly express endearment, but made no resistance when they were led to the city room where they spent the night.

They appeared before the Judge in a defiant manner and Connoly said he "hadn't been doing nuthin'." Burke remarked that he "had nothing to say, but he hadn't been seen riding on any coal train." The testimony of the railroad detectives was too strong for the knights of the road and they were given sixty days with Sheriff Kyte to improve their looks.

A little old man, in a ragged overcoat and tramp clothes, with a woebegone looking face, came up before the Judge on the charge of begging on East Ninth street. Officer McGee brought him in yesterday and gave him a night's lodging. This wandering Willie gave his name as Michael Sheridan, but when asked what he had to say, he replied:

"I wasn't beggin' your honor, just getting a little something to eat, that's all the beggin' I was doin'."

"Have you any home?" asked the Judge.

"Not any just now," and then the prisoner started on a long yarn of his past life, how he had lived at Elizabeth at Fanwood for twenty years.

"Leave town, at once, and never come back again, was the order of the Court and the little, weather-beaten individual flew around in his delight.

"Good luck to your honor," he squeaked as he passed out of the room, "All the days of your life, that's all I can say," and the Sergeant Kiel took him in hand.

The contents of his pockets, which had been removed when he was locked up, lay in a heap and he began storing away dirty rags, pieces of wood and string and an old rusty nickled razor. As he placed it in his pocket, he said, "I have to shave you know, gentlemen," and as he passed out into the open air he smiled at the crowd and murmured, "good morning to you gentlemen, all."

The other culprit to appear was Minnie Docasteno, wife of Frank Docasteno, a tailor of West Third street. She was charged with keeping a disorderly house, Tony Tuffo, an Italian, making the complaint.

"I keep a very nice house," explained the woman.

"Oh no, it is not disorderly, it is very nice."

Tuffo did not appear against them but told the officer that he had gone to the house and while there Frank, the husband, had come home and thrown him out.

The Judge dismissed the prisoner but warned her that another charge would mean imprisonment or a large fine.

The excited woman departed explaining to every one that would listen "that her house was a very nice home."

A Double Wedding.

A double wedding will take place in the Mt. Olive Baptist church on Wednesday evening, October 30th. The contracting parties are Charles Barber and Miss Mattie Kinney, Charles Shelton and Miss Mary Morris. Rev. P. S. Gibson will officiate.

Victor Wheelmen to Entertain.

The Victor Wheelmen have arranged for an entertainment of the club to be held in T. A. B. Hall on October 24th. The Wheelmen meet again next Thursday, when the committee will be appointed.

—Special sale of candies at Tier's today. Don't miss it. Peanut brittle at 10 cents per pound. Twist, broken, 15 cents. Buttercups, 15 cents.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

PASTOR ON THE STAND

Rev. Dr. Gibson Testifies in the Durrant Case.

Not Severely Handled by the Defense, But It Was More Than Implied That It Was His Letter on the Package Containing the Rings of Blanche Lamont.

San Francisco, Oct. 5.—In the Durrant case yesterday the Rev. Dr. Gibson was placed upon the stand and the defense made its expected assault upon him. Mr. Gibson was not very severely handled, but it was more than implied that it was the minister's lettering which was found on the package of Blanche Lamont's rings sent to her aunt after the murder. The examination consisted of having Gibson identify some of his writing, among it the same names that were written on the paper in which the rings were wrapped, which he wrote for the defense at the preliminary examination. Mr. Gibson was very cautious and did not go further than to say that the specimens shown to him looked like his writing.

Resemblance Strong.

The defense got several specimens of his writing in evidence, among them being a slip of paper with the address of Mrs. Noble, to whom the rings were sent. This was in printed letters, as was the address on the package. At the request of the prosecution Mr. Gibson wrote a communication containing all the figures and names found in and on the package. The manuscript of one of his sermons was also introduced. The resemblance between the chirography of the minister and that of the papers was strong.

Prosecution Not Alarmed.

The defense places much emphasis on this feature of its case. The prosecution says it will show the similarity was due to the murderer having imitated Gibson's writing. The specimens produced show that the minister pens a round hand, the letters of which are of the character of printing and with scarcely any individuality. The defense made no attempt to show where Gibson was at the time of the murder and did not question him as to his shoe found in the church study with the bloodstain on the sole, or of his chisel, which is supposed to have been used by the murderer on the jamb of the belfry door.

Endorsing His Character.

Later Durrant's attorneys called a dozen witnesses to testify to Durrant's good character. One was a minister, and another, Dr. King, father of George King, who saw Durrant in Emmanuel church about the time the murder is supposed to have been committed. Dr. King said Durrant's character had been so good that he had never thought that there was any need of discussing it. From others it was learned that he was always looked upon as an upright and moral young man.

Sensation Promised.

A suggestion that something of a breezy nature will come out in the prosecution's rebuttal was furnished by District Attorney Barnes, who asked one of the witnesses as to a visit his wife had paid to Cooper Medical college with Durrant. The witness denied that his wife had made any complaint against Durrant's conduct on that occasion as suggested by the prosecution. In the contempt proceedings against Miss Carrie Cunningham, the reporter who refused to divulge her sources of information, a decision was reserved until Tuesday.

WILL REBUILD THE MILLS.

Insurance Companies Heavy Losers by the Warren Fire.

Warren, R. I., Oct. 5.—The cheering news is given out that the Warren Manufacturing company will rebuild its burned factory on a more extensive scale than before. It is the present intention to put about $1,000,000 on the new plant. The erection of this factory will occupy more than a year. Meantime the idle operatives must look for work elsewhere, and in every quarter of the town the French Canadian element is preparing to scatter. The loss at the Warren mills has affected the mutuals of Massachusetts and Rhode Island more than any other loss of recent years and the wonderful dividends which these companies have for a long time paid will receive a check. That the Warren Manufacturing company mills were considered first class risks is proven by the lines the companies wrote. The Boston Manufacturers Mutual, of which Edward Atkinson is the head, had a line of $120,000 and the Arkwright Mutual of Boston had a line of $120,000. The other factory mutuals held lines in proportion.

SHIP AND CREW LOST.

The Zoe Went to Pieces While a Lifeboat Was Going to Her.

London, Oct. 5.—The British brigantine Zoe was driven upon the sands in the British channel, near the Mumbles, yesterday and broke up while a lifeboat was proceeding to her assistance. Her crew were all lost. The Zoe was of 165 tons, and was owned in Fleetwood.

Warships at Fort Monroe.

Fort Monroe, Va., Oct. 5.—Rear Admiral Bunce with the New York, Columbia, Minneapolis, Raleigh and Montgomery arrived in Hampton Roads last evening. The squadron encountered heavy weather outside which brought them in a day earlier than expected. The length of their stay here is uncertain.

Small Bills for the South.

New York, Oct. 5.—Large bills to the amount of $255,000 were deposited at the sub-treasury yesterday for the transfer by telegraph of small bills to a like amount to New Orleans. Large bills for $450,000 were exchanged "over the counter" at the sub-treasury for small bills.

His Farewell Sermon.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Rev. Corliss B. Gardiner, pastor of Westminster church, will preach a farewell sermon to his congregation to-morrow. Who the new minister will be is not known at present.

Prof. Willkomm Dead.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—Professor Henry Maurice Willkomm, the distinguished German botanist, is dead. He was born at Herwigsdorf, Saxony, June 29, 1821.

DEATH OF PROF. BOYESEN.

The Well-Known College Instructor Expires Suddenly.

New York, Oct. 5.—Prof. Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, professor of the Germanic language and literature in Columbia college, died suddenly yesterday at his home in this city of rheumatism of the heart. Prof. Boyesen was born in Fredericksvaern, Norway. His father was a professor of mathematics at the Norwegian naval academy. He was educated at a Latin shool in Christiania and at the University of Norway in the same city. He came to America in 1869, landing in New York on April 1 of that year. He went to Chicago shortly afterward and became the editor of a Norwegian paper called the Fremad. He was called to Columbia college as an instructor in German in 1881. In 1890 the chair of German language and literature was specially created for him and which he occupied until his death. Prof. Boyesen was apparently in good health in the early part of the week and was about the college attending to his duties. Some of Prof. Boyesen's best known works are "Commentary on the writings of Henrik Ibsen," "Literary and Social Silhouttes," "Norseland Tales," "The Saga of Eric the Red," "The Friends of Norway," "The Evolution of the Heroine," "The Novelist's Art of Characterization," "Apropos of Nothing," "The Feud of the Wildhaymen," "Zee-Wee" and "The Year's Crop of Fiction."

GLADSTONE ON LOCAL OPTION.

The Principal Is Sound, But It Does Not Dispose of the Question.

London, Oct. 5.—Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to the temperance congress in which he says: "While profoundly sensible of the immense importance of the liquor question I cannot pretend that I have mastered its difficulties. I see it clearly in certain of its aspects, but as a whole it baffles me, but I have no doubt that the local option principle is sound, but they must be of very sanguine temperament who believe that it is sufficient to dispose of the whole question. The method of the sale of liquor for public account, which exists in parts of Scandinavia, presents great advantages, and if adopted here ought to be adopted in its best form. The plan of free trade with strict police supervision and adequate taxation was unfortunately refused a fair trial in Great Britain. Of the scheme of mere limitation by reducing the number of licenses, I have a poor opinion."

ISAAC BASSETT CRITICALLY ILL

Grave Fears Entertained for the Doorkeeper of the Senate.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The venerable Isaac Bassett, who has been a prominent figure in the United States senate for more than a score of years, is lying seriously ill at his home in this city and grave fears are entertained of a fatal termination of his illness. Mr. Bassett spent the summer in Connecticut as has been his custom for many years, but returned to Washington unrefreshed by his vacation and has been gradually growing weaker. Yesterday and last night he was very restless and is now unable to retain food except of a very light character. Mr. Bassett is 76 years of age and has been an employe of the senate for sixty-four years, beginning service there as a page by recommendation of Daniel Webster.

ORDERS TO DEPORT CHINESE.

The Late Midwinter Fair Mongolians Have Overstayed Their Time.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Collector Wise at San Francisco has been instructed by Acting Secretary Hamlin to deport all the Chinese who were admitted as laborers for the midwinter exposition. The Chinese under the law were entitled to remain one year, but have overstayed their time. A month ago the Chinese laborers had it announced to the treasury department that they had departed, but this has been discovered to be a Chinese trick to throw the authorities off the track.

MAY HAVE FOUNDERED.

A Big Steamship Suddenly Vanishes Off the Coast of England.

London, Oct. 5.—A large two-masted steamship with one white banded funnel, making heavy weather, was seen yesterday four miles off Graystone heading for Plymouth. The steamship suddenly vanished, and it is supposed that she foundered.

GEN. MAHONE WORSE.

He Is Semi-conscious, But Able To Take Liquid Nourishment.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The condition of General Mahone grew worse during the night, but his physicians do not anticipate the end within twenty-four hours. He is semi-conscious, but able to take liquid nourishment.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot trade dull and unsettled. October, 64 3-8c.; December, 66 1-8c.; May, 70 5-8c.

Corn—Spot remains dull but firm. No. 2 white 38 1-4c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 36 7-8c.; November, 36 5-8c; May, 35 3-4c.

Oats—Spot dull and values doubtful. No. 2 white, 25 1-2c.; No. 3 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot firm with a fair demand. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $10.00a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier. October, $6.22.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 22 1-2c.; creamery, western seconds to firsts, 15a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a19c.; western imitation seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—The market shows slight improvement. State, full cream, large size, white choice, 9a9 1-4c.; large colored fancy, 9 1-4c.; state part skims, choice, 8a8 1-2c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a7 1-2c.; common, 4a4c.

Eggs—Light receipts and cool weather has caused prices to further advance on nearly all grades. Fancy, fresh gathered western, which are very scarce, are now quotable at 18c.

Potatoes—Trading slow; continued liberal receipts; prices rule in buyer's favor. Long Island and rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl, $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Russet, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.a$1.00.

TOUR OF OLD LIBERTY

Warm Greeting to the Nation's Cherished Relic.

Cheering Thousands Give Welcome All Along the Line—Heads Uncovered and Flowers Strewn Upon the Old Bell—Salutes Fired in Its Honor—At Roanoke To-night.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 5.—Starting from Philadelphia yesterday morning the liberty bell last night amid a blaze of red fire invaded the heart on the one time confederacy. In quaint old Alexandria there was marked reverence for the bell, and many heads were uncovered as the train pulled slowly through the town. The stars and stripes were liberally displayed and a feature was the number of colored men and women who joined in the homage paid the old relic. At Quantico there was another large crowd and a renewal of the hurrah, but it was left to Fredericksburg to give what up to that time, was the most enthusiastic welcome of the day.

Bedecked with Flowers.

A tremendous throng crowded in and about the railroad station and a company of the national guard acted as special escort. Mayor A. P. Rowe was represented by Seymour White in the welcoming ceremony. Mr. White made an eloquent address, to which Mayor Warwick responded on behalf of the Philadelphians. The beauty of Fredericksburg took possession of the bell car, and for three-quarters of an hour a steady stream of women and children passed over the platform. Many of them brought bunches of graceful golden rod, which they laid upon the relic, and one stately matron brought a wreath of exquisite roses, which she hung about the oaken frame. There was music and a hearty cheer as the train pulled out.

Salute of 21 Guns.

At Milford, Doswell and Ashland the stops were short, but there was no lack of warmth in the greeting given the bell. Red lights were burned and a salute of 21 guns belched forth as the southward moving party steamed into this ancient capital. The committee of city officials headed by Mayor Taylor took charge of the party on their arrival, and while the bell in the car was left in charge of the reserves and the Richmond Blues Mayor Warwick and his party went to the executive mansion, where Gov. O'Ferrall held a largely attended and brilliant reception. Up almost until midnight a steady stream of Virginians poured past the bell and the first day of the journey to Atlanta came to an end. To-night will be spent at Roanoke.

Warm Greeting at Fredericksburg.

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 5.—A committee of the common council met the liberty bell at Quantico and escorted it to Fredericksburg. Here the train was met by all the civic authorities and about four thousand persons. After greetings between Mayor Rowe and Mayor Warwick, the escort of the bell was driven to see the Washington monument by the city authorities. The enthusiasm was unbounded and all the bells in the city were rung while the bell was here.

THE KU-CHENG INVESTIGATION.

Consul Hixson's Vigorous Demand Upon the Mandarin.

London, Oct. 5.—A letter to the Pal Mall Gazette from Ku-Cheng says that it is a strange thing that the only fighting man sent to Ku-Cheng with the commission appointed to inquire into the massacres of missionaries was Lieut. Walde Evans of the United States cruiser Detroit, notwithstanding the fact that two British gunboats were lying at Foochow. The correspondent says that when the party arrived at Ku-Cheng the mandarin in command there refused to allow the members of the commission to attend the trial of the accused vegetarians, whereupon J. Courtney Hixson, the United States consul at Foochow, who was the most energetic person of the commission, peremptorily demanded, in the most vigorous language, the right of being present. He gave the mandarin four hours in which to make up his mind.

DOUBTS ABOUT THE FIGHT.

Generally Believed That Corbett and Fitz Will Meet in Indian Territory.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 4.—There is considerable speculation as to where the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will be pulled off. That it will go to the Indian Territory is generally conceded, as Mexico is almost too far way, although the Florida club is in receipt of many telegrams from El Paso and Laredo urging that the fight be brought there.

TO NURSE LEPERS.

A Former Pittsburg Woman Will Enter the Louisiana Colony.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 5.—Miss Mary Carr, operating nurse at St. Mary's Cathalic hospital, this city, has decided to go to the leper colony in Louisiana and nurse the unfortunates there. She is a woman of great experience in surgical and medical cases. She is a native of Pittsburg.

As a Mark of Respect.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Secretary Lamont has directed as a mark of respect that the United States lock at Sault Ste. Marie, which was one of the important works constructed under the supervision of the late General Poe, be closed from three until five o'clock to-day, the hours of his funeral.

Another Poet Laureate.

London, Oct. 5.—The Daily News will say to-day that it has been assured that Prime Minister Salisbury has resolved to appoint a poet laureate in succession to the late Lord Tennyson, and that his choice has fallen on a London journalist.

British Subjects Imprisoned.

Colon, Oct. 5.—News has been received here from British Guiana to the effect that three more British subjects have been seized and imprisoned by the Venezuelan authorities. The matter has been referred to London.

Wages Advanced Ten Per Cent.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 5.—The Rhode Island Perkins Horse Shoe company has increased by ten per cent. the wages of about one-half of its 500 employes.

Coughs, * Consumption.

The greatest cause of terror of the present day, formerly considered hopeless, is now conceded by the best physicians as curable under proper conditions. Its cause—a depleted condition of the system; a mal-assimilation of food; a wasting away of the tissues; an impoverishment of the blood. The result—a diseased condition of all the organs of the body; a formation of eating ulcers; and the result death from collapse or hemorrhage. But the cure is that greatest concentration into the least possible bulk of the vital elements of lean, raw beef. It is absorbed and nourishes with the least possible effort on the part of the stomach. It creates new tissue, enriches the blood, makes flesh, and by strengthening the great vital centres of the body enables them to perform their functions in a natural manner, and dispel disease. Thousands owe their life to its use.

Bovinine

CATARRH ELY'S Cream Balm

Is quickly absorbed, cleanes the nasal passages allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BOTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York

YOU DO NOT KNOW WHICH IS THE BEST PIANO Unless you have tried the Mason & Hamlin

With their patent SCREW STRINGER which has proved such a success that it is pronounced "THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT IN PIANOS IN HALF A CENTURY."

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE BY MAIL FREE.

Terms of payment to suit reasonable requirements.

136 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

SPECIAL SALE —OF— FINE STATIONERY —AND— School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

411 Park Avenue.

Nothing Antequated

will be found in our stock of wall paper. We are now showing the very latest fall designs and most of them are gems. The getting up of new, fanciful and pleasing patterns is an art, and we have the advantage of displaying the handiwork of the best artists of the day in that line. It's like going through a picture gallery to walk about in our store, and there is no admission. Paints, oils and varnishes.

E. C. MARSHALL, 167 North Avenue

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.

P. M. DECKER, PROP

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO., —Dealers in— Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford, Armstrong Mulford, Assistant. BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance, 177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL F. W. HAND, 132 North avenue. 929 South avenue. 197 North avenue. Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co., 301-311 WATCHUNG AVE., —DEALERS IN— Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co., EYE SPECIALISTS, 441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office, EVERY THURSDAY, From 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK D. Manager. Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber,
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS,
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

For Sale or Exchange
For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of
Between 4 and 5 Acres
well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.
9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.50 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.
Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS.—EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Do not be deceived by infringements of name, package or cigarette.
THE ONLY GENUINE
Sweet Caporal Cigarettes
Bear the fac simile signature of
Kinney Bros
on the package and on each cigarette.
TAKE NONE WITHOUT.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Post-office box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

QUIET AGAIN REIGNS

But Great Anxiety Still Exists in Constantinople.

Armenian Refugees Continue To Occupy the Churches—Officials Watching the Turkish Quarters. Over One Thousand Arrests Made. Turks Buying Firearms.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—The result of the conference held by the foreign diplomats here to consider the situation arising from the rioting on Monday and Tuesday was that the dragomans of the several embassies and legations were directed to protest to the foreign minister against the excesses of the police and equally against the barbarity of the Mussulman mob in regard to the arrested and wounded Armenians, several of whom were beaten to death with bludgeons, while others were cruelly mutilated. The dragomans were also directed to call the porte's serious attention to the whole affair and to beg the foreign minister to see that measures were adopted to prevent foreigners from suffering and to restore order. The Hon. A. W. Terrell, the minister of the United States, made a special request that measures be adopted for the safety of the American missionaries in the Koumkapou quarter. His representations had the desired effect.

Quiet Again Reigns.

The city is quiet. It is evident that the government has taken every precaution to prevent any further disorder and to quell any rioting should it occur in spite of the measures adopted to prevent it. One of the precautions taken was the posting of guards around the Turkish quarters to prevent the inhabitants from leaving them in order to go to those parts of the city occupied by Armenians. Armenian refugees, fearing that they are marked for massacre, still crowd the churches, evidently hoping to find safety there.

Trouble Feared from Students.

The police have not carried out their threat to storm the Armenian patriarchate if the refugees seeking safety there did not surrender. In the Pera church alone there are 500 Armenian refugees. The Armenian college at Galata has been closed owing to the threats of Mohammedan theological students to attack it. These students have taken a very prominent part in the disturbances, and it is the general opinion of the foreign residents that the government needs to keep a close watch upon them or they will make further trouble. The spirit of fanaticism among them has been deeply aroused, and they indulge in many threats of what they will do to the enemies of their faith.

Deepseated Feeling of Uneasiness.

It is learned from a reliable source that more than a thousand Armenians have been arrested and cast into prison on the charge of having been actively concerned in the rioting or having instigated the trouble. Although there have been no overt acts of disorder there is a deep-seated feeling of unrest and anxiety everywhere displayed. One significant fact is that the Turks are purchasing revolvers and cartridges. An English dealer in firearms here says that he has refused to sell revolvers to at least fifty would-be purchasers. During the rioting on Tuesday crowds of Mohammedans took advantage of the great excitement to loot many Armenian shops and offices. Their spoil is reported to have been quite valuable.

FOR REFORM IN OMAHA.

The Citizens' Movement Attaining Great Proportions.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 5.—The democrats of Omaha and this county, by an overwhelming majority, at their primaries last night endorsed the citizens' reform movement designed to promote good government, an economical administration of city and county affairs and to "purge the community of public plunderers." The movement for reform in local affairs has reached great proportions, conservative business men never before seen here in political conventions being the chief supporters.

PIGEON SHOOTING MATCH.

Captain Brewer To Meet Thomas Murphy at Dexter Park, L. I.

New York, Oct. 5.—A pigeon shooting match has been arranged between Capt. John L. Brewer of this city and Thomas Murphy of Paterson, N. J. Brewer is to concede Murphy three yards' handicap, which places the veteran at thirty-three yards. Each man will shoot at 100 birds. The match is for $1,000 a side. It will take place within two weeks at Dexter Park, L. I. The principals each posted yesterday $500 of the stake money.

THE MISSING GERMAN EDITOR.

A Report That Baron von Hammerstein Is in This Country.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—The Vorwaerts says that baron von Hammerstein, formerly editor of the Kreuz Zeitung, against whom serious charges have been made since his sudden disappearance from this city, sailed for the United States from Havre some time ago by a French line steamship, and that he is now supposed to be in Washington.

Death of John R. Lydecker.

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 3.—John R. Lydecker, for fifteen years deputy collector for the port of New York prior to the end of President Arthur's administration, died suddenly at his home at Bogota yesterday. He was 72 years old and leaves a widow and three children.

Kendall Accepts the Nomination.

Boston, Oct. 5.—Edward Kendall of Cambridge has sent his formal letter of acceptance of the prohibition nomination for governor in which he gives many statistics and figures concerning the liquor traffic.

Newfoundland's New Governor.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 5.—The departure from England of Sir Herbert Murray, the newly appointed governor of Newfoundland, has been postponed until November 20.

Hoke Smith Leaves for Georgia.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Secretary Hoke Smith has gone to his home in Georgia to remain about a week.

PROSPEROUS ARIZONA.

Report of Gov. Hughes to the Secretary of the Interior.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The report of Gov. Hughes of Arizona to the secretary of the interior, just made public, says that during the year Arizona was favored with a high degree of prosperity. The gold output for the year was $4,260,000, being an increase of $2,179,750 over 1894. The silver output was 1,750,000 ounces, being a decrease in value of last year of over half a million dollars. The copper production amounted to 49,661,289 pounds, valued at $6,207,611, and the lead output amounted to $350,000. The total value of bullion exports was $11,955,111. The advancement made on educational, moral, religious and political lines has been pronounced. The present population is placed at 77,000. The aggregate value of taxable property as returned by the assessor for the year was $27,518,332, being an increase over last year of nearly half a million. Arizona's financial condition is most satisfactory. The total capital of banks and loan associations of the territory was $1,093,900. The governor predicts that at the close of the next fiscal year Arizona's gold production will have reached $10,000,000. There are 37,000 Indians in the territory, all on terms of peace. The progress on the lines of economy during the year can be appreciated when it is shown that for the year 1891 the territory was called on to face a deficit of over $42,000, in 1892 a deficit of over $51,000, in 1893 a deficit of over $34,000, while at the close of the fiscal year of 1894 there was a surplus in the treasury of $5,832, and at the close of the present fiscal year its indebtedness has been decreased $50,486.

EXCITING BALLOON VOYAGE.

Prof. Allen of Providence Nearly Falls Through the Car.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 5.—Dr. W. L. Rombough and D. A. Sullivan had a wonderful balloon trip with Prof. Allen of Providence. The balloon ascension was a portion of the third days' celebration of merchants' week. It was made from the north common in the presence of 10,000 people. The balloon had not reached the city line on Chelmsford street when Dr. Sullivan, in reaching for a carrier pigeon which Prof. Allen was to hand him, discovered that Prof. Allen was unconscious. Prof. Allen's legs were dangling toward the basket in which his companions were seated. They barely had time to seize his legs to prevent him from falling headlong through the car. The balloon, without any guide, passed through Tewksbury and Andover and then changed its course toward Bedford and Lexington. It was nearly an hour in the air and Dr. Rombough and Mr. Sullivan were nearly exhausted when the landing was made near North Lexington. Prof. Allen did not recover full consciousness for some time after the landings of the balloon. Prof. Allen, it is thought, was rendered insensible by the gas escaping from the balloon. His companions do not know what caused the balloon to descend. They suppose that in the struggles for air, Prof. Allen may have touched the valve which caused the gas to escape.

THE VENEZUELAN DISPUTE.

Secretary Olney Refuses To Make Any Statement Regarding It.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Secretary Olney, though overrun for the last three days with visitors anxious to learn what position the United States was taking in the British Venezuelan dispute, has resolutely refused to utter a word. All the officers of the state department are equally reticent. It is not believed by those best informed that there has been any ultimatum, but the prevailing idea is that such representations have been made to the British government as the latter can accept and act upon without sacrifice of dignity, and yet with distinct recognition of the justice of our position. The whole course of the administration in the matter dates back to the time when Secretary Gresham was at the head of the department of state and Mr. Olney was attorney general. Mr. Olney's attitude then was based on his view of the Venezuelan question from a lawyer's standpoint, and had the unanimous support of the president and cabinet, but the matter was not pressed till Mr. Olney came into his present office.

GOV. BROWN DETERMINED.

He Goes to Louisville and Stops the Murphy-Griffin Fight.

Louisville, Oct. 5.—Governor Brown has stopped the Murphy-Griffin fight. He arrived in Louisville yesterday morning, and at 12 o'clock met Mayor Tyler by appointment. Mayor Tyler assured the governor that the fight will not be allowed to take place. "Billy" Thompson, the manager of the affair, will retain a lawyer and test the right of the authorities to stop the "go," which he says is not a prize fight.

STERN MUST GO TO JAIL.

The New Yorker's Appeal Denied in Munich.

Munich, Oct. 5.—At yesterday's sitting of the lower house of parliament the premier announced that the appeal of Louis Stern of New York, sentenced to two weeks' imprisonment and a fine of 600 marks for insulting Baron von Thuengen, deputy commissioner of the Spa at Kissingen, had been rejected.

Missionary Association Convention.

Detroit, Oct. 5.—The annual convention of the American Missionary association of Congregational churches will be held here October 22-24. Rev. Wm. Hayes Ward, D. D., LL. D., editor of the New York Independent, will preach the opening sermon on Tuesday evening.

New Bicycle Records.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—At the Island track last night Angus McLeod of Sarnia lowered two more Canadian bicycle records. He made a half mile flying start, unpaced, in 1:02 1-5, reducing the record 1-5 second, and the three miles paced, standing start, in 7:08, beating Hyslop's record by three seconds.

Erne Knocks Out Skelly.

New York, Oct. 5.—At the Manhattan Athletic club last night Frank Erne of Buffalo knocked out Jack Skelly of Brooklyn in the ninth round.

To Meet in Boston in '98.

New York, Oct. 5.—The supreme lodge of the order of the Sons of St. George have decided to hold their first convention in Boston in 1898.

A DOCTOR AND DISEASE.

The Plain Truth by a Well-Known Physician About the Kidneys and the Blood.

How to Cure Blood Diseases by Curing the Kidneys—The Action on the Blood of Asparagus and Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Every physician knows that our kidneys are natural filters.

Our kidneys filter our blood.

Blood diseases are caused by badly filtered blood.

When the kidneys are well they keep the body well by keeping the blood pure. When they are ill they filter the blood badly and make us ill.

The sick kidneys can be made well with Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills, and this is what Dr. John Dobson says about it:

OFFICE OF
DOCTOR JOHN DOBSON,
85-87 Dearborn St.
CHICAGO, July 20, 1895.

HOBB'S MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen—Being convinced of the truth, so persistently iterated by you, that upon the kidneys depend almost entirely the purity of the blood, and that therefore all blood diseases should be cured by treating the kidneys, I decided to make a fair trial of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills in my practice.

Previous to this I had many cases which I had found I could only temporarily relieve with ordinary drugs, and hoped with the aid of the special preparation of Asparagus Officinalis (from which, as you have explained to me, your pills are made), to obtain much better results.

I was not disappointed.

From the very beginning, the results I got were to me, as a physician, astonishing.

In rheumatism and gout, those diseases which we are often unable to do more than relieve—sometimes not that—Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills almost invariably effect a cure.

Kidney troubles, diabetes, pain in the back, sleeplessness and all that train of disorders, were relieved in a few doses, and sooner or later cured.

In anæmia, chlorosis, general depression, nervous headache, hysteria, neuralgia, etc., the effects were perhaps even more marvelous, the patient seeming to wake up into new life, with new energy, new ambition, new blood and new complexion.

I have now used Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills for some time, and have decided to use them constantly. I know of no preparation which has such immediate and lasting curative power over all diseases caused by impure or vitiated blood.

Wishing you every success, and that your remedy may become as widely known as it should, I remain

Sincerely yours,
John Dobson, M. D.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills owe their curative power to the healing and tonic properties of asparagus on the kidneys. It is a real tonic and strengthener. It builds up the kidneys, and through them cleanses and revitalizes the blood.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are for sale at all druggists, price 50 cents per box, or will be sent to any address postpaid, on receipt of price.

An interesting pamphlet on the subject will be mailed free to any address. Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

THE FAMOUS BARTLETT SUIT.

Will Probably Be Tried Again in Cambridge Next Month.

Boston, Oct. 5.—There is little doubt but that the famous breach of promise suit of Miss Bartlett against the estate of the late Dr. Bigelow will be tried next month for the second time in East Cambridge, as neither party shows a disposition to compromise. Although it is alleged that the parties to the suit were engaged to be married, the suit is not for damages for a breach of promise of marriage, but for the sum of $150,000 with accrued interest and cost of suit, which the plaintiff alleges were promised her by the deceased, to be paid in the event the promise from any cause was never fulfilled. The death having intervened, she seeks to recover from his executors the sum which it is alleged he promised her.

ST. PAUL IS A RACER.

Fresh from the Ways She Averaged 20.5 Knots.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 5.—The big ocean steamship St. Paul made an average speed of 20.5 knots an hour in her official trial trip of almost 88 knots over the government course off this coast yesterday. In every respect her trial was a most satisfactory one. The machinery worked perfectly, and there was no foaming of the boilers, and she cut through the waves gracefully and easily, with a noticeable lack of vibration. Her builders and the officials of the International Navigation company are well satisfied with the result of the trial, and are confident that after she has been docked and her bottom has been cleaned, and when the stiffness of her machinery has worn away, she will equal the St. Louis' record of 22.3 knots an hour.

Bids for Saluting Powder.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Bids were opened at the bureau of ordnance, war department, for furnishing the army one thousand pounds of saluting powder. Two proposals, one from the Duponts and one from Laflin & Sands, were received. Each firm offered to furnish the ammunition at 8 3-4 cents per pound, in barrels, and at 8 cents per pound if the government furnished the barrels.

British Minister Libeled.

Colon, Oct. 5.—The British minister at Bogota has been libellously accused by the Bogota and Isthmian press of having an interest in a claim of Punchard, MacTaggart & Lawther, a London firm of contractors, against the state of Antioquia.

Voted To Admit Women.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 5.—On the vote for admission to the general conference at the session of the Central New York Methodist Episcopal conference the proposition in favor of their admission was carried by a vote of 99 to 65.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 5, 1895

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Probably Fair.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 68 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 5—Borough Republican primary at public school building to elect delegates to the county convention. Evening.
October 5—Boys race meet at Crescent Oval. Afternoon.
October 5—Football. Leal's school against Orange, at Orange.
October 5—Fall rally of the Junior department of the Y. M. C. A. Eight p. m.
October 6—Rally services in the First M. E. church.
October 6—Meeting of the new Catholic Club.
October 7—Entertainment and dance at Saengerbund Hall.
October 7—Meeting of the City Common Council.
October 7—Meeting of the Board of Education.
October 7—Library social of the Doreas Circle of King's Daughters, at 514 Park avenue.
October 8—Meeting of Camera Club.
October 8—Lecture on "The Ethics of Citizenship," by Miss Jane L. Slocum, at Y. M. C. A. hall. Four p. m.
October 9-12—Christian Endeavor State Convention at Atlantic City.
October 10—Dance of the T. A. B. society in their hall. Evening.
October 10—Annual State Conference of the Woman's Synodical Society at the Crescent Avenue church.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Football. Leal's school against Westfield, at Westfield.

John Vetterlein, of North Plainfield, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination of County Clerk.

Thirty-two thousand dollars which the borough will expend to open Watchung avenue will be money well spent.

Just remember when you are going to church tomorrow that the hard cider joints are open and making men drunk without paying $700 a year to the city. How long will it remain so?

The Borough ire is up over the condition of Greenbrook. The stench that arises from the stream is enough to make anyone turn up their nose, and if permitted to continue, it will, in the language of the uncouth, turn up someone's toes.

The literary and educational world loses a valuable member in the death of Prof. Boyesen. He was not only distinguished as a man of great ability in his line of work, but as one whose surnames were puzzlers to pronounce without getting your tongue tangled up.

A Birthday Celebration.

About forty young people gathered at the home of Miss Gladys Leland, of 63 Summit avenue, yesterday, to celebrate her fifth birthday. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all and Miss Gladys received a number of handsome presents. Besides the young people there were present Mr. and Mrs. George R. Leland, Mrs. Charles Harris, Mrs. S. Hedden, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Allen, Mr. and Mrs C. Hall and Mrs. S. Stephany.

Juniors Elect.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, met yesterday afternoon at four o'clock in the church parlors and elected the following officers: President, Miss Lilian Richardson; Vice-President, Miss Emily Runyon; Secretary, Aaron Timpson; Treasurer, Harold Smalley. Light refreshments were served after the election and all enjoyed a short sociable.

Something Important Coming.

The fire and building committee of the City Council met at fire headquarters last night and transacted routine business. It is understood that the committee have under consideration some matters of interest.

FLORENCE M. BRADSHAW A BRIDE.

Marriage of a Former Plainfield Girl at Poughkeepsie.

The Poughkeepsie Daily Eagle published the following about the marriage of Miss Florence Mabel Bradshaw, formerly of North Plainfield, to Clive Newcome Elliot, of New York:

A quiet and pretty little home wedding was celebrated at noon today at the residence of Samuel J. Moore, No. 41 Marshall street.

The contracting parties were Florence Mabel Bradshaw, Mr. Moore's sister-in-law, and Clive Newcome Elliot, a talented young architect, connected with the famous firm of McKim, Mead & White, in New York.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Phillip M. Watters, pastor of the Washington Street Methodist church, the bridal couple standing in a palm embowered bay window.

The parlor was tastefully decorated with asparagus ferns, wild flowers of the season and brilliant autumn leaves, while the hall and stairway were festooned with clematis and bitter sweet.

The bride wore a golden brown tailor-made traveling dress, which was very becoming to her spirituelle beauty, and the groom was in regulation morning costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore, baby Evangeline, and the groom's parents made up the wedding party.

A few of the numerous and elegant bridal gifts were displayed, among them a polished oak table, from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Slee; a pink and gold porcelain clock from Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyrrel; a richly decorated card receiver, from Mr. and Mrs. William Benjamin; a cracker jar, from Miss Ogden; a cut glass bud glass, from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Clark; a Dresden china tray, from Miss Slee; a cut glass bon-bon tray, from Miss Paulding; a Dresden china vase, from Mrs. Burnett of Brooklyn; a copy of "Nymphs and Satyr" on Japanese tissue, from Mrs. Andrew Moore, and several pieces of rare decorated china, from Miss Johnson and Miss Craig; a handsome clock, from Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson; a white enamel bedroom suit, from Mr. and Mrs. E. D. MacMurray and Mr. and Mrs Combs; a polished oak chair, from Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force; rug from Miss Force; and others.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served in honor of the newly mated by Mrs. Moore, whose charms as a hostess rival her loveliness as wife and mother. The viands were duly enjoyed, there were toasts and congratulations galore, and then Mr. and Mrs. Elliot started, amid showers of rice and other testimonials of friendly good will, for the New York boat, beginning the voyage of life together by a sail down the Hudson in the glorious sunshine and invigorating air of early October. Their home will be in Nutley, N. J., where the groom and his father have lately built a cosy cottage among the trees of the old North Woods.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Charlie Woolston is trying to form a football team in the borough.

Harry Fulper and Wyatt Barnes are planning to start Tuesday on a wheeling trip to New Foundland, N. J., where they will spend several days with friends.

A wheelman rode through West Front street yesterday afternoon at about half past five o'clock with a large card on his back, marked "79 cents," which some practical joker had placed there.

The Crescent Bulletin, a monthly published by the Crescent bicycle makers, devotes a column to their popular Plainfield agent, F. L. C. Martin. The article is headed by a cut which is a good picture of Mr. Martin.

The Westfield members of the Advisory Committee of the Central New Jersey Football League, failed to put in an appearance at the meeting of the committee last evening, as did also the Cranford delegates. Treasurer G. W. Richardson called the meeting together, and it was immediately moved and carried to adjourn and meet again at the same place at quarter of eight o'clock next Friday evening. Those present were George W. Richardson and Arthur Palmer, of Dunellen; and D. A. McPhie and Charles B. Morse, of Plainfield. The non-appearance of the Westfield men was quite a surprise and the meeting was delayed twenty five minutes to allow them to appear as they stated that they intended to attend. Word has been sent from Cranford, it is reported, that there will be no team from that place this year.

A Famous Penmaker Very Ill.

R. Esterbrook, the famous pen manufacturer, is very ill at Camden and Francis Wood, his son-in law, and family, of Franklin place, have been telegraphed for and are now at Camden.

—The Fourth ward cottage meeting Monday evening at 7:45 will be preceded by a service of song at Liberty Street Mission.

—Those interested will please notice the change of time for the services in the Methodist church. The morning service will begin at 10:30 and the evening service at 7:30. The Sunday-school will begin its session at 2:30 p. m.

Heart Disease?

Quick pulse, palpitation of the heart, short breath, swimming head — terribly frightened? No danger — simply symptoms of Dyspepsia. Not one person in five thousand has real heart disease.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills

Try Deane's Dyspepsia Pills and see how this kind of heart disease disappears. White if constipated, yellow if bowels are loose. Druggists', 25c. A sample is cheerfully mailed. DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston N. Y.

Additional Local News on Page 8

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Scully, of East Millstone, is visiting Plainfield relatives.

Edward Hooley, of Rockview avenue, has gone to Atlanta, Ga.

Rev. E. L. Hyde, of Hyde Park, Mass., is visiting friends in this city.

Miss Jennie Seelly, of Brooklyn, is visiting friends on East Fifth street.

Harry Fulper, of East Second street, is out again after a several day's illness.

Letter-Carrier William Sharp has returned to work after enjoying his vacation.

J. H. Havens and family, of Plainfield avenue, will spend the winter in New York.

William Worth, of Grove street, went to Philadelphia on a business trip today.

The Misses Anthony, of Crescent avenue, have returned from their European trip.

Miss Bessie Booker, of Richmond is visiting Miss Dryden, of West Seventh street.

Miss Schenck and Miss Lines, of the borough, were the guests of Dunellen friends yesterday.

James Smith, of Elmwood place, returned yesterday after a six weeks visit at Amesbury, Mass.

Bertram Pittis has successfully entered Columbia college and has now began the study of law there.

Miss Mary Haberle, who was the guest of Miss Lillian Haberle, has returned to her home in Orange.

Mrs. Lizzie Angle, of Stroudsburg, Pa., is visiting at the home of Chief Marshal VanHorn, of the borough.

The many friends of Mrs. E. C. Morse, of Chatham street, will regret to learn that her condition is much worse.

Miss Minnie McFadden, of New Brunswick, spent Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Kenney, of East Second street.

Miss Marion Ryder, of Brooklyn, has returned to her home after a visit at the home of her uncle, Robert E. Luckey, of East Fifth street.

The Misses Mattie Merrell and Ella Peaterson, daughters of Mrs. Esther Peaterson, of LaGrande avenue, are confined to their home by illness.

Mrs. Groendyke, of West Front street, who has been seriously ill, is improving rapidly, which news her many friends will be glad to receive.

Charles L. Case and family, of Central avenue, returned yesterday on the steamship Normania from Europe, where they have been for the past two months on a coaching tour.

Miss Lydia Duffert, of Middle Valley, Morris county, has returned to the home of Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, of East Front street, and will spend most of the winter in Plainfield.

Mrs. D. A. MacPhie, of Liberty street, and her aunt, Mrs. Grace B. Ross, of Nova Scotia, visited Mrs. Winans, wife of Prof. Winans, of Princeton College, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burnett and Mrs. Burnett's mother, Mrs. H. B Wildman, of Stuyvesant avenue, Brooklyn, have been visiting at the home of Charles E. Doane, of West Fifth street.

Delegate to the Classis.

Last evening the consistory of Trinity Reformed church elected Robert Clark as primarus delegate and J. P. Laire as secundus delegate, to the semi-annual meeting of the classis of Newark, to be held at Linden, next Tuesday, October 8th.

Sure of a Good Time.

An excellent musical and literary entertainment has been prepared by the Singing and Turning societies of North Plainfield, which will be given in Saenger and Turner hall, on Somerset street, next Monday evening, for the benefit of the German school.

Autumn.

"It is the season when the light of dreams Around the year in golden glory lies."
The season, too, that every wise man deems
The time to give attention to his eyes.
And by a call at Collier's ascertain
How he their lasting usefulness may gain.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

SLEEP OR DEATH

For Years Mr. Burgheim Had Suffered.

Paine's Celery Compound Soon Made Him Well.

Publisher of Two Great German Papers.

Can Now Work Fourteen Hours Every Day.

Sleeps Soundly and Peacefully Every Night He Lives.

Sleep is one of the things that cannot be put off from night to night.

The punishment for sleeplessness is worse than pain. It means a shattered mind.

It often happens that a sudden stress of work or anxiety robs one of the night's rest. The effect is soon apparent in the languor, headaches and listlessness that ensue.

If rapid and abundant means are employed to repair the exhausted parts the nerves regain their elasticity. But if an unnatural privation of sleep is carried beyond the stretching power of the brain the whole nervous system becomes undone, and prostration results.

Thousands of men struggling under great responsibilities or tedious work, anxious, over-worked mothers and wives, shop girls who are forced to stand on their feet all day long, have little difficulty in convincing their friends of the remarkable power of Paine's celery compound to restore their energy, renew their vigor, and make them strong and well.

MR. MAX BURGHEIM.

Here is a letter from Mr. Max Burgheim the well known manager of the Cincinnati Freie Presse Company. Mr. Burgheim writes:

"The following statement may be of interest. I have been suffering from sleeplessness, insomania, for many years, and although I have tried almost everything to get cured, consulted the best physicians, and even going several times to Europe, everything was in vain.

"I did not have a night's rest for almost six years, that is to say, I could not sleep for two hours in succession in a single night; you can easily imagine what the effect on me had been.

"After spending a fortune in trying for relief I had given up almost all hope, and when I first read about Paine's celery compound I did not have much faith in anything. But after having used so many remedies and consulted so many physicians in this country and abroad I felt like giving the compound a trial. The result was truly wonderful.

"The very first night about six months ago that I tried Paine's celery compound you can imagine my joy when I found that I had slept six hours in succession, a thing I had not been blessed with for so many years. I continued th use for over three months with the same happy result, and although I was fearful lest the malady would come back on me, I can now say that although I have not taken the compound for months I do sleep every night peacefully and without interruption.

"You can easily imagine what this means for a man who works fourteen hours every day in the year and has charge of two large newspapers. I consider my case a most remarkable one and I should be glad if this statement should be the means of helping others who have suffered like I in the same untold agonies, and for this reason I give you full permission to make use of this statement in any way you choose."

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size, 50c. and $1.00.

Yes

The Time Has Arrived to Buy

Fall Underwear

AT PECK'S.

"Ever Ready" PREPARED

Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills, 24 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS.

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

Seasonable Goods That Will Interest Economical

SATURDAY BUYERS.

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. Any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good quality oil	9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can
Farrow's string beans	4½c can
Bear brand pettijohn	10c
Eli " "	10c
Best quality table salt	3c bag
Soda crackers, good quality	5c pound
Banner soap	2½c cake
B. T. Babbitt's best laundry soap at	4c cake
Magnolia brand condensed milk	8c can
Old Government Mocha or Java coffee, very fine	29c pound
Mixed tea, our regular 25c grade at	19c pound

Many other good things will be offered not mentioned here. It will pay you to come in and see.

Carpet Department.

Our line of new fall styles embrace the largest variety we have ever shown. Our prices the lowest, quality the best, and we guarantee entire satisfaction in our upholstery work. Don't fail to visit this department.

$1.79 Japanese rugs, 1 yard by 2 yards, best quality and good styles while they last at $1.79

$4.98 All-wool art rugs 2½x3 yards, large variety of patterns.

19C Jointless matting; our regular 25 quality, at 19c per yard; special.

49C All wool extra super ingrain carpets at 49c. Window shades, poles and trimmings in large variety, 19c and up.

Millinery Department.

Latest novelties in feather effects, wings and ornaments.
Sailors in black, navy, brown and red 39, 49 and 65c.
Misses' hats trimmed in Nacre ribbon and quills $2.98 and $3.98.
Paris and New York styles for fall and winter of 1895-96 displayed in our parlors.

DRESS GOODS.

29c—All-wool cheviot tweeds in two color blending new autumn colorings worth 40c a yard.

43c a yard—All-wool tweed suitings with an excellent combination of two colorings, a high grade fabric; actual value 50c a yard.

BLANKETS AND BED COMFORTERS.

65c a pair—10x4 white Empire wool British blankets, extra quality; worth 79c a pair.

$1.25—Large size comforters, white filling, well stitched; worth $1.50.

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered flat top trunk for $2.00. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Warren Engine Co., No. 1, of the borough, were out for a wash last night.

—Nineteen Plainfielders went on the West Point excursion of the Jersey Central this morning.

—At the meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps last evening one application for membership was received.

—Special at U. B. Crane's—boys knee pants from fifteen cents up; boys shirt-waist from fifteen cents up.

—The work of grading the grounds around John Leal's new home was commenced yesterday by J. Wierenga & Son.

—The strikes this fall are strikes like that Peck made when he put on sale four pairs of ladies fine black hose at $1.

—The eight-inch well being put in for the Electric Light Company had reached a depth of over 100 feet at noon today.

—The sewer pipes on Park avenue and West Front street are being tested and thus far no obstructions have been found.

—The seventy-third annual session of the Presbyterian Synod of this State will be held at New Brunswick on October 15th.

—Miss A. E. Lincoln will furnish the floral decoration for the Van-Buren-Rheinhart wedding at the Grace P. E. church.

—A valuable dog belonging to T. H. Keller, of East Front street, strayed away from home yesterday and has not yet been found.

—Big inducements are offered to economical buyers at the Commercial Palace tonight in a large variety of seasonable articles. See ad.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F. will meet on Monday evening, and it is expected that there will be one candidate to work in the first degree.

—Under the auspices of the First Baptist Christian Endeavor Society an illustrated lecture on missions will be given in the church Friday evening, October 25th.

—Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, will deliver an address before the Christian Endeavor Society of that church next Friday evening.

—Rev. William Woodruff, of Westfield, will preach in the Third Street Mission tomorrow evening at eight o'clock. His subject will be "The Spirit and the Bride."

—There is no denying that Edward Love keeps a fine lot of wall paper and does excellent decorating. His customers are enthusiastic in speaking a good word for him.

—J. T. Vail has completed a very satisfactory piece of work in laying the flag walk, with a graceful curve, around the Hanigon lot at the corner of Grove street and Craig place.

—The Boys Brigade of the First Baptist church will meet this evening in the Sunday-school of the church and all boys between the ages of ten and twenty-one are cordially invited.

—Mrs. Leland, Miss Ada Nash Mrs Cox, Mrs. Radin and Mrs. Doud, have been appointed to arrange for an entertainment for the Woman's Relief Corps, which will be held in the near future.

—In Justice Crossley's court this morning judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff in the case of George D. Morrison, administrator for estate of I. W. Rice, against J. W. VanHorn, for the sum of $110.

—A special service in honor of the Blessed Virgin will be held this evening in St. Joseph's R. C. church. The children will be dressed in white for the occasion. The mission at this church closes tomorrow evening.

—Evangelist William Richards, of Church street, will conduct a union service in the Warrenville M. E. church tomorrow evening. Mr. Richards received seven calls to preach but was only able to take care of one.

—Two cases on contract were tried before Justice Mattison yesterday. Plainfield Beef Company against W. E. Pangborn, plaintiff, secured judgment for $36 69; and the Plainfield Beef Company against J. Rowe, in which the plaintiff secured $60.66 judgment.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

SUNDAY SERVICES.

[Notices under this head are published by The Daily Press free of charge, when supplied fresh each week by authority. Copy must be in hand by 10 a. m. Saturday to insure insertion; and should be supplied Friday when possible.]

Wilson Memorial Chapel, Washingtonville—Preaching in the evening by the Rev. B. W. Hand.

Boys Meeting Y. M. C. A. Hall—A. D. French of Montclair will speak. His subject will be "Sticks."

Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest—Morning prayer and sermon, 11 a. m.; Sunday-school, 9:45.

Y. M. C. A. Building, 4:15 p. m.—Captain George D. Morrison will speak. There will be quartette and solo singing.

St. Joseph's (R. C.) Church—Rev. William. H. Miller, pastor. Masses at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 2:30; evening devotions, 8.

First Presbyterian Church — Charles E. Herring, pastor. Services 10:30, "The Church in Thyatmo;" 7:45, "Sabbath Desecration."

All Souls' Church, Park avenue—Service at 10:45 a. m. Rev. Hobart Clark, the pastor, will preach. Sunday-school at 11:45 o'clock a. m.

St. Mary's (R. C.) Church—Rev. P. E. Smyth, pastor. Masses at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 a. m.; evening devotions at 8. Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

Reform Hall, 4:00 p. m.—The Gospel temperance meeting will be addressed by Rev. A. A. Phelps, president of the new business college.

First Church of Christ, (Disciples of Christ)—Lord's Supper, 10:45 a.m.; Sunday-school, 3 p. m.; Christian Endeavor, 7 p. m.; preaching, 8 p. m.

Church of the Redeemer, Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone, rector.—Litany, sermon and celebration of the Holy Communion at 11:15; Sunday-school, 3 p. m.; evening prayer, 4:30.

Grace Church, Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector—Early Celebration of Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m.; litany, Holy Communion and sermon, 10:30 a. m.; children's service, 4 p. m.

Congregational Church, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor — Morning service, 10:30, sermon on the subject, "A Coat for a Sword." Sunday-school, 2:45 p. m., Christian Endeavor service, 7:30 p. m.

The Church of the Holy Cross, P. E., Rev. T. Logan Murphy, rector—Morning prayer, sermon, and celebration of the Holy Communion at 11 a. m. Sunday-school, 3:15 p.m. Afternoon service, 4:30.

St. Stephen's Church, Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector—Early celebration of Holy Communion, 7:30 a.m.; Sunday-school, 9:45 a.m.; Holy Communion and sermon, 11; evening prayer, 4:30. Free stages from railroad station at 10:30 a.m.

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, pastor—Preaching by the pastor at 10:30 a. m. on the subject "The Old Man," and at 7:45 p. m. on the subject "The New Man." Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.; Epworth League, 7 p. m.

Park Avenue Baptist Church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor — Morning theme, 10:30, "From Cross to Crown," followed by communion. Evening theme, 7:30, second sermon in series, "Between Death and the Coming of Christ." Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

Monroe Avenue M. E. Chapel, Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor—Preaching, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Morning sermon by Rev. A. H. Phelps. Sabbath-school, 3 p. m. Epworth League meeting, 7:30 p. m. Preaching by the pastor at 8. Subject, "Judas Iscariot."

Trinity Reformed Church—Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck. Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m. At 10:30 the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered, and in the evening the pastor's subject will be "The Christian's Choice."

First M. E. Church, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., pastor—10:30 a. m., reception of members and preaching by the pastor; 2:30 p. m., Sunday-school; 6:45 p. m., Epworth League meeting; 7:30 p. m., "Wesley" service of song, at which only hymns written by the Wesleys will be sung.

First Presbyterian Church music—Morning—Prelude, Priere, Decq; anthem, O, Lord, Thou Art My God, Buck; offertory in A major, Guilmant; postlude in D, Volkmar. Evening—Prelude, Allegretto, MacClymont. On the Coast, Buck; anthem, Lord of Our Life, Field; offertory, tenor solo, "If With All Your Hearts, Elijah, Mendelssohn, Wm. Tallamy; postlude, Et Resurrexit, Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Crescent Athletic Club are playing against the New York Y. M. C. A. eleven at Eastern Park this afternoon.

There is a strong feeling among the well informed men at Cambridge that a game will be arranged very soon between Harvard and Yale.

When practicing with the Leal's School team Thursday afternoon Herbert Moore fell and struck his knee against a stone and severely injured it so that Moore is now confined to the house with water on the knee. His injury will confine him to the house for several weeks and he will be unable to play with the team. His absence from the position of left half will be greatly felt.

The football enthusiasts exhibit great interest in the Crescent-Orange Athletic Club game this season. The Crescents now have Ohl and Colm of Cornell, King and Brown of Princeton, Pratt and Hasked of Amherst, several Harvard men, and some good material frem the neighboring teams. It has been said by an old Princeton player that Wheeler, Holly, and Trenchard of the Princeton team are expected to begin practice at Bay Ridge soon, preparatory to playing regularly with the Crescent team.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

Dunellen.

Howard Giles spent Thursday at the Trenton fair.

Mr. and Mrs Blackwell, of Maine, are visiting friends here.

Miss Libbie Smalley, of Plainfield, spent Thursday with friends in town.

Miss Fritz, of Peapack, who has been visiting in town, has returned home.

Miss Jahn, who has been visiting Mrs. Elias Milligan, has returned home.

The Board of Education will hold their business meeting next Tuesday night.

Miss Taylor, of Plainfield, spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. H. Huff of this place.

Mrs. Henry Vail, of Front street, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Humpston of Plainfield.

Mrs. Oakley, of New Brunswick, was the guest Thursday of her mother, Mrs. R. Swackhamer.

Miss S. White, who has been visiting friends on North avenue, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Garey, of Orange, for a few days.

Mrs. Joel Giddis, of Front street entertained Mrs. Edgar Giddis, of Springdale, on Thursday.

Among those that spent Thursday at Plainfield were Mrs. Tozeau, Miss Sallie Gray, Miss Cecelia Staats.

Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of Plainfield, spent Thursday with Mrs. VanMiddlesworth of Front street.

Mrs. Harry Swackhamer spent Friday with her aunt, Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of Liberty street, Plainfield.

Among the unclaimed letters in the Dunellen postoffice for the week ending October 1st are Mr. H. G. Morgan and Mr. M. Gallager.

An Expert Called.

A representative of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company was in North Plainfield yesterday making a thorough examination of the system with a view to ascertaining, if possible, just where the existing difficulty is, which persists in blowing the borough gong at all hours. He was, however, unable to find it, and he made another visit today.

MUNYON.

A Prominent Merchant Cured By His Improved Homoepathic Remedies.

A Severe Case of Catarrh of the Stomach That Baffled the Skill of Physicians Speedily Cured by the Munyon System.

Mr. Elwood Allen, the well-known lumber merchant at York and Richmond streets, says: "For the past 20 years I had suffered from catarrh of the stomach. At times I could not keep anything on my stomach; I was constantly nauseated, could not enjoy my food, and after meals would bloat up and my stomach would feel as if it were full of lead. I tried the best physicians in the city without benefit. Finally I consulted Munyon's specialists and within a short time was completely cured."

Positive Cures for All Diseases.

The Munyon Remedy Company prepare specifics for every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25c a vial.

Specially successful cures for nervous debility and all nervous diseases, and all specific blood and skin troubles, liver, kidney and bladder troubles, female weakness, diseases of the throat and lungs, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, piles and neuralgia quickly cured.

Those who are in doubt as to the nature of their disease should address Professor Munyon, 1505 Arch street, Philadelphia, giving full symptoms of their disease. Professor Munyon will carefully diagnose the case and give you the benefit of his advice absolutely free of all charge. The Remedies will be sent to any address on receipt of retail price.

"A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed."

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy. Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My son was afflicted with catarrh; I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one. J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will answer do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

PIANOS.

You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at

J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

MARRIED.

MASTERS—BETTS—At Grace Church, at high noon today by the Rev. E. M. Rodman D.D., Arthur Masters, son of the late Chas. Masters, of England, to Caroline Noble Betts, daughter of the late William Henry Betts.

DIED.

TILNEY—At the residence of his son-in-law, Wm. B. Wadsworth, on Saturday morning, Oct. 5, 1895, Joseph Tilney, in the 75th year of his age.
Notice of funeral hereafter.

LECTURE

BY MISS JANE M. SLOCUM,

Subject, "The Ethics of Citizenship."

IN Y. M. C. A. HALL,

Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 4 p.m.

Tickets 25c.

Bicycle and golf costumes exhibited before and after the lecture. 10 5 2

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,

—BEGINNING—

Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.

9 27-10 1 4 5 8 11 12 15.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—By an English person, a situation at general housework in a good private family. Address Miss Priscilla Negus, Bound Brook, N. J.

DRESSMAKER wants more engagements by day; terms reasonable. Dressmaker, care Press.

WANTED.—Cook, washer and ironer. 97 Mercer ave.

WANTED—By a family about to leave town, a situation for their coachman; a thoroughly reliable man. Address W. R. W., 922 Central avenue. 10 5 3

LOST—Thursday afternoon, light and tan colored shepherd dog; dark back; followed a carriage from the L. V. R. R. crossing at Samptown, near South Plainfield; also while passing the South Plainfield station; the carriage was accompanied by a lady on a bicycle. Information concerning the dog will be gladly received and rewarded at this office.

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

WANTED—A place for a colored girl as first-class laundress. Apply 220 Richmond st.

FOR RENT—Floor space and electric or steam power for manufactory. Climax Stopper Co., 4th and Washington sts. 10 5 3

WANTED—Two girls. 996 Central ave., cor. Randolph road.

FRESH Jersey cow for sale; imported stock, full pedigree, $75; also Jersey heifer calf, 7 months old; $20. Address Jersey, care Press. 10 4 2

BOY wanted, active and trustworthy state age and reference. Address Integrity, care Press. 10 4 2

FOR SALE—First-class grocery business, owing to death of owner. For particulars inquire of Geo. D. Morrison, agent, 48 Emily st., North Plainfield. 10 4 3

BOARDERS wanted; also table board. 10 Craig place. 10 4 3

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 1121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 5

LOST—Lady's silk waist on Craig place, Duer or Emily sts., North Plainfield. Reward on returning to Rice's store, 48 Emily st. 10 4 2

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

FOR SALE—Bargain, 26 school desks with combination seats of the best make. Call in the morning at 1045 Arlington ave. 9 30 6

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

ROOM to let, with or without board to a lady. Address 322 East 5th street. 9 26 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf eod

STORAGE, separate rooms, to let in Stillman block. 9 19 tf

FLATS and offices to let in Babcock block; steam heat; elevator service, etc. Wm. M. Stillman. 9 19 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

Our Business Grows

as it deserves to grow. Watch the crowds that come, listen to their talk. They all say the same—that it is the best store in town.

Don't You Think So?

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilbert ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch Imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 35c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c. 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 38 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats, you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts, made of fine serge, both black and blue, $2.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants, 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants, were 50c, now 37c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 55c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.

Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles 49c each.

English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannel and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices

U. B. CRANE Hatter and Furnisher

120 West Front Street.

Van Emburgh's & Son's

EXTRA SALE.

OF

Genuine Irish Linen Handkerchiefs, full size for gentlemen,

13c Each.

The value of these handkerchiefs we leave for you to decide.

CHILDREN'S

School Handkerchiefs, fancy border, 1c each. School Handkerchiefs, hemstitched, 2 for 3c.

VanEmburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular House

APPOSITE TEXTS.

SCRIPTURAL SELECTIONS TO FIT SPECIAL OCCASIONS.

They Do Not Always Harmonize, However. Business Men as Well as Clergymen Make Use of the Bible to Point a Moral. Several Pointed Illustrations.

Some clergymen have a peculiar knack of selecting apposite texts for almost every possible occasion, but the most amusing instances of appropriateness are just those undesigned coincidences which sometimes occur when the preacher's intentions are far enough away from any desire to raise a smile.

It is reported of the late Mr. Peter Esslemont, once an M. P. and subsequently chairman of the Scotch fishery board, that when he was appointed provost of Aberdeen he was expected to attend church with the other magistrates, in accordance with the usual custom. Something, however, occurred to detain him, and the congregation was much astonished, and, as may be supposed, not a little amused when the minister gave out as his text, "Now there was no small stir what was become of Peter."

A good story is told of the Rev. J. Bateman, rector of South church, who died not long ago at the advanced age of 91. He was a strong low church partisan, and, much to his displeasure, had a son who favored ritualistic practices. The son had often asked his father to occupy his pulpit, but the father refused for a long time. Ultimately he consented, and when he ascended the pulpit he gave out as his text, "Lord have mercy on my son, for he is a lunatic," and on this rather strong passage based a vigorous attack on his son's tendencies. The feelings of the son may be better imagined than described.

There is a certain vicar of whom it is told that, preaching at a recent cyclist church parade, he took for his text, "The spirit of the living creature is in the wheel." When in an East Yorkshire church a new stove was put in; next Sunday the text given, very appropriately no doubt, was: "Aha! I am warm; I have seen the fire." In the same church when the squire had given warm scarlet cloaks to a dozen poor old women, the clergyman selected as his text, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these," which was rather hard on the recipients of the charity.

The story told of the Rev. Dr. Howard, rector of St. George's, Southwark, and chaplain to Princess Augusta, has been frequently quoted, but will bear repetition in this connection. This gentle man was fond of good living and was continually in debt with many of the tradesmen in his parish. Specially for the benefit of his creditors, he one day preached from the text, "Have patience and I will pay you all," expatiating at great length on the virtues of patience, and finally wound up with the words, "I now come to the second part of my discourse, which is 'and I will pay you all,' but that I shall defer to a future occasion."

When the minister was struggling to put on a fourfold extra starched collar and the perspiration was starting from every pore, "Bless the collar," he muttered, "oh, yes, bless it! bless the blessed collar," to him entered his wife, who at this particularly opportune moment propounded the simple enough query, "My dear, what is your text for this morning's sermon?" To which the sorely tried parson replied, in short gasps: "T-Twenty-first v-verse, f-fifty-fifth Psalm. 'The w-words of his m-mouth were s-smoother than b-butter, but w-war w-was in his heart.'"

But not only as the pegs whereon sermons are hung are apposite texts used; they are also brought forward in other connections, of which many instances might be given. When Dr. Pierson was requested to take charge of the Metropolitan Tabernacle some time ago, he communicated his acceptance in a manner both unique and economical. His cablegram ran as follows: "Philemon 22. Pierson," and the text in question reads, "But withal prepare me also a lodging, for I trust that through your prayers I shall be given unto you," the code being thus manifestly a very efficient one.

Texts may be and frequently are wrested very far from their proper use. As an example, take the case of the church going merchant who found that one of his collectors had fraudulently retained some of the money. To the merchant's indignant inquiry as to the meaning of his disgraceful action the bold offender replied that it was the result of his following the injunction of the Bible. Astonished beyond measure, the merchant asked, "What injunction is that?" receiving the reply, "That which reads, 'Hold fast that which is good.' Money is a good thing to hold on to, isn't it?"

Far better was the Glasgow policeman's remark when asked for his views on the subject of police pensions. He said that Burns, when an exciseman, had put them exactly in his famous toast, "Here's to the last verse of the last chapter of the last book of Kings." Nothing more would he say, and his querist on reaching home turned up his Bible and found the passage ran as follows: "And his allowance was a continual allowance given him of the king, a daily rate for every day, all the days of his life."

Early in the century there was a sect of religionists known as the "Ranters." One of the sect, a Newcastle baker, had a tall, strong young man as one of his apprentices. One day the master, displeased with something he had done, laid hold of him and gave him an angry blow with his clinched fist, accompanying the chastisement with the text, "If a man smite thee on the one cheek, turn unto him the other also." But the apprentice, equally versed in Scripture, replying, "With what measure ye mete it shall be measured unto you again," knocked his master down.

A tradesman once defended his habit of charging higher prices to the well to do by quoting the apostolic words, "Charge them that are rich," while an American firm got into trouble by sending out bills to debtors of long standing in black bordered envelopes, bearing in small type in one corner these three texts: "Let us walk honestly," "Owe no man anything," "Many days and years shall ye be troubled," this novel procedure being manifestly an infringement of the law forbidding requests for payment of debts to be sent in envelopes bearing outward evidence of the contents.—Household Words.

Hasheesh.

Hasheesh, or the Indian hemp, is a resinous substance produced from the tops of the plant in India. Some authorities state that it is gathered by men who dress themselves in leather clothing and run to and fro in the hemp fields, afterward scraping off the resin from their garments, while other authorities say that it is gathered by rubbing the tops in the hands and afterward scraping the hands. Its properties are well known.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Beautiful Bicycles

You see them everywhere.

MODEL 40 COLUMBIA

PATTERN 1 HARTFORD

Columbias—They almost fly.

Bicycle beauty comes from graceful lines and fine finish, in which points Columbia bicycles excel. But there is more than mere looks to recommend a Columbia. Back of the handsome design and elegant finish is a sterling quality that over the roughest road and the longest journey will carry the rider with safety and satisfaction.

Buy a Columbia or a HARTFORD.

BRANCH STORES: Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Providence, Buffalo.

Send two 2-cent Stamps for a Columbia Catalogue; free if you call at a Columbia Agency.

The Eldridge Cycle Co. Park ave. and 4th st

Easy payments; old wheels taken in exchange; wheels to hire; fine repairing.

Educational.

PLAINFIELD
BUSINESS COLLEGE

Babcock Building. Largest room; elevator. A great need to be supplied. Four regular courses—Commercial, Shorthand, Penmanship, English Branches. Everything first-class; 5 days and 4 nights a week. Public opening evening of Sept. 30; school begins Oct. 1. Address Rev. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J. 9 11 m

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,
PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE,
TEACHER OF
PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson

will re-open classes in

Physical Culture & Rendering

OCTOBER 1, 1895.

Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,
25 WASHINGTON AVENUE,
North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Rockview Home and Day School

REOPENS SEPT. 18.

Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.

THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 30, 1895.

Austin Annie B	Lee James
Anderson Archer	McKibben Mrs Alice
Allen James	Miller R W 3
Ashley Mrs L I	Miller W H
Brown Charlotte M	Mulligan Ellen
Brown Miss	Moran J M
Butsche Geo	McLaughlin Laura
Brown Mrs Annie	Mills Mrs F H
Bunner Mrs	Nathan Miss C 3
Chambers A	Osborn Mary
Campbell Fannie	O'Brien Lizzie
Cline John	Pugh Annie 2
Emery W H	Parker Edward 2
Gadling Jno J	Porteous J S
Gyllenberg Lotten	Rodriguez Mercedes
Giles H J	Tienan Mrs E
Godfrey D F	Voss Annie
Jennings Mrs L S	Vial Gus 2
Jones Miss S	Wigg C
Kelly Jacob 3	Wood Miss Maggie
	Watson Mike A

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name,

Take Our Number,

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)
94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 36, 10 59 a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 13, 3 51, 4 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sundays 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 6 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45 a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sundays 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 30 p m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 [illegible] 6 59, 7 30, 8 03, 8 38, 9 22, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 36, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 [illegible] a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, [illegible] m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, [illegible] 35, 8 39, 9 03, 10 [illegible] 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 05, 9 30, 11 [illegible] m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 8 25, 10 20 p m. Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 [illegible] 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 3[illegible] 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 23, p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 4 33, 5 14, 6 35, 10 1[illegible] 1 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 4[illegible] 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 2[illegible] 25, 4 59, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, 11 05 p m. Sunday at [illegible] 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 30, 6 45, 8 03, 8 0[illegible] 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 3 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 2[illegible] m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 4[illegible] 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 [illegible] a m; 6 40, 7 30 p m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 54 a. m; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 [illegible] a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 [illegible] p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

7 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 [illegible] m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 [illegible] m.—For Flemington.

6 [illegible] m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

8 [illegible] m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 [illegible] m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 [illegible] p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading and Harrisburg.

6 [illegible] m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 00, 10 27, a m., 1 18, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a m; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 3 37, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m., 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, 12 44 a. m; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 [illegible], 9 37*, 10 53 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 8 15, 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 34* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45 8 44, 9 46, a. m., 12 46, 2 17, 5 34, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a m., 4 55, 5 14, 6 35*. p. m., 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m, 3 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 3 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. [illegible] OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced management.

Cesspools Built.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

Waverley Fair.

As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED,

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry.
Curly birch chamber suit
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit.
Antique oak hat rack.

All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 55c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.

Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best building, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.

S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y. 917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

GEO J. TOBIN,

187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,

Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system. Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,

Undertaker and Embalmer,

59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J. Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,

Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.

STAGES

For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale

AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,

High-Class

PORTRAITS

In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.

483 Lexington ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8924, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,

COUNSELOR AT LAW.

Supreme Court Commissioner.

First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's

LAW OFFICES,

Corner Park ave and 2d st.

Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Even though you have

A Comfortable Bed,

You should

Lay in Your Coal

for the Winter.

George O. Stevens

747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager. 104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,

Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.

128 NORTH AVENUE,

Fresh roasted peanuts every day. 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,

Dealer in COAL AND WOOD.

Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.

MRS. L. ADAMS,

114 EAST FRONT STREET,

Opp. First National Bank. Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,

Fresh, and from

Pure Materials.

TIER'S,

116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY thinness

The diseases of thinness are scrofula in children, consumption in grown people, poverty of blood in either. They thrive on leanness. Fat is the best means of overcoming them. Everybody knows cod-liver oil makes the healthiest fat.

In Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil the taste is hidden, the oil is digested, it is ready to make fat.

When you ask for Scott's Emulsion and your druggist gives you a package in a salmon-colored wrapper with the picture of the man and fish on it—you can trust that man!

50 cents and $1.00

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York

LOOK IN THE CLOSET

SEE if you can't find some old clothes that you have put aside because of the worn-out look they have, or some clothes that are badly spotted.

We want you to bring any old clothes of that sort to us—or better yet—we'll send for them.

We propose to clean those clothes—or to dye them for you—either way to make them wearable. This is an economical suggestion.

We take out grease spots so they stay out, or we dye clothes with a color that wears. We charge as little as possible for the work.

Just a dollar or two—and you'll have a lot of new clothes.

HILLIER & CO.,

179 North Ave.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No bad fall alue C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 67—F.

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.

—BRANCH—

OLYMPIA HALL,

416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. E. LeRoy Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., No. 8 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J., beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes every Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 10 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms—For term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons mornings, any hour, by appointment. 9 5 m

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W. RANDOLPH'S,

Prescription Druggist, 143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895, by Bachelle, Johnson & Bachelle.)

CHAPTER III.—CONTINUED.

A mob instantly filled the street before the building and a scene of indescribable tumult and excitement ensued. Policemen came running, ambulances were rung for, rumors flew about that many were crushed in the cellar. In the midst of it all, a clear, calm voice, above the heads of the surging, vociferous crowd, called, "Out of the way, please," and looking up they saw just over them John Burroughs, who had slid down a dangling rope, with one coil of it as a brake on his leg, as trapeze performers descend in a circus. They made way for him, and he, alighting, pushed through to the Superintendent and reported placidly:

"It is number 297 D, that is wanted."

IV.

When John Burroughs realized that he was, temporarily at least, a poor man, he resolved to learn something practical, by which he could not only support himself with a feeling of independence, but even rise in the world through his own exertions. He had a good college education, but that was worth little in the battle of life, except as mental training for learning things of real use. The "learned professions"—refuges for the lazy and incompetent genteel—did not tempt him; he had neither liking nor capital for mercantile speculation. A "trade" presented itself to his mind as the desirable thing, some good sort of honest skilled labor productive of something useful to humanity and likely to be in permanent demand. And of all the trades that even the census-takers have found out, none suited him so well as iron-working, particularly that branch of it now so important in our large cities, the construction of buildings. To this he resolved to devote himself.

Believing in "knowing from the ground up" anything he sought to learn, he commenced his new career as a day laborer in the foundry of the great "Vulcan Works," wheeling sand and cleaning castings. At the same time, with an eye to some day becoming an employer, he deemed this an opportune time for acquiring thorough knowledge of the class of toilers among whom he had cast his lot, and to this end went to live in a mechanics' boarding-house. Men could not expect much of the comforts of life for $5 per week, the rate paid there, but would have been justified in disappointment at what was actually afforded in that establishment. Its only abundances were dirt and foul air.

Within a fortnight, his quick observation and alert intelligence made him a valuable "helper," and in a little time more he had so far mastered the details of iron-founding, as practiced in that foundry, that though still only ranking and paid as a laborer, he was really doing the work of a skilled moulder. He had been at this a couple of months, when one day he electrified the foreman by calling his attention to the inferior quality of a new lot of "pigs," the first melting from which had just been made. Clearly and with technical accuracy he stated the defective chemical composition of the iron, by reason of which castings made from it would fail at least ten per cent below the minimum of strength they should possess. Not another among the thirty moulders of the foundry, all supposably skillful men, had, or could have, made that discovery, the correctness of which was readily proved. When asked how he, a laborer, came to know so much about iron, he modestly replied that he had "picked up a little about it in college."

That incident gave him a new standing, for not only the foreman but his employers—to whom it was duly reported—were grateful and appreciative. Learning that he wished to gain a knowledge of the iron business in all its departments, they encouraged and in a short time aided him, by a transfer to the rolling-mill, where he speedily learned the making of steel girders, beams, etc. Then an incident, needless to relate but fortuitous as that which gave him distinction in the foundry, brought out the fact that he was a good mechanical draughtsman, with evidences of taste as a designer, and he was promoted to the "drawing" room. Here he remained until, in an emergency, he was called upon to essay the duties of assistant foreman in the actual construction of a great steel frame building, and that was the point he had reached when Constance Dessine found him.

All this progress he had achieved in one year, so he had certainly done well with the industrial half of his problem; but as much could not be said for the social half of it. He did not get along well at the mechanics' boarding-house. In vain he tried to adopt the manners and habits of his fellow-boarders, at least far enough to put from their minds the sense of separation between him and them. He could not, even by effort, be as dirty in mind, speech and person as some of them were with natural ease. And he could not help thinking logically and using his brain when he talked, which caused others of them to view him with suspicion. Insensibly he grew to realize that he was surrounded by an atmosphere of distrust, antagonism and even malice, the inspiring force of which was a man known as Herr Janovics.

CONSTANCE.

If Janovics did any work it was in some nocturnal industry he did not care to avow, but he always had money to pay his board and buy beer. His days were spent in sleep; his evenings in frenzied denunciation of the "blood-sucking capitalists"; jeremiads over "down-trodden labor," and fiery advocacy of "the communistic distribution of wealth." When his fellow-boarders went to bed, he sauntered out. Several times John Burroughs had amused himself by worsting the fellow in debate, for which, of course, Janovics hated him bitterly and did all possible to prejudice the minds of the others against him, denouncing him, in his absence, as a "capitalistic spy" and "traitor to the rights of man."

His malignant influence made itself felt. Again and again heavy weights "accidentally" dropped out of the smoky darkness of the foundry roof came near to crushing Jack's skull; once a hoisting winch, under an enormous strain, was turned loose by the treacherous release of a pawl, and only by a half-inch missed breaking his back; and, finally, two of the sturdiest ruffians in the gang of his enemies picked a quarrel with him, intending to give him a merciless beating, which resulted in their being taken to a hospital for repairs. But none of these things swerved John Burroughs from his course, or even gave him a thought of fear.

V.

Assistant Foreman Burroughs, while busy with his work on an upper floor of the great steel cage, the second day after the accident, was startled by hearing, in a cheery and familiar voice, the hail, "Halloa! Jack!" and to see, mounting from the end of a ladder, his former chum, Ross Thorpe. "How in the world did you ever come to find me here?" he exclaimed.

Ross had but little breath left, after his unwonted exertions, but found enough to gasp the reply: "Constance saw you, and told Amy, who told me. Ouf! What a climb! Could I see the moon by looking down over the edge, at this time of day?"

"Constance! Who is Constance?"

"Ah! I forgot. You don't know her. But she saw you that day, on the grand stand, and has remembered you ever since. Queer, isn't it, that a girl should recollect a fellow like that? But never mind about her now. Give me an account of yourself. Where have you been? and what have you done? and why did you do it?"

HERR JANOVICS.

"I can't tell you now, Ross; for my time is not my own until six o'clock. But come to my room this evening and I'll tell you everything."

Ross took the address of the lodgings to which Jack had recently moved, his old quarters having finally become unbearable, and the two friends parted.

Their interview in the evening was long and pleasant. Ross, notwithstanding a rooted antipathy to exertion, was quite honest in his expression of hearty admiration for Jack's pluck, energy and endurance. And he noted with satisfaction that a year of arduous toil had left few marks on his friend. Jack looked more powerful than formerly—and he never was a weakling—his face had grown graver and more earnest than it used to be, which made him seem a little older than he was, but in the main, when out of his working clothes he "looked the same old Jack."

"But," remonstrated Ross, when he had heard Jack's story, "even if you persist in sticking to the life, I should think you'd want to get away from a gang of Yahoos who put up jobs to maim and kill you. Why don't you get work some other place?"

"Nothing would induce me to change. It is part of my education. The men are not all bad. Only a few of them, in fact, have been infected by that mad dog Janovics."

"Couldn't you have him arrested?"

"No. He is shrewd enough to have others do the mischief he plans. It is easy to suspect but hard to convict rascals of his kind."

"They'll get you yet."

"I think not. Our work on this big building is nearly done. When it is finished and I go back to the works, I may be put in some other department and perhaps see no more of them than I do now. But I shall be on my guard anyway, and that's all that is necessary."

Jack's anticipation of speedy return to the works was realized more quickly than he had expected, for the very next day he was summoned to assume the position, temporarily at least, of foreman of the foundry. The old foreman, who first recognized Jack's ability, had been dead six months and his successor was his former assistant, a rough, ignorant fellow, who drank, had no authority among the men and neglected his duties. It was his fault that the irregular beam "297 D" was not at the building when wanted, and that another was erroneously marked for it. That filled the measure of his offences. He was discharged and Burroughs ordered to take his place.

The moulders rebelled. It exasperated them to think that one they remembered as a casting-cleaner when they were already moulders, should in little over a year have risen above them. His superior ability, which they could not but recognize, only embittered them. Then, too, some of them liked the former foreman, with whom they used to get drunk, and thought it loyalty to him to antagonize his successor. Herr Janovics learned of the promotion and did his best to fan the flames of discontent.

"So," he said tauntingly, "the sand-wheeler is your master now and can order you around. Do you know why? Because of his cunning, sneaking, under-handed ways of serving the bosses." The men knew that was a lie, but preferred it to the truth, because it flattered their self-esteem. "I told you when he [illegible] Janovics went on, "that he was the [illegible] and [illegible] of the bosses. Now [illegible] will say I was not right; that I didn't smell him out? Take warning! They plan some new invasion of your rights! new chains for their trampled slaves, and he, their willing, is ready to do their dirty work. Will you endure it? Will you be his obedient dogs? Or will you be his judges?

"I'll break his jaw to-morrow, be the mortal gob, I will," growled a moulder named Kennedy, a big, enormously powerful fellow who had quite a reputation as a fighter, was indeed known as "the Foundry Terror."

"Kennedy can; if any man can, he can," piped One-eyed Finn, a little old man who was hardly on the outskirts of Janovics' followers, "but if he tries it at the shop, it'll have to be a fair fight. For their own sake it the byes'll stand no hittin' else there."

"That's all I want," vaunted Kennedy; "and if [illegible] ain't man enough to do him, I'll never take another drink."

"Long That's a bowld sayin'," proclaimed One-eyed Finn.

The fight was forced on Jack the next morning, and he was nothing loth to accept the issue. It was fair. Although the men were, one and all, hopeful that the foreman would be whipped, they were determined that the best man should win in a shop fight, so they formed a ring and allowed no interference. Kennedy was ferocious, browner than Jack and had longer reach, with some "science," but was no match for the cool, skillful boxer who had been the best amateur middle-weight in the Manhattan Athletic Club. "The Foundry Terror" was badly whipped and did not succeed even inflicting a bruise upon the man he had sworn to "do."

A "strike" was threatened, but Jack was as ready for that as for the fight. "Strike if you like," he told the men, "I don't believe the Moulders' Union will sustain you; but if it should, I will fill your places with picked green men, who, under my direction, will learn to do in two weeks all required on such straight jobs as the shop is full of now. And not a man who goes now will ever return while I am here."

There was no "strike," no more open revolt, but the men continued sullen, and, at Janovics' instigation, a diabolical project took shape secretly among his reckless and naturally criminal tools. Preparations were making for the casting of an enormous bed-plate, with very heavy reinforcements and deep lug-like projections from the nether surface, a mass that would weigh several tons. Both halves of its huge mould were made and baked with extreme care and Jack neglected no preparation necessary to success. While the upper half was being slowly and cautiously lowered into place, he went, for a moment, to the back, to ascertain if the metal was ready to run. When he returned the men were clamping the frames of the mould. This and the last stoppings, channelings and vent-rings were all speedily done, and the foreman shouted to the furnace-tender, "Let it come!" Engrossed as he was with the work, he did not notice that the four men who stood near him, by the mould, when he gave that order, suddenly disappeared, leaving him alone.

A river of white molten metal spurted out from the furnace and coursed swiftly along its channel toward him. Gold and crimson sparks flew from it and when it plunged into the mould, gas flames, green and blue, darted from the vents. The inflow continued several seconds, in a stillness that made the low hiss and crackle of the fiery current seem loud. Then came a terrific explosion and the air was full of fragments of the mould, blinding steam and flying masses of molten metal, white and dull red. Following close upon the awful roar were the crashes of heavy objects falling, the angry hiss of water turning to steam, the agonized screams of victims and the excited cries of men fleeing from the catastrophe. And all was in darkness save the glow of liquid metal spreading in slender streams and shallow pools over the irregular earthen floor.

Some one threw open the big double doors, letting the steam out and the daylight in. Surely John Burroughs bore a charmed life, for he still stood, unharmed, in his place by the remnants of the mould. But two men had been mortally injured. The back of one was broken, and the other had been horribly burned by a mass of semi-liquid iron that had struck and moulded itself upon him. Realizing that they were about to die they confessed having themselves caused the explosion, in the hope of killing the foreman. They had, when his back was turned, poured a pail of water in the mould, before it was closed. The other two men working with them were accomplices, and Herr Janovics had been the instigator of the diabolical deed.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON, Collector of Taxes.

Date, Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

FRANK B. CONVERSE SOLID ARM BANJO

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

HOPE CHAPEL LEAGUE BUSY.

Several Important Things on Tap For the Winter.

The most important meeting of the year for the Young Men's League of Hope chapel, will be held Monday evening. A final report will be made by the entertainment committee, while the prizes in the last field games will be awarded. The coming Thanksgiving Day games will also be discussed and the events arranged. The prizes are to be given by George First brook, but only the members who have paid up their dues in full will be allowed to enter.

There will not be prizes in each event but to the man scoring the most points in the bicycle races a first prize will be given and to the next a second prize. The same system will be used in the runs and in the jumping events.

Another very important matter that will be brought before the club will be a scheme to raise funds for a new bowling alley. The plan is to purchase five shares in the Building and Loan Association and, in this way, save sufficient money to build the new alleys.

ROBERT D. TILNEY DEAD.

The Demise Occurred at the Home of His Son-in-Law This Morning.

Robert B. Tilney died this morning at the home of his son-in-law, W. B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street. Mr. Tilney was born in Manchester, England, on Nov. 20th, 1820. He came to Canada with his parents and there married Janet Fingland in 1843. He was engaged in business in Cincinnati for a number of years and then removed to Brooklyn, where he was a member of Beecher's church. In 1872 he retired from business and resided in Brooklyn with his wife until her death in 1887, after which he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Wadsworth. Besides Mrs. Wadsworth he has two children living, R. F. Tilney, of Brooklyn, and A. A. Tilney, of Boston. He died from general debility, and passed away very quietly.

THEATRICAL.

Frederick Warde achieved his present high position as a foremost exponent of classic roles by hard and persistent work. He is yet a young man, as age is counted when fame is being won, having been born in England in 1851. He was intended by his parents for the bar, and was, as a boy, articled to a firm of London barristers, but his inclinations were always towards the stage, and at an early age he adopted the theatrical profession in a most modest way and in a very minor capacity. He advanced quickly and at the age of nineteen was considered the best leading juvenile man in England, and was playing Romeo and similar roles in support of the celebrated Adelaide Neilson. In 1874, he came to New York under engagement as leading man of Booth's Theatre in the company with which John McCullough, Katherine Rogers and other well known artists were connected. The current season he is making a specialty of D'Ennery's romantic drama, "The Mountebank," and is announced to appear at Music Hall this evening.

In Honor of His Seventieth Birthday.

Friends from New York, Brooklyn and all the neighboring towns will gather tonight at the home of Felix T. Lincoln, of Arlington avenue, to celebrate his seventieth birthday. Mr. Lincoln is well known in Plainfield as a hatter.

A Farewell Smoker.

The C. Y. M. L. will go out of existance on Tuesday night in a blaze of glory. A fine smoker is to be given to the members and an entertaining programme will be provided. The reason for the disbandment is to allow the new club to be organized.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearson evangelists, will address the meeting of the Christian Alliance Oct. 8th. at 7:30 p. m., at 317 East Front street. All are invited.

Report of the Condition
OF
The City National Bank,

At Plainfield, in the State of New Jersey, at the close of business,

SEPTEMBER 28, 1895.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$358,691 62
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		344 77
U. S. bonds to secure circulation		40,000 00
Stocks, securities, etc		71,245 00
Banking house, furniture & fixtures		41,500 00
Due from National banks (not reserve agents)		5,079 24
Due from State banks and bankers		29,474 45
Due from approved reserve agents		85,308 48
Checks and other cash items		1,577 99
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		160 87
Lawful money reserve in bank, viz.
Specie	$21 195 00
Legal-tender notes	7 918 00	29,113 00
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)		1,800 00
Due from U. S. Treasurer, other than 5 per cent redemption fund		880 00
Total		$665,175 42

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$150,000 00
Surplus fund	30,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	25,928 22
National Bank notes outstanding	36,000 00
Due to other National Banks	30,573 86
Due to State banks and bankers	5,382 83
Dividends unpaid	566 00
Individual deposits subject to check	375,939 18
Demand certificates of deposit	10,400 65
Certified checks	390 68
Total	$665,175 42

State of New Jersey, County of Union, ss:

I, William F. Arnold, cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

W. F. ARNOLD, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3d day of October, 1895.

J. C. Pope, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
E. R. POPE,
CHARLES HYDE,
JAS. T. CLOSSON,
Directors.

THE LITTLE ONES.

Give Your Children Dr. Greene's Nervura to Cure Them.

Children Suffer From Weak Nerves and Enfeebled Bodies---Dr. Greene's Nervura Makes Them Strong and Well.

BABY KENNETH OLIN.

The child holds a place in the family, in the hearts and minds of parents, which nothing else can fill. How natural it is, therefore, that parents' first thought is for the health and well-being of their children. It is acutest torture to see a sick child suffering; It is keenest happiness to see it get well and strong.

One can thus readily understand the joyous feelings and enthusiasm which inspired the following letter from Mr. J. W. Olin, of Perry, N. Y. Mr. Olin is a popular and widely known photographer, and his story of the restoration of his little one to health will be read by all parents with deepest interest.

"I enclose a picture of our baby, Kenneth. He is twenty-three months old, and was so nervous that he did not know what a night's rest was. He would scarcely eat anything. We gave him one bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and now I think all will agree with us by the looks of his picture, that we cannot say enough in praise of this wonderful medicine.

"Before we tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy we were up nights with baby until I would have given any reasonable amount of money for just what one bottle of Nervura did for him."

Parents, your children can be cured just as well as was little Kenneth Olin. It is a fact, established beyond question, that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the best children's remedy in the world. It always makes the little ones strong and well.

It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless to give to nervous infants or children of any age, and is recommended and advised by physicians because it is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York city, the most successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, and who can be consulted free in all cases, personally or by letter.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM,

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.

9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

James E. Baily,

97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Trucking of all Kinds Done.

Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.

Satisfaction guaranteed

New! New!

YES

But Stop, Consider

what a combination of valuable medicines,

Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,

BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.

Try a bottle and be convinced.

50C.

Leggett's Pharmacy.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's

School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.
At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.
At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.
At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.
At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.
At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.
At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.
At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?
Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.
At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.
At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,

140 West Front Street.

Stone for Flagging

of a superior quality and finish and at a moderate price. Apply to

J. C. DYER,

218 West Front Street

JUST A MINUTE

OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,

206 West Front st.

MISS BIGLOW

will resume instruction to pupils on the piano on Monday, Sept. 23, at 130 West 4th st, corner Arlington avenue. 9 19 3

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

FINE STATIONERY

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for 85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, in tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire 18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder ..... Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge ..... Resident Manager.

Saturday, Oct. 5.

Mr. Frederick

WARDE,

and his distinguished company, in a superb production of D' Ennery's celebrated drama,

THE Mountebank!

The entire scenery and stage mountings prepared specially for the production.

Prices—$1.50, $1, 75c, 50c and 35c.

Watch This Space.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c; 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS,

229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON

107 Park avenue.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,

88 FIFTH AVE.,

near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., MONDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

BROKE INTO THE ROOKERY.

A DEMENTED INDIVIDUAL SELECTS THE FLOOR FOR A BED.

A Varied Assortment of Humanity Line Up in City Court—Disorderly Italian House Pulled—Fought for Liberty

Tattooers, jail breakers, Italians and drunks made the city court a lively place this morning and it took Judge Coddington over an hour to dispense justice to those who were there to receive it. Harry Panabaker, of Illinois, and George Carter, of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, were the first to appear. They were both young fellows and had come east with a traveling circus to be thrown on their own resources in New York. Officer McCue found them sitting on the railroad bank near Berckman street. He charged them with vagrancy and their appearance certainly was in keeping with the charge.

"We were trespassing," said Panabaker, "but we're not vagrants. We've got money."

"A very little, though," protested his Ohio companion.

"Thirty days in the county jail," said the Judge, and the dilapidated show followers were led back to their cells. They left behind them, however, a book with designs for tattooing in which art they are quite expert. The designs were very amusing and ranged from an anchor to a very elaborate Tammany tiger, which they charged $20 to tattoo on the arm or breast of their customers.

Four Italians were next brought in by Officers Mattox and Flynn, charged with desecrating the Sabbath. Three of them were found at the home of James Martoni on Lake street, near Hillside avenue, dancing, singing and having a good time generally. The fourth was Martoni himself, brought in on the charge of keeping a disorderly house. Mike Paschal and Nicholas Martoni were two of the gay party and a man with an unpronouncable name, which the Judge called "Billy Williams" for short, was the third. When the officers raided the den they met a lively resistance. Martoni, the proprietor of the place, was willing to come but the rest objected. "Billy Williams" wanted to fight, and it took four of his friends to hold him down. When he reached the jail he had cooled off and was talking about the "nice policemen." Williams and Paschal were both drunk but young Martoni, son of the owner of the den, declared that he was not.

"I don't drink," said he, with a grin from ear to ear.

"Did you hear any cursing and swearing?" asked the Judge of Officer Flynn.

"No," replied that officer, with a smile, "for I don't understand them when they do."

Two of the men are employed by Honan & Sons and a representative of that company was there to look after their interests. Walter L. Hetfield acted as counsel for the Italians and pleaded not guilty for all four. Trial was set down for Friday morning at ten o'clock, and the first three men were held in $25 bail to appear at that time. Martoni was held in $50 bail.

It is a rather new thing for a man to break into jail instead of breaking out, but last evening when Officer Saunders came into the station house he found a man fast asleep on the floor.

The moment he entered the court room it was easy to see that all was not right with his brain. There was an undefinable look about him that excited the pity of all in the court.

"I hope you'll let me go, Judge, it's my first offense and I'm on my way home," he glibly remarked, and smiled a silly smile at Captain Grant.

"I'll go back home and stay there and not slip away again," he murmured.

The usual examination elicted the fact that his name was Joseph Wood and that he belonged at Carline Springs, Va., and that he came to New York to get work. "Were you ever in a lunatic asylum," asked the Judge.

"No," was the reply, "But I ought to be there. There's a nice one at Vineland for feeble minded people. I'd like to be committed there, please. Won't you please send me there?" he pleaded.

His language was good and although his dress was poor and ragged he showed that his early education had been good.

"What have you been doing in New York?" he was asked.

"Just a—nothing. People see there is something the matter with me and won't give me any work. I've been in this condition for three or four years," and again that silly smile played over his face. "Night before last I stayed at the jail in Elizabeth."

Here Sergeant Kiely suggested that he spend tonight at the Somerville lockup. When inquiry was made about his stay in New York, he said: "I stayed in New York five days and slept in the station houses there. I got food at the missions and I wish you would commit me to the Vineland asylum."

"Do you drink?" asked one of the interested listeners.

"Oh no, I don't drink!" was the reply.

Upon promising to leave town at once, the Judge allowed him to depart.

"Are you hungry?" asked one of the audience as he passed out.

"Yes kind of, I haven't had anything today," and then a silver coin changed hands and the jail breaker passed out into the open air still smiling in his simple way.

"Too bad" from the Judge voiced the sentiments of all. "There should be provision made for such as he."

Jim Emmons was found at drunk by Officer McCue and was given his choice between a fine of $10 or thirty days at Elizabeth.

Wallace H. Coriell was brought in on the complaint of his wife for nonsupport. He pleaded not guilty and and said his wife would not live with him. His trial was set down for five o'clock this afternoon. Sergeant Kiely had quite a time arresting him as Coriell wanted to fight.

A VICTIM OF ROBBERIES

A New Providence Grocery Store Looted Twice in a Few Days.

S. C. Percell, a prominent grocer of New Providence, has of late been the victim of robbers that have spared no pains in relieving him of many valuable things.

On account of the distance between New Providence and New York, Mr. Percell usually carries a heavy stock, saving him the trouble of going to New York frequently. On the nights of September 4th and 5th some person or persons entered his store by a rear window and stole a considerable amount of clothing and dry goods. Mr. Percell did not say much about it, thinking he could capture the guilty ones, but he failed to get any clue and the matter was dropped.

A few nights ago the store was again visited by robbers, and an entrance was effected the same way. When Mr. Percell opened his store the next morning he discovered that clothing, dry goods, groceries and all his cigars were taken, amounting to about $50. He has not the slightest idea who the robbers are and is much perplexed over the matter. However, he went to Summit and placed his case in the hands of United States Detective Kelly, who will leave no stone unturned to find the thieves.

A Mistake Corrected.

There has been an impression abroad in Plainfield that only members of Christian Endeavor societies had the privilege of the reduced rates by the Plainfield '96 special train to the State Convention at Atlantic City. This impression is erroneous; anyone wishing to attend the convention can have the benefit of the train by paying the reduced fare, $6.50, which includes board during the convention. The train leaves Plainfield at 12:53 Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 9th, returning leaves Atlantic City the following Saturday morning at eight o'clock.

Plainfield's Banjo Talent Enlisted.

Preparations are now being made for a large entertainment to be held in Somerset Hall, at Somerville, on October 31st. There is to be a large number of banjo players gathered from the surrounding towns of which Fred VanEps, Henry Piker, Will Cook and Will Force are from Plainfield. The Metropolitan Male Quartette and the Dore Banjo Quartette, of New York, are both engaged and the programme promises to be very attractive one.

No Caucus Held.

There was not enough Republicans present at Demler's Hotel Saturday evening to hold their township primary. It is thought, however, that George Bullman will be appointed a delegate today to represent the township.

Funeral of Joseph Tilnay.

The funeral service over the remains of the late Joseph Tilney will be held at the home of his son in-law, William B. Wadsworth, 452 West Eighth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

KILLED IN A SUNDAY BRAWL.

MURDER NUMBER TWO AT THE WESTFIELD ITALIAN SHANTY.

Raphael Vendros, of the Plainfield Gang of Sewer Diggers, Shoots Dominic Celli Through the Head—He Got Away.

Raphael Vendros, an Itanian padrone, shot Dominic Celli yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in a boarding house in Westfield. Celli died at 7:35. The boarders are all employed in the construction of Westfield's big sewer system. The original boarding house was burned a short time ago. A new one erected in its place was completed three days ago. Vendros had charge of a large gang of Italians employed in this city on the sewers. His employer had erected the new building, and yesterday afternoon Vendros went to Westfield to inspect it. After looking over the building he went into the bar-room with a half dozen of the laborers. Celli was behind the bar. For over two hours the men played cards and drank beer, Celli serving the drinks. Then Vendros went to the bar to settle his account.

He stood talking to Celli for some minutes, and then the two began to quarrel about the change. Finally Celli ordered Vendros out of the place and started to go from behind the bar to enforce his order. Vendros whipped out his revolver and fired point blank at Celli. The bullet entered Celli's left temple.

As his victim fell Vendros started to run from the place. Three lodgers, Vincenzo Giovanniti, Pietro Ganeti, and Antonio Rosa, seized him. A fierce struggle followed, during which Vendros was disarmed. Then he bit Vincenzo and Pietro on the hands and compelled them to let go their hold. Before they could recapture him he got away from the building and fled to a piece of woods.

His coat and waistcoat were torn off during the struggle. An alarm was sent to all neighboring cities and towns, but up to a late hour today Vendros had not been captured. Celli was unconscious when his companions reached him. The bullet had entered his brain. He was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital. Six of the inmates of the boarding house have been arrested as witnesses of the shooting. They gave the names of Guiseppe Dianati, Raphael Oyisie, Vincenzo Giovannati, Pietro Ganetti, Antonio Rosa, and Gaetno Randers.

Undertaker P. Casey was sent for and brought the body of the murdered man to the morgue in this city, where an inquest was called at half past one this afternoon by Coroner Horning, of Elizabeth. County Physician O'Rielly was present.

The following jury was summoned by Constable Robert Mattox: T. F. VanHorn, L. H. Pangborn, Frank H. Bacon, M. Lichten, W. H. Clum and Robert Walker. After viewing the remains the inquest was adjourned to the city court room till next Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

Rallying at Hope Chapel.

The first Sunday in October is observed as rallying day at Hope chapel and the event is always one of great interest. Yesterday afternoon there were 455 scholars and their friends present at the services. The exercises included singing by the school, selections by members of the Crescent Avenue church choir, and addresses by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of Hope chapel. Both addresses were excellent and listened to with pleasure by all. The musical part of the service was a feature.

Naughty Girls.

Two little girls attending the North Plainfield public school engaged in a dispute a day or two ago at school which resulted in a fight. One of the two placed a chip on her shoulder and then dared the other one to knock it off. The latter did remove the insignificant piece of wood and then the fight ensued. There was hair-pulling and scratching and not till a considerable effort was made on the part of the teachers did the affair terminate. It is not known what action will be taken in the matter, but the girls should receive a good lecture.

Checker Tournament.

Colonel T. A. Ball, of Westfield, has arranged a checker tournament between Westfield and Plainfield players for the town championship. Whitaker and Cash will open the tournament for Westfield and Mattox and Wagoner will play for Plainfield.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

THE DEMOCRATS NOMINATE.

COUNTY CONVENTION IN SESSION AT SOMERVILLE TODAY.

The "After Eight" Delegation From North Plainfield Seated—A Borough Doctor for Coroner—The Organization

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 7th.—The Somerset County Democratic Convention met at eleven o'clock this morning in the court house at Somerville and was called to order by ex-Congressman A. A. Clark. Walter Durling, of Bridgewater township, was elected temporary chairman, and Charles N. Hoagland, of Franklin, secretary. The roll was then called by townships and the credentials were handed to the secretary. North Plainfield's second district presented two sets of credentials. They were referred to the committee on contested seats. The committees were then appointed.

Dr. James Doty of Bernards, George S. Corle, of Branchburg and Augustus Vanderveer, of Bridgewater, and ex-Assemblyman John Vetterlein, of North Plainfield, were nominated as candidates for County Clerk. There was only one name presented as a candidate for Sheriff, and that honor was bestowed on Calvin D. McMurtry, of Bridgewater township. The nomination was greeted with loud applause. Dr. P. J. Zeglio, of North Plainfield, was then placed in nomination as a candidate for Coroner. The Convention then took a recess until 2 o'clock.

The convention reassembled at 2:15 this afternoon and the temporary officers made permanent.

The committee on contested seats reported in favor of seating the three delegates from the second district of North Plainfield; Smalley, VanWinkle and Bodine. They were elected at the second primary.

The following nominations were made:

County Clerk, Augustus Vandeveer, of Somerville.

Sheriff, Calvin D. McMurtry, of Somerville.

Assemblyman, Charles N. Hoagland, of Franklin township.

Coroner, Dr. Zeglio, of North Plainfield.

David J. Carney was chairman of the North Plainfield delegation. W. N. Pangborn was a member of the committee on resolution.

Brought Back War Relics.

Dr. Simpson, of Liberty and Fifth streets, returned Saturday evening from an extended trip through Virginia. He brought with him a large number of war relics, among which was an eight pound cannon shell and sword. The latter he found standing against a tree in a large field. It looks as if it had been there for a long time. The doctor was much pleased with his trip.

Drunk in the Borough.

Frank Moncton and James Totten, of the borough, were so drunk and disorderly last night on Wilson road that Marshal Wilson was obliged to arrest them. This morning Justice Crosley gave them the choice of paying $5 or going to Somerville for ten days. They have not yet decided what to do.

Will Not Close.

An Elizabeth paper published an item to the effect that the Stillman Music Hall in this city and Drake's Opera House in Elizabeth would be closed for the season. Manager Aldridge characterizes the report as absolutely untrue.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

MORE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

A New Chapter Organized in the First Presbyterian Church.

A new chapter of King's Daughters was organized in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church last Thursday. Twelve young women were present at the organization. The question of a name caused a long discussion, but a compromise was made, and the branch called the Emanon Circle of King's Daughters. The secret to the meaning of Emanon may be understood by reading it backwards.

The following officers were then elected: President, Mrs. Howard Pope; vice-president, Miss Ella Bish; secretary, Mrs. W. E. MacClymont; treasurer, Mrs. Garretson.

Committees were appointed and it was decided to meet on the second and fourth Thursdays in every month.

PLAINFIELD'S TURN.

The Odd Fellows of this District to Choose Their Leader.

The election to the position of District Deputy Grand Master in the order of Odd Fellows is a great honor and well worth striving for. The candidate for that office is nominated at Westfield on the 23d of this month by a convention composed of three delegates from each of the eleven lodges in this district. The officer is elected by the Grand Lodge, but the nomination and choice of the convention is usually accepted. It is the turn of Queen City lodge, of this city, to hold the office, and there are several candidates in the field, among the most prominent of whom are J. L. Blackford and Dr. Pocock.

CATHOLIC CLUB MEETS.

Committee Appointed to Prepare for Permanent Organization.

The Plainfield Catholic Club met at the C. Y. M. L. hall yesterday afternoon to complete the organization of the new club. The charter list was signed by 123 young men which includes many from the Lyceum Society. This list will be kept open till the constitution and by-laws are adopted.

The following were appointed as a house committee: E. McCue, J. Hibbitts, P. Mack, D. Keefe, C. Regan, T. Owens. The following are the committee on constitution and by-laws: T. Carty, P. Casey, M. Mack, J. F. O'Halloran, S. Birmingham, H. E. Forester, P. Reville, E. McCue and J. Lynch.

The latter will report at the next meeting, Tuesday, November 5th.

"Stuttering Tom" Dead.

Thomas Hamilton, colored, better known as "Stuttering Tom," died at James Babbitt's place on East Front street yesterday afternoon, of consumption.

Decedent had recently moved here from Newark, and having no relatives stopped with James Babbitt. He was well known in this city, where he was a resident for many years. He was also considered one of the best horse trainers in this section, and a familiar figure at the Middlesex county fair. The city will probably take care of the body for burial, as there is no one else here to look after it. His relatives live in the West Indies, where he was born.

Republican Delegates.

The Republican voters of the borough and township of North Plainfield met in the basement of the school house Saturday evening to elect delegates to the Somerset County Convention which is to be held at Somerville.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., as member of the county executive committee. Charles Place was elected chairman and John G. McLoughlin secretary. Charles A. Reed then moved that the four delegates be elected with power to fill vacancies. The following were elected delegates: Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., H. Newton Spencer, Charles Place and James K. Arnold.

May Return to the Bell.

It seems that as yet no definite plans have been made to place the borough fire gong on the Plainfield Electric Light Station. A prominent business man of the borough said yesterday that the probable result would be that the borough would erect a bell tower and return to the old method of ringing the bell.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

LITTLE BIKERS PEDAL HARD.

AND THE BOYS HAVE GOOD RACES AS A RESULT.

For Youngsters, Fast Time and Close Finishes Were Made on the Oval—Discipline by the Referee—Summary.

For a racy meet in which the promoters and most of the contestants were all under fifteen years of age, the one held at the Crescent oval on Saturday afternoon was a great success. The time in most of the races was remarkably fast and the finishes very close. After the regular programme had been completed, some of the audience took up a collection and secured more money which was turned over to the managers of the races to purchase more prizes. Several events were then added, and the enjoyment continued.

Hazelwood Keller was the hero of all the running contests. He won his heat in the one hundred yards dash after a very close race, but the final and the two hundred yards dash were easily captured, although he started from scratch.

In the regular handicap bicycle events, James Taylor was the scratch man, while the rest of the field were scattered far ahead around the track. Taylor rode a splendid race, however, but the effort needed to set his fast pace for all but the last lap when he caught the bunch was too much, and in the one and two-mile handicap he only managed to get fourth. In the mile, the first four men all finished within a length of the first man, and Hand beat Taylor for third place by the width of a rim, many called it a dead heat. In the two-mile handicap, Referee Littell disqualified Hand and Schenck for having a pacemaker. They both claimed that they could not help it as a lad named Dodd persisted in pacing it. Dodd was suspended from track racing during the meet.

The consolation race was a cinch for Taylor, who won by about fifty yards.

Of the extra events, Harry Cuming won two, while Lindley Hillman rode second to him in both. In the two-mile handicap, for boys under eighteen, the men soon bunched and began to loaf. A time limit of six minutes was placed on the race by Referee Littell, and Will Havens and Arthur B. Crane were put in as pacemakers. For some reason Richardson did not ride in his usual good form, but finished a good third.

The officials were as follows:

Referee, Webster Littell; judges, D. A. McPhail, Herbert L. Richardson, Wilbur F. Cornwell, Charles B. Morse, Willis Westervelt, timers, Carroll Runyon, George Collins, Lindley Hillman; clerk of the course, Stanley Peck; starter, Homer Smith.

The summary of the events were as follows:

One Hundred Yards Dash, (handicap)—The first heat was won by Hazelwood Kellar, scratch; Ray Smith, five yards, second; Owen Fleming, three yards, third. Time, 12 4-5 seconds. The second heat was won by Will Nash, one yard; Will Remsen, three yards, second; Linden Stewart, seven yards, third. Time, 14 seconds. The final heat was won by Kellar; Smith, second; Nash, third. Time, 14 2-5.

One-Mile Bicycle, (handicap)—Was won by Ed Waring, two hundred twenty-five yards; Frank Talmadge, one hundred twenty-five yards, second; David Hand, eighty-five yards, third; James Taylor, scratch, fourth. Time, 2.49 2-5.

Two-Mile Bicycle, (handicap)—Was won by Ed Waring, two hundred fifty yards; Frank Talmadge, two hundred fifty yards, second; Harold Phillips, two hundred fifty yards, third; James Taylor, scratch, fourth. Time, 6:04 4-5.

Two Hundred Twenty-Yards Dash, (handicap)—Was won by Hazelwood Kellar, scratch; Will Remsen, eight yards, second; Owen Fleming, eight yards, third. Time, 30 3-5.

One-Mile Handicap, (consolation)—Was won by James Taylor, scratch; Irving Hand, thirty yards, second; Samuel Atchenson, sixty yards, third. Time, [illegible] 2-5.

One-Mile Scratch, (boys sixteen and under)—Was won by Harry Cumming; Lindley Hillman, second; James Taylor, third. Time, 2:51 5-5.

Two-Mile Handicap, (boys under eighteen)—Was won by Harry Cumming, scratch; Lindley Hillman, fifty yards; Herbert L. Richardson, scratch, third; Harry Woltmann, seventy-five yards, fourth. Time, 6:00 2-5.

The Library Social.

Miss Bowne, daughter of Dr. Lowrie, has issued invitations for a library social to be held at her home, 514 Park avenue, this evening. The entertainment is given under the auspices of the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters, and the entrance fee is as many pennies as the guest is years old, to be deposited in a little bag enclosed with the invitation.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 194 North ave., Plainfield.

WILLIAM'S ITINERARY

Programme of His Journey Through Alsace.

No Truth in the Report of a Bitter Quarrel Between the Kaiser and His Brother—M. de Witte's Visit to Berlin Still Causes Much Gossip—Archduke Francis' Health.

Berlin, Oct. 7.—Although Chancellor von Hohenlohe and most of the members of the German ministry will resume their departmental duties in Berlin to-day, consideration of the legislative programme for the coming session of the reichstag will not begin until the emperor returns to Potsdam, which he will do on October 21. During his stay in Rominten the kaiser has buised himself far more in studying foreign affairs than he has in domestic matters. Nevertheless he has not neglected the latter. On October 14 his majesty will start for Weisbaden, where the empress will join him. The programme arranged by the court marshal, marking out the progress of the emperor and his party through Alsace, including the ceremonies on the battlefield of Woerth, is now complete. It is now arranged that the imperial party, with the emperor's full suite, will attend a gala performance in the Weisbaden opera house, after which, on October 15, the kaiser will take a train at Weisbaden and proceed to Courcelles Kurzel near Metz. From there the imperial party will drive to the schloss at Urville where they will remain two days. On the journey from Courcelles Kurzel to Urville the emperor will be greeted with a popular reception which has been prepared by the inhabitants of the locality. The programme contemplates a demonstration of the school children and the various societies designated to give the emperor what testimony can be elicited of the contentment of the people of Alsace as German subjects.

Frederick III.'s Memorial Statue.

On Oct. 18 the emperor will start for Woerth to unveil the memorial statue of his father, Emperor Frederick III., on which occasion orations will be delivered by Gen. von Meschke and ex-Secretary of State Hoffmann. In addition to these addresses the exercises will be participated in by the various German choral societies, and the ceremonies will end with a review of the troops by the emperor. In the evening the kaiser will give a grand banquet in the imperial palace at Strasburg, for which 300 covers will be laid. On Oct. 19 the kaiser will inspect the Strasburg garrison and start for Berlin on the evening of that day. The unfounded gossip alleging that a bitter quarrel has taken place between the emperor and his brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, resulting in the virtual banishment of the latter for a year, has received its final quietus by the announcement that Prince Henry will accompany the emperor during his tour of Alsace.

M. de Witte's Visit to Berlin.

M. de Witte, Russia's finance minister, is still the subject of political gossip and the object of much attention in the popular endeavor to ascertain the real reason of his stay in Berlin. Besides negotiating a loan for the purpose of founding a great electrical plant in Russia M. de Witte has found time and opportunity to sound the Berlin bankers on the subject of their assisting in the conversion of certain Russian railway bonds. Nobody now attributes his long stay in Berlin to his desire to consult German physicians, which it was given out was the reason of his coming here. M. Rathstein, the director of the bank of St. Petersburg, who has been in Berlin simultaneously with M. de Witte, has had conferences with the heads of several German financial houses in regard to the conversion of Russian railway bonds, and if the scheme is undertaken it will involve operations representing 200,000,000 marks. Although the decree promulgated by Prince Bismarck while he was chancellor, preventing the Reichsbank from making advances upon Russian loans was practically repealed a year ago Russian stock figure very little in the German markets, but any large deal, such as is now talked about, would lead to an energetic revival of financial transactions between Germany and Russia and increase the interchange of commerce generally.

Archduke Francis' Health.

The health of the Archduke Francis, the heir to the Austrian throne, is very much worse, and he has gone to Lussin Piccolo, on the Adriatic, to stay a month. He will probably go from there to Algiers. Emperor Francis Joseph paid a visit to the archduke, his nephew, on Thursday, and immediately afterward summoned Dr. von Schroetter to whom he gave a private audience. Reports in court circles are to the effect that the archduke will never be able to undertake any of the duties devolving upon the occupant of the Austrian throne, even if he should survive his present illness.

MANY FAMILIES HOMELESS.

South Dakota Prairie Fires Cause Immense Loss.

Ipswich, S. D., Oct. 7.—Prairie fires started by farmers for protection in the country north of here have escaped from control and are devastating rich farming sections. Great stock ranches have been entirely burned over, many farms entirely destroyed, and a total damage inflicted that already exceeds $100,000. Many families are homeless and fleeing for shelter. The fires are spreading and rain is earnestly looked for.

Toledo Flooded with Counterfeits.

Toledo, O., Oct. 7.—This city is flooded with counterfeit five dollar bills. During the last few days they have been thrown out of nearly every bank in town. It is said hundreds of the bills were passed before it became known that they were counterfeit.

Old Church Burned.

Jenkintown, Pa., Oct. 7.—Fire in the morning destroyed the Presbyterian church at Abingdon. It was one of the oldest houses of worship in this vicinity, having been organized in 1745.

American Leather in Germany.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Consul H. F. Merritt, stationed at Bremen, Germany, in a report on the use of American leather in Germany, says its importation is increasing.

WEALTHY FARMER KILLED.

Erastus Fuller Struck by a Train at Middleport, N. Y.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Erastus Fuller, one of the wealthiest farmers in western New York, was killed at the tracks of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad in Middleport at 6 p. m. He was driving to his home at Shelby, Ontario county, and just as he started across the tracks the gate tender, not noticing him, lowered the gates to permit a rapidly moving freight train to pass. The engine struck the rear part of the wagon and Mr. Fuller was hurled nearly fifty feet. Both of his legs and one arm were broken and he was injured internally. Fuller was considered the wealthiest resident of the town of Shelby. He owned 700 acres of land there, as well as large property interests in the village of Medina.

KILLED HIS SON-IN-LAW.

An Ex-Judge Murders a Candidate for Sheriff at Leadville, Col.

Leadville, Col., Oct 7.—Sheriff Patrick Kennedy was murdered last night by his father-in-law, ex-police justice Thomas Powers. The men have had several quarrels of late. When Kennedy was spoken of for candidate for sheriff, Powers worked against him. Kennedy was nominated. Mrs. Kennedy, daughter of the murderer, is ill, and it is feared the shock will kill her. Powers was heard to remark a few days ago that Kennedy would never be sheriff of Lake county. Both men are old-timers of this camp and are well known all over the state. Kennedy had been engaged in mining for the last two years. Powers is at present connected with the city police.

ACCUSED OF COUNTERFEITING.

Three Prosperous Venangoboro, Pa., Farmers Placed Under Arrest.

Meadville, Pa., Oct. 7.—Edward Blystone, Ezra Blystone and Ralph Van Auler, all prosperous farmers residing near Venangoboro, this county, were arrested by United States detective Matthew Griffin of Pittsburg asssisted by Constable F. S. Redmond charged with counterfeiting the silver dollar of 1894 and five cent pieces. The two former gave bail in $1,500 each before United States Commissioner Colter of this city. Van Auler was committed to jail in default of bail. Nothing was discovered by the officers on the premises of the accused but a single counterfeit nickel in the pocket of one of the men.

STOLE $16,000.

An Adams Express Clerk Arrested at Baltimore and Confesses.

Baltimore, Oct. 7.—John Don Farden, alias T. J. Franklin, formerly a clerk in the Adams Express office at Terre Haute, Ind., when arrested here charged with the theft of $16,000 from his employers, waived extradition proceedings and was taken west last night by a Pinkerton detective, who has been on his trail since the robbery occurred a few weeks ago. Farden admitted that he took the package containing the money and implicated J. R. Barnett, ticket agent of the Vandalia railroad at Terre Haute, in the crime. The men separated after dividing the spoils, Farden going south, while Barnett traveled westward. The latter, it is said, is still at large.

BREAKING UP AT GRAY GABLES

The President Expected in Washington Probably by To-morrow.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Oct. 7.—The family of Private Secretary Thurber returned to Washington Saturday night. Mr. Thurber arrived at Gray Gables yesterday morning, where he will probably remain till the president returns, which will be very soon, probably to-morrow. Mrs. Cleveland and the children will probably remain until the 15th inst. Joseph Jefferson left last night for New York, to begin his regular theatrical season. Dr. Bryant spent the day at Gray Gables, returning to Boston last night.

PERHAPS FATALLY HURT.

Henderson Either Fell or was Thrown from a Window.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 7.—William Henderson, 30 years old, was found bleeding and unconscious on the sidewalk in front of his home at 2:30 a. m. by Officer Corrigan. He had fallen or was thrown out of a third story window. When removed to the City hospital it was found that his left hip and three ribs were broken and that he had suffered internal injuries. Henderson is believed to be fatally hurt. The police have begun an investigation.

A FIGHT AT GUTHRIE.

No Legal Obstacle to the Corbett-Fitzsimmons Mill in Oklahoma.

Guthrie, O. T., Oct. 7.—A big meeting of business men held here canvassed the law and decided that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons mill could be held here without any legal complications. They will telegraph the managers of the fighters to come here.

Boston's Pride at Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 7.—The special train bringing the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, scheduled to arrive at 5.20 p. m., did not reach Richmond until 8.30 last night and consequently there was some disarrangement of the programme of reception. Nevertheless the visitors were accorded an ovation, for the people turned out practically en masse to greet them.

Italians Fight with Stilettos.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 7.—An Italian fight occurred last night on Willard avenue between Jerry and Luigi Magoni and Dan L'Dessassia, in which the latter and Jerry pulled stilettos upon one another. Luigi was stabbed in the left breast, just under the heart, by L'Dessassia. He will probably die. The other Italians have been arrested.

Yale-Princeton Football Game.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 7.—A change has been made in the place of holding the Yale-Princeton football game. It will be held on Manhattan field, instead of Columbia oval, as already announced.

Dr. Talmage's Farewell Sermon.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Rev. Dr. Talmage preached a farewell sermon to his Brooklyn friends at the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian church last evening.

Liabilities $1,000,000.

London, Oct. 7.—Demetrius S. Sevastopulo & Co., Greek merchants of this city and elsewhere, have suspended, with liabilities of $1,000,000.

NINE PERSONS KILLED

Frightful Accident at a Corner-Stone Laying.

While Watching the Ceremonies a Platform, on Which Were 1,000 People, Gave Way, Precipitating 300 Into the Excavation—Trampled Each Other to Death.

Loraine, O., Oct. 7.—A frightful accident attended the laying of the corner stone for the new St. Mary's Catholic church in this city yesterday. Fully 5,000 people were gathered around the foundation for the new structure and the priests were about to begin the service when a platform constructed of boards and running entirely across the area on which were about 1,000 people, gave way, precipitating 300 of them into the excavation. A panic ensued which resulted in increasing the fatalities. Nine people were killed, eleven fatally and thirteen seriously injured and many more slightly hurt.

Acted Like Wild Beasts.

As the floor gave way a great cry went up from the multitude but in another second it had fallen and carried in its ruins the lives of nine persons. Those at the top of the mass escaped easily, but when the pit was partly emptied those victims still entrapped could not clamber up the steep sides and they trampled each other like so many wild creatures, the strong getting on top and the weak being crushed beneath the great weight. Although there were a thousand people ready to rush to the rescue they could render very little aid to the helpless persons in the pit and several minutes elapsed before ropes and ladders could be procured. When assistance finally reached the unfortunate victims, several had already been trampled to death and others fatally injured.

Contractors Responsible.

The old Catholic church near by was turned into a hospital and morgue. Into this were carried those who were killed and injured. Notwithstanding the shock of the accident the priests succeeded in quieting the crowd and continued the services. Very Rev. Mgr. Boff, of Cleveland, delivered the sermon. The contractors are said to be responsible for the accident, poor timbers being used for the support of the platform. The mayor and other city officials lent a helping hand in caring for the injured. The town to-day is in deep mourning over the accident.

IN HONOR OF PARNELL.

The Anniversary of His Death Fittingly Observed in Dublin.

Dublin, Oct. 7.—The anniversary of the death of Charles Stewart Parnell, the Irish leader, was observed here in the customary manner. The lord mayor, most of the municipal authorities and Messrs. John and William Redmond, Harrington, Field, O'Kelly, John H. Parnell, brother of Charles Stewart Parnell, Hayden, Clancy, P. O'Brien and Kenny, all members of the house of commons, delegates from the National league, a large number of political bodies and others marched in procession to Glasnevin cemetery, where Mr. Parnell is buried, and placed wreaths upon his grave. The procession was two miles long.

HER HORRIBLE DEATH.

A Woman Struck by a Train and Frightfully Mutilated.

Albany, Oct. 7.—A West Shore train struck and killed a Syrian woman named Mrs. Rashid near Wemple station about ten miles from this city. She was walking along the track with another woman, who escaped with a few slight injuries. When picked up the body presented a horrible sight, being disembowled, dismembered and completely cut in twain.

GEN. MAHONE'S CONDITION.

His Physicians Say He Can Live But a Few Days.

Washington, Oct. 7.—No change is observable in Gen. Mahone's condition. He has remained in the same state for the last few days, and it is the opinion of his physicians that his end is but a question of days, and his death may be expected at any time.

He Saw Death Coming.

Canandaigua, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Judson Cornell, a Northern Central brakeman, Elmira, met a horrible death in the railroad yards. He was switching and caught his foot in a frog. He could see the car coming towards him but was unable to move. His body was terribly mangled. It was necessary to jack up the car to get his body out.

Commercial Travelers' Association.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The fourth annual convention of the Commercial Travelers' Home Association of America began in this city to-day and will be an important one for the order, as a number of questions which have arisen in the history of the association will come to a head at this meeting.

Swept a Draw into the River.

Bridgeton, N. J., Oct. 7.—Schooners Hattie Nickerson of Dennisville and Bessie C. Beetle of New Haven, Conn., while trying to pass through the draw-bridge at Mauricetown yesterday struck the draw and swept it into the river. Steps will be taken at once to libel the two vessels.

Senator Hill To Address Students.

Ann Arbor, Oct. 7.—The students' lecture course opens October 25 with a non-political lecture by Senator David B. Hill. There have also been engaged for the course ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, Henry Patterson and Theodore Roosevelt.

$10,000 Fire at Comac, L. I.

Northport, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The post office, hotel of James Lewis and grocery store of Hallock Bros., at Comac, L. I., were completely destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss $10,000. Cause of fire unknown.

Child's Burns Were Fatal.

New York, Oct. 7.—Mary Moyek, 4 years old, of 122 Tenth street, Brooklyn, died at the Norwegian hospital late last night as a result of being badly burned while playing round a bonfire.

A BOSTON GIRL'S LIFE

Saved from Ruin and Despair by the Timely Aid of a Noted Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

IS there anything more truly pathetic than the cry for help that springs from the anguished heart of a young girl—a beautiful girl who sees ahead only suffering and uncerainty? But oh, what joy and gladness her young heart pours forth when she realizes that her dreaded enemy, the blasting influence, is gone,—banished forever. This sunshine and joy is now the happy portion of Miss Florence ——— of Beacon Street, Boston.

She often tells of her suffering from the suppression of the menses. The pain was excruciating. The doctors, instead of removing the cause of her ailment, plied her each month with morphine to prevent convulsions; but the trouble was permitted to exist.

When she could endure no more,—prostration was imminent and future hopeless,—her family procured a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which, surprising to all, rapidly and permanently cured her.

In writing to Mrs. Pinkham, pouring forth her gratitude and happiness, she says: "Oh! that I could make every suffering woman try your valuable medicine! How they would bless you!"

Even Sandow cannot break a Ball's Corset. It is as supple as the skin, and is guaranteed.

I. LEDERER.

There is one DRESS STAY that
Won't melt apart,
Can't cut through the dress,
Don't stay bent.
It is
BALL'S PEERLESS.
All lengths; all colors.
Seely Edsall, Putnam & DeGraw,
I. Lederer.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

SPECIAL SALE
—OF—
FINE STATIONERY
—AND—
School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S
411 Park Avenue.

Nothing Antequated

will be found in our stock of wall paper. We are now showing the very latest fall designs and most of them are gems. The getting up of new, fanciful and pleasing patterns is an art, and we have the advantage of displaying the handiwork of the best artists of the day in that line. It's like going through a picture gallery to walk about in our store, and there is no admission. Paints, oils and varnishes.

E. C. MARSHALL, 167 North Avenue

Grenada Barber Shop,
No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.
Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MAC DONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate
For sale or to let.
MONEY
to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.
BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL

F. W. HAND,

131 North avenue.
929 South avenue.
197 North avenue.
Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 197 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office,

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to give satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE.
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

For Sale or Exchange
For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of
Between 4 and 5 Acres
well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.
9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.
Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS, — EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Purity
of ingredients is essential in medicines, else they are apt to do more harm than good.
Allcock's Porous Plaster
is absolutely pure. It can do no harm. It is effective. As an external remedy for pains in the chest, back or side, it is unequaled.
Let no Solicitation induce you to accept a substitute. ALLCOCK'S is absolutely the best.
Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
may be taken by old and young. They simply assist nature.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now ope for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

THE REBELLION IN CUBA

Both Spaniards and Patriots Claim Victories.

Report that 100 Imperial Troops Surprised and Defeated 1,000 Insurgents—Spaniards Badly Beaten in Another Battle—Maceo's Soldiers Rumored To Be Disbanding.

Santiago de Cuba, Sept. 27, via Key West, Oct. 7.—The excitement created in this city by the arrest of four prominent gentlemen, mention of which has already been made in this correspondence, increases daily. One result of the arrests has been to causes many men and even boys of twelve and fourteen years of age to leave their homes and join the rebels. Another result has been to cause a large increase in the emigration from the island, a great number of people going to San Domingo. The arrest of these four men has given the death blow to autonomy here. One of the prisoners is the vice-president and the others members of the committee of the autonomist party here. The president has left for San Domingo.

Claim To Have Routed the Rebels.

On September 25 Colonel Canellas with eighty men of the Simancas regiment and twenty mounted civil guards surprised the rebel camp of Gil and Periquito Perez at Bayomoso. It is said that there were 1,000 insurgents in camp. After fifty minutes' fighting the rebels fled, leaving five men killed and abandoning a quantity of ammunition and provisions. The Spanish loss was four wounded. This is the Spanish version of the fight, which, it may be said, nobody believes. It is, however, impossible to obtain any private information showing the true result.

Spaniards Badly Whipped.

On the morning of September 26, a guerilla force led by Lieutenant Colonel Tejeba met a rebel party of 400 men near Hatillo. The Spaniards were 900 strong, but were badly whipped. Their loss was 18 killed and 74 wounded, among the latter being a lieutenant. The Spaniards fled, leaving many of their wounded behind them, including the lieutenant. The insurgents lost 4 killed and 12 wounded.

Notorious Capt. Garrido Promoted.

Everybody here is astounded to learn that the notorious Captain Garrido of the guerillas of Guantanamo, who has attracted general attention by his butcheries in the present campaign, has been raised to the rank of commander on the recommendation of Captain General Campos. It is asserted here that when Campos was on one of his visits to this city a woman went to him and said that Garrido had assassinated her son. Campos showed great indignation and called General Jimemez Moreno to hear the woman and investigate the case, saying that he would not allow such things to be carried on.

Maceo's Troops Reported Fleeing.

Gen. Echange reports from Holguin that his command, numbering 1,600 men, routed on Sept. 25 about 3,500 rebels under Antonio Maceo. The engagement, which took place near Guayabal lasted seven hours. The rebels left two killed on the field and also one man wounded. Maceo was seriously wounded and was carried off by his men. The government loss was four wounded. The troops captured a large quantity of war material. It is asserted that Maceo's band has broken up and disbanded. Small groups of the rebels are fleeing in every direction.

"DUST TO DUST."

Funeral of Harry Wright at Philadelphia Largely Attended.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—All that was mortal of Harry Wright, the famous baseball manager and chief of the staff of league umpires, was interred yesterday afternoon in beautiful West Laurel Hill cemetery. Baseball men of prominence from all parts of the country were present, as were also men prominent in business and social life in Philadelphia, and all had a kindly word to say of the lovable character of the man whose death had brought them together.

TWO DROWNED.

The Italian Bark Filippo R. Founders in Mid-Ocean.

London, Oct. 7.—The Italian bark Filippo R. from Cardiff for Buenos Ayres foundered Oct. 4 in longitude 10 w. Capt. Mortola, the master of the bark, and the carpenter were drowned. The remainder of the crew were picked up after having spent thirty hours in a small boat and were landed at Plymouth.

Dr. Washburn Fatally Wounded.

Waldron, Ind., Oct. 7.—Dr. R. R. Washburn, late member of the United States pension examining board at Shelbyville, was fatally wounded by James Thompson. It is claimed Thompson had said something derogatory to Dr. Washburn and the latter demanded an explanation, which Thompson refused to give. Thompson gave himself up.

Social Democrats' Congress.

Breslau, Oct. 7.—The congress of the social democrats opened here yesterday. The railway station and the streets were crowded from an early hour in the morning, and the greatest interest was manifested in making the congress one of the most successful that the socialists have ever held.

Naval Movements.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The navy department is advised by cable from the commanding officer that the Monacacy of the Asiatic squadron has arrived at Shanghai. The message also states that the Machias has left Hong Kong for Shanghai. The cruiser Detroit is now at Foochow.

Well Known Actor Dead.

New York, Oct. 7.—Walden Ramsay, an actor well known in New York for several years, died in this city yesterday from cirrhosis of the liver. Mr. Ramsay's real name was Roser. He was about forty years old.

City Authorities Indicted.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 7.—The grand jury has indicted Mayor Duncan and Chief of Police McElroy, charging them with permiting saloons to sell liquor on Sunday.

WOES OF AN EX-BALL TOSSER.

A Story of an Old Professional Player Which Has a Moral.

"The worst disease I ever caught was the baseball fever," said the horse car starter, a young man who had evidently seen better days. "Five years ago I was an expert accountant drawing almost as much salary in a week as I do now in a month. The ball fever was then at its height, and I was one of the many foolish young men who caught it. I joined an amateur nine. All my spare time was spent in practicing, and many a day I went to the office early and hurried up my work so that I could get off a little earlier, for it wasn't long before the half holiday once a week proved altogether too little to satisfy my ambition.

"In time I became a first rate player, and then I got stuck on my catching and longed for the applause of the bleaching boards. Some of our nine drifted into the professional arena, and I envied them so much that one day when the manager of a League club complimented me upon my work I seized the opportunity of asking him for a place on the team. Although he offered me only the job of a sub, I jumped at the chance and threw up my office work.

"I was fairly lucky as ball playing goes and soon became one of the regular catchers of the nine. Until the gilt wore off I liked it first rate. There was a certain charm about having a big salary all summer and being broke the rest of the year. For three seasons I drifted about from one club to another, finding it more difficult each year to get a place, for it was new players the managers were after. At last I gave the whole thing up in disgust and tried to get back to my old work, but I could no more do it than fly. Forgot all about figures and ledgers? No, it wasn't that. See those fingers?" and he held up ten stumps battered out of all human resemblance. "Before I knew what a ball was I wrote the hand of a writing master, but afterward I found I could hardly hold a pen. The result was that I could do nothing where my special knowledge came into play, and I was forced to turn my hand to the first thing that presented itself.

"The country is full of played out baseballists like myself. I know men who were once skilled artisans and did work that required a fine hand. Now they are glad to be peddlers and hodcarriers."

As the man rang the gong to start the next car the hand that went up looked like a huge sugar cured ham.—New York World.

A BIT OF STRING.

Vain Quest of a Man Who Stares at the Shoes Young Women Wear.

"Will you not let me tie that for you?"

It was the way he said it—the quiet tone of his voice, the polite manner of lifting his hat, the honest look in his eyes. She could not decline the favor. Indeed he did not give her time to do so, but with that chivalry that is a combination of boldness and gentleness he leaned down to tie her shoestring.

She had paused on a busy street and set her foot up on the stone block in front of a store door. There was a vexed expression on her pretty face, but when this gallant anticipated her action she laughed right merrily. The shoestring had not only become untied, but was lost. Diving into one of his trousers pockets, he produced a bit of white string, with which he deftly laced her low cut tan, remarking, "There, I guess that will do until you get home."

"No, I shall wear it if you will allow me. You are altogether too good to be forgotten immediately," she said coquettishly, and before he could recover from the flattery, before he could fix her in his mind so he would know her again, she was gone, become indistinguishable in a group that separated and dissolved at the street corner.

And, maidens fair, if you should meet the hero of this story and he should stare, as he certainly would, first at your feet, then at your faces, with a look grown old in longing, do not feel offended. He is a harmless lunatic, and the simple burden of his madness, the melancholy burden of his murmuring as he pursues his fruitless quest is, "a bit of string," and nothing more.—Cincinnati Tribune.

Telling a Story.

It is much easier for some to tell a story well than for others, but the art of story telling is not difficult to acquire, if you really want to learn it. The most effective perhaps is the dialect story. There is nothing of which listeners are so intolerant as an attempt at dialect by one who does not understand it. An English paper calls attention to a mistake frequently made by those who would imitate Irish, a great favorite with story tellers, for, to perpetrate an Irish bull, some of the best jokes in the English language are in Irish. "The notion prevails," says this authority, "both in England and Scotland that the Irish pronounce the diphthong ee broadly. In songs and stories of English manufacture they are made to say "swate" for "sweet," "strate" for "street," "chaze" for "cheese," "indade" for "indeed," etc. This is altogether wrong. It is the diphthong ea which is so pronounced. Thus "speak" is "speak," "neat" is "nate," which pronunciation Irishmen maintain to be correct.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Perfect Spanish Beggar.

There is a calm dignity about the Spaniard of every class which will strike a stranger. Even the beggars, of whom, goodness knows, there are plenty, seem to stand on a higher platform than their confreres in other lands. In our country the statutory address is, "Could you spare me a copper?" but a Spanish beggar thus addressed us at a railway station, and we give his address as typical of his class, "O senorito, da me un alimosnita, y rogare por su feliz viaje!" which may be translated into English thus: "Oh, little gentleman, give me an alms, and I will pray for you a happy journey."—Chambers' Journal.

Women Missionaries.

The British Woman's Foreign Missionary societies employ 770 European women in foreign lands, including 20 female physicians and 25 trained nurses. These, in turn, employ 2,000 native women as assistants, conduct 900 schools, with 60,000 enrolled pupils, children and adults.

Torpedoes, when first employed by the Americans against the English in the Revolutionary war, were called American turtles, and their use was pronounced infamous and worthy only of savages.

When placing himself under medical advice, Carlyle once told a doctor, "I'll do anything ye tell me, but ye maunna stop ma pipe."

Instead of an engagement ring the Japanese lover gives his sweetheart a piece of beautiful silk for her sash or obi.

LIKE A BENEDICTION

Progress of the Liberty Bell to Atlanta.

Earnest Thousands Reverently Pay Their Tribute to the Venerable Relic—A Grandson of Patrick Henry Craves Permission To Touch the Mass of Historic Iron.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Like a benediction the Liberty bell spent through the lovely Roanoke valley, over the rugged Blue Ridge mountains and down through the picturesque valley of East Tennessee yesterday, an ideal October Sabbath. No sermon could have told more to the patriotic people that inhabit this varied section of the republic. There has been no firing of guns, no blaring of brass bands, no wild hurrah, but the country that furnished so many union soldiers during the rebellion demonstrated beyond question its intense loyalty and patriotism. Earnestly the earnest thousands have paid their tribute of homage to the venerated relic. Sunday schools of all denominations have been marshalled by their pastors, educational institutions have turned out the youth and beauty of Virginia and Tennessee, and bullet scarred confederates have walked side by side with G. A. R. veterans uncovering their heads in silent but stately salute. Truly it has been a wonderful day. From Roanoke, Va., where the party spent Saturday night, the progress of the relic has been one continuous ovation, quiet and dignified though it was.

Pelted the Bell with Flowers.

At every cross road men, women and children stared with uncovered heads and waved flags as the train flew past. Church bells tolled and children pelted the bell with flowers. At Elliston a grandson of Patrick Henry, himself a white-haired man of 70 years, pressed forward and craved permission to touch the bell. Here a full Sunday school sang a patriotic hymn. At Christiansburg the boys of the Blacksburg Military academy stood in line, a guard of honor. There was a great crowd at East Radford, where Mayor Warwick and Thos. L. Hicks made brief addresses to the concourse of public school children. The great zinc and iron town of Pulaski gave hearty greeting, and a large crowd of well-dressed, prosperous people listened to short talks from Mayor Warwick and register of wills Elias P. S. Milton. At Marion, Glade Springs, and Abingdon the population was all out and between them were knots of people at every mountain cabin. It was late for Bristol, half in Virginia and half in Tennessee, to turn out a crowd that overflowed the railroad station and stretched out in every direction as far as the eye could reach. Volunteer firemen acted as guards, while Mayor Wheaton of the Virginia side and Mayor Anderson of the Tennessee side joined in the welcome.

An Old Woman's Prayer.

Girls from the Southwest Virginia institute sang a hymn and placed a banner of black and gold on the peak of the bell. Then they clambered over the car, each in turn touching the bell. A line was formed and for two hours a steady stream of people of all ages, colors, and social standing passed across the bell car. One venerable woman, who admitted that she was 88 years old, knelt at the bell and invoked a divine blessing upon the old mass of historic iron. On to Johnson City, Tenn., past the wreck of the once boom-town of Carnegie, where trees are growing within the walls of handsome stone buildings and dismantled business blocks speak eloquently of blasted hopes, was the next run. Here 900 public school children sang and pelted the bell with flowers. Every house and even the street car showed the national colors. Another brief stop was made at Jonesboro, the ancient capital city of the one-time state of Franklin, which was part of Tennessee, a slice of Kentucky, and a corner of North Carolina. Here Andrew Jackson presided as judge over the circuit court.

To-day's Progress.

A great crowd poured out of the quaint old town and Mayor Warwick made a brief address. At Greenville, the home of Andrew Johnson, there was another dignified ovation. At Morristown the choir of the Methodist church sang a hymn, in the chorus of which hundreds of children joined. It was dark when Knoxville was reached but the people swarmed on the bridge over the railroad into the big railroad yards, where the bell car was sidetracked. There was no formal reception but Mayor Thomson, with the board of aldermen, received the party. With them were committees of the Daughters of the Revolution and other patriotic organizations. The crush of people was tremendous and stalwart policemen quickly formed a line, and until nearly midnight there was a stream of people around the bell. To-day the bell passes through eastern Tennessee to Chattanooga, where the exercises include a pilgrimage to the battlefield of Chickamauga.

Loss, Many Thousands of Pounds.

London, Oct. 7.—Henzell's oil stores at Newcastle, occupying a 200-year-old mansion belonging to the corporation, and the timber yards adjoining, were destroyed by fire yesterday. The exact loss is not known, but it will amount to many thousands of pounds.

Axiom Killed.

New York, Oct. 7.—P. J. Dwyer's bay filly Axiom was shot at Gravesend yesterday to relieve her of further suffering. She had been afflicted for some time with spinal meningitis, brought on by injuries she received from a kick during a race in early spring.

Banker Won the Heat.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Banker, the American bicyclist, yesterday won the trial heat of the race for the Prix du Ville de Paris, beating Barras. The final heat will take place next Sunday.

Senator for Finisterre.

Paris, Oct. 7.—M. Rousseau, governor of French Indo-China, has been elected a senator for Finisterre in succession to M. Drouillard.

Rev. Stuart Russell Dead.

London, Oct. 7.—Rev. Stuart Russell, a theologian, author of "Parousia," died in this city yesterday.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 7. 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Generally Fair and Cooler.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 68 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 7--Entertainment and dance at Saengerbund Hall.
October 7—Meeting of the City Common Council.
October 7—Meeting of the Board of Education.
October 7—Library social of the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters, at 514 Park avenue.
October 7—Meeting of the Young League of Hope Chapel.
October 8—Meeting of Camera Club.
October 8—Lecture on "The Ethics of Citizenship," by Miss Jane L. Slocum, at Y. M. C. A. hall. Four p. m.
October 9-12—Christian Endeavor State Convention at Atlantic City.
October 9—Regular meeting of Lucetta Council, No. 28, D. of L., in S. of T. Hall.
October 10—Dance of the T. A. B. society in their hall. Evening.
October 10—Annual State Conference of the Woman's Synodical Society at the Crescent Avenue church.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Football. Leal's school against Westfield, at Westfield.

The Central New York Methodist Episcopal conference have voted to admit women as delegates.

Mr. Edison has an idea that the newspawer of the future will be published by phonograph. His reason for this is that the eyesight of the people is becoming poorer, time is more precious, and that newspapers are so large that it is impossible for people to read them through.—Exchange.

The most striking characteristic of the true New Yorker is the absence of characteristics. Things that mark the people of other cities as Philadelphians, Chicagoans, Bostonians, are lacking. The unwritten, but none the less imperative, law of mind your own business is the great safeguard of our social economy. Exclude the immediate circle of your friends, and it is nobody's concern what you do, how you live, where you dine, how late you go to bed, who is your tailor, what you believe, whether you are married or single, bond or free. The man who lives next door is as oblivious to your existence as the man in the moon. It is a peculiarity to be prized. Life is unbearable if the privacy of the individual is not respected. In New York we do not have to sport the oak if we want to be left alone.—Evening Sun.

Miss Kate Hogan, who graduated from a law school with high honors two years ago, has applied for a $3,000 position as Assistant Public School Superintendent of New York. She is the first woman who has tried to secure that office. In Philadelphia women have held such places almost ever since the system of superintendency was instituted thirteen years ago. There is no reason why, in a department of the public service whose work is so largely done by women as is that of the public schools, women should not be appointed to such places. It will occur to most people, however, that the better place to find available candidates would be among experienced and successful teachers, rather than in law offices.—Newark News.

To Discuss the Plumbers Ordinance.

The Board of Trade will hold a public meeting Thursday evening when plumbers ordinance, under consideration by the Board of Health will be discussed. There are a number of people who believe that the conditions which are imposed by the ordinance are altogether too radical, and effort will be made to have them modified to some extent.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

W. B. Fisk, of this city, is registered at the Hotel Ryan, St. Paul.

Councilman H. M. Stockton went to Philadelphia today on a business trip.

Charles Potter, of the Potter Press Works, is on a business trip in Philadelphia today.

Dr. B. VanD. Hedges returned today from his outing in the woods of Northern Maine.

Mrs. Julius Williams, of Elmwood place, returned Saturday after an enjoyable vacation spent in the country.

Miss Henrietta Horstman, Mrs. and Miss Hoch, of Brooklyn, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bovey, of Stone street.

Letter-carrier Edward S. Reever, of Newark, spent yesterday with relatives in this city, and visited the carriers at the post office.

C. C. Burke and family left Saturday for New York, after spending the summer at their cottage on Ravine road, Netherwood.

Dr. Frank Searles and wife returned to their home at Bayonne this morning after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Searles's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lowrie, of Park avenue.

Thomas H. Keller, of East Front street, starts Wednesday on a business trip South. He will go as far as Florida, and will probably take in the Atlanta Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hurst Brown, who have been spending the summer at the Woodside, on Leland avenue, Netherwood, left this morning for Elizabeth, where Mr. Brown has purchased a cottage.

Dr. J. H. Carman and family, of Somerset street, returned to their home Saturday evening after a three weeks stay at the Adirondacks, where Dr. Carman whiled away the time fishing and gunning.

Sunday School Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Sunday-school of the Congregational church was held yesterday afternoon. The report of the treasurer was better than usual and all the other reports were encouraging. The election of officers resulted as fellows: Superintendent, Charles E. Boss; assistant-superintendent, Joseph A. Robinson; secretary, Stacy R. Raynolds; treasurer, J. A. Powlison; librarian, Charles Steiner; musical director, Mrs. M. E. Dwight.

Duties Arising From Citizenship.

Jane M. Slocum, LL. B., of New York, will speak in Y. M. C. A. hall at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 8th. Miss Slocum is possessed of rare intellectual endowments, ripe scholarship and unusual capacity for imparting instruction. She is particularly successful as a lecturer, and will be at her best in "Ethics of Citizenship." As every one is a citizen, irrespective of sex, every one should be interested in this lecture.

Death of B. E. Gavin.

After illness lasting nearly two years, Benjamin E. Gavin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Gavin, died this morning at his home on Columbia avenue, of consumption. He was born in North Plainfield, where he has always lived. He was well known in a large circle of acquaintances, and was highly esteemed for his excellent qualities. He was Street Commissioner in the borough under the administration of ex-Mayor Saunders.

To Reform the Italians.

The Board of Health of the borough and township of North Plainfield, will meet Monday, October 21st, to take some action regarding the shanties occupied by the Italians and colored people at Washingtonville.

The place has become a recognized nuisance and an effort will be made to clean it out. Today Constable Stewart inspected the place and will report at the meeting October 21st.

In a Perilous Position.

A man sitting on a board last night that was suspended on two barrels in front of the First National Bank building, fell backward into the excavation and sustained several bruises and cuts. He was taken home by two friends who were with him.

—By the will of the late Elizabeth Thistlewaite, Wm. H. Shotwell, of Fairview avenue, is made executor to settle up her estate.

—About twenty-five children joined the Society of the Angels yesterday morning in St. Mary's R. C. church after the children's service. They were all dressed in white and wore wreaths of red flowers, presenting an attractive scene.

Infant Health
SENT FREE

It is a matter of vast importance to mothers. The manufacturers of the GAIL BORDEN EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK issue a pamphlet, entitled "INFANT HEALTH," which should be in every home. Address, NEW YORK CONDENSED MILK CO., 71 Hudson Street, New York.

Additional Local News on Page 8

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's
BAKING POWDER

"Absolutely the best and most desirable baking powder manufactured."
GEN. S. H. HURST, late Ohio Food Commissioner.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vail, of Rockview avenue, have a baby girl.

Joseph Sohl, of Passaic, spent Sunday in town with old acquaintances.

Wm. Davis, of Newark, was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

Mrs. E. D. McCarthy, of Central avenue, has returned home from her summer's visit.

Miss Agnes Baldwin, of Brooklyn, is a guest of Miss Emma Haviland of Rockview avenue.

Miss Ruth Berg, who was injured last week while riding her wheel, is steadily improving.

Benjamin Terry, of Bridgeport, Conn., is a guest at the home of Miss Livesey on Park avenue.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall is this week in Massachusetts and Maine delivering a series of lectures.

The Misses Mary and Grace Shreve of New York are visiting their uncle, B. J. Shreve, of Grove street.

David Krymer, of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company, went to Baltimore on Saturday on business.

Mr and Mrs. George Heminger, of Pomenah, Illinois, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, of Duer street.

G. Firstbrook, of R. W. Powers & Company, New York, and James Brown went to Easton Saturday on business.

Mrs. J. S. King, of West Second street, has returned from a week's visit with relatives in Newark and New York.

William Tyler, son of Mason W. Tyler, of West Eighth street, sailed for Europe on Saturday in the steamship Trave, via Southampton.

Dr. Frank Hallock, of East Front street, has charge of Dr. Bryant's practice at Asbury Park for two weeks while the latter is away on a vacation.

Mrs. J. C. VanDyke sang in the choir of Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning and evening, in place of Miss Krymer, the regular soprano, who was absent.

Miss Caroline F. Randolph, daughter of ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, sailed for Europe on Saturday in the steamship Trave. It is her plan to study in Dresden.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel, who returned from his vacation last Friday, was given a reception by his congregation in the chapel on Friday evening. The affair was very informal.

Mrs. E. C. Morse of Chatham street who is so seriously ill, is suffering from a complication of diseases, of which appendicitis is the most grave. During the absence of Dr. Carman she has been progressing favorably under the care of Dr. Zeglio.

Deputy Sheriff C. M. Heidt and Officer H. Wagner, of Jeffersonville, N. Y., who for the past week have been been on business in New York, are spending a few days with Mr. Heidt's sister, Mrs. W. J. Luckey, of West Second street.

Jacob Blimm and F. A. Glaentzer, who were in attendance at the meeting of the Volunteer Firemen held at Reading, Pa., last week, returned home Saturday by special train. They report having had an enjoyable trip.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarke and family, of Washingtonville, will learn with regret that they intend to spend the winter in Newark instead of Plainfield, as formerly. The Press rejoices in the fact, however, that they will return with the robins in the spring.

Miss Edith Hamilton, who has been visiting her uncle, Mr. Jennings, of Rockview avenue, sailed for Europe on Saturday in the steamship Trave. Miss Hamilton took the European Fellowship at Bryn Mawr College in '95 and will pursue her studies abroad. She is accompanied by her sister.

—The city council will meet this evening in regular session.

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Mrs. O'Brien Threw a Lighted Lamp at Mrs. Meehan, Causing Death.

New York, Oct. 7.—Mary O'Brien, 20 years old, of 235 West Seventeenth street, was arraigned in Jefferson Market court yesterday on the charge of homicide, and was held by Magistrate Crane without bail to await the action of the coroner. She was charged with the killing of Mrs. Jennie Meehan, 32 years old, who lived in the same house. Shortly after 1 a. m. the O'Brien woman came down the stairs to the Meehan woman's room, and asked for the loan of some coal oil for a lighted lamp she was carrying. She was badly intoxicated, and acted in such a surly manner that she enraged Mrs. Meehan, who refused to give her any oil, and the latter, with a torrent of oaths, threw the lighted lamp at her. The lamp struck the woman in the right shoulder and exploded, setting fire to her night dress. Mrs. Meehan's screams awoke the other lodgers of the house who ran into the room and seized a quilt and wrapped it around the woman, thus smothering the flames. Mrs. Meehan was removed to the New York hospital. She died a few hours later. The lower part of her body was horribly burned and the doctors say she had inhaled the flames.

REVOLUTION FEARED.

Reason of the King of Portugal's Visits to Various Capitals.

London, Oct. 7.—A dispatch to the Central News from Madrid says it is the general opinion in well informed quarters that the critical political situation in Portugal is the real cause of the impending visit of the king of that country to London, Madrid, Rome and Berlin. The growing power of the liberals and their discontent against the government threaten to bring about a revolution. It is stated that the liberal leaders have informed the king that unless he dismisses the cabinet they cannot prevent their followers from rising. The king fears the liberals, but for the present he adheres to his ministers. He desires to sound the courts of Great Britain, Spain, Italy and Germany as to whether they are inclined to support his throne in the event of a republican revolution.

AN ENGINEER KILLED.

Fatal Boiler Explosion in a Soda Factory in New York.

New York, Oct. 7.—A fatal boiler explosion occurred yesterday in the soda factory of Alexander J. Howell & Sons in the annexed district, formerly known as the village of Westchester. Engineer Frank Thorn, 47 years old, who was in charge of the engine room when the explosion occurred, was instantly killed, and the brick walls and roof of the engine room were completely demolished. Thorn's body was badly cut about the head and neck and burned by steam. The explosion destroyed two large steel columns in the rear of the boiler, and hurled large blocks of bricks from the engine room and huge pieces of steel over 300 feet away. No cause can be assigned for the accident. The dead engineer leaves a widow and ten children.

GOLD FEVER RAGING.

A Railway Gravel Pit Found to Contain Rich Ore.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 7.—A raging gold fever has settled down on this section of the country over a startling discovery of placer treasure in Seward county, about twenty-five miles west of this city. Three miles from Milford, a small pleasure resort on the Blue river, an old gravel pit, out of which the Burlington railway has for years been ballasting its tracks, has been found to be rich in gold dust. Sand and gravel from several adjacent farms have given equally rich promises. Many assays have been made, some by Denver assayers and others by Professor Nicholson of the state university in this city. In all of them the yield has been from $55 to $196 to the ton. There is great excitement in the vicinity of the reputed find, land is multiplying in value and speculation is active.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

New York Announcement.

"Our American Homes and How to Furnish Them"

Can readily be ascertained by visiting

HORNER'S
Great Furniture Emporium

where everything is of the best quality artistic excellence, and moderate in price. No such assortment of reliable goods can be seen in America.

Over two hundred and fifty distinct different Bedroom Sets in all the various woods. Brass Bedsteads in over seventy patterns, as well as endless lines of Parlor, Drawing-Room, Library and Dining Room Furniture.

Hundreds of imported Novelties particularly suitable for presents, or home use and decoration.

All prices in plain figures.

R. J. HORNER & CO.,
Furniture Makers and Importers,
61, 63, 65 W. 23d St., New York,
Adjoining Eden Musee.

Horner & Co.'s establishment is one of the sights of New York.—Newspaper Comment.

Yes—

The Time Has Arrived to Buy

Fall Underwear

AT PECK'S.

"Ever Ready" PREPARED

Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills. 24 Somerset street. Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

Interesting List of Exceptional Values.

Cloak Department.

Ladies stylish fall coats in a large variety of styles in Borcle Cheviot, Persian Lamb and Kersey Cloths, satin lined, ripple back, mandolin and melon sleeves, all strictly tailor made, from $8.50 to $18.

Fall circular capes in Borcle, Melton and Plush, trimmed with Thibet fur, skunk and stitched satin, single and double capes, satin lined, from $7.25 to $18.50.

Ladies black Moreen underskirts, deep ruffle, splendidly made, from $2.59 to $3.80.

48 cts. Outing flannel underskirts in a variety of new fall colorings; worth 59c.

DRESS GOODS AND SILK DEPARTMENT.

89C. Scotch plaid silks in beautiful colorings; excellent quality; worth $1.10 a yard.

50C All wool cheviot tweeds in two color blendings; 40 inches wide; worth 69c. yd.

Millinery Department.

A few items of interest selected from many.
Felt sailors in black, navy and red, 39c, 49c, 65c.
Beautiful velvet roses 25c, 49c.
Black ostrich plumes 79c.
Children's trimmed school hats $1.98, $2.49.

Carpet Department.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

55 CTS. Our entire stock of best tapestry Brussels carpet; a large variety of patterns. For this week only, special at 55c per yd.

49 CTS. Best extra super ingrain carpet, our entire stock, fine styles Special for this week at 49c yard.

In addition to our regular stock we have a sample department and carry a full and complete line of all grades of carpet from the stock of W. and J. Sloan, for whom we are selling agents in Plainfield. Call and see our new fall styles. Special attention given to special orders and estimates furnished on application.

In Our Big Basement This Week.

7c SALE — 5,000 useful articles to go at 7 cts. each. Former price 9, 10, 12 and 15c each; for this week only. Tinware, woodenware, china and glass. — 7c SALE

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. Any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good qnality oil	9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Buy one of Gavett's fine oil heaters. He has the Miller.

—The Central Railroad are making improvements about their station at Netherwood.

—The Westfield tax rate this year is lower than it has been in five years—$2.40 on $100 valuation.

—The hour of the Sunday evening service at the First Baptist church has been changed from 7:45 to 7:30.

—The October meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

—Neuman Brothers, the enterprising grocers of Watchung avenue, are enlarging their store by an addition in the rear.

—The Friday evening Bible class of the Church of the Redeemer will be resumed on Friday evening next at eight o'clock.

—Look out for big bargains at Edsall's 7-cent sale this week in their big basement. Goods reduced from 9, 10, 12 and 15 cents.

—Ludlow Frazee, of Woolston & Buckle's, is doing the painting and decorating at the Lawrence residence on Stelle avenue.

—Two beautiful solos were rendered by Miss F. May Grant and William Holmes at the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

—Tomorrow evening in the Y. M. C. A. building President William D. Murray will organize a Bible class. All interested are invited.

—Five thousand useful articles at Edsall's 7-cent sale this week in china, glass, tinware, woodenware and hardware. Regular prices 9, 10, 12 and 15.

—The culvert at the corner of Sixth street and Madison avenue, is in a dangerous condition, and needs the immediate attention of the street commissioner.

—Fred Chase, the machinist, has just closed a big contract with the Garvin Machine Company, of New York, for work that will keep him busy for one year.

—Three persons united themselves as members of Trinity Reformed church at the communion service yesterday morning, two by letter and one on confession of faith.

—The annual opening ball of the Goodwill Club of Berkley Heights was held Saturday evening at the large hall of that place. Prof. O'Reilly, of this city, furnished the music.

—The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Baptist Association will hold an all-day meeting at New Monmouth on Friday. Several from this city will attend.

—Watchung avenue from Hillside to Woodland avenues, will be open to traffic tomorrow, as Honan & Sons will have finished laying the sewer pipes in that portion of the avenue.

—Religious service was conducted by Plymouth Brethren at the end of the Somerset street trolley yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance and the remarks were excellent.

—John Henry died at his home on East Front street yesterday at the age of thirty years. He leaves a wife and three children. He has worked for a number of years for the Street Commissioner.

—A Christian Endeavor rally will be held in the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening, October 13th. Delegates to the State convention will take part in the services. There will also be special music.

—Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, preached the third sermon in the course on "Talents" at the church last evening to a good-sized congregation. An excellent musical service was rendered by the choir.

—Attention is directed to the advertisement of T. M. Paff's auction sale at his hotel, Scotch Plains, on Wednesday, Oct. 9th, at twelve o'clock. Mr. Paff having leased his hotel will sell everything advertised to the highest bidder.

—Commencing with last evening every Sunday evening hereafter at eight o'clock Swedish Lutheran services will be held in the German Lutheran church. A professor of the Swedish College in Brooklyn will preach every Sunday evening.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PLAYING GOLF.

The Hillside Course Used for the First Time on Saturday.

A dozen or more golfers took advantage of the partial readiness of the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf club to indulge in a practice game on Saturday afternoon. A number of people drove or wheeled out to the course and watched the play with interest.

The course is in remarkably good shape, considering the phenomenally dry weather for the past few weeks. The tees are fairly hard and the greens have been smothed down so that "putting" can be done with some accuracy. Nevertheless there is hardly a spear of grass in the course of the nine holes and every stroke raises a cloud of dust.

None of the fixtures were in place Saturday but several parties went around the course, the caddies for the nonce being recruited from the ranks of the ubiquitous small boy attracted to the spot partly by golf, but chiefly by chestnuts.

The best play of the afternoon was made by A. D. Shepard, Jr., who succeeded in making the second hole in three, driving onto the green in one.

Eventually, when the marking flags are in place and the grass has had a chance to resume its natural color, the course will present a very attractive appearance and the game will doubtless prove as popular as it has in other places where it has taken root.

Arrangements have been made by the golf committee for a corps of regular caddies who will be thoroughly trained to their duties by spring as play will be continued as late into the fall as the weather will permit.

Notice of the formal opening of the course will be given hereafter.

YOUNGSTERS GET ACTIVE, TOO.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Will Hustle for New Members.

The boys' rally at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening was a great success in every respect. There were about one hundred boys present and several members of the Junior committee. The boys were entertained with organ selections by S. W. Clark, recitations by Clarence Mills, organ and violin duet by S. W. Clark and Clarence Mills, and a short, interesting address by A. D. French, of Montclair.

Assistant Secretary J. Whiting presented a plan for a membership contest that is similar to the one adopted by the seniors.

John Dalziel and W. Whiting were chosen as captains and they selected sides from the members present. John Dalziel's side adopted the color purple and W. Whiting's side yellow.

THEATRICAL.

The spectacular event of the season on Thursday evening next at Music Hall will be the appearance of Joseph Callahan, the only American Mephisto in "Faust," surrounded by a strong company of players of acknowledged repute; this presentation is particularly elaborate, introducing novel electrical and mechanical effects and new special scenery and spectacular embellishments. Mr. Callahan will be supported by a powerful cast, including Miss Beatrice Ingram as the guileless and affectionate Marguerite, Edwin Boring, in the title role of "Faust" and Mrs. Addie Farwell as the droll and amusing Dame Martha. The Brocken scene will be one of unsurpassed grandeur and never equalled, and The Apotheosis, one of the most beautiful of stage pictures, the ascension of Marguerite to Heaven, introducing the "Faust" Quartettes, male and female, in classic and sacred music accompanied by the Florentine Choir singers, six in number.

The Eden Musee in New York has opened its new music hall to the public. The little old winter garden has been removed, and within the Musee is now one of the best-equipped concert halls in New York. The musical programme are enjoyed by large audiences.

Want a Fire Alarm System.

The Westfield township committee had the New York and New Jersey Telephone franchise before them Friday night, and reached no definite conclusion. They demand that the company build a fire alarm system in return for the franchise. The company offers to do the work, but declines to furnish the wire, and there the matter stands at present.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

COUNTY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

They Appointed October 22d as the Date for the County Convention.

The Union County Republican Committee met at their headquarters in Elizabeth Friday afternoon. There was a full representation of the committee in attendance.

The committee organized by the election of Hon. Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, chairman; Charles A. Reed, of Rahway, secretary, and Samuel R. Ogden, of Elizabeth, treasurer.

The date for the County Convention for the nomination of candidates for the Assembly was fixed for October 22d, and the primaries to be held on Thursday evening, October 17th.

CYCLING COMMENT.

There was one hundred men and one woman in the cycle run from Newark to Princeton yesterday. The cyclers stopped at McVey's for dinner. Excellent time was made and no accidents were reported.

Dunellen.

Pax VanArsdale is suffering with rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. Vleet are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl.

Elmer Giddis has accepted a position with Dr. Thiers of Plainfield.

Miss VanZandt has returned home to Garwood, after visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen, who have been visiting friends in town, have returned home.

Miss Louise Knesslin, of West Dunellen, is visiting her brother at Hoboken.

Will Kirch, of Springdale, spent Saturday with his aunt, Mrs. Baldwin, of Front street.

Miss Jones and Mrs. Blank, of Junction, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph of Washington avenue.

Mrs. Whirley, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, has returned to her home at Somerville.

Mrs. Jennings, of Warrenville, who has been visiting her son, Charles Jennings of Front street, has returned home.

Mrs. Smalley, of Plainfield, spent Thursday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Runyon, of Washington avenue.

Invitations are out for a reception to be held on October 22d by the members of the Dunellen Lawn Tennis Club at Friendship Hall, New Market.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

DIED.

TILNEY—At the residence of his son-in-law, Wm. B. Wadsworth, on Saturday morning, Oct. 5, 1895, Joseph Tilney, in the 75th year of his age.

Funeral services at the residence of his son-in-law, William B. Wadsworth, No. 452 West Eighth street, on Tuesday, October 8th, 1895, at 3 p. m.

HENRY—In this city, October 6th, 1895, John Henry, aged 30 years.

Funeral from his late residence, East Front street, Tuesday morning, October 8th, 8:30 at the house and 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Church. Friends and relatives are respectfully invited to attend.

GAVIN—In North Plainfield, Monday, October 7th, 1895, Benjamin E., son of Edward P. and Mary Gavin, aged 30 years 11 days.

Funeral services from the residence of his parents on Greenbrook road, Wednesday morning, October 9th, at 9 o'clock and 9:30 in St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield. 10 7 2

Assignee's Sale.

Tunis J. Carey, Auctioneer, will, under the direction of the subscriber, expose to sale at public vendue, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, October 19th instant, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., at No. 320 West Front street, in the city of Plainfield, N. J., engine and boilers in basement, engine on third floor, two tailor wagons, two cutting machines, five sewing machines, twelve hand trucks, eleven desks, one measuring machine, one sponging machine, one Herring safe, one letter press chairs, sofa, forty sample trunks, all platforms, racks and old lumber one awning, lot of electric light fixtures, one large mirror, steam radiator.

Also eighteen open accounts aggregating over $7,000, twenty past due promissory notes aggregating over $14,000, and sixty-four judgments aggregating over $78,000, a detailed list of which book accounts, notes and judgments may be inspected upon application to the Assignee, James F. MacDonald at his office at No. 320 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

Terms cash.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J., October 3rd, 1895.

JAMES F. MacDONALD,
Assignee of Christian Schepflin and Peter Schultz, partners, etc., as Schepflin, Schultz & Co., and also as C. Schepflin & Co., for the equal benefit of their creditors. 10 7 taw td

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" and freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure, lemon juice? It will cure, do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

AUCTION SALE
—OF—
Household Furniture

At Paff's hotel, corner Park and Westfield avenues, Scotch Plains, N. J.

The proprietor having disposed of the hotel property, will sell at 12 m., on

Wednesday, October 9,

the contents of the hotel, consisting of parlor, diningroom, bedroom and kitchen furniture, B. W. parlor suits in rep, and velvet, 6 bedroom suits, bureaus, diningroom chairs, body Brussels, ingrain and rag carpets, dish cupboards, closets, 8-day clock, lamps, pictures, crockery, glassware, kitchen utensils, etc.

At the barn—Business wagon, buckboard, Portland cutter sleigh, wheelbarrow, grindstone, ladders, large ice chest, horse manure, lot of choice poultry, etc.

Terms cash; sale positive.

THOMAS M. PAFF.
H. Hand, auct'r. 10 7 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

WANTED—By a family about to leave town, a situation for their coachman; a thoroughly reliable man. Address W. R. W., 922 Central avenue. 10 5 3

ROOMS to let. Apply on premises, 339 East Third street.

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

WANTED—Man and wife to take care of house for the winter. Address X care Press. 10 7 2

WANTED—A competent second girl. Call at 531 West 7th st., Tuesday p. m.

COW wanted. Address A. W. Haviland, 26 Rockview ave.

A BRIGHT active boy of good education, to come highly recommended to a position of trust. Integrity care Press. 10 7 2

A GOOD dressmaker wants steady employment; terms reasonable. Address V., care Press. 10 7 2

WOMAN wants a place by the week or month; good reference. 642 West 3d st.

RELIABLE person wants place as infant's nurse; good seamstress; reference. A., care Press.

FOUND—On the Springfield road, about two miles from Scotch Plains Thursday morning, a blanket shawl. Apply at this office.

WANTED—Competent cook and laundress; must have reference. Apply 95 Mercer ave.

WANTED—Nurse and seamstress at 945 Central ave; must have good reference. 10 7 2

AN umbrella was left at this office a few days ago. Owner can have it by proving property. 10 7 3

THREE Swedish girls wish situations at general housework. Call 212 Spooner avenue.

GOOD dressmaker wants more engagements by the day; terms reasonable. F., care Press.

WANTED—Girl to cook, wash and iron. 724 Watchung ave. 10 7 3

LOST—Fox terrier bitch, cob built, black and tan marks, finder rewarded. T. H. Keller, 307 East Front st. 10 7 3

COMPETENT cook and a waitress wanted. 224 East Fifth st. 10 7 tf

FOR RENT—Floor space and electric or steam power for manufactory. Climax Stopper Co., 4th and Washington sts. 10 5 3

FOR SALE—First-class grocery business, owing to death of owner. For particulars inquire of Geo. D. Morrison, adm'r, 48 Emily st., North Plainfield. 10 4 3

BOARDERS wanted; also table board. 10 Craig place. 10 4 3

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 1121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 5

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

FOR SALE—Bargain, 26 school desks with combination seats of the best make. Call in the morning at 1045 Arlington ave. 9 30 6

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

Our Business Grows

as it deserves to grow. Watch the crowds that come, listen to the talk. They all say the same—that it is the best store in town.

Don't You Think So?

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilberts ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch Imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 5[illegible]c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c; 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 38 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats, you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield's ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts, made of fine serge, both black and blue, $1.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants, 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants, were 50c, now 37c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 55c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.

Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles, 49c each.

English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannel and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices

U. B. CRANE Hatter and Furnisher
120 West Front Street.

Van Emburgh's & Son's.

EXTRA SALE.

OF

Genuine Irish Linen Handkerchiefs, full size for gentlemen,

13c Each.

The value of these handkerchiefs we leave for you to decide.

CHILDREN'S

School Handkerchiefs, fancy border, 1c each. School Handkerchiefs, hemstitched, 2 for 3c.

VanEmburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular Houses

THE DOGS OF BRUSSELS.

In That City Ten Thousand Canines Are Made Into Beasts of Burden.

In this country the dog is, in nine cases out of ten, the master of the man. In continental Europe the reverse is the case, the dog there being too often the martyr of the man. In Belgium is this especially noticeable, for one of the first things that impresses the stranger in Brussels is the immense number of dogs employed in drawing barrows and small carts about the streets. In that city alone over 10,000 dogs are so engaged, and the total number of draft dogs in the whole country is probably not less than 50,000.

Generations of servitude have made the Belgian dog a race apart. For his size he is said to possess the greatest pulling power of any animal, four times his own weight being considered a load well within his power. Taking his average weight as half a hundredweight this means that something like 5,000 tons are daily dragged about by canine labor in Belgium.

The economic importance of the Belgian dog and his inability to give effective expression to his own grievances have caused the Royal Society For the Protection of Animals to undertake an agitation for the amelioration of his lot. It is urged that the animals are frequently overloaded and often cruelly treated and that in many cases they are given no opportunity for resting when the cart or barrow is not actually in motion. Among the reforms demanded are (1) the abolition of the whip and severe penalties against the brutal practice of kicking tired out dogs; (2) the raising of the minimum shoulder height for dogs of burden from 20 to 22 inches; (3) a penalty against drunkenness when in charge and against the employment of children as drivers, and (4) the compulsory arrangement of harness and shafts so as to permit the animals to lie down when the vehicle is at rest. Although there is no demand as yet, by either the dogs or their biped friends, for an eight hour law, there can be no doubt that the adoption of these planks in the platform of canine emancipation will be hailed with gratitude throughout weary dogdom in the domain of King Leopold.—Baltimore News.

A RISKY BUSINESS.

The Habit Indians Have of Sewing the Lips of the Deadly Cobras.

A large cobra de capello was sent home several years ago to Sir Joseph Fayrer, who wanted a supply of venom for analysis. It bit the spoon repeatedly without yielding any, and upon examination was found to have none to yield, not only its fangs but the poisonous glands having been extirpated. A protective operation still more cruel is sometimes practiced by novices in the art of charming and consists of securing the mouth with a stitch of silk passed through the lips in front.

To perform this the poor beast's head is held tightly pressed to the ground by a short stick on which the foot rests, while the other foot restrains the writhing body, leaving both hands at liberty for the needle. Eleven apparently healthy cobras were on one occasion received at the London Zoological gardens. They refused to feed and grew thin. When one died it was discovered that its mouth was sewn up with stitches so fine as to be invisible to any but the closest scrutiny. The rest of them did well on being restored to their normal condition.

In connection with this subject I may mention that a rattlesnake was sent to me from up the country when I was in Demerara, with the history that it had killed a cooly on one of the plantations. It had been badly injured about the spine, probably in capture, so that on reaching me it was not only dead, but decomposed, and I was not able to make any very complete dissection, but I found that its lips were tied together with stitches—obviously the effort of an unpracticed hand, since the work was very coarse.

This had apparently been preceded by an unsuccessful attempt to extract the long, erectile, needlelike fangs, for one of these was twisted half round with its bony base and had penetrated the lower lip when the jaws were forcibly closed. It is hardly possible that the duct was not occluded, but enough venom must have remained within the tube of the tiny, delicate syringe to inflict a fatal scratch.—Exchange.

A Scientific Enthusiast.

It is a common error to think of science as opposed to all the poetry of life and scientists as the most cold and matter of fact men. In reality the true scientist is almost always a poet at heart, and the greater he is the more certain is he to be a pure enthusiast and of a deeply reverent spirit. Kepler, exclaiming in the moment of his great discovery, "O God, I think thy thoughts after thee!" is a type of this.

Professor Farrar, who occupied the chair of natural philosophy at Harvard university two-thirds of a century ago, was a man possessed of this enthusiasm for his work, and was beloved by his pupils, whom he inspired with something of his own spirit.

One day the class entered the lecture room and found the professor walking backward and forward, with kindled eye and working face, holding a ball in his hand. Presently he stopped and confronted the class and exclaimed, suiting the action to the word:

"I toss this ball into the air; the earth rises up to meet it and the stars bow down to do it reverence!"

Probably no member of the class who heard these words ever forgot their absolutely accurate lesson—that action and reaction are equal; that the apple which falls to the earth at the same time draws the earth to itself in the exact ratio of their relative weight, and disturbs even the course of the planets and stars. Still less could they forget the grandeur and unity so vividly expressed in that brief imagery.—Youth's Companion.

A Hint to an Advertiser.

An up town firm recently advertised for a lady stenographer, requesting each applicant to state her age. Among the numerous answers was the following epistle:

"To ask a lady her age is considered highly improper, and you people ought to know so, but you don't. Why don't you advertise you want a lady of such and such an age? Please bear this in mind."—Philadelphia Call.

Most of the Syrian rugs are made with a small square of some decided color, generally blue, in the center, which is supposed to have the merit of warding off the "evil eye." The rugmakers use no patterns, depending entirely on the memory.

A quarter of an hour seems very long or very short according to whether you're waiting for some one or the other fellow is waiting for you.

A well known London lady carries an acorn shaped watch which has a tiny pistol that serves as an alarm.

MARY VANCE.

When I was young and had the skill
To take the tune of Cupid's making,
And teach my sweetheart from the hill
A pretty trick for dear escaping,
When by the constant lavender
Or gipsy rose she staid to parley,
Oh, cheerily went my feet to her
Along the road to Varley.

Ah, Mary Vance, when you with me
Were keeping starlit company,
The mile of bliss,
The laugh and kiss
From Shepperton to Varley!

Not warm enough my lips to keep
The lips of death from cold caresses!
O weary head, to never sleep
Upon her heart, amid her tresses!
No more to watch the foam of light
Run lipping over seas of barley,
For Death, the harvester, by night
Went down the road to Varley!

Ah, Mary Vance, when you with me
Were keeping starlit company,
The mile of sweet
Between the wheat
From Shepperton to Varley!

—Norman Gale.

A DUST STORM IN NEBRASKA.

One of Those Intensely Disagreeable Visitations Which Are Demoralizing.

A sweet, breezy May morning, so crisp and cool as to be autumnal in suggestion. A sky intensely blue, with just the fugitive sail of a cloud showing once in awhile on its sapphirine expanse. A wind blows up, a wind that is warm—caressingly so. Soon it stings. The eyelids tingle. One goes indoors; contemplates the weather from a comparative point of vantage. But it is necessary to keep the windows shut, else the dust, that is like pumice stone, would choke, suffocate one. As it is it blows in through closed shutters and secured windows. It furs the carpet. It dims the velours of the best chairs. It ridges the woodwork of the furniture. It makes gritty to touch the cup you drink from, the paper you write on, the page of the book you read. It grimes the baby's white gown. Everywhere it lies, on chair and bookcase, on shelf and stair, on window ledge and picture frame, thick and soft as pale brown velvet.

As the sun goes up it grows hot—hotter. The wind from Kansas, blowing up scorchingly, is a fierce fever of kisses—kisses that, like a courtesan's, burn, blight and disenchant.

The sky has darkened. Is it going to rain—by any blessed mischance? No; the darkness is that of dust—dust in little, long, wavelike currents on the country roads; dust rising in whirls, the spirals of which are shaped like waterspouts; dust which surges up with a sullen roar, which hangs a thick, dun pall between earth and heaven, which makes darkness at 5 o'clock in May, which sifts in on your pillow all night long to the tune of a vagrant and accursed wind, which dries your throat, grits between your teeth and colors your dreams, which lies upon your garments in the morning and shows on your haggard face. You rise, bathe, dress. You are deceived by an abrupt, a sudden, a delightful lull, which lasts perhaps two or three hours. But before noon it begins all over again.

Repetition! revenge! resignation! the clock seems to tick.

The first is inevitable. The second is impossible. The third—they say St. Lawrence suggested a turn on the gridiron during his martyrdom. Those who endure the torture of a summer in a small western town, where a sprinkling cart is an unknown institution, never make a similar demand. For the heat is enveloping, and they are roasted in the most prompt, uniform and impartial manner imaginable.—Chicago Tribune.

Tyndall's Alpine Experiences.

I remember Professor Tyndall describing one highly critical situation in which he found himself on the occasion of a solitary ascent of Monte Rosa. Nothing could be more rash, for the man who crosses a snowfield alone always exposes himself to the chance of perishing miserably in a concealed crevasse, whereas, if roped to a couple of companions, he is practically safe from this risk. However, Tyndall had successfully made his way to the top, having escaped the dangers of the glacier and conquered the difficulty of the final arete, and he was basking in the glorious sunshine which lighted up the Italian valleys far below, when, as he sat, he saw his ax, which he had placed by his side, gliding away over the snow. If it had fallen, nothing on earth could have brought him down alive. No human being could descend those steep slopes of ice alone without the help of an ax.

The anxiety of the moment was tremendous, for it was out of his reach, and he could only gaze passively at it as it slid to the edge of the little plateau and nearly disappeared from view. Not quite, however, for the ax head buried itself in a ledge a few inches below and fortunately stuck there. The professor said it was his narrowest escape in many years of climbing, and he never again ascended a snow mountain alone.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Cosmopolitan City.

Here's an episode from real life, which clearly demonstrates the cosmopolitan character of the metropolis. An Italian sent an American lad to a Chinaman for his laundry. The American gave the Chinaman a 50 cent piece. John bit on it and said: "Counterfeit. You gettee in tlouble. Me keepee," and put it in his pocket. The Italian then called and started to give the Chinaman a beating. A Greek left his oyster stand to act as peacemaker. The Italian drew a razor, and the Greek shied a bottle of cayenne pepper at him, which struck a Hebrew. A negro who was passing shouted, and an Irishman in the uniform of a policeman arrested the fighting congress of nations and took them to court, which was presided over by a German police justice.—New York Letter.

Question of Relative Endurance.

A rather interesting statement was made by a street contractor of this city recently. It was that Irishmen were not only quicker and hardier than Italians, but that as laborers nearly double the amount of work could be gotten out of them. The author of this assertion is himself an experienced workman and has during his 30 years of business employed laborers of both nationalities.—Philadelphia Call.

From a Baker's Standpoint.

"I wish you'd help me with this bread," said the baker.

"I never promised to be your business assistant," said his wife.

"You promised to stand by me in my hour of knead," said the baker.—Exchange.

Missouri has 14,006 working oxen, or 7,003 teams, causing every year 100 times that number of profane expressions from the drivers.

Lake Michigan was so named by the Indians. The word means a "fishtrap."

DR. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills

CURE

all Kidney Troubles, such as Bright's Disease, Congestion, Diabetes, Sleeplessness; and all Blood Diseases, such as Rheumatism, Gout, Anæmia, Chlorosis, Sallow Complexion, Headache, Dizziness, etc.,

by revitalizing the Kidneys and purifying the blood.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box, or mailed post paid on receipt of price. Write for pamphlet explaining new treatment, to

HOBB'S MEDICINE CO., CHICAGO. SAN FRANCISCO.

Educational.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE

Babcock Building. Largest room: elevator. A great need to be supplied. Four regular courses—Commercial, Shorthand, Penmanship, English Branches. Everything first-class: 5 days and 4 nights a week. Public opening evening of Sept. 30; school begins Oct. 1. Address Rev. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J. 9 11 m

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM, 525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST. 9 4 tf

The Dancing Class —AT THE— SEMINARY will re-open on Wednesday, October 16, under the management of ROBERT RUTLEDGE, master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 86th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY will re-open SEPTEMBER 19, 1895. (28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE. Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG, PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French German, Latin, Russian, Drawing Painting and English Branches. SEPTEMBER 20, 1895. Address 426 East 2d st. eod

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE, TEACHER OF PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson will re-open classes in Physical Culture & Rendering OCTOBER 1, 1895.

Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

Miss Fawcett's School And Kindergarten, 25 WASHINGTON AVENUE, North Plainfield, N. J. Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J. Trucking of all Kinds Done.

Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos. Satisfaction guaranteed

Rockview Home and Day School REOPENS SEPT. 18. Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York. THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 30, 1895.

Austin Annie B	Lee James
Anderson Archer	McKibben Mrs Alice
Allen James	Miller R W 3
Ashley Mrs L I	Miller W H
Brown Charlotte M	Mulligan Ellen
Brown Miss	Moran J M
Butsche Geo	McLaughlin Laura
Brown Mrs Annie	Mills Mrs F H
Bunner Mrs	Nathan Miss C 3
Chambers A	Osborn Mary
Campbell Fannie	O'Brien Lizzie
Cline John	Pugh Annie 2
Emery W H	Parker Edward 2
Gadling Jno J	Porteous J S
Gyllenberg Lotten	Rodriguez Mercedes
Giles H J	Tienan Mrs E
Godfrey D F	Voss Annie
Jennings Mrs L S	Vial Gus 2
Jones Miss S	Wigg C
Kelly Jacob 3	Wood Miss Maggie

Watson Mike A

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S, Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name, Take Our Number, Call and See Our Goods. Woolston & Buckle, 141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET. (Estate D. I. Smalley.) 94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT, Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to. 325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE, DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered. 230 Park ave., opp. North ave

A. Lusardi, 120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S Marble and Granite Works, SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United State Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp, The Oil Heater, The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

Waverley Fair.

As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to

Amos H. VanHorn LIMITED, 73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry.
Curly birch chamber suit
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit.
Antique oak hat rack.

All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 55c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.

Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best building, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited, 73 MARKET STREET, Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters will be found at Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap. All sizes in Packing Trunks. E. M. Laing, 105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 03, 7 29, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 59 a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08. 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11.45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 9 00, 9 15, 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m, 2 00, 2 30, 4 00, 7 00, 9 00, 10.00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 7 30, 8 03, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 03, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 18, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 10 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 6 15, 7 35, 8 10, 9 05, 11 25, p m. Sunday 7 30, 8 05, 9 30, 11 20 a m; 1 10, 2 35; 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m. Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 42, 2 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 28, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 23, p m; 12 [illegible] night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 11 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7.35, 7 40, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 2 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 50, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 45, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m, 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 [illegible] m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 40, 6 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 32 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 54 a. m.; 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

[illegible] a. m. For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

[illegible] a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coaches to Williamsport.

[illegible] p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

[illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car Mauch Chunk.

5 [illegible] p m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington.

6 [illegible] p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

[illegible] p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

[illegible] p. m. Sundays—For Easton.

[illegible] p. m. Sundays—For High Bridge for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 [illegible] p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 00, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 24, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27, a.m., 1 18, 3 37, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m., 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p m, 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45 8 44, 9 44, 10 44 a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, a. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, 5 14*. 6 35*. p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m, 5 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co., EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager. Cesspools Built.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,
Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE
Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,
119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale
AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,
High-Class
PORTRAITS
In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.
483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,
COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Supreme Court Commissioner.
First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's
LAW OFFICES,
Corner Park ave and 2d st.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery.
Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE
Even though you have
A Comfortable Bed,
You should
Lay in Your Coal
for the Winter.
George O. Stevens
747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,
Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.
128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day. 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
COAL AND WOOD.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue.
Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.
MRS. L. ADAMS,
114 EAST FRONT STREET,
Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,
Fresh, and from
Pure Materials.
TIER'S,
116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

Buy Your Clothing AT WHOLESALE PRICES

We are the largest wholesale manufacturers of exclusively good clothing in the world.

Orders for our wholesale customers being all filled, we have placed the balance of stock into our retail stores and will sell it at

Strictly Wholesale Prices

This represents nearly a half a million dollars' worth of fine Fall and Winter Clothing:

Look at the Prices!

Finest Quality All Wool Suits and Overcoats.	8.00 / 12.00	10.00 / 15.00
Nicest and Best Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters.	3.50 / 7.50	5.00 / 10.00
5,000 Trousers, Select Patterns, Best Goods.	3.50 / 5.00	4.00 / 6.00

TWO BROADWAY STORES:
194 Broadway, below Fulton St.,
AND
Stewart Bldg., cor. B'way & Chambers St.
NEW YORK.

BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & CO.

LOOK IN THE CLOSET

SEE if you can't find some old clothes that you have put aside because of the worn-out look they have, or some clothes that are badly spotted.

We want you to bring any old clothes of that sort to us—or better yet—we'll send for them.

We propose to clean those clothes—or to dye them for you—either way to make them wearable. This is an economical suggestion.

We take out grease spots so they stay out, or we dye clothes with a color that wears. We charge as little as poasible for the work.

Just a dollar or two—and you'll have a lot of new clothes.

HILLIER & CO.,
179 North Ave.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts
No but full value. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W. RANDOLPH'S,
Prescription Druggist,
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

VI.

Ross Thorpe mentioned to his sister, one day, that Jack would pay him a visit the next morning, by appointment, but perhaps that had nothing to do with the fact that when Mr. Burroughs was formally announced, at the expected time, Miss Constance Dessine happened to be in the parlor, calling upon her friend Amy, and of course received a formal introduction to him.

"So," thought Jack, regarding her with interest, "that's the girl who remembered me a year, merely from one casual glance. What a memory for faces she must have!"

In his innocent freedom from personal vanity, the idea did not occur to him that her recollection in his case was perhaps exceptional and due to some special attraction other faces might not have possessed for her. That he would always remember her, he did not doubt, but that was a very different matter. Her face was not one to be forgotten. And yet, he could not have turned away and described it, to save his neck. His perception of its details was very vague. Her great dark eyes seemed to fascinate his sight, whenever he looked at her, and all else of her features were merged in a general impression of perfect loveliness. She sang, and he was enthralled by her voice; she spoke, and seemed to him a paragon of wit and sense; she walked, and he thrilled with admiration of her grace and the beauty of her figure; she sat still and silent, yet even in her repose he found new charms. If ever a young man unconsciously plunged headlong in love, John Burroughs did.

Constance had been playing on the piano and he stood beside her, having been occupied in the ecstatic duty of turning her music, when he said, in a low voice: "Ross tells me you recognized me, after a year." His alluding to that mnemonic feat would have been sufficient evidence to any one who knew him, of the wholly impersonal way he was considering it, but Constance did not yet know him well enough to understand that, and blushed violently at being so directly charged with holding a young man in remembrance, and by the young man himself; nevertheless, it was true, and she simply answered, "Yes."

"It is surprising! I'm sure I should have remembered you, if I had seen you, but that would have been because it was you. And I fancy it is well I did not."

"Why so?" she asked, in surprise.

"If I had, I think it would have been harder for me to adhere to the plans I had made. I would have been wanting to see you again instead of sticking to my work."

CHAPTER IV.—CONTINUED.

That was gratifying, but as far as she could permit him to go in a first interview, and it is questionable if he could have realized how far it seemed to her expectant senses. She arose, smiling and saying lightly, "Your friends would not allow anybody to forget you; they were so constantly speculating upon what had become of you." But, as they walked slowly toward where Amy and Ross were sitting, at the other end of the room, she stopped and said earnestly: "I want to apologize for listening to what you said that day. It was rude of me to do so, but you were so close and spoke so clearly that I could not help hearing you."

"You have nothing to apologize for. I am glad you heard me, if it helped you to remember me."

"I think it did," she replied laughingly. "And did you never miss that money?"

"Not once. I went to work the next day and have, ever since, earned all I required. It is surprising how little a man really needs."

"Have you heard anything lately about the suit?" asked Ross, as they approached him.

"Yes," answered Jack. "Court of Appeals next term, my lawyer says."

"Do you feel anxious?"

"No. Why should I? Even if they take the estate, they cannot take me."

"And if you win, what will you do? Bloom out as a leader of society?"

"No. Master of an iron works."

"What! Even if you don't need to make money any more?"

"A man needs useful occupation more than money."

"I'm sorry to hear you say so. You evidently forget the pious maxim that 'Satan finds some mischief still, for busy hands to do.'"

"I should think," remarked Constance, "you would wish to get away from a class of men capable of assassinating those they do not happen to like."

"Only a few of the men are bad, and they are so only through ignorance. Men who have the courage to toil honestly for a livelihood, are inherently capable of noble deeds, and only do base ones through lack of moral and social development."

"The chaps who tried to blow you up must have lacked a good deal," commented Ross.

"Yes, but they were only tools. The worst scoundrel in that bad affair was one who did no honest work, Janovics, and by the time he comes out of state prison, working men, I hope, will have grown mentally and morally beyond his influence."

The evening was a very pleasant one, and when Jack, on reaching home, set his little alarm-clock to arouse him at daybreak he said to himself deliberately: "When I am an iron master, I shall make that girl Mrs. Burroughs."

VII.

Summer's heats had come, yet Constance would not make up her mind where she would go, out of town.

"I don't care a last year's bird's nest," said Aunt Keturah, "where we go, so long as it isn't everywhere and we get off before snow-storms make travelling bad."

Amy Thorpe declared, "I just won't go anywhere without you this summer, Constance, and if I die from staying in town, you will be responsible, morally at least. So pack up and let us be off to Bar Harbor at once."

"Where do you suppose Mr. Burroughs intends to spend his vacation?" replied Constance inconsequently. "Don't you think Ross could find out?"

Ross tried, and his report was far from encouraging. "Jack says he is not going anywhere that fish is allowed only one vacation, the long one that comes after everything else."

"Heavens!" exclaimed Amy, "what a pessimistic mood he must be in. That is the effect of the weather already."

"Yes," assented Ross, looking very seriously at Constance, "scientists recognize that continuous exposure to a temperature from eighty to ninety degrees provokes melancholy and from ninety-five up, especially with humidity, incites to murder. John ought to be carefully watched this summer."

The girls looked alarmed—particularly Constance, though she said least.

"I know," continued Ross, "of a watering place neither of you is acquainted with; the biggest, and jolliest, and best in the land; where the amusements are most diversified, the luxuries unbounded, the inconveniences fewest, the extortions least, and within easy reach of Jack—"

"Where is it? Where is it?" they cried, interrupting him.

"Right here. New York," he affirmed, with an air of confidence.

And when he gave them a vague outline of what they had, all their lives, turned their backs upon and missed, they said, "This summer we will take it all in—and Jack shall be our excuse."

Jack was shy at first. He was sensitive about being seen, recognized and claimed by old-time acquaintances before he had conquered the position at which he aimed, and he had got quite out of the way of holiday-making. But when Ross assured him that none of their old set were in town and hinted that Constance expected his company—had even, perhaps, remained in the city on his account—he resisted no longer. And soon it became a regular habit for him, when work stopped at noon, on Saturdays, to change his clothes at the foundry and go directly to keep an appointment with Ross and the girls. Merry times they had at Manhattan Beach, Long Beach, Coney Island, Rockaway, Glen Island or some other popular resort. The scenes presented to them had all the charm of novelty for Constance and Amy, and were sufficiently varied to retain their interest. Even South Beach, Fort Lee and Bowery Bay were visited, once each, but Amy declared that was as near "slumming" as she cared to go, and as much of it as she could stand, so thereafter Ross—whose experiences were thorough—knew "just where to draw the line." Altogether they passed a very jolly summer and, for two at least of the quartette, it was also a very happy one.

In October, the Court of Appeals reversed the decision of the lower court in the case involving the Burroughs estate, blighting utterly the hopes of the rascally conspirators and making Jack a rich man again. On the same day that this intelligence reached him, he made a formal proposition to the proprietors of the Vulcan Works, to buy a large interest in their business, which they took under advisement. Not until that matter was decided would Jack say anything to his friends about his changed fortune, or essay what he had determined should be the next number on his programme.

SEARCH-LIGHT ON THE LOVERS.

Even after its steel frame has been erected, a long time is required for the finishing of one of the monster modern office buildings. The skeleton must be clothed with stone, its interior divided by fire and sound proof floors and partitions, its hall-ways wainscotted with gentle polished marbles, and a world of intricate appliances for lighting, heating, ventilating, etc., put in place. It [illegible] seemed a marvel of expedition, when the great building Jack worked on in the spring had been brought to completion by November. Its proprietors, justly proud of their handsome edifice, resolved to signalize the event, and at the same time make a most effective announcement of their readiness to accommodate tenants, by giving such a "house-warming" as had never been seen in New York. Their invitations were sent out broadcast, to "society" people, bankers, merchants, speculators, investors, everybody in fact sufficiently prominent to be thought of, and, in a kindly spirit of old-fashioned fraternity unfortunately much rarer now than it used to be—to all the men who had been conspicuously engaged, even in subordinate capacities, in the actual erection and completion of the building. Democratic as this comprehensive in-gathering was, it produced one of the most brilliant and notable events of the season.

For that night, the big building dedicated to the stern practicalities of business life, was transformed to a fairy-land palace. Rooms, halls and stairways were tastefully decorated with flowers, evergreens and bunting; electric lights flooded the scene with an illumination more intense than sunshine and the air was tropical with warmth and perfume. A full military band on the first floor, and a "reed and string" orchestra on the seventh, supplied music for what was either one enormous nineteen-story ball, or some forty distinct balls in the many suites of large apartments, according as one chose to regard it.

John Burroughs was among the guests, and in a very happy mood, for that afternoon, the papers had been signed making him one of the proprietors of the great Vulcan Works, and the time had come for the realization of another cherished purpose. He found Constance, with the Thorpes, and, being full of his content, almost immediately proposed that she should accompany him to the dome, for a view of the city at night from that grand elevation. The girls exchanged glances, for both instinctively divined his real purpose, betrayed to their keen perceptions by his impetuosity and a little nervousness of which he himself was not aware. Certainly Constance would accompany him, and she asked Amy to go along.

"PACK UP AND LET US BE OFF."

which that astute young woman declined, saying she preferred to dance, and when Ross manifested an inopportune desire to have a look from the dome with them, she gave him such a meaning pinch that he quickly changed his mind.

From the twentieth story, where a grand banquet was being set out, Constance and Jack ascended three flights of stairs, to the upper floor of the dome. There they stepped out upon the narrow balcony which, [illegible] by a breast-high facing of ornamental iron-work, ran around the structure. The snow-clad city, sparkling with its myriad lights and overhung by a radiant golden canopy, was indeed a fair sight to see, and they stood for a few moments as spell-bound by its beauty. But John Burroughs had not come up there to admire scenery.

"Constance," he said, "I have brought you up here nominally to see, but really to hear. For some time, in fact ever since I have known you, I have felt that the happiness of my life depended upon my making you my wife. Of course, I said nothing to you of my love so long as my position was indeterminate and my future doubtful. Those conditions exist no longer. The foundry-foreman has become an iron-master. And now I am able to say to you, Constance, I love you with my whole heart and soul, and want you to be my wife. Will you?"

"Yes; very willingly," she replied, meeting his ardent gaze with a look eloquent of affection.

He drew her to him, in a fond embrace, and kissed her.

At that instant, from the dome of a distant newspaper building, the vast white beam of an electric search-light was flashed full upon the lovers. The pretty tableau they presented lasted but a second, for Constance with a scream and Jack with an ejaculation that was not a blessing, vanished into the dome.

The End.

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.
—BRANCH—
OLYMPIA HALL,
416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. R. Leroy Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., No. 8 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J., beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes every Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 11 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms—For term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons morning, by hour, by appointment. 95 m

New! New!

YES
But Stop, Consider
what a combination of valuable medicines,
Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,
BLOOD PURIFIER
TONIC
AND NERVINE.
Try a bottle and be convinced.
50C.
Leggett's Pharmacy.

PIANOS.
You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at
J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

Honeyman's Private Tours.
NEXT to the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.
Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Frightened at the Trolley.

An exciting incident occurred on West Front street yesterday afternoon, when the horse of Mr. Work, of 315 Carleton avenue, became frightened at a trolley car and plunged across the road into a fence, where he badly cut himself in the flank. Mr. Work was badly hurt about the forehead by striking a portion of the buggy. Dr. Lawler was called and cared for the injuries of the horse.

Union County Medical Society.

The annual meeting of the Union County Medical Society will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall in this city on Wednesday afternoon next at two o'clock. There will be papers read, and discussions and important business.

—A sermon in the course on "The Sacramentals of the Church" was preached in St. Mary's R. C. church last evening by Rev. Father Murphy. They will be continued every Sunday evening, Rev. Father Smyth alternating with Father Murphy.

Apt Quotation.

The old Tate and Brady version of the Psalms used to be as familiar to a former generation as was the catechism. A good story was told not long ago of two noted Englishmen, Lord Palmerston and Bishop Wilberforce, in which the once popular psalmbook plays an important part:

These two eminent personages were visiting at a country house. On the morning of departure they were told that carriages were ready to take the departing guests to the railway station. Palmerston settled to go in one of these carriages, as he feared there would be rain, but the bishop, who was a great pedestrian, preferred to walk.

Before he had proceeded half way to the station a heavy shower of rain came on. Yet the good bishop struggled on, when the carriage containing Lord Palmerston overtook him, and his lordship called out from its window a part of the first verse of the Tate and Brady version of the first Psalm:

> How blest is he who ne'er consents
> By ill advice to walk.

But Bishop Wilberforce, with the usual twinkle in his eye, replied with the rest of the verse:

> Nor stands in sinners' ways, nor sits
> Where men profanely talk.

And the bishop drew to one side and proceeded to walk on.—Youth's Companion.

Go Nicely With Roast Captives.

War is a frightful thing under all circumstances, and some of the most dreadful wars have been waged on the most flimsy and foolish pretext, even if they had a pretext at all. But probably no stranger reason for war or peace was ever recorded than has been noted by a French governor of the south Pacific colony of New Caledonia.

This governor, who was also an admiral of the navy, assumed his authority while the natives of New Caledonia were still cannibals. There had been rumors of an insurrection, and the admiral called before him a native chief who was faithful to the French cause and questioned him as to their truth.

"You may be sure," said the native, "that there will be no war at present, because the yams are not yet ripe."

"The yams, you say?"

"Yes. Our people never make war except when the yams are ripe."

"Why is that?"

"Because baked yams go so very well with the captives!"

Awakened by a Brass Ligament.

The study of etymology causes no end of trouble among that class of school children whose knowledge of English is limited to words which figure in the ordinary street conversation, and many curious results have followed. The custom usually observed by the teachers is to require first a definition of the word, then its derivation and finally a sentence in which the word is properly used. The word "ligament" fell to the lot of a rather diffident boy recently in the Camac grammar school at Thirteenth and Norris streets. He defined it properly as "a band," but followed up the correct derivation with the remarkable sentence, "I was wakened up last night by hearing a brass ligament going down the street."—Philadelphia Record.

Back Number GARMENTS

ARE FULL OF POSSIBILITIES.

Let us see if we can't discover a way of cleaning or dyeing them and helping you to economize.

We do this work perfectly—we turn the old spiritless faded looking clothing into bright lifelike effects—into the goodness of newness—maybe cleaning will do it—maybe dyeing. Shall we send for the goods? A postal will bring us, or our laundry drivers will take the work.

HILLIER & CO.,
179 North Avenue,

John Mullins,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

Everything Neceesary for Housekeeping! Cash or Credit! Liberal Terms to Everybody!

$12 For this handsome solid oak chamber suit, French bevel plate mirror, worth $20. 100 other styles to select from. $12

Bargains in Parlor Suits.

$20 Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in silk Brocatelle, tapestry or rug, actual value $40. $20

New Fall Carpets.

The very latest styles and patterns of the finest textures, and at prices lower by 25 per cent. than any other house in the country.

Moquette,	Velvet,	Brussels,	Ingrain,
$1.00	90c	50c	30c
per yd	per yd	per yd	per yd

Goods safely packed and delivered free to any part of the State.

JOHN MULLINS,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

BRANCH STORES:

121 to 125 Newark avenue, Jersey City, N. J. 136 and 138 Main street, Paterson, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHY SUFFER FROM LACK OF LIGHT, Get Vexed Every Day with Poor Lamps?

BUY "THE MILLER" LAMPS

which give plenty of light (made in four sizes,) are as easy to light as gas, easy to trim, wick does not have to be "trimmed," chimneys are not "smoked" or broken by the flame, perfectly simple and safe. The NEW IDEAS (our patents) used exclusively in "The Miller" make it the best and so the cheapest lamp made. If by accident any part is broken it can be replaced, so there is practically no wear out to a "Miller" Lamp.

We make more than a thousand varieties—all styles—in BEAUTIFUL and Staple designs suited to light Houses, Club, Store, Factory, Church, &c., &c. If your dealer will not supply genuine "Miller" Lamps come to our store.

FOR GIFTS nothing more beautiful or useful than a "Miller" Lamp, or an elegant Onyx and Brass Table.

Established as MANUFACTURERS in 1844.

☞ Save This Card, It Is Valuable.

EDWARD MILLER & CO., 23 & 30 WEST BROADWAY, (66 Park Pl.) bet. Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.

Convenient to all "down-town" Ferries, and Elevated Stations at Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.

☞ For Cool Weather buy a "MILLER" OIL HEATER.

FOR SALE BY W. L. GAVETT & CO.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations

ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,
140 West Front Street.

LECTURE

BY MISS JANE M. SLOCUM,
Subject, "The Ethics of Citizenship,"
IN Y. M. C. A. HALL,
Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 4 p.m.
Tickets 25c.

Bicycle and golf costumes exhibited before and after the lecture. 10 5 2

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

This new institution opened with a score of students, October 1st, in the Babcock building. The prospect brightens every day. The enterprise is an assured success. A grand opportunity is now offered to the young men and women of Plainfield and its neighboring towns. Beautiful rooms. Excellent systems. Good teachers. Four courses of study. Students enter at any time. Address, Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J.

Stone for Flagging

of a superior quality and finish and at a moderate price. Apply to

J. C. DYER,
218 West Front Street

JUST A MINUTE

OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,
206 West Front st.

MISS BIGLOW

will resume instruction to pupils on the piano on Monday, Sept. 23, at 130 West 4th st, corner Arlington avenue. 9 19 3

Countess de Pollone Married.

New York, Oct. 7.—A special dispatch from Stockbridge, Mass., says: The countess Katherine de Pollone, daughter of the late Count de Pollone of Turin, Italy, was married in St. Paul's church Saturday to Henry Hollister Pease of New York. Mr. Pease, his best man, Albert, and his ushers, are all graduates of Harvard.

Festivities Ended in Death.

New York, Oct. 7.—A special to the Times from Guadalajara, Mexico, says: The employes on the large hacienda of Miguel Vacues, in this state, gave a celebration yesterday that was largely attended. The festivities ended in a general fight, in which three men were killed and seventeen others seriously wounded.

German Ironmasters' Trust.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Consul Warner, stationed at Cologne, Germany, informs the department of state that the German ironmasters are endeavoring to form trusts to regulate prices. America has again commenced to give orders for special iron which was so largely imported years back.

Bicyclist Fatally Injured.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 7.—John Kelly, while riding on a bicycle on St. James street, was run over by a runaway horse. His wheel was broken into pieces and the wagon passed over his back. He received injuries that will prove fatal.

Breckenridge's Victory.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 7.—Ex-Congressman Breckenridge took a hand in the election of precinct committeemen and obtained four majority in this county. His friends claim a majority in the district.

Omnium's Prix du Conseil.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The race for the Prix du Conseil Municipal was run yesterday and was won by Omnium. The weather was rainy and the going heavy. President Faure was present.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.
At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 57c a yd.
At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.
At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.
At 45c—An all wool black serge, 45 in. wide very reasonable at 55c a yd.
At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.
At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.
At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?
Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.
At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.
At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

Salesmen Wanted

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our choice nursery stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest salary or commission paid weekly; steady employment the year round; outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to

Allen Nursery Co.,
Rochester, N. Y.

Please the Eye

with harmonious designs in wall paper and paints and see that the artisans who put the paper on the wall and the paint on the door and baseboards are thoroughly competent. It is our aim to satisfy you in both respects and we request an opportunity to convince you of our ability.

Paints, oils, varnishes, etc.

E. E. MARSHALL,
167 North avenue.

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of

FINE STATIONERY,

consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,
Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

Thursday, Oct. 10.

Engagement Extraordinary.

Jos. Callahan,

with a first-class company of players. Great, grand, gigantic, in the electrical spectacular production,

FAUST.

New scenery (a carload) and appropriate costumes, startling electrical effects.

Hear two quartettes composed of male and female soloists, and the Florentine Choir Singers.

The Brocken, a triumph of stage mechanism. A scene of weird grandeur never equalled.

NEXT WEEK

Lizzie Evans

—IN—

Reportorie.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,
107 Park avenue.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS
88 FIFTH AVE.,
Near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 7 6m

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

LOOKING AFTER THE SCHOOLS

BOARD OF EDUCATION HOLD THEIR REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING.

Prof. Maxson Makes His Report on the Opening of the School Year, Showing a Large Attendance—Important Reports.

Most of the regular session of the Board of Education last evening was spent in closing up accounts for the various improvements and repairs necessary at the opening of the public schools.

Messrs. Jenkins, Lovell and Lounsbury were present when the meeting was called to order, while Dr. Probasco arrived later in the evening. In the absence of President Probasco, Mr. Lovell was elected temporary chairman. Clerk Clark read the minutes of the meeting of September 3d, which were duly approved. A number of bills were reported as approved and were ordered paid. The report of Tax-Collector John Johnson was next read and it gave the amount collected during the last month as $258 03.

Superintendent Maxson then reported for September. The school opened, he said, with a prompt and full attendance but the weather of the past few weeks had been so warm that little work was done, the schools being given one session for several days on account of the extreme heat.

The High School opened a week later on account of the delay in the arrival of the lumber for the floors. The entering class was very large, numbering nearly ninety. The changes in Assembly Hall had greatly helped the school and aided much in improving the discipline and management. The placing of the upper grades of the High School in one room made the school much more effective, but involved the necessity of omitting the Grammar School from the regular chapel exercises. The study of the sciences was still inadequate. The total number in the schools was 1,798, fifty-two more than last year. The crowding was greatest at the Bryant School where there were two classes of over sixty each. The pupils were placed on half time, part of the class coming in the morning and part in the afternoon.

The question of a new encyclopedia for the High School, and one for the Franklin School, which has none at present, was discussed, and Superintendent Maxson presented a volume of the International Encyclopedia which costs $60 a set. Mr. Lounsbury favored the Encyclopedia Britanica as it was larger and cheaper, but it was finally decided to let the subject rest until the next meeting.

Mr. Loundsbury, as chairman of the committee of building and repairs, made his report. The fire escapes had been placed upon the schools at a cost of $1,275.00, according to contract. Extension repairs had been made on the Stillman building, he said, but they were greatly needed. Their cost was as follows:—Carpenter work, $1,126.88; heating and ventilating, $615.40; architect's charges, $60; papering third floor, $65; rubber matting, $141.63; total, $2,008.91. The sum of $441.75 had been expended for desks and furniture, and a new flag erected at the cost of $131.88.

The expenses at the Franklin building was chiefly for plumbing, ventilating, papering, and mason work, and amounted to $429.03.

The laying of a flag sidewalk and curb was the principal work done at the Bryant where the cost was $366.64. Two new windows in the Washington building with other sundries amouted to $202.55. The largest item at the Irving school was for coating the blackboards, the total being $114.25. In the Wadsworth school, $51.31 was spent chiefly in providing city water. The expense so far had been $3,355.49, and altogether would amount to about $3,500.

Mr. Lounsbury also reported that a low bid had been obtained for connecting with sewers and that the pipe had been ordered laid to the curb. He brought up the question of the great expense of keeping the silicate black boards in order and thought that some other, less expensive kind be used.

The question of placing rubber matting on the stairs, as in the High School was discussed, but no action taken. The Irving and the Bryant are the only ones in condition to receive it at present.

After further discussion the building committee was asked to look into the cost of a vault to be constructed in the celler and a safe, as the present one is far to small to keep all the records of the board and is not fireproof. The question of a letter press and cabinet file was also left to the committee, who was instructed to report on all these questions at the next meeting.

After further consideration of minor business the Board went into executive session.

MAGGIE'S STORY UNTOLD.

A TECHNICALITY OF LAW KEEPS MISS NUGENT'S VOICE SILENT.

The Trial for the Right of Mrs. Fernandez's Property Brought Up Before Justice Newcorn—Decided for Blair.

The excitement caused by the sudden disappearance of Mrs. Ula Fernandez, culminated in a suit in Justice Newcorn's court. The trial was for the right of property, and was brought by Adam C. Blair to prove his ownership of the property formerly owned by Mrs. Fernandez and for which a writ of attachment had been issued by Mrs. Fernandez's creditors. Blair was not present at the trial, but was represented by his counsel, Judge W. A. Coddington.

The principal creditors, Mrs. L. Adams and Miss Maggie Nugent, were in attendance, while George DeMeza looked after their interests. The trial was before a jury of six, which consisted of Wm. Hand, Edward White, J. A. Harned, Wm. Dunham, Wm. Bowman and O. P. Baker.

Mr. Day, associated with Mr. Blair in the Metropolitan stables, was the first witness called by Judge Coddington. He testified that the horse, carriages and harness, formerly belonging to Mrs. Fernandez, were at the stable before the writ of attachment was issued. Judge Coddington next submitted a bill of sale signed before him, which recorded the sale of all of Mrs. Fernandez's property to Adam C. Blair for $1,000. Lawyer DeMeza asked for a non-suit as no consideration could be shown. Justice Newcorn declined to grant his request.

DeMeza then took the floor and stated that he would prove that the carriages, horse and harness did not belong to Blair. Miss Nugent, he said, went to Mr. Blair and Mr. Blair told her that she might have them, but that he did not wish to be brought into the case at all. Miss Nugent was put on the stand and Mr. DeMeza was about to have her tell the story in her own words when Mr. Coddington objected as her testimony would contradict a sealed instrument, the bill of sale, which cannot be done except at the Court of Chancery. DeMeza said that his case rested on that point and after considerable talk by the counsel, Justice Newcorn sustained Mr. Coddington's objection and Mr. DeMeza sat down. The Justice then instructed the jury to bring in a verdict to the effect that the property belonged to Blair, which they speedily did.

BENEFIT DANCE.

Germans Entertain in a Social Manner Last Night.

The benefit entertainment and dance tendered to the North Plainfield German school in the Saengerbund Hall on Somerset street last evening, was a success both socially and financially. After the opening overture by Prof. O'Reilly's orchestra, an excellent programme was provided for those present. The various numbers on the programme were well rendered by those taking part. During the evening the singing section under the direction of R Shroder, gave some very pleasing selections. The turning on the bar and the drilling by the children, both under the direction of C. Meyer, was excellent. After the programme was over the floor was cleared for dancing, and was kept up until early morn. The committee who had the affair in charge were M. Menzenbach, I. Kohner, Chas. Meyer, H. Meyer, L. Moraller.

—Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles at the leading hotels, clubs and cafes. 6

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

MAYOR GILBERT TALKS.

Addresses the Council on the Condition of Green Brook.

MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE ACTED ON

Mr. Gilbert Thinks That the City and Borough Should Be More Neighborly—Harvey Fisk Sons Willing to Cancel the Bond Contract—A Chemical Engine Ordered—A Defect in the Title to the Land Purchased for Sewage Beds—Trolley Extension Ordinance Ordered Engrossed and Advertised.—Other Details.

Last night's session of the City Council was an exceedingly busy one, and more than the usual time was occupied in transacting the business. All the members were present except Mr. Stockton.

On Mr. Fisk's motion the regular order of business was suspended to allow Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to make a statement regarding some of the property to be used for the sewage beds. He stated that there were some defects in regard to two titles, both for twenty-five acres. One was for property owned by Thomas Kane and the other formerly owned by the late Mr. Smock and now by Charles Hopp. On the latter Mrs. Penfield, he said, was willing to give a warranty deed for property in consideration of $125, and he advised the city to take it and in case anything should happen it would fall back on the warrantor. There was a cloud over the property in question but nothing that he thought was serious.

Mr. Ginna moved that the city take the title for the sum asked, $8,000, and that a waarant be drawn for that amount. The motion was carried, all voting yes except Councilmen Frazee and Moore.

The regular order of business was then taken up, and Clerk MacMurray read the minutes of the last regular and several adjourned meetings which were approved.

Chief Grant in a communication asked for an appropriation of $300 to purchase overcoats and trousers for the city policemen. It was referred to committee on police and public lights.

D. F. Stewart and others petitioned Council for two electric lights on John street. A petition from M. A. Haven and other residents of West Front street, asking for crosswalks at West End, Giraud and Grant avenues was referred.

The communication of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, to erect a piazza 14x6 at the house, 217 West Second street, was referred with power to the committee on police and public lights, as was also the petition from Charles Stimpson for an electric light on Carleton avenue east of Putnam avenue.

Elizabeth VanBuskirk and others petitioned the Council that the grade of the northwesterly side of Belvidere avenue, northeast of Charlotte road, be reduced one foot.

George Ames and others asked that a crosswalk be laid at Eighth street east of Plainfield avenue. At this point a communication from the Borough Board of Health relative to the condition of Green brook was presented and read. The letter was published exclusively in The Daily Press of last week. Another communication from Charles Maire and others, residents along the brook, complaining of its condition was also presented, and H. O. Newman for the Plainfield Board of Health in a communication stated that the condition of the brook prevented it being cleaned on account of obstructions.

Mayor Gilbert, who was present, desired to say something on the subject and the privilege was accorded him. He said in part that he felt it his duty to inspect Green brook and determine what action if any should be taken. He examined it between Tier's dam and Grove street and found at the outlet to the North avenue sewer that the water was discolored. For a distance of from 200 to 400 feet he found an oily substance on top. The stream in places was unsightly but not offensive to smell. He said he went to a point near the raceway and found the latter very offensive, with four house connections emptying into it. Something should be done to compel the owners of the raceway to put it in good sanitary condition.

Between Somerset street and Grove street the Board of Health a year ago reported no house connections. The Borough Board of Health claim there are thirty, but he doubted it. The offense is due to a vegetable matter and waste which is thrown into the brook on both sides. The borough is just as much to blame as the city is, he considered. They have made a dumping place of the ground in front of the Watchung avenue outlet. In the brook proper he discovered more borough pipes in the stream than Plainfield ones. They may not be house connections, however. He believed the borough is unduly excited.

The city, he said, did not want to treat them too lightly or too seriously. We should protect ourselves. That raceway should be cleaned by the proper authorities. Proper attention should be given the North avenue sewer. It should be watched and cleaned whenever necessary. The two municipalties should do this work at the brook in a neighborly way and remove any obstructions that there may be there preventing cleanliness. The accusation that a member of the Plainfield Board of Health is emptying in the stream is denied by him.

Mr. Fisk then offered a resolution that was adopted, which provides for authorizing the street commissioner to clean the brook from Watchung avenue to Giraud avenue at a cost not to exceed $150.

Other members of the Council voiced the sentiments expressed by the Mayor in his remarks.

Mr. Dumont then moved that the clerk be authorized to acknowledge receipt of the communications in regard to the brook, and that the said communications be filed. It was so ordered.

The regular reports of the city judge, clerk, and treasurer were read, referred to the Finance committee and later reported correct and ordered filed.

Jacob Seeler applied for a peddler's license which was granted.

In a communication Harvey Fisk & Sons said that owing to the adverse criticism which the transaction between them and the city had caused in regard to the issuing of bonds on the four per cent loan, and in view of the fact that Charles Fisk was a member of the council, they were willing to waive all legal rights to the contract, providing that the money thus far borrowed was returned to them at the same four per cent. on which it was loaned and that the issuing of bonds be advertised in the papers in the usual way. The matter was referred to the finance committee to report in one week. Mr. Fisk asked for the priviledge of not voting when the matter was brought up for decision. It was granted him.

A short recess was then taken to examine the city collectors books, after which Mr. Dumont moved that the boobs be approved which was so ordered.

Mr. Ginna then presented two bills for hospital cases, Lizzie Brown and Hannah Martin, which, he stated, were admitted to the hospital without authority. He moved the bills be paid, but that it would not establish a precedent, as authority was necessary in all city cases, and the city clerk was authorized to notify the hospital to that effect.

Mr. Dumont made a motion, which was carried, that $12,000 be borrowed for sewer work, and another that $8,000 be drawn to purchase a certain portion of the property for the sewage beds. This was also carried, all voting yes except Councilmen Frazee and Moore.

Mr. Dumont offered a resolution that in anticipation of taxes, the following amounts be drawn: $5,000 for general fund; $3,000 for fire fund and $1,000 for poor fund. It was so ordered.

Mr. Erickson stated that bids had been received for furnishing a chemical engine from the Holloway Company and the Babcock Company. The price for the former was $1,860 and the latter $1,900. He offered a resolution that the former be purchased for $1,860, which was so ordered.

Mr. Moore objected as he thought the taxpayers were not receiving sufficent benefits in the way of reduced rates on insurance.

Mr. Erickson said that Plainfield had a fire hydrant system that cost $3,600 and had disposed of a fire engine, also a hose carriage, and the chemical engine had a record of extinquishing six consecutive fires, and besides the appropriation for the engine had been made early in the year. The engine was ordered purchased, all voting yes except Mr. Moore.

The petition of D. S. Dunavan to erect a wagon house covered with corrugated iron at 242 East Second street was granted.

Mr. Erickson made a statement in regard to the placing of hydrants. He said that if the Plainfield Water Supply Company would extend their mains to Johnson place he would recommend that the hydrant at the corner of Front and Berckman streets be accepted, also the others ordered placed about the city. He offered a resolution that a two-way hydrant be placed on Prospect avenue and another on Stelle avenue.

It was so ordered. He also offered a resolution that fire-alarm boxes be

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

STRICKEN DOWN SUDDENLY.

MISS MINNIE FRENCH TAKEN ILL AND EXPIRES IN A SHORT TIME.

Attended a Social Last Evening and Retired in a Happy Frame of Mind Only to Awake With Fatal Illness—A Favorite

The angel of death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French, of Craig place, this morning, at an early hour, and removed one of the borough's most esteemed young women, Miss Minnie Jackson French.

For the past two years Miss French has not been in the best of health, but her illness was not considered alarming, as she was always able to be about attending to her duties. Last evening she was present at the reception given by the Dorcas Society, King's Daughters, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Lowrie, of Park avenue, and was feeling unusually well. She returned home about ten o'clock and retired an hour later. Nothing was noticed or said to indicate illness. At twelve she was taken suddenly sick and the family was awakened and learned that the illness was a serious one.

Treatment was given, but no relief resulted. Anxiously they watched her until Drs. D. C. Adams and O. L. Jenkins were summoned a little later and were with her, together with the family, till she died at 3 45. Death was caused by congestion of the lungs. The family are grief-stricken over the sudden death of their loved one and the sympathy of the entire community is extended to them in their sad bereavement.

Miss French was born twenty-four years ago in North Plainfield and was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French. Her entire life was spent in this city, except in the year 1890, when she attended the Woman's College at Baltimore. She was a particular favorite among those who knew her for her loving disposition, Christian character and excellent womanly qualities. In the First M. E. church she was an active member and in the Sunday-school she was a faithful teacher in the primary department.

The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from her late home.

SPORTS ON TURKEY DAY.

Hope Chapel Arrange for Events on Thanksgiving Day.

A very important meeting of the Young Men's League, of Hope chapel, was held last evening. The members who are supporting the league declared war against those who try to get all the privileges, but fail to pay their dues. It was decided that the prizes for the last field day should not be given out until those that had won them had paid up their dues.

The field day, for members in good standing, will be held on the morning of Thanksgiving day. The events will be one-half, one, two, and three-mile bicycle races. One hundred and two hundred and twenty yards dashes, one-quarter, one, two, and three-mile runs, hop, step and jump, running broad jump, running high jump, and pole vault.

Neal Head was elected a member of the committee of arrangements to fill a vacancy. The committee is now composed of James Penny, Fred Wharton, and Neal Head.

It was decied to have Prof. Closs as entertainer on October 24th.

The question of taking shares in the Building Loan Association was put put off one week.

Cards Out.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Caroline Allison Reinhart, daughter of J. W. Reinhart, of Netherwood, to Edward Morris VanBuren, of Central avenue. The ceremony will be performed in Grace church Wednesday, October 23d, at 7:30 p. m., and will be followed by a reception at the bride's home in Netherwood.

Stole Calico.

Some miscreant stole sixty-five yards of calico from Putnam & DeGraw's dry goods store last evening. The goods were in front of the store when taken. The matter was reported to Policeman Frederickson, but it was too late to capture the thief who had made his escape. He was not known by those who saw him.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

FUNNY MAKE-BELIEVE BOOKS.

THE LIBRARY SOCIAL A REALLY FUNNY AFFAIR.

The Works of Well-Known Authors Represented by the Oddities of Dress—Some of the Best Representations—Participants

The library may not be a very social place, but the library social, given by the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters at the home of its president, Miss Maud Lowrie, of Park avenue, was certainly a great success, socially and otherwise. Although the returns have not yet been made the financial part promises to be very satisfactory.

Over a hundred guests were present and enjoyed a delightful evening. They were received and welcomed at the door by the Misses Maud Lowrie, Grace Langdon, Mary Brown, and Della Bowers. The table in the dining room was artistically decorated in pink and white and was presided over by Mrs. J. M. Crane and Miss Annie Wyckoff. Here dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Corlies Pond, Mrs. Samuel Clark, and the Misses Lizzie Maltby, Minnie French, Ella Blish, and Ethel Green. In another room was the circulating library where the Misses Lulu French, Etta Blish, Arline Crane, Millie Langdon, Florence Kline, Alice Haynes, Bessie Cornwell, Bessie Titsworth, May and Lizzie Maltby were masked and dressed to represent books. They afterwards joined the rest in the parlors where the other books were arranged and were also guessed.

The reference library furnished enjoyment for the greater part of the evening.

Some of the representations were especially good. One, an old lock resting on a shoe, represented "Locke on the Human Understanding." "Desperate Remedies" was a group of poisons, and "The Mill on the Floss" was a coffee mill on a skein of silk floss. The hit of the evening, however, was Volney Green, who carried an immense doll about representing "What Will He Do With It?" The other men who acted as books were Harry Lowrie, Dr. Lowrie, and Samuel Clark. Two dollar bills were pinned on the door and represented "American Notes." "Ships That Pass in the Night" was a painting of Narragansett Pier by moonlight by Mrs. Frank Searles.

The members of the circle were all good representations of their books. Miss Maud Lowrie was very appropriately "Last of the Lowries." Miss Bower spent the evening "Under Two Flags" which were in her hair, and Miss Mary Brown made an ideal "Little Women." A white costume, mask and all, made Miss Lulu French easy to guess as "The Woman In White." Miss Etta Blish made a delightful "Old Fashioned Girl."

Miss Carrie Thorn was the lucky one to guess the greatest number of books, naming correctly forty-one out of ninety-six. Nathan Lane was the highest of the men, guessing thirty-eight. Each received a handsome book as a prize.

PRESENTED WITH AN EMBLEM.

Sir Knights Templar Evince Their Esteem for a Brother Officer.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., met last evening in their rooms in the Babcock building. The most important business transacted was the formal organization of the "Ninety-Eight Club," the membership of which consists of those belonging to the Commandery. The duty of the club is to secure a good attendance of the members at the next Conclave to be held in Pittsburg, Pa., in 1898.

The Sir Knights presented Captain General Dungan with an emblem as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the members of the Commandery.

No Service Saturday Morning.

There will be no service in the Seventh-Day Baptist church next Saturday morning, but the congregation will unite with the Piscataway church at New Market, who will hold their anniversary exercises at that time.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 170 North ave., Plainfield.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

HOLD-UP IN CHICAGO

Five Masked Men Rob an Electric Car.

All the Male Passengers Forced To Hand Over Their Money and Valuables—One Man Who Showed Resistance Is Slightly Wounded by His Own Revolver.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Five armed and masked road agents held up an electric car in the outskirts of the city between 8 and 9 o'clock last night and went through the passengers in regular train robber fashion. One passenger was shot and the robbers escaped without leaving a clue of any kind as to their identity. The spot selected for the robbery was near the Berwin avenue crossing of Evanston avenue, the latter thoroughfare being the one used by the North Shore Electric Street Railroad company for its cars between the northern city limits and the suburban city of Evanston. The car makes fast time along this stretch of the run, and last night it had eighteen passengers, two of whom were women.

The Passengers Warned.

As the car approached Berwin avenue, north-bound, the motorman noticed a group of men standing at the side of the track. At the moment he noticed the men two of them stepped out in front of the car and signalled him to stop. As the car came to a standstill two of the robbers stepped upon the front platform, and three ascended the steps to the rear platform. Then it was noticed that the men were masked and their purpose was suspected. This suspicion was confirmed in the minds of the passengers when one of the robbers opened the front door and said: "If you people behave yourselves and make no noise you won't get hurt. But you've got to keep quiet and give up what you've got."

Relieved Only the Men.

His remarks were reinforced with a huge revolver, and the passengers were thinking about giving resistance when the lights went out—the thieves having removed the trolley pole and taken away the generator wrench from the motorman so the power could not be governed. The darkness compelled the passengers to submit, and then the searching process was inaugurated. The robbers were gallant enough to let the women alone, but the men were well searched. Among the male passengers was N. A. Johnson of Galesburg, Ill., who was relieved of a watch worth $125. O. E. Westman was relieved of $6; Chas. Fenbach lost $2; F. E. Voitman lost a $60 watch and $45 in cash.

One Passenger Wounded.

When the robbers came to T. P. Nesbitt of Evanston he resisted. Drawing a revolver from his pocket he attempted to use it, but one of the thieves struck his arm with the breech of a revolver and the arm fell. As it did so the pistol was discharged and the bullet entered Mr. Nesbitt's left leg, making a painful but not dangerous wound. This ended all attempt at resistance on the part of the passengers. The conductor saved his money by dropping it down between the walls of the car at the window openings. Half an hour after it was all over a police officer saw four men driving south on Evanston avenue about a mile from the scene of the robbery. It is supposed these four took part in the hold-up. Policemen are out in every direction looking for the robbers.

PATRICK GRANT DEAD.

The Father of Robert Grant, the Novelist and Jurist.

Boston, Oct. 8.—Patrick Grant, father of Robert Grant, the novelist and jurist, died at his home on Marlboro street yesterday. He was 86 years old, and his death followed upon a general though gradual breaking up of the system. His death removes a figure well known for many years as a conservative and successful merchant and aristocratic gentleman of the old school. After passing through the public school and the Latin school, where he prepared for college, he entered Harvard. His was the class of 1828, and he graduated with Robert C. Winthrop and several others who have been identified with the interests of Boston socially and commercially for the greater part of a century.

SUES FOR DIVORCE.

Mrs. William Crichton Names Girard, the Actress as Corespondent.

New York, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Emily Augusta Crichton has begun a suit for absolute divorce from her husband, William Crichton, who is secretary of the United States legation in Brazil. Bettina Girard, the actress, daughter of Gen. Ordway of Washington, is named as corespondent. An interesting feature of the case is the fact that Miss Girard, the co respondent in this action, is herself plaintiff in a divorce suit in the superior court. She is suing for an absolute divorce from Austin Williams, an actor, to whom she was married after other matrimonial ventures in Philadelphia and other cities.

TO BE BURIED TOGETHER.

Captain Terry and Sister Die Within a Few Hours of Each Other.

Babylon, L. I., Oct. 8.—Captain Ketcham Terry, a well known South Side yacht captain, 68 years old, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Purdy, a few years younger, natives of Amityville, died within a few hours of each other yesterday. They will be buried together Wednesday. Captain Terry leaves a large family.

New York Journal Changes Hands.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—An evening paper publishes an interview with C. G. Noble, editor of the Sunday Examiner. "Mr. Hearst has bought the New York Morning Journal," said Mr. Noble. "He telegraphed me yesterday to arrange my Sunday matter for publication in the Journal at the same time that I arrange for its appearance in the Examiner."

To Try an Accused Alderman.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 8.—The common council has appointed a committee to try the charges against Alderman Schmidt of selling a horse to the city under the cover of a blacksmith name McKee. The hearing will take place before the whole council.

PELTED WITH STICKS.

Rooters for the Champions Assail the Clevelands in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Oct. 8.—The two-time champions yesterday made their first appearance on the home grounds in the Temple cup series. They had no trouble in placing the game to their credit. But two Clevelandites got beyound first base and another died at second. Esper pitched magnificently and was grandly supported, Keeler especially distinguishing himself. Cuppy, too, pitched a good game except in the third inning, when five of the Baltimore's nine hits were bunched, along with his two bases on balls. There was a large police force on the grounds, but they had nothing to do as there was no disposition shown to interfere with the players. Nor was there any particular commotion among the rooters, no noise-making device other than lusty voices being allowed in the inclosure. After the game, however, there was a little excitement outside the grounds when the Cleveland club entered its stage.

Pelted with Sticks and Stones.

A crowd of several thousand persons had congregated in front of the club house. Half a dozen of the over zealous rooters who had become exasperated at the reports sent out from Cleveland to the effect that the Baltimore players had been assaulted by patrons of the game in that city, began firing sticks and stones at the vehicle. The players lay down on the seats or upon the floor of the omnibus, and the missiles went wide of their intended marks.

The Ruffians Fined.

Three of the ruffians who were guilty of the dastardly attempt to injure the visitors were arrested, and the omnibus, with a number of policemen in charge, drove hurriedly away from the grounds, and arrived at the Carrollton hotel without further incident. Later in the evening the three stone throwers were fined $5 and costs and given a severe lecture by Justice Murray at the Central Police station. The justice announced that if any more cases of a similar nature come before him he will not deal so leniently with the offenders. Attendance, 9,100. The score: Baltimore, 5; Cleveland, 0.

UNCLE SAM ON THE ALERT.

Prize-Fighters Cannot Meet in Indian Territory.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The managers of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will meet with as effectual opposition at the hands of the United States government as they did with Gov. Culberson of Texas if they endeavor to pull off the big fight in the Indian Territory. The United States statutes are sufficient to prevent the fight, and steps looking to that end are now being taken by the interior department, and should the managers of the affair invade the Indian Territory they will be ejected as intruders. The class of people that will be brought into the territory to witness the fight are considered a demoralizing element to the Indians, and their presence is not wanted there. United States officers of the territory will be instructed to see that the statutes are enforced and the fight prevented. Ample means will be furnished to these officials to eject the intruders and the chiefs of the five civilized tribes will be instructed to co-operate with the United States officers in the matter. Officials at Washington laugh at the absurdity of the statement that the principals of the fight will join the Choctaws or some other tribe to enable them to successfully cope with the authorities and pull off the mill. Such action on their part would not aid them in the least in the fulfillment of their object.

DRAYTON DIVORCE SUIT.

Proceedings May Come Up in Newark Court To-day.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 8.—It was stated last evening that the divorce proceedings brought by J. Coleman Drayton of New York against his wife will come up in Newark to-day. Lawyer Clarke of Somerville, counsel to Mr. Drayton, and Lawyer Lindabury of Elizabeth, of Mrs. Drayton's counsel, refuse to say anything about the case. Mr. Drayton, in his complaint against his wife, charges her with misconduct with Hallett Alsop Borrowe. In a counter suit by Mrs. Drayton she charges her husband with wilfully deserting her. Borrowe, the corespondent in Mr. Drayton's suit, is in the employ of the Consoldiated Traction company of Newark.

DID NOT KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

A Boy Discharges a Gun, Killing His Brother and Wounding His Sister.

Tunkhannock, Pa., Oct. 8.—Three children of S. E. Barrowcliffe, near Laceyville, were playing rabbit hunting with a gun supposed to be unloaded. The 11-year-old boy, standing higher than his 5-year-old brother, pulled the trigger, the load going through the latter's shoulder and into the thigh of his 10-year-old sister. The little boy died instantly. The girl will recover.

ELECTIONS IN CONNECTICUT.

Result of the Vote at a Number of Small Towns.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 8.—Elections were held yesterday in 164 out of the 168 towns of the state. These are known as the little town elections. Four cities also elected municipal officers. Out of 130 towns reporting, ninety-three gave republican majorities. Forty-four voted no license, and forty-two did not vote on the license question.

Put into Port for Repairs.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 7.—The large sidewheel steamer City of Jacksonville of the Clyde line of the St. Johns river service put into this harbor late yesterday afternoon with her rudder disabled. As the sea was running rather high when the accident occurred, the captain thought it prudent to run no chances. The damages to the steamer are slight, and she will probably proceed on her journey to-day.

Cargo Damaged by Fire.

Panama, Oct. 8.—The Pacific Mail steamer City of Panama, which arrived here yesterday, reports that when she was between Fonsala and San Benito fire broke out in her hold, and that before the flames were extinguished considerable damage was done to the cargo.

Big Lumber Fire.

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 8.—Fire yesterday destroyed the docks of the Murphy Lumber company together with millions of feet of logs and lumber and a number of buildings. Loss $100,000; insurance $67,000. The fire was caused by a spark from a tug.

FIFTY-SIX DROWNED

Further Details of the Great Storm in Cuba.

Much Suffering in the Flooded District—Government Sets Aside a Relief Fund—Railroads Heavy Losers—Many Houses Destroyed. Tobacco Fields Entirely Ruined.

Havana, Oct. 8.—Further details have been received of the loss of life and damage caused by the heavy rains of Sept. 30. Several localities in the Vuelta Abajo, the great tobacco growing district, were inundated. It is known that fifty-six persons were drowned, and it is feared that the number may be increased when the remote hamlets are heard from. The railroads in the district are heavy losers from the floods. Several bridges were carried away, and the tracks in many places were washed out. Many houses were destroyed and large fields of tobacco were completely ruined by the torrents of water that poured over them. There is much suffering in the district. The government has decided to extend aid to the victims of the flood, and has set aside $5,000 for that purpose. In addition to this one day's civil or military pay will be allowed to each of the sufferers. Private charity is also active, and to-day several prominent men subscribed $10,310 for relief purposes.

The Wrecked Steamers.

Reports from the scene of the wreck of the cruiser Cristobal Colon are still very meagre. Acting Admiral Gomez y Maz has gone to the scene on the gunboat Contramaestre to ascertain whether the stranded warship can be got afloat. The crew of the Dutch steamer that went ashore close to the place where the Cristobal Colon stranded have arrived at Esperanza.

SPAIN IS ANXIOUS.

A Rigorous Policy Against Cuban Rebel Sympathizers.

Havana, Oct. 2., via Key West, Oct. 8.—The Spanish cablegrams published here indicate the anxiety in the mother country. In the name of the minister of the colonies, Senor Castellanos, there has been issued a royal decree, under which a rigorous application of the law will be made to all municipal judges in Cuba who show sympathy for the rebels. In official circles in Madrid it is reported that the relations between Spain and the United States are friendly and cordial, notwithsanding rumors to the contrary published in Paris and London. It has also been stated in Madrid that the government at Washington will not recognize the rebels as belligerents, nor will it interfere in the Cuban question unless the war is prolonged. In Madrid the alarmist rumors of the French and English press are attributed to speculators. The leading newspapers in Madrid express regret that the United States courts acquitted the filibusters recently on trial.

CUBAN FREEDOM DEMANDED.

Congregational Ministers in Sympathy with the Insurgents.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—At the weekly meeting of the Congregational ministers of Chicago yesterday resolutions demanding the freedom of Cuba were passed. The report was adopted without discussion.

MINING ENGINEERS.

Convention of the Association at Atlanta, Ga.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Last evening a special train left Washington by the Southern railway for Atlanta with 125 scientific gentlemen on board. They compose the association of Mining Engineers, who have been gathering here for some days from all parts of the United States and some from England. They hold a convention at Atlanta, beginning to-day, and at its conclusion they will return to Washington via Chattanooga, Knoxville and Asheville, and the party will probably disband in Washington.

CAB RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

An Engineer Refuses To Stop for a Band of Train Robbers.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 8.—A band of robbers attempted to hold up the Grand Rapids & Indiana north-bound train which left here at 7.35 last evening two miles north of the city. The engineer opened the throttle and did not heed the signal to stop, rushing through a fusillade of bullets. The headlight was shot off and the cab riddled. The train stopped at Plainwell and sent the information here and officers are scouring the country.

Live Stock Association.

New York, Oct. 8.—A certificate of incorporation has been filed with the county clerk for the Live Stock Society of America, the object of which is stated to give exhibitions in this city and vicinity of domestic animals, birds and products of the soil. John Jacob Astor, Cornelius Vanderbilt and others of like prominence are stockholders in the company.

For Robbing the Nyack Postoffice.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The postoffice department has received information that "Jake" Ross, a well-known crook and postoffice safe-blower, was arrested at Denison, Ia., yesterday, charged with robbing the postoffice at Nyack, N. Y., in April last. Ross quarreled with his companion in crime, who informed upon him.

Big Coal Mine Burning.

Princeton, Ill., Oct. 8.—Mine No. 1 of the Spring Valley Coal company, said to be the largest coal mine in the state, is on fire, and fears are entertained that it will be entirely destroyed. The loss is placed by the company at $30,000, and this sum may be greatly increased.

Flaherty's Trial Nearing a Close.

Geneseo, N. Y., Oct. 8.—In the trial of Rev. Charles Flaherty District-Attorney Carter addressed the jury for the people this morning. Judge Norton will follow with his charge, and the case will go to the jury about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Ada Cavendish Dead.

London, Oct. 8.—Miss Ada Cavandish, the actress, died here yesterday.

Impoverished * Blood

whether due to the inheritance of some scrofulous disorder, or caused by a depleted condition of the system, is the cause of much agony. A terrible complexion, foul eruptions, and loathesome ulcers are but outward symptoms—the sufferer should remember that all of the great organs of the body are likewise diseased, and the day cannot be long distant when death must surely ensue.

Bovinine

when taken for this trouble, is a means of salvation. It creates new flesh tissue and pure red blood corpuscles, and by giving strength to the great vital centres of the body, it enables them to perform their functions naturally, and thus dispel the existing poisons by the natural channels. It is not a medicine, but a powerful food preparation and invigorant, and is endorsed by over 25,000 physicians.

HIGHEST QUALITY OF ALL.

Columbia Bicycles

THE STANDARD FOR ALL.....

HAVE you feasted your eyes upon the beauty and grace of the 1895 Columbias? Have you tested and compared them with all others? Only by such testing can you know how fully the Columbia justifies its proud title of the Standard for the World. And the price is but $100

POPE MFG. CO. Hartford, Conn. BRANCHES: BOSTON NEW YORK CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO PROVIDENCE BUFFALO

An Art Catalogue of these famous wheels and of Hartfords, free at any Columbia Agency, or mailed for two 2-cent stamps.

The Eldridge Cycle Co.,

Park ave. and 4th st.

Easy payments
Repairs.
Rentals.

YOU DO NOT KNOW WHICH IS THE BEST PIANO Unless you have tried the

Mason & Hamlin

With their patent SCREW STRINGER which has proved such a success that it is pronounced "THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT IN PIANOS IN HALF A CENTURY."

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE BY MAIL FREE.

Terms of payment to suit reasonable requirements.

136 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

SPECIAL SALE —OF— FINE STATIONERY —AND— School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

411 Park Avenue.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford, Armstrong Mulford, Assistant. BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL F. W. HAND, 132 North Avenue. 929 South Avenue. 197 North Avenue. Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office.

EVERY THURSDAY.

From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager. Telephone 152, connected with all exchanges of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.
New York Mails.
Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.
Somerville and Easton Mails.
Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p.m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m: closes 9:30 a. m.
Sunday Mails.
Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.
J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

For Sale or Exchange
For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of
Between 4 and 5 Acres
well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.
9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.
Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS, — EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.
At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.
At 39c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.
At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.
At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.
At 39c—All wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.
At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.
At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?
Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.
At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.
At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's
113 WEST FRONT ST.

JUST A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00
PER SUIT.
These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.
WERNER'S,
206 West Front st.

Back Number GARMENTS

ARE FULL OF POSSIBILITIES.

Let us see if we can't discover a way of cleaning or dyeing them and helping you to economize.

We do this work perfectly—we turn the old spiritless faded looking clothing into bright lifelike effects—into the goodness of newness—maybe cleaning will do it—maybe dyeing. Shall we send for the goods? A postal will bring us, or our laundry drivers will take the work.

HILLIER & CO.,
179 North Avenue,

Ten Sweet Caporal Little Cigars
for 5 cts.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue, 7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

GREAT WATER FAMINE

Several Sections Suffering from Drought.

Crops Damaged, Streams Dried Up and Pastures Withered in Somerset County, N. J.—Water Trains Carrying Relief to Altoon, Pa.—Drought at Raleigh, N. C., Broken.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 8.—Somerset county is suffering greatly from the most withering drought within the memory of the oldest inhabitants. From all sections of the county come reports of farmers hauling water for farm uses, of dried up streams and wells, of withered pasture fields, of falling leaves and all other consequences incident to an extended drought. In the lower townships the corn crop will not nearly come up to the earlier calculations. Fruit has not matured, and in some instances is dropping badly. The cattle cannot subsist on the parched fields, and many of the farmers are feeding them. The Raritan river, which supplies the towns of Somerville and Raritan with water for domestic uses, is so low that the water company is considering the advisability of notifying the consumers to use as economically as possible. It is also feared that sickness may result from a water supply where the river is too low to sweep out the impurities. Already several cases of typhoid fever are reported. Prayer was offered in many of the churches Sunday that rain might come.

AIDING DROUGHT SUFFERERS.

Water Trains Run Between Hollidaysburg and Altoona.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—Amidst the cheers of a large assemblage the first water train pulled out of this city last night conveying 70,000 gallons of water to the relief of the drought sufferers in Altoona. Trains were running all day to supply water to the Pennsylvania railroad shops and the 35,000 residents of Altoona. Last night the Gaysport borough council petitioned Hollidaysburg council for a temporary water supply. The request was granted and a pipe line will be immediately laid to the sufferers in the neighboring borough. The water famine situation in other surrounding towns is alarming, but it is believed Hollidaysburg reservoir can furnish relief to all if needed until there is a rainfall.

DROUGHT IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Rain Falls for the First Time in Forty-five Days.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 8.—Last night rain began falling for the first time in nearly forty-five days. The drought has been severe in the state, but has injured only late crops. It cut off some corn and forced cotton to open prematurely and with phenomenal rapidity. No plowing for fall seeding of grain has been practicable. Water mills in several sections have stopped, and streams have shrunk. Cape Fear river, at Fayetteville, which is usually navigable for steamers, is only a few inches deep. Some railways have great difficulty in procuring water.

RESCUED BY LIFE SAVERS.

Hunters Have a Narrow Escape from Drowning.

Brant Rock, Mass., Oct. 8.—There came near being a fatal accident here yesterday. John B. McKay, captain of the hook and ladder company of Jamaica Plain, and W. G. Parsons, a market man of Ayer, Mass., had been out shooting and started back in their boat. When near the end of Brant Rock an immense wave struck their boat broadside and overturned it in a second. Parsons, who weighs 250 pounds caught the boat on the first roll over, but McKay was not so fortunate and went under the boat three times before Parsons caught his hand and pulled him up so he could get a hold. Their guns and all their traps went to the bottom. Capt. Manter and his crew of the life-saving station saw the accident, and hauling their boat to the shore put out through waves ten feet high and rescued them. McKay was almost gone and could not have held out much longer. Parsons, on account of his weight, was lashed to the lifeboat and towed ashore. Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Parsons were both witnesses of the accident and their joy was almost hysterical when their husbands were brought ashore.

WILLIAM W. STORY DEAD.

The Distinguished Sculptor Dies in Italy.

Rome, Oct. 8.—William Wetmore Story, the distinguished American sculptor, died suddenly and painlessly yesterday at the country house of his daughter, the Marquise Peruzzi, at Vallombrosa. His health had been failing since the death of his wife last year. William Wetmore Story was born at Salem, Mass., February 12, 1819. He studied law in the law school at Cambridge under his father, Justice Story of the supreme court of the United States, and published several legal works, among which were a treatise on "Contracts Not Under Seal."

SMITH TO DIE NOV. 29.

He Requested To Be Hanged on His Baby's Birthday.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 8.—Chas. N. Smith, who murdered his daughter Louise and sister-in-law, Edna Buchert, nine days ago, and pleaded guilty Oct. 3, was yesterday sentenced to be hanged on Friday, Nov. 29. The prisoner asked Judge Vail to set Feb. 16 as the date for his execution, that being his baby's birthday.

Young Bowman Must Hang.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 8.—William Penn Bowman, aged 19 years, was found guilty some months ago of the murder of Mike John, an Arabian peddler. His attorneys appealed the case to the supreme court, which yesterday affirmed the decision of the lower court. Bowman will have to hang unless the governor interferes.

Accuses Her Army of Cowardice.

Paris, Oct. 8.—Advices from Antananarivo, the capital of Madagascar, under date of Sept. 2, are to the effect that Queen Ranavalona has issued a proclamation accusing her army of cowardice. Her majesty declares that she will neither leave the capital nor yield to the French.

EXPLOSION IN A MINE.

Nine Men Burned, But Only One Fatally.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 8.—Late yesterday afternoon the residents in the northern part of this city were startled by a tremendous roar followed by a rocking of the earth, which seemed at the time to have come from beneath them. It was but a few moments later when many of them knew what it meant. A terrific explosion had occurred in the Dorrance mine and in less than a half hour thousands of people gathered around the head of the shaft, only to witness puffs of smoke mingled with dust and debris issuing from the mouth of the shaft. Women and children were running wild in all directions, crying bitterly, thinking that their loved ones who had left their homes early in the morning to enter the mines were either injured or killed. But nothing could be learned from the officials, who were very reticent and refused to say anything about it.

Only One Fatally Injured.

When the first carriage was hoisted it brought up a miner with his blackened face and burning lamp. He was at once grasped by his wife and children, who were glad to know that he escaped death. From him it was learned that there were only nine men in the mine where the accident occurred. Only one was fatally injured. The others were burned and injured and were speedily removed to the city hospital.

KNIGHTS OF GOLDEN EAGLE.

Annual Session of the Supreme Castle at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Great interest is being taken in the annual session of the supreme castle Knights of the Golden Eagle which will begin here to-day, when it is expected that fully 10,000 members of the order will be present. The principal feature of interest is the big parade this afternoon. The line of march will be along Pennsylvania avenue; the paraders will pass through the executive mansion grounds. The column will be reviewed by the supreme chief and lieutenant general on Pennsylvania avenue near ninth street.

SANDY HOOK ACCIDENT.

The Exploded Gun Had Been Fired 124 Times.

Washington, Oct. 8.—General Flagler, chief of ordnance, has received the report of Lieutenant Colonel F. H. Parker, who was detailed to visit the Sandy Hook proving grounds for the purpose of investigating the explosion of the Caehet gun on the 28th of last month resulting in the killing of two privates and the wounding of three soldiers. The gun had been fired 124 times previous to the day the accident occurred. When the explosion occurred the gun was being tested for accuracy and rapidity.

2,500 SPORTS DISAPPOINTED.

The Griffo-Lavigne Fight Stopped by the Police.

New York, Oct. 8.—The fifteen-round contest between Young Griffo and "Kid" Lavigne, which was to have been decided at the new Active Athletic association at Constable Hook, New Jersey, last night, was postponed, owing to the action of the authorities, who refused to let the fight go on. Fully 2,500 persons went down by boat to see the fight, but were met at the dock at Bayonne and informed of the decision of the police and sheriff, and the boats came back without landing any passengers.

TO BE CREATED CARDINALS.

A List, Including Mgr. Satolli, Published by the Figaro.

Paris, Oct. 8.—The Figaro says that the next consistory will be the occasion of creating the following cardinals: Mgr. Ferrata, the papal nuncio at Paris; Mgr. Agliardi, the papal nuncio at Vienna, and Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate to the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

Columbia College's 142d Year.

New York, Oct. 8.—Columbia college opened her doors yesterday for the 142d year of study, with an attendance of students, which, it is believed, will considerably exceed that of last year. The total number of instructors is now 265. There were 251 last year.

Death of a Bank President.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Jay T. Storke, president of the Cayuga County National bank, died last evening of apoplexy with which he was stricken at noon while attending a meeting of the bank directors.

Another Day Spent Fishing.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Oct. 8.—The president and Private Secretary Thurber spent yesterday fishing, leaving soon after 9 a. m. on the Esther and returning late in the afternoon.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot weaker with light trade. October, 65 5-8c.; December, 65 1-4c.; May, 69 1-8c.

Corn—Prices are weaker on spot. No. 2 white 38 1-4c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 36 1-8c.; November, 35 7-8c; May, 35c.

Oats—Spot inactive and weaker. No. 2 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 3 white, 22 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot steady with a fair demand. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $10.00a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and firmer. October, $6.22.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 22 1-2c.; creamery, western seconds to firsts, 15a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a19c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—The market shows slight improvement. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 8 1-2a8 5-8c.; large colored fancy, 8 1-2c.; state part skims, choice, 8 1-4c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a7 3-4c.; common, cast.

Eggs—Light receipts and cool weather has caused prices to further advance on nearly all grades. Fancy, freshly gathered western, which are very scarce, are now quotable at 18c.

Potatoes—The supply fair and choice held steady, but prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl, $1.12a$1.[illegible]0; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.a$1.00.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 8, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Generally Fair, With Northerly Winds and Frost.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 54 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 8—Meeting of Camera Club.
October 8—Lecture on "The Ethics of Citizenship," by Miss Jane L. Slocum, at Y. M. C. A. hall. Four p. m.
October 9-12—Christian Endeavor State Convention at Atlantic City.
October 9—Regular meeting of Lucetta Council, No. 28, D. of L., in S. of T. Hall.
October 10—Dance of the T. A. B. society in their hall. Evening.
October 10—Annual State Conference of the Woman's Synodical Society at the Crescent Avenue church.
October 11—Last evening run of the Y.M.C.A. Cyclers, under the leadership of Capt. T. A. Cuming. Run will be to Orange, leaving here at 7 p. m.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Football. Leal's school against Westfield, at Westfield.

Compelled to close their shops on Sunday, and with the football season at hand, the Plainfield barber may be said to have a hard row to hoe just at present.

Here is the way that Thos. F. Lane, editor of the Summit Record, who was married last week, apologizes to his readers for the poor editorial showing in the Record of Saturday:

We must ask the indulgence of our readers for the rather poor showing made in these columns last Saturday and today. Circumstances over which we had some measure of control, but with which we had no desire to interfere, prevented us from giving to our editorial work, that industry and study that alone have made these columns readable and useful.

A personal friend of Chancellor McGill residing in this city sent a letter of congratulation to him after his nomination and in reply received the following:

My Dear Sir: Please accept my thanks for your very kind letter of congratulation. If I should be elected it will be my firm purpose and endeavor to prove that the confidence which you and your neighbors place in me will not be abused. I will be glad, if the opportunity comes, to render morality and decency a service.

The faculty of Princeton College have issued an edict that the minor student must drink nothing stronger than soda water as long as he is an attendant at the college. This step was taken on account of the shooting affray, in which Fred P. Ohl lost his life, ensuing from the freshness of students who had seen more of the flowing bowl than of books. Every saloonkeeper in the town has been notified not to sell liquor to minor students.

An Old Traveler.

George Benedict, of Summit avenue, left Sunday evening for Marietta, Ohio, to join his wife who has been there two weeks. They have been married over fifty years and are both eighty years old this month. Both are hale and hearty and amply able to take care of themselves on their long journey.

A Christian Alliance Convention.

The Christian Alliance is now holding a two weeks convention at New York. Many of the prominent speakers and mission workers of the country will speak. A number of Plainfield people have been attending the meetings.

What the Heathens Believe.

A special feature of the regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting of the Congregational church will be descriptions of the heathen beliefs by members of the congregation.

—The Hook and Ladder Truck Company held a special meeting last evening and elected Chas. Glaentzer, Samuel Miller and Charles Conover as a committee to confer with the other companies on the question of a fair.

MAYOR GILBERT TALKS.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

located as follows: East Front street and Watchung avenue; Watchung avenue and Woodlawn avenue; Clinton avenue near West Third street. It was so ordered. Mr. Fisk moved that all bids for furnishing street signs be returned as none of them were satisfactory. The motion prevailed.

On Mr. Fisk's motion petitions for the following crosswalks were granted and ordered laid: West Second and Liberty streets; West Front street at West End and Giraud avenues; Washington and West Sixth streets; East Seventh street across Watchung avenue; East Seventh street to LaGrande avenue; West Eighth street east of Plainfield avenue.

Owing to a slight mistake in Washburn & Washburn's sewer bond Mr. Frost offered a resolution, which was carried, that an extension of one week be granted them to prepare it.

Mr. Ginna stated that J. Y. Barrett held property under lease which the city was very desirous of obtaining to go on with the construction of the sewage beds, and that Mr. Barrett would sell the lease for $150. He offered a resolution that the same be accepted which was adopted. Councilmen Frazee and Moore voting no.

On Mr. Fisk's motion the street railway ordinance was brought up and placed on second reading. He then offered a few amendments to it so that it would comply with the map which is a part of the ordinance. The ordinance was then ordered engrossed and advertised.

The City Assessor asked Council for more safe room for his books. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Frazee, of the auditing committee, reported all bids correct except that of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, which on examination was found to be $100 too much, it being $995 instead of $895. The figures were changed and that with the other bills were ordered paid. The incorrect bill caused considerable amusement among the members as it had passed the City Clerk and finance committee before the discrepancy was found.

On Mr. Dumont's motion Council adjourned to meet Monday evening, October 14th.

THEATRICAL.

At Music Hall on Thursday evening next Joseph Callahan, as "Mephistopheles," in Goethe's immortal "Faust," surrounded by his powerful acting company, electricians and mechanics, consisting of twenty-two members. The new electrical spectacular version of "Faust" is by far different from any production ever seen here before, being more massive with elaborate contrivances, extensive and expensive stage mechanisms, new and novel electrical effects.

A Men's Club To Be Formed.

At the conclusion of the morning services in the Congregational church Sunday, there was a meeting of the men of the congregation to discuss the question of a men's club. Nothing was done except to decide to meet again Wednesday evening after the prayer meeting.

Farmer Orator to Take the Stump.

The Democratic State committee recognize the worth and power of our fellow-townsman, James E. Martine, and after considerable correspondence between their Secretary, Willard C. Fisk, Mr. Martine has consented to take the stump for the Democratic ticket this fall.

Special Services.

Special services for the month of October which are ordered by the Pope, will be held every Wednesday and Friday evenings in St. Mary's and St. Joseph's R. C. church. These services are held all over the world during this month.

Paying Up.

The members of the German Lutheran church of North Plainfield have just made a payment of $500 on their church debt. There is yet a small indebtedness remaining.

—The recognized rival of the imported is Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles. 6

—James L. Scott, of West Seventh street, and ex-Mayor W. L. Saunders, of Mercer avenue, have put in telephones.

Sick Headache.

"I regard your pills as a godsend to me. I could not make a business engagement without the proviso, "unless I have sick headache." Now my health is excellent, and all from the use of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills." So writes Hon. W. H. Beveridge, one of Richmond, Va.'s, prominent lawyers.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills are a sure cure for sick headache and indigestion. Why don't you try them? At druggists', 25c., or a sample mailed free. Write (wrapper if constipated, yellow if bowels are loose.

DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, N. Y.

Additional Local News on Page 8

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Henry Vosseller spent Sunday at North Branch.

Louis Weigel, of Newark, spent Sunday with Plainfield friends.

Job Coddington, of Somerville, is visiting relatives in North Plainfield.

Rev. Father Murphy, of St. Mary's church, is suffering with a very severe cold.

C. T. Thayer, of Second place, left Saturday on a business trip to Chicago.

Miss Jennie VanFleet, of Rahway, is the guest of Miss Snediker, of Grove street.

Brereton Platt, of Yonkers, was in town yesterday visiting friends at his old home.

J. Fred Mac Donald, the grocer, spent Saturday night and Sunday in Freehold.

Special Marshal Samuel Moore, of the borough, is very ill at his home, 35 Jackson avenue.

Harry Husted, of Bridgeport, Conn., is the guest of Miss Bertha Wheeler, of Mountain avenue.

John H. Mohl, Jr., of Brooklyn, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Corra Ryno on Grandview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin McComas, of the West End, are entertaining relatives from Harrisburg.

Mrs. Clara Todd, of Wilmington, Del., is visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Axford, on East Front street.

Miss Miles, of Philadelphia, has been visiting her friend, Mrs. Fred. Smalley, of Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. Heminger, of Illinois, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Smalley on Somerset street.

Miss Etta Raybert, of North avenue, has resigned from the Ladies Orchestra on account of school duties.

Secretary J. H. Manning, of the Y. M. C. A., was in Newark yesterday on business pertaining to association work.

Rev. Mr. Jennings, the Episcopal clergyman of Westfield, who still holds his charge, was in Plainfield yesterday.

Carl T. Polak, a former resident of this city and member of the common council, but now of Brooklyn, was in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson, of Crescent avenue, will reside at the New Netherlands Hotel, New York, during the winter.

Miss Susie McCullough, who has been visiting at the home of Curtis M. Thorpe, returned to her home in Newburgh yesterday.

Fred Smalley, of Somerset street, and Will Buckalew, of West Fifth street, have returned from a week's cruise up the Hudson.

John F. Neal returned to his home in Boston last evening after a two-days visit with ex Councilman and Mrs. F. M. Slater of Jackson avenue.

Mrs. Lizzie Angle, who has been visiting Chief VanHorn and wife, of the borough, returned to her home in Stroudsburg, Pa., yesterday.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ella Frentz, daughter of Augustus Frentz, architect and builder, to Wm. Hazell, both of Scotch Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Coe have returned to their home at Cold Spring, N. Y., after a two-weeks visit with Mrs. Coe's sister, Mrs. Pierre Mali of East Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Keiderling, of West Fourth street, are rejoicing over the advent of a fourteen-and-a-half-pound girl who made her appearance yesterday morning.

The marriage of Miss Nora Thorn to Herbert C. Thompson, of Orange, will take place Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thorn, on East Second street.

Henry Mahlman, of Webster place, Vice-president of the Webster Place Outing Club, sailed for Europe last Saturday, where he will look after the interest of some real estate that was left to him.

J. B. Miller, of the Elm House, leaves town tonight for a few days to join the latest farce-comedy success, "Trilby Up to Date," of which he is part owner. May Winchester is the leading lady of the company.—Elizabeth Leader.

—Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

—Marsh, Ayres & Co. are painting the interior and exterior of T. B. Penton's house on Rockview avenue, which will present a handsome appearance when finished.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

THE QUEEN USES THEM.

What One of the Highest Officials Says.

Queen Victoria Uses Proprietary Medicines.

And What is More They Cure Her, Too.

Other Crowned Heeds Use Them Also and Get Well.

People Have High Examples in Using These Remedies.

There never was a time when patent or proprietary medicines were so popular and so widely used by everybody as at present.

Years of experience have demonstrated the great benefit of these remedies. They cure; hence it is not a matter of wonder to learn through the most direct and reliable official sources, that Queen Victoria, the great Queen of England used and was benefited by such a remedy. Other crowned heads have undoubtedly done the same. Thus we see that the wisest, those with the best opportunity to judge, and rich in unlimited resources, are convinced of the curative qualities of these medicines. With ability to procure the best medical talent in the world, this renowned Queen preferred a genuine remedy which had cured so many people, whose testimonials she had read.

Among all those which rare genius after long years of study and experiment, has discovered, there is none equal to Dr. Greene's blood and nerve remedy.

Kings, queens, noble and peasant, the high as well as the low, alike employ and are cured by this grand remedy, especially at this season of the year, when the blood and nerves require this purifying and invigorating medicine. Let others follow these illustrious examples. Don't make any mistake. Take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is this you need. It is this which will surely make you well and strong.

Mrs. Charles H. Heaton, residing at 143 State street, Montpelier, Vt., is of the very highest social position. She says:

"Two years ago we had a terrible experience with La Grippe, and by overwork in taking care of my children and the results of the disease I was left in a very exhausted condition, in fact was nearly prostrated. I was so weak that upon the least excitement I would feel nauseated. I was as near nervous prostration as anyone could be.

"Someone recommended Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to me and I immediately began its use. I am happy to say that it completely cured me. I think it is the best medicine I ever knew of for any form of nervous or chronic disease. I have recommended it to many and shall do so upon every occasion."

If you are nervous, weak, tired, sleepless, if you have headache, indigestion, kidney or liver complaint, poor blood and weak nerves, you can surely regain your health and be as well as you ever were by taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

The strengthening and curative powers of this remedy are wonderful. Use it and you will be made well and strong. It is the discovery of Dr. Greene, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted by all at his office 35 West 14th st., New York City, free, personally or by letter.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,
140 West Front Street.

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

Yes

The Time Has Arrived to Buy

Fall Underwear

AT PECK'S.

"Ever Ready" PREPARED Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills. 24 Somerset Street. Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

Interesting List of Exceptional Values.

Cloak Department.

Ladies stylish fall coats in a large variety of styles in Borcle Cheviot, Persian Lamb and Kersey Cloths, satin lined, ripple back, mandolin and melon sleeves, all strictly tailor made, from $8.50 to $18.

Fall circular capes in Borcle, Melton and Plush, trimmed with Thibet fur, skunk and stitched satin, single and double capes, satin lined, from $7.25 to $18.50.

Ladies black Moreen underskirts, deep ruffle, splendidly made, from $2.59 to $3.80.

48 cts. Outing flannel underskirts in a variety of new fall colorings; worth 59c.

DRESS GOODS AND SILK DEPARTMENT.

89C. Scotch plaid silks in beautiful colorings; excellent quality; worth $1.10 a yard.

50C All wool cheviot tweeds in two color blendings, 40 inches wide; worth 69c. yd.

Millinery Department.

A few items of interest selected from many.
Felt sailors in black, navy and red, 39c, 49c, 65c.
Beautiful velvet roses 25c, 49c.
Black ostrich plumes 79c.
Children's trimmed school hats $1.98, $2.49.

Carpet Department.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

55 CTS. Our entire stock of best tapestry Brussels carpet; a large variety of patterns. For this week only, special at 55c per yd.

49 CTS. Best extra super ingrain carpet, our entire stock, fine styles Special for this week at 49c yard.

In addition to our regular stock we have a sample department and carry a full and complete line of all grades of carpet from the stock of W. and J. Sloan, for whom we are selling agents in Plainfield. Call and see our new fall styles. Special attention given to special orders and estimates furnished on application.

In Our Big Basement This Week.

7c SALE

5,000 useful articles to go at 7 cts each. Former prices 9, 10, 12 and 15c each; for this week only. Tinware, woodenware, china and glass.

7c SALE

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. An article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good quality oil	9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $1.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.
Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—Just to take the chill off get fall underwear at Peck's.

—The firemen of Somerville are preparing for a parade to be held on Wednesday, October 23d.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

—The Seventh Day Baptist church of New Market will be dedicated next Sabbath morning with appropriate exercises.

—The clerks in Edsall's store will give a reception and dance to their friends in Olympia Hall, Thursday evening, Oct. 10th.

—Frank Moncton and J. Totten were arrested in the borough Sunday night for being drunk and disorderly paid their fines yesterday.

—Whether the toes of your shoes be pointed or broad, Doane & Edsall can fit them with rubbers. They keep a larger and better assortment than any house in the State.

—Captain Jack Crawford, who gives an entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday evening, October 13th, is writing a series of entertaining articles for The Outlook.

—The building committee of the Y. M. C. A. met last evening and decided to have a concrete sidewalk laid in front of the Y. M. C. A. building. It will reach from the curb to the wall.

—Street Commissioner Meeker with a force of men is now engaged in grading North Leland avenue. The grading of that avenue will carry off the surplus water on East Front street into Green brook.

—Rev. Father Miller, pastor of St. Joseph's church, is unable to be in Plainfield on Wednesday, and the funeral services over the remains of the late Benjamin E. Gavin have been postponed to Thursday morning, Oct. 10th.

—The decorating committee from the Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church spent last evening in decorating the church for the Christian Endeavor rally to be held in that church next Sunday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearson, evangelists and organizers of the Gospel wagon work in New England, will address the Christian Alliance this evening at 7:20 at 317 East Front street, on "Holiness." All are invited.

—Rev. Alvin R. Pennell, of Washington, who was the first signer to the Christian Endeavor pledge when the society was organized at Lewiston, Me., will be the speaker at the First Presbyterian church on next Sunday evening.

—The Y. M. C. A. Bible Study Club, to be formed this evening under the direction of William D. Murray, is for all men, whether members of the Association or not. The subject of the course will be "The Training of the Twelve."

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps meet tonight. One candidate for membership will be voted on. The corps have been engaged by the hook and ladder company of Somerville to attend the parade on October 23d, at that place.

—A farmer from over the mountains drove to North Plainfield yesterday and filled up on those liquids which makes a person indifferent to everything around him. He luckily escaped Chief VanHorn's watchful eye and got out of the borough before he made any trouble.

—Hackman Ginnee left his horse and wagon standing on Park avenue yesterday afternoon. While the owner went on an errand the horse took a notion to run away during his absence and caused considerable excitement as he passed through West Second street. The rig was stopped in front of Trinity Reformed church. There was no damage.

—The boards of registry and election of the several wards of the city began this morning their labors of making a house-to-house canvass of voters entitled to the right of suffrage at the general election of November 5th. On Tuesday next, October 15th, the election officers will meet at the respective polling places in their wards, where any voter may come and be registered if he has not already been. If you are not registered you cannot vote.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

☞Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

FARMER ORATOR ELECTRIFIES.

Addresses the Somerset County Democratic Convention.

When the committees that were appointed to await upon the candidates and bring them before the Democratic county convention at Somerville yesterday, the farmer orator, James E. Martine, in all his pristine glory, appeared at his best and made a sterling Democratic speech that was vociferously encored. He paid a glowing tribute to the Democratic candidate for Governor, Alexander T. McGill, and his speech was one that made the halls of the ancient Somerset county courthouse creak. Never before in that courtroom was there any more applause. He was followed by ex-Speaker of the House of Assembly, James J. Bergen.

There was no convention in Somerset county ever before held that was so enthusihstic as that of yesterday.

HOWARD MARTIN DEAD.

An Estimable Young Man Passed Away Last Light.

With his relatives around him, Howard M. Martin passed away at the home of his brother, F. L. C. Martin, on Park avenue, last evening at about quarter of eight.

Mr. Martin was born in Brooklyn on October 4th, 1867. When he was seven years old the family moved to Plainfield where Mr. Martin remained until 1888 when he went west to Seattle. He was well known in this city where he was very popular, and he leaves a large circle of sorrowing friends. After three years and a-half of western life he returned to New York and entered the insurance business with his brother. About two months ago he was taken suddenly ill with pneumonia and brought to the home of his brother in this city. He never rallied but gradually grew weaker and finally passed away quietly.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Jennie Aauthbertson, of West Fourth street, rode her wheel to Newark on Sunday.

Tonight the Crescent Wheelmen will run to New Brunswick if the weather permits.

The Crescent Wheelmen will take a run to Trenton next Sunday. Everybody is invited to go along.

Monday evening October 14th, there will be a bicycle lantern parade at Rahway. The Crescent Wheelmen and their friends will participate.

Charles P. Starbuck, captain of the Manhattan Wheelmen, of New York, has agreed to try and break the fifty-mile record of 2:33 on the Crescent Oval in a few days, due notice of which will be given. He thinks he can due it in 2:20.

Captain C. P. Starbuck, of the Manhattan Bicycle Club, which held a race meet at the Crescent Oval a week ago, is organizing a bicycle military company which will drill in the Eighth Battalion Armory. Mr. Starbuck is well known here to the wheeling fraternity and he has the good wishes of all his Plainfield friends in his new work.

Lewis Pleaded Guilty.

The case of George Lewis, colored, of North Plainfield, came up in the Somesret County Court this morning. The charge against him was that of stealing paint, brushes, etc., it will be remembered from several houses on Fairview avenue belonging to Woolston & Buckle, the painters. At first Lewis pleaded not guilty and then changed it to guilty. He will be sentenced later.

Dr. Raymond Invited.

The tenth anniversary of the Trinity Reformed church Christian Endeavor Society will be celebrated October 17th in the church. An interesting programme is being arranged and Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, President of Union College, and a former pastor of the church, has been invited and it is hoped he will be present and make an address.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

Dunellen.

Mrs. T. Jones, of Front street, spent Saturday with friends at Elizabeth.

Freeholder Gise and daughter, Miss Lu, spent Saturday at New Brunswick.

At the Methodist church Sunday $1.82 was raised for missionary purposes.

Mr. Hilderbrandt, formerly of this place, was a guest at the Park Hotel Sunday.

J. F. Snell, of Somerville, spent Sunday with his sister and family of Front street.

Mrs. Marvin, of Millington, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Karl of Jefferson avenue.

Fred Giddis has accepted a position as clerk in H. Giles' hardware store on North avenue.

Harry Pennoyer, of Newark, spent Sunday with the family of Mr. Voorhees of Greenbrook.

Mrs. Will Hamilton, of Hackensack, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. T. C. Bodine of Dunellen avenue.

Mrs. A. Vail presided at the organ at the Methodist church Sunday in the absence of Miss Emma Apgar.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fritzer, of Liberty Corner, were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Karl of Jefferson avenue.

Miss Florence Howard, who has been visiting the family of A. W. Warden, has gone to Long Island to visit friends.

Miss Susie Lowrie, who has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowrie, of North avenue, has returned home to Mine Hill.

The Sunday-school teachers of the Methodist church will meet Tuesday evening in the lecture room at eight o'clock to transact business.

Union services were held at the M. E. church Sunday evening, Rev. A. I. Martine, of the Presbyterian church, preaching the sermon.

William VanMiddlesworth entertained at his home Saturday last three engineers on the P. R. R., James Cook, Frank Springsted and William Murphy, all riding to Dunellen on their wheels and made a century run.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

Y. M. ★ C. A.

STAR COURSE

—OF SEVEN—

Entertainments!

—IN—

Y. M. C. A. HALL

Course Tickets - - $1.25
Single Admission - 25 Cts.

FIRST ENTERTAINMENT

Tuesday, October 15th.

CAPT. JACK CRAWFORD.

The Poet Scout, in his wonderful entertainment, "The Camp Fire and the Trail." 10 8 10 12 14 15

AUCTION SALE

—OF—

Household Furniture

At Paff's hotel, corner Park and Westfield avenues, Scotch Plains, N. J.

The proprietor having disposed of the hotel property, will sell at 12 m., on

Wednesday, October 9,

the contents of the hotel, consisting of parlor, diningroom, bedroom and kitchen furniture, B. W. parlor suits in rep. and velvet, 6 bedroom suits, bureaus, diningroom chairs, body Brussels, ingrain and rag carpets, dish cupboards, closets, 8-day clock, lamps, pictures, crockery, glassware, kitchen utensils, etc.

At the barn—Business wagon, buckboard, Portland cutter sleigh, wheelbarrow, grindstone, ladders, large ice chest, horse manure, lot of choice poultry, etc.

Terms cash; sale positive.

THOMAS M. PAFF.

H. Hand, auct'r. 10 7 2

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will cure do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

DIED.

GAVIN—In North Plainfield, Monday, October 7th, 1895. Benjamin E., son of Edward P. and Mary Gavin, aged 30 years 11 days.
Funeral services from the residence of his parents on Greenbrook road, Thursday morning, October 10th, at 9 o'clock and 9:30 in St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield. 10 7 3

FRENCH—In this city suddenly, Oct. 8, 1895, of congestion of the lungs, Minnie Jackson French, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French.
Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from her late residence, 18 Craig place. 2

HETFIELD—At Two Bridges, Fanwood township, Oct. 7, 1895, Elizabeth, wife of the late Daniel Hetfield, in her 86th year.
Funeral at her late residence, Fanwood township, Thursday afternoon, Oct. 10, at 2 p. m.

MARTIN—In this city, Monday, Oct. 7, 1895, Howard M. Martin, son of the late J. Marc Martin, aged 28 years 10 days.
Funeral services from his late residence 825 Park avenue, Thursday, October 10th, at 11 o'clock a. m. 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

FOR SALE—Six black walnut school desks. Will be sold at a sacrifice. Address "Desks," care Press. 10 8 2

LOST—Strayed or stolen, Alderney calf. Finder will be rewarded by returning to 216 Plainfield ave.

CYLINDER stove for sale, in good order. Will sell reasonable as owner has no use for it. Address C. L. F., care Press.

WANTED—Position as chambermaid and waitress in small private family. Apply 325 West 2d st. 10 8 2

SALESMEN wanted to sell my cans of fancy mixed biscuits to family trade; liberal salary to right parties. Also school boys to sell on commission. Address H. W. Whiting, 226 West 2d street.

TO RENT—First floor, centrally located on Park avenue. Suitable for offices or light housekeeping. Address C. S., care Press.

WANTED—A protestant girl, for general housework in a family of two. References required. Address A. B., care Press.

UPPER floor of my building to let. Townsend Granite Works, Somerset street. 10 8 2

WANTED—To buy, house and barn with 2 to 3 acres of ground within 4 miles of Plainfield. Address J. H. M., care Press, giving price and full particulars.

A BARGAIN—$875 will buy 7-room house, lot 50x150; small barn; 15 minutes from Plainfield station. C. L. Moffett, Park and North aves. 10 8 4

WANTED—Cook and laundress; must be willing and obliging and have reference; Protestant preferred. Apply 625 West Front st.

COLORED girl would like general housework; no washing. Call 62 Somerset st.

GIRL with reference for general housework. 330 East 6th st.

WANTED—By a family about to leave town, a situation for their coachman; a thoroughly reliable man. Address W. R. W., 922 Central avenue. 10 5 3

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

WANTED—Man and wife to take care of house for the winter. Address X care Press. 10 7 2

A BRIGHT active boy of good education, to come highly recommended to a position of trust. Integrity care Press. 10 7 2

A GOOD dressmaker wants steady employment; terms reasonable. Address V., care Press. 10 7 2

WANTED—Nurse and seamstress at 945 Central ave; must have good reference. 10 7 2

LOST—A brown beagle hound dog with short legs and large feet. Reward will be given if returned to 705 West Seventh street.

AN umbrella was left at this office a few days ago. Owner can have it by proving property. 10 7 3

WANTED—Girl to cook, wash and iron. 724 Watchung ave. 10 7 3

LOST—Fox terrier bitch, cob built, black and tan marks, finder rewarded. T. H. Keller, 307 East Front st. 10 7 3

COMPETENT cook and a waitress wanted. 224 East Fifth st. 10 7 tf

FOR RENT—Floor space and electric or steam power for manufactory. Climax Stopper Co., 4th and Washington sts. 10 5 3

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 1121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 5

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

Our Business Grows

as it deserves to grow. Watch the crowds that come, listen to their talk. They all say the same—that it is the best store in town.

Don't You Think So?

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilbert ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch Imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 50c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c. 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 38 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats, you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts made of fine serge, both black and blue, $1.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants, 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants, were 50c, now 37c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 55c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.
Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles 49c each.
English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannel and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Van Emburgh & Son

Will Tell You About

CORSETS

THIS WEEK.

Van Emburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular House, Babcock Building.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS lowest prices.

U. B. CRANE. Hatter and Furnisher

120 West Front Street.

AN ORTHODOX MOB AT OXFORD.

A Curious Episode In the Career of Edward Everett.

The center and fortress of this vast system and of the reaction against the philosophy of the eighteenth century was the University of Oxford. Orthodoxy was its vaunt, and a special exponent of its spirit and object of its admiration was its member of parliament, William Ewart Gladstone, who, having begun his political career by a labored plea for the union of church and state, ended it by giving that union what is likely to be a deathblow.

The mob at the Circus of Constantinople in the days of the Byzantine emperors was not more wildly orthodox than the mob of students at this foremost seat of learning of the Anglo-Saxon race during the middle decades of the nineteenth century. A curious proof of this had been displayed just before the end of that period. The minister of the United States at the court of St. James was then Edward Everett. He was undoubtedly the most accomplished scholar and one of the foremost statesmen that America had produced. His eloquence in early life had made him perhaps the most admired of American preachers; his classical learning had at a later period made him professor of Greek at Harvard; he had successfully edited the leading American review and had taken a high place in American literature; he had been ten years a member of congress; he had been again and again elected governor of Massachusetts, and in all these posts he had amply shown those qualities which afterward made him president of Harvard, secretary of state of the United States and a United States senator. His character and attainments were of the highest, and as he was then occupying the foremost place in the diplomatic service of his country he was invited to receive an appropriate honorary degree at Oxford.

But on his presentation for it in the Sheldonian theater there came a revelation to the people he represented, and indeed to all christendom. A riot having been carefully prepared beforehand by sundry zealots, he was most grossly and ingeniously insulted by the mob of undergraduates and bachelors of arts in the galleries and masters of arts on the floor, and the reason for this was that, though by no means radical in his religious opinions, he was thought to have been in his early life and to be possibly at that time below what was then the Oxford fashion in belief, or rather feeling, regarding the mystery of the Trinity. —Andrew D. White in Popular Science Monthly.

CUTTLE BONE AND SEPIA.

Where They Come From and What They Are Used For.

Cuttle bone was once made use of as a medicine, but it is now used by goldsmiths as a polish and by bird fanciers as food for caged birds.

This cuttle bone, so called, is no bone at all, but a very wonderful structure consisting almost entirely of pure chalk and having been at one time loosely embedded in the substance of some departed cuttlefish. It is an oval bone, white and hard on the outside, but soft and friable within, and is inclosed by a membranous sac within the body of the cuttle.

When the cuttle is living, this structure runs through the entire length of the abdomen and occupies about one-third of its breadth. In weight cuttle bone is extremely light, and if it be cut across and examined through a lens the cause of the lightness will at once be apparent. It is not solid, but is formed of a succession of exceedingly thin floors of chalk, each connected with each by hundreds of the smallest imaginable chalky pillars.

Many persons attribute sepia, or Chinese ink, to the cuttlefish. They are, however, in error, for sepia is a manufacture of soot and fine gums. The error may be due to the fact that the cuttlefish has an internal sac under the throat, near the liver, that contains a very dark natural ink. When pursued by enemies, the cuttle ejects this inky substance and thereby forms a cloud of darkened water all about it and hides in this water until out of danger.—Philadelphia Times.

The Best Parrot Yarn Yet.

A man whose niece had coaxed him to buy her a parrot succeeded in getting a bird that was warranted a good talker. He brought it home, and after putting it in a cage stood before it and said, "Say uncle, Polly!" The bird did not respond, and after repeating the sentence a dozen times or more with no better success the uncle put his hand into the cage, and grabbing the bird by the neck shook him until his head wabbled around, all the time yelling to him, "Say uncle, goll darn you, say uncle!" The bird looked limp and lifeless, and disgusted with his purchase the old fellow took the parrot out into the yard where he had a coop of 30 chickens. Thrusting the half dead bird in with the chickens, he exclaimed: "There, by gosh! You'll say uncle before you get out!" Next morning the uncle went out to see how the parrot was getting on. Looking into the coop, he counted 29 dead chickens, and in the center of the coop stood the parrot on one foot, holding the thirtieth chicken by the neck and shaking it till its head wabbled and screaming, "Say uncle, goll darn you, say uncle!"—New Bedford Standard.

A Barber's Apprenticeship.

A barber has been describing his method of teaching his apprentices. After lathering, he says, "the great lesson is to learn how to handle the razor with firmness and lightness, and once that is known it's half the battle won. I first practice my lad on a glass soda water bottle. He has to lather it thickly, and with the razor only get all the soap off and make it quite glossy again. That gives him practice in rounding a surface safely. When he can do that, I make him lather and shave a broom handle clean, without showing any cuts in the wood. The next few lessons are devoted to shaving a hairy surface, such as a clipped rabbit skin, or even a hairy vegetable leaf. This wants a deal of care. Then he tries his hand on me."—Philadelphia Record.

Sleeping Rooms.

Oil stoves and gas stoves should never be kept burning in a sleeping room, for they are burned in the open air of the room, and, having no connection with a chimney flue, throw the poisonous carbonide oxide of combustion into the air of the apartment and make it unfit for respiration. Even an oil lamp is dangerous if left burning all night, but an oil stove is worse, because stoves generally feed more flame, consume more of the oxygen and give off more poisonous gas.

Imagine the Rest.

"Managing editor?"

"I am."

"I presume, then, that on you rests the responsibility for referring to my daughter Pattie as 'Fattie.'"—Indianapolis Journal.

ORDERS TO WARSHIPS

Foreign Ministers at Constantinople Act.

Vessels of the Powers Now There Will Take Their Positions Along the Quay at Once—Rigorous inquiry Into Recent Disturbances Demanded—No Further Outbreaks.

Constantinople, Oct. 8.—It is stated on what is seemingly good authority that the representatives of the powers have ordered the warships here of the nations they represent to take their positions along the quay to-night. The representatives of the foreign powers who held a conference yesterday and decided to send a collective note to the porte, to-day forwarded the note. It demands that a rigorous inquiry be held into the recent disturbances, the release of innocent persons who have been imprisoned, and a cessation of arrests.

Demands of the Powers.

Constantinople, Oct. 7, via Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 8.—The representatives of the six powers have sent a collective note to the Turkish government calling attention to the inadequate measures taken by the police authorities to maintain public tranquility in Constantinople and its suburbs and demanding the prompt institution of a rigorous inquiry into the recent rioting, bloodshed and wholesale imprisonment of Armenians here. They demand the release of all prisoners who are innocent of wrongdoing and the cessation of arrests. Said Pasha, who is now minister for foreign affairs, has called at the different embassies and has presented to the representatives of the powers a communication from the Turkish government, repeating the assurance that a plan for reform in Armenia has been accepted by the porte. It is not believed, however, that this will satisfy the powers.

Another Outbreak Avoided.

There have been no further excesses, although a feeling of great disquiet still prevails and fresh demonstrations on the part of the Armenians are feared. The Armenians who are still inside the patriarchate church here, in which they sought refuge after the rioting of last week, fired some shots at noon to-day and it was feared that another outbreak was imminent. The police watching the building promptly notified the military authorities, and a strong force of troops was sent to the spot. The soldiers immediately blockaded all the adjacent streets. This caused a panic among the inhabitants of that quarter, and they fled from their homes in all directions. The Turks then entered the quays, and expelled from them all Armenians they could find. Later, it is claimed, the bodies of four Armenians were found.

Placards To Excite the Populace.

One feature of the police work is attracting considerable attention. It is recalled that the gendarmes, while making arrests, repeatedly told the persons taken into custody to "call upon England to deliver you." Those who know the ways of Turkish officials say that this shows that the police were instructed to impress upon the minds of the Armenians that Great Britain was unable or unwilling to assist them in this emergency. Many quarters of Stamboul have been placarded with notices inciting the populace against the "infidels." The police, it is true, tear down these placards, but they are either unable or unwilling to do so before they have been widely read and have had the effect anticipated upon the Mohammedan population. It is not claimed that the government is responsible for this agitation, but the work is going on, and the government, apparently, is unable to put a stop to it.

TERRELL DENOUNCED.

Resolutions Passed by Chicago Armenians Demanding His Recall.

Chicago, Oct 8.—Minister Terrell, who represents the United States at Constantinople was denounced in strong language at a meeting of the Armenian National union, held at Odd Fellows' hall Sunday. The union passed resolutions demanding Terrell's recall.

FATHER WAGNER INDICTED.

He May Escape Punishment by Having Married Miss Steidel.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 8.—Three indictments have been returned by the grand jury against Dominick Wagner, the priest. They are for assault, betrayal and abduction, but, it is probable that they will be nolle prossed as the priest having married Miss Steidel Saturday night, she cannot be compelled to appear against him. It is said the grand jury is considering charges of embezzlement preferred by members of the congregation, the allegation being made that he is short $2,000.

TRENTON POTTERIES CLOSED.

Trouble Between the Manufacturers and Employes.

Trenton, Oct. 8.—Nearly all the sanitary ware potteries in this city closed down last night, owing to a difference between the manufacturers and the employes as to whether the latter should be responsible for bad ware until the time it leaves the gloss kilns and whether manufacturers may employ apprentices.

Dangerous $5 Counterfeit.

Boston, Oct. 8.—An almost perfect counterfeit $5 silver certificate of the issue of 1886, which bears a portrait of Gen. Grant, has been extensively circulated in Boston. The counterfeit was put forth by two young men, a good description of whom is in the hands of the police. The bill is the same that the city of Toledo, O., has been flooded with.

The Mariposa Abandoned.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Gulf advices state that the government steamer Lord Stanley which has been standing by the steamer Mariposa, stranded in the Straits of Belle Isle, has abandoned the wrecked steamship and is now on its way to Quebec with Captain Cave and the remainder of the crew of the unfortunate vessel.

Captain Bassett Improving.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Captain Bassett continues to mend, and this morning his physician stated that unless some new complication should arise his patient would recover.

BRAVE WOMEN VIEWS.

ALL APPROVE OF MUNYON.

Grand Work in Behalf of Womankind—What a Famous Professor Has Accomplished by New Methods.

Mrs. Riblet, 156 Ninth avenue, New York City: "I am satisfied that Munyon's Remedies can do wonders. Several of my friends have been cured by Munyon's Female Remedies."

Mrs. George Graybill, Wrightsville, Pa.: "What I suffered from female troubles is indescribable. I was in bed four days every month. Doctors said they must operate, but Munyon's Special Female Cure cured me."

Mrs. C. E. Tucker, Buckfield, Me.: "Munyon's Female Remedies are invaluable. Not only myself but many of my friends have found them promptly curative.

Munyon's Female Remedies

provide a home treatment that effects a speedy and complete cure of all womb troubles, ulceration, enlargement, falling of the womb, whites, backache, soreness and dragging in the abdomen. Positively effectual in suppression, scanty flow, hemorrhages pains and all monthly disorders.

The Munyon Remedies effect positive cures in the most obstinate cases, a separate specific for each disease. At all druggists, mostly 25 cents a bottle.

Personal letters to Prof Munyon, 1505 Arch st., Philadelphia, Pa., answered with free medical advice for any disease.

Educational.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM,

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.

9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 623 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig. } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE,

TEACHER OF

PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Addie Parker Jackson

will re-open classes in

Physical Culture & Rendering

OCTOBER 1, 1895.

Any desiring to join classes will please notify her as early as possible, that necessary class arrangements may be made. Address 512 Arlington avenue. 9 3-10 3 4 5

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE,

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Trucking of all Kinds Done.

Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed

Rockview Home and Day School

REOPENS SEPT. 18.

Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.

THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

List of Advertised Letters

(Officially furnished weekly for publication in The Daily Press.)

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 30, 1895.

Austin Annie B	Lee James
Anderson Archer	McKibben Mrs Alice
Allen James	Miller R W 3
Ashley Mrs L I	Miller W H
Brown Charlotte M	Mulligan Ellen
Brown Miss	Moran J M
Butsche Geo	McLaughlin Laura
Brown Mrs Annie	Mills Mrs F H
Bunner Mrs	Nathan Miss C 3
Chambers A	Osborn Mary
Campbell Fannie	O'Brien Lizzie
Cline John	Pugh Annie 2
Emery W H	Parker Edward 2
Gading Jno J	Porteous J S
Gyllenberg Lotten	Rodriguez Mercedes
Giles H J	Tienan Mrs E
Godfrey D F	Voss Annie
Jennings Mrs L S	Vial Gus 2
Jones Miss S	Wigg C
Kelly Jacob 3	Wood Miss Maggie

Watson Mike A

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at

WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,

Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name,

Take Our Number,

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)

94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., 000. North ave

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

Waverley Fair.

As usual, first premiums and Silver Medals go to

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED.

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

For the best parlor suit in silk tapestry.
Curly birch chamber suit.
Antique oak chamber suit.
Antique oak dining-room suit.
Antique oak hat rack.

All these goods are on exhibition in our new show windows. Everybody is invited to call and see them.

Parlor suits	$15.00, $20.00, $30.00, $40.00 and $50.00
Bedroom suits	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00
Brussels carpet, per yard	45c, 55c and 65c
Ingrain carpet, per yard	25c, 35c) 45c and 55c
Fancy matting, per yard	10c, 15c and 20c
Upright Refrigerators	$4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00
Oak sideboards	$10.00, $15.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00
Antique oak extension tables	$5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $10.00
Hall stands	$4.00, $5.00, $7.00, $9.00 and $11.00
Folding beds	$7.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.00 and $18.00
Mantel and pier glasses	$7.00, $10.00, $13.00 and $15.00

Portland Ranges still selling every day. EASY TERMS. Goods delivered to all parts of the State free of charge.

STORING FURNITURE.

Parties in want of storage rooms, if they would just go around to all the different storage buildings, they would soon see who has the best building, lowest rates and cleanest rooms, which are at 88, 90 and 92 Bank street. Furniture moved with vans in city or country. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 6 08, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 28, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 [illegible] 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 [illegible] 10 59 a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 [illegible] 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 [illegible] 24, 4 40, 7 00, 8 30, 9 23, 10 [illegible] 11 28, p.m. Sunday, [illegible] 14 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 35, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 6 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 [illegible] a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 [illegible] 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 1[illegible] (except Saturday) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, (except Saturday) 6 [illegible] 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 [illegible] 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, 1 [illegible] night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 1 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 [illegible] night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 [illegible] 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 [illegible] 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 0[illegible] 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 [illegible] 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 [illegible] p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 15, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 10 [illegible] 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 [illegible] 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 5 [illegible] 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 4[illegible] 9 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 [illegible] m; 1 10, 2 35; 4 05, 5 40, 7 [illegible] 9 25, 10 20 p m. Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 [illegible] 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 [illegible] 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, 5 [illegible] 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 [illegible] 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 23, p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 0[illegible] 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 [illegible] 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 3[illegible] 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 4[illegible] 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 2[illegible] 25, 4 50, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, 11 [illegible] p. m. Sunday at 1 [illegible] 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 2[illegible] 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 4[illegible] 10 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 17, 4 [illegible] 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 [illegible] m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 [illegible] a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 [illegible] 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS

5 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 [illegible] a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

[illegible] p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D L & W R R.

[illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 [illegible] a. m.—For Flemington.

6 [illegible] a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

8 [illegible] a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 [illegible] m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 [illegible] m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 [illegible] m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 [illegible] m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 [illegible] 10 27, a. m., 1 [illegible] 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 [illegible] a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 2[illegible] m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 0[illegible] 8 15, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, [illegible] 7, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m. Sundays 8 52 a. m., [illegible] 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; [illegible] 8 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 [illegible] m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 2[illegible] p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, [illegible] 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, [illegible] 55 10 44 a. m., 4 5[illegible] 6 45 p. m; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m., 12 46, 2 17, 5 34*, [illegible], 8 21, 9 37 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, 5 [illegible], 6 35, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., [illegible], 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., [illegible], 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Baggage checked passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Built.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,
Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,
119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale
AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,
High-Class
PORTRAITS
In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.
483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,
COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Supreme Court Commissioner.
First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's
LAW OFFICES,
Corner Park ave and 2d st.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery.
Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Even though you have

A Comfortable Bed,

You should

Lay in Your Coal

for the Winter.

George O. Stevens
747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,
Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.
128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day. 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
COAL AND WOOD.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue.
Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.
MRS. L. ADAMS,
114 EAST FRONT STREET,
Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,
Fresh, and from
Pure Materials.
TIER'S,
116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

baby growth

The baby's mission is growth. To that little bundle of love, half trick, half dream, every added ounce of flesh means added happiness and comfort! Fat is the signal of perfect health, comfort, good nature, baby beauty.

Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, is the easiest fat-food baby can have, in the easiest form. It supplies just what he cannot get in his ordinary food, and helps him over the weak places to perfect growth.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York, 50c. and $1.00

CATARRH ELY'S Cream Balm

Is quickly absorbed, cleanes the nasal passages allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BOTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York

Please the Eye

with harmonious designs in wall paper and paints and see that the artisans who put the paper on the wall and the paint on the door and baseboards are thoroughly competent. It is our aim to satisfy you in both respects and we request an opportunity to convince you of our ability.

Paints, oils, varnishes, etc.

E. E. MARSHALL,
167 North avenue.

New! New!

YES

But Stop, Consider

what a combination of valuable medicines.

Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,

BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.

Try a bottle and be convinced.

50C.

Leggett's Pharmacy.

PIANOS.

You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at

J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W RANDOLPH'S,
Prescription Druggist.
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895 by Irving Bacheller.)

CHAPTER I.

I have crossed the plains twice, and so claim to know something of Indian character. A narrative of two episodes in my life will help illustrate the nature of the red man as I have found him.

On my first trip we had no particular trouble with the savages. We had a large wagon train. The number of men was very large. All were well armed. Some of them had had a chance to make such a name in border warfare as to cause the evil minded reds to regard them with a wholesome sort of respect and to be quite ready and willing to keep out of their way if possible. And yet—the outlook was serious more than one. And, on one occasion, the accidental falling in with a body of troops was all that saved us from an encounter so one-sided that there wouldn't have been hope enough in it to warrant writing "possible" against a statement of the theory that some one would escape, and live to tell friends and relatives of how the rest died.

We got through all right, however, with only one death, and that caused by an illness against which a good physician in a quiet home, would have most likely found his skill utterly unavailing. And the only event that really yielded much excitement—really caused much permanent comment—was the finding and saving of the life of an Indian. I never quite understood what had happened before. Whether a band, consisting of enough to make an ambush hopeful when a small wagon train was under consideration, had waited at the river crossing for us, and had decamped unseen, on finding how strong we really were, I cannot say. There may have been a quarrel between two or more members of the same tribe, though in that case I should have expected to find a dead Indian instead of a wounded one. My own opinion is that the brave was alone, that he was entirely ignorant of our proximity that his pony stumbled and threw him. I must own that the men who had spent years in the West would never admit the possibility of my theory being the correct one; it is true, too, that I don't see how his pony ever got him off. But, since no one knows the reason, I suppose a simple statement of facts will have to suffice. And these are the facts: Half an hour after we went into camp, one afternoon, I found the wounded creature. He was lying flat on his back, so near the river that his feet touched the water. The place was about an eighth of a mile below the place where we were encamped. He was unconscious, with an ugly wound in his head that had evidently been caused by a sharp stone against which he had fallen. A slight examination served to show that his right arm and his left leg were broken. His pony was feeding near; indeed, I found his pony some minutes before I discovered him, and was getting rather anxious regarding the whereabouts of the pony's owner, and wondering whether he mightn't rise up out of some ridiculously small thicket, or from behind some preposterously diminutive stone, and quietly shoot and speedily scalp me—when I first got sight of him in his quiescent and harmless condition. The revulsion of feeling, when I once made up my mind that there was no reason why I shouldn't get back to camp again—walking safely over those forty odd rods that, in my fear for an unseen lurking foe, had seemed outstretched almost to infinity, was so great that I had to sit down a few minutes to get myself composed again. Be sure I never told "the boys" what my feelings had been. But, even now, with more years between me and the memory of those old-time days than I like to think of, I sometimes wake at night with the feeling in my mind that had been there from the time I found that silent pony—but always wake from such a troubled dream without having found the redskin himself!

I FOUND THE WOUNDED CREATURE

The savage had no weapons, and search in the vicinity of the place where he was discovered resulted in the find of none. That seemed strange—very strange. But there wasn't a hurt about him that I could believe due to purposely exercised human agency, and the fact that he still possessed his scalp was sufficient evidence that no foes of his own kind had had aught to do against him—or that they had been compelled to leave the vicinity in a hurry! The face was hideously painted. It would have been repulsive enough, I doubt not, under any circumstances. Seen under these conditions and at that hour—between day and dark—it was doubly so. Besides, I have an idea that death, or the unconsciousness that follows accident, will serve to bring the nature of the unfortunate to the surface—writing character, as it were, on the helpless countenance. I have seen strength, honor, beauty—dead! And I've seen that lost red man! Not enough cases, perhaps, to prove much. But I have my own theory all the same!

A shot from my rifle brought a half dozen men from the camp—and still that senseless form never stirred. How his soul would have rebelled could it have known.

Among the half dozen who came, hurrying, were at least two who had spent the greater part of their lives upon the plains. They had no great admiration for the Indian character, and one of them rather petulantly asked why I had wasted my ammunition?—why I had fired into the air instead of into the Indian. I had a hard time to secure my own way. But I prevailed at last. We took the poor wretch into camp. I set his broken bones. I bound up the wound in his head. I nursed him back to health again.

The man—shall I offend any prejudice, antagonize any judgment, by so designating him?—was young. I should not call him over twenty-five at the outside. He had no bad habits in his past to draw him down and drag against him—that is, he had none that his race did not have before the white man came. He recovered rapidly—as any healthy animal will do if given a fair chance.

The man—patient or prisoner—guest or captive—could not speak a word of English. I feel sure he could understand little, if anything, of what was said to him—or in his presence. What he must have thought—if creatures of his sort can think—when he came to himself surrounded by white men, and something of white men's comforts, I can only dimly imagine. How he must have regarded his treatment, given the softest bed in the easiest wagon day after day and fed on the most nourishing of foods, reinforced by the best wine the train could furnish, is quite beyond my ability to say. He may have read the truth in our faces, our hearts in our actions, and realized, dimly and vaguely, that, beyond the great gulf God has placed between the white race and the red, there were men who knew and loved a golden rule of which his low intelligence had never dreamed. He may have guessed that our kindness was simply assumed, our forbearance merely temporary, and that he was reserved for the torture that would have been the pitiless prescription of his devilish creed. Or, he may have made a short cut, shunning even the exercise of primitive savage logic, and decided we were fools!

In due time he was well. We gave him his pony. We gave him a supply of food. We saw him ride away—and disappear. I never thought to see him again. But this is a small world—even to an Indian, and with steam and electricty left out of the count.

I returned home by sea. It was six years before I found myself crossing the plains again, and again with a wagon train. Characters—much the same as before. Some of them rather more strongly emphasized than of yore, possibly because of the years of added experience humanity had reaped on the lonely plains and beside the Western trail. Scouts—rather better shots—rather more reluctant to let a "tenderfoot" have his own way. Poughs—rather tougher, and with more determination and ingenuity. But, human nature gains or loses, in a marked degree, only with changing cycles; years and more years—count little and slowly. So that I may repeat, and truthfully: Characters—much the same as before!

"Experiences—much the same as before." That is what I would have written at the end of a week. That would have been correct—as history. As prophecy—it would have been absurdly inaccurate. Events took a decidedly new course after that.

In the first place, I fell in love with Millie Davis, the daughter of a sturdy New Englander who was going to open a ranch in some imposible and unheard of locality out near the setting sun. Millie Davis was the most—

But I was her lover! You know all that I would say. What is the use of taking the time and space to say it?

In the second place, Tige Black fell in love with her too! I would gladly be fair with Mr. Black. It would please me to give his name in this narrative, and I don't believe his mother ever called him Tiger—or that his father ever shortened and intensified so sanguinary an appellation. But Tige is the only name by which I ever heard him called; Tige he must go, to the very end of the story.

I claim to be a moderately modest man. I would gladly avoid drawing a comparison between Tige Black and myself. Were it possible, I would let him do this part of the work in my stead. As it is, I must state that I was young, good-looking—a well-educated physician, and that rumor correctly asserted that I had a good deal of property. Black was old. He had never been handsome, and hard work and hard weather had dealt most unhandsomely with him. He had no education, save the practical sort a driver on the great plains used to pick up in those old times. And no man who loved liquor as well as he ever accumulated or kept property. He was the most picturesquely profane person I ever listened to. Miss Millie Davis, in addition to almost numberless other excellent traits—possessed sound sense. So I was a very happy man—and Tige Black a very angry one!

The man deliberately picked a quarrel with me. He called me a vile name. I slapped his insolent mouth for him.

He talked gravely, quietly, and not at all profanely, when that had happened. But his demand was a terrible one. He asked that I meet him in mortal combat—that I fight with him to the death. I spoke to the commander of the wagon train about it. He was greatly troubled, for he liked me genuinely, and was, perhaps, just a little afraid of Tige Black and his influence. He said he'd see the thing was put off for a day or two, at any rate. But I knew, from the way that he talked, that he feared I would have to fight. Public opinion, in those days, had a peculiar power on the frontier; personal prowess ranked higher among the hardy fighters who were crowding the borders of civilization slowly and bloodily further and further West, than did aught else; a man, to be as good as another, must be ready to prove himself so when occasion demanded; even in the boundless domain that was being conquered so slowly and painfully—they had no room for cowards! And Black was six feet tall—I five feet and six inches; he weighed two hundred pounds—I one hundred and twenty; he was an expert in the use of any weapon a pioneer ever took into his hands—I was a man to have died of starvation, in the woods or on the prairie, with a good gun, plenty of ammunition, and the thickets and grasses noisily astir with game! I said, in my desperation, that I'd welcome a brush with the savages—if I might thus be free from Tige Black. I spoke only for myself. But we got the fullest fruition of my reckless wish!

Have you ever been in desperate danger? Do you know how it grows and intensifies? Do you know how horrible even come fast and faster upon one another—the dreadful anticipation of a fearful end?

In the middle of the afternoon there were hostile Indians in sight—not more than a dozen at the outside count.

An hour later, we had our wagons in a circle, on the highest ground we had been given time to select—and were waiting for the attack. The foe numbered at last a hundred.

At dark, we were getting a frightened rest from the attack that had lasted an hour. Mr. Davis, Millie's father, was dead. We had two men wounded, one of them fatally. We wondered whether the red rascals would draw off and leave us alone, or whether we would be compelled to repulse them again.

At ten o'clock, we had driven the savages off once more. We had two dead men inside our lines. We were beginning to talk of the last desperate service of cruel kind that we must perform for the women and children—if the time came when we could no longer stand against the foe; we were beginning to count out and lay aside the cartridges that must be saved for that sad duty, and not used for anything else under any circumstances.

At midnight, in a lull in the fight, we held a hurried consultation. "We can hold out until noon—I, I hope," said the commander, "I certainly think there's no hope beyond that time—unless we can get help. It's fifty miles to the nearest fort.

"I DARE YOU TO DRAW LOTS WITH ME—THE LOSER TO GO TO THE FRONT FOR HELP."

You see what that means. Fifty miles out—fifty miles back—in twelve hours. It is possible—possible—and that is all. Will some one volunteer—"

He paused. There was a minute of perfect silence. Two minutes. Inside the circle of wagons there was the support of numbers—the blessing of companionship—the hope of delay. Outside there was the loneliness of the desert—peopled with devils incarnate. Outside, the chances for sudden and awful death were a thousand to one. No wonder brave men hesitated. I am glad, however, to have it to say that I spoke first.

"Tige Black," I said, turning to that individual, "there is bad blood between us. You challenged me, to-day, to a life and death contest with you. To-night, I accept the challenge. I dare you to draw lots with me—the loser to go to the fort for help."

(To be concluded.)

FEW KNOW ABOUT THE SHAKERS.

An Interesting, God-Fearing People Who Have Given the World Many Important Discoveries.

We may not accept their peculiar religious beliefs nor can we enter into the spirit of their sacrifices. It is not necessary to believe as they do, but we can and do respect their sincerity of purpose and the honor and uprightness which marks all their business dealings.

The Shakers have always been successful inventors, and some of the greatest of the conveniences of the present day found origin in their settlement.

In one particular they excel all other men or classes of men, and that is in the cultivation of medicinal herbs and plants and their preparation for use. They have made it a study for more than one hundred years. It is one of their peculiar industries. Their lives have been devoted to it.

Their latest and greatest achievement is the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is not offered as a cure for all diseases. It does not pretend to be, but one disease it will cure, and that is indigestion.

Sufferers who resort to its use have not long to wait to see the result. The effect is almost immediate. The first dose usually gives relief and if continued a permanent cure will follow.

It not only contains already digested food, but it digests food as well, thus toning up the general system. An interesting pamphlet is now being issued by the Shakers and can be had for the asking at almost any drug store.

Try a twenty-five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you.

CARTIER DANCING SCHOOL.
—BRANCH—
OLYMPIA HALL,
416 Sycamore st., between 4th and 5th streets, Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. E. L. Meyer, of the Cartier Dancing School Co., 148 West 14th st., New York City, will open classes in dancing at Olympia Hall, Plainfield, N. J., beginning Monday, Sept. 30.

Classes will be Monday afternoon and evening. Afternoons from 2:30 to 4 for ladies; afternoons from 4 to 5:30 for children; evenings from 8 to 11 for ladies and gentlemen.

Terms for term of 10 weeks $5; for 10 class tickets used at option of pupils $6. Arrangements can be made for private classes on other days or evenings. Private lessons mornings, per hour, by appointment. 9 5 m

YOUR Valuables will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

FIREMEN'S FAIR A SETTLED THING.

The Committees Meet And All Are In Favor of It.

The firemen's fair is a decided thing and now Plainfield has another big event added to the list to those to look forward to. The committees from the different fire companies met in the parlors of No. 2 Hose Company last evening and organized. L. M. Dunavan was elected chairman, and R. B. Rogers secretary. It was decided to hold a fair, and a committee of four, consisting of Abner Bartlett, of Alerts, Charles Johnson, of No. 1, Charles Smith, of No. 2, and Charles Glenzer, of the Hook & Ladder Company, were appointed to look into the matter of a hall and music. A meeting of the companies will be held Monday evening to give the committee full power. The committee meets Thursday evening.

The fair will probably be held during the first or second week in December in the Crescent Rink. It will last a week and will include dancing.

Endeavor Officers Elected.

The annual election for officers of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening. The nominating committee recommended the following persons and they were unanimously elected to serve for one year:

President, Wm. A. Crawford; First Vice-president, H. W. Marshall; Second Vice-president, Miss Anna A. Searing; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Mabel Woodruff; Recording Secretary, Miss Cora Gardner; Treasurer, Elmer Garretson.

Better Postal Service.

Commencing October 25th, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will run a new fast mail service daily between New York and St. Louis, leaving New York at 4:30 a. m., thus taking the New York daily papers. The new contract is one formerly carried by the N. Y. Central and Pennsylvania Railroads, and is a great feather in the N. J. Central and B. & O. roads. Six hours time will be saved to St. Louis by the new contract.

A Little Mite's Trip Incog.

Jennie Mohring, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mohring, of 78 Linden avenue, strayed away from home this morning about nine o'clock. Her mother did not notice her absence till some time later. The marshals were at once notified and a search is being made for the little one, but as yet she has not been found. The parents are exceedingly worried as to her safety.

To Relieve Overcrowding.

In the executive session of the Board of Education last evening the question of the crowding of the Bryant School was discussed and it was decided to move the Sixth grade from that building to the Franklin and Miss Day's division of the Fifth grade in the Franklin over to the empty classroom in the High School building formerly occupied by the Senior class.

Adjourned Again.

The Tingley poker playing case, which was due to come up in the city court this afternoon, was adjourned for two weeks by the consent of both counsel.

Converse a Third of a Mile Apart.

A remarkable phenomenon in sound transmission is claimed to have been discovered in the Garden of the Gods, in Colorado, by Professor Burrill and Professor Davenport of the University of Illinois. They assert that one of them stood near the center of the east side of the rock north of the entrance while the other was upon a hill opposite, a distance of a third of a mile, and while in these positions accidentally discovered that they could hear each other's voices distinctly, although neither spoke louder than a conversational tone. The entrance or gateway to the Garden of the Gods, as it is called, is a narrow roadway between giant rocks. This rugged formation is broken just within the entrance, and the irregular masses rising high above one's head are so arranged by nature as to magnify the volume of sound. The dry, rarefied air accelerates sound transmission in this altitude so that the human voice can be heard a greater distance than in a dense atmosphere.—Chicago Times-Herald.

How to Fire a Pistol.

It is a peculiar fact that very few men, even accomplished shots, know how a revolver ought to be handled. Nearly all are taught to handle a revolver as if it were a rifle—that is, by bringing the object aimed at and the fore and hind sight into a line. This is all well enough for shooting gallery practice, but should never be followed in the field.

When training troops to use the revolver, they are taught, in aiming, never to look at the weapon at all, but to keep their eyes on the object to be struck. In quick firing, and specially in shooting from horseback, much better results are obtainable in this way.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

And the Dealer Didn't Make a Sale.

"How much are these oranges?" said an old lady to a fruit dealer in the Pittsburg market.

"Twenty cents a dozen, mum."

"And those?"

"Thirty cents."

"What's the difference between them?"

"Ten cents, mum."

Although the answer was undeniably mathematically correct, the questioner went away in great indignation.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The blossom cannot tell what becomes of the odor, and no man can tell what becomes of his example, that rolls away from him and goes beyond his ken on its perilous mission.—H. W. Beecher.

North Carolina, although a large part of its territory is uncultivable land, has a valuation of $156,100,202.

FOLKS WITH PAINS

How to Get Rid of the Pain.

Pains in the Back, Pains in the Muscles, Pains in the Joints, Pains in the Head.

What Causes Them and What Cures Them.

Pain is a sign of disease.
You want to get rid of it.
There are but two ways.
Either to cure the disease, or relieve the pain.

The first way is the better. The curing settles the disease and the pain. The relieving only helps the pain. It will come back again. The disease stays right where it is and eats away your health. You may not feel it while the pain is gone, but it is there just the same.

Pain in the back is kidney trouble. It can be cured with Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

It can be cured to stay away, and, with proper care, never to come back.

Kidney trouble gives a great deal of trouble to doctors.

It is hard to cure. There are so many complications. They are generally so dangerous.

Only Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills make such a large percentage of cures.

The Asparagus, from which they are made, has such a healing, soothing, curative action on the kidneys, it is such a gentle and healthful tonic, that it cures nearly every case of kidney trouble in which it is used.

Rheumatism is pain in the muscles. Lotions, etc., can only relieve the pain. They can't cure the rheumatism.

Rheumatism is a complication of kidney trouble. It is a poison in the blood. The kidneys should have taken it out, but they didn't.

Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure rheumatism. They do it by helping the kidneys in their work of purifying the blood. They do it so thoroughly that it is very seldom the rheumatism ever comes back.

Pain in the joints is gout. It is caused by a poison like rheumatism. It can be cured on the same plan, by curing the kidneys, by taking Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Pain in the head. This is a symptom of brain trouble, but it is caused by the kidneys.

The brain, in working, uses up its substance. The blood supplies new substance. But when the blood is impure (on account of sick kidneys), it gives no nourishment. The brain wears out. As it wears, it pains. This is its danger signal.

Headaches, dizziness, neuralgia, etc., can be cured with Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills. They do it by curing the kidneys, by renewing the purity of the blood.

People who have suffered from pains and aches for years should try Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Pure blood will end their aches, and give them a new feeling of life and comfort.

For the blood is the life.

But it must be pure blood.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are for sale at all druggists for 50 cents per box, or will be sent to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price.

Please write for valuable medical pamphlet, sent free by Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

"A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed."

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy. Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My son was afflicted with catarrh: I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one. J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.
S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y.
917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

Salesmen Wanted

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our choice nursery stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest salary or commission paid weekly; steady employment the year round; outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to

Allen Nursery Co.,
Rochester, N. Y.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., Oct 8, 1895.

AN ORDINANCE

locating the tracks of the extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, and regulating the construction and operation of the same, and also concerning the compensation to be paid by said Plainfield Street Railway Company to the City of Plainfield.

The inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That the tracks of the extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company's railway be and are hereby located in the following streets, roads and alleys of the city of Plainfield:

Route 1. From the present terminus of the road in Watchung ave through Watchung ave to East Fifth street, through East Fifth street to Richmond street, through Richmond street to Putnam avenue, and through Putnam avenue to Woodland avenue, through Woodland avenue to South avenue, through South avenue to the station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at Netherwood. Also from Watchung ave., through 4th street to Grant ave.

Route 2. From the present terminus of the road in Front street at Grant avenue to the city line at Dunellen.

And in those portions of said streets, roads and alleys marked out and shown on map filed in the office of the city clerk of said city entitled "Map showing location of tracks, turn-outs and poles for proposed extension of Plainfield Street Railway, dated, Sept. 1895," to which reference is made and the same hereby made a part of this ordinance; and the said company is hereby given the right to construct, maintain and operate its extension to its street railway in said portions of said streets, roads and alleys under and subject to certain restrictions and regulations hereinafter specified or referred to; the same being such restrictions and regulations as the common council hereby deem requisite for the public interests, as well as subject to such further reasonable regulations as may be hereafter enacted by said common council. A detailed plan of construction shall be filed with the City Clerk by said company, and be approved by said Common Council before any work is done under the permission herein granted.

Sec. 2. That the said company shall construct, maintain and operate a single track railway for said extension, to be laid upon the middle line of the street, except on Watchung avenue: between North avenue and East 4th street, No. 2, and signed by John T. Fritts, Vice-President, and shall construct the tracks, switches, turnouts and poles in the manner and at the points and places indicated for the same on said map.

Sec. 3. That said company shall keep in repair to the satisfaction of the Committee on Streets, the paving or other surface materials of the portion of streets, roads and bridges occupied by its tracks, and in addition shall so keep in repair eighteen inches on each side of the portion of said streets, roads and bridges occupied by its tracks. In case of double tracks, or switches or turnouts, the expression "occupied by its tracks" shall be construed to mean all space in the street between the outermost rails. In case the city shall at any time determine to pave or repave any street or section of a street, the said company shall forthwith repave any portion of said street or section of street which may be occupied by the company's tracks and for eighteen inches beyond, with same material and in same manner, and shall do so at the company's expense under the supervision of the street commissioner. If said company shall at any time fail to comply with any of the requirements of this section, the work or repairs hereinabove specified may be done or made by or under the direction of said committee on streets, and to their satisfaction, and the expense thereof shall on demand be paid by said company to said city; provided that the said committee on streets or a majority of them shall give at least ten days notice in writing of the intention to do such work or make such repair, said notice to be served upon any officer or employe of said company who may be found at their office or depot.

Sec. 4. The said company and its officers, servants, agents or employes shall not, nor shall any or either of them be allowed to shovel, throw or place any snow, ice or slush alongside the said track or tracks, in any street or streets, in such manner as to obstruct other public travel therein; but, when removing said snow, ice or slush from said track or tracks, the said company or its officers, servants agents or employes shall cause the same to be immediately levelled between said track or tracks and the gutter lines on each side thereof unless the fall of snow shall have been too heavy to make it practicable to level the same as aforesaid; in which latter case the said company shall pay its pro rata of the expense of the removal of said snow. Upon violation of any of the provisions of this section, there shall be incurred a penalty of ten dollars for every city block on which any such violation shall take place, but said penalty shall not aggregate more than one hundred dollars in any one day; said penalties to be paid to the city by the said company or by any of its said officers, agents or employees so offending for each and every offence.

Sec. 5. That the rights and privileges intended to be given by this ordinance to said company are subject to all limitations, provisions, terms and conditions set forth and contained in sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 18 of the ordinance of the city, entitled, "An ordinance locating the tracks of the Plainfield Street Railway Company and regulating the construction and operation of the same and granting permission to said company to use electric motors as the propelling power of its cars", approved April 27, 1891, to the same extent and with the same effect as if said sections were re-enacted in full as a part of this ordinance.

Sec. 6. That the guage of the tracks of said company to be hereafter laid shall be four feet eight and one-half inches, and the other tracks of said company already laid may be made of the same guage. That all the cars of the said company shall be similar to those now in use by it or such as shall be approved by the common council of said city. They shall be lighted by electricity, and properly heated in winter. Said company shall use upon its cars the Climax or other noiseless gearing and equip said cars with proper bells or gongs, and said cars shall be run at a speed of not more than ten miles an hour. No salt shall be used by said company on any part of its tracks.

For violation of any of the conditions of this section there shall be incurred a penalty of ten dollars for each offence and ten dollars additional for every day that such violation shall continue not exceeding one hundred dollars on any one conviction.

Sec. 7. That said company shall on or before the first day of December, 1895, equip each street railway car by it operated or run within the city of Plainfield, with fenders of the most improved pattern, to be selected by a commission of 3 appointed by the Mayor, and so attached to the car as best to protect from injury persons or vehicles using the streets or riding on the said cars; that after said last mentioned date no street railway car, the motive power of which is electricity, shall be operated or run upon any of the streets of said city, unless such car is equipped with fenders as above required, and in case any such car is operated or run contrary hereto the said company and every person or persons who shall either as president, manager, conductor, motorman or otherwise be engaged in so operating or running any such car shall be deemed to have violated this section and on conviction shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for each day during which such violation shall continue, not exceeding one hundred dollars in any one conviction.

Sec. 8. The said company shall build or construct its extensions in the order specified in Sec. 1 and if the said company shall fail to build or construct the lines mentioned in route one of this ordinance with turnouts and switches in the manner aforesaid, and put the same into complete operation for the transportation of passengers within nine months after the passage of this ordinance, and if the said company shall fail to build or construct the lines mentioned in route two of this ordinance with turnouts and switches in the manner aforesaid, and put the same into complete operation for the transportation of passengers within twelve months after the passage of this ordinance; or shall afterwards fail or neglect to operate the same as aforesaid daily and every day for the space of three consecutive months, all the rights, powers and privileges and every one of them of said company, their successors or assigns, under and by virtue of this supplemental ordinance, shall thereupon cease and determine, and this ordinance shall be null and void so far as the grant of any such right, power and privilege to said company is concerned, and in either of such cases the common council expressly reserve the right to cause the said railroad or any part or parts thereof, so constructed, to be removed from said street or streets, or any of them, and to sell and dispose of the materials thereof by public auction, and, after paying all the expenses of such removal and sale and of repairing the said street or streets, and of restoring the same nearly as possible to its or their original condition, to pay the balance of the proceeds of such sale to the said company, or its successors or assigns, provided, that no notice of such sale shall be required to be given, other than an advertisement, signed by the city clerk, and published in any one or more newspapers printed and published in said city.

The time during which the said company shall be delayed in the prosecution of its work or in the operation of its road or in any section thereof by injunction or other legal proceedings in the courts of New Jersey, or the federal courts in New Jersey, shall not be included within the 9 and 12 months within which the said extensions are to be constructed and put into complete operation.

Sec. 9. The said company shall for each and every mile of street occupied by its tracks laid already or that shall hereafter be laid by said Company, whether under the provisions of the ordinance hereinabove referred to, approved April 27, 1891, or the amendment thereof approved May 4, 1892, or under the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance authorizing the Plainfield Street Railway Company to extend the location of its tracks", approved Oct. 4, 1892, or under this ordinance, or under any other ordinance, and also for every mile of street occupied by tracks that may be owned or operated or that may be hereafter owned or operated by said company within the limits of the city of Plainfield, pay or cause to be paid to the collector of taxes of said city for the use of the said city, the following sums, to wit: For the year beginning Jan. 1, 1896, fifty dollars a mile; for the year beginning Jan. 1, 1897, seventy-five dollars a mile; for the year beginning Jan. 1, 1898, seventy-five dollars a mile; for the year beginning Jan 1, 1899, one hundred dollars a mile; for the year beginning Jan. 1, 1900, one hundred dollars a mile; for the year beginning Jan. 1, 1901, one hundred and twenty-five dollars a mile, for each and every mile of track; said payments to be made each and every year on or before the last day of each year.

For the years succeeding that beginning 1901 the said company shall pay at the same rate as for the year 1901, provided that when the gross receipts in any one year from the entire system within the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield shall equal or exceed eighty thousand dollars, then for that year and annually thereafter, the said company shall pay annually to said city collector for the use of said city five per cent. of the gross earnings of said company, and said gross earnings shall be construed to include all earnings of said company and full proportion on all earnings on through traffic to be calculated according to the proportion between the entire length of the journey and the number of miles travelled within the limits of the city of Plainfield or the borough of North Plainfield or both as the case may be. That to enable the city to ascertain from time to time the amount of gross earnings of said company the books of the company shall be open to inspection by the finance committee of the common council or such other person or persons as the common council for that purpose shall designate.

The payment provided for in this section shall be in lieu of all license fees for cars, whether provided for in prior ordinances or not.

Sec. 10. That the tracks and cars of said company shall be used for the carrying of passengers only; that no freight shall be carried by said company or over its tracks, and that no luggage other than hand luggage actually carried by passengers shall be carried or allowed upon the cars of said company or any other cars passing over said tracks. Nothing herein contained, however, shall prevent the company from carrying U. S. mail. That cars shall not be run in trains of more than two cars over any of the tracks of said company, and that all cars shall stop upon being signalled by any foot passenger at any street corner past which said tracks are or shall be laid and passengers shall be freely allowed to board said cars or alight therefrom at any of said street corners, and said company shall cause the cars to come to a full stop and sound the gong or bell immediately before turning any curve on road now constructed or to be constructed. Any violation of any of the provisions of this section by said company or any of its employes shall be subject to a penalty of twenty dollars fine for each and every offence.

Sec. 11. That in case the said company shall lease its tracks or any section of the same, or sell, or assign its franchises, or attempt so to do, said company shall cause to be inserted in any such lease, deed, bill of sale, assignment or other transfer, a stipulation and agreement and condition that the same is made subject to the provisions of this ordinance, and that the lessee, vendee, assignee or other person to whom such lease, conveyance, assignment or transfer may be made or attempted to be made in accepting the same agrees to be bound thereby and to conform thereto, and will in turn insert a clause similar to that required by this section in case of any lease, conveyance, assignment or transfer thereof to be made, so that no persons or corporations shall acquire any rights in the premises except subject to the same terms and conditions as herein provided.

Sec 12. That said company upon the final adoption of this ordinance and before exercising any of the rights and privileges granted hereby, shall as a condition precedent file with the city clerk of the city of Plainfield a contract to be executed by said company and duly approved by the corporation counsel, wherein said company covenant and agree with the inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, to abide by and perform all the matters and things herein, on the part of said company required to be observed, kept and performed; that it will, at any and all times hereafter, fully indemnify and protect the city of Plainfield of and from any and all suits, actions and proceedings that may be brought and maintained, or sought to be brought and maintained, by any person or corporation for, on account of or by reason of, the adoption or maintenance of said company, its successors or assigns, of said electric system aforesaid, or the construction or maintenance of said electric system or anything connected therewith, or any act of omission or commission by said company, its successors or assigns or any of its agents or servants, at any time or times, and shall whenever requested by said city, fully defend any and every such action, suit or proceeding.

Sec. 13. That said company shall also at the same time herein above specified for filing said contract, file a bond to the city in the sum of twenty thousand dollars to be approved as to form by the common council and corporation counsel of said city, conditioned for the full and faithful keeping, observance and performance of the terms and conditions in this ordinance contained, on part of said company to be kept, observed or performed. And in case the conditions or terms upon which said company is granted permission to locate its tracks and maintain and operate its road or any of the terms or conditions of the said contract are violated, the city reserves the right to revoke the permission herein granted, to remove the tracks of the said company and all the constructions made in the streets of the city by said company, its successors or assigns.

Sec. 14. The company shall file with the city clerk, within thirty days next after the passage of this ordinance, their acceptance, under their corporate seal and signed by their president, of the terms and provisions, restrictions, and regulations hereof, and every one of them, and, in default thereof, it shall be understood and held that they decline to accept the same, and thereupon all rights, powers and privileges, to them granted thereby, shall forever cease and be at an end, in the same manner and with the same effect as if this ordinance had never been passed.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,
—BEGINNING—
Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.
Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.
9 27-10 1 5 8 11 12 15.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

This new institution opened with a score of students, October 1st, in the Babcock building. The prospect brightens every day. The enterprise is an assured success. A grand opportunity is now offered to the young men and women of Plainfield and its neighboring towns. Beautiful rooms. Excellent systems. Good teachers. Four courses of study. Students enter at any time. Address, Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J.

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of

FINE STATIONERY,

consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for 85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy box shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper 30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire 18c

777 and 779 Broad Street

Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder ..... Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge ..... Resident Manager.

Thursday, Oct. 10.

Engagement Extraordinary.

Jos. Callahan,

with a first-class company of players. Great, grand, gigantic, in the electrical spectacular production,

FAUST.

New scenery (a carload) and appropriate costumes, startling electrical effects.

Hear two quartettes composed of male and female soloists, and the Florentine Choir Singers.

The Brocken, a triumph of stage mechanism. A scene of weird grandeur never equalled.

NEXT WEEK

Lizzie Evans

—IN—

Reportorie.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,
88 FIFTH AVE.,
near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

WHAT A CITIZEN SHOULD BE.

MISS JANE SLOCUM GIVES VOICE TO THE WOMAN'S IDEA.

Tells an Interesting Story of How Her Cook Designated the Occupation of the Candidates that She Did Not Vote For.

Miss Jane Slocum, LL. B., of New York, delivered a highly instructive lecture in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon at four o'clock on the subject of "The Ethics of Citizenship."

This talented woman was introduced by Aaron M. Powell in a few well chosen words. This lecture was the second in the course of five given for the benefit of school suffrage for women in New Jersey. Miss Slocum said in part:

Friends and fellow-citizens we are all citizens and of course interested in our own interests.

We have a good text and if we fail to get any benefit from the talk given we still have a good text for a sermon.

The subject involves duty of State, all that is in our power to do. Aristolle once said that "State implies a human society bound together by moral, just and reasonable principles." Politics are included in ethics and one writer has said that you cannot possibly separate them. Each nation has its own individuality and consideration of duties. Until the relation of families existed there were no duties as a father, wife or child.

Every child is born a citizen and as long as he remains so the duty remains also. The definition of a citizen is a "Member of State bound to State, recognizing reciprocal obligations." The better a citizen of State and city the better citizen of Nation he is. A party is a voluntary organization of citizens organized to carry out certain principles. It is impossible to run a free government without a party, and we must have more than one party to carry out definite principles. In New York at present the vital principle seems to be whether party or citizen shall prevail.

A city government is only a little more than a business corporation. The next point I want to speak about is woman as a citizen, for she is one. Many women don't know that everyone born in the United States is a citizen. The right of ballot is no condition to that privilege. Women are recognized as being quick to respond to moral and social obligations, and that they are the equal of men in philanthrophy, which means that one must do all the good they can, in all the ways they can and at all the times they can.

Her relations to the school are as natural as to the family, for she follows the child from birth. The majority of our school teachers are women, and we are told that they maintain a higher average of excellence than the men and they should have a voice in school matters.

Not many of our children know that they are citizens and this fact should be impressed upon them.

At this point Miss Slocum related some personal experiences, in which there was taxation without representation among the women in a New York State town.

She told how the women who were taxpayers were charged a higher rate of tax than the men, simply because the assessor wanted to stand in with the men. She gave her experience of voting in the town with other women. On the ticket sent her was the names of a brewer and saloon keeper and to satisfy herself of the fact asked her cook, who said they were. She then told her servant that she was going to scratch the two names, and the latter told several friends. The news spread and in a little while two prominent citizens called on her to persuade her not to do it. She did, however, though her side lost.

She thought it disgraceful to ask for the privileges of the ballot. Commissioner Roosevelt, of New York, has said that the ballot is the supreme act of citizenship. An ideal citizen is one that recognizes every duty and responsibility and performs them, such were George W. Childs, Mrs. Livermore and Wendell Phillips.

At the request of Miss Slocum, Aaron M. Powell spoke a few words in regard to the life of Wendell Phillips, after which he announced the next lecture would be Tuesday evening October 15th, by Mrs. Livermore, on the subject of "A Dream of Tomorrow."

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

NOT A VERY SAD FUNERAL

THE C. Y. M. L. GOES OUT OF EXISTENCE IN SMOKE AND FUN.

Its Successor is the Plainfield Catholic Club—Father Murphy Presented With a Cane as a Token of Esteem.

The Catholic Young Men's Lyceum is dead, but its members are still very much alive and ready to begin work in the new Plainfield Catholic Club. The death was celebrated last evening and a rousing good time was had.

It was not a sad occasion, for it was only with satisfaction that the grand times of the past were recalled and discussed. The Lyceum has always been noted for its hospitality, and last evening was no exception. In the middle of the hall a table of ample dimensions was placed, which groaned beneath the load of good things piled upon it. For the smokers a large box of tobacco and an ample supply of pipes stood ready, and amid the wreaths of tobacco smoke the C. Y. M. L. breathed its farewell gasps.

The committee in charge of the smoker consisted of John J. Hibbits, M. Owens, C. Guinee, John J. Gallagher, and their efforts were well rewarded, for everything proved satisfactory to all. Prof. O'Reilly was there, and so, of course, good music was assured. The members gathered in the hall early in the evening, and the good things were passed. C. Guinee was unanimously chosen to fill the position of master of ceremonies, and commenced the fun by announcing a recitation by Michael Higgins.

After this Father Murphy entered bearing the trophy won in the bowling tournament, and then the members lined up to taste the lemonade, with which it was "wet."

Speeches were made by a few, and after all were again seated. President John Lynch arose, and in a few well chosen words, presented Father Murphy with a handsome black ebony cane with a solid gold head elaborately engraved as a token of their love and esteem for him, their spiritual director. The suddenness of the gift and the appreciation of the token almost brought tears to his eyes, but Father Murphy was equal to the occasion and thanked the members, saying that he should always treasure it as a symbol of their friendship. On the head of the cane was engraved the inscription: "Presented by the C. Y. M. L to Rev. Frances J. Murphy, October 8th, 1895."

The rest of the evening was enjoyably spent with an informal programme. Mr. Dougherty added much to the enjoyment by singing and clog dancing. Mr. Coonan sang several selections and "Billie" Winn told some of his experiences and illustrated them in that winning way pecular to himself.

The evening's fun came to an end at midnight.

WHEELING BY MOONLIGHT.

Plainfield And Dunellen Young People Enjoy a Spin To New Brunswick.

The moon was still bright and the wheeling was delightful Monday evening. A party of nine from this city and Dunellen took advantage of it and went out for a spin to New Brunswick. The party consisted of Miss Mattie Barrett, Miss Jessie Maltby, Miss Sophie Rudd, Sydney Perrin, Alfred Perrin, Daniel Richardson, Thomas Smith, Thomas Barrett and Frank Richards. When the cyclists arrived at Metuchen, Richards' tire punctured. He repaired it, however, without much delay and the rest of the evening passed off without an accident.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chambertain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

MAY BE MADE A WAR SEAT.

UNCLE SAM THINKING OF ESTABLISHING A CAVALRY POST HERE.

The Cavalry on Governor's Island to be Supplanted by a Company of Infantry and the Former May be Moved Here.

Those in this vicinity who are interested in military affairs will be glad to know that the Government is thinking seriously of establishing a military post in Plainfield. The subject has been under consideration for sometime and those who are in a position to know, say that it will be decided upon at an early date.

The government is going to do away with the Cavalry Post at Governor's Island, and station an Infantry Post there in its place.

The cavalry post will then be moved to a point on the Central railroad of New Jersey, and Plainfield appears to be the most desirable from the fact that the country is so level, and the railroad facilities for the the quick movement of troops are excellent.

Plainfield is certainly well adapted to the needs of such a post, for plenty of good level ground could be obtained on which the drills could be held. A cavalry post composes about 640 men, including the officers. Then besides a large number of horses are used. If the post should be established here a building will be erected, the cost of which will not be less than a half million. A quartermaster's department would also be established in connection with it.

The advantages of such a post in Plainfield are incalcuable and it is sincerely hoped that the government will decide to locate it here.

The location is exceptionally good, and ground could be secured at a reasonably low figure.

A BRIDE-TO-BE ENTERTAINS.

Happy Affair at the Home of Miss Frentz at Scotch Plains.

Miss Ella Frentz, of Scotch Plains, entertained a number of her friends last evening in honor of her birthday and the announcement of her engagement to William Hazell, of the same place. The evening was very pleasantly spent with music and dancing. Mr. Bininger, of Plainfield, favored the company with several selections on the autoharp.

At midnight a sumptuous repast was served, after which dancing was resumed until 1 o'clock when the party bid adieu to their charming hostess, all extending to her their heartiest congratulations.

Among those present were: Mr. Bininger, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam and son, of Plainfield; Miss Amy Cook, Miss E. Poole, Mrs. C. Frentz, Miss J. Marsh, Miss J. Frentz, William Hazell, T. R. Collins and H. Frentz of Scotch Plains.

SHOT IN THE FACE.

Eddie Duck Accidentally Pulls The Trigger of a Loaded Revolver.

Carelessness in handling a revolver was the cause of an almost fatal accident to Eddie Duck, of Netherwood avenue, last week. He was examining a loaded revolver when it went off, the bullet striking the lad just above the nose, narrowly missing the eye. A doctor was called, the bullet probed for and extracted. The lad is now doing as well as might be expected. The great wonder is that it did not penetrate his brain.

Studying the Good Book.

President Wm. D. Murray organized a Tuesday night Bible class at the Y. M. C. A. last night, with excellent prospects. The lesson for the class next Tuesday night will be the "Names of the twelve Apostles, the four lists, the three groups, who the twelve were, dates when they were called, and first disciples called," John 1:35.

A Musicale.

Miss Anna O. Marsh, of 815 Madison avenue, has issued invitations for a musicale to be given at her home this afternoon at 4 o'clock. At this entertainment Miss Marsh will give some illustrations of the Holt system of vocal harmony, and classes will be formed in vocal sight reading.

No Pity for the Barbers.

Physical Director D. A. MacPhie, of the Y. M. C. A., says it will be necessary for the members of the football team to allow their hair to grow to a considerable length before they can play.

Finance Committee Not To Blame.

The bill in which the mistake was found by Councilman Frazee at the meeting of the Common Council Monday evening did not pass through the hands of the Finance Committee.

EXTRA!

REED FOR ASSEMBLY.

Borough Counsel Nominated on the Third Ballot.

Somerville, Oct. 9.—3:45 p. m.—The convention re-convened at 2 o'clock, when the temporary organizations was made permanent. The various committees reported. The vote was by ballot and usually the chairman from the different delegations cast the vote.

H. N. Spencer, chairman of the special committee, made a report.

George Bullman, of North Plainfield township, was elected a member of the executive committee as was also Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of First district, North Plainfield.

The following nominations were made for county clerk: F. W. Somers, of Bridgewater township; Peter N. VanNise, of Hillsborough township, and H. J. Martin, of North Plainfield. J. L. Schenck, of Somerville, and Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of North Plainfield, were appointed tellers.

Frank W. Somers was chosen candidate for County Clerk on the fourth ballot.

Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, was nominated for Assembly on the third ballot, receiving 23 votes out of 45.

W. H. H. Wyckoff, of Raritan, was nominated for Sheriff.

Three coroners are yet to be named.

THE G. O. P. OUT IN THE COLD

SOMERSET REPUBLICANS KEPT OUT OF THE COURT HOUSE.

Had to Meet in an Old Barn—North Plainfielders Who Received Recognition on Committees—Who Want Nominations.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 9th.—The Republican county convention met in the Wigwam a few minutes past eleven o'clock this morning and was called to order by ex-Surrogate William Long, of Somerville. Ex-Mayor Charles Place, of North Plainfield, was chosen temporary chairman, and George W. Hope, of Bridgewater township, secretary. The usual committees were appointed by the chairman. Mayor B. A. Hegeman, of North Plainfield, was selected as a member of the committee on resolutions, and Borough Clerk J. K. Arnold on the committee on rules. Tax-Collector H. N. Spencer was appointed a member of a committee to enquire and report at the afternoon session as to whose terms have expired as members of the county executive committee. Contrary to the usual practice no nominations were made, and adjournment was taken until two o'clock.

Ex-Assemblyman Frank Somers, of Bridgewater township, and Horace Martin, of North Plainfield, are mentioned as candidates for County Clerk with a decided tendency in favor of the ex-Assemblyman. W. H. Wyckoff and George W. Cooper, of Raritan, will be urged as candidate for Sheriff. Mr. Cooper, at this writing, seems to be in the lead. For candidate for member of Assembly the name of Borough Counsel C. A. Reed, of North Plainfield, is prominently mentioned, and Conductor William Haines, of Somerville.

There is considerable strife visible for the nomination of a candidate for sheriff. W. H. Wyckoff who has been a pronounced candidate for a long time is not desired by some of the leaders, and a few days ago they induced George W. Cooper to become a candidate also. They both reside in Raritan, and whichever one receives the nomination there will exist considerable ill feeling.

The convention is not a large one The hall is cold and cheerless. The convention was called to take place in the Court House, but Court is in session, and the delegates were forced to hold the session in the Wigwam, which was formerly a stable adjoining the County Hotel.

VERDICT FOR SIX CENTS.

Editor Lane Practically Wins the Libel Case.

The Lawrence against Lane libel suit was ended this afternoon,

This afternoon the jury brought in a verdict of six cents for Dr. Lawrence, he being compelled to pay the costs of the trial.

What the Heathens Believe.

A special feature of the regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting of the Congregational church will be descriptions of the heathen beliefs by members of the congregation.

WHITE CAPPED DELEGATION.

CAR LOAD OF ENDEAVORERS START FOR ATLANTIC CITY THIS NOON.

"Plainfield '96" Will Be Their Slogan, and Strong Efforts Will Be Made to Make It a Reality—Names of the Party.

If Plainfield does not secure the Christian Endeavor convention in '96 it will not be for lack of energy on the part of the Plainfield delegates. All those who were going, and many of their fellow Endeavorers who had to remain behind, gathered on the platform of the North Avenue station to await the arrival of the train. The cool weather kept many from wearing the white yachting caps, but there was a sprinkling of them among the crowd as well as the special society ribbon badges.

The train arrived on time and there was a general scampering. On the side of the first car was a large sign bearing the C. E. emblem and "Plainfield '96." All the train crew also wore the Plainfield '96 caps and all were members of the Christian Endeavor society. The following are members of the party:

Mrs. Diedrich, Misses Angie and Addie Diedrich, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford, Rev. C. E. Herring, A. V. Searing, Jr., Miss Estella Bittenbender, Mrs. Hawkins, Miss F. G. Hawkins, Joseph M. Hawkins, Miss Fish, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Myra Runyon, Miss Alice Spangenberg, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sebring, Miss Adelaide Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Smith and daughter, G. V. N. Tetter, Miss E. C. Benedict, Mrs. H. J. Martin, Mrs. Millard, Mr. and Mrs. Clickner, Mrs. J. M. Tier, Miss Lizzie Dunn, Miss Jennie Quick, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Anthony, Miss Lillian Force, Miss Bagot, Miss Lizzie DeCamp, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Van Emburgh, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Corra Ryno, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, Jr., Miss Carrie Mehl, Mrs. F. P. Benedict, Miss Susie Benedict, John H. VanWinkle, Miss Emily Coriell, Miss Laura Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Robert Love, E. C. Hepburn, Miss Jennie L. Blackford, J. B. Mills, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Miss Nettie Beeching, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Randolph, Miss N. G. Morse, Miss Parsons, Mrs. A. C. La Boyteaux, Miss Bessie Titsworth, Miss Ida Randolph.

Rev. J. Clement French, president of the State Union, will accompany the delegation.

Conductor Barrick, a member of one of the Dunellen Christian Endeavor societies, was in charge of the train.

SINGLE VS. MARRIED.

The Crescent Wheelmen Bowlers to Fight It Out Friday Night.

The benedicts of the Crescent Wheelmen will try their luck at bowling against their single clubmates on Friday evening. The contest will be a lively one, as both sides are in for blood. The members are requested to bring their ladies, as ladies' nights are to be a feature of the winter life. The presence of the fair ones will urge the bachelors on to do great things, while their opponents will work hard to show superiority over the married men. The two teams will be as follows:

Single.	Married.
C. E. Teel.	C. E. Vail.
Harry Coward.	J. F. Buckle.
William Thiers.	W. J. Stephenson.
Harry VanEmburgh.	J. W. VanSickle.
W. L. Price.	Patrick Kiely.
C. S. Maltby.	V. W. Nash.
Nathan Titsworth.	W. S. Lowry.
L. Titsworth.	L. B. Woolston.
J. F. W. Bamberger.	Frank Hand.
John Petrie.	S. P. T. Wilbur.
Frank Clarkson.	J. P. Emmons.
George Saunders.	— —.

Brick Works to Close.

John J. Reed, proprietor of the Netherwood Brick Works, molded the last kiln of bricks yesterday for the season. The workmen will devote the balance of the week baking the bricks, and Saturday the works will be closed until the spring of '96.

In For It.

Patsy Lyons would not support his wife, and this morning Sergeant Kiely arrested him. He will appear before Judge Coddington tomorrow morning.

Twelve of Them.

Miss Agnes LaBoyteaux, of Fairview avenue, entertained eleven of her friends at her home last Saturday afternoon in honor of her twelfth birthday.

A News Lie.

James McCormick, motorman on the street railway, states the report in The News that he has been married is entirely false.

THE UNTERRIFIED DEMOCRATS

MEN OF STERLING CHARACTERS WHO ARE IN IT TO WIN.

The Nominee for County Clerk Is Experienced in the Duties of the Office—Every Other Candidate Has Ability.

Augustus Vanderveer, the nominee for county clerk on the Democratic ticket in Somerset county, has been the deputy in that office for the past ten years. With a reserved disposition, he has many warm friends, regardless of politics, who discharging the duties of his position. He is very popular and his election seems probable.

The nominee for sheriff on the same ticket is Calvin D. McMurtry. Everybody knows "Cal." He belongs to Somerville's "400" and yet has time to devote to the common people. There is no more popular man in Somerset county. His ways are so courteous that one he casts those beautiful eyes on a person and that winning smile, which is always visible, why you are simply forever afterward his friend.

Charles N. Hoagland, the Assembly nominee, is a farmer and resides in Franklin township, near Millstone. He is an up-to-date man and a very intelligent person. His candidacy will bring him before the people of that county. The impression that Mr. Hoagland will make will be beneficial to the Democratic ticket. He is an honest, industrious man and although already well known, he will make it his business to acquaint himself with every voter in Somerset county.

The candidate for coroner, who The Press readers will be most interested in, is Dr. P. J. Zeglio, the bright young physician of North Plainfield. The doctor is so well known that it would be useless to attempt to show his personality. He was elected coroner a few years ago but refused to qualify because his residence was in an agricultural district. The doctor very kindly allowed a Republican to take the position because he resided in a thickly populated district.

GRACE CHURCH GUILD MEETS.

The Annual Session Held and The Officers Elected.

The guild of the Grace P. E. church held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the parish rooms. The different reports were read and all, especially the treasurer's report, were very favorable. Election of officers followed. Rev. Dr. Rodman is president of the guild as long as he remains in Plainfield, but Mrs. A. B. Dumont and Mrs. R. M. Stover were respectively elected secretary and treasurer. The executive committee was selected as follows: Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mrs. E. L. Finch, Miss Isabel Tweedy, Mrs. Charles Lawson, Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Mrs. A. J. Woodruff, Mrs. S. P. Huntington, Mrs. E. S. Craft, Mrs. F. O. Herring, Mrs. D. M. Van Boven, Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. H. O. Fleming, and the secretary and treasurer.

The following were re-elected as the advisory board: J. B. Dumont, C. P. Bull, W. R. Cook, Rowland Cox and O. T. Waring. The president then appointed the six sub-committees.

Old Vets Shake Hands.

The surviving members of the thirtieth regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, are holding their fifth reunion today in the opera house at Rahway. Those from this city who are in attendance are as follows: Captain J. F. Hubbard, Jacob Jennings, E. C. Mulford, D. R. Weaver, T. J. Carey, Chas. H. Randolph, J. Rittenhouse, J. Sullivan, Randolph Thorn, Theodore J. Runyon, Nelson Runyon, F. S. Runyon, J. L. Mundy, Benj. Wright, Garrett Eick, Samuel Moore, John Gaudis and Theodore Rutan.

Boots Are Here.

The cold wave is here and so is a splendid assortment of choice candies at Tier's which are just waiting for you.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

Good Riddance.

The merry-go-round moved from the borough to Elizabeth Monday. No one regrets its departure.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

AT HARRISON'S HOME

Democrats Carry the Indianapolis City Election.

Republicans Attribute Their Defeat to Opposition to Blue Laws and the Small Vote Received by Their Candidate for Mayor to His Personal Unpopularity.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9.—The republicans of Indianapolis suffered defeat in the municipal election yesterday. Fairly complete returns show that Thomas Taggart (democrat) is elected mayor by about 4,000 plurality and the rest of the democratic ticket by about 3,200. Two years ago the republicans carried the city by 3,100 and last year the city went republican by 2,479 on the state ticket. The main causes attributed by the republicans are that the present administration has aroused enmity by its rigid enforcement of blue laws, assisted by the vigorous Nicholson temperance law passed at the last legislature; dissatisfaction with the street improvement policy; the personal unpopularity of their candidate and the fact that he did not vote for Harrison in 1892. His loss from this last cause is measured by the thousand votes that he ran behind his ticket. Gen. Harrison voted at 10 o'clock in the morning. Walking from his home to the precinct polling place he shook hands with three or four acquaintances, and was in the booth just long enough to stamp a straight ticket. Two weeks ago, in an interview, he advised all republicans to support the ticket.

ANTANANARIVO CAPTURED.

French in the Madagascar Capital. Flight of the Queen.

Port Louis, Island of Mauritius, Oct. 9.—Advices received here from the island of Madagascar announce that the French expeditionary force, which has been advancing upon the capital for many weeks, captured Antananarivo on Sept. 27. The queen, the prime minister, who is her husband, and the court fled to Ambosistra. The news was brought to the coast by couriers from Vatomaudry on Sept. 30. Dispatches from Tamatave say that Faralatra was bombarded by the French on Oct. 3, and was carried by assault on the following day.

Rejoicing in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received here from Port Louis, island of Mauritius, announced the capture of Antananarivo, capital of the island of Madagascar, by the French troops. The news caused great relief to the government, as it has been recognized for some time that defeat of the French troops meant a change of ministry. The news quickly spread throughout the city, causing great excitement and much rejoicing.

ORIGINAL PACKAGE DECISION.

Rendered by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Pennsylvania's supreme court has added a decision on the many on the original package questions. The point decided is that a package devised by a non-resident manufacturer, or put up by him, adapted for sale at retail to individual consumers, such, for example, as a flask of whiskey or a tub or pail or roll of oleomargarine, and actually sold by him or his agent to the consumer for use as an article of food or drink, in violation of the laws of the state where such sales take place, is not an original package within the meaning of the law relating to interstate commerce.

CIVIL SERVICE LAWS.

President of the New York Commission Says They Are Violated.

Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 9.—President Cobb of the state civil service commission left here last night for New York to attend a meeting of the board at the Holland house. Just before starting Mr. Cobb stated that the commision will immediately begin a tour of the state to investigate the conduct of the civil service in the various cities, commencing with New York and Brooklyn. He says the civil service laws are ignored in many of the cities and some interesting developments are expected.

DEATH OF JOHN OTT.

An Ex-Confederate Officer and Well Known Roanoke Citizen.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 9.—John Ott, one of Roanoke's best known business men, died yesterday of paralysis. He was a native of Hagerstown, Md. He was acting comptroller of the currency during Buchanan's administration, and later was chief clerk of the treasury department of the confederate states. Towards the latter part of the war he entered the confederate army and attained the rank of colonel.

FATHER FLAHERTY CONVICTED

Found Guilty of Assault on Mary Sweeney—Sentence To-day.

Geneseo, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Rev. Charles Flaherty, the Mount Morris priest who has been on trial the second time for alleged assault on Mary Sweeney, a member of his church, was last night found guilty by the jury. Sentence was suspended until to-day when an appeal for a new trial will be made.

OPPOSED TO THE KING'S VISIT.

Carlos of Portugal May Be Snubbed at the Vatican.

Rome, Oct. 9.—The correspondent of the United Press learns that the pope is strongly opposed to the proposed visit of the king of Portugal to Rome and tried to dissuade the king from coming to the Italian capital. In vatican circles it is said that the pope will refuse to receive King Carlos, who is expected to arrive on October 17.

Steamer Commodore Released.

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 9.—United States Marshal Carroll has received telegraphic orders from Washington to release the steamer Commodore and cargo, held here on suspicion of being destined for Cuba.

Wholesale Robberies of Mail Matter.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The post office department has just been advised of wholesale and systematic robberies of mail matter at Nashville, Tenn., by two drivers of mail wagons.

FORNEY COURT MARTIAL.

Only One Charge, That of Embezzlement, Partly Proved.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The record of the court martial in the case of Colonel James Forney, second ranking officer of the marine corps recently tried at the Brooklyn navy yard, has been made public by acting Secretary McAdoo. He was charged with falsehood, embezzlement, making and using false papers and culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty. He was found guilty of the fourth charge, but the court substituted neglect of duty for culpable inefficiency. The charge of embezzlement was partly proved and the other two charges with their several specifications were not proved. According to the findings of the court Colonel Forney's neglect of duty consisted in his failure to have furniture from apartments vacated by officers placed in proper custody, and to convene a board to make an inventory of them, and also failure to keep a correct account of all the public property at the Brooklyn marine barracks for which he was accountable. A verdict of not guilty was rendered with regard to the direct charge of embezzlement, but the court found that Colonel Forney had applied to his own use a certain amount of coal belonging to the government. The court ignored the specification that the amount of coal taken was forty-eight tons valued at $202 and failed to specify the actual amount unlawfully used. The sentence of the court was that Colonel Forney be reprimanded in general orders by the secretary of the navy, but so far these findings have not been acted upon by the secretary. Colonel Forney is the commandant of marines at the Portsmouth (N. H.) navy yard.

HARVARD'S POSITION.

Would Lose Her Self Respect To Engage in Athletics with Yale.

Boston, Oct. 9.—Prof. Ames, chairman of the Harvard Athletic committee, has given out the history of the football negotiations between Harvard and Yale, much of which has already been published. In his statement Prof. Ames said that he had written a letter to the manager of the Yale baseball association to the effect that there could be no contest between the colleges for several seasons, either in baseball or any other sport. He said that Harvard men would lose their self respect if they consented to play in any sport with Yale after Yale had refused to meet them in football. This statement is final and puts an end to athletic relations between Yale and Harvard for a long while.

AN EARLY-CLOSING RIOT.

Trouble Between People and Police in a Westphalian City.

Munster, Westphalia, Oct. 9.—There has been a growing agitation here for some time against an order issued to close the beer gardens and similar places for obtaining refreshment at a much earlier hour than customary. The result is that a number of serious conflicts have taken place between the police and the inhabitants in the streets of the city. Matters finally reached a crisis last evening, when the police charged on a mob of townspeople with drawn swords, wounding many of the latter. There is a very bitter feeling against the authorities, and it is feared that there will be more trouble before long.

QUEEN'S LIFE IN DANGER.

The Korean King's Father Enters the Palace with an Armed Force.

Yokohama, Oct. 9.—A dispatch from Seoul, the capital of Korea, says that Tai-won-kun, the father of the king, and leader of the anti-reform party, has entered the royal palace at the head of an armed force, and that the queen's life is in danger.

Price of Anthracite Advanced.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The tidewater price of anthracite coal by the cargo at Philadelphia has been advanced from 10 to 20 cents per ton by the Reading & Lehigh Valley railroad and Coal companies in order to conform to the new figures of the Delaware & Hudson company.

Gaudaur Starts for Texas.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Champion Oarsman Jake Gaudaur and his brother Charles left last night for Austin, Tex., where he will take part in the regatta. Jake is in superb condition and is confident of beating all comers.

Rolling Mills Shut Down.

Lebanon, Pa., Oct. 9.—The Lebanon Rolling mills have shut down in all departments with the exception of the sheet mill. The cause of the suspension is not given.

New British Consul at Portland.

London, Oct. 9.—James Laidlaw is gazetted British consul at Portland, Oregon.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot higher, restricting trade. October, 64 5-8c.; December, 66 1-4c.; May, 69 1-2c.

Corn—Prices higher with fair trade. No. 2 white 38 1-4c. f. o. b. afloat; October, 36 3-8c.; November, 36 1-8c.; May, 35c.

Oats—Spot higher checking trade. No. 2 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 3 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot firm with a fair demand. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$12.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $10.00a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier. October, $6.60.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 23c.; creamery, western seconds to firsts, 16a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a18c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—There was little demand from export. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 8 1-2a8 5-8c.; large colored fancy, 8 1-2c.; state part skims, choice, [illegible]c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a7 1-2c.; common, 4a4c.

Eggs—Light receipts and cool weather have caused prices to further advance on nearly all grades. Fancy, fresh gathered western, which are very scarce, are now quotable at 18 1-2c.

Potatoes—The supply fair and choice higher; but prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

THE BELL AT ATLANTA

It Causes a Notable Exhibition of Patriotism.

To-Day's Programme of Ceremonies in Honor of the Venerated Relic Includes a Most Elaborate and Formal Reception, Music, Singing a Parade and Speeches.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 9.—The Exposition City yesterday gave the Liberty Bell the most cordial greeting that the historic relic has ever received. It was literally an outpouring of the people such as has never been witnessed in this town, and it would be impossible to conceive a more notable exhibition of patriotism. For fully two miles the bell train passed through solid walls of cheering people.

Scenes of Wild Enthusiasm.

They stood massed on tops of freight cars, on the bridges that span the railroad, on rooftops and in fact on every place that afforded a foothold. The Atlanta Light Artillery fired the presidential salute and the first shot was the signal for every steam whistle in the city to shriek out its welcome. The scene in and around the station beggars description. The crowd seemed wild with enthusiasm and from every window of every factory, store and dwelling there were waving flags and handkerchiefs.

To-day's Programme.

At the city limits Mayor Porter King and a big committee met the escort party but there was no formal reception until the visitors reached the Kimball house, where they were comfortably quartered. There Mayor King said a few words of welcome which were supplemented by ex-Mayor Hemphill, and briefly responded to by Mayor Warwick of Philadelphia. The bell stood for a time in the railroad station, but later was taken to the shops where it remained under guard until this morning. To-day's programme includes a most elaborate and a formal reception. The school children, local militia and several patriotic orders will join in the demonstration this afternoon. There will be music by Gilmore's band, singing by 3,000 school children and speaking by some of Georgia's most eloquent men.

WINTER IN MICHIGAN.

Heavy Wind, Dense Snow and Freezing Weather.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 9.—A heavy storm has been sweeping over the upper peninsula since yesterday. The wind shifted to the northwest and was accompanied by a dense snowfall. The storm has extended over the whole of Lake Superior and is now swinging southeastward and turning itself on Lake Huron.

Worst Storm of the Season.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 9.—A northwest gale is raging over this section accompanied by snow squalls and hail. The storm is the worst of the season.

Temperature Freezing.

Holland, Mich., Oct. 9.—The first snow of the season fell last night. The temerature is freezing.

MRS. GRANT'S FUTURE HOME

She Buys a Residence in Washington and Will Soon Occupy It.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Mrs. U. S. Grant will make her future home in Washington. She has purchased the residence which Senator Edmunds of Vermont built some years ago and in which he was living when he retired from public life. It is an English basement house with a commodious drawing room, library and dining room on the second floor. It is located near the western boundary of Massachusetts avenue, one of the fashionable residence streets of the city and has been occupied for the past two years by Secretary Olney. Mrs. Sartoris (Nellie Grant) will make her home for the present with her mother, and her son Algernon, who has completed his studies, will be with her.

YALE UNIVERSITY.

Prof. Ladd To Lecture at Harvard. Scientific Seniors To Wear Gowns.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9.—Prof. Ladd of Yale has received an appointment as instructor in the graduate department at Harvard to take the place of Prof. Palmer, who is now in Europe. He will go to Harvard on Thursday of each week. The senior class of the Sheffield Scientific school has voted to wear caps and gowns through the year, instead of in the spring term only, as has been the custom.

MUST NOT LEAVE THE BOOTH.

Election Inspectors Liable To Miss Meals on Voting Day.

Albany, Oct. 9.—Attorney-General Hancock has written an opinion in which he holds that inspectors of election cannot go to their meals on election day if it interferes in any way with the election machinery.

To Move the Cotton Crop.

New York, Oct. 9.—Large bills to the amount of $175,000 were deposited at the subtreasury yesterday for the transfer by telegraph of small bills for an equal amount to New Orleans to move the cotton crop. Exchanges of large for small bills "over the counter" at the subtreasury yesterday footed up $400,000.

Sealing Schooner Arrives.

Port Townsend, Wash., Oct. 9.—The Indian schooner Deeahks arrived yesterday with 592 seal skins taken in Behring sea. All passed satisfactory inspection here. The Deeahks reports the schooner James G. Swan coming home with over 1,100 skins aboard.

Movements of Revenue Cutters.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The revenue cutter Ferry, now at New Whatcom, Wash., has been ordered to San Francisco, and the Corwin has been ordered to Port Townsend to await further orders.

Michigan Miners on Strike.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 9.—The timber men and trammers at the Norrie mine went on strike for higher wages yesterday and the mines are closed.

First Registration Day in New York

New York, Oct. 9.—Yesterday was the first registration day in New York city this year, and 89,107 citizens signified their intention to vote.

NO SECRET

IN THIS WOMAN'S CASE.

Mrs. Campbell Wishes Her Letter Published so that the Truth May Be Known.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Of the thousands of letters received from women all over the world by Mrs. Pinkham, not one is given to the public unless by the wish of the writer. Thus absolute confidence is established between Mrs. Pinkham and her army of patients; and she freely solicits a letter from any woman rich or poor, who is in ill health or ailing.

In the case of Mary E. Campbell, of Albion, Noble Co., Ind., her suffering was so severe, her relief so suddenly realized, and her gratitude so great, that she wishes the circumstances published, in the hope that others may be benefited thereby. She says:—

"My physician told me I had dropsy and falling of the womb. My stomach and bowels were so bloated I could not get a full breath. My face and hands were bloated badly. I had that dreadful bearing-down pain, backache, palpitation of the heart, and nervousness.

"One of my physicians told me I had something growing in my stomach; and the medicine that I took gave me relief only for a short time. I thought I must die. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it worked like a charm. After taking the first bottle I could walk across the street, now I am well. I advise all my friends to take it."
—MARY E. CAMPBELL, Albion, Noble Co.

Educational.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM.

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.
9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 86th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's

School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig. } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia, will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

1892. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE,

TEACHER OF

PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE.

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

SPECIAL SALE

—OF—

FINE STATIONERY

—AND—

School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

411 Park Avenue.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are these wonderful

Behr Brothers', Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL

F. W. HAND,

132 North Avenue.
929 South Avenue.
197 North Avenue.
Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front St. Dunham's real estate office.

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DEY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.
Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.
Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.
Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.
J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield,
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE.
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

For Sale or Exchange
For property in Plainfield or North Plainfield, small place of
Between 4 and 5 Acres
well stocked with fruits of all kinds, large and small; a good house of 9 rooms; a good barn with 4 stalls and plenty of carriage room, etc. The place is on Clinton avenue, in Middlesex county, near Samptown, a very pleasant place. For particulars inquire on the place.
9 30 6-c 4 C. J. ACKERMAN.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.
Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS,—EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Purity
of ingredients is essential in medicines, else they are apt to do more harm than good.
Allcock's Porous Plaster
is absolutely pure. It can do no harm. It is effective. As an external remedy for pains in the chest, back or side, it is unequaled.
Let no Solicitation induce you to accept a substitute. Allcock's is absolutely the best
Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
may be taken by old and young. They simply assist nature.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop.

DEATH OF GEN. MAHONE

His Body Taken to Petersburg for Burial.

Funeral Services To Be Held at His Old Home This Afternoon—Officers of "Mahone's Brigade" Will Act as Honorary Pall-Bearers—Brief Sketch of His Life.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The remains of General William Mahone were put on board the 4:35 o'clock train this morning and the journey to Petersburg, Va., where the funeral will take place, begun. Services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Petersburg, and the body will then be taken to the place of interment. The honorary pall-bearers will be officers of "Mahone's Brigade," and the body-bearers will be soldiers who served in that organization. General Mahone's death, which occurred at Chamberlain's hotel yesterday afternoon, was from the effects of a paralytic stroke sustained on Monday, September 30. He had been totally unconscious for more than forty-eight hours previous to death and passed away seemingly without pain. All the members of his family were at his bedside when the end came.

GEN. WILLIAM MAHONE.

Brief Sketch of the Career of a Notable Figure in Politics.

Gen. William Mahone was born at Monroe, Va., on Dec. 1, 1826. He was educated at the Virginia Military institute, graduating in 1847. After teaching school for two years he began his duties as a civil engineer, and after having successfully completed the construction of the Norfolk & Petersburg railroad he was elected president of the company. At the outbreak of the war he was appointed by the Virginia council chief quartermaster of the Virginia forces. This position he held for about ten days when he resigned and was appointed lieutenant-colonel of infantry and assigned to the command of the post at Burwell's bay. Before he accepted this position he was made colonel of the Sixth Virginian infantry.

Appointed Brigadier-General.

Some months later Col. Mahone was appointed brigadier-general, receiving his commission from the Confederate States government. He was placed in command of the troops of the Norfolk district of the department of Norfolk and so continued until the evacuation of the department in May, 1862. From 1861 to 1864 Gen. Mahone continued in command of what was known as Mahone's brigade. In the second battle of Manasses he received a disabling wound, and could not join his command again until just before the battle of Fredericksburg. In May, 1863, he was elected a state senator, but took his seat for only a few days.

Famous in the South.

In 1864 he was placed in command of Anderson's division, which he continued to command until the surrender at Appomattox Court house. A few days after the battle of the Crater he received his commission as major-general. When the war closed Gen. Mahone's achievements as a military commander had brought him great fame in the south. His name was fast becoming a tower of strength. During the winter of 1864-65 the people of Petersburg, in recognition of his services, presented him with a sword, the venerable David May making the presentation speech at Chester, near which place Mahone's division was occupying the trenches.

Back into Civil Life.

At the close of the war Gen. Mahone again turned his attention to railroading. He organized the Atlantic, Mississippi & Ohio railroad, of which he held the office of president until the sale of the road in 1881. In 1879 he was elected United States senator, and, taking his seat in 1881, served until 1887. In 1889 he was a candidate for governor, but was defeated. His wife was a daughter of Dr. Butler, one of the most prominent citizens of eastern Virginia. His children are R. Butler Mahone, William Mahone and Mrs. W. L. McGill. He was one of the best known men at the capital.

RELIGIOUS RIOTS IN SPAIN.

Outbreak Between Liberal and Catholic Students.

Madrid, Oct. 9.—Dispatches received here from the city of Barcelona announce that serious conflicts have taken place here between the liberal and Catholic students of the university. The trouble, it appears, is due to the fact that the government suspended a professor who published a book which was declared to be heretical. The riots started in the university and finally reached the streets, where the rioters were reinforced by crowds of people. A series of fierce conflicts ensued between Catholics and liberals, led by the students, during which many persons were wounded, and the disorder was with difficulty suppressed by the police.

THE CONFLICT IN FORMOSA.

Success of the Japanese Troops—The Black Flag Leader Surrounded.

Shanghai, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received here from Tokio says that the Japanese forces on the island of Formosa have met and defeated the main body, consisting of 10,000 men, of the Black Flags. The engagement took place near the river Tao-Linmai. The dispatch adds that the Black Flag leader, Gen. Liu-Yung-Fuh, is surrounded on three sides by the Japanese troops, and that his capture and that of all his warriors is assured.

Registration in Brooklyn.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Yesterday was the first day of registration in Brooklyn. Sixty thousand and forty-three names were entered the registry books. For the first day in 1894 76,146 names were registered.

An Old Hop Grower Hangs Himself.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Parker White, 57 years old, a prominent hop grower of Waterville, hanged himself yesterday. He was financially embarrassed.

The Marion Bound for Chili.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—The United States steamer Marion received orders to sail on Thursday for Talcuhuana, Chili

TALMAGE IN WASHINGTON.

He Attends a Meeting of the Presbytery and Receives His New Call.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage and his two daughters arrived in Washington yesterday and began hunting for a house. Dr. Talmage attended a meeting of the presbytery of Washington city, at which the letter from the presbytery of Brooklyn dismissing the distinguished divine to Washington was presented by Rev. Adolos Allen, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city. Then the call to Dr. Talmage to become co-pastor of the First church was read, and by a unanimous vote placed in Dr. Talmage's hands. The moderator then asked the usual question of Dr. Talmage as to whether he would accept the call. "I do," was the response in the familiar tones of the Brooklyn divine. And this constituted the entire public utterance which Dr. Talmage made on this occasion. The installation ceremonies will be held on the evening of the twenty-third inst. Rev. David Gregg, D. D., of Brooklyn will preach the sermon and Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, the new pastor of the New York Avenue church, Washington, deliver the charge to the co-pastor. Dr. Talmage will preach his first sermon on Sunday, Oct. 27.

Engages Expensive Quarters.

Dr. Talmage last night engaged a suite of rooms at the Arlington for one year from Oct. 22 next. The suite, which consists of a study, parlor, two bedrooms and a bath, is in what is known as the old "Summer house," which is now an annex of the Arlington hotel. The rooms are regarded as the best in Washington and overlook Lafayette square, the White House and the state, war and navy building. The suite composed the private rooms of the infanta of Spain when she was here, and it has been occupied by the most prominent people in this country.

MAY INDICT CORBETT.

Mysterious Move of the Officials of Travis County, Tex.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 9.—Sheriff J. P. Campbell has received from the sheriff of Travis county attachments for Jim Daly, Billy Delaney, Joe Corbett, John Donaldson and John McVey, all members of Corbett's training party, subpoenaing them to appear before the district court grand jury at Austin as witnesses. All the witnesses left for Austin last night. This new turn of affairs caused a sensation at the Corbett training quarters, and much speculation was indulged in as to the object of the Austin court. The only members of the party not subpoenaed are Jim Corbett and Steve O'Donnell, and this fact makes it appear that the grand jury is seeking to bring an indictment against the champion and O'Donnell. When asked by the United Press correspondent what he thought of the action of the Austin court, Corbett said: "I cannot imagine what they want with my trainers as witnesses. The only possible charge that the grand jury can bring against me is that I am a party to a conspiracy to bring off the fight with Fitzsimmons."

THE CUBAN FLOODS.

Further Loss of Life Reported—Relief Fund Increased.

Havana, Oct. 9.—A dispatch from Madrid says that the government has increased to $50,000 its fund for the relief of the sufferers by the inundation of the Vuelta Abajo district. Further reports say that in the La Esperanza district all the railroad bridges have been destroyed. A Norwegian steamer the name of which is not known has been wrecked on the reefs. The vessel was loaded with lumber. The coasting schooner Joven Lola has also been wrecked. Four members of the crew were drowned. The master was saved. In the Rosario district more than ninety houses have collapsed, and all the palm trees in the district have been destroyed by the flood. Eighteen lives are known to have been lost. Four sailors who had been seen on the beach at San Cayetano were drowned and two more are reported to be missing.

INSULTING TO WILLIAM III.

Letters that May Be Used To Ruin the German Conservative Party.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—The Volks Zeitung says that Baron von Hommerstein, formerly leader of the conservative party and editor of the Kreuz Zeitung, who is now a fugitive from justice, left behind him when he fled 387 letters from conservative friends. These letters are full of flagrant insults to Emperor William, and they will probably be exploited in the reichstag with a view to ruining the conservative party.

BATTLE OF PERRYVILLE.

Celebrated Yesterday by a Joint Reunion of Blue and Gray.

Danville, Ky., Oct. 9.—Yesterday was the thirty-third anniversary of the battle of Perryville. The event was celebrated on the battlefield by a joint reunion of the blue and gray.

District-Attorney Appointed.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Gov. Morton has sent to James A. Burnham of Ballston Spa a commission to fill the vacancy caused by the death of district-attorney John Person. The commission will expire on Dec. 30. Burnham was recently nominated by the republicans for district-attorney.

For a Two Years' Cruise.

Boston, Oct. 9.—The steam yacht Earl King, Capt. T. N. D. Derham, sailed yesterday for a two years' cruise in the South seas. Major A. H. Davis of Syracuse, N. Y., is the owner. The yacht is English built and flies the English flag.

A Socialist Delegate Arrested.

Breslau, Oct 9.—Dr. Ellenborgen of Vienna, the Austrian delegate to the socialist congress now in session here, was arrested yesterday. Dr. Ellenborgen was arrested on the ground that he was an "obnoxious foreigner."

Father Wagner Again Indicted.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 9.—Father Dominick Wagner has again been indicted, this being the fourth time. He is charged now with embezzling $1,500 of the funds of St. Mary's church of which he was pastor.

Paris at Cramp's Shipyard.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The American line steamer Paris arrived at Cramp's shipyard last night from New York. She will undergo a thorough overhauling.

IT IS CLEVELAND'S CUP

Orioles Fail To Capture the Temple Trophy.

The Final Game Almost Winds Up in a Riot—Police Assistance Necessary To Keep the Baltimore Rooters from Again Attacking the Visiting Players.

Baltimore, Oct. 9.—The Temple cup goes to Cleveland and, as last year, the champions must content themselves with second place in the contest for the prize. Tebeau and his "spoiler" congregation took the fifth and deciding game with something to spare. Neither side scored until the seventh inning, but despite the goose-egg and cold weather there was lots of enthusiasm because of numerous brilliant plays. From the opening of the seventh inning until the teams left the grounds there was excitement aplenty and to spare. Up to the end of the sixth inning there had been but three hits made off Hoffer. Young was the first man up in the seventh. He cracked out a double; Burkett singled and McKean sacrificed. Young was, however, held on third. Kelley's error in dropping a ball from Childs' bat allowed Young to score. Singles by McAleer and Tebeau and two dumb exhibitions by Gleason and Carey gave the Clevelands two more runs. Three singles and an error netted them two in the succeeding inning.

An Incipient Riot.

Baltimore earned one run in the seventh inning. In this inning an incipient riot followed Tebeau's attempt to spike Hoffer as he ran past first. Returning to the base Hoffer vigorously pushed Tebeau, felling him to the ground. Excitement ran high as the players rushed in from the field while yells and imprecations filled the air. The champions added another tally to their score in the ninth, and at one time had a chance of winning the game. With two out McGraw and Keeler drew fouses on balls and Jennings was hit by the pitcher. The crowd meantime was wildly encouraging the home players and trying to rattle the others. With the bases full Kelley was besought in frantic terms to bring them in. The best he could do was to single, scoring McGraw. With a chance to win the game and possibly the Temple cup, the rooters begged and besought Brodie to punch out a triple or a homer, but he failed miserably.

Police Guarded the Victors.

The crowd left the grounds in bad humor, hundreds of them lining up about the players' club house awaiting the appearance of the Cleveland team. The police were, however, prepared for any outbreak that might occur and quickly drove the mob back until a passageway had been made for the Forest City men. As they filed into their stage a platoon of mounted police surrounded it and opened an avenue for the bus to drive through. Several policemen rode in the vehicle while others were on top. The very formidable array of blue coats deterred the crowd from making any hostile demonstration, and the team reached its hotel without molestation. The chilly weather had a bad effect on the attendance which was a little less than 5,000.

THE ARMENIAN RIOTS.

Situation at Constantinople Unchanged—Patrol Increased.

Constantinople, Oct. 9.—The situation here is unchanged. The patrols have been materially increased by infantry and cavalry, but the presence of additional troops fails to restore public confidence. All efforts to persuade the Armenians to leave their churches have proved fruitless, the refugees declaring that they would not trust to the government's promises of protection. Artin Pasha, whom the sultan has twice sent to co-operate with the patriarch and induce the refugees to go to their homes, continues his efforts in that direction. On Oct. 5 the government ordered the ministers of police to clear the Armenian churches of their occupants, but that official demurred, fearing the consequence of such action. Reports are current that conflicts have taken place between Turks and Armenians in the Armenian cities of Sivas, Van and Erzerum.

DUKE IN WASHINGTON.

Marlborough Enroute to Kentucky To Inspect Blue Grass Horses.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The Duke of Marlborough and his cousin, the Hon. Ivor Guest, arrived in Washington last evening from New York and took rooms at the Arlington. After dinner the duke saw Camille d'Arville in "Madeline," at the National. To-day he is visiting the interesting places about the city and this afternoon will leave for Louisville and Lexington over the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad. His purpose in going to the "blue grass" state is to look over the blooded horse stock of that region. He is an ardent horseman, and having heard so much of Kentucky's thoroughbreds he will investigate for himself. His trip is expected to be a short one.

AN AMERICAN BOY.

One of the Fatally Injured in a Railroad Wreck in Belgium.

Brussels, Oct. 9.—Among the passengers injured in the collision between a freight and a passenger train between Wavre and Ottignies on Sunday was a youth named William, who says he is an American and a resident of the village of Nouveau Glez. The young man was badly mangled and is dying.

Demers Jury Disagrees.

Montreal, Oct. 9.—The jury in the case of Napoleon Demers, who has been on trial here for nearly three weeks, charged with wife murder, after three hours' deliberation failed to agree and were discharged.

U. S. Transport Fern Ashore.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 9.—The United States transport Fern, in charge of Commander Bicknell, from the Boston navy yard, went ashore in the lower harbor on Gerrish's flats yesterday.

Raft Capsized; 100 Drowned.

Moscow, Oct. 9.—News has been received here of the capsizing of a raft on the river Oka, near Ozery, drowning one hundred persons.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 9, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Fair and Colder, With Probable Frosts in the Morning.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 46 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 9-12—Christian Endeavor State Convention at Atlantic City.
October 9—Regular meeting of Lucetta Council, No. 28, D. of R., in S. of T. Hall.
October 10—Dance of the T. A. B. society in their hall. Evening.
October 10—Annual State Conference of the
October 10—Meeting of the Board of Trade.
October 10—Anniversary exercises and smoker of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.
October 10—Meeting of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., when the P. M. Degree will be worked.
October 11—Sociable at the First M. E. Church.
October 11—Adjourned meeting of the Borough Council.
Woman's Synodical Society at the Crescent Avenue church.
October 11—Last evening run of the Y.M.C.A. Cyclers, under the leadership of Capt. T. A. Cuming. Run will be to Orange, leaving here at 7 p. m.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Christian Endeavor rally in the First Presbyterian Church.
October 8—Bible Study Club at Y. M. C. A. building.
October 14—Opening of the Y. M. C. A. Educational Department.
October 15—Captain Jack Crawford in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.
October 15—Rally of Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Chapel.
October 17—Gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A. will begin.

Dr. Parkhurst is more of a politician than a minister.

In another column in today's Press will be found the plumbers' ordinance which the Board of Health expect to pass, and which the Board of Trade will publicly discuss tomorrow night.

The Hudson county Democrats will try the direct primary plan this year in selecting candidates for the Senate and Assembly. Each individual casts his vote for his preference for the nominations instead of for convention delegates.

The Republican convention of Middlesex county yesterday afternoon renominated for the Assembly, at New Brunswick, Edward W. Hicks, of New Brunswick, A. H. Slover, of South Amboy, and George Tice, of Perth Amboy.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr is keeping his word. He is talking, but the following extract from his speech made at Orange last night gives evidence that the gentleman is not as optimistic of Republican victory as some other Jerseyites:

"If Kentucky and New Jersey both go Republican" he said, "I think I shall be ready to depart this world in peace. I'll be satisfied to enjoy my angelic robes the next day."

Nowadays it is not always the talking candidate that wins. Notable examples of this were observed in the last two Gubernatorial campaigns in New York, when in 1891 Fassett orated all over the State and Flower kept mum and carried the election by 50,000 plurality, and again last year when Hill talked day and night and Morton did nothing but write a letter or two and hear on election eve that he was elected by 180,000 plurality.

The Charleston News holds that any suffrage scheme which requires the applicant to be able to "explain any section of the Constitution when read to him," should be abandoned, because it would not be fairly and honestly applied. A better plan, it thinks, would be for the convention to require the Legislature to provide for the preparation, by some competent authority, of a list of plain questions designed especially to test the general intelligence of the illiterate applicant, and which he must answer in order to pass the test.

The most pretentious characters are generally the greatest frauds. The men who are all the time boasting of their superiority in any one thing or line of business are the ones that we should watch most carefully and look out for. One of the most useful qualities of the mind is to learn to quickly discern the true characters of strangers who seek to deal with us in any capacity, and we may soon estimate their real value correctly by carefully noting their tendency to boast of their deeds and by the excessive use of the pronoun "I." Boys should make a study of this matter, and early learn to put a proper value upon those they may meet in the world. Those who do not do so are the ones that sharpers and frauds are looking for.—Jamesburg Advance.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. James Blair is ill at her home on East Fifth street.

Mrs. John Laible, of Dunellen, is the guest of North Plainfield relatives today.

Mr. and Mrs. Henninger, of Illinois, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Smalley, of Somerset street, returned home today.

The Press Was Right.

In the report of the Council proceedings last night The News stated the work of cleaning the channel of Green brook would be done under the supervision of the Board of Health. The Press stated that it would be done under the supervision of Street Commissioner Meeker. The Press was right.

Whist Club Meets.

The East End Whist Club met last evening at the home of George Snediker, of Grove street. All the members were present. After the game was concluded refreshments were served. They meet next Thursday at the home of Arthur Vail, of Franklin place.

To Work at Night.

Street Commissioner Meeker has his men today cleaning up the mud on the principal streets in town. It is his intention to have the steam roller at work on Front street in a few days. The roller will be run nights on the latter street.

Heart Trouble the Cause.

Mrs. Almira K. Southard, of 363 Cottage place, died at her home Monday evening at about eight o'clock from heart trouble. She has been ill for a long time.

Stands Distinguished.

Gen. Lew Wallace says of Capt. Jack Crawford: "As a gentleman, a soldier, a scout and poet, he stands distinguished." He will give the first entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. course in the association hall on Tuesday, October 15th.

Raspberries in October.

Raspberries are rather out of season, but J. A. Powlison, of Somerset street, has a plant from which he picked a number of black ones yesterday while more will be ripe in a few days, if the frost don't touch them.

Building Ordinance to Be Called Up.

Councilman Erickson will bring the building ordinance before the City Council next Monday night. There is liable to be considerable opposition to its passage.

Eight Years Old.

Tomorrow evening Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will celebrate their eighth anniversary by giving a smoker, and there will also be an informal entertainment.

Doctors in Session.

The Union County Medical Association are in session this afternoon in the Board of Directors room at the Y. M. C. A. building. It is the regular quarterly meeting.

—One hundred baskets of Morris White peaches were received at Fulper's this morning. They are the last of the season.

—Swedish services will be held in Reform Hall this evening. A professor in the Swedish college in Brooklyn will have charge.

—Street Commissioner Meeker expects to get to work on Green Brook at an early date, as authorized by the council Monday night.

The marriage of Miss Nora Thorn to Herbert C. Thompson, of Orange, will take place Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thorn, on East Second street.

Don't be Foolish and take some other brand of condensed milk, thinking it is "just as good" as the

GAIL BORDEN EAGLE BRAND

It Has No Equal

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's BAKING POWDER

"Absolutely the best and most desirable baking powder manufactured."

GEN. S. H. HURST, late Ohio Food Commissioner.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell is spending a few days in New York.

Miss Kline, of Chatham street, is visiting friends at Newark.

Miss Hattie Fender, of Grove street, is spending a few days at Orange.

Dudley Miller, of Orchard place, has returned from a short visit at Elmira.

Robert Fairbairn, of New York, called on Plainfield friends yesterday.

Henry Bryant, of Pluckamin, is the guest today of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. King on Craig place.

Lewis Darling, of Belvidere avenue, has gone to Boston on a business trip and will return Friday.

Mrs. DeOliver R. Ding, of Putnam avenue, is spending a few days with her niece in Morristown.

Frank Denecklau, of East Second street, has accepted a position with G. W. V. Moy, the druggist.

Mrs. Albert Hedden, of Park avenue, has gone to Brooklyn to visit her daughter, Mrs. John Neal.

W. D. Pike, of East Front street, has taken a position with H. W. Peabody & Company of New York.

Walter McGee and family, of Rockview avenue, are registered this week at the Hotel Albert, New York.

After a short illness Motorman J. Keefe has returned to the Somerset street branch of the trolley road.

Mrs. B. C. Ammerman, of Pluckamin, is visiting at the home of Joseph S. Powlison on Grandview avenue.

Frank Vermeule, of Watchung avenue, has made application for a position in the Engineering Corps at West Point.

Miss Florence Keith, of Indiana, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Knight, of Woodland avenue, Netherwood.

James B. Buchanan, of Kansas City, is visiting at the home of his uncle, David Snediker, on Grove street.

W. L. Price, Plainfield manager of the Eldridge Bicycle Company, has gone on a three days outing at Mt. Tabor.

Wilbur Fisk and family, of Arlington avenue, left yesterday for New York, where they will remain for the winter.

Albert Sampson, of East Fifth street, has taken a position with Kearney & Foot, file manufacturers of New York.

T. H. Keller left today on a business trip through the south, to be absent about a month. He will take in the Atlanta Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Coriell, of West Front street, have returned from Ocean Grove and Trenton after being absent since early in June.

Henry T. Gray, of New York, came to Plainfield last Saturday to pay a short visit with his aunt, Mrs. Fanny T. Ketcham, of East Fifth street.

Patrick Lyons returned yesterday to this city from Charleston, N. C., where he has been employed by the Dwyer Brothers in the jockey business.

Mrs. Frank Wooden and son, of Bristol, Conn., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Wooden's daughter, Mrs. P. M. Decker, of East Fifth street.

H. G. Runkle and family returned to their home yesterday from Hotel Champlain, Bluff Point, Clinton county, N. Y., where they have been stopping since June 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCutchen and family, who have been spending the summer at Camp Pinafore, Lake Placid, N. Y., are expected at their home on Rockview avenue tomorrow.

W. P. DeWitt, of Prospect avenue and Ninth street, left Saturday for a business trip in the south which will occupy the winter manths. During Mr. DeWitt's absence Mrs. DeWitt will visit friends abroad.

Great specialties in clothing this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

THE SYNODICAL MISSION.

Programme to be Carried Out By the Presbyterian Women.

The eighth annual meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Synod of New Jersey, will be held in the Crescent Avenue church, tomorrow.

The meeting of the Home Society will begin at 9:30 a. m. to be preceded by a union prayer meeting, beginning at 9 o'clock. Addresses will be given by Mrs. Darwin R. Jantes, President of the Woman's Executive Committee, and Mrs. M. C. De Vore, of Alaska; Mrs. D. E. Finks, editor of Home Mission Monthly, will conduct a question box conference on methods and plan of work.

The meeting of the Foreign Society will open at 1:30 p. m. Mrs. C. N. Thorpe, of the Philadelphia board, will speak also Rev. George Pierson and Mrs. Pierson, from Japan.

RIBBON HANDLERS ORGANIZE.

The Drivers Get Together for Mutual Protection.

The Plainfield Drivers Association was organized last night with the following officers: President, Joseph Angerbaur; secretary, F. B. Fine; treasurer, L. C. VanNest. The following are the members: Theodore Smith, John Cox, Henry Perrine, Pine Yetman, Edward Baker, Thomas Johnson, Robert Yetman and John See. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Edward Baker, corner of Race and Warren streets, on the second Tuesday evening in November, when an effort will be made to induce all drivers to become members of the organization.

High School Notes.

The weekly singing lesson of the High School students was held yesterday morning. Some new music was tried and the students took a great interest in it.

A meeting of the P. H. S. A. A. was held yesterday morning at recess.

Many of the athletes of the P. H. S. A. A. are training hard for the coming field day games. The medal which The Daily Press has offered has caused many of the students to take a new and strong interest in athletics.

The members of the class of '96 will meet on the Crescent Oval this afternoon to form the relay team. Each class it is expected, will put a team on the track, which will of course make the best showing. As the classes are so evenly matched, this race will be one of the most interesting of the day.

Jacob Sacher Non-Suited.

In the Court at Elizabeth this morning the case of Jacob Sacher against Dan S. Roberts, in tort, resulted in a non-suit for the defendant, which ends the litigation. Sacher was suing for $5,000 damages for injuries which he alleged he received from a rig rented by Mr. Roberts to Mr. Sacher last spring. W. R. Codington, of this city, represented Mr. Roberts, and the plaintiff was represented by Lewis Hood, of Newark.

Greder Property Bought.

Vincent W. Nash, executor for the estate of the late Charles Graeder, on Somerset street, passed the title of the property to Florret Wormser, of Lake street, this morning. The consideration was $6,100. Zeller & White will still continue business at the place and will use the entire building.

Six to Be Initiated.

The International Association of Machinists will hold its regular meeting on tomorrow evening in Red Men's Hall. All members are requested to be present as business of importance is to be transacted. Six candidates are to be initiated.

—Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles, at the leading hotels, clubs and cafes. 6

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

Yes

The Time Has Arrived to Buy

Fall Underwear

AT PECK'S

"Ever Ready" PREPARED

Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills. 24 Somerset street. Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

Interesting List of Exceptional Values.

Cloak Department.

Ladies stylish fall coats in a large variety of styles in Borcle Cheviot, Persian Lamb and Kersey Cloths, satin lined, ripple back, mandolin and melon sleeves, all strictly tailor made, from $8.50 to $18.

Fall circular capes in Borcle, Melton and Plush, trimmed with Thibet fur, skunk and stitched satin, single and double capes, satin lined, from $7.25 to $18.50.

Ladies black Moreen underskirts, deep ruffle, splendidly made, from $2.59 to $3.80.

48 cts. Outing flannel underskirts in a variety of new fall colorings; worth 59c.

DRESS GOODS AND SILK DEPARTMENT.

89C. Scotch plaid silks in beautiful colorings; excellent quality; worth $1.10 a yard.

50C All wool cheviot tweeds in two color blendings, 40 inches wide; worth 69c. yd.

Millinery Department.

A few items of interest selected from many.
Felt sailors in black, navy and red, 25c, 49c, 65c.
Beautiful velvet roses 25c, 49c.
Black ostrich plumes 79c.
Children's trimmed school hats $1.98, $2.49.

Carpet Department.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

55 CTS. Our entire stock of best tapestry Brussels carpet; a large variety of patterns. For this week only, special at 55c per yd.

49 CTS. Best extra super ingrain carpet, our entire stock, fine styles Special for this week at 49c yard.

In addition to our regular stock we have a sample department and carry a full and complete line of all grades of carpet from the stock of W. and J. Sloan, for whom we are selling agents in Plainfield. Call and see our new fall styles. Special attention given to special orders and estimates furnished on application.

In Our Big Basement This Week.

7c SALE — 5,000 useful articles to go at 7 cts each. Former prices 9, 10, 12 and 15c each; for this week only. Tinware, woodenware, china and glass. — 7c SALE

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. Any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good quality oil	5c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Board of Trade meets tomorrow evening.

—Frank Hedden will have charge of the carriages at the Reinhart-Van-Buren wedding.

—The recognized rival of the imported is Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles. 6

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church held a meeting yesterday afternoon.

—The annual meeting of the Union County Medical Society is being held this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

—The T. A. B. Society will hold its regular monthly dance at its hall on West Fourth street tomorrow evening.

—Two new houses for Daniel Dugan will soon be in course of erection at the corner of LaGrande and Scott avenues.

—Prices cut in half this week at the Plainfield Bargain House, 126 Park avenue, in clothing and gents furnishings. 6

—There are at present three men and four women patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, and all are improving favorably.

—Justice Nash issued summons this morning in the case of Harrison vs. Richards, on contract, returnable on the eleventh.

—The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company have issued a new number book. The cover is green for a change.

—At the meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., last evening, the fair committee made a report and was continued.

—A harvest home will be held this evening in the old Seventh Day Baptist church for the benefit of the Mt. Zion M. E. church.

—Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, is going to erect three very handsome dwellings at the corner of Front and New streets.

—The twenty-second annual convention of the W. C. T. U., of New Jersey, begins today at Paterson. It will continue for two days more.

—J. VanEps is now at work constructing an elaborate case for his new zither. The case is furnished with folding music rack and leaf holder.

—The funeral of Howard M. Martin will take place at the home of his brother, F. L. C. Martin of Park avenue, tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held its first meeting for the fall term at the home of Mrs. Haynes, of First place, yesterday afternoon.

—There were eighteen members of the Boys Brigade present at the meeting in the First Baptist church Monday evening to complete the organization. Another meeting will be held at an early date.

—After a short delay the work on the house connections of the sewers was resumed today on Park avenue between Second and Front streets. Property owners along that thoroughfare should designate to Engineer VanEmburgh the point where they would like to have the connections made.

—Dr. VanDuyne, of East Fifth street, while passing along Washington street, between Front and Second streets, on his way to church Sunday evening, stumbled against an incline in the sidewalk and falling to the ground received painful injuries. His clothing was also considerably torn.

—At the home of Felix T. Lincoln last Saturday night a very pleasant party was given to commemorate the seventieth birthday of Mr. Lincoln, who is hale and hearty for one of that age. About fifty of his friends and relatives were present from New York, Brooklyn and this city. A number of gifts were presented to him, to which Mr. Lincoln made a reply in a religious strain.

—At Mrs. Smalley's meat market, corner of Somerset and Race streets, in the borough, you can always depend on good cuts at reasonable prices, and prompt attention to orders. At this time of the year, when Jersey pork and sausage are enjoyed, her market is headquarters for a prime article. Ed Mundy, who is in charge of the market, knows his business, and will be pleased to have you give him a trial order.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—The prayer meeting at Warren chapel tomorrow evening will be led by J. W. Gavett.

—Great bargains this week at Edsall's big 7-cent sale. See show windows for balance of programme.

—Course and single tickets for the Y. M. C. A. entertainment course can be obtained at Reynolds' pharmacy.

—The Crescent Coterie will give a reception and dance to their friends in Olympia Hall Wednesday evening, October 16th.

—The Crescents played their last game of the season Saturday when they defeated the Basking Ridge team five to four.

—The work of painting the interior of W. L. & J. M. Smalley's butcher shop on Somerset was started today by Andrew Smalley.

—The contractors have at last been forced to acknowledge that they will not be able to complete the Westfield sewers this season.

—Wm. Pangborn has the contract for laying a concrete walk in front of the Y. M. C. A. building, and the work was started yesterday.

—Edward Love is building up the reputation of doing fine decorating. Wall papers of every description are to be had in his store. Estimates furnished.

—The exterior of Miss Eleanor Roome's residence, on the corner of Sycamore and Mercer avenues, is being handsomely painted by Marsh, Ayers & Co.

—There are several cesspools on Woodland avenue, Netherwood, which are full to overflowing, the refuse running into the gutters and causing a horrible stench.

—The subject of the regular Wednesday evening meeting at Monroe Avenue chapel tonight will be "Religion in Earnest." All who can attend will receive a cordial welcome.

—The Orientals and Monroe Avenue chapel baseball teams will contest on the Clinton avenue grounds next Saturday. B. Hayes and J. Moran will be the battery for the Orientals.

—Substitute P. J. Reville has been appointed inspector of the Fourth ward board of registry, and Substitute D. J. Shea is looking after Carrier Reville's interest in the postoffice during the latter's absence.

—Honan & Sons, sewer contractors, completed laying the sewer pipes yesterday at the extreme end of Watchung avenue, and started this morning tearing up Hillside and Kensington avenues, which they hope to finish this week.

—The physicians who examined Alice Smith, of Westfield, lately held as an insane person, have reported that they do not find her dangerously insane, and have refused to order her commitment to Morris Plains. She has been discharged from custody.

PREPARING FOR THE KIRMESS.

The Drills Being Organized and Practice Soon To Begin.

The Kirmess held during the Y. M. C. A. fair last winter was such a great success that the Women's Auxiliary of the Muhlenburg Hospital, in search of some way to raise money for the hospital, have settled upon Kirmess.

It is to be held the second week in November at the Crescent Cycle Academy and promises to be still more of a success than the one last year. The plan will be much the same, only perhaps more elaborate. There will be drills represented to be from all the leading nations and the women of the auxiliary are now hard at work in trying to secure the necessary number of young people to take part in the drills.

Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Prayer conference meeting Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

Christian Endeavor meeting Friday evening at eight o'clock. Topic, "Progress in the Christian life." 2 Peter 1; 1-11.

Junior Christian Endeavor Friday afternoon at four o'clock. Topic, "Growing happier every day."

Women's prayer meeting at residence of Mrs. A. D. Philips, 508 Central avenue, Friday afternoon at 3:30.

The Ladies Aid Society will hold their first regular meeting of the season on Tuesday afternoon of this week, at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. C. A. Haynes, 826 First place.

—We are selling $12 and $14 suits this week for $6 and $8 at the Plainfield Bargain House, No. 126 Park avenue. 6

THEATRICAL.

"Faust," at Music Hall, on next Thursday night. The only American "Mephisto," supported by a large, powerful company of players; a carload of new and elegant scenery; a complete electrical plant; new and appropriate sacred and classic music introduced by the two Faust Quartettes, accompanied by the Florentine Choir singers, in fact as much music as an opera. From the opening scene in "Faust's" labratory to the "Finis" the Apotheosis, the audience will be held with amusement of delight at the spectacular and electrical contrivances new in stage mechanism, at Music Hall next Thursday evening.

Dunellen.

Mrs. Tozeaw, of High street, is confined to her home by illness.

Edgar Giddis, of Springdale, called on friends on North avenue, Monday.

Mrs. Henry Vail has returned home from her visit with relatives at Plainfield.

Miss White, who has been visiting friends in town, has returned to Pluckamin.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber, of New Rochelle, are visiting friends on Dunellen avenue.

A. Giddis, of North avenue, spent Sunday with Samuel Giles and family, of Staten Island.

Edgar Giddis, of Springdale, will move into the house formerly occupied by Mr. Lewis.

Miss Hattie Case, of New York, has returned from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Case, of Greenbrook.

Cornelius VanMiddlesworth, of Jersey City, was the guest Monday of his brother, William VanMiddlesworth and family.

The M. E. church will hold their autumnal services on October 20th, to which the congregation of the Presbyterian church have been invited.

Miss Mary Bolton, who has been visiting her brother, John Bolton, of Somerville, has returned to the home of her sister, Mrs. P. Harman, of High street.

Mrs. Cornelius VanMiddlesworth and Miss Alice Mackinarry, of Jersey City, rode from Elizabeth on their wheels yesterday, and spent the day with relatives on Front street.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

List of Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 7, 1895.

Booker Edward	Noles Squire
Bowers Mrs H C	Perretta Sig Antonio
Bradford Wm	Randolph A F
Buller Miss	Richardson Miss C L
Chas Mademoiself	Pangborn Elias
Cottington Wm H	Prine Robert
Condit H B 3	Perry Sarlena
Cox Wm	Ress Mrs R
Dunpsey Jno	Rungaloer Mrs J
Frost B J	Sarles Annie
Gunner Phillips	Sutton Chas G
Gaston Mr & Mrs L P	Sanford Mrs C W
Garrabrandt Eugene	Simpson Master H
Howard Mrs Ella	Stewart Mrs Leanora
Hillery Etta	Stead Mrs Sophia
Henderson Mrs M H	Smith Samuel
Jarvis Mrs E	Thorn Mrs Kitty
Kuhne F J	Stewart C M
Kitchen S P	Smith C M
Kerwin Lawrence	Scribner Mr & Mrs C
Little Mrs Mame	Sigler Jno E
Little Miss M V	Tabbert Paul
Miskel Comella	Tabor Paul
Mechling Geo	VanArsdale Mrs P E
Mills F	Wheeler Mrs Theo
Mexviskox Z	Wearren Mrs G
Martin Mrs Josephine	Wilson Mrs Francis
Messler Mrs	Youmans E W

Y. M. ★ C. A.

STAR COURSE

OF SEVEN

Entertainments!

IN

Y. M. C. A. HALL

Course Tickets - - $1.25
Single Admission - 25 Cts.

FIRST ENTERTAINMENT

Tuesday, October 15th.

CAPT. JACK CRAWFORD,

The Poet Scout, in his wonderful entertainment, "The Camp Fire and the Trail." 10 8 10 12 14 15

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only. Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

CYCLING COMMENT.

William Nicholson is planning a ride to Allentown Saturday.

The Crescent Wheelmen meet this evening. Several changes in the by-laws will be brought before the meeting.

DIED.

WARD—At Clinton avenue, Oct. 8, 1895, George S., youngest child, of George W. and Emma Ward, aged 2 years, 6 months and 29 days.
Relatives and friends are very respectfully invited to attend the funeral service at his late residence, DeKalb avenue, on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 10, at 2:30 p. m.

GAVIN—In North Plainfield, Monday, October 7th, 1895, Benjamin E., son of Edward P. and Mary Gavin, aged 30 years 11 days.
Funeral services from the residence of his parents on Greenbrook road, Thursday morning, October 10th, at 9 o'clock and 9:30 in St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield. 10 7 3

FRENCH—In this city suddenly, Oct. 8, 1895, of congestion of the lungs, Minnie Jackson French, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French.
Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from her late residence, 18 Craig place. 2

MARTIN—In this city, Monday, Oct. 7, 1895, Howard M. Martin, son of the late J. Marc Martin, aged 28 years 10 days.
Funeral services from his late residence 825 Park avenue, Thursday, October 10th, at 11 o'clock a. m. 2

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

A BRIGHT active boy of good education, to come highly recommended to a position of trust. Integrity care Press.

WANTED—Girl for general housework; references required. Apply 54 Grove st. 10 9 tf

A GOOD dressmaker wants steady employment; terms reasonable. Address V., care Press.

FOR SALE—Cheap, a good oil route Inquire at 718 Sonth ave. 10 9 2

WANTED—A woman for general housework. Apply 718 Central avenue. 10 9 2

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, att'y, cor. Park and North aves. 10 9 4

WANTED—Parties for two rooms; house thoroughly renovated and newly occupied. 327 West Front st.

WANTED.—A good cook; must have satisfactory references. Apply at 531 West 8th st. 10 9 3

SMALL house wanted in good location; rent not exceeding $18 for the winter. P. S. C., care Press.

FIRST-CLASS dressmaker wants sewing by the day at customer's home. 420 West 3d st. 10 8 2

WANTED—A competent second girl. Call at 531 West 7th street, Thursday, p. m.

HORSES or cattle boarded for the winter; best of care. S. Beeching, Washingtonville. P. O. Box 346. 10 9 12 16 19 23 26 30-11 2

FOR SALE—Cheap, barber shop; 2 chairs doing good business. Address L. C., care Press.

AGENTS make $5 daily; marvelous invention; retails 25c; 2 to 6 sold in a house; sample mailed free. Forshee & McMakin, Cincinnati, O. 1 2 y-w

FOR SALE—Six black walnut school desks. Will be sold at a sacrifice. Address "Desks," care Press. 10 8 2

WANTED—Position as chambermaid and waitress in small private family. Apply 325 West 2d st. 10 8 2

UPPER floor of my building to let. Townsend Granite Works, Somerset street. 10 8 2

A BARGAIN—$875 will buy 7-room house, lot 50x150; small barn; 15 minutes from Plainfield station. C. L. Moffett, Park and North aves. 10 8 4

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

AN umbrella was left at this office a few days ago. Owner can have it by proving property. 10 7 3

WANTED—Girl to cook, wash and iron. 724 Watchung ave. 10 7 3

LOST—Fox terrier bitch, cob built, black and tan marks, finder rewarded. T. H. Keller, 307 East Front st. 10 7 3

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 1121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 5

FLAT to let, $10. F. W. Bird, 321 East Front st. 10 1 6

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

PLUMS FOR YOU.

The first man up the tree usually gathers the largest crop of plums, for in these busy days they are plucked before they have a chance to fall. Many plums there are here for you to gather and little money

GATHERS THEM

GINGHAMS

1896 styles, and why we can make such little prices comes about in the most natural way. It's only a sacrifice of profits on our part. Worth 15c; our price 8c.

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilbert ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch Imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 55c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c. 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 38 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats, you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts, made of fine serge, both black and blue, $2.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants, 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants, were 50c, now 31c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 55c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.
Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles 49c each.
English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannel and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Van Emburgh & Son

Will Tell You About

CORSETS

THIS WEEK.

Van Emburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular House, Babcock Building.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS, lowest prices.

U. B. CRANE. Hatter and Furnisher

120 West Front Street.

THE PIRATE.

I was a bloody pirate once, full many years ago,
Though you that see my piety may scarce believe it so.
I've shot and butchered countless scores of helpless cherubims,
And hung their sighing mothers high upon the crosstree limbs.
Their fathers, fighting to the last, I've forced into the sea—
Ah, there is naught by evil wrought but has been done by me.
All this took place in that far time when I was still a boy,
Yet even now when I think how, with what bloodthirsty joy,
I scoured the wilds of Washburn's pond for merchant ships to burn,
I'd give a score of years—aye, more—to be allowed to turn
The faded leaves of time's old book back where they were that night
When father's slipper attacked my clipper and put my crew to flight.

—Chicago Times-Herald.

AN ERA OF REFORM.

Won His Money and Then Barred Him Out Because He Was a Minor.

"I had an adventure in the City of Mexico when I was quite a youngster, not out of my teens, in fact, that taught me a useful lesson," said Mr. Jules Cohn of Philadelphia.

"There are two big gambling houses in the Mexican capital, run under government sanction, the houses paying very large sums into the public treasury for the privilege. I had seen enough of the game of monte to become infatuated with it, and during a sojourn of several weeks down there got to be a regular habitue of both sporting resorts. Occasionally I made a good winning, but on the whole lost more than I won. There is a Mexican law that forbids the entrance of minors into gambling places, but for a long while my going in and out was unchallenged, and I had no idea of ever being barred.

"One night following the day in which I had received my month's wages, $200 in gold, I sought the gambling place and was soon immersed in monte. Luck was very adverse to me that night, and when I left in the small hours the bank had cleaned me out of every dollar of my salary. Naturally I was pretty blue the next day; but, going to a friend, I secured the loan of $100 and determined to try to get back some of my lost cash.

"That night, on attempting to enter the place, the employee whose duty it was to see that no improper characters got entrance stopped me and asked if I were 21 years of age. On answering in the negative, he positively refused to let me go inside. I tried to reason with him, but to no purpose. He was inflexible and quoted to me the law. I told him it was a beautiful law that worked only one way, but that didn't move him.

"Well, I was so sore at my treatment that I called on the American minister, stated the case frankly and asked his advice. He said: 'You can undoubtedly make these people give back your money. The law would force them to do so on account of your age. You have great provocation to take such a course, but I advise you not to do it. The best way to get square is to stop playing monte and all other gambling games.'

"The advice I knew to be good, and as I listened I acknowledged its soundness. I thanked the minister, and going out of his office made myself a promise that I have kept to this day."—Washington Post.

Why People Like Dogs.

And why do people keep such lots of dogs themselves and go in such numbers to see other people's dogs? Because the dog is at once the sincerest flatterer and the most successful cheerer that the human race ever had. A good dog always gives us the feeling that we men and women are a sort of gods. No other animal does anything of the kind. The cat treats us as an inferior, and the horse will treat us as a dear friend, not a divinity. The dog, moreover, imparts something of his peculiar gayety to us in a way that is irresistible. He mingles his suggestions of gayety with his flattery, for he not only leaves his dinner untasted to walk with us, but the mere fact that we are apparently giving ourselves the pleasure of a walk raises him into such a delirium of delight that the sight of it puts all our dumps and blues to such reproach that we shake them off in very shame. And when we don't walk, but sit moodily at home, the dog curls up lovingly at our feet and looks up now and then into our eyes and "glides into our darker musings with a mild and healing sympathy." Yes, there is a solid reason for the fondness of men for dogs, and it will never come to an end until either men or dogs become very different beings from what they are now.—Boston Transcript.

Witty and Graceful.

Dean Ramsay tells of a witty and graceful compliment paid by a Scotch minister to a young lady, daughter of a neighboring laird. It was the custom in this and other Scotch parishes for the minister to bow to the laird's pew before beginning his discourse. On one occasion the pew contained a bevy of ladies, and the minister, feeling a delicacy in the circumstances, omitted the usual salaam. When they next met, the laird's daughter, a Miss Miller, widely famed for her beauty and afterward Countess of Mar, rallied the minister in the presence of her companions for not bowing to her from the pulpit. "Your ladyship forgets," replied the minister, "that the worship of angels is not allowed by the Scotch church."

Flowers In the House.

This was Celia Thaxter's rule for arranging flowers in the house: "Large flowers of vivid tints can be put farther away from the looker on, and yet lose none of their effectiveness or be unseen. But a fine flower, liked the forgetmenot or a cluster of heliotrope, would be lost on a mantel or high shelf. Put the delicate blossoms where their dainty color, forms and perfume can appeal to every one, while the massed and gaudy splendor of the larger flowers may serve to deck a dull corner or light up a shady, somber room."

To Cut Stick.

To "cut stick," a euphemism for running away, is an expression found not only in English, but also in French, German, Italian and Spanish. It is supposed to refer to the practice among travelers of cutting a staff from a hedge or tree before beginning a journey.

The word scold was formerly applied to a quarrelsome person of either sex, but as women are notoriously more given to scolding than men, it has come to be limited to the fairer and more linguistically gifted half of the human race.

Progress, the growth of intelligence and power, is the end and boon of liberty, and without this a people may have the name, but want the substance and spirit of freedom.—Channing.

A CRITIC.

She wanders through St. Peter's
And makes herself at home,
She shudders at the altar,
But she quite approves the dome.

With coldly cultured glances
And discriminating frown
She calmly does the Vatican
And turns old masters down.

An "Unknown" nymph may please her,
If "rapturously Greek,"
But Raphael is "spotty"
And lacking in "technique."

He doesn't "satisfy" her,
But Titian was "a dear;"
Del Sarto "knew his colors,"
And she likes his "atmosphere."

To hear her on mosaics
Or frescoes or on jade
You never would believe her
A breezy western maid,

Or dream, before she went abroad,
With wild, expectant joy,
She'd never traveled twenty miles
From Cairo, Illinois!

—Life.

LIED TWICE.

Unexpected Effect of the Story About Washington and the Cherry Tree.

On Sunday afternoon Daddy November and Uncle Luke were seated on the deck of "de ilan steamboat wot run between Chalston en Sulliban ilan en stop at Mount Pleasant when e gwine en when e come back." Daddy was telling a story.

"Befo' de wah," said he, "w'en I been slabe, my ole massa lib een big house een Rutledge street, close to de street wot call Calhoun now, but use to be call Boundary street. De house hab pooty gahden, wid nice sweet rose tree een 'em, en I wuk een de gahden en rub down hoss en feed cow en ting like dat. Well, ole massa hab one smaht leetle boy 10 yare ole, en de chile is de idle of he ma en pa. One day de chile smash one winder glass wid he ingin rubbah ball, en w'en he ma arx ef he bruck de glass de boy lie widout wunk he eye, en ob kose he ma beleebe em. But he pa fine out dat de chile lie, en den 'stead ob lick em he ma tell em story 'bout Washington en he hatchet en all dat, en de leetle boy listen berry close, speshumly wen he ma say dat Washington git all kine er toy w'en he say dat he cut down de tree.

"Seberal day pass, en one nice pitcher been smash, en de chile ma arx em ef he bruk de pitcher. De leetle boy say yes en look proud. Den he ma kiss em en tek em een King street to Piteet candy sto' en buy candy fur em en cake en tek em to heep ob odder sto' en buy em top, en box ob cahpentah tool en drum en 'cordion en jeushahp en load era wid present same like Chrismas been come. W'en dey come home, dey fine de pa settin een de piyazzah tekin de breeze. Den de ma tell de pa dat dey got son like Gawge Wash... on en tell how de boy 'kowledge dat he smash de pitcher. But de pa ain't look glad none 'tall, en he 'stonish de wife w'en he tu'n roun en slap de chile.

"'You slap de chile fur tellin de troof?' sing out de ma.

"'No,' said de pa. 'I slap em 'cause he lie some mo'. De chile ain't smash de pitcher none 'tall. I bruk em myself. Nebber mine 'bout tellin no mo' Washington story to de chile.'"—New York Sun.

Dr. Parkhurst's Early Training.

If I speak confidently and feelingly upon this point, it is because I know how much I owe personally to the fact of being brought up in a home where I was taught to appreciate the greatness of righteous authority, the vastness of its meaning, the advantage of submitting to it and the serious risk of resisting it, writes the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, D. D., in The Ladies' Home Journal. No anarchist could ever have graduated from the home I was born, loved and chastised in. Such experience makes me pity the children who know no discipline but that of caresses and sweatmeats and makes me more than pity the parents who have neither the discernment in their mental constitution nor the iron in their moral constitution to perceive that nothing which a child can know or can win can begin to take the place of sense of superior authority and of the holy right of that authority to be respected, revered and obeyed.

The moral strength of a man is measured pretty accurately by the cordial reverence with which he regards whatsoever has the right to call itself his master. Estimated by this criterion the average American boy is a discouraging type of humanity and is a severe reflection upon the crude attempts at manhood manufacture evinced by the typical American home. If our homes cannot turn out children that will respect authority, there will be no authority in a great while either at home, in the state or anywhere else that will be worth their respecting.

The Hagvard Cross.

The iron cross, burnished with gold, which is over one of the entrances to the Harvard college library (Gore hall) was at the time of the 1745 siege of Louisburg taken from a Catholic chapel there and brought to Massachusetts as one of the spoils of the victory. In 1877 Justin Winsor, the librarian of Harvard College library, found it in the cellar of the library and had it gilded and placed in the position which it now occupies. The fact that an entrance to one of the main buildings of the oldest and most distinguished college in once Puritan Massachusetts should be thus adorned with a religious symbol which is usually to be found only on Roman Catholic buildings or on Anglican churches of an extreme type argues religious liberality in these days which would make some of the anti-Catholic crusaders who took part in the Louisburg expedition lift their voices in stern rebuke of the degeneracy of their countrymen. But the world outgrows such baneful religious and partisan zeal.—Boston Transcript.

Weight of a Cubic Foot of Gold.

If some millionaire agreed to give you a cubic foot of pure gold if you should put it in a sack and carry it across the Eads bridge and back do you think you would be equal to the task? Certainly you are confident of your ability to perform the task, but I want to tell you that there would not be the least danger of the man of money losing his gold cube. Such a lump of virgin gold would weigh a few grains over 1,203 pounds.—St. Louis Republic.

To know by rote is no knowledge. It is only a retention of what is intrusted to the memory. That which a man truly knows may be disposed of without regard to the author or reference to the book from whence he had it.—Montaigne.

New York stands first in hops with 20,063,029 pounds, Washington being second with 8,313,280 pounds and California third with 6,547,338 pounds.

It is believed that the value of the personal property of this country equals if not exceeds that of the real estate.

EXTRA!

To inaugurate our Great

WHOLESALE SALE

We offer as Special this week

800 Fine Suits and Overcoats

In Fall and Winter Weights, Genuine English Cheviots and Clay Worsteds, Black, Blue and Gray Mixtures; Retail Price, $18 and $20,

AT ONLY $12.

"We sell Good Clothing for Less Money than any other house in the world."

TWO BROADWAY STORES:
194 Broadway, below Fulton St.
AND STEWART BUILDING,
Corner Broadway and Chambers Street,
NEW YORK.

BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & Co.

Open Saturday Evening till 9 o'clock.

Assignee's Sale.

Tunis J. Carey, Auctioneer, will, under the direction of the subscriber, expose to sale at public vendue, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, October 19th instant, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., at No. 320 West Front street, in the city of Plainfield, N. J. engine and boilers in basement, engine on third floor, two tailor wagons, two cutting machines, five sewing machines, twelve hand trucks, eleven desks, one measuring machine, one sponging machine, one Herring safe, one letter press, chairs, sofa, forty sample trunks, all platforms, racks and old lumber one awning, lot of electric light fixtures, one large mirror, steam radiator.

Also eighteen open accounts aggregating over $7,000, twenty past due promissory notes aggregating over $14,000, and sixty-four judgments aggregating over $78,000, a detailed list of which book accounts, notes and judgments may be inspected upon application to the Assignee, James F. MacDonald at his office at No. 320 West Front street Plainfield, N. J.

Terms cash.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J., October 3rd, 1895.

JAMES F. MacDONALD,
Assignee of Christian Schepflin and Peter Schultz, partners, etc., as Schepflin, Schultz & Co., and also as C. Schepflin & Co., for the equal benefit of their creditors. 10 7 taw td

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Catharine K. Vail, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the twenty-third day of October, next.

Dated August 20, 1895.

8 21 10-caw WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Trucking of all Kinds Done.

Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,
140 West Front Street.

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,
BEGINNING
Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.
Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.
9 27-10 1 5 8 11 12 15.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

Rockview Home and Day School

REOPENS SEPT. 18.

Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,
Front street opposite Somerset-street.

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name, Take Our Number, Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,
141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.
(Estate D. I. Smalley.)
94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,
Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.
325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.
230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

A. Lusardi,
120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,
88 FIFTH AVE.,
near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,
107 Park avenue.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,
105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 [illegible] 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 2[illegible] 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, [illegible] 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 [illegible] 10 59 a m; 12 06, 1 18, [illegible] 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 4[illegible] 5 24, 6 40, 7 08, 8 [illegible] 22, [illegible] 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday [illegible] 2 14, 3 [illegible] 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, [illegible] 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, [illegible] 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 [illegible] 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, [illegible] 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, [illegible] (except Saturdays) 6 [illegible] 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, [illegible] 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 [illegible] 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, [illegible] 00, night. Sundays 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; [illegible] 22 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 0[illegible] 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; [illegible] 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 3[illegible] 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 0[illegible] 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 3[illegible] 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, [illegible] 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 [illegible] 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 4[illegible] 3 39, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, [illegible] 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, [illegible] 8, 7 55, 8 39, 9 3, 10 [illegible] 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 [illegible] (Saturdays only) 2 5[illegible] 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, [illegible] 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 4[illegible] 10 05, 11 25, p m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 3[illegible] a m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 05, 5 4[illegible] 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m. Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 1[illegible] 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 [illegible] 2 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 0[illegible] 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 3[illegible] 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 [illegible] p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; [illegible] 03, 3 43, 5 14, 6 35, 10 [illegible] 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, [illegible] 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 4[illegible] 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 2[illegible] 4 25, 4 59, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45, [illegible] 05 p. m. Sunday at [illegible] 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, [illegible] 20, 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 0[illegible] 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 [illegible] 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28 a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05; 7 00, [illegible] 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 4[illegible] 00, p. m. Sunday at [illegible] 5, 10 52 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 [illegible] a. m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS

5 [illegible] a. m. For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

[illegible] a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 [illegible] p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W R R

2 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 [illegible] p m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 [illegible] p. m.—For Flemington.

6 [illegible] p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

8 [illegible] p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 [illegible] a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 [illegible] p. m. Sundays—For [illegible] High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 [illegible] p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, [illegible] 00, 10 27, a m., 1 1[illegible] 4 51, 5 24, p. m. Sundays, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a m; 3 30 p. m

For Boynton Beach, 8 1[illegible] 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 3[illegible] 00, 8 15, 10 27, a.m., 1 18, 3 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m. 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 [illegible] a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 [illegible] 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p m; 1 17 night. Sundays—5 [illegible] 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 34* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45 8 44, 9 46, [illegible] a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, [illegible] m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a m, 4 55, 5 14*, 6 35* p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m, 5 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week days at 9 54 a. m., 8 [illegible] p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application to advance ticket agent at the station.

J. [illegible] OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co., EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviôt suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 290. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,
Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE
Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,
119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale
AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.
Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,
High-Class
PORTRAITS
In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.
483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building. C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street. D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,
COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Supreme Court Commissioner.
First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's
LAW OFFICES,
Corner Park ave and 2d st.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery.
Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE
Even though you have
A Comfortable Bed,
You should
Lay in Your Coal
for the Winter.
George O. Stevens
747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,
Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.
128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day, 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
COAL AND WOOD.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue.
Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.
MRS. L. ADAMS,
114 EAST FRONT STREET.
Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,
Fresh, and from
Pure Materials.
TIER'S,
116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address are made from the root of the Asparagus, recommended by eminent physicians for the Kidneys and the Blood.
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills

Cure all Kidney Troubles, as well as Rheumatism, Gout, Anaemia, Lack of Ambition, Nervousness, Headache, etc.

A few does will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

At all druggists, or by mail prepaid, for 50c. a box.
Send for pamphlet.
HOBB'S MEDICINE CO.,
Chicago. San Francisco.

YOUR Valuables will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock Boxes from $3.50 to $10 a Year.

Please the Eye

with harmonious designs in wall paper and paints and see that the artisans who put the paper on the wall and the paint on the door and baseboards are thoroughly competent. It is our aim to satisfy you in both respects and we request an opportunity to convince you of our ability.
Paints, oils, varnishes, etc.

E. E. MARSHALL,
167 North avenue.

New! New!

YES
But Stop, Consider
what a combination of valuable medicines,
Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,
BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.
Try a bottle and be convinced.
50C.
Leggett's Pharmacy.

PIANOS.
You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at
J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W RANDOLPH'S,
Prescription Druggist.
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895 by Irving Bacheller.)

CHAPTER II.

He looked out toward the night—toward the unseen and unguessed dangers of the distance—toward the fort so hopelessly far away. He understood the need and the danger better than I did, as much better as his knowledge of life on the plains had been longer and more intimate than mine. Besides, I think the animal man, in the extremity of danger, shrinks from death more than the spiritual man. He had, too, unquestionably counted happily on the advantages he felt his life and training had given him over me. But the eyes of all the men—all who were left of them—were upon him. He must be consistent with the situation. He bowed his head—sign that he accepted my hard conditions. He said nothing. Possibly he could not trust himself to use words.

The captain took two matches from his pocket. He broke unequal pieces from them. He held the remainders, the ends, nearly concealed in his hand. "Choose," said he hoarsely, "the long stick goes."

We crowded forward, but Tige was ahead. He drew—a long stick, almost an entire match. But the captain held the remaining match out meaningly to me; I took it without a word; it was longer.

Fifteen minutes later, mounted on the best horse we had, not the swiftest animal, but the one with the most endurance, I stole out from our camp of defence—leaving on the side where the savages had seemed fewest, though the fort was in the opposite direction, and the sort of start I made would necessitate a long detour. The red rascals had evidently thought of nothing of this sort, and were resting—and plotting—without paying much attention to the need of watching. I got clear away, undiscovered, to a distance of not less than a mile.

I had felt compelled, however, to let the horse walk all the way, and the time had seemed fearfully long. And twelve hours—less the time I had taken for preparation for the trip, was so dreadfully short for what must be done. It may be a selfish thing to say, but, as I started out to tell the full and exact truth, I am going to say it: I think I should have reached the fort, safely and in good season, if Millie Davis hadn't been in danger. As it was, I commenced my detour when I had only a mile for the radius of the arc I took—when two miles would have been better, and I let my hores out to a trot toward the end of my short ride, when keeping him to a walk would probably have saved me. I don't doubt the sound of the horse's feet was heard. A half dozen savages, on foot, matched the long curve in which I rode with a singularly short line. The thing was absurdly simple. They rose up, suddenly, all about me. They shot my horse through the head, and down he went, all in a heap, stone dead, and with me under him. They were upon me, and had me bound, hand and foot, before I could get my hand upon a weapon. I was a helpless captive, though absolutely unhurt save for a bruise or two I got in my fall, and hadn't gotten over a mile and a quarter from the wagon train at all. There was only one feature of the whole affair that gave me the least satisfaction. (Have you ever noticed that a philosopher can find something of satisfaction in any situation in life?) The villains shouted so fiercely, when they got me, that my friends could have no doubt as to what had happened; that would be better, on the whole, than for them to wear their hearts out, in their last morning, watching for the help that would never come.

The Indians did not long delay in letting me know the fate in store for me. Though I didn't doubt the character of it from the moment they first got their evil hands upon me. The torture, with all its refinement of cruelty, must be lived through—and died out of! One red rascal in particular, evidently a chief of great importance was particularly annoying in his gestures and grimaces; he pointed to his head—his leg—his arm—in a way I could not understand; then he would point at me, and chuckle and gurgle like a fiend, while the look in his face came as near being a laugh as the paint on the surface—and the utter depravity behind it—would permit.

THEY TIED ME TO THE STAKE.

Morning came. No attack on my friends. Noon. And still no attack. And now my captors were preparing to give the beleaguered whites an exhibition of the way in which they dealt with the unfortunate. They were going to burn me alive, in full view of my friends.

They were wonderfully deliberate about it. They did not allow themselves to hurry at all. I, counting out agonizedly the length of life left me, guessed that the sun would not be more than an hour high when the ordeal would begin. Pray God, I should not live to see it set!

This delay—this gain of time—would have been of inestimable value to my friends—if they had not been beyond hope. They were as helpless as an open boat, in an empty ocean, with the white wings of the tempest already smiting the sea into foam! But it would, at least, give them a little of rest; they would be stronger for the struggle that must last until—for them—the earthly end of all things.

It was as well, too, that the little valley they had selected for my final scene on the world's stage should be in full view of those for whom I was to die—as well that my end should be an object lesson for their information. They could not help me, for the place selected was well beyond rifle shot, and to attempt my rescue would be a suicidal anticipation of the inevitable—a premature throwing away of the last possibility left to nearly complete hopelessness. But—they had good glasses; I knew they would watch every detail of the devilish deed. It would help them a little longer to the work when their time was narrowing down to minutes—to seconds; it would cost the savage foe another life or two; it would insure, in the cases of Millie Davis and the other women, a certainty of simple, unqualified death.

They tied me to the stake. They piled the fagots about me. A group of privileged ones—led by the creature I mentioned a little time ago—began a mad dance about me—torches in their hands. I shut my lips tightly. I prayed silently. I waited. A column of dust was rising beyond the ridge! It was hurrying—hurrying! Some belated savages, doubtless, unwilling to be cheated out of the show set for their friends in the valley. The dust column climbed the ridge. It reached the summit. And—was I going mad? or was there a line of galloping blue in the dust? The soldiers—the soldiers were coming! The wagon train was saved—saved! And I was so glad I almost forgot the deep personal interest I had in the situation. But the soldiers were charging straight for me—and a tall horseman who wore no uniform was riding madly well in advance of them.

The estimable savage to whom I have referred sprang forward, torch in hand, to fire the wood piled about me. And the horseman rose in his stirrups, raised his rifle to his shoulder, fired, and the attentive individual went down like a log, shot straight through the brain.

WHEN I LOOKED INTO THAT DEAD FACE OF THE SAVAGE.

A rifle was aimed at me—fired—and the bullet went rods wide of its mark. The horseman had risen in his stirrups again. He had fired his own rifle a second time, and my intending assassin had a hole through his heart.

The horseman saved me, in that running fight, a half dozen times. He covered himself with glory, proved himself a hero, and then went down, killed by a skulking loiterer, when the battle was over and the foe, with here and there an exception, fled either dead, or in flight.

In fiction I suppose Tige Black would have slipped out to the aid of the savages. And the Indian whose life I had saved, six years before, would have brought the soldiers to save me. But this is a story of the Indian as he was and is—not as we might idly say he ought to be! Real life plays havoc with the the ries of romance. When I looked into the dead face of the savage who had persistently tried to burn me, I knew him—and understood the gestures in which he had motioned to head and leg and arm. He was the ungrateful brute to whom I had given life—when circumstances had dictated death.

My son—Millie's and mine—is as mild mannered a fellow as you have ever known. But, when he is asked what his second name is, what the T stands for, his eyes flush and his hands clinch. He has heard me tell, so often, the story of the man who really rode to the fort—the man who rode so far in advance of the rescue line as to save another and make himself a martyr—that his proudest moment is when he answers, to the mystification of some stranger, "My second name is Tige!"

The End.

The Kabo High Bust Corset.

Popular with all who desire perfection in shape. Dressmakers prefer them because they secure a perfect fit. Many advantages. Here are a few:

Exquisitely long tapering waist.
Boned with unbreakable Kabo—no dissatisfaction.
Made with soft loop eyelets—no breaking of corset laces or discoloring of undergarments.
In all materials. Prices $1.00, $1.25.

I. LEDERER.

There is one DRESS STAY that
Won't melt apart,
Can't cut through the dress,
Don't stay bent.
It is
BALL'S PEERLESS.
All lengths; all colors.
Seely Edsall, Putnam & DeGraw,
I. Lederer.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY

Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" novelties than at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 36 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.

At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.

At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.

At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.

At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.

At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.

At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.

At 15c—38 inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?

Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.

At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.

At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, Ribbons, and in fact everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

JUST A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at

$10.00 PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,
206 West Front st.

Back Number GARMENTS

ARE FULL OF POSSIBILITIES.

Let us see if we can't discover a way of cleaning or dyeing them and helping you to economize.

We do this work perfectly—we turn the old spiritless faded looking clothing into bright lifelike effects—into the goodness of newness—maybe cleaning will do it—maybe dyeing. Shall we send for the goods? A postal will bring us, or our laundry drivers will take the work.

HILLER & CO.,
179 North Avenue.

HOME CHARITY.

Aminta, charming and aristocratic, in the vastly becoming dress of an order.

Marcia, ditto, ditto, in the vastly becoming dress of another order.

Scene—A coffee palace in the east end.

Aminta—You here! The very last person I should have thought of seeing. What in the world brings you to these parts? And what a sweet little love of a bonnet and cloak!

Marcia—You, Aminta! You can't think how deliciously refreshing it is to see somebody you used to know before you had an object in life! I wish I had known before I made up this costume for myself that there was an order with such a perfect dream of a dress as yours. I don't think it interferes with one's moral influence and—er—power over the masses to be properly got up, do you? Come and have some tea—a penny cup—and tell me where you are staying and what you are doing and everything.

Aminta—Two lumps? I gave up sugar last month, on principle, you know—I haven't an idea what principle—and now quite dislike it, which is a perfect blessing, because the self denial goes on all the same, you see, and the unpleasantness doesn't. Oh, I'm living in Henrietta street, and I'm elevating the people. I must have been doing it almost three weeks, I think, and papa said—fathers are so unsympathetic—that it was only a freak and wouldn't last. It is so horribly clean and respectable that I assure you for the first week I was perfectly miserable.

Marcia—Yes, I know that feeling myself, where I am in Powers court. A court sounds beautifully immoral, don't you think? But I assure you there hasn't been a single brawl or even a drunken Irishman since I have been there, while some of the children actually have a clean pinafore once a week and a bath every fortnight. How do you elevate your masses?

Aminta—Well, I don't know exactly. A man from Oxford—such an exquisite, intellectual face, only rather spoilt by the most frightful boots—gives the sweetest little classes on Swinburne and Rossetti and that sort of thing. I go to keep the masses in order, only there never have been any masses, quite fortunately for me, except one mass, who was a costermonger, who came in because of the stove, he said, and went to sleep all the time. And then there are teas for feathers and fringes, and you have to try to drop in a few refining words with the sugar. And what is your order for, Marcia?

Marcia (readily)—Oh, it's called the "Society For the Amelioration of the Condition of the Poor In Their Own Homes," and it means that you call on them and tell them not to hang out their washing to dry in the sitting room—they haven't anywhere else to hang it, you know, but that's not your fault—and how to bring up 14 children on 10 shillings a week and that kind of thing, which would be easy enough, only it is so dreadfully discouraging when you find out, as you always do, that the poor really seem to know more about their own business than you do. What—er—made you go in for elevating, Aminta?

Aminta (with confusion and a slight blush)—Go in for it?

Marcia (putting down her cup and looking up with interest)—Yes.

Aminta—Oh, I don't know exactly. Lots of things. The world seems always rather hollow at the end of the season, don't you think? And we were going to be buried alive for the rest of the year in Hampshire, where, mamma said—mamma is so effete, you know—I should find lots of duties awaiting me, which was enough to discourage any girl. And I looked over somebody's articles—I forget whose—in a magazine—I forget which—all about woman's work, Woman with a capital, you know, and—

Marcia (with a sigh)—How odd! It was just the same with me.

Aminta (sympathetically)—With you?

Marcia—Almost exactly. I'd tried everything, you know. I had been in for golf and skirt dancing and literature and rational dress and new womanhood and reciting and cooking and novel writing and bicycling and everything, but it was—all—

Aminta (sentimentally)—Bran and sawdust.

Marcia—I wasn't a bit hasty, I assure you. So when I found out that in the Society For the Amelioration, etc., you know, you could choose your own dress and only had to do with the refuse of the population I had the sweetest selection of caps and bonnets and decided finally.

Aminta (with tender admiration)—How brave of you!

Marcia—Well, it was rather. My people persecuted me dreadfully. And Tom would say, when people remarked to him "How sweet of your sister," "Oh, she's been crossed in love, I suppose. They all do it."

Aminta (with a start and a blush)—Tom! And that's just what Charlie—you used to know Charlie when you were in the world, didn't you?—says about me.

Marcia (with a blush)—Charlie?

(There is a long pause.)

Aminta—Was it Charlie, Marcia?

Marcia—Was it Tom, Aminta?

(There is the longest pause of all.)

Aminta—Because if it should have been Charlie it wasn't that he did not care for you, but that until Uncle Julian most thoughtfully died last week he hadn't enough money to say he cared for you.

Marcia—Was it that? And if it should have been Tom, Aminta, until he got his commission, you know, a sense of honor—such an inconvenient thing, isn't it?—prevented him from telling you his real feelings.

(A pause.)

Marcia—Can you come to tea with me tomorrow? Five, Powers court, you know. Tom might be there too.

Aminta—I shall be delighted, if you don't mind my bringing Charlie, who is coming to see me in Henrietta street.

Marcia (as they part)—Shall you much mind coming down from your elevation, Aminta?

Aminta—Shall you dreadfully miss your society for ameliorating, Marcia?—Black and White.

The Industrious Man.

There was a very hardworking and steadfast man. And he arose at daybreak, and he took needle and thread, also a button, and he sewed and he sewed. When nightfall came, his task was ended. The button was well attached to his breeches, and as the man looked at it he felt conscious pride in his work, for he had labored long and had sewed on a single button, and when he went to rest that night he said unto himself, "This has been a good day, and my task it has been accomplished." And he slept well and soundly and in perfect peace with himself and his surroundings.—Parco Mola's Inventions.

An ounce of pure gold is worth $20.64. Therefore a ton of pure gold, which must contain 24,000 ounces, is worth exactly

AN OLD EDINBURGH CEREMONY.

The Time Honored Custom of Presenting the Keys Is Still Observed.

Annually as the lord high commissioner goes to Holyrood, Edinburgh, to attend, in the name of the queen, the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, the lord provost, accompanied by some of the magistrates, repairs to the palace and goes through the ancient, time honored ceremony of presenting to him the keys of the city, and he at once returns them to the chief magistrate as the one best fitted to retain them in custody.

But one trembles to think of what might happen if the lord high commissioner, suddenly developing a love of keys such as led to the undoing of poor Fatima, should retain those which the lord provost presents and ask to be taken forthwith to the gates of the city that he might satisfy himself as to its security. He would learn, to his horror, that there are no city gates, no locks or bolts or bars or moats or drawbridges, and that the invader may march right on to the castle without any such form of impediment.

Much that is old and interesting there is in Edinburgh, but the city gates are no more. Few of the fathers and brethren at the assembly time give heed to the archæological survivals which are passed as one goes down to Holyrood by way of High street and Canongate, beginning with John Knox's house, its quaint stone carvings, its still quainter admonition, "Lvee God abee al, and yi nychtbour as yi self." Farther down, and in the Canongate, is the Tolbooth police station, and still nearer Holyrood is the Bakehouse close, entered through a tenement of dwelling houses bearing date 1570.

At distances varying from half a dozen to 20 or 30 yards, High street and Canongate are pierced by closes bearing family names entering into the past history of the city—such names as Gibb, Pirrie, Rae, etc. Nice distinctions, too, are made, Little Jack's close having its larger counterpart in Big Jack's close, Playhouse close its repetition in Old Playhouse close and Lochend close diminishing to Little Lochend close.

Some of these closes are exceedingly picturesque; others, I am bound to say, smell as badly as the leading street in Naples. They are, however, quite worth exploring, and sometimes you come on glimpses of sunny slopes in the Calton hill direction which gladden the eye. Jeffrey street may be said to frame the Calton jail, as one looks across the narrow gorge through which the North British railway is carried. This abode of sighs runs to highly artistic lines. Based on the everlasting rock and situated at a considerable height, it almost recalls one of the castellated peaks of the Rhine. And yet it is only a prison.—Scottish American.

THE PLUMBERS' ORDINANCE.

To Be Discussed By the Board of Trade Tomorrow Night.

The following is a copy of the plumbers' ordinance which it is the intention of the Board of Health to pass, and which the Board of Trade will discuss tomorrow night:

Section 1. Every person engaged as a master plumber or foreman plumber of building contractor in the city of Plainfield shall appear in person at the office of the Board of Health before beginning any work, and register his name, residence and place of business on blank forms furnished for the purpose, and in case of removal shall make change in said register accordingly.

Section 2. Before any portion of the plumbing and drainage system of any building shall be constructed or any existing system altered or added to, there shall be filed in the office of the Board of Health a plan thereof signed by the owner, showing the said plumbing and draining system entire, from its connection with the sewer, cesspool or vault throughout the entire building, together with the location of all fixtures, traps, ventilating pipes, etc. No portion of the work shall be executed until the plan has been approved by a representative of the Board of Health and the name of the plumber who is to do the work has been affixed to the said plan.

Section 3. When the plan of any plumbing and drainage system is filed in the office of the Board of Health a fee of three dollars shall be paid to said Board to defray the expenses of inspecting and filing the plans and superintending the testing of the work, as provided in section 31.

Section 4. The Board of Health shall be notified promptly by the plumber when the plumbing and drainage work of any building, or any portion thereof, is completed and ready for inspection and testing. All inspections and testings shall be made during business hours as soon as possible after such notification. Any such system put in and covered before inspection by a representative of the Board of Health must be uncovered for examination.

Section 5. No privy, vault or cesspool shall be constructed until a written permission has been obtained from the Board of Health; and no permission will be given for a cesspool where sewerage is provided adjacent to the property.

Section 6. Before laying the drain from the building to the cesspool or vault, and after the trench is graded, the bottom of the trench must be carefully rammed to avoid unequal settling of the drain. After the pipe is laid, as the trench is filled the earth must be tightly rammed as near as possible to its original compactness. Tunneling is prohibited. When the ground is made or filled in, the drain, extending from the cesspool or vault to the foundation wall, must be of extra heavy cast-iron pipe, of such diameter as may be approved. Such pipes should be laid with the joints properly caulked with lead. Where the soil consists of a natural bed of loam, sand or rock, the drain may be of hard, salt-glazed and cylindrical earthenware pipe, laid on a smooth bottom, free from all projections of rock. The space between each hub and the small end of the next section must be completely and uniformly filled with the best hydraulic cement. Care must be taken to prevent any cement passing into the drain to become an obstruction. No tempered-up cement shall be used. A straight-edge must be used inside the pipe, and the different sections must be laid in perfect line on the bottom and sides.

Section 7. Where a building is to be connected with a cesspool or vault, it must be connected by a drain not less than four inches in diameter, having a fall of not less than one-quarter of an inch to the foot. Old drains can be used for new work only when made to conform in all respects to the foregoing regulations governing new drains.

Section 8. All horizontal drains within and to a distance of not less than six feet from the wall of any building shall be of cast-iron, with caulked, leaden joints, or wrought-iron screwed joints, and shall be so located as to be readily accessible for inspection. The house drain within buildings shall be securely hung on the cellar wall or properly suspended from the cellar ceiling, unless this is impracticable, in which case it must be laid at a uniform grade, upon a bottom of hydraulic concrete. The house drain shall have a fall of at least one-quarter inch to the foot, and more, if possible. When a pipe passes under the wall of a building, there shall be a relieving support to prevent the pipe being broken by settling of the foundation. Said drains shall be provided with openings for cleansing purposes, the same to be closed by gas tight plugs.

Section 9. All iron pipes must be sound, free from holes, and when laid under ground shall have a uniform thickness of at least one-quarter of an inch. Where the building is over sixty feet high above the curb, pipes of the following weights shall be used, with extra heavy fittings:

2-inch	5-½	pounds	per	lineal	foot.
3 "	9-	"	"	"	"
4 "	13	"	"	"	"
5 "	17	"	"	"	"
6 "	20	"	"	"	"
7 "	27	"	"	"	"
8 "	33-½	"	"	"	"
10 "	45	"	"	"	"
12 "	54	"	"	"	"

Section 10. All drain, soil, waste, vent and supply pipes shall be as direct and concentrated as possible, protected from frost and readily accessible for inspection and convenience in repairing. When necessarily placed within partitions or in recesses in walls, soil and waste-pipes must never be covered except with woodwork, said woodwork to be fastened with screws (never with nails) so as to be readily removed.

Section 11. Every vertical soil and main waste-pipe must be of cast or wrought iron, and when it receives the discharge of fixtures on two or more floors, it must extend at least two feet above the highest part of the roof or coping, except in flat-roof houses, in which case it shall extend at least six feet above the roof, and in no case shall it be less than four inches in diameter above the roof; and a strong wire basket shall be provided and securely fastened to such pipe. Each length shall be securely fastened, and each line of soil or waste-pipe shall rest at its foot on a pier or foundation to prevent settling. All joints in cast-iron drain, soil or waste-pipes must be so filled with oakum and lead and hand-caulked as to make them gas-tight.

Section 12. Every plumbing system when connected with a cesspool or sewer shall be provided with a ventilating pipe, which shall in every case extend at least four feet above the roof, and the upper opening must be at least eight feet above or twenty feet from any window or door of the building or adjoining building and this ventilating pipe shall be clear and not less than four inches in diameter throughout its entire length, from the cess-pool or street sewer. The vertical soil or waste pipe may be used as a ventilating pipe, but if so used it must be clear and unobstructed by trap or otherwise.

Section 13. All changes in direction in cast or wrought iron pipes shall be made with bends or curved pipes, and all connections with Y branches and one-sixteenth or one-eighth bends, if possible.

Section 14. Soil, waste and vent-pipes in an extension must be extended above the roof of the main building, when otherwise, if not so extended they would open within twenty feet of the windows or doors of the main house, or the adjoining house.

Section 15. The least diameter of soil-pipe permitted is four inches. A vertical waste-pipe into which a line of kitchen sinks discharges must be at least three inches in diameter, if receiving the waste of five or more sinks, and shall have two-inch branches.

Section 16. Where lead pipe is used to connect fixtures with vertical soil or waste pipes, or to connect traps with vertical vent-pipes, it must not be lighter than—

1¼	inch	2½	pounds.
1½	"	3	"
2	"	4	"
3	"	5	"
4	"	6	"

Section 17. All connections of lead with iron in soil, waste or vent pipes must be made with a brass sleeve or ferrule of the same size as the lead pipe, put in the hub of the branch of the iron pipe and caulked with lead. The lead pipe must be attached to the ferrule by a wiped or over-cast joint. All connections of lead waste and vent-pipes shall be made by means of wiped joint.

Section 18. Every water-closet, urinal, sink, basin, wash-tray, bath and every tub or set of tubs and hydrant waste-pipe must be separately and effectively trapped. Urinal platforms, if connected to drain-pipes, must also be properly trapped, and a supply of water so arranged as to always maintain the seal of said traps. In no case shall the waste from a bath-tub or other fixture be connected with a water-closet trap.

Section 19. Traps must be placed as near the fixtures as practicable, and in no case shall a trap be more than two feet from the fixture. Each and every trap shall be ventilated by a special vent-pipe of suitable size extending at least two feet above the highest part of the roof of the house, or into a special pipe erected for ventilating purposes only, in which case the area of the special vent must be increased as it passes upward so as to correspond to the combined area of all branch vents passing into it. Mechanical traps or vents may be substituted where it is necessary or advisable, but only after approval by the Board of Health.

Section 20. The vent-pipe for each water-closet trap shall be at least two inches in diameter, and for traps under other fixtures not less than one and one-half inches. In all cases vent pipes must be of lead, cast or wrought-metal, and have a continuous slope to avoid collecting water by condensation.

Section 21. Vent-pipes must extend two feet above the highest part of the roof or coping, the extension to be not less than four inches in diameter, to avoid obstruction from frost. No vent-pipe shall be used as a waste or soil pipe.

Section 22. Over-flow pipes from fixtures must in each case be connected on the inlet side of the trap of the same fixture.

Section 23. No safe under any fixture shall be provided with any drip, waste or notice-pipe. The waste-pipe from refrigerators shall in no case be connected directly with any soil or waste-pipe, or with any drain or sewer, or discharge upon the ground.

Section 24. The sediment-pipe from kitchen boilers if connected with sewer must be efficiently trapped.

Section 25. Water-closets must never be placed in an unventilated room or compartment. In every case the compartment must be open to the outer air, or be ventilated by means of a shaft or air-duct. Water-closets will not be permitted in cellars except under special permit.

Section 26. All water-closets within the house must be supplied with water from separate tanks or cisterns, the water of which is used for no other purpose. Provision shall be made for amply flushing each closet whenever used. A group of closets on the same floor may be supplied from one tank. Pan-closets and hollow plunger-closets are prohibited.

Section 27. Water-closets, when placed in the yard, must be so arranged as to be conveniently and adequately flushed, and their water supply pipes and traps must be protected from freezing. The compartment of such water-closets must be properly ventilated.

Section 28. All waste, overflow or vent-pipes shall be of lead, cast or wrought metal.

Section 29. Rain-water leaders must never be connected with the sewer pipe nor used as soil, waste or vent-pipes, nor shall any soil, waste or vent-pipe be used as a leader.

Section 30. No steam-exhaust, blow-off or drip-pipe from a steam boiler or engine shall connect either directly or indirectly with the sewer.

Section 31. Every new plumbing system, including those altered, must be tested by the plumber in the presence and to the satisfaction of the officer designated by the Board of Health; all defective joints must be made tight and other openings made impervious to gases. Defective pipe must be removed and replaced by sound pipe.

Section 32. In cases where a building is found to be in an unsanitary condition through defective plumbing or otherwise, the directions of the Board of Health concerning changes and repairs shall be complied with within such reasonable time as may be designated under penalty of ten dollars per day thereafter until such work is done, not exceeding one hundred dollars in any one conviction.

Section 33. No person shall place or deposit in any water closet or waste, soil or ventilating pipe, refuse materials, large pieces of paper or other substances liable to clog the pipe or trap.

Section 34. Any person or persons or corporation violating any of the provisions of sections 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, or 33 of this ordinance, shall on conviction thereof, pay a penalty not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

This new institution opened with a score of students, October 1st, in the Babcock building. The prospect brightens every day. The enterprise is an assured success. A grand opportunity is now offered to the young men and women of Plainfield and its neighboring towns. Beautiful rooms. Excellent systems. Good teachers. Four courses of study. Students enter at any time. Address, Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Oct. 22, including Old Point and Asheville and other points. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

John Mullins,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

Everything Neceesary for Housekeeping! Cash or Credit! Liberal Terms to Everybody!

$12 For this handsome solid oak chamber suit, French bevel plate mirror, worth $20. 100 other styles to select from. $12

Bargains in Parlor Suits.

$20 Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in silk Brocatelle, tapestry or rug, actual value $40. $20

New Fall Carpets.

The very latest styles and patterns of the finest textures, and at prices lower by 25 per cent. than any other house in the country.

Moquette,	Velvet,	Brussels,	Ingrain,
$1.00	90c	50c	30c
per yd	per yd	per yd	per yd

Goods safely packed and delivered free to any part of the State.

JOHN MULLINS,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

BRANCH STORES:

121 to 125 Newark avenue, Jersey City, N. J. 136 and 138 Main street, Paterson, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of

FINE STATIONERY,

consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

Thursday, Oct. 10.

Engagement Extraordinary.

Jos. Callahan,

with a first-class company of players. Great, grand, gigantic, in the electrical spectacular production,

FAUST.

New scenery (a carload) and appropriate costumes, startling electrical effects.

Hear two quartettes composed of male and female soloists, and the Florentine Choir Singers.

The Brocken, a triumph of stage mechanism. A scene of weird grandeur never equalled.

NEXT WEEK

Lizzie Evans

—IN—

Reportorie.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Leggett's drug store.

TALK OF THE TOWN!

AND EXPLANATION WHY

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

are doing all the business. Our stock is the biggest, prices are the lowest and terms the easiest in the city. Just give it a passing thought that you can get an antique oak bedroom suit, 8 pieces, for $15, $20, $25 and $30 including a woven wire bed spring and a mixed mattress. No house in the city offers such inducements.

And then to think again that you can get tapestry Brussels carpet for 50, 60, and 70 cents a yard, made and laid with paper, which is a saving of 15c per yard. Where is there a house in the city that will offer such bargains?

And then imagine and wonder how we can afford to give away a moquette rug or parlor table with a parlor suit for $20, $30, $40 or $50.

Some of our competitors say that our ads are too much same-ness and that this ad. is old. Well, we will admit it, but as long as it does the business and saves the people money we will continue to run it.

PORTLAND RANGE

Well, there is no use saying anything about them. The eating of the pudding is always the proof of it. 75 of them sold last week.

STORING FURNITURE.

If it was the first of May our storage business could not be any better. We suppose it is on account of our low rates and cleanliness. Storage building 88, 90 and 92 Bank st. Furniture moved with vans. Telephone 550.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c, 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses' Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

A TRIO OF HAPPY COUPLES.

THREE PRETTY WEDDINGS SOLEMNIZED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Two Were Quiet Home Affairs and the Other a Brilliant Church Event—All Popular Young People—The Details.

One of the prettiest weddings that has been witnessed in this city for some time was performed in St. Mary's R. C. church yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, when Miss Mary F. Ward, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Ward, of Clinton avenue, was united in marriage to George J. Tobin, of West Fifth street.

The church presented a scene of rare beauty, with the choice arrangement of palms and roses. The altar and chancel were brilliantly illuminated with the numerous candles that surround it.

While the guests were entering the church, Miss St. Leger, organist, and Prof. Lowanzo, piccolo, rendered a choice selection of classic music. When the appointed hour arrived there were fully 600 people seated in the vast auditorium. At this time Rev. Father Smyth entered, accompanied by Rev. Father Stafford, President of Seton Hall College, South Orange, and Rev. Father Murphy. While they were standing in front of the altar, Mendelssohn's favorite wedding march pealed forth, giving the signal for the appearance of the bridal party.

First came Mrs. T. McGrath, of Brooklyn, gowned in white satin, trimmed with point lace. She was accompanied by Miss Mamie Dunigan, of Brooklyn, who wore a gown of Nile green silk trimmed with pink roses, and Miss Mamie Riordan, of New York, gowned in lavender silk trimmed with green velvet and violets. Following was the bridemaid, Miss Kittie Riordan, of New York, on the arm of the groom. She was beautifully gowned in pink silk, covered with pale pink chiffon, and carried American Beauty roses. Then came the bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, Chas. Ward, who was best man. She was gowned exquisitely in white satin entrain, trimmed with duchess lace. She also wore a tulle veil and natural orange blossoms and carried a pearl prayer book.

The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Father Smyth, assisted by Revs. Father Stafford and Murphy, after which the bridal party retired from the church while Lohengrin's wedding march was being rendered. The party was taken to the home of the bride's mother on Clinton avenue, where a reception was held at eight o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Tobin received costly and handsome presents from their many friends, including three silver service sets, china, silver knives and forks, banquet lamp, bric-a-brac, oil paintings and silver in many useful articles.

An elegant wedding supper was served by Max Wiertz during the reception. Mr. and Mrs. Tobin left on the 1:17 train last night for a three-weeks trip in the South. On their return they will reside for a time at the home of the bride's mother on Clinton avenue.

The ushers at the church were Joseph Tobin, of New York, brother of the groom, and John Ward, of this city, brother of the bride.

During the reception Rogers furnished excellent music for dancing, and the guests listened with pleasure to two soprano solos by Miss Keely.

Mr. Tobin has an established and successful plumbing business on North avenue, and his large circle of friends wish for him and his wife a most successful journey through life.

Day-Thorne.

It was chilly outdoors yesterday afternoon, but the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Thorne, of 411 La Grande avenue, was full of warmth and life. At four o'clock the marriage of their daughter, Miss Antoinette Gaines Thorne, and Mortimer Lincoln Day of this city, took place, and the house was full of happiness and good cheer in honor of it. The floral decorations were most beautiful, the predominant colors being pink and green.

Promptly at four o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march and formed around a bower of palms, smilax and American Beauty roses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, and the bride given away by her father. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white faille silk and chiffon, and carried white bridal roses. Her veil was caught by a diamond sunburst, a gift of the groom, and a diamond lace pin, the gift of her uncle, Hon. Smith Ely, of New York.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Katharine Rogers Thorne, who wore a gown of pink moire and satin and carried pink roses. The best man was J. Albert King Parker, of New York, and the ushers were Frederick Westervelt Day, of New York, and Frederick Green Smith, of this city. The presents were very numerous and costly, although the wedding was a quiet affair on account of the recent death of the sister of Mrs. H. A. Thorne.

The bridal couple left for a two-weeks tour in the northern part of New York State, after which they will take up their residence in New York.

Grover—Dalziel.

The marriage of Miss Mary Whitall Dalziel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dalziel, of 117 Plainfield avenue, to James Grover, of Philadelphia, was performed yesterday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. Mr. and Mrs. Grover left about four o'clock for a wedding tour. They will reside in Philadelphia.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN ONE CHURCH.

Dr. E. M. Rodman Has Been Here a Quarter of a Century.

Rev. E. M. Rodman today acquires an honor that is seldom thrust upon any man. He passes the quarter-century mark of service as rector of Grace Episcopal church, which will be celebrated at the meeting in the church next Sunday morning.

When he was called to Grace parish there were 122 communicants, and though the membership is now several times over that only two of the original members are connected with the church. Some have passed from this world, but a large number have moved away.

The Daily Press extends its congratulations to the clergyman, and trusts that his parishoners and the city at large may enjoy another quarter of a century of his amiable ways, liberal disposition and consistent acts. Such a man as Dr. Rodman is to be prized as a citizen of any community.

OSNARTIO CONVICTED.

DeMeza Did His Best, But the Testimony Was Too Strong.

One of the most exciting criminal cases that has come up before the Somerset County Circuit Court this term at Somerville was finished yesterday afternoon. It was the trial of the Italian, Angelo Osnartio, who was charged with highway robbery and the assault of Miss Wyckoff. The trial lasted two days and was held before Judge Bartine, two lay judges and a jury. The State was represented by Prosecutor Nelson Duncan, while George W. DeMeza, of this city, acted as counsel for the prisoner. The State put up a very strong case, which was rebutted by DeMeza in a very able manner, but all his arguments could not win when a witness was brought on to the stand that swore that Osnartio had offered to settle. The case went to the jury at three o'clock, and after an hour's consideration brought in a verdict of guilty. The Judge complimented the counsel for the defendant on the able manner in which he defended the case. The sentence will be pronounced later.

TALKS AND HANDSHAKES.

That Is How the Somerset Republican Ended Their Convention.

The coroners nominated yesterday by the Republicans at their convention at Somerville were Adonis Nelson, of Branchburg township, Abram P. Mosher, of Montgomery township, and Aaron Stillwell, of Bridgewater township. Assembly Candidate C. A. Reed was brought before the convention and made a speech. He paid an excellent tribute to the Democratic candidate for Governor, Chancellor McGill. He was loudly encored. Frank Somers, the nominee for County Clerk, also spoke to the delegates. Chairman Place used for a gavel a small piece of wood and specially asked the reporters to not notice the same, which of course they will not do. The afternoon session was quite largely attended and one who did as much handshaking as anyone there was the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, Calvin D. McMurtry, who was all over and everywhere.

Mrs. Penfield Paid.

Mrs. Lou Penfield today received a check for $8,000 from the city in payment for the land to be used as sewage beds.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

THE HOME MISSIONS SYNOD.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN WORKERS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION.

Address of Welcome by Rev. Dr. Richards—Reports of Officers Show a Flourishing Society—Officers Elected.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Synodical Society of Home Missions in the Synod of New Jersey was called to order this morning at 9 o'clock by the President, Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of this city, in the Crescent Avenue church.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss S. D. Thompson, of Elizabeth. After prayer was offered by Mrs. G. W. B. Cushing, of Newark, the Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. R. Gibson, of the same place, called the roll of delegates.

Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., pastor of the Crescent Avenue church then spoke a few words of cordial greeting, giving all a most hearty welcome to the church, to which the President Mrs. W. E. Honeyman responded to in an appropriate manner, thanking the pastor and the church for their hospitality.

The report of the treasurer of the contingent fund, Mrs. J. H. Manning, was then read and showed the society to be in a flourishing financial condition. The report was received and filed as was also the report of the year's work by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. F. Pingry, of Elizabeth. The last report showed that much earnest work had been done.

Papers were then read by Miss M. K. Jones, of Englewood, on Young People's Work, and by Mrs. William Nelson, of Paterson, on Our Literature. Both were well prepared and interesting.

President Mrs. W. E. Honeyman followed with a brief talk on Prospective Work of the Society. She gave an outline of what the society ought to do along important branches of home mission work.

The next number was a stirring address on "Our Country's Perils," by Mrs. Darwin R. James, President of the Woman's Executive Committee, of New York.

A selection by the church choir was then rendered while the offering was being made. An interesting feature followed, a question box conducted by Mrs. D. E. Finks, editor of the Home Mission Monthly. Many valuable questions were asked and answered, concerning important points in the work.

Mrs. M. C. DeVore, of Alaska was then introduced and gave a brief talk on her work among the Alaskans, which was thoroughly interesting.

The nominating committee then made their report and as a result the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, Plainfield; Vice-presidents, Mrs. J. H. Owens, Paterson; Mrs. G. W. B. Cushing, Newark; Mrs. C. H. Langdon, Elizabeth; Mrs. J. M. Paul, New Brunswick; Mrs. Charles Brearly, Trenton; Mrs. D. C. Blair, Belvidere; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. J. F. Kelley, Elizabeth; Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Newark; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. Wm. Nelson, Paterson; Young People's Secretary, Miss M. K. Jones, Englewood; Treasurer Contingent Fund, Mrs. J. H. Manning, Plainfield.

The meeting adjourned after the singing of a hymn and the benediction. About 300 were present. The delegates then retired to the Sunday-school room, where lunch was served. This afternoon is being devoted to foreign missions.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

CYCLING WHEN SNOW FLIES.

THE OLD CRESCENT RINK NOW A MODERN BICYCLE ACADEMY.

The Floor Placed in the Building and Extensive Arrangements Made for Winter Riding—Will Prove Popular.

The largest cycle academy in the vicinity of New York, or in any of the Eastern States for that matter, is to be opened in the old Crescent Rink building on Watchung avenue, on October 15th, under the name of the Crescent Cycle Academy. The proprietor of this new enterprise is Joseph Wiseman, who made such a success of the cycle academy at Asbury Park of late years, giving with the aid of his assistants, seven thousand lessons in the three summer months this year.

The main room in the old rink building is to be used for riding and instructions, and it has assumed an entirely new appearance. The hall is 80x125, and is now floored over with yellow pine, which has been laid on a level with the raised platform around the outer edge. Arc lights will be used for the illumination, and at the rear end of the hall special bath and toilet rooms have been constructed, while the entire woodwork has been repainted.

The centre part of the floor will be partioned off by a railing and in here the instructions will be given. In this department a corps of competent instructors composed of Milton Clemenson, Harry Wiseman, James Woodward, Hugh Decker, Alex. Decker, Fred Barker and Walter Jerome, will be in charge. They were employed at Asbury Park by Mr. Wiseman during the summer and are thoroughly versed in the art of teaching. They are a gentlemanly corps and are at the top of their profession.

The space outside of the railing will be reserved for cyclists who know how to ride and a feature will be made of winter riding. The room to the left of the entrance hall will be reserved for storing wheels, and those who care for winter riding may leave their wheels there and ride in the hall whenever they so desire. Wheels also may be hired for riding. To the left of the entrance to the hall will be the repairing department, which will be completely equipped with all the latest machinery needed in that line. Special care will be devoted to this department which will be under the supervision of Roy James, an expert machinest.

Work is now in progress at the entrance where a sales room is to be placed, which will be in charge of the genial Robert Wyckoff, who is well known to the cycling fraternity in this city.

Mr. Wiseman has leased the building for three years from its present owner, Charles H. Hand, who has put the building into a first class condition before turning it over to Mr. Wiseman.

FUNERAL OF B. E. GAVIN.

Last Sad Rites Over the Remains of a Respected Man.

The funeral of the late ex-Street Commissioner Benjamin E. Gavin, who passed away at his parents residence on Columbia avenue, North Plainfield, on Monday, took place this morning in St. Joseph's R. C. church, when the pastor, Rev. Father Miller, paid a glowing tribute to the deceased before a large number of relatives and friends who were there assembled.

Mr. Gavin was only a few days beyond thirty years of age and was a very popular young man. The scene at his bedside when the end came and the vital sparks of life were parting was very pathetic. He breathed his last in his mothers arms and his death was peaceful.

Mr. Gavin spent last winter in the south where he had gone for the benefit of his health and returned to his home in North Plainfield late in the spring, where he has since resided.

A devoted and a fond and loving mother and an affectionate sister have been tireless in their constant attention to his wants. Mr. Gavin was engaged to be married to an estimable young lady whose attentive care was greatly appreciated by the deceased. The home ties of Mr. Gavin were those of a faithful, honest and a favorite son. The floral offerings were numerous. The body was interred in St. Mary's cemetery and an unusually large number of carriages followed the remains to their last resting place. The pall bearers were John McLaughlin, David T. Kenney, George Hughes, John Daly, John Powers and W. H. Meaney.

Cut the Wrong Kind.

W. S. Emery, the proprietor of Emery's Hotel, at Scotch Plains, severed his thumb off this morning while cutting cheese.

WOULDN'T PAY ONE POLICY.

The Metropolitan Insurance Company Said It Was Void.

The Metropolitan Insurance Company is the defendant in another suit that is to come up before Justice Mosher in a short time. The suit is brought by Mary Z. Perrine to recover the insurance due upon the death of her little six-year-old child, Ardella, which occurred a month ago. There were two policies and one was paid, but the company refused to pay the other as they declared it was void as four weeks had elapsed without any payment being made.

The story that Mrs. Perrine tells is that the agent came the Tuesday that the four weeks were up and asked for the payment. Mrs. Perrine did not have the money and asked the agent to call in the evening which he promised to do. The money was ready at the time agreed upon but the agent did not come. Word was sent to him and he agreed to come on Saturday night but failed again. The child was then taken ill and died. Mrs. Perrine has placed her case in the hands of S. S. Swackhamer.

NO MEMORY OF PLAINFIELD.

Miss Clark Still Dazed and Sleeps Most of the Time.

Notwithstanding the reports published in some papers that Miss Lucretia Clark, the former principal of the Stratford School in this city had entirely recovered from her fit of mental aberation the report published exclusively in The Daily Press that she was not much better than when found working as a house maid in Fitchburg, is correct.

James E. Martine a day or two ago received a letter from Mrs. J. Edison Sweet, at whose home in Syracuse Miss Clark is staying, in which she states that her sister is still in a dazed condition, and sleeps most of the time. She writes that Miss Clark has no memory of ever having visited Plainfield or of any of her wanderings when she suddenly disappeared. In fact, her condition is truly a pitable one.

STOLE TWO BICYCLES.

A Thief Makes Way With the Wheels of Somerset Street Young People.

A bicycle thief visited the woodshed in the rear of the residence of J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street, and now Miss Etta Blatz and Frank Blatz are both mourning the loss of their Apollo wheels.

The wheels were placed in the woodshed as usual last evening and this morning they were gone. The lanterns which stood near by were not taken. The woodshed door was not locked, and the thief had no difficulty in making his entrance. The police have been notified and active steps will be taken for their recovery.

MRS. BOTTOME TO SPEAK.

She Will Address the King's Daughters in a Few Weeks.

The board of managers of the city union of King's Daughters met in the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon. It was decided to continue to support a nurse at the hospital and arrangements were made to have Mrs. Margaret Bottome speak to a union meeting of King's Daughters in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church sometime during the next two weeks. The date will be announced later. The work for the winter was also talked over and various plans suggested.

Changes in Pew Rents.

A special meeting of the congregation of the Crescent Avenue church was held last evening, and H. B. Newhall made the report of the committee on changes in pew rents. After some discussion the report was accepted. By it an entire re-arrangement of the pew rents are made, some reduced, others increased, and rates fixed for the number of new pews recently put in.

The Men's Club Discussed.

The men of the Congregational church met last evening to discuss the question of a men's club. No definite action was taken except to appoint a committee of three, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, L. H. Morgan, and E. L. Suffren, to draw up a constitution.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

NATIONAL FANTASTIC STEPS.

ALL THE COUNTRIES TO BE REPRESENTED IN THE KIRMESS.

Elaborate Arrangements Being Made for its Opening and it Will be the Big Society Event of This Season.

"Shall I take part in the Kirmess?" is the question that is worrying the minds of many of the young people of Plainfield today, for the list of those that are to take part in the drills are being made out and all the preparations are being actively pushed.

The Kirmess, which is to begin on Monday evening, November 11th, and continue through the rest of the week, will be unlike the one held last winter in several respects. It is to be held at the Crescent Cycle Academy and a stage is to be erected at the far end of the large hall. On the stage the drills will be held, while around the sides booths will be arranged, each representing some country. At the booth of the nation they represent those taking part will gather when not on the stage and at the conclusion of the drills a sort of fair and social will be held when refreshments and fancy articles will be sold at the different booths and an informal social gathering held.

The drills will be given under the direction of Miss Stewart, of Middletown, N. Y., who has just conducted a Kirmess at Scranton at which $1,000 was realized. The rehearsals begin Monday evening and will be continued up to the opening of the Kirmess.

Miss Stewart will be kept busy arranging and rehearsing the participants. As yet, of course, nothing has been done except to select the dances and place them in the hands of different Plainfield women. It was the original plan to give one drill to each church to look after but several of the churches were unable to secure the requisite number and so the original idea had to be changed. The drills and those who have been appointed to look after them are as follows: Military, Mrs. George B. DeRevere and Miss Verdon, of the Roman Catholic church; Indian, Mrs. H. M. Bliss, of the First Presbyterian church; Scotch, Mrs. Charles E. Leggett, of the Trinity Reformed church; Tarantelle of Italy, Mrs. S. P. Craikshank; Gypsy, Mrs. F. H. Andrews; Spanish, Mrs. James Scott; German Harvest, Miss Schipper; Minuet, Mrs. Walter Stewart; Pardon of Brittany, to be selected later.

Besides these drills there will be others for the younger set, which will be only in the afternoon. The drills and those in charge are: May, Mrs. S. P. Huntington; Hornpipe, Mrs. Chas. E. Brooks; Flowers and Bees, Mrs. Edward Perkins; Carnival, Mrs. J. S. Martin; Japanese, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen.

The Plainfield Bicycle Club has given the use of its club house for the holding of the rehearsals and there they will begin on Monday. The Kirmess is to be given by the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital, the executive committee of which has the arrangements to make. The committee is composed of Mrs. D. T. VanBuren, chairman; Miss Cock, Miss Nettie Haviland, Mrs. John Bushnell, Miss Shipper, Mrs. Roland Cox, and Mrs. S. P. Huntington. There will be no outside talent in the drills and all the Plainfield dancers will be exclusively patronized.

The summer has been a busy one at the hospital and the expenses have kept pace with the number of patients.

The Kirmess is for the benefit of the hospital and, as it is the only one between Trenton and Elizabeth, it is hoped that the people of the surrounding towns will give their support. Arrangements will be made regarding special trains and rates for the week of the Kirmess and everything arranged so that those who come may part a pleasant evening besides aiding a very worthy cause.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

—Several of the Y. M. C. A. cyclers will run to Rahway Saturday evening to attend the session of the Fourth district conference. All wishing to go should be at the building early.

"Many of the citizens of Rushville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

DURRANT ON THE STAND

He Tells His Story with Remarkable Coolness.

Describes His Whereabouts on the Fatal Day and His Explanations Are Plausible—Answers Pointed Questions Without a Tremor—A Good Witness.

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—The sensation of the defense in the Durrant case was introduced yesterday when Theodore Durrant took the stand. He walked to it with a firm step and related his story of what transpired on the third of April with characteristic coolness. He was permitted to trace his movements from the time he left his home in the morning until he retired at night. He said that he started from his home to visit that of Organist King, but on the way met Blanche Lamont, who was standing on a corner waiting for a car. As she said she was late for school, Durrant, at her suggestion, accompanied her as far as the school, while he himself went to Cooper college where he remained until noon. At the intermission he left the college for a half hour. On returning, he learned that the early afternoon lecture had been postponed. He then walked a few blocks with another student, remaining away from the college about an hour. He mentioned two students with whom he conversed at the college about noon. One of these, Student Diggins, has already testified that he had a conversation as stated by Durrant, but he did not remember the date. Durrant said he attended the lecture of Dr. Cheney that afternoon which began at 3.30 and lasted forty-five minutes.

Tells of His Visit to the Church.

After the lecture Durrant said that he left the college and went by car to within a block of the church and then walked to it, entering it by the rear door. He went to the library, there left his coat, and then went to the auditorium floor. His purpose in going to the church was to fix the vibrator on the electric apparatus connected with one of the sunburners, and he intended at first to reach this by going up to the attic in the rear of the church. He did start up that way, but changed his mind and went up to the gallery in front, leaving a door in the rear open. In the gallery he turned the gas partly on, and then ascended to the space occupied by the sunburners by means of a ladder. He repaired the electric vibrator on one of the burners, then tried all the jets to see that they would light from the electric spark, and, finding everything satisfactory, descended to the gallery and turned off the gas. While working on the vibrator the odor of gas nauseated him and made him feel faint. From the gallery where he turned off the gas there was a staircase in front by which he could have descended to the library room on the lower floor, where his coat was, but, instead of taking it, he passed through the auditorium of the church and went down a rear stairway to the floor below, where Organist King was practising on the piano. His reason for going down this way was that he desired to close the rear door which he had left open when he changed his mind about the way he should go to the sunburners.

Could Easily Have Avoided King.

Durrant said he heard King playing on the piano while he was at work on the sunburner and knew King was in the Sunday school room when he went thither. Had he desired to do so he might have gone down the front staircase, got his coat and left the church unknown to King, who did not have a view of the front of the edifice. Durrant's description of what occurred when he came into the room where King was agreed with what King had testified to. While King was absent to get him the bromo seltzer Durrant lay down on a platform with his hands under his head and rested till King returned. Durrant admitted that there was an odor of gas in the lower part of the church when he entered and said it was strong enough in the upper part to nauseate him. He did not know where the gas came from which caused the odor, and said he knew nothing about gas or gas fixtures. All the repairing he had done in the church was on the electrical apparatus.

Told a Plausible Story.

He was questioned by jurors as to the gas which he said had overcome him, and answered in a satisfactory and unhesitating way. He also took a facsimile of an electric vibrator he said he was fixing and standing before the jury-box explained in detail what was wrong with it and how he remedied the defect. He showed his competancy as an electrician and gave a plausible explanation of his actions at the time when it is believed the murder of Blanche Lamont was being effected not one hundred feet distant from the position he says he occupied. He also made a diagram on a blackboard showing one of the sunburners in a very clever drawing. Durrant said that when he took off his coat in the library he looked at his watch and saw it was 4.55, so thirty-five minutes later than the witnesses for the prosecution testified they saw him near the church with Blanche Lamont. Durrant said he never saw the girl for whose murder he stands charged after he left her at school on the morning of April 3. He said he remained at the lecture until its close and took notes which were produced and put in evidence. These notes as introduced were made by him at the lecture.

Calm Under Pointed Questions.

The most dramatic of the incidents of the day was when his counsel came to ask him directly about the murder. Every ear in the crowded court room was bent to hear his answers, which were delivered in a clear, calm voice, without feeling of any kind. He denied that he was at the normal school where two witnesses swore they saw him, or on the car with Blanche Lamont, where three witnesses claimed to have seen him. Lastly, he said he did not accompany Blanche Lamont or anyone else to the church. Then his counsel solemnly asked him: "Did you ever participate directly or indirectly in any violence on the person of Blanche Lamont?" "Never," replied the accused man. "Did you kill or participate in the killing of Blanche Lamont in this city and county on the third of April, or at any other place at any time?" he was then asked. He replied: "I did not."

Cross-Examination Begun.

Durrant also denied that he had ever visited the pawnshop of Adolph Oppenheimer to sell Miss Lamont's ring, and named places he had been every morning between April 4 and 10, the dates between which Oppenheimer said Durrant's visit was made. On cross-examination Durrant said he was born in Toronto on April 24, 1871. He had resided in San Francisco for sixteen years. He testified that he was usher in the Emmanuel church, and that Mrs. Noble, Blanche Lamont's aunt, always occupied a seat in his aisle. He denied that he had been in the church tower for several months except on the day he and the jury visited the premises, and said he had never seen the hatchet found with the dead girl's clothing in the parlor, or used tools from the box in Pastor Gibson's study.

IN BEHALF OF HER SISTER.

Julien Buckley Brings Suit To Decide the Custody of Two Children.

Trenton, Oct. 10.—Julien Gerard Buckley has instituted habeas corpus proceedings in the court of chancery in behalf of her sister, Mrs. Mary Kemble Slack, of Washington, D. C., to compel Col. Lewis Perrine of this city to surrender the custody of two children of Mrs. Slack and her deceased husband, Maj. William Hall Slack. The latter died recently, and for a year before that, it is said, lived apart from his wife. He was a brother of Mrs. Perrine, who alleges that Major Slack provided in his will that she and her husband should have charge of the children. The matter will come up for argument to-morrow, when it will be determined whether the mother or the aunt shall retain the custody of the children.

THE MARION'S MISSION.

Simply Going to Ecuador To Relieve the Alert.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The United States steamer Marion is not going to Chili to enforce the payment of claims of citizens of the United States against the Chilian government. She has been ordered to proceed from San Francisco to Guayaquil, Ecuador, to relieve the Alert, which has been stationed there for many months. This is the fever season in South America, and so for that reason the sailors of the Alert have not been permitted ashore for eight months. They are becoming dissatisfied with this enforced confinement and the Marion's arrival will permit them to return home.

THE FLAGLER CASE.

Grand Jury Now Investigating—No Indictment Expected.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The grand jury has begun consideration of the case of Miss Elizabeth Flagler, the daughter of Gen. Flagler of the army, who shot and killed Ernest Green, a 12-year-old colored boy, on Aug. 2 last. About twenty witnesses have been served with notices to appear before the grand jury. These include the half-dozen boys who were with young Green at the time of the tragedy. There is a strong impression among the habitues of the court house that an indictment will not be found against her.

LITCHFIELD A SUICIDE.

"Transfer Gang" Leader Prefers Death to Arrest.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—To avoid arrest and conviction as the head of the "transfer gang" of thieves, whose peculations have recently been discovered by the police, H. C. Litchfield, manager of the Railroad Transfer company, committed suicide yesterday. Thomas Noland, a driver, has turned state's evidence against the gang which has stolen goods amounting to many thousands of dollars.

Archduke Francis' Condition.

London, Oct. 10.—A dispatch from Genoa to the Central News says that Dr. Maragliano has gone to Lussin in order to inoculate with tuberculosis serum Archduke Franz, nephew of Emperor Francis Joseph and heir to the thrones of Austria and Hungary, whose condition is causing much anxiety.

New Company Incorporated.

Albany, Oct. 10.—A certificate of incorporation of Miller, Sloan & Wright of New York city has been filed with the secretary of state. The capital is $150,000 and the company will do a general wholesale and retail paper and cardboard business.

Fatal Fire in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—At 1 a. m. one woman was burned to death, two others fatally injured and five children overcome by smoke in a fire on West Sixth street. The building burned was a tenement house occupied by Italians.

Lumber Mortgaged.

Kalkasa, Mich., Oct. 10.—The Smith Lumber company of this place has given a trust mortgage covering all its real estate and personal property, which includes 6,000,000 feet of lumber.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot quiet but held firmly. October, 64 7-8c.; December, 66 1-8c.; May, 70 1-2c.

Corn—Prices higher with fair trade. No. 2 white 38 1-2c. f. o. b. afloat. October, 36 1-2c.; November, 36 1-8c.; May, 35c.

Oats—Spot quiet but prices are firm. No. 2 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 3 white, 23 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot firm with a fair demand. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $9.75a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier. October, $6.17.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 23c.; creamery western seconds to firsts, 16a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a19c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a15c.

Cheese—There was little demand from exporters. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 8 1-2a8 5-8c.; large colored fancy, 8 1-2c.; state part skims, choice, 8 1-4c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a8 1-8c.; common, 3a4c.

Eggs—Light receipts and cool weather has caused prices to further advance in nearly all grades. Fancy, fresh gathered western, which are very scarce are now quotable at 18 1-2c.

Potatoes—The supply fair and choice held steady, but prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

AMELIE RIVES IS FREE

Author of "Quick or the Dead?" Gets a Divorce.

Granted on the Grounds of Incompatibility—Jack Chanler, the Husband, Was the Hero of Her Erotic Book—He an African Explorer; She an Art Student.

New York, Oct. 10.—Lawyer W. G. Maxwell is authority for the statement that a decree of divorce, on the ground of incompatibility, has been granted to Mrs. Amelie Rives Chanler. It is stated that there was no opposition to the decree, and that nothing in the proceedings or pleadings reflected on either of the parties. This ends the romance of a girl who, not more than ten years ago, almost stupefied the literary world by a book that was, to say the least, daring in its inception, bold in its working out, and perilously close to impropriety. That book was "The Quick or the Dead?" and her ex-husband, Jack Chanler, was its hero. It created a tremendous sensation, especially as it soon became known that the author was a young and supposedly unsophisticated girl living somewhere in Virginia. That such a being could write such a book seemed doubtful, and a discussion arose, waxed rather warm and extended from New York to San Francisco. While her name was on all lips Amelie Rives appeared in New York. She was young, fair to look upon and she was fascinating. She soon became a light in the literary world and, emulating Madame De Stael, had a salon. She had her rooms semi-darkened, scented with incense and dainty perfumes and indulged in various aesthetic tastes. This lasted for some time and Gotham waited for her next literary production, when she did the unexpected—married Jack Chanler. Whereupon half the world pronounced her delightfully romantic and the other woefully prosaic. Chanler, who is a fine, manly fellow of about 35, a man of travel and wealth, took his wife abroad, and for a time nothing was heard of the couple. Then came the news that Chanler had gone to Africa to seek fame as an explorer and that the wife had remained in Paris to study music and art.

WANT SUNDAY BEER.

New York Independent Organization Comes Out Flat-Footed.

New York, Oct. 10.—The Independent County organization of New York held its convention last night at Cooper Union. Speeches were made denouncing Dr. Parkhurst, Mayor Strong and Police Commission Roosevelt. The committee on resolutions presented resolutions, which were adopted, recommending, that in view of the fact that the people are confronted this year with the alternative of assenting to the blue law oppressions of some representatives of the republican party in office, or of restoring Tammany hall to the power which is misused, the nomination of a complete third ticket unconditionally committed to these two propositions: First: The passage of a law permitting the sale of beer and wine in the cities of the first class in the state of New York on Sundays; and, second, the passage of an act permitting in the cities of the first class of the state of New York the sale of food and other necessaries of life on Sundays.

TEMPLE CUP SERIES RECEIPTS.

$15,000 To Be Divided Among the Players of the Two Clubs.

Baltimore, Oct. 10.—The receipts of the Temple cup series, which will be divided among the players of the Cleveland and Baltimore baseball clubs, were approximately $16,000. Of this amount Cleveland furnished $10,500, while Baltimore's effort was only $5,500. This large difference is explained by the fact that only two games were played here, and that in Cleveland the grand-stand admission was placed at one dollar, while Baltimore patrons were admitted for 50 cents, the usual price. Sixty per cent. of the receipts, or $9,000, will be given to the Cleveland club as winner of the trophy, and 40 per cent., or $5,400, to the Baltimore team. Of these amounts about $1,000 will be deducted for expenses. It is not known on what basis Manager Tebeau and his men will divide their neat little sum, but in Baltimore there will be seventeen divisions, and in a day or two a check for something like $318 will be handed to each player.

ONE KILLED; 25 INJURED.

Bad Wreck on the Penn Road Near Manor Station.

Pittsburg, Oct. 10.—One man was killed and 25 persons were injured at Manor station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, twenty-four miles east of here, last night by a car on a west-bound mail train jumping the track. John Miller, freight conductor, of Derry, Pa., was the victim. Some of the injured were seriously hurt, but it is believed all will recover. What caused the accident cannot as yet be ascertained. For some unknown cause the next to the rear coach left the track while the train was running at a good speed. The car that left the track turned in an opposite way from that in which the train was going. The coach and the one following were wrecked, and it was the passengers in these two coaches that were injured. Miller was standing on another track. He was killed by one of the wrecked coaches crushing him as he stood alongside his train.

WILL SAY NOTHING.

B. & O. Officials Reticent Concerning Their Reported New Line.

Baltimore, Oct. 10.—Baltimore & Ohio officials will neither deny nor affirm the truth of the report that they will build a new line from Cleveland to Lodi, O. It is asserted that such a connecting link will be built, the object being to get a shorter line from Cleveland to Chicago. The distance saved would be thirty-five miles. Another extension from Lodi to Millersburg may be arranged for, thus giving the Baltimore & Ohio an outlet to the south and west from Cleveland.

Brother and Sister Drowned.

Lunenburg, N. S., Oct. 10.—The two children of Recorder Chesley of this town, a son and a daughter, respectively 17 and 19 years old, were drowned at Ricey's cove by the capsizing of the boat in which they were sailing.

Dangerous Re-action.

After Summer's Heat

the entire system has more or less of a struggle to fortify itself for the cold of the coming winter. In cases where the body has become over-exhausted by the prostrating effects of the past warm weather, an inability to cope with the change is experienced. Loss of appetite, weight, sleep, or strength are dangerous symptoms that foretell coming troubles.

Bovinine

that wonderful promoter of strength and creator of new flesh and blood, should be taken without delay. It will ward off the coming cold or fever that is the cause of such great mortality during the winter months. It is not a medicine, but a powerful food, concentrated in the least possible bulk. Endorsed by physicians the world over.

Educational.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM.

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.

9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French, in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.

D. W. HYDE,

TEACHER OF

PIANO AND HARMONY,

will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE.

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

SPECIAL SALE

OF

FINE STATIONERY

AND

School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

411 Park Avenue.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate

For sale or to let.

MONEY

to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL

F. W. HAND,

132 North avenue.
929 South avenue.
197 North avenue.
Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 197 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office,

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager.

Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue, and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed

Rockview Home and Day School
REOPENS SEPT. 18.
Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 371 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.

Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS.—EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Do not be deceived by infringements of name, package or cigarette.
THE ONLY GENUINE
Sweet Caporal Cigarettes
Bear the fac simile signature of
Kinney Bros
on the package and on each cigarette.
TAKE NONE WITHOUT.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Post-office box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue, 7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

TURKISH SKY DARKENS

An Ominous War Cloud Hanging Over Her.

A Determined Spirit To Oppose Great Britain's Moves—English Fleet Not Pleasing to the Sultan. Police Guarding the Churches. Massacres at Trebizond.

London, Oct. 10.—A dispatch from Constantinople this morning says that there is no denying that a determined spirit to oppose Great Britain's moves now exists. An ominous war cloud is hanging over Constantinople. The shadow of Great Britian is near. The movements of the English looking toward interference are closely watched. Already the sultan's forts are being stocked with new ammunition. There are other military manoeuvres in progress, indicating that the Turks are ready to defend the passage of the Dardanelles should Britain attempt to make a naval demonstration in these waters.

British Fleet Annoys the Sultan.

Constantinople, Oct. 10.—The British fleet remains at Lemnos. The sultan is much disturbed at the presence of the fleet there, and has sent several messages to the British embassy describing the measures that have been taken to preserve order, and praying that the ships be withdrawn.

Starving Out the Refugees.

The police took extreme action yesterday in regard to the Armenians who took refuge in their churches and refused to leave, by closing all of the Armenian churches in the city and suburbs. These churches are now surrounded by police in strong force. The refugees are allowed to leave, but nobody except priests is permitted to enter. In addition to this the guards refuse to allow food or water to be passed inside, hoping thereby to compel the refugees to come out.

Massacres at Trebizond.

London, Oct. 10.—A dispatch from Trebizond says: Serious conflicts took place here yesterday between Turks and Armenians, in which many of the latter were killed. The Turks who took part in the rioting were armed. The few troops in the place made no attempt to stop the massacre, and it is even stated that they took part in the slaughter and pillage.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERANS.

General Council of the Church in Session at Easton, Pa.

Easton, Pa., Oct. 10.—The general council of the Evangelical-Lutheran church of North America began its semi-annual session at St. John's Lutheran church here at 10 a. m. In the absence of the president, Rev. Dr. C. A. Stensson of Kansas City, Rev. Dr. T. L. Seip of Allenton, president of the ministerium of Pennsylvania, presided and will officiate until the new officers are elected. Dr. Seip and Rev. Prof. W. K. Frick of Milwaukee, Wis., conducted preparatory services, with which the session opened. The sermon was preached by Rev. H. E. Jacobs of Mount Airy Theological seminary. There are about 125 clerical lay delegates in attendance.

CLEVELAND'S PLANS.

He Will Leave Gray Gables for Washington on the 17th Inst.

Washington, Oct. 10.—It is understood here that President Cleveland will leave Gray Gables for Washington on the 17th inst., but his custom of not making public his movements in advance prevents securing any confirmation of this belief. The cold snap may bring him back sooner. He will leave on the 22d for Atlanta to attend the exposition on the 23d, on which occasion he will be accompanied by the members of the cabinet and the ladies of the families.

BILLED AS ORDINARY FREIGHT

Responsibility for the Loss of the $950 Express Package.

New York, Oct. 10.—The $950 which disappeared while in transit by the Adams express between New York and Southington, Conn., was sent by the Standard National bank. It was delivered to the express company as ordinary freight and receipted for as weighing six pounds with no value given. When received at destination the package weighed between three and four pounds and contained part of a brick. The responsibility for the loss has not yet been determined.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE INDIANA.

Russia and Japan To Be Represented Aboard by Naval Attaches.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The battleship Indiana will sail from Cramp's shipyard, as announced, on Saturday morning for her trial trip off the New England coast. Besides the trial board and the usual number of engineer officers, the Russian and Japanese governments will be represented aboard by their naval attaches at Washington.

PRIEST GETS SEVEN YEARS.

Father Flaherty Sent to Auburn Prison by Judge Norton.

Geneseo, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Father Flaherty, who was convicted of assaulting Mary Sweeney, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Norton to seven years in the Auburn state prison.

A Young Heiress Missing.

New York, Oct. 10.—Miss S. F. Cody, a 15-year-old Brooklyn girl, whose fortune of about $20,000 is contested by relatives, has disappeared. The Brooklyn Trust company, her guardian, is searching for her. It is feared that she has given her bank books to a priest, who is said to have demanded them in the name of the relatives.

Payment of the Mora Claim.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The arrangements by Secretary Olney for the payment of the Mora claim have been nearly perfected and the actual distribution of the great amount obtained from Spain is a matter of a short time.

Struck by a Team and Killed.

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 10.—Samuel M. Krauser, a retired ironmaster of this city, was struck by the Atlantic express on the Pennsylvania railroad near Atglen yesterday and instantly killed. Deceased was 81 years old.

TAMMANY'S EXCISE PLANK.

The Tigers Declare for More Liberal Sunday Laws.

New York, Oct. 10.—Tammany met last night and nominated the following ticket: For judges of the supreme court: Charles H. Truax, Charles F. MacLean and Frederick Smyth. For judges of the court of general sessions: Martin T. McMahon and Joseph F. Newburger. For judges of the city court: Robert A. Van Wyck, John P. Schuchman and Edward F. O'Dwyer. For county clerk: Henry D. Purroy. For register: William Sohmer. The all-interesting part of the platform was the excise plank, which reads: The democratic party now is, as it has ever been, strictly in favor of a respectful observance of Sunday, by abstaining on that day from all save necessary employment, and yet mindful of the rights of every citizen to the enjoyment of worship, comfort and recreation according to his own conscience and wishes as far as compatible with a due regard to the beliefs and desires of others, it favors the immediate enactment by the next legislature of a modification of the present excise laws, and in addition promises to propose and endeavor to obtain from the coming legislature a law which will enable this community to determine for itself, by popular vote, whether the sale of food, beverages and all necessaries, shall be permitted on the first day of the week, during certain prescribed hours, and in a manner so restricted as not to interfere with religious observances.

ENDANGERING LIVES.

American Blasters Hurling Huge Rocks into Niagara Falls, Ont.

Albany, Oct. 10.—Gov. Morton has been for the second time requested to interfere with the blasting operations being carried on by the contractors who are constructing the roadbed for the railroad along the American side of the Niagara river. In August last the first complaint came through the state department at Washington from the Canadian authorities. The contractors were remonstrated with and instructed that their blasts used to dislodge the rocks should not be of such force as to throw large pieces over on the Canadian side into Niagara Falls, Ont. This was heeded for a while, but last week the state department notified Gov. Morton that the contractors were again endangering lives and property in Canada on account of the powerful powder charges which were being resorted to to dislodge the rocks along the American shore. Sunday the governor received a telegram stating that on Saturday a piece of rock weighing over a quarter of a ton was blown over on the Canadian side and struck the Niagara Falls custom house, tearing its way through the roof to the cellar. The governor called Attorney-General Hancock's attention to the matter and the latter instructed Deputy Attorney-General Kisselburgh, who was in Buffalo, to investigate. Nothing has yet been heard from him. The governor is much exercised over the occurrences and has instructed the attorney general to inform him of his authority in the matter.

BARRED FROM A CHURCH.

G. A. R. Pall-bearers Wearing Badges Refused Admission.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 10.—Fred Smith, a veteran, was buried yesterday under the auspices of William Sanborn post, G. A. R. The services were held at St. Joseph's Catholic church and conducted by Father Spaeth. When the pall-bearers arrived at the church door they were requested by the priest to remove their G. A. R. badges. This they refused to do, and remained on the outside until the services were over. The veterans are angry over the matter. Father Spaeth said that in requesting the soldiers to remove their badges he was only following the rule of the diocese, which states that no society not approved by the church is permitted to wear regalia in the church. It is not because the church is opposed to the Grand Army, but because it is not a Catholic organization.

HOT SPRINGS SELECTED.

Efforts To Be Made To Pull Off the Big Fight in Arkansas.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 10.—The conference at Dallas regarding the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight ended about 6 o'clock last evening and Hot Springs, Ark., was selected as the location for the battle. The law of that state makes pugilistic encounters a misdemeanor with a maximum fine of $1,000. Governor Clarke of Arkansas says the fight shall not take place, but the managers are satisfied with the very strong presentation made by the Hot Springs agents and selected that place. The date is the same—October 31. A report from Austin this morning says there is no doubt but that the grand jury will indict the fighters and their managers.

SCANDAL AT BUFFALO.

Serious Charges Against Some of the City Authorities.

Buffalo, Oct. 10.—As a result of the investigation of Mayor Jewett into the charges against the department of public works warrants have been issued for the arrest of Howard D. Herr, cashier of the department; John M. Danahy, deputy superintendent of public streets, and Joseph Burke, a saloonkeeper and formerly boss of a gang of street cleaners. All three were arrested. The charge against Herr and Danahy is grand larceny. Other arrests are expected. One of the charges made to the mayor was that the payrolls had been padded.

BIG JEWELRY HAUL.

A "Gentlemanly" Valet Steals $6,000 Worth of Valuables.

Pocantico Hills, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Chief of Police Minnerly and the local constables have no trace of John Burckhart, the valet, who Monday night stole $6,000 worth of diamonds and money from the residence of Mr. Bryant at this place.

Newfoundland Finances.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 10.—The receiver-general issued an order yesterday refusing to accept the guaranteed notes of the local insolvent banks in payment of duties. This completely shuts off the circulation of thousands of dollars' worth of these notes, causing great distress to hoggers.

Minister Broadhead May Retire.

Berne, Oct. 10.—The papers here state that the Hon. J. O. Broadhead, American minister to Switzerland, will shortly retire from office owing to his advanced age

DIED AMIDST WEALTH

Mrs. Coolidge Had Valuables Hidden Everywhere.

Gold Coins, Large Notes, Securities and Titles to Vast Real Estate Found Upon Her Person, in Vases and in Old Bric-a-Brac—Worth Probably Over a Million.

Boston, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Sarah Coolidge, a widow lady 75 years of age, who has for years resided at 934 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, died Tuesday evening of apoplexy. She has been considered eccentric and was thought to be comfortably well off, but not wealthy. Four female servants, the only persons she would allow permanently around the house, were present when she was stricken, and she died before Dr. Chase, who had been summoned, arrived at her home. Immediately upon her death Alderman Cutter of Cambridge, who for years has acted as her agent in her real estate transactions, was summoned, also the undertaker and two lady friends of the deceased.

Surprising Discoveries.

The body was prepared for burial and then it was that startling discoveries were made. Secreted about her person and in pockets of other dresses, in pieces of brica-a-brac, vases and closets, were found many thousands of dollars in gold coin and bills of large denominations. In fact the money was placed in every conceivable location, and in almost every case where an ordinary person would not secrete wealth, Twenty thousand dollars were bills found, and in one case a package of bills amounting to $3,000 was found in a handbag. Then the searching party accidentally stumbled upon a number of deposit books in banks and savings institutions, which showed that she had many thousands of dollars on deposits.

Vast Real Estate; Costly Wardrobe.

Later it became known that she was the owner of a vast amount of real estate, the major part of it located in Boston, which returns a big income. In addition to the money it was found that she had a very extensive and costly wardrobe. Elegant and valuable dresses that had never been worn were hung up in closets or laid on tables and dressers, while other articles of apparel, equally costly, were scattered about in various rooms.

Servants Often Found Valuables.

The servants themselves, who had lived in the house for years, were astounded. Even they did not know of the wealth which surrounded them. They had frequently found bills and gold coins and securities lying around the rooms and had always returned them to Mrs. Coolidge, who would tell them that she had mislaid them, but they were frequently found and as frequently handed over to her.

Worth Over $1,000,000.

For over thirty years she has lived alone in this house, with the exception of the servants, having about the time secured a divorce from her husband, James Coolidge, at one time connected with the N. Y. Auburn cemetery, and who died many years ago. She inherited some money from her parents, and as it was judiciously invested, it grew in years until at her death it is estimated that she was worth over $1,000,000. Her only living relative, so far as known, is a brother, J. E. P. Marshall, of 28 Beacon street, and if she died intestate all of her property will revert to him.

MONUMENT DEDICATED.

Eighteen Connecticut Volunteers Remembered.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 10.—The monument to the memory of the Eighteenth Connecticut volunteers who fell during the late war was dedicated in the National cemetery here yesterday afternoon. At the cemetery prayer was offered by Rev. A. C. Green of Connecticut; an address of welcome by Mayor Lupton of Winchester was responded to by Gen. W. C. Ely. William Cathers then presented the monument on behalf of the committee to the regiment as the gift of the state of Connecticut. It was accepted by Capt. Brady, who formally turned it over to the National cemetery. Col. D. Torrence delivered an eloquent oration which received hearty applause.

PAUL CUSHMAN DEAD.

Hints at Suicide and Also at a More Serious Crime.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 10.—Paul Cushman died last night at the city hospital of castro-uritis. Cushman is the man who recently charged Capt. Corbin and three precinct detectives with extortion. He was arrested on a charge of perjury last week and committed to jail in default of bail. There have been hints that Cushman committed suicide, likewise that a more serious crime may be discovered at the autopsy, which will be held to-day.

HASTINGS' VISIT TO DRIFTON.

Reception to Pennsylvania's Governor and Wife.

Drifton, Pa., Oct. 10.—Governor and Mrs. Hastings arrived here yesterday. The party were given a hearty reception by the citizens of Drifton and Freeland. The Drifton town council and members of the board of trade headed the delegation. Freeland citizens and school children also called at the Coxe mansion and shook hands with the governor. The party went to Wilkesbarre last evening, where the governor has an official engagement.

C., M. & St. P. Railroad Earnings.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The report of earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad for the first week in October shows $822,620.10; for the corresponding week last year, $667,501.12; increase, $155,118.98.

Inhaled Illuminating Gas.

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Josephine Quinn, who was found unconscious near her dead child, as the result of inhaling illuminating gas yesterday morning, is dead.

Col. Corbin Arrives in New York.

New York, Oct. 10.—Col. H. C. Corbin, who has been ordered to New York as adjutant-general of the department of the east, arrived here this morning.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 10, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Fair and Warmer.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 54 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 10—Dance of the T. A. B. society in their hall. Evening.
October 10—Annual State Conference of the
October 10—Meeting of the Board of Trade.
October 10—Anniversary exercises' and smoker of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.
October 10—Meeting of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., when the P. M. Degree will be worked.
October 11—Adjourned meeting of the Borough Council.
Woman's Synodical Society at the Crescent Avenue church.
October 11—Last evening run of the Y.M.C.A. Cyclers, under the leadership of Capt. F. A. Cuming. Run will be to Orange, leaving here at 7 p. m.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval, 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Anniversary exercises at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church of New Market.
October 13—Christian Endeavor rally in the First Presbyterian Church.
October 13—Run of Crescent Wheelmen to Trenton.
October 8—Bible Study Club at Y. M. C. A. building.
October 14—Opening of the Y. M. C. A. Educational Department.
October 15—Captain Jack Crawford in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.
October 15—Rally of Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Chapel.
October 15—Lecture at First Presbyterian Church on "A Dream of Tomorrow" by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore.
October 15—Dance of Crescent Coterie at Olympia Hall.
October 17—Tenth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church.
October 17—Gymnasium class of the Y. M.C.A. will begin.

The Newark Advertiser has got them. They compare Candidate Griggs' campaign to that of Napoleon. And Napoleon had a Waterloo, too.

Monmouth and Somerset Democrats have put winning tickets in the field and will give great help in the election of Mr. McGill.—True American.

A Spanish paper complains that children in Spain are becoming too precocious; that boys of twelve smoke and play cards, and girls of the same age abandon their dolls, go to theatres, and read love stories.

If the Christian Endeavorers of New Jersey in their State Convention will consider things only of a religious nature and not touch the subject of politics, as their New York brethern and sisters did at Brooklyn on Tuesday, they will be following out the precepts laid down by the founders of the admirable society, and give evidence that they are a truly spiritual body.

A list of the casualties at the recent Republican primaries in Chicago is forty-two names long—of men with faces smashed, eyes gouged, stomachs kicked, and generally bruised and beaten. Ambulances were in great demand, while ballot-boxes were smashed, judges of election kicked out of doors, and a reign of bruisers inaugurated. The contest raged over the attempts of the rival city hall and county factions to capture the delegates to the county convention.

Ex-State Senator Keyes, of Somerset, was one of the most enthusiastic Democrats who called at Democratic headquarters in Jersey City yesterday, says The World. He was elated over the outlook in that county, and predicted that Chancellor McGill would receive a handsome majority.

"Somerset," he said, with much enthusiasm, "is once more in its normal condition, and this fall will find it back in the Democratic column. The county ticket nominated at Monday's convention is a strong one, and will do much towards bringing to the polls the solid Democratic vote."

CAPTAIN HUBBARD AN OFFICER.

The Plainfield Veteran Elected Vice President of the Volunteers.

The fifth reunion of the thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers took place at Rahway yesterday. The city was decorated to welcome them and every house along the line of march was draped with the National colors. One hundred and sixty veterans were present in the Opera House at 11 o'clock, when the meeting was called to order. The Rev. T. C. Mayham, of Rahway, offered up the opening prayer. Among the speakers were Comrade Brown, Captain Lanning, Comrade Wambolt and Comrade Branson, of the First New Jersey Cavalry. After the speakers came a distribution of badges. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Colonel Teneyck, of Somerville; Vice President, Captain Hubbard, of Plainfield; Secretary, and Treasurer, Captain Bowman, of South Bend. The 30th Volunteers was mustered in September, 1862. The first Colonel was J. M. Donaldson, at that time editor of "The Somerset County Messenger." He was succeeded by J. J. Cladek, of Rahway. The regiment suffered severe losses at Chancellorsville and Antietam, and fought with great bravery throughout the war.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Helping Hand Society of the Grace P. E. church met yesterday afternoon.

—The Board of Trade hold an open meeting tonight to discuss the new building ordinance.

—The Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Tribe of Red Men met last evening and initiated one candidate.

—Rev. Cornelius Schenck will exchange pulpits next Sunday with Rev. Edgar Tilton, of Jamaica, L. I.

—The clerks at Edsall's Commercial Palace are planning to hold a dance on Thursday evening at the Olympia Hall.

—Frank Day had charge of the carriages at the Tobin-Ward wedding last night, and the service was most efficient.

—The election of officers took place at the meeting of the Junior Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church this afternoon.

—The choir of the Holy Cross church are rehearsing for a harvest festival to be held in the church, probably the last Sunday in this month.

—The trial of the Italians engaged in a row on Lake street Sunday night will be held Friday morning at ten o'clock in the city court room.

—The foundation of the Jackson building on West Front street is completed, the first floor laid, and work on the second story is well under way.

—All Christian Endeavorers are earnestly invited to be present at the Christian Endeavor meeting in the First Baptist church tomorrow evening.

—The Boys Brigade of the First Baptist church will meet again on Saturday evening. All boys between the ages of ten and twenty-one are cordially invited.

—A runaway took place on East Front street yesterday afternoon soon after five o'clock. A man, the only passenger, was thrown out, but not seriously injured.

—The people of Linden township are circulating a petition to the township committee asking that township bonds be issued and the proceeds used in macadamizing the roads.

—The sociable that was to be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church on Friday evening has been indefinitely postponed on account of the death of Miss Minnie French.

—All interested in the educational classes at the Y. M. C. A. are urgently requested to make it known to the assistant secretary, John Whiting. The classes will be formed in a few days.

—Two blankets and a whip were stolen from the carriage of George Lee, of Scotch Plains, about ten o'clock Tuesday night while the carriage was standing in front of the First National Bank at Westfield.

Slight Runaway.

David N. Force, the contractor and builder of Summit avenue, met with an accident this morning while driving through Liberty street, when his horse became frightened and started to run away. The wagon collided with a butcher wagon belonging to Fred Endress and upset it. The only damage was broken shafts on Mr. Force's wagon. The horse did not get away.

Constipation

is the most common form of Dyspepsia. Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills (white wrapper), one after each meal, cure the most obstinate cases. They contain no mercury, do not purge nor gripe, and impart a natural healthful tone to the stomach and bowels.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills.

25 cts. at druggists'. Send to us for a free sample.
DR. J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, N. Y.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. E. Stewart, of West Seventh street, has returned home from Beekitt, Mass.

Mrs. Walter McGee and family, of the borough, are visiting friends out of town for a week.

Miss Cora Richardson, of East Sixth street, is the guest of Miss May Coyn, of Jersey City.

George P. Mellick, of LaGrande avenue, left today on a ten days business trip in the west.

Mrs. C. W. McCutchen and family are expected home today from the Adirondack Mountains.

Miss L. R. VanCleef, of Grandview avenue, has returned from a visit to friends in Neshanic, N. J.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of the borough, has returned from a few days visit in New York city.

Miss Minnie Carpenter, of New Market, left yesterday for Japan, where she will serve as a missionary.

Willard M. Miner, of East Sixth Street, returned yesterday from a business trip to the Pacific coast.

Miss Josie Martin, who was in the gent's furnishing department at Edsall's, has resigned her position.

O. B. Leonard, of Madison avenue, has greatly improved from his recent illness and will soon be able to go out again.

Miss Charlotte Stephenson, of Bloomfield, is visiting her sisters, the Misses Stephenson, of West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Ackerman, of West Seventh street, leave today for Japan where they will spend the winter months.

Mrs. J. H. Ackerman and daughter Miss Lydia Ackerman, of West Seventh street, leave Monday for a winter's sojourn at California.

William Hockridge, of East Fifth street, has left for a three months' business trip to Japan. He goes as a buyer for Arnold, Constable & Co., of New York.

Mrs. Charles Sykes, her two daughters and niece, Miss Margaret MacCready, of "Mapleside Lodge," Scotch Plains, have sailed for Europe. It is their intention to remain abroad a year.

Ex-Gov. Sprague, of Brooklyn, spent yesterday in town looking after the interests of his niece, Mrs. H. J. Fleischhaur. Mr. Sprague, with Mrs. Sprague and his niece, Mrs. Fleischhaur, will go about January first to Old Point Comfort.

LITTLE CYCLISTS HURT.

Collided With a Carriage and Slight Injuries Received.

A fall from a wheel in the close proximity of a horse proved rather dangerous in the case of Miss Bessie Wilson, of West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon shortly after five o'clock.

Mrs. Aaron Keyser, a woman friend, and three children, were out driving in Mrs. Keyser's carriage. As they were coming up Park avenue, in front of the Revere House, they met Miss Mamie Thatcher, of West Seventh street, riding in the opposite direction on her safety with Miss Bessie Wilson on the step. Mrs. Keyser's little girl, who happened to be driving, pulled to the right, but for some reason Miss Thatcher steered to the left. Seeing the carriage directly in their path frightened the girls on the wheel and the next instant they fell. The horse struck Miss Wilson on the leg with its hoof, while the handle of the bicycle caught Miss Thatcher in the face.

Four other girls, the Misses Alice Chandor, Katharine Nevens, Clara Long, and Eleanor Williams, happened to be passing by and assisted the two injured girls to the Revere House, the clerk from that hotel also assisting.

Mrs. Keyser stopped, but when she learned that neither one was seriously hurt, drove on.

Miss Thatcher was all right in a few minutes, but Miss Wilson had to be escorted to her home by her rescuers.

Woman's Missionary Meeting.

The East Association of the Woman's Baptist Society of New Jersey will hold its semi-annual meeting in the Baptist church at New Monmouth Friday, the 11th inst. Delegates will take the Long Branch Railroad to Middletown, when carriages will be in waiting to convey them to the church.

—Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles at the leading hotels, clubs and cafes. 6

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

NO REST, NO SLEEP!

How Energy and Ambition Are Killed.

Vitality and Health Destroyed by Wakeful Nights.

Strong and Steady Nerves a Necessity.

To Neglect Them Means Certain Ruin.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Gives Strength and Vigor.

How many thousands today suffer from sleeplessness caused by nervous weakness. It is one of the incidents of American life, and you who read these lines are no doubt one of the great throng. After the day is done and when its cares ought to cease, you wish that they might fold their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away. When night has drawn her sable curtains and all nature seems in repose, your weary eyelids long for that tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep. What would you not give for the rest you had in the olden times. But it is denied you. The long hours are full of weakness and weariness, and the coming day brings only headache and heartache, impaired strength and exhausted nerves as you drag through its duties.

There is no burden so painful, and no loss so wasting. It wrecks the body and impairs the mind. It is the harbinger of insanity. It has filled our asylums with its victims. You know this and gloomily dread the future. Weak, nervous, and discouraged, the least excitement prostrates you, and you are always worrying over anticipated trouble. Nothing goes right, and you often feel like despairing. You do not feel equal to the burden you once bore so easily.

Take heed while it is time. You are in a whirlwind of destruction. You are in the very Niagara of our nervous modern life. Do not delay. Safety is right at hand, if you will but accept it. That loss of appetite, gas in the stomach, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness, headache, etc., are but the first symptoms of the danger to come. It can be avoided, but only by acting at once.

Thousands have stood where you now stand confronted by the same frightful consequences, and have been cured and restored to health and happiness by that wonderful enchanter of sleep, that marvelous restorer of nerve energy and physical strength, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is purely vegetable and entirely harmless.

Mrs. L. L. Gumpricht, who resides at 198 Blue Hill avenue, Boston, Mass., says:

"After having had an attack of the grippe I was feeling very weak and completely run down. I could not eat, sleep or work. I was so weak in the limbs I could not walk or work. I was very miserable, and I thought I should die. I lost interest in everything. I had great distress from the little food I could eat.

"After taking three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I was entirely cured of all these complaints. I feel like a different woman."

This grand restorative for the nerves, Dr. Greene's Nervura, does not contain a particle of anything injurious, and can be given to restless and sleepless infants, nervous children or the most delicate invalid with absolute assurance of beneficial results. Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, discovered it, and he can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy: that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,
140 West Front Street.

I THANK MY STARS I HAVE FOUND PEARK'S!

"Ever Ready" PREPARED Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,
City Mills. 24 Somerset street. Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

Interesting List of Exceptional Values.

Cloak Department.

Ladies stylish fall coats in a large variety of styles in Borcle Cheviot, Persian Lamb and Kersey Cloths, satin lined, ripple back, mandolin and melon sleeves, all strictly tailor made, from $7.50 to $18.

Fall circular capes in Borcle, Melton and Plush, trimmed with Thibet fur, skunk and stitched satin, single and double capes, satin lined, from $7.25 to $18.50.

Ladies black Moreen underskirts, deep ruffle, splendidly made, from $2.59 to $3.80.

48 cts. Outing flannel underskirts in a variety of new fall colorings; worth 59c.

DRESS GOODS AND SILK DEPARTMENT.

89C. Scotch plaid silks in beautiful colorings; excellent quality; worth $1.10 a yard.

50C All wool cheviot tweeds in two color blendings, 40 inches wide; worth 69c. yd.

Millinery Department.

A few items of interest selected from many.
Felt sailors in black, navy and red, 29c, 49c, 65c.
Beautiful velvet roses 25c, 49c.
Black ostrich plumes 79c.
Children's trimmed school hats $1.98, $2.49.

Carpet Department.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

55 CTS. Our entire stock of best tapestry Brussels carpet; a large variety of patterns. For this week only, special at 55c per yd.

49 CTS. Best extra super ingrain carpet, our entire stock, fine styles Special for this week at 49c yard.

In addition to our regular stock we have a sample department and carry a full and complete line of all grades of carpet from the stock of W. and J. Sloan, for whom we are selling agents in Plainfield. Call and see our new fall styles. Special attention given to special orders and estimates furnished on application.

In Our Big Basement This Week.

7C SALE — 5,000 useful articles to go at 7 cts each. Former price 9, 10, 12 and 15c each; for this week only. Tinware, woodenware, china and glass. — 7C SALE

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. Any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good quality oil	9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered flat top trunk for $1.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL.
Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET QUACKENBUSH-PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2nd street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—The borough council will hold an adjourned meeting tomorrow evening.

—The recognized rival of the imported is Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles. 6

—The work of macadamizing Harrison street in the borough will be started next week.

—Edward Love has done a fine job of papering and painting in the house of Mrs. E. H. Depew, of Franklin place.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a business and consecration meeting tomorrow night.

—The season for buckwheat cakes is upon us, and French Brothers "Ever Ready" prepared buckwheat flour is second to none.

—The chorus choir of the Crescent Avenue church will sing three of the choruses from the Holy City next Sunday evening.

—Mayor and Mrs. Gilbert entertained a few friends at their home on Central avenue, corner of Eighth street, Tuesday evening.

—Daniel Dugan has sold, through Mulford's agency, one of his houses on LaGrande avenue to James A. Reilly, of New York, for $2,000.

—The annual Y. M. C. A. conference of the Fourth district will be held at Rahway Saturday and Sunday. A number of Plainfielders will attend.

—Manning's city marble works is well stocked with handsome granite monuments of the very best quality, and prices were never so low as now.

—A member of the King's Daughters left a valuable parasol at the Y. M. C. A. hall yesterday and can have it by calling on Secretary Manning.

—The National Purity Congress will meet in Baltimore next week. President Aaron M. Powell, of this city, will make the opening address on Monday.

—The lady who shops will find a rich assortment of the latest designs in all the various styles in fall dress trimmings and laces at the popular store of Peck's.

—East and West Fifth streets, on which the steam roller has been working, look natural once more and it is hoped that other streets will be treated likewise as soon as possible.

—The elevations in the ground on West Front street, caused by the house connections to the sewer, are being leveled off today preparatory to using the steam roller.

—The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will begin their meetings for the fall with a social Friday afternoon, at 3:45, in the church parlors.

—A. V. D. Honeyman has postponed the starting of his Atlanta Exposition party to Nov. 14th, and has also changed the route so as to pass through Asheville, Chattanooga, Luray, etc.

—E. L. Suffern will speak to men, and Geo. H. Batchelor will speak to boys, at the Y. M. C. A. building on Sunday at 4:15 p. m. Mrs. Thorne and daughter, of Newark, will render mandolin, guitar and vocal duets.

—The entertainment to be given by Capt Jack Crawford in the Y M. C. A. entertainment course on Tuesday, October 15th, is highly endorsed by the past and present Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

—At the regular meeting of Lucetta Council, No. 28, D. of L., four propositions for membership was received and a committee was appointed to arrange for a lunchbox sociable to be held on Wednesday evening, October 23d, in S. of T. Hall.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Southard, of Cottage place, was held yesterday afternoon at the East Third Street Mission, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes officiating. There was a large number of people present and the remarks by the doctor were excellent.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

"A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed."

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy. Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My son was afflicted with catarrh; I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one. J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Y. M. C. A. team will meet for practice this evening.

The advisory committee of the Central New Jersey Football League meets Friday evening.

The Y. M. C. A. and Leal's School elevens will practice on the old Harned Academy grounds Saturday afternoon.

The Westfield football team will play a game with the Jefferson Park Athletic Club team of Elizabeth on Saturday at the Park street grounds, Westfield.

The Leal School eleven will not play at Westfield Saturday as the team cannot be gotten together. Captain McGee will be unable to go and several of the other players are on the sick list.

Owing to an injury to his leg Fred H. Freeman will be compelled to stop practicing with the Y. M. C. A. boys for a time. It is hoped that he will be in condition, however, to fill his old position behind the line in the match games.

Dean Ryder, the best fullback that Plainfield has, will play on the Y. M. C. A. eleven this year. With Waring at quarter and Cathcart and Freeman as halves, and Ryder at full, Plainfield should make a hard fight for the pennant.

The Leal's team went to Orange Saturday to play the second eleven of the South Orange Field Club. They met the first team instead, which averaged forty pounds more than they did. The Plainfield boys were finally only defeated by a score of 14 to 0.

Lewis Darling has given up coaching the Dunellen eleven and will play on the Y. M. C. A. team. Mr. Darling is well up in the game and will strengthen the team materially whenever he plays. Owing to the lack of an efficient centre he may be placed in that position.

The High School football team promises to be an unknown quantity this year. Raymond Carroll is manager, but has very little suitable material to work with. A challenge has been received from Pingry's School, of Elizabeth, but a team could not be organized in time.

THE FOOTBALL LEAGUE TO DISBAND.

Dunellen Sends in Her Resignation and Westfield and Cranford to Follow.

Football may be popular in this district, but it appears that the interest is not great enough to support a football league. George W. Richardson, President of the Dunellen Club, has sent in the resignation of Dunellen from the League and states that Westfield expects to withdraw also. Cranford by not answering the different communications of the secretary, has showed her intention of not remaining in the league. This leaves the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. as the sole member of the league and therefore the winner of the championship. But it is a hollow honor, however. The formal action on the resignations will take place at the meeting Friday evening

THEATRICAL.

The theatrical attraction to appear at Music Hall this evening is Joseph Callahan's electrical and spectacular production of Goethe's "Faust" which has been warmly received elsewhere and which merits the best attention of our theatre-goers. Goethe's immortal poem of "Faust" is known by everyone. The drama, which has been written upon his lines, has been seen by many. But year after year the electrical and mechanical effects have been so much improved as to make the drama more startling. In fact, to so change the thrilling and fantastic spectacle into something entirely new. This has been very effectively done by the young actor, Joseph Callahan, who will be seen here as his Satanic Majesty, a role, in which he has gained praise from every one who has seen him. Mr. Callahan has wisely modeled his elaborate spectacular play on Sir Henry Irving's masterpiece, acknowledged, when produced, as one of the very best presentations of all that is wierd and fantastic on the stage.

—At a meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association last night reports were heard from the delegates who attended the State convention at Bloomfield last week.

—Mrs. Livermore will give her lecture on "A Dream of Tomorrow" in the rectory of the First Presbyterian church, Front street, one block above the Y. M. C. A The sale of season tickets has been so large that to accommodate single ticket holders the change to the larger hall had to be made.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Harry Fulper and Wyatt Barnes left on a cycling trip to New Foundland yesterday yesterday morning.

Friday evening will witness the last of the fall series of runs held by the Y. M. C. A. While all of the runs have been well patronized this promises to be a record-breaker. The run will be made to the Orange Y.M.C.A., under the leadership of Capt. Cuming, the start being made at 7 p. m. sharp. All cycling members of the association are asked to be on hand and bring along some of their cycling friends.

Dunellen.

Mrs. Herbert spent Monday in New York.

Howard Giles spent Tuesday at New Brunswick.

Dr. Brakeley has gone to Atlantic City to visit relatives.

Miss Lulu Adams, of Front street, entertained her cousin from Somerville Sunday.

Miss Nellie Pierson, of New Market, entertained a number of Plainfield friends Sunday.

Mr. Fairchild, of New York, was the guest of Mrs. Kuldoshe, of North avenue, Wednesday.

Miss Mary Bolton, accompanied by her nephew, Earl Harman, spent Tuesday at Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. VanDeventer, of California, are the guests of relatives on Washington avenue.

E. Apgar, who has been visiting his cousin, Willard Apgar of North avenue, has returned to his home in Philadelphia.

The children who take part in the autumnal exercises, which are to be held October 20th, are being drilled by Miss Ella Fisher.

The VanMiddlesworth estate will be sold at public auction on October 30th at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Hope, of Somerville, will be the auctioneer.

A sociable and reception was held Monday evening at the Baptist church, of New Market, in honor of Miss Minnie Carpenter, who started Wednesday for Japan to teach the gospel.

—Mr. Wright, of Carleton avenue, has purchased a fine horse from Charles Vail.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

Grenada Barber Shop,
No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.
Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

CATARRH ELY'S Cream Balm

Is quickly absorbed, cleanes the nasal passages allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BOTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor
109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F

List of Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 7, 1895.

Booker Edward	Noles Squire
Bowers Mrs H C	Perretta Sig Antonio
Bradford Wm	Randolph A F
Buller Miss	Richardson Miss C L
Chas Mademoisell	Pangborn Elias
Cottington Wm H	Prine Robert
Condit H B	Perry Sariena
Cox Wm	Ress Mrs R
Dumpsey Jno	Rungaloer Mrs J
Frost B J	Sarles Annie
Gunner Phillips	Sutton Chas G
Gaston Mr & Mrs L F	Sanford Mrs C W
Garrabrandt Eugene	Simpson Master H
Howard Mrs Ella	Stewart Mrs Leanora
Hillery Etta	Stead Mrs Sophia
Henderson Mrs M H	Smith Samuel
Jarvis Mrs E	Thorn Mrs Kitty
Kahne F J	Stewart C M
Kitchen S P	Smith C M
Kerwin Lawrence	Scribner Mr & Mrs C
Little Mrs Mame	Sigler Jno E
Little Miss M V	Tabbert Paul
Miskel Comelia	Tabor Paul
Mechling Geo	VanArsdale Mrs P E
Mills E	Wheeler Mrs Theo
Mexviskox Z	Wearren Mrs G
Martin Mrs Josephine	Wilson Mrs Francis
Messler Mrs	Youmans E W

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will produce do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

Y. M. C. A.

STAR COURSE
—OF SEVEN—
Entertainments!
—IN—
Y. M. C. A. HALL

Course Tickets - - $1.25
Single Admission - 25 Cts.

FIRST ENTERTAINMENT
Tuesday, October 15th.
CAPT. JACK CRAWFORD,
The Poet Scout, in his wonderful entertainment, "The Camp Fire and the Trail. 10 8 10 12 14 15

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

LOST—Friday night, the 10th, a white bull terrier. Liberal reward by returning to 336 Somerset st.

LOST—A white bull terrier. Liberal reward paid if returned to 336 Somerset st.

WANTED—Position as chamber-maid and waitress in small private family. Apply 325 West 2d st. 10 10 2

PONY and her colt for sale; has been used by a boy of 10; sold for want of use; or will trade for larger horse; can be seen at Johnson's farm. Address G. C. E., care Press. 10 10 3

GOOD cook would like a place as cook or would do housework in a small family. Call 68 Elm place.

RELIABLE man would like several furnaces for the winter. Address 322 East 4th st. 10 10 4

WANTED—A junior salesman with some knowledge of dry goods. Address Junior, care Press.

WANTED—For a child of 5 years, a reliable nurse and seamstress. Call Thursday evening at 307 Franklin place.

LARGE sunny front room with gas and heat, to let, with board. 216 East 6th st. 10 10 6

YOUNG lady would like to share room with lady; price reasonable. Address Lady, care Press. 10 10 6

WANTED—A position as housekeeper, or to be companion to an elderly person, or to care for an invalid; would assist with sewing and be generally useful. Address Mrs. A. A., box 110, Westfield, N. J.

WANTED.—A girl for general housework. Call at 351 East 3d street. 10 10 2

SMART young girl, lately landed, wishes situation at general housework. Call at 131 Madison avenue. 10 10 2

TO LET—Handsome corner flat, all light rooms; every improvement. Apply Manning's City Marble Works. 10 10 6

WANTED—Immediately, girl for general housework; two in family. 817 First place. 10 10 2

LOST.—Yesterday, between the Franklin School and Netherwood, a silver watch. Liberal reward at this office.

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf eod

FOR SALE—Cheap, a good oil route Inquire at 718 South ave. 10 9 2

WANTED—A woman for general housework. Apply 718 Central avenue. 10 9 2

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, att'y, cor. Park and North aves. 10 9 4

WANTED.—A good cook; must have satisfactory references. Apply at 531 West 8th st. 10 9 3

A BARGAIN—$875 will buy 7-room house, lot 50x150; small barn; 15 minutes from Plainfield station. C. L. Moffett, Park and North aves. 10 8 4

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 1121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 5

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. F. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

PLUMS FOR YOU.

The first man up the tree usually gathers the largest crop of plums, for in these busy days they are plucked before they have a chance to fall. Many plums there are here for you to gather and little money

GATHERS THEM

GINGHAMS

1896 styles, and why we can make such little prices comes about in the most natural way. It's only a sacrifice of profits on our part. Worth 15c; our price 8c.

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilbert ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 55c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c. 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 38 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats, you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts, made of fine serge, both black and blue, $2.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants, 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants, were 50c, now 37c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 58c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.

Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles 49c each.

English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each.

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannell and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Van Emburgh & Son

Will Tell You About

CORSETS

THIS WEEK.

Van Emburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular House, Babcock Building.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS, lowest prices.

U. B. CRANE. Hatter and Furnisher
120 West Front Street.

GENERAL FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES.

In Command of the Army of the Potomac While Grant Got a Mint Julep.

The cobbler who mended my shoes was named Bigly, and he was always called general, which somehow did not quite comport with my idea of the cobbler. True, he had been a soldier during the whole of the rebellion, but just what kind of a soldier I did not know. True, also, he had lost his leg at Gettysburg, but it was a dozen years after the war in the accidental upset of a traction engine dragging a thrashing machine into the field. Still he was "General Bigly" in the common parlance, and one day I asked him about it.

"Weren't you in the army?" I inquired.

"Yes, sir," he answered proudly and promptly.

"See much fighting?"

"From April, 1861, to September, 1865."

"I notice that everybody calls you general. What was your rank? Were you a general?"

"I was in command of the Army of the Potomac, sir," he said, as truthful in tone as any man I ever heard speak.

"Oh, come," I laughed, "I never heard of a General Bigly in command of that army. You are giving me guff, as the boys say."

"It's true as gospel," he insisted.

"Tell me about it, if it's all the same."

"Well, you see, it was this way," he said, pegging away at the shoe in his lap, and not looking squarely at me. "I was in the Army of the Potomac when General Grant took charge, and I was a sergeant. I used to know the general out in Galena when he wasn't so much, and he was mighty friendly with me and made me his orderly. I used to go every place with him, riding over the field and that kind of thing, and sometimes there wasn't nobody but me and the general riding around for miles together. Well, one day we had rode out along the road and we come to a little place where a man lived that could make the finest mint julep in the whole state of Virginny. I knowed about the place and so did the general, and when we struck it, I could kinder see his mouth watering, for mint juleps didn't grow on trees in them days in Virginny. When we got opposite the gate, the general sorter stopped his hoss and looked over at me, and I shut down one eye soft and easy.

"'Bill,' says he—he always called me Bill in private—'Bill, will you do me a favor?'

"'Anything on top of earth, general,' says I. 'What is it?'

"'Will you be kind enough to take command of the army while I go in here and get a mint julep?'

"'Of course I will, general,' says I, straightening my back as if I had a ramrod stuck down it and coming to a salute.

"'Thanks,' says he, 'and please hold my hoss at the same time.'

"'Then he went in, and for about 15 minutes I sat there on my hoss like Napoleon crossing the Rubicon and was in command of the Army of the Potomac, and ever since that time the boys have called me 'General,' and I didn't see any use of saying they shouldn't."—Washington Star.

TO BE IN GOOD SOCIETY.

Culture and Refinement to Have Precedence Over Birth and Rank.

High moral character and education, whether it be of booklore or that of observation and good example, polish of manner and good habits, are the requisites of good society. One whose ideas of social equality were rather democratic than exclusive was heard to remark, "One man is born just as good as another and a great deal better than some." Unless the son of a gentleman be a gentleman he is no more entitled to the name suggesting refinement than a man is entitled to the name of general whose father before him was a general. One must win his own laurels or go uncrowned.

Birth to a marked degree is an accident, and those who are considered to be well born are ofttimes the most objectionable elements of society and the most dangerous associates. One need but watch closely the daily record of those on both sides of the Atlantic whose birth gives them prestige in society, to prove that education and cultivation of high morals and manners go farther toward making refined society than all the good or blue blood that ever flowed through the veins of royalty and the nobility. Of course, it would be the height of absurdity to argue that all men are born equal and it would be as illogical to argue against the superiority of blooded animals of the race course over the ordinary draft horse. However, the nobility of culture and refinement should have precedence over the nobility of birth and rank.—Philadelphia Press.

An Odorless Region.

"In that country once known as the 'Great American Desert,' embracing a portion of Texas and Arizona, there are no odors," said a citizen of Dallas to a reporter. "There luscious grapes and many other fruits grow, especially near the cross timber country, but there is no perfume; wild flowers have no smell, and carcasses of dead animals, which in dry seasons are very plentiful, emit no odor. It was always supposed to be a treeless plain, upon which no plant could grow or breathing thing could live, but a large part of it is now successfully cultivated, and but for the rarity of the atmosphere, causing the peculiarity I have named, and the mirages, which are even more perfect than in the desert of Sahara, no one would look upon it as a barren country now. Another singular feature common to the desert land is that objects at a great distance appear greatly magnified. A few scraggy mesquite bushes will look like a noble forest. Stakes driven into the ground will seem like telegraph poles."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Veracious.

A young man whose veracity is unimpeachable tells the following touching story to the Monticello (Fla.) Constitution: On a plantation a few miles from the city there lived in great felicity a pair of ducks. But the old drake, being of a rather pugnacious disposition, was sentenced to be shot. Several hours after the sentence was executed his mate was observed to droop, and shortly thereafter she died, unquestionably of a broken heart. The truth of this story is vouched for.

The Spectroscope.

In ordinary chemical analysis the one hundred and twentieth of a grain approaches very nearly the lowest limit of practical determination. The spectroscope, however, is so sensitive that it can tell the presence of a substance when the quantity is nearly 2,000,000 times less than this, or one two hundred and forty millionth of a grain.

God overrules all mutinous accidents, brings them under his laws of fate and [illegible] all serviceable to his purpose.

IT IS THE FACE.

It was in Rome and at the season of the year when the old world city is full of strangers from every part of the globe.

The rush of visitors made little difference to Paul Rizeni, the wood carver, except that it brought him now and again a private order.

One day a stranger passed the little workshop and was attracted by a large unfinished panel that leaned against the side of the window, and glancing at the workmanship he noticed the worker within.

Paul lifted his head and met the gazer's eyes, and the stranger smiled and hurried on. But after that he passed the corner constantly, and Paul got to look for his honest, cheery face and kind blue eyes. He was an old man and English, every bit of him.

At last one day he knocked at the low door, and Paul admitted him.

"Could you execute a little order for me?" he asked. "I want to surprise my little granddaughter with one of your beautiful crucifixes."

"Certainly," Paul answered. "It will give me great pleasure, but I am very busy, and you must allow me some time."

"I want it for an Easter gift."

Paul calculated. "Yes, I think I can let you have it."

"I am hindering you, I fear," the old man said, "but I have peeped at your work so often through the window, and that was so unsatisfactory. You are a great artist!"

"Do you find me so?" he said in his foreign way. "That panel will sell for 4 francs, and I shall get one. Great artists are paid better than that, signor!"

"Why don't you demand a just value?"

"Oh, why should I care? If they gave me 1,000 francs, it would be the same—I should only work on and on. Aye, signor, I love my art! Do you know the petal of that rose took me one whole week to bring to perfection?"

"I can imagine it. It is superb! But I like your faces best. Those angels on that shield"—

"Ah, but they do not satisfy me. My angel's face I have not attempted yet, but I have seen it. I go to benediction at St. Mark's every night to watch it and carve it on my soul, and one day I shall produce it."

The old man took his departure. But he came again and again, making each time some excuse to speak about the crucifix, and gradually he won Paul's confidence, and the carver told him his story.

He belonged by birth to the old Italian aristocracy, but his boyhood had been passed in troublous times, and his family had had to fly from the country. Gradually he had worked his way back to his native Italy, the seat of all art and beauty, and there he had settled down to his life's dreams.

That night in St. Mark's at benediction, when he knelt gazing at his angel's face, a sudden warm glow stole through his frame. His angel had turned her face and met his eyes, and she had flushed with emotion, and he realized it was the loveliness of a living woman, no ethereal spirit, as he had almost grown to believe.

His old friend wondered at his change, and at last Paul told him.

"I am in love," he cried restlessly, "and I must—I will possess her."

"But, my friend, I thought"—

"Yes, that is true. I only see her in church. We have never spoken."

"Most wonderful!" the old man muttered to himself as he walked home. "But I wish it hadn't happened. I—I have been so slow. I ought to have brought him to see Ellean before. Now it is too late. Ah, and they were so suited—both so pure, so beautiful, so idealic!"

"Grandpa," Ellean said to him one evening—it was Easter eve—sitting at his feet in her white silk gown and resting her beautiful arm across his knees, "grandpa, I want to confess to you. I am in love!"

"Eh? Eh? What's this?"

"Nothing, dear, for it is nothing! It is only a face—a face that haunts me night and day—that—that—oh! you cannot understand, but my soul goes out to that face."

"A gentleman to see you, sir. I have asked him into the salon. A foreigner, I think, sir—Signore Ritz—Ritz"—

"I know. That will do. Excuse me a minute, my dear."

Paul was standing at his full height gazing into the fire, and the red glow lit up his distinguished features, and the old man, looking upon him, realized what a splendid man he was, and he wished Ellean could have seen him thus.

"How kind of you to bring the crucifix yourself, my dear friend. I see you have it."

With a cry of wonder, delight and amazement he seized it in his hands and touched the angel's face that stood out at the top of the cross.

"It is Ellean!" Then, recovering himself, he grasped the artist's hand. "I cannot thank you—it is all so marvelous—but come with me. Let her thank you—your angel, you know."

Paul followed the old man to Ellean's room in a dream and stood at the threshold gazing at the girl, who came toward them as if, after all, she could not be very flesh and blood.

"Ellean, my child! What is it?"

She was tottering toward her grandfather. "That—that!" she cried. "It is the face—the face I have loved so long!"—London News.

Honest Times.

At one time in the highlands of Scotland to ask for a receipt or promissory note was considered an insult, and such a thing as a breach of contract was rarely heard of, so strictly did the people regard their honor. The Presbyterian Witness tells a story of a farmer who had been to the lowlands and had there acquired worldly wisdom.

After returning to his native place he needed some money and requested a loan from a gentleman in the neighborhood. The latter, Mr. Stewart, complied and counted out the gold, when the farmer immediately wrote a receipt.

"And what is this, man?" cried Mr. Stewart on receiving the slip of paper.

"That is a receipt, sir, binding me to give ye back your gold at the right time," replied Donald.

"Binding ye indeed! Well, my man, if ye canna trust yourself I'm sure I'll na trust ye! Such as ye canna hae my gold." And gathering it up he returned it to his desk and locked it up.

"But, sir, I might die," replied the needy Scot, unwilling to surrender his hope of the loan, "and perhaps my sons might refuse it ye, but the bit of paper would compel them."

"Compel them to sustain their dead father's honor!" cried the enraged Celt. "They'll need compelling to do right if this is the road ye're leading them. Ye can gang elsewhere for money, I tell ye, but ye'll find nane about here that'll put more faith in a bit of paper than a neighbor's word of honor and his love of right."

OLD SCARLETT'S BURIAL PLACE.

In Peterborough Cathedral, of Which He Had Been Sexton Many Years.

If the visitor to Peterborough cathedral enters the building through the famous west entrance, which has so often, and with good reason, been called the most magnificent portico, not only in England, but in all Europe, and turns abruptly to the left, before proceeding down the nave, he will see upon the wall before him a striking portrait and quaint inscription which mark the burial place of old Scarlett, under the floor of the cathedral, just beneath.

The tombstone, set in the floor, explains, as the inscription on the wall says that it will, that he died in 1594, aged 98 years. His office, that of sexton of the cathedral and the town, is indicated by the keys which he carries and by the spade, pickax and skull beside him. A close examination of the picture shows a leathern whip hanging from his belt, and it seems that the reason for this was that one of the duties of his office was to look after truant and naughty children. It is in connection with this that he is described as having a "scarebabe mighty voice," and it is interesting to note that this is the only record of the use of the word "scarebabe" known in the English language.

The statement that "he has interred this town's householders in his life's space twice over" does not mean that he resurrected and reinterred them, but merely that his own length of life, 98 years, was so great that he buried two generations of his neighbors. All this might have been true of old Scarlett, though, and he have been forgotten long ago, were it not for the fact referred to in the line "He had interred two queens within this space." These were Katherine of Aragon, buried here in 1536, and Mary, queen of Scots, in 1587. It was a strange chance which sent for burial to this same church the bodies of those two unhappy, foreign born queens, perhaps the most pathetic figures in all English history.

Queen Mary's mutilated body was brought here as the nearest suitable church to Fotheringay castle, where she was beheaded, only a few miles distant. Her body lay here for about 25 years, until her son, then become James I of England, had it removed to Westminster Abbey. There still hangs, framed and glazed, upon a pillar near the vault where she was buried, the letter which King James sent to the dean of Peterborough, asking for the removal of the body.

The burial place of Queen Katherine is unmarked except for a small brass plate in the floor bearing her name. When King Henry VIII was asked why he did not build her a suitable monument, he is said to have replied that he left her the grandest monument which ever woman had, meaning the cathedral, which, in his war against the Catholic churches, he spared because she was buried there.—New York Times.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Minister Thought There Was a Good Deal Before He Finished the Job.

Just after the battle of Perryville, in October, 1862, Dr. Savage, a strong Union man, was at one of his appointments to baptize some children. There was a large crowd, and a southern matron brought her four children to the altar.

"Name this child," said the Union preacher, laying his hand on the child's head.

"Simon Bolivar Buckner," was the reply, which caused a smile to come over the congregation, but the brave preacher went on with his duty.

"Name this child," taking the next in order.

"Pierre Gustav Toutant Beauregard," and the smile grew into a snicker, while Dr. Savage became red in the face. He baptized the young namesake of the engineer soldier and went on with the ceremony.

"Name this child," he gasped, reaching for the third.

"Albert Sidney Johnson," came the answer.

The smile became audible. Heaving a sigh of relief, he took the fourth, a girl, whose gender he fondly supposed would preclude a continuation of heroic reproductions, and said:

"Name this child."

"Mary Stonewall Jackson Lee," came the response that set the congregation into a roar, while the Union parson thought he had held in his arms the whole Southern Confederacy.—Troy Times.

British Columbia Lakes.

Little Shuswap lake is stated to have a flat bottom, with a depth varying from 58 to 74 feet, measured from the mean high water mark. The deepest water found in the Great Shuswap was 555 feet, about six miles northward from Cinnemousun narrows in Seymour Arm, though the whole lake is notably deep. Adams lake, however, exceeds either of the Shuswaps, as its average depth for 20 miles is upward of 1,100 feet, and at one point a depth of 1,900 feet was recorded. In the northwest corner of this lake, at a depth of 1,118 feet, the purpose of the scientific explorers was defeated by the presence of mysterious submarine currents, which played with the sounding line like some giant fish and prevented any measurements being taken.

It is a complete mystery how the currents could have been created at this depth, and scientific curiosity will no doubt impel either public or private enterprise to send a second expedition to the scene this summer to endeavor to solve the riddle. As the height of the surface of this lake is 1,380 feet above the sea level, its present bed is therefore only 190 feet above the sea, although distant 200 miles from the nearest part of the ocean. Dr. Dawson and his associates believe that the beds of some of the mountain lakes in the region are many feet lower than the sea level.—Vancouver World.

To Keep Bread Fresh.

In Swiss and German farmhouses, where the baking takes place once a fortnight or certainly at fairly long intervals, such a thing as unpleasantly stale bread is almost unknown. It is put away in a peculiar manner, which tends to preserve its freshness. Sprinkle flour freely into an empty flour sack, and into this pack the loaves, being careful to have the top crusts of two loaves touching. Where they have to lie bottom to bottom sprinkle flour between them. Tie up the sack and hang it up in an airy place, not against a wall, but so that it can swing. The day before the loaf is wanted take it out, brush off the flour and stand it in the cellar overnight. In this way bread remains edible for three or four weeks.

His Apology.

"You ought to have apologized to the lady for stepping on her foot," said his mother, after the caller had gone.

"I did," answered Willie. "I told her I was sorry she couldn't keep her feet out of my way."—London Tit-Bits.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S, Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name,

Take Our Number,

Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)

94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., opp. North ave

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material and fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,

88 FIFTH AVE.,

near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 [illegible] 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 [illegible] 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 50 a m; 12 06, 1 18, [illegible] 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 46, 8 30, 9 23, [illegible] 7, 11 28, p m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 04, 8 [illegible] 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, [illegible] 1, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot [illegible]berty St., at 4 20, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, [illegible] 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, [illegible] 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, [illegible] except Saturdays] 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, [illegible] 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, [illegible] 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; [illegible] 2 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 5 00, 5 30; 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; [illegible] 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 3[illegible] 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a [illegible]; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, [illegible] 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 [illegible] 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, [illegible] 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, [illegible] 7 05, 8 30, 9 08, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 15, 1 35, 2 [illegible] (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, [illegible] 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p. m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 05, 5 40, [illegible] 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, [illegible] 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, [illegible] 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 2[illegible] p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; [illegible] 33, 3 43, 5 14, [illegible] 10 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, [illegible] 00, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 8 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. [illegible] 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 4 50, 6 35, 8 07, 8 45. [illegible] 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, [illegible] 30, 5 10, 6 43, 8 03, 9 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 [illegible] 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. [illegible] Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, [illegible] 3, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 49, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 [illegible] 10 52 a m; 6 40, 10 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE OPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 5[illegible] a. m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 14 p m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For stations on High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, [illegible] 10 27, a m., 12 18, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sundays (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, [illegible] 7 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, [illegible] 0, 8 15, 10 27, a. m., 12 18, 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m. Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m. [illegible] 48 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 2[illegible] a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 17, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p. m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 14*, 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, [illegible] m. 12 46, 2 17, 4*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, 5 14*, 6 35*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a. m., 5 34*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m.; 5 14*, 6 45 p. m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* a. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 5 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLDHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced management.

Cesspools Built.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.

Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,
Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE

Lawn Seeds. Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.

Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware

A. M. GRIFFEN,
119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.

Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale
AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.
Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,
High-Class
PORTRAITS
In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.
483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Res, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,
COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Supreme Court Commissioner.
First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's
LAW OFFICES,
Corner Park ave and 2d st.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery.
Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE
Even though you have
A Comfortable Bed,
You should
Lay in Your Coal
for the Winter.
George O. Stevens
747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,
Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.
128 NORTH AVENUE.

Fresh roasted peanuts every day, 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
COAL AND WOOD.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue.
Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.
MRS. L. ADAMS,
114 EAST FRONT STREET,
Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,
Fresh, and from
Pure Materials.
TIER'S,
116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

The doctors

approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved blood. Consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00
SCOTT & BOWNE, New York

Please the Eye

with harmonious designs in wall paper and paints and see that the artisans who put the paper on the wall and the paint on the door and baseboards are thoroughly competent. It is our aim to satisfy you in both respects and we request an opportunity to convince you of our ability.
Paints, oils, varnishes, etc.

E. E. MARSHALL,
167 North avenue.

New! New!

YES

But Stop, Consider

what a combination of valuable medicines,

Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,
BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.

Try a bottle and be convinced.

50C.
Leggett's Pharmacy.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

PIANOS.
You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at
J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY
BANJO
Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W RANDOLPH'S,
Prescription Druggist.
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyright 1895, Irving Bacheller.)

PART I.

"It looks as if it might rain this afternoon," remarked the lieutenant of artillery.

"So it does," the infantry captain assented. He glanced casually at the sky. When his eyes had lowered to the green-shadowed landscape before him, he said fretfully: "I wish those fellows out yonder would quit pelting at us. They've been at it since noon."

At the edge of a grove of maples, across wide fields, there occasionally appeared little puffs of smoke of a dull hue in this gloom of sky which expressed an impending rain. The long wave of blue and steel in the field moved uneasily at the eternal barking of the faraway sharpshooters, and the men, leaning upon their rifles, stared at the grove of maples. Once a private turned to borrow some tobacco from a comrade in the rear rank, but, with his hand still stretched out, he continued to twist his head and glance at the distant trees. He was afraid the enemy would shoot him at a time when he was not looking.

Suddenly the artillery officer said: "See what's coming!"

Along the rear of the brigade of infantry a column of cavalry was sweeping at a hard gallop. A lieutenant riding some yards to the right of the column bawled furiously at the four troopers just at the rear of the colors. They had lost distance and made a little gap, but at the shouts of the lieutenant, they urged their horses forward. The bugler, careering along behind the captain of the troop, fought and tugged like a wrestler to keep his frantic animal from bolting far ahead of the column.

SHARPSHOOTER.

On the springy turf the innumerable hoofs thundered in a swift storm of sound. In the brown faces of the troopers, their eyes were set like bits of flashing steel.

The long line of the infantry regiments standing at ease underwent a sudden movement at the rush of the passing squadron. The foot soldiers turned their heads to gaze at the torrent of horses and men.

The yellow folds of the flag fluttered back in silken shuddering waves, as if it were a reluctant thing. Occasionally a giant spring of a charger would rear the firm and steady figure of a soldier suddenly head and shoulders above his comrades. Over the noise of the scudding hoofs could be heard the creaking of leather trappings, the jingle and clank of steel and the tense low-toned commands or appeals of the men to their horses. And the horses were mad with the head-long sweep of this movement. Powerful underjaws bended back and straightened so that the bits were clamped as rigidly as vises upon the teeth, and glistening necks arched in desperate resistance to the hands at the bridles. Swinging their heads in rage at the granite laws of their lives which bended even their angers and their ardors to chosen directions and chosen faces, their flight was as a flight of harnessed demons.

The captain's bay kept its pace at the head of the squadron with the lithe bounds of a thoroughbred, and this horse was proud as a chief at the roaring trample of his fellows behind him. The captain's glance was calmly upon the grove of maples from whence the sharpshooters of the enemy had been picking at the blue line. He seemed to be reflecting. He stolidly rose and fell with the plunges of his horse in all the indifference of a deacon's figure seated plumply in church. And it occurred to many of the watching infantry to wonder why this officer could remain imperturable and reflective when his squadron was thundering and swarming behind him like the rushing of a flood.

LIKE A FLIGHT OF HARNESSED DEMONS.

The column swung in a sabre-curve toward a break in a fence and dashed into a roadway. Once a little plank bridge was encountered, and the sound of the hoofs upon it was like the long roll of many drums. An old captain in the infantry turned to his first lieutenant and made a remark which was a compound of bitter disparagement of cavalry in general and soldierly admiration of this particular troop.

Suddenly the bugle sounded and the column halted with a jolting upheaval and sharp, brief cries. A moment later the men had tumbled from their carbines in hand were running towards the grove of maples. In the road, one of every four of the troopers was standing with braced legs and pulling and hauling at the bridles of four frenzied horses.

The captain was running awkwardly in his boots. He held his sabre low so that the point often threatened to catch in the turf. His yellow hair ruffled out from under his faded cap. "Go in hard now," he roared in a voice of hoarse fury. His face was violently red.

The troopers threw themselves upon the grove like wolves upon a great animal. Along the whole front of wood there was the dry crackling of musketry, with bitter, swift flashes and smoke that writhed like stung phantoms. The troopers yelled shrilly and spanged bullets low into the foliage.

For a moment, when near the woods, the line almost halted. The men struggled and fought for a time like swimmers encountering a powerful current. Then with a supreme effort they went on again. They dashed madly at the grove, whose foliage from the high light of the field was as inscrutable as a wall.

Then suddenly each detail of the calm trees became apparent and with a few more frantic leaps the men were in the cool gloom of the woods. There was a heavy odor as from burnt paper. Wisps of grey smoke wound upward. The men halted and, grimey, perspiring and puffing, they searched the recesses of the woods with eager, fierce glances. Figures could be seen flitting afar off. A dozen carbines rattled at them in an angry volley.

During this pause, the captain strode along the line, his face lit with a broad smile of contentment. "When he sends this crowd to do anything, I guess he'll find we do it pretty sharp," he said to the grinning lieutenant.

"Say, they didn't stand that rush a minute, did they," said the subaltern. Both officers were profoundly dusty in their uniforms, and their faces were soiled like those of two urchins.

Out in the grass behind them were three tumbled and silent forms.

Presently the line moved forward again. The men went from tree to tree like hunters stalking game. Some at the left of the line fired occasionally and those at the right gazed curiously in that direction. The men still breathed heavily from their scramble across the field.

Of a sudden a trooper halted and said: "Hello! there's a house!" Everyone paused. The men turned to look at their leader.

The captain stretched his neck and swung his head from side to side. "By George, it is a house!" he said.

Through the wealth of leaves there vaguely loomed the form of a large, white house. These troopers, brown-faced from many days of campaigning, each feature of them telling of their placid confidence and courage, were stopped abruptly by the appearance of this house. There was some subtle suggestion—some tale of an unknown thing which watched them from they knew not what part of it.

A rail fence girted a wide lawn of tangled grass. Seven pines stood along a driveway which led from two distant posts of a vanished gate. The blue-clothed troopers moved forward until they stood at the fence peering over it.

The captain put one hand on the top rail and seemed to be about to climb the fence when suddenly he hesitated and said in a low voice: "Watson, what do you think of it?"

The lieutenant stared at the house. "Derned if I know!" he replied.

The captain pondered. It happened that the whole company had turned a gaze of profound awe and doubt upon this edifice which confronted them. The men were very silent.

At last the captain swore and said: "We are certainly a pack of fools. Derned old deserted house halting a company of Union cavalry and making us gape like babies."

"Yes, but there's something—something—" insisted the subaltern in a half stammer.

"Well, if there's 'something—something' in there, I'll get it out," said the captain. "Send Sharpe clean around to the other side with about twelve men, so we will sure bag your 'something—something' and I'll take a few of the boys and find out what's in the damned old thing."

He chose the nearest eight men for his "storming party," as the lieutenant called it. After he had waited some minutes for the others to get into position, he said "come ahead" to his eight men and climbed the fence.

The brighter light of the tangled lawn made him suddenly feel tremendously apparent and he wondered if there could be some mystic thing in the house which was regarding this approach. His men trudged silently at his back. They stared at the windows and lost themselves in deep speculations as to the probability of there being, perhaps, eyes behind the blinds—malignant eyes, piercing eyes.

Suddenly, a corporal in the party gave vent to a startled exclamation, and half threw his carbine into position. The captain turned quickly and the corporal said: "I saw an arm move the blinds. An arm with a grey sleeve!"

"Don't be a fool, Jones, now," said the captain sharply.

"I swear t'"—began the corporal, but the captain silenced him.

When they arrived at the front of the house, the troopers paused, while the captain went softly up the front steps. He stood before the large front door and studied it. Some crickets chirped in the long grass and the nearest pine could be heard in its endless sighs. One of the privates moved uneasily and his foot crunched the gravel. Suddenly the captain swore angrily and kicked the door with a loud crash. It flew open.

(To be Continued.)

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.
Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be" competitors.

At 12c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, in different shade effects; were 63c a yard.

At 15c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 59c a yd.

At 15c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.

At 17½c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty, must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.

At 19c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 50c a yd.

At 19c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.

At 19c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with change-able effects; were 59c a yd.

At 19c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?

Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.

At 19c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.

At 19c—An immense line of plain silks at entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's
113 WEST FRONT ST.

JUST A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 150 suits, 17 different styles, in checks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,
206 West Front st.

Back Number GARMENTS

ARE FULL OF POSSIBILITIES.

Let us see if we can't discover a way of cleaning or dyeing them and helping you to economize.

We do this work perfectly—we turn the old spiritless faded looking clothing into bright lifelike effects—into the goodness of newness—maybe cleaning will do it—maybe dyeing. Shall we send for the goods? A postal will bring us, or our laundry drivers will take the work.

HILLIER & CO.,
179 North Avenue,

WARRIORS ON HORSES TO COME.

Not Right Away But as Soon as Plans Can be Consummated.

Though there were some errors in the exclusive report published in The Daily Press last night of the project of the Government officials to establish a cavalry post in New Jersey, and that this vicinity was looked upon with favor as the most probable selection, the article was essentially correct. The company of cavalry will not be moved from Governor's Island, but will be brought from Fort Myer, Va., opposite the city of Washington. At present this is the nearest cavalry company to the big eastern cities, and it is the intention of the war officials to move them nearer, where better railroad facilities can be secured for quick transportation in case of emergencies. But before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to secure an appropriation from Congress for the purpose of defraying the expense and this will take some time. It is a fact, though, that New Jersey will eventually become the home of a big military post and Plainfield the probable location.

BOTH KNEW THE VALUE OF TIME.

So They Helped Themselves to Watches and Other Property.

Two houses were broken into last evening, one at each end of the town. Someone entered the home of George W. Kennedy, of West Third street, and left as silently as he came, accompanied by fifteen chickens and a gold watch. The silverware was left untouched.

The other robbery occurred at the home of Mrs. Scherenbeck, of Terrill road. The thief helped himself to the eatables in the pantry, selected a bundle of clothes and appropriated a watch and chain. He also left for parts unknown. The police have been notified and are working on both cases although there is little clue to the thieves.

CRESCENTS CHANGE BY-LAWS.

Dues Increased And Members Divided Into Two Classes.

The Crescent Wheelmen met last evening and adopted a new set of by-laws. By them the dues are raised to a dollar a month and the members divided into two classes, active and associate. The active pay $5 initiation fee, are members of the L. A. W. and have full privileges. The associate members pay $3 initiation fee and have all the privileges except of office holding and voting. One member resigned. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one.

Progressive Women.

The Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarians and Other Liberal Christian Women announces for the coming year a course of study as follows: November 12th, Lydia Maria Child; December 10th, Margaret Fuller and Sister Dora; January 14th, Lucretia Mott; February 11th, Helen Hunt Jackson; March 10th, Frances Power Cobbs; April 14th, Dorothea Dix. As in previous years an opportunity will be given after each paper for general informal discussion, and it is anticipated that much pleasure and benefit will be derived from the course. Meetings will be held on the second Tuesday afternoon of each month at three o'clock, and visitors are always welcome.

Suing on Mechanics Lien.

The case of Zimmerman against the Babcock estate on a mechanics lien for $480 for materials furnished and shipped to John Chandler as contractor, was tried before Judge Van-Syckel yesterday afternoon. The matter in dispute being a matter of law, the case was tried without a jury. James P. Powers represented the plaintiff and Craig A. Marsh the defendant. The Judge will render a decision in a few days.

No Cold Air.

A closed draft in a cold air box caused a little fire at the residence of Dean Ryder, of East Front street, this afternoon about one o'clock. An alarm was sent in from box 16. The fire was easily put out with an extinguisher when the fire department arrived. The damage was slight.

Made Up in Court.

Another husband and wife had their little difficulties settled by Judge Coddington in the city court this morning. Patsy Lyons was the husband, and his wife said that he did not support her, but on promising to do so he was released.

The Speed of a Bicycle.

Whenever the rider revolves his pedals once in a second, he is riding faster than eight miles an hour. If his bicycle is geared at 60, one revolution a second will carry him 10¾ miles an hour; if at 63, his speed is a half mile faster, at 68 it is 12¾ miles, at 72 it is almost 13 miles and at 76 it is a little more than 13½. One revolution a second is, therefore, faster than the rider of a 60 gear can legally travel.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

We are more jealous of frivolous accomplishments with brilliant success than of the most estimable qualities without. [illegible] envied Garrick, whom he despised, [illegible] with whom he loved.

ABOUT SLEEPLESSNESS.

WHAT IT IS A SIGN OF

One of the Most Common Symptoms of Kidney Disease, Sometimes of Brain Trouble.

How It Can Be Cured Without Dangerous Drugs and Opiates.

Sleeplessness is more common than it should be.

It is a sign of dangerous sickness, which may turn out badly.

Sleeplessness means either one or both of two things: First, kidney trouble; second, brain trouble.

But if there is brain trouble, it is probably a complication of the kidney trouble.

Bright's disease, the most dangerous kidney trouble there is, is generally accompanied by sleeplessness.

Nine times out of ten the sufferer from Bright's disease doesn't find out that he has it until it is almost too late to be cured.

The symptoms are so like unimportant sicknessess that you don't think you need a doctor, and so things go on until the doctor can't help you.

Even then Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills would probably be able to cure you.

But that is another matter.

To return to sleeplessness.

No one can do without sleep for more than a few days.

Sleeplessness is a drain on your brain and your vitality. It must be stopped or something will give way.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure sleeplessness.

They do it by curing the kidneys, by taking away the cause of the whole trouble, by purifying the blood.

Asparagus has a special effect on the kidneys, as every one who has eaten it knows.

This effect is strengthened and made more powerful in Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

It is your kidneys which cause your sleeplessness, Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure it by toning them up and giving them fresh life and strength.

If it is your brain, by cleansing and renewing the blood, through the improved action of the kidneys, Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure the brain by giving it fresh nourishment and new life.

To be healthy and to do your best work, you must have enough sleep.

When you are losing it, a few doses of Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure you and bring rest to your tired body and mind.

Besides sleeplessness, the symptoms of kidney trouble are headache, nervousness, shortness of breath, evil forebodings, loss of flesh, swelling of the feet and ankles, pain in the back.

All these symptoms are caused by sick kidneys. All of them can be cured by Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

When no other drugs or medicine will give you relief Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will. The preparation of Asparagus from which they are made (and which is made by a special process for these pills) has never been known to fail.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills are for sale at all druggists for 50 cents a box, or will be sent postpaid to any address on receipt of price.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

Please write for free pamphlet containing full particulars about the kidney's, Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

HIGHEST QUALITY OF ALL.

Columbia Bicycles

THE STANDARD FOR ALL.....

HAVE you feasted your eyes upon the beauty and grace of the 1895 Columbias? Have you tested and compared them with all others? Only by such testing can you know how fully the Columbia justifies its proud title of the Standard for the World. And the price is but

$100

POPE MFG. CO. Hartford, Conn.
BRANCHES: BOSTON NEW YORK CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO PROVIDENCE BUFFALO

An Art Catalogue of these famous wheels and of Hartfords, $85 $60, free at any Columbia Agency, or mailed for two 2-cent stamps.

The Eldridge Cycle Co.,

Park ave. and 4th st.

Easy payments
Repairs.
Rentals.

YOU DO NOT KNOW WHICH IS THE BEST PIANO Unless you have tried the

Mason & Hamlin

With their patent SCREW STRINGER which has proved such a success that it is pronounced "THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT IN PIANOS IN HALF A CENTURY."

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE BY MAIL FREE.

Terms of payment to suit reasonable requirements.

136 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

STARTING TO SCHOOL.

It Is a Grand and Pompous Ceremony In the Land of the Sultan.

It is remarkable that the more secluded the domestic life of a people is the greater is the publicity given to all ceremonies connected with the family events. This is particularly noticeable in Turkey, where all the neighborhood is called upon to witness the observances, both religious and secular, with which such incidents of family life as birth, marriage and death are attended.

At some of the mosque schools each child receives two full suits of clothes every year, one for summer and one for winter. In the secondary schools, which are under the government, the pupils are not only lodged, fed and taught, but receive also a pension in money.

With these tempting prospects before him little Achmet or Selim, when his fond parents have decided that he is old enough to begin his education, is not, like many of our own urchins, seen "creeping like a snail unwillingly to school."

Dressed in his holiday suit, and bedecked with all the jewels and personal adornments which his parents possess or are able to borrow for the occasion, on his head a velvet fez almost covered with strings of sequins, gold pendants and pearl tassels, he is mounted on a superbly caparisoned horse and led in pompous procession through the streets in the neighborhood of the school.

Before him his future instructors walk backward, slowly and gravely, as if to prolong the ceremony. Behind him, on a cushion, is carried the Koran—to know which holy book by heart entitles the youth or maiden to the honorable title of hafiz—the little folding bookstand, incrusted with mother of pearl, for holding the sacred volume, and his chanta, or writing case, embroidered with stars and crescents in gold thread.

All his future school fellows follow, two by two, chanting verses, attributed to the prophet, inciting to the love of learning, to brotherly kindness, industry and tolerance and concluding with good wishes for their new companion, praises to his parents and teachers and finally glorification of the sultan.

The masters beat time with a long wand, with which they also give the signal at the end of each verse for the solemn refrain of "Amin" from the chorus, in which the spectators join.

On returning to the parental roof a distribution of small coin is made to all the beggars and other poor people collected round the gateway, for in the east the poor always come in for their share of the rejoicings of their brethren more favored by fortune.—New York Dispatch.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given that the account of the subscriber, administrator of Patrick H. Day, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the thirtieth day of October next.
Dated August 28, 1895.
8 29 10-caw JAMES J. DAY.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

This new institution opened with a score of students, October 1st, in the Babcock building. The prospect brightens every day. The enterprise is an assured success. A grand opportunity is now offered to the young men and women of Plainfield and its neighboring towns. Beautiful rooms. Excellent systems. Good teachers. Four courses of study. Students enter at any time. Address, Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Nov. 14, including Asheville, Chattanooga, Luray, etc. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MUNYON'S

Method of Treatment Save Doctors' Fees.

A Separate Specific For Each Disease—Positive and Permanent Cures—With Munyon's Home Remedies You Can Become Your Own Physician—Read Munyon's Guide to Health—It Will Cost You Nothing and May Save Your Life.

Professor Munyon does not claim that he has one remedy that will cure all complaints, but that he has prepared a specific cure for nearly every disease. He does not claim that his Rheumatism Cure will cure consumption, dyspepsia or any other complaint, but he does guarantee that it will cure rheumatism. His Dyspepsia Cure is prepared expressly to cure dyspepsia; his Cough Cure to cure cough; his Catarrh Remedies to cure catarrh; his Kidney Cure to cure kidney troubles. The same may be said of all his different remedies.

Why Not Try the New Methods?

Why pay big doctor bills to have your constitution ruined by old-fashioned doses of mercury, quinine and and morphine? Why not try the new way? Munyon's Remedies are prepared in a manner that enables everyone to obtain them from any druggist at 25 cents a bottle. A separate specific for each disease. Absolutely harmless and promptly effectual in curing even the most obstinate diseases.

Personal letters to Prof Munyon, 1505 Arch st., Philadelphia, Pa., answered with free medical advice for any disease.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.
S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y.
917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full value. C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

Harry M. Jaquett,

123 EAST FRONT STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

The Clothier,

HATTER AND FURNISHER,

Cordially invites you to visit his store and inspect his

Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing,

for the Fall and Winter Season, complete in all its branches. Special attention given to Children's Clothing, Hats and Caps.

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods

Complete assortment in Neckwear, Underwear, Hosiery, etc., just received. New invoice of over 50 dozen suspenders.

In hats—John B. Stetson's celebrated make in Derby soft hats in latest styles. Also other makes and shapes. Complete assortment in Children's Hats and Caps.

One Price CASH. One Price

and money refunded if goods are not satisfactory.

WHY SUFFER FROM LACK OF LIGHT, Get Vexed Every Day with Poor Lamps?

BUY "THE MILLER" LAMPS which give plenty of light (made in four sizes,) are as easy to light as gas, easy to wick, wick does not have to be "trimmed," chimneys are not "smoked" or broken by the flame, perfectly simple and safe. The NEW IDEAS (our patents) used exclusively in "The Miller" make it the best and so the cheapest lamp made. If by accident any part is broken it can be replaced, so there is practically no wear out to a "Miller" Lamp. We make more than a thousand varieties—all styles—in BEAUTIFUL and staple designs suited to Light House, Club, Store, Factory, Church, &c., &c. If your dealer will not supply genuine "Miller" Lamps come to our store. FOR GIFTS nothing more beautiful or useful than a "Miller" Lamp, or an elegant Onyx and Brass Table.

Established as MANUFACTURERS in 1844.

EDWARD MILLER & CO., 28 & 30 WEST BROADWAY, (66 Park Pl.) bet. Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.
Convenient to all "down-town" Ferries, and Elevated Stations at Park Pl. & Barclay St., N. Y.
For Cool Weather [illegible] "MILLER" OIL HEATER.

FOR SALE BY W. L. GAVETT & CO.

Save This Card, It Is Valuable.

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT.

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of

FINE STATIONERY,

consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,
Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

Thursday, Oct. 10.

Engagement Extraordinary.

Jos. Callahan,

with a first-class company of players. Great, grand, gigantic, in the electrical spectacular production,

FAUST.

New scenery (a carload) and appropriate costumes, startling electrical effects.

Hear two quartettes composed of male and female soloists, and the Florentine Choir Singers.

The Brocken, a triumph of stage mechanism. A scene of weird grandeur never equalled.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale at Legget's drug store.

One week, commencing

Monday, Oct. 14th.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

—THE—

Lizzie Evans

Comedy Company

—IN—

Repertoire.

at popular prices. Uniformed brass band and superb orchestra.

Monday Night—American Born.

Prices—10, 20 and 30 Cents.

TALK OF THE TOWN!

AND EXPLANATION WHY

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED,

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

are doing all the business. Our stock is the largest, prices are the lowest and terms the easiest in the city. Just give it a passing thought that you can get an antique oak bedroom suit, 8 pieces, for $15, $20, $25 and $30, including a woven wire bed spring and a mixed mattress. No house in the city offers such inducements.

And then to think again that you can get tapestry Brussels carpet for 50, 60, and 70 cents a yard, made and laid with paper, which is a saving of 15c per yard. Where is there a house in the city that will offer such bargains?

And then imagine and wonder how we can afford to give away a moquette rug or parlor table with a parlor suit for $20, $30, $40 or $50.

Some of our competitors say that our ads are too much alike and that this ad. is old. Well, we will admit it, but as long as it does the business and saves the people money we will continue to run it.

PORTLAND RANGE

Well, there is no use saying anything about them. The eating of the pudding is always the proof of it. 75 of them sold last week.

STORING FURNITURE

If it was the first of May our storage business could not be any better. We suppose it is on account of our low rates and cleanliness. Storage building 88, 90 and 92 Bank st. Furniture moved with vans. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSS.

MEMBERS TALK OVER THE NEW PLUMBERS' ORDINANCE.

Several Sections Are Thought to Be Severe and An Effort Will Be Made to Have Them Amended—Committees Appointed.

A goodly number of the Board of Trade members, together with several citizens, met in their rooms in the Babcock building last evening for the purpose of discussing the plumbers' ordinance which had been prepared by the Board of Health, and it is their intention to pass it.

E. R. Pope was made Chairman and F. J. Hubbard Secretary.

Among those present were ex-Judge W. R. Codington, ex-Councilman F. E. Marsh, J. Fred MacDonald, J. B. Coward, Fred Bird, D. W. Littell, J. E. Martine and J. D. Titsworth.

The ordinance was read over by sections and the ones causing the most discussion were the first three, regarding the plumbers, the character of their work and how it should be done.

Perhaps the most serious objection was that an inspector should not be appointed in connection therewith, as it was thought that a man's integrity and honesty should be sufficient. The body as a whole did not believe it should be omitted. It is certain that the plumbers of the city should be protected, and it was thought that outside plumbers coming here to do work should file a bond, or else there would be nothing to hold them.

The section which provides that no cesspool shall be built between Plainfield avenue and Richmond street, Green brook and Seventh street, was sustained. There were several other minor changes made.

A question agitating the plumbers and those interested is who is to be responsible for defective pipes and stoppages that may occur in the sewer pipes running from the main to the curb. No one seemed able to answer it.

Mr. Martine said that the first three sections should be abolished, so far as the employing of an inspector is concerned. He thought that the plumbers should be thoroughly reliable and licensed and that they should be held responsible to the Board of Health.

Under the building ordinance it is intended to have an inspector and if another is employed it will only add an unnecessary tax on the people. Then, besides, other troubles might arise. A plumber should be willing to give an adequate bond for the faithful performance of his work.

It is said by those in a position to know that some of this pipe is going to cause trouble, and of course the pipes from the curb to the house will be laid by the plumbers, it's a question whether they will be held responsible. After a thorough discussion a motion prevailed that a committee of three be appointed to meet the Board of Health, ascertain whether they have passed the ordinance and if they will receive suggestions to amend it, and report at the next meeting of the Board of Trade which will be subject to the call of the chair.

Chairman Pope appointed A. J. Gavett, W. R. Codington and J. B. Coward, as the committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

Scholars Entertained.

Mr. Travell entertained his Sunday-school class in Hope chapel last evening. About fifty members and their friends were present and enjoyed themselves in singing and music, and games were also indulged in until 10 o'clock. Ice-cream and cake were then served and the happy party left for their homes.

Adjourned Until Monday.

The case of McNabb vs. Wright, on contract, which was to come up before Judge VanSyckel in the Union County Court at Elizabeth Wednesday, has been set down for Monday. George W. DeMeza will represent McNabb, and Winfield Angleman will act as counsel for the defendant.

Candy At a Discount.

Allen, the Grandview avenue candy man, was driving along East Front street yesterday morning when the back door to his compartment wagon flew open and the sweet contents began to scatter. The escape was discovered, however, and the goodies locked up again.

A Bad Record.

No definite trace has yet been obtained of Raphael Fontozxi, who killed Selaro at Westfield, on Sunday. Fontozzi has a bad record, having served three terms of imprisonment in Italy.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

A MILLION FOR MISSIONS.

THE SYNODICAL SOCIETY HAVE CONTRIBUTED THAT IN 18 YEARS.

Over Thirty Thousand Dollars Sent to Foreign Fields During the Past Year—Missionary Pierson Speaks—New Officers.

At 1:30 yesterday afternoon in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church the eighteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Synodical Society of Foreign Missions in the Synod of New Jersey was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. P. Stevenson, of Roselle. After the usual devotional exercises and a prayer by Mrs. R. H. Young, of Matawan, the roll was called by the Recording Secretary, Mrs. Paul Babcock, of Montclair. The minutes of the last meeting were then read by the recording secretary. The report of the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Chalmers Martin, of Princeton, showed that during the past eighteen years over $1,000,000 had been raised by the New Jersey Society for foreign missions, and that during the past year over $30,000 had been collected.

Miss E. M. Colton, of Elizabeth, the treasurer, did not present her report owing to illness which detained her at home.

Mrs. C. N. Thrope, of Philadelphia, was then introduced and spoke words of greeting which she brought from the Philadelphia society. Her remarks were exceedingly interesting.

Rev. George Pierson, of Japan, followed with a very fine address on the work in Japan. He told the women in an interesting manner how the work of saving souls was progressing, of the discouragments that were met and how they were overcome. After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. George Pierson addressed the society telling of her work from an educational standpoint. She related many personal incidents in connection with her school life in Japan.

The nominating committee presented the list of officers selected for the next year, and they were elected as follows: President, Mrs. W. P. Stevenson, Roselle; Vice-Presidents, Monmouth Presbytery, Mrs. Joel Parker, Freehold, Mrs. R. H. Young, Matawan; Jersey City Presbytery, Mrs. S. R. Forman, Jersey City, Mrs. J. H. Owens, Paterson; New Brunswick Presbytery, Mrs. J. J. Davidson, New Brunswick, Miss Mary S. Gummere, Trenton; Newton Presbytery, Miss S. D. Thompson, Newton, Miss Isabel Stewart, Washington; West Jersey Presbytery, Mrs. S. E. Ware, Salem, Mrs. John Moore, Clayton; Elizabeth Presbytery, Mrs. Petrie, Plainfield, Mrs. H. C. Folger, Elizabeth; Newark Presbytery, Miss A. M. Carter, Newark, Mrs. William I. Rusling, Newark; Morris and Orange Presbytery, Mrs. Robert Aikman, Madison, Mrs. R. L. S. Paton, East Orange; Corresponding-Secretary, Mrs. Chalmers Martin, Princeton; Recording-Secretary, Mrs. Paul Babcock, Montclair; Treasurer, Miss E. M. Colton, Elizabeth.

The question "Is the Synodical Useful and Helpful?" which was laid over from last year for decision was brought up at this time, and a unanimous vote in the affirmative resulted.

A resolution, thanking the women of the Crescent Avenue church for their generous hospitality in the use of the church and the entertainment provided, was also unanimously adopted.

After singing a hymn, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Richards and the meeting was brought to a close.

The society decided to accept the invitation to meet in Paterson, October 12th, 1896.

Educational Department.

The opening of the Educational Department of the Y. M. C. A., will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on Monday, October 14th, at 8 p. m. The exercises will consist of an address by H. Coleman, President of the Coleman Business College, of Newark, and mandolin and guitar duets by Mrs. and Miss Thorne, also of the same place. A brief statement of the educational work of the Plainfield Association will be made by the chairman of this department, Stephen Cahoone. The men and women of Plainfield are cordially invited.

Death Among the Wires.

Plainfield would be quite a place for hunters if they could see all the game birds that pass through here. First there was a flock of quail and on Wednesday evening the woodcock took possession. Yesterday morning George Belcher, the hackman, found the body of a plump little woodcock laying on the ground near the freight house. It had flown by in the night and struck a wire in its flight which caused its death. Its wing was broken and its side badly cut.

PRAYERS BY THE SEA WAVES.

DOINGS OF THE STATE CONVENTION OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS.

Plainfield and Paterson Are Working Hard to Capture the Next Convention—Great Growth of the Organization.

The New York Herald this morning has the following concerning the State convention of the Christian Endeavor societies at Atlantic City:

Much enthusiasm and good natured rivalry is being exhibited by the representatives of Plainfield and Paterson over the securing of next year's convention. The Plainfield visitors are "rooting" for their town in the liveliest fashion. White yachting caps and yellow badges, the latter reading "Plainfield, '96," are worn by them, and they are in evidence everywhere.

Another innovation which will make this convention an exceptional one will be the sunrise prayer meeting, which will be held on the beach tomorrow morning. This feature has excited the curiosity of visitors, and it is expected that a large crowd will be up to witness the service, which will be led by Joseph H. Wright, of Trenton. This morning's session of the convention, which met at nine o'clock, was taken up by hearing the reports of the Junior State Superintendent, Rev. Arthur W. Spooner, of Camden, and the State Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Roberta R. Harris.

The report of the State Secretary, Miss Roberta R. Harris, was as follows:

"In October, 1887, just eight years ago, the first annual convention of the Y. P. S. C. E. was held in the Belleville Avenue Congregational church of Newark. Three hundred delegates were present, and the State Secretary reported ninety-one societies. Today we come to this, our ninth annual meeting, and report 1,002 societies as the number enrolled upon the State records, in spite of the fact that we have been obliged to take from our roll twenty-five societies which either disbanded or never existed, and six which have changed to denominational societies. This shows an average increase of over 114 societies per year for the eight years.

"It was our aim this year to be able to report 1,000 societies in New Jersey. More than two years ago our beloved friend and president, Mr. Pierson, set this mark before us. We have been growing steadily toward it since that time, and at last we are able to say that we have reached and passed that number. I am sure that we can truthfully say that there are many societies in the State of New Jersey, of whose existence we have never been informed. Of the 1,002 societies now enrolled, 681 are Young People's societies, and 321 Junior societies. Eight years ago the secretary reported that the ninety-one societies then enrolled had a membership of about 4,000. Today we report a membership of 49,096, divided among the societies as follows: For the 681 Young People's societies, an active membership of 7,566; the 321 Junior societies, a membership of 14,376.

"These 1,002 societies represent fifteen denominations. The number connected with each denomination is as follows: Adventist 1; African M. E. 25; Baptist 209; Christian 12; Congregational 35; Lutheran 13; Methodist Episcopal 50; Methodist Protestant 52; Moravian 5; Presbyterian 376; Protestant Episcopal 2; Dutch Reformed 142; Reformed Episcopal 1; Seventh Day Baptists 8; United Presbyterian 2; Union and Missions 70.

"The figures which now claim our attention and which are, it seems to me, more important than many others, relate to the number of other members who have joined the church. We regret to report a somewhat smaller number than was reported a year ago. Then it was 9,845. This year it is 3,161. Of these, 2,384 were members of young people's societies and 778 were juniors.

The fight between Plainfield and Paterson for the next convention, while devoid of all bitterness, is waxing hot. The delegates from the latter place have adopted a rallying cry, "Rah, Rah, Paterson, 1896." The 200 Plainfield delegates go them one better, and at every opportunity join voices in singing the song, "Plainfield, '96."

A Crack Wing Shot from Jersey.

Charles Smith, of Plainfield, N. J., is in the city as the guest of Judge George Kemp, of the Hoffman house. He is one of the best wing shots in his State, and incidentally takes part in the Independent Gun club's tourney, not for a prize, but to show, in a sportsman's way, that he knows how to use and handle a gun. Mr. Smith made a remarkably fine record as a marksman at the shoot yesterday afternoon.—Reading Times.

—Tomorrow only, Saturday, October 12th, gentlemen's fine unlaundried shirts, 33 cents each, at Van Emburgh & Son's.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

FOR THE DAILY PRESS MEDAL

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WILL HAVE GOOD GAMES ON SATURDAY.

The Medal Is a Silver One and Will Be Finely Engraved—Contest for the Class Championship—The Handicaps.

To the lover of athletics a treat will be given at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. The Plainfield High School Athletic Association will give its semi-annual field day. It will be open only to students in the High School and all the events will be handicapped. As is the usual custom of the association, the contest will be more especially for the all-round championship, and the class championship, than for the different events. Ribbon badges will be given for first and second in each event, while The Daily Press will give a solid silver medal for the all-round championship. It is a very handsome one, composed of a shield on a cross, surrounded by an olive wreath. This design will be hung from a silver bar and the entire medal will be finely engraved. It was purchased through J. Hervey Doane. A medal was offered last year and brought out a number of contestants, but was finally won by Edgar I. Serrell, '95. There are a number in the field this year after the championship. The class contest will be for a trophy to be given by a graduate of the school, and will lay between the classes of '96 and '99.

The entries are as follows:

100 YARDS DASH.

Donald Stuart, 8 yards; Stanley Peck, 5; Carmon Sutphen, 3; Lindley Hillman, 2; W. Morgan, 2; Arthur Lederer, 2; Walter Long, 2; H. L. Richardson, 1; G. P. Smith, scratch; Raymond Carroll, scratch; C. M. Dolliver, scratch.

ONE-THIRD MILE BICYCLE RACE.

Lindley Hillman, 25 yards; H. L. Richardson, 10; G. F. Coard, 5; Carroll Runyon, scratch.

220 YARDS DASH.

Lindley Hillman, 10 yards; Arthur Lederer 8; Carmon Sutphen, 8; W. Morgan, 5; F. W. Cornwell, 4; H. L. Richardson, 3; G. P. Smith, 3; C. M. Dolliver, 2; W. L. Serrell, scratch.

PUTTING THE SHOT.

H. L. Richardson, 2 feet; C. M. Dolliver, 2; Walter Serrell, 1; G. P. Smith, scratch.

ONE MILE BICYCLE RACE.

Lindley Hillman, 75 yards; H. L. Richardson, 50; G. F. Coard, 20; Carroll Runyon, scratch.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.

H. L. Richardson, 4 inches; A. W. Lederer, 4; G. P. Smith, 2; Walter Long, 2; F. W. Cornwell, 2; Raymond Carroll, scratch.

THREE-LEGGED RACE.

George Coard and Ernest Swayzee, scratch; F. W. Cornwell and H. L. Richardson, scratch; G. P. Smith and partner, scratch.

POLE VAULT.

Ernest Swayzee, 6 inches; F. W. Cornwell, 2; G. P. Smith, scratch.

440 YARDS RUN.

Lindley Hillman, 15 yards; Ernest Swayzee, 12; Arthur Lederer, 10; H. L. Richardson, 8; W. Morgan, 7; F. W. Cornwell, 5; Chas. Dolliver, 2; G. P. Smith, scratch; Raymond Carroll, scratch.

TWO-MILE BICYCLE RACE.

Ernest Swayzee, 175 yards; Lindley Hillman, 100; H. L. Richardson, 25; G. F. Coard, scratch; Carroll Runyon, scratch.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP.

E. S. Peck, 10 inches; W. Morgan, 6; H. L. Richardson, 6; F. W. Cornwell, 4; G. P. Smith, 3; C. M. Dolliver, 2; W. L. Serrell, scratch.

CLASS RELAY RACE.

Classes of '96 and '99.

Those Awful Italians.

Complaints are made frequently that Italians gather Sundays on the first mountains near Johnson's Drive and spend the day in shooting.

It is reported that last Sunday one Italian was seen in that vicinity with twenty-one robins which he had shot. As it is unlawful to shoot robins, these people should be looked after, and the incessant Sunday shooting should be stopped.

Danced All Night.

The dance of the clerks of Edsall's Commercial Palace, took place at Olympia Hall last evening, and about fifty were present of whom many were friends from Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Bound Brook, and Westfield. Supper was served at twelve o'clock and the affair broke up about half past two o'clock. The dance was greatly enjoyed by all.

Why The Press Gets Them.

A silver watch was advertised as lost in the Daily Press last night and this morning, bright and early, the finder called at The Press office to get the owner's address. That is the reason why The Press prints more cent-a word advs. than any paper printed in Plainfield.

Mr. Martine to Start Next Week.

James E. Martine will probably start the early part of next week on his tour of campaigning for Alexander T. McGill. Mr. Martine's schedule of dates have not yet been arranged, but his speaking will be done under the direction of the State committee.

—Tomorrow only, Saturday, October 12th, gentlemen's winter weight merino shirts and drawers, 29 cents each, at VanEmburgh & Son's.

"ME WANT NO LAWYER."

AN ITALIAN ARGUES HIS OWN CASE IN POLICE COURT.

But It Was An Argument that Contractor Honan Had to Interpret to the Court—Pays His Fine and Reforms.

The trial of the four Italians, who were arrested Sunday for general disorder, was set down for this morning at ten o'clock at the city court. Yesterday morning Walter L. Hetfield, representing the Italians, asked for a jury trial, but as Captain Grant did not return until almost evening a jury could not be summoned in time. Judge Coddington then postponed the trial until next Friday at ten o'clock and granted the request of Counsel Hetfield that his witnesses be paid for appearing today.

Then Michael Honan, one of the sewer contractors, said that two of the men, who were in his employ, wanted to come up at once as they had no lawyer. The Judge looked rather surprised and so did Lawyer Hetfield.

"I understood that you represented all of them," remarked Judge Coddington.

"So did I," answered the lawyer.

"Oh no!" shouted out 'Billie Williams,' one of the two Italians, "I ask no lawyer, I want no lawyer. I haven't done nothing, I not fight or be drunk, what I want a lawyer for?"

"I was asked to defend all four, but if they do not wish it, why all right," said Lawyer Hetfield, and left the two prisoners to their fate.

"Now tell me what happened," said the Judge to "Billie Williams."

The question brought out a storm of expostulations and exclamations which the Italians rattled off at a three-minute gait. It was half Italian and half English, so Michael Honan, who understood the drift of the eloquent address, explained it to the Court. The men had been to a christening and had been drinking a little, dancing and having a good time, as they understood it.

"Were you ever arrested before?" queried the Judge.

"No arrest in this place at all" gabbered the Italian. "Was once at Chester."

"How was that?" said the Judge.

"I was a little drunk like, you know," and Billie grinned.

The Judge gave them their choice between paying $3 apiece or going to jail for ten days. Honan gave them the money to pay the fine, and as "Billie" laid it down on the Judge's desk, he said, with a grin from ear to ear, "I tender it with much pleasure to you." The Judge smiled back and dismissed them.

"Me no more dance" confided the irrepressible Billie to Captain Grant.

"Much obliged to you, sir. Good bye!" he shouted as he followed his companion out of the courtroom.

WATCHUNG AVENUE EXTENSION.

Important Meeting of the Borough Council Tonight.

The most important meeting of the Borough Council held in some time will be the one this evening. Though a committee of the Council have gone over the proposed route of the Watchung avenue extension and made an approximate estimate of what damages should be paid to property owners, nothing of a definite nature has been done. At this meeting tonight, however, persons whose land will be used for the extension are expected to be present in order that terms can be made with them. If they are not present commissioners of appeal will be appointed to go ahead and appraise and condemn their property, and such action may be the cause of much trouble. It is urged, therefore, that to avoid complications every person who is interested in property along the line of extension should be present at the meeting.

Wanted a Jury Trial.

The four Italians who were arrested Sunday for causing a disturbance were to appear this morning in the city court for trial. Yesterday Counselor Hetfield applied for a jury, and so the case was adjourned one week as the necessary papers could not be secured in time.

—Tomorrow only, Saturday, October 12th, gentlemen's fine unlaundried shirts, 33 cents each, at Van Emburgh & Son's.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

CUPID'S FAIR DARTS STRIKE.

A HAPPY NUPTIAL EVENT ON EAST SECOND STREET.

Celebrated Last Evening, With Rev. D. J. Yerkes as the Officiating Clergyman—House Prettily Decorated—The Guests.

A charming wedding took place last evening at eight o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Thorn, on East Second street, when their daughter, Miss Noreta Thorn, became the wife of Herman Thompson of East Orange. The parlor was beautified with a profusion of choice autumn branches that were tastefully arranged.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church.

Ernest Perrine, a nephew of the bride, and Herman Thompson, Jr., son of the groom, attended the bridal party, and May Thompson, daughter of the groom, acted as flower girl.

The bride was becoming in a brown traveling gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

After the ceremony an excellent wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson received a large number of costly and useful presents. They left on the 9:23 train for New York and today they will start on a wedding tour to Boston and through the New England States.

Among the guests present were Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D., and wife, Mrs. J. H. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Thorn, Mrs. Solomon Dunn, Mrs. R. Larson and family, Miss Mary Thom, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Wm. Perrine and sons of East Orange; Miss Perrine, of Elizabeth; Mr. La Rue, of New Brunswick and several others.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside, on their return, in Newark.

THE NEW CHEMICAL ENGINE.

It's Like a Soda Water Fountain and Smothers the Fire.

The chemical engine, which is to be added to the present apparatus of the fire department, is built by the Hallowell Company. The regular hose of the department will not be used, but with the engine comes three hundred feet of hose, one inch in diameter. Two hundred feet of it is stored on a reel and the rest in a basket. Two streams can thus be used at one with a long line. When the new engine arrives it can be used altogether for the interior fires, putting them out easier and without the usual unnecessary flooding.

High School Notes.

The sketching class will go to Fourth street near Liberty street this afternoon.

The Junior literature class is the first class this year who have the privilege of writing essays which are due the week from Monday. The list of subjects are: "Affairs in Madagascar;" "Influence of Islam;" "Deeds and Character of Charlemange;" "England's Position at the End of the Nineteenth Century."

Board for Prisoners.

The Somerset Board of Freeholders on Tuesday fixed the price of board for prisoners in the county jail at thirty-five cents a day to take effect with the beginning of the next sheriff's term of office. A small brick building is to be erected for the use of tramps. The County Collector was authorized to borrow $10,000.

More Boys' Races.

The great success of the boys' race meet last Saturday has induced the Jr. Y. M. C. A. boys to have one, too. It will be held on the Crescent Oval on Saturday, October 19th. The boys will meet tomorrow morning to make the arrangements.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

Preparing For Him.

The Independent Fife and Drum Corps met Tuesday evening and elected G. A. Rogers a member. His fellow members are now preparing an elaborate initiation with which to introduce him to the social life of the corps.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

HIS WONDERFUL NERVE

Durrant Perfectly Cool Under Cross-Examination.

Lost His Self Control Only Once When the Prosecution Scores a Strong Point—His Knowledge of Medicine Used Againt Him in His Self Treatment for Asphyxiation.

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Whether W. H. Theodore Durrant is one of the most remarkable of murderers or not he is a remarkable witness. All day, before an audience that packed the court room, he stood a fire of questions from District Attorney Barnes, which it seemed at times must break him down, with imperturbable coolness. His quickness of wit and adroitness were shown a dozen times. He went over the ground of his direct testimony and entered into the details of his movements in the church on the day of the murder without varying a point or abating any in plausibility.

His Acquaintance with the Girl.

The cross-examination began with the time that Durrant first met Blanche Lamont. This was last September a year. He said he had escorted her to and from her home fifteen times. He took her to ride on a street car twice, and thrice he accompanied her to other places. These were the only times he had ever been out with her. He met her very often at church, and one night last year she visited his house and he had given her a pad-lock. She had on that occasion gone to his house with him, but refused to enter. He denied an imputation of the district attorney that Miss Lamont entered the hallway and that he extinguished the gaslights with an electric apparatus.

Exciting Point Reached.

The examination had been tame up to this point but it soon became exciting. The district attorney went back to the statement of Janitor Bademan of the Emmanuel church that he had seen Durrant at the ferry on the afternoon of the Minnie Williams murder and that Durrant had then said he was waiting to see if Miss Lamont would not pass. He told Bademan that he had heard she was going to cross the bay that afternoon. He admitted that he made such a statement, and said that he got his clue from a man he never saw before or since. He said he was standing on Post street near Dupont when this man tapped him on the shoulder and asked him if he was not Theodore Durrant. He told him that was his name, and then the man said that if he was interested in the disappearance of Blanche Lamont he would advise him to watch the ferry that afternoon as she would cross the bay. The man he said then walked awa .

Too Overjoyed.

"You knew Blanche Lamont was being searched for and that your name was associated with her disappearance, and yet you permitted this stranger to walk away without learning anything about him?" asked the district-attorney. "Well," said Durrant, "the truth is that I was so overjoyed at getting a clew that I did not think of questioning him. I noticed that he was a man of about five feet eight inches in height and dressed in a light overcoat and hat and I told my counsel to try to locate him."

Prosecution Scores a Point.

Barnes then reverted to Durrant's alleged work at the sunburners. He got him to go over the details of what happened then, and was particular to inquire as to the symptoms which followed his inhalation of the gas while he was at the burners. Barnes questioned him as to his studies and was told that Durrant attended the lectures and read text books on materia medica and would have graduaded as a physician next December. In opposing an objection Barnes made the statement that Durrant knew enough about medicine to be able to diagnose his case, and that he had prescribed something not intended for partial asphyxiation. Had he been overcome by gas, as he had stated, and had taken enough of the bromo-seltzer, the district-attorney declared, he would have been a dead man before he could have left the church. This telling point had its effect on Durrant, who showed the only excitement manifested by him on the stand.

Will Push the Point Gained.

He rose to his feet and turning to the court said the district attorney had misstated his testimony in saying he had diagnosed his case as partial asphyxiation. Barnes said it made no difference; his nausea according to his own statement was from gas inhalation. In this connection the prosecution will produce experts to show that gas inhaled flushes instead of paling the face and that bromo seltzer is for the nerves and not for such a complaint as Durrant alleged he suffered from. The cross-examination will probably occupy another day.

500 HANDS MADE IDLE.

Delaware Shaft Wrecked by Boiler Explosion.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 11.—Three boilers out of a nest of fifteen at the Delaware shaft, located at Mill creek, exploded last night and completely wrecked the building. The shaft is owned by the Delaware & Hudson company, and the explosion will necessitate the suspension of work, making about 500 men and boys idle. Fortunately no one was injured.

World's Bowling Record Broken.

Putnam, Conn., Oct. 11.—A world's bowling record was broken here last night. In a match between the Putnam team and bowlers from Webster, Mass., Amos Moore of the latter team succeeded in making 710 pins in three strings. This beats the world's record of 699 pins held by a Lowell, Mass., man. In the match last night the Putnams defeated the Websters by 171 pins.

Women Run the Railroads.

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Yesterday the electric railroads in Elmira were conducted by ladies, the net proceeds to be devoted to the Young Women's Christian association. About $500 was cleared.

Danbury Fair.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 11.—It is estimated that the attendance at the Danbury fair yesterday was 10,000. The exhibits this year are much better than ever before.

GAVE UP THEIR VALUABLES.

Remarkable Exhibition of Self-Denial at a Religious Convention.

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 11.—At the State Brethren convention yesterday a remarkable scene was witnessed. It was during the discussion of the mission work. In the addresses it was shown that mission work in this state had been sadly neglected, and that many brethren in the state had no place of worship, owing to the manner in which the churches are distributed throughout the state. Various remedies were suggested, the general feeling being that cash was needed. The Rev. F. E. Hastings of this city was the first to discuss the matter, and he forced a self-denial by offering as his donation his gold watch, which had been given to him when he was eleven years old. In a moment the convention was aroused. Watches and all sorts of valuables were thrown into the contribution basket with the money and the scene was so affecting that hundreds shed tears.

BIG DAM BURSTS.

D., L. & W. Yards at Scranton, Pa., Flooded—Nobody Injured.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 11.—The dam of the Lackawanna Iron & Steel company in this city burst at 6 o'clock last night, when all the extensive yards and shops of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western company were flooded. Fortunately no person was seriously injured. Miss Decker of this city was caught in the flood but miraculously escaped any severe injuries. Railroad cars were thrown about the yard and wrecked. Pieces of iron weighing over 600 pounds were carried a distance of 100 feet. The dam contained the supply of water for the blast furnaces, and it will probably delay operations at the work for some time.

DEATH BY FLAMES.

Mrs. Andrew Sammis Fearfully Burned in Her Home.

Babylon, L. I., Oct. 11.—Mrs. Andrew Sammis, the wife of a well known sea captain, shortly after sunrise arose to get some coffee. Neighbors saw smoke coming from the Sammis house, and Capt. Alexander Sammis, the woman's brother-in-law, ran in and found her with her clothing on fire. A pail of water was thrown over her. She died, her body being burned to a crisp. It is believed that Mrs. Sammis, who was paralyzed, went too close to the stove and her clothing caught fire. She was about 50 years old.

WANT JENNER RECALLED.

British Minister Non Persona Grata in United States of Columbia.

Colon, Columbia, Oct. 11.—A telegram from Bogota says that a public demand has been made for the recall of Mr. Jenner, the British minister at Bogota, because of the stand taken by him in connection with the claim of 630,000 pounds damages of Messrs. Punchard, McTaggart and Lowther in the Antioquia railroad matter. The German government, the dispatch further adds, will order the retirement of Dr. Luhrsen, its representative at Bogota, from the board of arbitration having the claim of Punchard, McTaggart and Lowther under consideration.

FOURTEEN MEN DROWNED.

Steamers Livonia and Napier Collide—The Livonia Sinks.

London, Oct. 11.—The steamship Napier of North Shields has arrived here with ten of the crew of the steamship Livonia of Leith, which was sunk in a collision with the Napier off the island of Aaland. Fourteen of the Livonia's crew were drowned.

October Government Deficit.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The receipts of the government for the first ten days of the current month aggregated $9,157,669, and the expenditures $16,573,000, a deficit, $7,415,331. This deficit will probably be reduced during the remainder of the month.

Doesn't Want To Be State Senator.

Albany, Oct. 11.—William P. Cantwell of Malone, democratic nominee for senator in the 32d district, comprising St. Lawrence and Franklin counties, has forwarded to the secretary of state his declination of the nomination.

After an Idleness of Years.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 12.—The plate mill of Seyfert & Bro., at Seyferts, this county, will resume operations next Monday, after an idleness of several years. Employment will be given to 250 hands.

Father Flaherty Out on Bail.

Geneseo, N. Y., Oct. 11.—A stay of proceedings has been granted in the Flaherty case, and the prisoner has been liberated under $10,000, pending an appeal for a new trial.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spot quiet but held higher. October, 64 3-4c.; December, 66 3-8c.; May, 69 7-8c.

Corn—Prices higher checking trade. No. 2 white 38 1-2c. f. o. b. afloat. October, 36 1-8c.; November, 35 3-8c.; May, 34 3-4c.

Oats—Spot stronger with good trade. No. 2 white, 25 1-8c.; No. 3 white, 24 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot firm with a fair demand. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $9.75a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier. October, $6.12.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 23c.; creamery western seconds to firsts, 16a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 20 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a19c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—There was little demand from exporters. State, full cream, large size, white, choice, 8 1-2a8 5-8c.; large colored fancy, 8 1-2c.; state part skims, choice, 8 1-4c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a5 1-4c.; common, 3a4c.

Eggs—Postively fancy fresh gathered are held at 19c., but that is extreme, and obtainable for only a small part of the arrivals.

Potatoes—The supply fair and choice held steady, but prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.12a$1.25; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, $1.00a$1.10; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

DICKINSON IS THE MAN

He It Was Who Had Lord Sackville "Bounced."

He Was Anti-English Then as He Is Now—Mr. Bayard, on the Other Hand, Was Specific in the Sackville Matter Until Duty Called Him To Act.

Washington, Oct. 11.—A local paper discussing the Sackville-West pamphlet says: "It was not Mr. Bayard, but Don M. Dickinson, who was accredited with bringing the Murchison letter episode to such a tart and vigorous end. Mr. Bayard, according to report, was pacific throughout, until obliged to speak for the president and the administration. Mr. Dickinson was the man of bounce in that transaction. There was as much anti-English sentiment in Michigan along the Canadian border as in Irish circles in New York, and Mr. Dickinson was promising a large democratic majority to the president that year. He it was, as report had it, who insisted that Lord Sackville should promptly receive his passports, and when the same demand came also from New York the president yielded.

Mr. Bayard Not Anti-English.

"In support of this it is pointed out that Mr. Bayard has always been most friendly to England, and particularly since the affair in question. Of course, when the cabinet decreed Lord Sackville's dismissal, Mr. Bayard, as the official spokesman, must acquit himself of his task with spirit and emphasis, and that he did. Mr. Dickinson, on the other hand, was anti-English then and is anti-English now. He is classed as a jingo. He was opposed to the landing of the English at Corinto and he entertains very advanced views about the Monroe doctrine. The whole proceeding which terminated in Lord Sackville's humiliation accords with the Dickinsonian view of how the United States should deal with English interference with American affairs."

LORD SACKVILLE WAS DUPED.

His Fears While in Washington Preyed on by a Labor Agitator.

Washington, Oct. 11.—An inference drawn from Lord Sackville's recent pamphlet that Mr. Bayard had taken no offense at the Murchison letter until the newspapers made it a political issue is denied by a former official associate of Mr. Bayard, who said that if Lord Sackville intended it to be understood that Mr. Bayard had assured him that he attached no importance to it, the statement was not true. The pamphlet is not regarded in Washington as containing any unpublished information except the account of Lord Sackville's trip to the James river on "the president's yacht" to escape alleged Irish assassins. In connection with the subject it is said that Lord Sackville's fears were preyed upon by a well-known local labor agitator, who fared well through the incident. It is not understood here, however, how Lord Granville in London obtained information which warranted him in cabling the state department that Lord Sackville's life was in danger, unless it was that Lord Sackville sent the information to Lord Granville by cable, on the basis of statements made to him by the agitator referred to.

ADDICKS DIVORCE SUIT.

The Defendant Will Prosecute All Interested for Conspiracy.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 11.—The co-respondent, Mrs. Ida Carr Wilson, and one other witness closed the testimony in the Addicks divorce case yesterday. Mrs. Wilson denied every charge contained in the libel specifically, and reviewed her relationship with Addicks family, covering a period of nearly twenty years. The character of her testimony precluded extended cross-examination, and she was excused after answering five or six perfunctory questions. The other witness called testified that an important witness for the plaintiff had confessed to perjury within a month after being called, and expressed a desire to retract all of the false statements made before the court. During the recess Mr. Addicks announced that at the conclusion of this suit he proposed instituting proceedings against all active participants in this case upon a charge of conspiracy, claiming that he has proof positive against the persons involved.

AMERICA'S CUP CONTEST.

Liverpool Papers Say Startling Revelations Will Be Made.

Liverpool, Oct. 11.—The Courier, in announcing the arrival of Captains Cranfield and Sycamore of the Valkyrie III, says that various startling stories against Americans have been told in yachting circles. Captain Sycamore refuses absolutely to talk upon the subject. The Liverpool Post says: "When what may be called an official English report of the yacht race is published there will be startling revelations, which will throw a strong light upon various phases of the cup contest."

OHIO'S WHEAT YIELD.

It Will Be 14,000,000 Bushels Short of an Average Crop.

Columbus, O., Oct. 11.—The state board of agriculture's bulletin shows that the wheat crop of Ohio for this year will give a yield of 14,000,000 bushels short of an average crop of the state, and 24,000,000 less than that of last year, which was the largest in the history of the state.

Marlborough at Ashland, Ky.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 11.—The duke of Marlborough, engaged to marry Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt on Nov. 14, arrived here yesterday. He is being entertained at Ashland to-day, and will visit many of the noted breeding farms in this section.

Tobacco Crop Damaged.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 11.—The tobacco crop in Lincoln, Logan, Wayne and Cabell counties has suffered great damage by frost. The crop was the finest ever grown and a great yeild was expected. The damage thus far is estimated at $60,000.

Bark Alice a Total Loss.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 11.—The bark Alice, ashore at Horn island, will be a total loss. No mention is made of lives lost. It is presumed that all were saved.

"HELP!"

A WOMAN'S DESPAIRING CRY.

It is Heard. A Prominent Actress Escapes Great Danger.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

How startling is a woman's cry for help!

"What can I do? Where shall I go?" She knows not. This cry goes out today from every city, town, and hamlet in this country.

It comes from women who are suffering tortures of body and mind from some form of female complaint. Many, through natural modesty, do not consult physicians, for many dread their examinations. They know not where to seek for help.

This alarming condition of things is simply wrong. The peculiar ailments of women are curable, and in most cases very speedily. Lydia E. Pinkham's genius and liberality have given to every woman a sure and consistent means of relief.

No woman should suffer when she can obtain free advice. She can state her case fully to Mrs. Pinkham, woman to woman, without reserve, and the answer will come from one of her own sex. Be one of the vast army of women who write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and preserve your health. "Only a woman can understand a woman's ills."

A prominent actress, in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:—

". . . You cannot imagine the fearful condition I was in when I first wrote to you. I was simply of no use to myself or any one else. I had worked hard, and my nervous system was shattered from womb trouble and travelling constantly. I ran the gauntlet of doctors' theories, till my health and money were rapidly vanishing. . . . I'm all right now, and am gaining flesh daily. I follow your advice faithfully in everything. Thank you ten thousand times for what your knowledge and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me."

Educational.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM,

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.

9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 86th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig. } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia, will resume her private lessons and classes in French German, Latin, Russian, Drawing Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE,

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Nov. 14, including Asheville, Chattanooga, Luray, etc. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MAC DONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

COAL

F. W. HAND,

132 North avenue.
929 South avenue.
197 North avenue.
Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

Formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office,

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue; Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DAY, Manager.

Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.
Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.
Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.
Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.
J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery
200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES,
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed

Rockview Home and Day School
REOPENS SEPT. 18.
Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.

Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS, — EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Acute
pains require prompt relief. The best remedy is one that can be used immediately and by anybody.
Allcock's Porous Plaster
meets the case exactly, for all sorts of pains and aches, as sprains, strains, lameness of the back or limbs.
When you Buy Allcock's you obtain the best plaster. Don't be duped into taking any other.
Allcock's Corn Shields,
Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
purify the system, and thus remove the cause of many diseases.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Post-office box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Granite Marble AND Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop

CHINA'S INHUMAN LAW

Awful Torture of Missionary Assailants.

Forced To Kneel with Bared Knees on Chains While Two Men Jump on a Pole Thrust Across the Victim's Legs—The British Consul Interferes.

London, Oct. 11.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a second letter from its correspondent in Kucheng detailing the difficulties attending communication with Foo Chow, and describing the trial of a prisoner implicated in the outrages upon missionaries. When the court is ready, the writer says, the accused man is brought in handcuffed. He is invariably filthy in appearance, and has the wild and ghastly look of a starved man, which he really is. The prisoner opens the proceedings by swearing that he was nowhere near the scene of the massacre and then the torture begins.

Too Much for One Consul.

The man is first compelled to kneel with his bare knees upon a coil of chain. His head is dragged back and his pigtail is fastened to a rack high above his head. A pole is then thrust across his legs and two soldiers stand on each end of it, crushing the wretch's knees into the coil of chain. The British consul could not stand this method of extracting testimony, and insisted that it be stopped. This was done as far as the proceedings in the court room were concerned, but for an hour afterward the shrieks of tormented prisoners could be heard coming from the adjacent room, where the torture was continued.

His Knees Broken by the Chains.

When the magistrates wanted to hear the confession of a tortured man the prisoner was brought back into the court room. If he held back his confession a threat to resume the torture was usually sufficient to cause him to tell all he knew. Besides the tortures described the prisoners were beaten with bamboo sticks until their yells were most horrible to hear. One prisoner appeared in the court room unable to walk from the beating he had received, and another was unable to kneel because his knees had been broken by the chain links and his thighs had been lacerated by the strokes of the bamboo rods.

Feasted Amid Misery.

In the midst of such misery cakes, fruit, tea and wines were served and partaken of by the native officers, who could not understand why the foreigners present pushed the delicacies aside, refusing to touch them. The correspondent declares that the powers ought to demand justice without torture, reaching the mandarin as promptly as the man who works in the field. The whole business, he says, lies at the door of the corrupt officers.

TRAIN OFFICIALS GUILTY.

Railroad Commissioners Place the Blame for an Accident.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 11.—The railroad commissioners in their report upon the collision of the "cannon ball" express and an extra freight by which two locomotives and seventeen cars were wrecked and three men killed and five injured near Plymouth August 8, place the blame upon Moses T. Eaton, engineer; David A. Colburn, pilot, and Leslie G. Tyler, conductor of the freight train. They say: "Tyler, Colburn and Eaton occupied the positions of authority. Any one of them would have saved the trains by doing his duty. All of them were amazingly stupid or careless and all of them must answer for the consequences. We can see no valid excuse for either and no great difference in their guilt."

Oldtime Rivals To Meet.

Jersey City, Oct. 11.—John L. Sullivan, ex-champion prize fighter of the world, will be tendered a big testimonial at the Oakland rink next Monday night. Sullivan will wind up the entertainment with a three round exhibition with Paddy Ryan, whom he defeated many years ago in a fight for the championship.

Mrs. Langtry's Stolen Jewels.

London, Oct. 11.—Some of the sapphires and rubies belonging to Mrs. Langtry, which were obtained by means of a forged order from the Union bank on August 24, have been discovered in the possession of a firm in business on Hatton Garden, to whom they had been sold.

Will Not Oppose a Friend.

Holyoke, Mass., Oct. 11.—Oscar Ely who was nominated for senator by the republicans of the Second Hampden district declines to run. He says that he does not wish to contest with his friend, W. A. Chase of Holyoke, who is the democratic nominee.

N. J. Endeavorers Meet.

Atlantic City, Oct. 11.—This city has been taken by storm by the thousands of Christian Endeavorers who arrived yesterday and to-day to participate in the ninth annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavorers here.

Ole Bull's Son in New York.

New York, Oct. 11.—Alexander Bull, violinist, son of Ole Bull, arrived in this city yesterday. He has accepted an invitation to take part in a concert on Dec. 6 in Minneapolis in aid of the Ole Bull monument fund.

Philadelphians Dined.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 11.—The Philadelphians who came down with the Liberty Bell were entertained at a barbecue last evening. They will remain until to-morrow night.

Sixty-five Deaths from Cholera.

Auckland, Oct. 11.—Advices received here from Hawaii show that there have been sixty-five deaths from cholera there up to Sept. 25.

The President's Military Escort.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 11.—The Gate City Guard will be the military escort of President Cleveland when he arrives on October 22.

Secretary Smith in Washington.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Secretary Hoke Smith has returned to Washington from Georgia after an absence of several weeks.

THE CUBAN REBELLION

Insurgents Are Active at a Number of Places.

Passenger Train Attacked with Dynamite—Insurgents Nearly Capture a Convoy—Fierce Attack on Spaniards in Sabana de Tara and Many Are Killed.

Havana, Oct. 11.—A band of rebels yesterday attacked with dynamite a passenger train from Remedios, killing one person and wounding six others. The scene of the attack was between Placetas and Camasuani. The rebels, who were concealed in the undergrowth along the line threw a bomb as the train passed, the explosion badly wrecking one of the cars. The affair will cause a further falling off in railway travel, as it is feared that the rebels will make similar attacks again. The military guards who accompany the trains on the various railways are no defense against attacks of this kind, in which non-combatants are usually the victims.

Several Encounters.

Santiago de Cuba, Oct. 1, via Key West, Fla., Oct. 11.—Last week several encounters took place between the Spaniards and the Cubans in Manzanillo and Guantanamo districts. In Guantanamo the Spanish column of Cols. Segura and Ruiz and Commanders Garrido and Lopez met the insurgents near Monte Libano on the 29th ult. They fought bravely, and the official report says that two officers of the guerrillas were killed and forty soldiers wounded. The rebels had three men killed and two wounded, among the former being Commander Gabino Vasquez. On the evening of Sept. 23 Gen. Canellas narrowly escaped being drowned while attempting to cross the river Casisey, Guantanamo.

Guerrilla Outrage.

On Sept. 27 the body of a harmless man named Antonio Perez was found hanging to a tree between the sugar estates Confluente and Santa Maria in the Guantanamo district. The body was entirely naked. The crime is supposed to have been committed by an officer of the Spanish guerrillas of Guantanamo, who is in jail.

Nearly Lost Their Convoy.

On Sept. 27 Gen. Gonzalez Munoz arrived at Manzanillo, after being five days in the field. His force consists of 850 infantry, 150 mounted guerrillas, a company of artillery and another of engineers. This column met the rebels in various places between Veguita and Bueycito. The Spaniards were carrying a large convoy, which they nearly lost. The insurgents attacked the Spaniards vigorously after filling the roads where the men had to pass with trunks of large trees. It was with great difficulty that the Spaniards forced their way to Bueycito.

Many Spaniards Killed.

The coffee plantation of La Algeria was the scene of another attack on the same column after it had delivered the convoy. This rebel column was commanded by Juan Masu Parra. In Sabana de Tara the attack of the insurgents on the troops was so terrible that the Spaniards had to fight all together, infantry, artillery and engineers. In this encounter, according to official reports, the Spaniards had fifteen killed and seventy wounded. Private information is to the effect that there were many more killed and wounded.

Rebels Besieging Holguin.

It is said that numerous rebel forces have arrived in the suburbs of Holguin, tearing up the rails of the railroad and besieging the city. This morning eighteen volunteers of the Second battalion of this city were ordered to the field for active service. The sanitary condition here is very bad. The military hospital is filled with soldiers, the greatest number suffering with yellow fever, which generally proves fatal.

First Attempt To Free Cuba.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 11.—A cablegram from Key West, Fla., says: Never in the history of this city has there been such enthusiasm as was displayed yesterday, the twenty-ninth anniversary of the first attempt for Cuban independence. From one end of the city to the other business houses and private residences were gaily decorated with American and Cuban flags. Many vessels in the harbor were also decorated with all the bunting available. Promptly at 6 o'clock in the morning the booming of cannon began, and at the same hour the American and Cuban flags were hoisted over the city hall. Speeches were made from the balcony and the band played the national airs, and the spectators cheered themselves hoarse. In the afternoon a big parade composed of the various Cuban clubs, several fire companies, G. A. R. corps and Sons of Veterans marched to the cemetery, where patriotic speeches were made.

CAPT. ARMES DISCHARGED.

Judge Bradley Scores Gen. Schofield for Causing His Arrest.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Judge Bradley of the district supreme court ordered the discharge from custody of Capt. George A. Armes, who was arrested on the order of Lieut-Gen. Schofield just prior to the latter's retirement from the command of the army for having written him an insulting letter. Judge Bradley scored the action of the late general of the army, characterizing it as unlawful, tyrannical and capricious.

Inter-Academic Football Rules.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—The inter-academic athletic association, the membership of which represents all the preparatory schools in and near Philadelphia, has decided to adopt the Pennsylvania-Harvard-Cornell rules for all football games played by the teams in the association.

Vessels for Cuban Rebels.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 11.—Five large three-masted vessels, sailing in company, were sighted to-day off Dry Harbor, and it is believed that they are en route to Cuba with supplies for the insurgents.

Strike at Elizabethport.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 11.—The union molders at Elizabethport are on strike because some of the establishments there are employing men for less than the union rates, $2.70 per day.

EW KNOW ABOUT THE SHAKERS.

Interesting, God-Fearing People Who Have Given the World Many Important Discoveries.

We may not accept their peculiar religious beliefs nor can we enter into the spirit of their sacrifices. It is not necessary to believe as they do, but we can and do respect their sincerity of purpose and the honor and uprightness which marks all their business dealings.

The Shakers have always been successful inventors, and some of the greatest of the conveniences of the present day found origin in their settlements.

In one particular they excel all other men or classes of men, and that is in the cultivation of medicinal herbs and plants and their preparation for use. They have made it a study for more than one hundred years. It is one of their peculiar industries. Their lives have been devoted to it.

Their latest and greatest achievement is the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is not offered as a cure for all diseases. It does not pretend to be, but one disease it will cure, and that is indigestion.

Sufferers who resort to its use have not long to wait to see the result. The effect is almost immediate. The first dose usually gives relief and if continued a permanent cure will follow.

It not only contains already digested food, but it digests food as well, thus toning up the general system. An interesting pamphlet is now being issued by the Shakers and can be had for the asking at almost any drug store.

Try a twenty-five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you.

Those who are in doubt as to the nature of their disease should address Professor Munyon, 1505 Arch street, Philadelphia, giving full symptoms of their disease. Professor Munyon will carefully diagnose the case and give you the benefit of his advice absolutely free of all charge. The Remedies will be sent to any address on receipt of retail price.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1 cent a word each insertion. Less than 10 words 10 cents. Cash must accompany adv.

WANTED—Position as chamber-maid and waitress in small private family. Apply 325 West 2d st. 10 10 2

PONY and her colt for sale; has been used by a boy of 10; sold for want of use; or will trade for larger horse; can be seen at Johnson's farm. Address G. C. E., care Press. 10 10 2

RELIABLE man would like several furnaces for the winter. Address 22 East 4th st. 10 10 4

LARGE sunny front room with gas and heat, to let, with board. 231 East 6th st. 10 10 6

YOUNG lady would like to share room with lady; price reasonable. Address Lady, care Press. 10 10 6

WANTED.—A girl for general housework. Call at 351 East 3d street. 10 10 2

SMART young girl, lately landed, wishes situation at general housework. Call at 131 Madison avenue. 10 10 2

TO LET—Handsome corner flat, all light rooms; every improvement. Apply Manning's City Marble Works. 10 10 6

WANTED—Immediately, girl for general housework; two in family. 817 First place. 10 10 2

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

FOR SALE—Cheap, a good oil route. Inquire at 718 South ave. 10 9 2

WANTED—A woman for general housework. Apply 718 Central avenue. 10 9 2

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, att'y, cor. Park and North aves. 10 9 4

WANTED.—A good cook; must have satisfactory references. Apply at 531 West 8th st. 10 9 3

A BARGAIN—$875 will buy 7-room house, lot 50x150; small barn; 15 minutes from Plainfield station. C. L. Moffett, Park and North aves. 10 8 4

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

FOR SALE—Cheap for want of use, good road horse. 121 Putnam avenue. 10 4 5

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

HOUSE and shop to let, 50 Pearl st. Inquire of C. T. French, 69 Somerset st. 9 19 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $500 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

Season of 1895. 1895.
D. W. HYDE,
TEACHER OF
PIANO AND HARMONY,
Will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

106 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 11, 1895.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Rain and Warmer.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 66 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 11—Adjourned meeting of the Borough Council.
October 11—Last evening run of the Y.M.C.A. Cyclers, under the leadership of Capt. T. A. Cuming. Run will be to Orange, leaving here at 7 p. m.
October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Anniversary exercises at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church of New Market.
October 13—Christian Endeavor rally in the First Presbyterian Church.
October 13—Run of Crescent Wheelmen to Trenton.
October 14—Opening of the Y. M. C. A. Educational Department.
October 15—Captain Jack Crawford in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.
October 15—Rally of Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Chapel.
October 15—Lecture at First Presbyterian vestry on "A Dream of Tomorrow" by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore.
October 15—Dance of Crescent Coterie at Olympia Hall.
October 17—Tenth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church.
October 17—Gymnasium class of the Y. M.C.A. will begin.

The Middlesex county Democratic convention will be held in New Brunswick next Tuesday.

When a sensational politician happens also to have the habit of dealing with things religious, he is very apt to fall into the blasphemy perpetrated by Parkhurst. Fancy a decent-minded man saying, as Parkhurst has said, that the excise laws will be enforced "so long as God Almighty and Theodore Roosevelt are with us." Thus to make the Deity, whom Parkhurst pretends to preach, wait upon the coming of Mr. Roosevelt, and become impotent again when Mr. Roosevelt leaves, is a shocking piece of flippancy of a sort usually confined to blasphemous jests. A politician like Parkhurst is demoralizing to the pulpit. A clergyman like Parkhurst is hurtful to all Chistian sentiment.—New York Sun.

OWN A HOME.

A Rare Chance to be Your Own Landlord.

On the eighth page of today's Press is printed an advertisement that will interest every one who wants to own a home, and who is there that does not? The Plainfield Real Estate Company have a large number of admirable building lots on Grant avenue, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets, three minutes walk from the Grant Avenue station, on the line of the trolley road and all the city improvements at hand. The lots will be sold at reasonable prices, $10 down on signing contract and $5 a month thereafter. No better terms could be desired. Read the ad through for particulars.

State Officers Invited.

At the meeting of Central Lodge, No. 38, A. O. U. W., last evening two applications for membership were received. The recorder was instructed to invite Past Grand Master Workmen Diefendorf and Colyer, of Newark to be present at the next meeting, and the following committee was appointed to arrange an entertainment and collation: W. H. Brokaw, C. H. Randolph, and Edward Mosher. There will also be initiation that evening.

—The Union county directory has just been issued by Heidingsfeld & Mulholland. It is a valuable book for any business man. It is for sale at M. Estil's book stork.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

D. Squires, of Somerset street, has returned from Bath, N. Y.

Wm. Slate, of Clinton avenue, is visiting friends in Newark.

Mrs. Bogart, of Central avenue, is visiting friends in Scranton.

Miss Louella Mills, of East Fifth street, is visiting friends in Brooklyn.

John A. F. Newton, of Evona, has returned to his home in New Brunswick.

Harry Page, of Elmwood place, has resigned his position in Scott's pattern shop.

Miss Redcliffe, of Watchung avenue, is visiting in New York for a few days.

Arthur H. Mulford, of Sandford avenue, left Wednesday evening for Chicago.

Miss Wharton, of Pittsburgh, is visiting her brother, Clifton Wharton, on Third place.

S. V. Hoffman, of West Front street, has returned home after a week's visit in Trenton.

John Stewart and family, of Somerset street, started today for Florida to spend the winter.

Frank Baldwin and family, of Rockview avenue, have started on a year's trip through Europe.

John Mortimer and family, of Putnam avenue, have returned from their summer's stay at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Lucy A. Green, of Lafayetteville, Dutchess county, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. White, of West Front street.

John Mortimer and family, of Putnam avenue, have returned after a several months' sojourn at Asbury Park.

Mrs. F. M. Underson, of West Front street, expects to make a visit to Brooklyn next week to stay until November.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Kline of New York, are visiting at the home of Mr. Kline's mother, Mrs. Sarah Kline, of Sandford avenue.

S. St. J. McCutchen, who has had a cottage at Belmar during the summer, with his family returned today to his home on Rockview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hayt Patterson, of 346 Franklin place, have gone on an extended business trip through the west, and will be absent some weeks.

Mrs. Martin McComas, of Prescott place, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Yingst, of Harrisburg, who are paying her a visit, spent Tuesday in New York.

Mrs. Chamberlain, of San Antonio, Texas, daughter of the late Dr. Gillette, returned to her home today after spending a delightful summer with Plainfield friends.

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE.

Twelve Men True and Good Stay Out Over a Day Without Result.

After being locked up from 3:30 Wednesday afternoon to 8 o'clock last night, and taking innumerable ballots, the jury in the case of Mary Whitehead against ex-Councilman Herman A. Weber, was unable to agree and were brought into court and dischrged, thus necessitating a new trial at the next term of court. The plaintiff was suing for money alleged to be due her for services as housekeeper, the particulars of which have already been told in The Daily Press.

In the charge to the jury at the completion of the evidence the judge cautioned them not to be moved by any sympathy for the plaintiff in rendering a verdict. It is understood that the vote stood nine to three, but which way it is impossible to learn.

Craig A. Marsh, of this city, who represented the defendant, states that in his opinion the sympaties of some of the jurors for Mrs. Whitehead were unduly aroused, and that if a verdict was given in her favor, it would not stand before any appeal court.

S. S. Swackhamer represented the plaintiff.

Where Pleasure Reigns.

Once again did the members of the T. A. B. Society, of this city, tender a dance to their many friends, and the one given last evening in their hall on West Fourth street was a success, both socially and financially. The attendance was large and dancing to the merry strains of O'Reilly's orchestra was kept up until this morning. Those who had the dance in charge were P. Revelle, E. McCue, M. Higgins, D. O'Keeffe and Chas. McCarthy.

Democrats Conferring.

The Democratic county executive committee convened at Elizabeth this afternoon with leading Democrats to plan the county campaign.

Take No Substitute..

Gail Borden Eagle Brand

CONDENSED MILK

Has always stood FIRST in the estimation of the American People. No other is "just as good." Best Infant Food.

GET WELL, ENJOY LIFE

Don't Suffer With Rheumatism---Take Paine's Celery Compound.

The common sense of the people has long refused to believe that rheumatism and neuralgia were diseases hopeless of cure.

Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College, has confirmed their belief. There is an absolute specific for both of these diseases in Paine's celery compound. Thousands of men and women are every year entirely freed from these two torturing disorders by Paine's celery compound.

Neuralgia-pain affects first one part of the body and then another. Natures restorer, sleep, is sought in vain, and life's ordinary duties become burdens too heavy to be borne. In this condition of sleeplessness nature's call for rest must be regarded. If unheeded, serious consequences are likely to ensue. The nerves must be built up by a proper nerve food. There is nothing equal to Paine's celery compound.

The body is not a machine which simply wears out after a certain number of years, but a vital organism having the power of revivifying itself—capable of being hard worked, but demanding frequent times of recuperation in sleep.

To quickly furnish a fresh and abundant supply of nutriment for every tissue of the body is the purpose for which Paine's celery compound was first prepared. This rapid production of fresh nervous energy and pure blood was the one endeavor of Prof. Edward E. Phelps' long study of the cause of nervous exhaustion.

The result of his life work was Paine's celery compound, that remarkable remedy that permanently and speedily cures disease. It is the greatest nerve regulator and blood purifier of the present century.

For men and women out of health, Paine's celery compound should be tried without fail. It has meant health in place of sickness in thousands of cases that seemed hopeless.

The fact that this is the season when rheumatism most painfully shows itself, makes the following communication from Mr. J. M. Tobias of South Omaha, Neb., of special interest. Mr. Tobias writes:

"I suffered for years with rheumatism in the joints of my hands and arms, so that I could perform my work only with the greatest difficulty. I used all kinds of medicines without result. Finally I secured a bottle of Paine's celery compound, and it benefitted me at once. Paine's celery compound certainly cures rheumatism."

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Crescent Wheelmen will hold a run to Trenton on Sunday.

T. A. Cuming and Harry Cuming rode over to Orange yesterday afternoon to make arrangements for the Y. M. C. A. run tonight.

The Crescent Wheelmen have received an invitation from the Union County Roadsters to participate in the lantern parade Monday evening at Rahway. The invitation has been accepted and a large party will go from this city. The start will be made from the clubhouse Monday evening at seven o'clock.

An Expert Corset Fitter.

Edsall says he takes pleasure in informing the public that he has made arrangements with the Princess of Wales Company, manufacturers of Her Majesty's corset, to have at his store from Saturday, October 12th, to Saturday, October 19th, inclusive, their expert Parisian fitter, Miss Alcutt. She will be pleased to explain the many merits of Her Majesty's corset, and to try a pair upon you, thus illustrating without doubt the exquisite figure and long graceful waist it will create, and the ease and comfort it will give in wear.

—The Woman's Exchange, 326 Park avenue, will open Tuesday next. 3

—Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles at the leading hotels, clubs and cafes. 6

—Tomorrow only, Saturday, October 12th, gentlemen's winter weight merino shirts and drawers, 29 cents each, at VanEmburgh & Son's.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

THEATRICAL.

The Lizzie Evans Company will begin a week's engagement at Music Hall Monday night, October 14th when the romantic and sensational comedy-drama "American Born" will be presented. There will be a change of play at each performance. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Frank V. Hawley's Challenge Band and Superb Orchestra will render their latest musical selections. A grand concert in front of Music Hall every evening at seven o'clock. The prices for this engagement will be 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Higher Yet in Plainfield.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey issued yesterday a circular announcing the following prices for anthracite coal in New York: Stove, $3.75 a ton; egg, $3.65; broken, $3.45; and chestnut, $3.50. These prices are f. o. b. and show an advance of ten cents a ton on stove and egg, thirty cents on broken, and twenty cents on chestnut over the prices last announced by that company. A prominent coal merchant in this city was seen by a Press reporter this morning and asked if this increase would affect retail prices in Plainfield. He said that it would probably not as the rates to dealers here were about twenty-five cents higher than those quoted above.

—White, of Plainfield, has the reputation of selling the best underwear and hosiery, and as they buy direct from the manufacturer they are in a position to sell goods at a very close figure. Their special sale of underwear for ladies, gentlemen and children, will interest you.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy: that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

I THANK MY STARS I HAVE FOUND PECK'S!

"Ever Ready" PREPARED Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills, 24 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

SPECIALS FOR SATURDAY.

43 Nottingham lace curtains, 3 yards long, pretty designs, worth 59c a pair.

69 Nottingham lace curtains, 3 yards long, exquisite designs worth 98c pair.

25 Ladies' black all-wool cashmere gloves, all sizes, worth 39c pair.

29 Ladies' heavy ribbed fleece-lined vests and drawers to match, worth 39c.

Children's white merino vest, pantalettes and drawers, heavy weight. 15c, 18c, 20c, 23c, 25c, 28c, 31c, 35c, 38c, 40c. Sizes, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34.

9 Large size bleached Honeycomb towels, worth 16c each.

10 Buttermilk soap, an excellent agent for the skin, worth 30c for a box of 3 cakes.

5 Children's initial handkerchiefs all letters embroidered with colored wash silks, worth 10 cents each.

Ladies' heavy weight jackets made of fine black beaver, melon sleeves, ripple back.

75 Pair 10x4 white wool finish blankets, extra heavy weight worth $1.00 a pair.

Millinery Department.

A few items of interest selected from many.
Felt sailors in black, navy and red, 39c, 49c, 65c.
Beautiful velvet roses 25c, 49c.
Black ostrich plumes 79c.
Children's trimmed school hats $1.98, $2.49.

Carpet Department.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

55 CTS. Our entire stock of best tapestry Brussels carpet; a large variety of patterns. For this week only, special at 55c per yd.

49 CTS. Best extra super ingrain carpet, our entire stock, fine styles Special for this week at 49c yard.

In addition to our regular stock we have a sample department and carry a full and complete line of all grades of carpet from the stock of W. and J. Sloan, for whom we are selling agents in Plainfield. Call and see our new fall styles. Special attention given to special orders and estimates furnished on application.

In Our Big Basement This Week.

7c SALE

5,000 useful articles to go at 7 cts. each. Former price 9, 10, 12 and 15c each; for this week only. Tinware, woodenware, china and glass.

7c SALE

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. Any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST.

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup	15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef at	10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound	12c can
" " " two pound	23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey	41c can
Martell's sardines in good quality oil	9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected	9c can
New York State stringless beans	9c can

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, waterproof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot neat and comfortable, $3 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL,

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—The borough Board of Health will meet Monday night.

—The Retail Liquor Dealers' Association are in session this afternoon.

—Hallock, hatter, sells good underwear and gloves. You are invited to call and see.

—Two new boilers of thirty-five horse-power each are being put in the Hotel Netherwood.

—The recognized rival of the imported is Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles. 6

—Next Tuesday evening there will be a rally of Epworth Leaguers at the Monroe Avenue chapel.

—Tomorrow only, Saturday, October 12th, gentlemen's fine unlaundried shirts, 33 cents each, at VanEmburgh & Son's.

—R. G. Schenck, of North Plainfield has sold his South Plainfield stage line to Andrew S. Huff, of the borough.

—Clarence Mundy, of Orange street, was in Paterson on Wednesday and says that about noon it snowed for fully ten minutes.

—The great bowling match between the single and married men at the Crescent Wheelmen's club house takes place this evening.

—Two hundred boxes of fresh celebrated Boston potato chips on sale in Edsall's grocery department for Saturday at 10 cents a box.

—Tomorrow only, Saturday, October 12th, gentlemen's winter weight merino shirts and drawers, 29 cents each, at VanEmburgh & Son's.

—Robert Hudspeth, for many years a resident of Westfield, died on Sunday at Morris Plains, where he was sent a couple of years ago.

—Pargiter, the Park Avenue dry goods dealer, is offering specialties for tonight and tomorrow. Read his new advertisement and give him a call.

—The district conference of the Epworth League will be held in Somerville Thursday, Oct. 21th. A large delegation will be present from this city.

—The Scotch Plains Baseball club will cross bats with the Berkely Heights team Saturday afternoon. D. Kane will cover first base for the Berkely Heights team.

—Game Warden Brown, of Roselle, had five men before Justice Woodruff Wednesday for hunting out of season. As it was their first offense they were dismissed with a small fine.

—Court Plainfield, 1144, Independent Order of Foresters, at their meeting tonight will vote on an important change in the sick benefits paid the order, and a large attendance is desired.

—Oysters of the first quality, and at thirty-five cents a quart are the kind that Titsworth & Company handle. A fry or stew, deliciously served, can also be procured at their store.

—The Patriotic Order, Sons of America, of Sterling, gave a dance to their friends at that place last night. Sam Frazee furnished the music, which was excellent. Mr. Frazee has been engaged for the season.

—Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Reger, of Somerville, celebrated their golden wedding last Monday. A. V. D. Honeyman and family, of this city, were in attendance, Mrs. Honeyman being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reger.

—Of Capt. Jack Crawford, Dion Boucicault, the great actor, said: "When an entertainer can cause smiles and tears to struggle for supremacy on the faces of his auditors, his powers cannot be questioned." He will appear at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Tuesday evening, October 15th.

A New Brunswick Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Louise Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Anna Anderson, of New Brunswick, takes place this afternoon at four o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, to Duncan Kennedy Battison. Miss Anderson is a niece of Councilman E. H. Bird, and both she and her mother, Mr. Bird's sister, are well known in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Battison will sail for Glasgow tomorrow to be absent one month. Councilman E. H. Bird and wife were present at the ceremony.

A Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given to Miss Florence Smith, of Richmond street, Wednesday evening by a party of friends from Menlo Park and Plainfield.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

BEYOND THE WEEPING.

Impressive Services Over the Remains of Miss French.

A large and very impressive gathering of relatives and friends was present at the funeral services of the late Miss Minnie French, which were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French, 18 Craig place.

Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, of the First M. E. church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Tuttle, of Newark, and Rev. Dr. Hurlbut, of New York, former pastor of the above church.

A beautiful selection, "Come Unto Me," was rendered by Mrs. Asa Collier, Miss Jessie Utter, B. T. Barnes, and Elmer E. Runyon, after which Dr. Hurlbut read the Scripture selection and Rev. Dr. Tuttle offered an effecting prayer. Dr. Barnes then made a few remarks relative to the Christian character of the departed, and of the excellent life she had lived. He spoke feelingly of her work in the church and Sunday school, and how she would be missed in those circles. To her Sunday school class a strong attachment had been formed, also strong ties of love and friendship that seemed almost unbreakable.

To the bereaved ones words of comfort and consolation were spoken. Dr. Barnes closed his remarks with prayer. Those present then took a last look on the form of one whom they had learned to love in life. Another impressive selection by the quartettee "Lead, Kindly Light" was rendered at the close.

The floral tributes were beautiful and consisted of a cross of white roses with the letters "I. H. N," from the Dorcas Society, King's Daughters, a large harp of roses and a number of bunches of choice cut roses. Neatly draped from one end of the casket was a broad satin ribbon on which was the inscription "Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping."

The casket was open full length and the beautiful form dresssed in white looked exceedingly peaceful and lifelike. Interment was made in Hillside Cemetery. Those acting as bearers were Charles French, Elston French, Warren Church and William Thiers.

A touching incident was the presence of the Dorcas Society, King's Daughters, who came in a body.

At the request of the decedent choice flowers were suspended on the front door instead of crepe, and a profusion of flowers were placed in the parlor, at her request, as she was partially fond of flowers.

HE LOVED IN VAIN.

He Wanted to Marry Her, But the Brother Objected.

A well-known Plainfield merchant has just passed through an experience which has left him a sadder but a wiser man. Some time ago a dressmaker came to the home of his sister. She was pretty and fascinating and soon had her Plainfield admirer fast in the meshes. He took her to entertainments and made her expensive presents until at last, it was time for her to leave. She returned to her home in Baltimore, but the postal service still remained and they made good use of it. The lovers thought that they should get married and it was at length decided that they should meet in Philadelphia and there become wedded. But just before the expectant Plainfielder had started he received a note from his beloved, saying that her brother thought that she had better not get married just now. And now the Plainfield man is mourn- over the faithlessness of the feminine sex in general.

MORE THAN SEVEN.

Franklin Council Celebrate Their Eighth Anniversary.

Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., celebrated their eighth anniversary last evening in an enjoyable manner. The regular meeting was first, at which time two applications for membership and one admission by card were received.

David Bodine, of the good and welfare committee, then took the chair and acted as master of ceremonies. W. C. Force was called on first and rendered one of his choicest selections on the banjo. This was followed by a reading, "The Summer Girl," by Harvey Thorn. It was very appropriate and caused much laughter. Following this, the members were invited to join in a smoker, and for the balance of the evening the air was filled with smoke. Speechmaking by brothers from Somerset Council, Dunellen and New Market, was also enjoyed.

It was late when the affair broke up, but all voted that the eighth anniversary exercises were a success.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The University of Pennsylvania defeated the eleven of the Crescent Athletic Club at Eastern Park yesterday by a score of 32 to 0.

The game between Harvard and Exeter at Cambridge yesterday, resulted in a victory for the former by the score of 42 to 0.

The Y. M. C. A. team met for practice last evening. There were quite a number present and some active practice was indulged in.

A new and very promising candidate for the Y. M. C. A. football team is T. A. Cuming. He will probably play on the line as tackle.

The Orange Y. M. C. A. football team will play the Audubon A. C. eleven, of New York, on the West Orange grounds, Saturday afternoon.

The Staten Island Cricket Club will open their football season on next Saturday afternoon with the General Theological Seminary of New York, at Livington.

Although the Central New Jersey Football League seems on the verge of collapsing the Y. M. C. A. team will be continued. Dates will be made with neighboring teams and Plainfield will still have a good team to represent her.

The Newark Academy team opened the season yesterday with a game with the Stevens Preparatory School, of Hoboken, at Newark. Stevens outweighed Academy, but the excellent team work of the latter enabled her to win, 6—0.

Princeton had no difficulty in defeating the University of Virginia at Baltimore yesterday in a game of football, by the score of 36 to 0. The game was played on the Catonsville Country Club's grounds, and despite the chilly weather was attended by over 3,000 persons.

The New Jersey Athletic Club football team will leave tonight for the south, to meet the Naval Cadets at Annapolis tomorrow afternoon. Eighteen players will be taken on the trip. The New Jerseys have a very strong team this season and expect to give the cadets a close call.

Scratched Plate Glass.

A scratch upon a fine piece of plate glass is frequently very annoying, but it does not always follow, as many have supposed, that the mischief is irremediable. Some one who has been investigating the matter gives the following instructions for the removal, or at least a material modification, of the blemish: "Procure some of the finest emery, put it into a pitcher with water, stir vigorously and pour out into another pitcher after a few seconds. The coarse particles will remain in the first pitcher. The contents of the second must be allowed to settle, which will take some hours. Then run it through filtering paper after removing the bulk of the water, and the precipitate is a powder which will remove the scratches. Apply with the fingers, a piece of cork or felt. That will leave the glass cloudy, but a polish can be brought by a paste of jeweler's rouge and water rubbed on with finger, cork or felt, as before. If very fine results are required, the rouge is washed like the emery and only the impalpable powder employed.—Exchange.

Queer She Felt Tired.

Farmer (to physician)—If you git out my way, doctor, any time, I wish you'd stop an see my wife. She says she ain't feelin well.

Physician—What are some of her symptoms?

Farmer—I dunno. This mornin after she had milked the cows, an fed the stock, an got breakfast for the hands, an washed the dishes, an built a fire under the soft soap kettle in the lane, an done a few chores 'bout the house she complained of feelin kinder tired. I shouldn't be surprised if her blood was out of order. I guess she needs a dose of medicine.—Independent.

Korean Bachelors.

In Korea an unmarried man is treated as a boy, no matter how old he is. A young married man of 20 is by Korean custom entitled to be treated as a superior by old bachelors of 60.—Washington Star.

The custom and fashion of today will be the awkwardness and outrage of tomorrow. So arbitrary are these transient laws.—Dumas.

In India the cultivation of rice antedates history.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan don't add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can we use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will urel do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

Dunellen.

The stewards of the M. E. church meet tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. T. J. Jones has returned home from her visit with Elizabeth relatives.

Arthur Giddis has returned home from his visit with Port Reading, S. I., friends.

The Misses Brown, of New York, are visiting friends on Washington avenue.

Miss Maggie Voorhees, of Greenbrook, spent Sunday with friends in Newark, Fred Wilcox, Sr., is entertaining his grandmother, Mrs. Dunham, of Westfield.

Mr. Dirseen, of Washington avenue, is entertaining his sister, Mrs. Bowlly, of Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Randolph, who have been visiting at Flemington, have returned home.

Miss Barrett, who has been visiting friends here for the past two weeks, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Miss Laura VanArsdale, of North avenue, has returned to Trenton to complete her studies after a pleasant summer vacation.

Miss Maggie Smith, of Newark, and Miss Annie Lewis, of Nyack, are visiting relatives in town and will leave Sunday for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph, who have been visiting friends on Dunellen avenue, have gone to South Plainfield to spend the winter.

Dr. Brakeley, who expected to go to Atlantic City on Wednesday with the the Christian Endeavorers, had to give up his visit on account of the illness of his daughter.

Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian church, with Mr. and Mrs. Barick and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bodine, are attending the Christian Endeavor Convention at Atlantic City.

Juniors Elect.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the Sunday-school room of the church for the election of officers. The following were chosen: President, Mertie Anthony; Vice-president, Charles Suhr, Jr.; Secretary, Gertrude Tier; Treasurer, Lydia Wiman. The committees will be announced at the next meeting.

Red Men's Big Time.

Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., will celebrate their sixth anniversary this evening in Red Men's Hall. All the great chiefs in the State will be present, together with Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque Tribe, Iona Council, and several palefaces.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

Additional Wants and Offers on Page 3.

WANTED—A Protestant girl for general housework in a family of two; references required. Address A. B., care Press. 10 11 2

WANTED—A strong girl for general housework. 662 West 8th st.

PIANO bargain; a little used Knabe square grand piano in first-class condition, will be sold at a great bargain. Address or call at once on Mrs. J. H. VanDeventer, 632 Woodland ave., Netherwood. 10 11 6-eod

FOR SALE—Light pony phaeton. Inquire Frank Hedden, 118 East 4th st.

A GOOD dressmaker wants steady employment; terms reasonable. Address V., care Press.

LOST—Spaniel pup. Black and white. Reward for its return to owner, Central avenue and Randolph road. 10 11 2

RETURN black braided cape, you were seen to pick up, to Press office; and avoid arrest.

A BROWN Badger dog (German dachshund), with short legs and large feet, answering to the name of Prince. Reward will be given if returned to owner, 705 West Seventh street.

WANTED—A girl for general housework. References. Call at 683 West Seventh street. 10 11 2

Do You Like Oysters?
—THEN TRY A—
SADDLE ROCK, FRY OR STEW,
It can't be beat, at
A. TITSWORTH & CO'S.
108 North Ave. Opp. Hotel Grenada.
Oysters by the Quart 35 Cents.

SPECIAL SALE
—OF—
FINE STATIONERY
—AND—
School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S
411 Park Avenue.

PLUMS FOR YOU.

The first man up the tree usually gathers the largest crop of plums, for in these busy days they are plucked before they have a chance to fall. Many plums there are here for you to gather and little money

GATHERS THEM

GINGHAMS

1896 styles, and why we can make such little prices comes about in the most natural way. It's only a sacrifice of profits on our part. Worth 15c; our price 8c.

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilbert ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch Imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 55c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c. 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 36 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts, made of fine serge, both black and blue, $2.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants, were 50c, now 37c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 55c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.

Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles 49c each.

English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannels and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw
210 WEST FRONT ST.

Van Emburgh & Son
Will Tell You About
CORSETS
THIS WEEK.
Van Emburgh & Son.
Plainfield's Popular House, Babcock Building.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.
LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS, lowest prices
U. B. CRANE. Hatter and Furnisher
120 West Front Street.

WILD BILL HICKOX.

"Wild Bill Hickox was for a long time chief of scouts in my command." It was a retired army officer who was talking. He leaned back in an armchair at the Army and Navy club and became reminiscent.

"Hickox got his nom de guerre of Wild Bill at Independence, Mo., when he was about 19 years old. This was some time late in the fifties, when Independence was the busy end of the Santa Fe trail.

"Hickox was a mule skinner, freighting to Santa Fe and back, and in some street fight which occurred in Independence, in which Hickox had no original interest, he conducted himself with such limitless valor and appeared so utterly reckless of results that he was ever afterward called Wild Bill.

"Wild Bill was, like many of his sort, a profound, remorseless gambler. It was utterly useless to talk of work or reputable employment to Wild Bill Hickox. Through the war he was a scout for the Union army. He had few convictions, but being born and bred in Illinois, one of them was an intense antipathy to secession. It was thus he became a scout of the Union army. After the war, wherein he achieved considerable fame for daring energy and nerve as a scout, Wild Bill established himself at Springfield, Mo. It was there he killed Tutt, who had been chief of scouts in Price's army.

"Tutt, like Wild Bill, was a gambler, and they often met, and while they were in no degree in love with each other they managed to get along. Still there were more men of Tutt's political convictions in Springfield who were on the shoot than there were of Wild Bill's. They made up their minds to run him out or kill him. He owed Tutt some money as the result of a poker game. One night Wild Bill was playing poker with some friends. Tutt came up and stood looking on. Wild Bill's gold watch was lying on the table near him. Just as Tutt came up Wild Bill won a jack pot with something like $100 in it.

"'You seem to be flush, Bill,' said Tutt in a half ugly tone. 'Suppose you pay me that $40 you owe me.'

"'I owe you $30,' said Wild Bill, 'and here it is,' turning over three $10 bills to Tutt, who took them, put them in his pocket and then said, 'Give me the other ten.'

"'That's all I owe you,' said Wild Bill, 'and you have got it.'

"Tutt picked up the gold watch that was lying at Wild Bill's elbow, with the remark, 'Well, you still owe me ten, and I'll keep this watch till you pay it.' He put the watch in his pocket and turned to go. Wild Bill took it very coolly and said nothing. Everybody was somewhat amazed, if not disgusted, at the tameness of the young Union scout.

"Just as Tutt went out of the door he looked back at Wild Bill with a sneer and the remark: 'You don't seem to keer for this watch much, Bill. I'd supposed you'd have set more store by it. If you begin to feel like you need it, I am going to pack it across the square at noon tomorrow, and you might be there and get it, if you know how.'

"Wild Bill made no reply to what was understood by all present to be a challenge to a duel and calmly went on with his poker game, while Tutt departed. That night Wild Bill was found by a friend at his hotel very earnestly cleaning and loading his pistols.

"'What are you going to do?' asked the friend, who was an army officer stationed at Springfield.

"'I am going to kill Tutt tomorrow noon,' said Wild Bill, 'or he's going to kill me.'

"The next day at noon about all the male inhabitants of Springfield were in the square to see the fun. Tutt came into the square on the east side, while Wild Bill stood in front of the courthouse, diagonally across the corner of the square from Tutt. They were fully 150 yards apart, and all the lines ran diagonal to the line of fire between them. I mention it because it makes Wild Bill's shot all the more remarkable. The minute Tutt came in view he pulled his pistol, as did also Wild Bill. They were too far apart for Tutt, who had no idea that Bill could reach him at that distance. But he didn't know Wild Bill. He raised his gun and fired like a flash, and Tutt dropped dead with a bullet in his head, fully 150 yards away.

"Wild Bill was so sure of his aim that he never paused, but whirled on the crowd behind him, several of whom were friends of Tutt and had half drawn their pistols to revenge him. Wild Bill was too prompt and quick. He covered the gang in a general way with both his pistols and remarked:

"'Was 'hat on the square, gentlemen?'

"The effect of such witchlike skill on the nerves of the crowd was too much. The general view seemed to be that the killing of Tutt was 'on the square,' and that ended the business. Wild Bill staid in Springfield as long as he pleased after that.

"Back in 1881 I met the man who was playing cards with Wild Bill when he was killed in the Black Hills. I forget the old fellow's name, but at the time I met him he was captain of a Missouri river steamboat called the Lady Lee running between Kansas City and St. Louis. The bullet that killed Wild Bill struck the old captain in the forearm after passing completely through Hickox's head.

"The old captain told me when Wild Bill was shot he was dealing the cards. They were all playing poker at the time. His assassin shot him in the back of the head. The bullet crashed clear through and came out under his eye, striking the old river pirate in the arm. Wild Bill never knew what hit him, and his taking off illustrates that aphorism of the Bible, 'They that live by the sword shall perish by the sword.'

"The remarkable thing about it all was that, although Wild Bill was dealing the cards and had not the slightest notice of the shot which took his life, yet when he was picked up off the floor both his pistols were in his hands and one was cocked. Some medical man, lecturing on the latent impulses of the nerves, might get a good lecture some time out of the fact that Wild Bill drew his pistols after he was dead."
—Alfred Henry Lewis.

Bogus English Estates.

Ex-Consul General New reiterates the statement that there is no estate of any description amounting to as much as $1,000,000 in England, either in the Bank of England or in the court of chancery, in which American heirs are interested. The same statement has been made by indubitable authority a hundred times. But whenever a smart lawyer gets out of another job or wishes to take a trip to England at somebody else's expense the deathless "fake" of a vast English estate waiting for a number of guileless Americans to come over and get it is revived.—Chicago News.

EXTRA!

To inaugurate our Great

WHOLESALE SALE

We offer as Special this week

800 Fine Suits and Overcoats

In Fall and Winter Weights, Genuine English Cheviots and Clay Worsteds, Black, Blue and Gray Mixtures; Retail Price, $18 and $20,

AT ONLY $12.

"We sell Good Clothing for Less Money than any other house in the world."

TWO BROADWAY STORES:
194 Broadway, below Fulton St.
AND STEWART BUILDING,
Corner Broadway and Chambers Street,
NEW YORK.

BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & Co.

Open Saturday Evening till 9 o'clock.

NOTICE.

Estate of Henry Dealman, deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, made on the application of the undersigned administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, within nine months from the twelfth day of August, 1895, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.

THEODORE KURZHALS,
8 30 10-oaw Administrator.

NOTICE

Estate of Chauncey M. Field, deceased

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the County of Union, made, on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the ninth day of Sept. 1895, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

WM. A. CODDINGTON,
9 13 10-oaw Administrator.

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue. C. E. MORSE. Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

List of Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 7, 1895.

Booker Edward	Noles Squire
Bowers Mrs H C	Perretta Sig Antonio
Bradford Wm	Randolph A F
Buller Miss	Richardson Miss C L
Chas Mademoisell	Pangborn Elias
Cottington Wm H	Prine Robert
Condit H B 3	Perry Sarlena
Cox Wm	Ress Mrs R
Dunpsey Jno	Rungaloer Mrs J
Frost B J	Sarles Annie
Gunner Phillips	Sutton Chas G
Gaston Mr & Mrs L P	Sanford Mrs C W
Garrabrandt Eugene	Simpson Master H
Howard Mrs Ella	Stewart Mrs Leanora
Hillery Etta	Stead Mrs Sophia
Henderson Mrs M H	Smith Samuel
Jarvis Mrs E	Thorn Mrs Kitty
Kuhne F J	Stewart C M
Kitchen S P	Smith C M
Kerwin Lawrence	Scribner Mr & Mrs C
Little Mrs Mame	Sigler Jno E
Little Miss M V	Tabbert Paul
Miskel Comelia	Tabor Paul
Mechling Geo	VanArsdale Mrs P E
Mills F	Wheeler Mrs Theo
Mexviskox Z	Wearren Mrs G
Martin Mrs Josephine	Wilson Mrs Francis
Messler Mrs	Youmans E W

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.
P. M. DECKER, PROP

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

This new institution opened with a score of students, October 1st, in the Babcock building. The prospect brightens every day. The enterprise is an assured success. A grand opportunity is now offered to the young men and women of Plainfield and its neighboring towns. Beautiful rooms. Excellent systems. Good teachers. Four courses of study. Students enter at any time. Address, Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J.

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND,
140 West Front Street.

John Mullins,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

Everything Neceesary for Housekeeping! Cash or Credit! Liberal Terms to Everybody!

$12 For this handsome solid oak chamber suit, French bevel plate mirror, worth $20. 100 other styles to select from. $12

Bargains in Parlor Suits.

$20 Handsome New Parlor Suits, upholstered in silk Brocatelle, tapestry or rug, actual value $40. $20

New Fall Carpets.

The very latest styles and patterns of the finest textures, and at prices lower by 25 per cent. than any other house in the country.

Moquette,	Velvet,	Brussels,	Ingrain,
$1.00	90c	50c	30c
per yd	per yd	per yd	per yd

Goods safely packed and delivered free to any part of the State.

JOHN MULLINS,

218 and 220 Market Street, Newark, N. J.

BRANCH STORES:

121 to 125 Newark avenue, Jersey City, N. J. 136 and 138 Main street, Paterson, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK,

Front street opposite Somerset street.

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at
WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S,
Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name, Take Our Number, Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle,

141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)
94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.
325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.
230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,
SOMERSET STREET,

Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West 5th st., Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front st.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,
88 FIFTH AVE.,
near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 1 6 3 6m

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.
All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Fired Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield at 3 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 8 00, 7 58, 8 00, 8 25, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 59 a m; 12 00, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 36, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday, 3 14, 3 37, 6 05, 7 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 36, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 00, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, p m; 12 15, 1 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 45, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 36, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 11, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 16, 7 18, 7 55, 8 38, 9 03, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 12, 1 35, 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 05, 5 34, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 25 a m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 05, 5 40, 7 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 45, 4 36, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 23, p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 06, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 7 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 4 59, 6 25, 8 07, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 20, 5 10, 6 45, 8 03, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 35 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 45, 7 00, 8 53, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 49, 7 00, p. m; Sunday at 7 15, 10 32 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 5 10 9 54 a. m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD. CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D L. & W R R.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p. m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 14 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 00, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 3 51, 5 24, p. m. Sunday, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a. m; 3 03, p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15; 10 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p. m.

For Perth Amboy 3 37, 5 38, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 6 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City 3 37 a. m.; 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 12, 5 34*, 6 45, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55, 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45, 8 44, 9 46, a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53, p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a. m., 4 55, 5 14*, 6 35*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m, 5 34*, 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m. Sunday 5 14* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co.,

EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.
Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.
Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.
ADDIS & SON,
Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.
Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE
Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.
Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware
A. M. GRIFFEN,
119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale
AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.
Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,
High-Class
PORTRAITS
In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.
483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,
COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Supreme Court Commissioner.
First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's
LAW OFFICES,
Corner Park ave and 2d st.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery.
Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE
Even though you have
A Comfortable Bed,
You should
Lay in Your Coal
for the Winter.
George O. Stevens
747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.
Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.
W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,
Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.
128 NORTH AVENUE.
Fresh roasted peanuts every day, 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
COAL AND WOOD.
Yard Grant Street and Park avenue.
Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.
MRS. L. ADAMS,
114 EAST FRONT STREET,
Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,
Fresh, and from
Pure Materials.
TIER'S,
116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.
CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

Did You Sleep Well Last Night?
Sleeplessness is one of the principal symptoms of Kidney Troubles.
Don't take opiates, but cure your kidneys with
DR. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills
A few doses will relieve, A few boxes will cure.
At all druggists for 50c. per box, or mailed postpaid on receipt of price.
Write for interesting pamphlet.
HOBB'S MEDICINE CO.,
Chicago. San Francisco.

Please the Eye
with harmonious designs in wall paper and paints and see that the artisans who put the paper on the wall and the paint on the door and baseboards are thoroughly competent. It is our aim to satisfy you in both respects and we request an opportunity to convince you of our ability.
Paints, oils, varnishes, etc.
E. E. MARSHALL,
167 North avenue.

New! New!
YES
But Stop, Consider
what a combination of valuable medicines,
Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,
BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.
Try a bottle and be convinced.
50C.
Leggett's Pharmacy.

PIANOS.
You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at
J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY
FRANK S. CONVERSE.
SOLID ARM BANJO
Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?
I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at
L. W RANDOLPH'S,
Prescription Druggist,
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(For publication October 11, 1895.)

(Copyright 1895 by Irving Bacheller.)

PART II.

The bright lights of the day flashed into the old house when the captain angrily kicked open the door. He was aware of a wide hallway carpeted with matting and extending deep into the dwelling. There was also an old walnut hat rack and a little marble-topped table with a vase and two books upon it. Further back was a great venerable fire-place containing dreary ashes.

But directly in front of the captain was a young girl. The flying open of the door had obviously been an utter astonishment to her and she remained transfixed there in the middle of the floor, staring at the captain with wide eyes.

She was like a child caught at the time of a raid upon the cake. She wavered to and fro upon her feet and held her hands behind her. There were two little points of terror in her eyes as she gazed up at the young captain in dusty blue, with his red-fish, bronze complexion, his yellow hair, his bright sabre held threateningly.

These two remained motionless and silent, simply staring at each other for some moments.

The captain felt his rage fade out of him and leave his mind limp. He had been violently angry, because this house had made him feel hesitant, wary. He did not like to be wary. He liked to feel confident, sure. So he had kicked the door open and had been prepared to march in like a soldier of wrath.

DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF THE CAPTAIN WAS A YOUNG GIRL.

But now he began, for one thing, to wonder if his uniform was so dusty and old in appearance. Moreover, he had a feeling that his face was covered with a compound of dust, grime and perspiration. He took a step forward and said: "I didn't mean to frighten you." But his voice was coarse from his battle-howling. It seemed to him to have hempen fibres in it.

The girl's breath came in little, quick gasps, and she looked at him as she would have looked at a serpent.

"I didn't mean to frighten you," he said again.

The girl, still with her hands behind her, began to back away.

"Is there anyone else in the house," he went on, while slowly following her. "I don't wish to disturb you, but we had a fight with some rebel skirmishers in the woods, and I thought may be some of them might have come in here. In fact, I was pretty sure of it. Is there any of them here?"

The girl looked at him and said: "No!" He wondered why extreme agitation made the eyes of some women so limpid and bright.

"Who is here besides yourself?"

By this time his pursuit had driven her to the end of the hall, and she remained there with her back to the wall and her hands still behind her. When she answered this question, she did not look at him but down at the floor. She cleared her voice and then said: "There is no one here."

"No one?"

She lifted her eyes to him in that appeal that the human being must make even to falling trees, crashing bowlders, the sea in a storm, and said: "No, no, there is no one here." He could plainly see her remble.

Of a sudden, he bethought him that she had always kept her hands behind her. As he recalled her air when first discovered, he remembered she appeared precisely as a child detected at one of the crimes of childhood. Moreover, she had always backed away from him. He thought now that she was concealing something which was an evidence of the presence of the enemy in the house.

"What are you holding behind you?" he said suddenly.

She gave a little quick moan as if some grim hand had throttled her.

"What are you holding behind you?"

"Oh, nothing—please. I am not holding anything behind me; indeed I'm not."

"Very well. Hold your hands out in front of you, then."

"Oh, indeed, I'm not holding anything behind me. Indeed, I'm not."

"Well," he began. Then he paused, and remained for a moment dubious. Finally, he laughed. "Well, I shall have my men search the house, anyhow. I'm sorry to trouble you, but I feel sure that there is some one here whom we want." He turned to the corporal, who, with the other men, was gaping quietly in at the door, and said: "Jones, go through the house."

As for himself, he remained planted in front of the girl, for she evidently did not dare to move and allow him to see what she held so carefully behind her back. So she was his prisoner.

The men rummaged around on the ground floor of the house. Sometimes the captain called to them, "Try that closet," "Is there any cellar?" But they found no one, and at last they went trooping toward the stairs which led to the second floor.

But at this movement on the part of the men, the girl uttered a cry, a cry of such fright and appeal that the men paused. "Oh, don't go up there! Please don't go up there!—ple—ease. There is no one there! Indeed—indeed there is not! Oh, ple—ease!"

"Go on, Jones," said the captain, calmly.

The obedient corporal made a preliminary step, and the girl bounded toward the stairs with another cry.

As she passed him, the captain caught sight of that which she had concealed behind her back, and which she had forgotten in this supreme moment. It was a pistol.

She ran to the first step, and standing there, faced the men, one hand extended with perpendicular palm, and the other holding the pistol at her side. "Oh, please, don't go up there. Nobody is there—indeed, there is not. P-l-e-a-s-e." Then suddenly she sank swiftly down upon the step, and, huddling forlornly, began to weep in the agony and with the convulsive tremors of an infant. The pistol fell from her fingers and rattled down to the floor.

The astonished troopers looked at their astonished captain. There was a short silence.

Finally, the captain stooped and picked up the pistol. It was a heavy weapon of the army pattern. He ascertained that it was empty.

He leaned toward the shaking girl, and said gently: "Will you tell me what you were going to do with this pistol?"

He had to repeat the question a number of times, but at last a muffled voice said, "Nothing."

"Nothing!" He insisted quietly upon a further answer. At the tender tones of the captain's voice, the phlegmatic corporal turned and winked gravely at the man next to him.

"Won't you tell me?"

The girl shook her head.

"Please tell me?"

The silent privates were moving their feet uneasily and wondering how long they were to wait.

The captain said, "Please won't you tell me?"

Then this girl's voice began in stricken tones half-coherent, and amid violent sobbing: "It was grandpa's. He—he—he said he was going to shoot anybody who came in here—he didn't care if there were thousands of 'em. And—and I know he would, and I was afraid they'd kill him. And so—and—so I stole away his pistol—and I was going to hide it when you—you—you kicked open the door."

The men straightened up and looked at each other. The girl began to weep again.

The captain mopped his brow. He peered down at the girl. He mopped his brow again. Suddenly he said: "Ah, don't cry like that."

He moved restlessly and looked down at his boots. He mopped his brow again.

Then he gripped the corporal by the arm and dragged him some yards back from the others. "Jones," he said, in an intensely earnest voice, "will you tell me what in the devil I am going to do?"

The corporal's countenance became illuminated with satisfaction at being thus requested to advise his superior officer. He

"DON'T CRY LIKE THAT."

adopted an air of great thought and finally said: "Well, of course, the feller with the grey sleeve must be up-stairs, and we must get past the girl and up there some how. Suppose I take her by the arm and lead her"—

"What!" interrupted the captain from between his clenched teeth. As he turned away from the corporal, he said fiercely over his shoulder: "You touch that girl and I'll split your skull!"

(To be concluded.)

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.
Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Dancing Class
At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,
BEGINNING
Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.
Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.
9 27-10 1 5 8 11 12 15.

DRIVES IN Dress Goods

Our Dress Goods department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 75c a yard.
At 45c—Fine Scotch cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 50c a yd.
At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.
At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.
At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.
At 39c—All-wool serge, in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.
At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 75c a yard.
At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?
Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.
At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.
At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.
Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanters, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's
113 WEST FRONT ST.

JUST A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME
PLEASE
to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.
To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at
$10.00 PER SUIT.
These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.
WERNER'S,
206 West Front st.

Back Number GARMENTS
ARE FULL OF POSSIBILITIES.
Let us see if we can't discover a way of cleaning or dyeing them and helping you to economize.
We do this work perfectly—we turn the old spiritless faded looking clothing into bright lifelike effects—into the goodness of newness—maybe cleaning will do it—maybe dyeing. Shall we send for the goods? A postal will bring us, or our laundry drivers will take the work.
HILLIER & CO.,
179 North Avenue.

TALK OF THE TOWN!

AND EXPLANATION WHY

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED,

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

are doing all the business. Our stock is the largest, prices are the lowest and terms the easiest in the city. Just give it a passing thought that you can get an antique oak bedroom suit, 8 pieces, for $15, $20, $25 and $30, including a woven wire bed spring and a mixed mattress. No house in the city offers such inducements.

And then to think again that you can get tapestry Brussels carpet for 50, 60, and 70 cents a yard, made and laid with paper, which is a saving of 15c per yard. Where is there a house in the city that will offer such bargains?

And then imagine and wonder how we can afford to give away a moquette rug or parlor table with a parlor suit for $20, $30, $40 or $50.

Some of our competitors say that our ads are too much sameness, and that this ad. is old. Well, we will admit it, but as long as it does the business and saves the people money we will continue to run it.

PORTLAND RANGE

Well, there is no use saying anything about them. The eating of the pudding is always the proof of it. 75 of them sold last week.

STORING FURNITURE.

If it was the first of May our storage business could not be any better. We suppose it is on account of our low rates and cleanliness. Storage building 88, 90 and 92 Bank st. Furniture moved with vans. Telephone 580.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

One week, commencing

Monday, Oct. 14th

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

—THE—

Lizzie Evans

Comedy Company

—IN—

Reportoire.

at popular prices. Uniformed brass band and superb orchestra.

Monday Night---American Born.

Prices—10, 20 and 30 Cents.

Watch This Space.

Pargiter's Specials

FOR THIS WEEK.

Fine seal plush capes, fur trimmed, silk lined, 100 in. sweep, $7.48. Astrakhan capes, fur trimmed, silk lined, 140 inch sweep, at $12. Ladies wrappers 99c to $3. Children's flannelette cloaks in choice colorings. 75c, $1 and $1.25.

NEW STORE,

Cor. Park Avenue and 2d St., Plainfield, N. J.

Harry M. Jaquett,

123 EAST FRONT STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

The Clothier,

HATTER AND FURNISHER,

Cordially invites you to visit his store and inspect his

Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing,

for the Fall and Winter Season, complete in all its branches. Special attention given to Children's Clothing, Hats and Caps.

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods

Complete assortment in Neckwear, Underwear, Hosiery, etc., just received. New invoice of over 50 dozen suspenders.

In hats—John B. Stetson's celebrated make in Derby soft hats in latest styles. Also other makes and shapes. Complete assortment in Children's Hats and Caps.

One Price CASH. One Price

and money refunded if goods are not satisfactory.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

A NEW DEPARTMENT

We have opened on our second floor, just opposite the front elevator, a complete line of consisting of writing paper, envelopes, visiting cards, and all goods pertaining to a first-class Stationery Department. We are also prepared to take orders for wedding invitations, announcements, visiting cards, etc., etc. All work will be executed in first-class style at moderate prices.

FINE STATIONERY

50 visiting cards, printed and copper plate for.....85c
Box Hurd's Irish Linen, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....15c
Box Hurd's Richmond wove, containing 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....18c
Box Hurd's bank note and velvet finish parchment, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....25c
Box Hurd's velvet finish parchment, all tints, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....29c
Hurd's satin wove and Irish linen, put up in fancy book shape boxes, 24 envelopes and 24 sheets of paper.....30c
Hurd's satin wove paper and envelopes, per quire.....18c

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

SchSool hoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c, 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

Invest Your Money Invest Your Money

Will Pay Better than Building Loan or Savings Bank!

$10 on Signing Contract! $10 on Signing Contract!

$10 ON SIGNING CONTRACT!

$5 A MONTH! $5 A MONTH! $5 A MONTH!

60 LOTS SOLD.
60 LOTS SOLD.
60 LOTS SOLD.

Handsome Dwellings IN COURSE OF ERECTION.

NO AUCTION NECESSARY
NO AUCTION NECESSARY
NO AUCTION NECESSARY

The Plainfield Real Estate Company Make You This Offer on the Elegantly Situated Property at

Grant Ave., 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th Sts.

3 Minutes From Grant Avenue Station, on Line of Electric Road, and All City Improvements. Public School Adjoining the Property. Write or Call at the Office of Company, 151 North Avenue for Full Particulars.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

RED MEN AND PALE FACES MIX

MIANTONOMOH TRIBE CELEBRATE THEIR SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

An Enjoyable Programme Rendered—A Speech by the Great Junior Sagamore—Dance and Collation End the Anniversary

To those that do not know the Red Men the fact that a band of braves was gathering in the heart of our city last evening might have been alarming, but to those who were present at Red Men's Hall to attend the sixth anniversary of Miantonomoh Tribe I. O. R. M., last evening, there was none but the most pleasant memories of that great order.

The hall was crowded with the braves from the Miantonomoh and Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sinque tribes, the members of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, and the numerous friends of all three. Besides the visitors that thronged the hall to overflowing there were four of the great chiefs of the order seated on the platform with Master of Ceremonies William A. Westphal. They were Great Sachem William Forsyth, of Jersey City; Great Sannap William Smythe, of Long Branch; Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens, of Camden; Great Junior Sagamore David Peterson, of Paterson. District Deputy Sachem Charles Ulrich, of this city, was also seated at the place of honor.

The hall itself was decorated with bunting and flags while the chandelier was tastefully hung with Chinese lanterns. The committee which so successfully arranged the anniversary exercises consisted of Councilman William A. Westphal, chairman; Fred TenEyck, Charles Holdstein, David C. Allen and Michael Lealey.

After an opening selection by Prof. Guitman's orchestra, Chairman Westphal, who also acted as master of ceremonies, spoke a few words of welcome. The regular programme then opened with a piano solo by Mrs. Fred Canfield. B. T. Barnes sang Will Scarlet's forging song from "Robin Hood" which was loudly encored. George Leighs also brought forth hearty applause by his well rendered recitation of "The Stowaway." A vocal selection was delightfully rendered by Mrs. W. A. Westphal, and after she had responded to the loud applause, Great Sachem Forsyth was introduced.

He made a few apt remarks, and closed by saying that Brother Peterson, Great Junior Sagamore, was the speechmaker of the great chiefs and so he would leave the floor to him.

Mr. Peterson spoke of the origin of the order of Red Men in the colonial times when a band of young men, disguised as Indians, raided the English vessels and threw the chests of tea overboard. He told of the benefits of the order, the friendship of its members, and the large number that already belonged.

A violin solo by Joseph Sattells was the next number on the programme which was much appreciated as was shown by the applause. A tenor solo by Elmer Runyon was also encored, and was followed with a very enjoyable cornet solo by Mrs. J. D. Anderson. A song, with guitar accompaninent, by Harry Drier was listened to with interest, and a banjo solo by Will Force brought the programme to a close.

The floor was then cleared of seats and a dance and collation followed for which Prof. Guttman furnished the music.

Would Add Zest to Society Affairs.

The possibility of the establishment of a military post in Plainfield has excited local interest in a marked degree concerning the future movements of Uncle Sam's cavalry now stationed at Fort Myer, Va. Many people believe that a dash of military life would add to the attractions of the town and lend zest to local society affairs. It is unquestionably true that the Government is considering the location in Plainfield of the calvary troop mentioned, and it is reasonably certain that the troop will go into barracks in some town along the Central Railroad of New Jersey.—New York Tribune.

Christian Progress.

A very helpful meeting was held by the Endeavor society of the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening. The topic was "Progress in the Christian Life" and proved a very interesting one to all.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

OWNERS STATE THEIR PRICE

HOW MUCH IS WANTED FOR WATCHUNG AVENUE EXTENSION LAND.

Borough Councilmen Think That the Prices Are Too High and Commissioners of Appeal Will Probably Be Appointed.

Owing to the absence of Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., last night's adjourned meeting of the Borough Council was called to order by Councilman Lounsbury. The Mayor, however, came in later, having been detained on account of business.

Councilmen Peck, Howell, Schutt, Smith and Valiant answered to the roll call by Clerk Arnold.

A communication was then presented, signed by H. N. Spencer and others, asking that repair be made on Johnston's drive uniform with those made by the township.

The pay roll amounting to $19.50 was presented and later ordered paid.

Councilman Smith reported that the streets and public health committee had examined Harrison street and had decided that the borough could macadamize that thoroughfare for a lower figure than that offered by John Emmons, and later in the evening Councilman Howell offered a resolution which was carried that the committee be authorized to do the work. In regard to Johnston's drive, Councilman Smith stated that the street committee had looked into the matter and decided that the repairs should be made.

A resolution offered by Councilman Valiant gave the committee the power to go ahead and do the work.

President Lounsbury then stated the object for which the meeting was called, which wae to hear from the property owners along the line of the proposed extension of Watchung avenue.

Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed then called off the names of the property owners, and the following owners or their representatives responded:

Miss Mary Maglone, Mrs. Elizabeth Mair, C. W. Taynor for Elmer E. Taynor, (estate) Nathaniel Taynor, and Mary E. Adams; Charles Daley for Mary E. Daley, Margaret Daley and Mrs. Roth; George Taynor, Lewis Bird, Fred Becker, Thomas Rutledge, Mrs. Josephine Boice, George White, Henry Strauss for Hannah Derlach and Ferdinand Strauss; Mrs. Messerschmidt, and Rev. Father W. H. Miller for St. Joseph's R. C. church.

The President then announced that the Council was prepared to hear from the above-named persons, and as their names were called they came forward and made a statement.

Mrs. Maglone said that she wanted $500, that being the amount of her damages. About fifteen feet would be taken off her property leaving it in such condition that the remainder would have to be filled in, on account of the ground at that point being so low.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Mair, with a lot 32x100 on which stands a house, was willing to accept $2,600 for house and lot or $1,800 for lot.

Charles Taynor representing three lots offered them to the borough for $800 each, that being the lowest figure, and Charles Daley, representing three owners, placed a value of $600 on their property.

George Taynor wanted $2,000 for his house and lot which is right on the line.

A portion of the property owned by Lewis Bird, which is needed, was valued at $1,800 on account of it being on a corner.

The lot owned by Fred Becker was valued at $800, because his house would have to be moved.

Mrs. Mary E. Schenck valued her property at $1,000, for the reason that it would be on a corner, and 3½ feet would be taken off the front, and eight feet off the rear. Her house would also have to be moved.

Mrs. Josephine Boice, represented by her husband, wanted $1,000, as her property would stand on a corner.

George White valued his property along the line at $600.

Mrs. Messerschmidt was willing to sell her house and lot for $4,000, or the lot for $3,000.

For three houses on one lot John Rutledge asked $3,500.

Rev. Father Miller for St. Joseph's church, asked $1,200 for damages as the church would stand on a corner, not in his opinion very valuable to the church.

Henry Strauss, representing Hannah Derlach and Ferdinand Strauss, was not able to place a value on their property till he had learned something more in detail. The property is where the bridge that will span the brook will stand. He said that he would report in a few days in the matter.

This concluded the hearing, and

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

DEMOCRATS ARE NOT PHASED

THEY BELIEVE VICTORY IS THEIRS FOR THE HUSTLING.

County Executive Committee Meet, Call the Convention and Map Out an Active Campaign—Extraordinary Interest.

Enthusiasm was predominant at the meeting of the Union county Democratic executive committee in Elizabeth yesterday, when the attendance was the largest in the history of the committee. Among those present outside of the committee were R. V. Lindabury, J. E. Martine, Judge Green, H. R. Cannon, Judge Alward, Albert Carleton and Wm. Syckley. Brief addresses on the political situation were made by Hon. R. V. Lindabury, J. E. Martine, Judge Green, P. J. Ryan and others. The gist of the remarks showed the party organization to be working harmoniously for Democratic success. An active campaign will be inaugurated and meetings arranged for all through the county. After considerable discussion it was decided to change the ratio of representation in the county convention and allow one delegate for every fifty Democratic voters and one for every fraction over twenty-five.

The county convention was called for October 23d, at Elizabeth

MARRIED MEN NOT IN IT.

The Bachelors of The Crescent Wheelmen Outbowl Them.

There was a lively time last evening at the bowling alleys of the Crescent Wheelmen when ten of the married men bowled against the same number of the single men of the club.

The two ball game was used which accounts for the low score. After a fight that only ended after the last frame had been rolled, the bachelors won by fifty-five pins, their total being 1,313, and that of their opponents, 1,258. The benedicts did their best to down the pins and J. F. Buckle, in particular, distinguished himself, but it was of no use, the strikes and spare were too many, and the single men gradually increased their lead as the game went on. Harry Van Emburgh made the high score of the evening, 162, for his single brothers.

A SCHOLASTIC MUSICAL CLUB.

Leal's School Boys Organize a Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Club.

A glee, banjo and mandolin club was organized at Leal's School yesterday afternoon. Willis West had charge of the meeting which was opened for general discussion. Twenty-four boys were present. Another meeting will be held next week to adopt a constitution and elect officers.

There is plenty of talent in the school and the organization should be a great success. The plan has been under consideration for some time, as was exclusively told in The Daily Press, and has the support of the instructors as well as the boys. Should the attempt to form the club be successful a concert will be given during the winter.

Lack of Water.

The water supply in Elizabeth is low, owing to the prolonged drought, and were it not for the supply received from the artesian wells at Netherwood there would be a water famine in the city. A million gallons of water are obtained from the Netherwood wells, while the remaining two millions from this source go to supply Plainfield and the towns on the line of the New Jersey Central between the two cities.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

AMTHOR SUED FOR $10,000.

THE BROKER IN MORE TROUBLE OVER SHOOTING WILLIE VAN NESS.

Action Commenced in the Supreme Court Today by Reed & Coddington—Will Probably be Brought Up in January.

Reed & Coddington today commenced an action by issuing summons in the Supreme Court in a $10,000 damage suit against Gustave F. T. Amthor brought by George G. VanNest, whose son Willie, Amthor shot while in a fit of anger several months ago. It will be remembered that it was alleged that young VanNest was playing about Amthor's door yard, when Mrs. Amthor remonstrated with him for meddling with a piece of hose, and that the lad applied a vile epithet to her.

When acquainted with this alleged insult on his return at night from his duties as a broker in Wall street in New York Amthor worked himself into a temper and procuring a revolver started out to wreak yengance on the boy. He found him turning a switch for a trolley car on Monroe avenue, and after a few words, in which his passion seemed to increase, he leveled the revolver and shot the lad in the hip.

Young Van Ness was taken to the home of his assailant where he was cared for until he recovered sufficiently to be removed to his own home. Amthor was arrested and Justice Nash held him to await the action of the grand jury in $500 bail on the charge of assault with intent to kill. The grand jury is now in session, but as their labors are not yet completed, it is not known whether or not he has been indicted.

The summons in the case will be returnable in about ten days and the case will probably be ready for trial at the January term of court to be held at Elizabeth.

MR. HETFIELD WAS EMPLOYED.

But the Fickle Italians Wanted to Plead Their Case.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of last evening under heading "Me Want No Lawyer," it would appear that I represented two Italians yesterday morning before City Judge Coddington who didn't employ me. The truth is I was sent for at nine o'clock on Sunday evening last to appear for them and two others who were locked up in the station house, and because of there being no record of the charge against them I was unable to get them out until Monday morning at 9 o'clock, when I had them released and their case set down for yesterday morning, which was done in their presence and with their consent. They were perfectly willing to be represented and taken out of jail, but now it seems wanted to attend to their own case, to which I do not object, but do not want to be understood as appearing in any case for any one without first being employed. Walter L. Hetfield.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Sheriff Kyte, of Fanwood, was in town today on business.

Mrs. Nelson G. Williams, of Brooklyn, spent yesterday with Mrs. J. E. Morse, of Franklin place.

Miss D. Squires, of 37 Somerset street, returned last night from Prattsburg, N. Y., where she has been spending her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Symons, of Brandon, Vt., are visiting at the home of his brother, Paul Symons, of East Third street. Mr. Symons is Captain Co. C., Vermont National Guards, and is also honored with the rank of Brevit Major, First Regiment of his state. He formerly resided in Plainfield and has many warm friends here.

A Crack Wing Shot from Jersey.

Charles Smith, of Plainfield, N. J., is in the city as the guest of Judge George Kemp, of the Hoffman house. He is one of the best wing shots in his State, and incidentally takes part in the Independent Gun club's tourney, not for a prize, but to show, in a sportsman's way, that he knows how to use and handle a gun. Mr. Smith made a remarkably fine record as a marksman at the shoot yesterday afternoon.—Reading Times.

Preparing for the Kirmess.

The rehearsals for the Indian and French drills for the coming Kirmess will be held Monday evening at the Plainfield Bicycle clubhouse.

—White, of Plainfield, has the reputation of selling the best underwear and hosiery, and as they buy direct from the manufacturer they are in a position to sell goods at a very close figure. Their special sale of underwear for ladies, gentlemen and children, will interest you.

LEFT HIS OWN PROPERTY.

NOVEL GROUNDS TAKEN TO BREAK MRS. MANNING'S WILL.

The Husband Claims That His Wife Left Him That Which Was His Already and Now He Wants Some of the Other Values

The contest of the will of the late Mary Manning, the evidence of which is being taken in the Surrogate's Court, was continued this morning at the office of Harry C. Runyon, Court Stenographer Herbert W. Knight being present to take down the testimony. The will is being contested by the husband, William H. Manning, who is represented by Craig A. Marsh, and a brother, Michael Hefferan, and a sister, Ann Kearns, whose interests are looked after by R. V. Lindabury, of Elizabeth. The other heirs, who were well remembered in the will are represented by Harry C. Runyon.

The cause of the husband's protest is, that by the will he is left a piece of property which, after investigation, is proved to be his already, so he wishes another property which was left to other relatives. The property was purchased by Mrs. Manning and during her life she supposed that it had been deeded to her. The brother and sister are left out in the cold, while most of the other property, including $1600 in the bank and the household goods, was divided between the other brothers and two nieces.

The taking of testimony will be continued in Harry C. Runyon's office on November 23d.

Pleasantly Surprised.

A pleasant surprise was arranged and given by Mrs. H. E. Gayle, of 18 Vine street, on Thursday evening to her husband. The occasion was the anniversary of his birthday, and while he was busily engaged writing, about twenty-five of his friends appeared. He was completely surprised but proved himself equal to the occasion. The time was pleasantly spent in congratulations, playing games, singing, etc., after which a bountiful collation was served.

Whistling to Keep up Courage.

Charles Hand, a Plainfield Republican, wagered a considerable amount that Griggs will not be elected, even before the Democratic nomination was made, which is evidence that he is willing to back up an opinion that doubtless the large mass of Republicans of the State secretly entertain, though they are "whistling to keep up courage."—Rahway Democrat.

Dr. Riggs' Lecture.

Rev. Dr. James F. Riggs, D. D., of New Brunswick, who preached so acceptably during the illness of Rev. C. Schenck in the Trinity Reformed church the past summer, has agreed upon Thursday evening, October 31st, as the date for his lecture on "Constantinople" under the auspices of the Ladies Christian Work society of the church.

Postponed Until Next Saturday.

The love-feast and shooting match that was to have taken place this afternoon in the farmer orator's (James E. Martine) orchard is postponed until next Saturday. Then there will be a large attendance, as there would have been today, weather permitting.

Telephone Service in Plainfield, $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

The following cases on contract have been adjourned in Justice Newcorn's court till Friday, Oct. 25th: G. J. Tobin against Charles Wright, Benjamin Sutton, Mrs. Margaret West, and Mrs. Bradley.

—Miss Alcutt, expert corset fitter from Princess of Wales Company, arrived at the Commercial Palace today and will remain one week to exhibit the merits of Her Majesty's corset.

—John Burke, of Dunellen, died at his residence there yesterday at noon. He was a brother-in-law to Theodore Smith, the clerk at Alex. Findlay's, on East Second street, this city. Mr. Burke has been ill for a long time.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

WHITE CAPS BACK AGAIN.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS ARRIVE HOME FROM ATLANTIC CITY.

Great Time in the Convention When Plainfield '96" Captured the Convention—Services on the Cars on the Return.

The beautiful weather, with which the Christian Endeavor State Convention at Atlantic City opened, continued through Thursday and Friday, much to the satisfaction of everyone.

During the noon recess yesterday services were held at the life saving stations, solemn, helpful meetings, which will long remain in the minds of those who took part in them.

In the afternoon Miss Alice B. Splangberg, of this city, gave her report as Missionary Superintendent. The Junior rally was an especially interesting part of the session. But the most exciting moment of the whole Convention was when Rev. Mr. Spooner came forward to announce the Convention city for 1896. How the hall shook with applause at the words, "We are going to Plainfield."

In the evening the Plainfield delegates marched in a body to the Academy of Music, where the space was divided according to counties. The delegation from Union and Somerset counties made a fine display, nearly all wearing white caps, the motto of which, "Plainfield, '96," had now proved a true prophecy.

President French presided, the convention sermon was preached by Rev. Charles Olmstead, of Cambridge, Mass., and the closing "Enduement Service" was conducted by Halsey Hammond, Secretary Central Branch Philadelphia, Y. M. C. A. This was the solemn hour of the convention. Union county's response to the roll-call was a verse of "Take time to be Holy." No one present at the following moment of most solemn consecration, when hundreds promised to use every effort to win in the next year at least one soul for the Master, can ever forget the impression with which he left the convention hall for the last time.

At the close of the session the Plainfield delegation gave the other Endeavorers a reception at the "New England."

Friday morning, in spite of a few drops of rain, many Plainfielder's gathered on the beach soon after six for the farewell prayer meeting. At the close, all joined hands and standing in a circle sang "Blest be the tie that binds."

At train time, eight a. m., a hard rain was falling, and stages took the delegates to the train, sorry to leave Old Ocean and the place where all had received so much blessing, but ready to go home and work with new energy.

Devotional services were held again in the train, led by prominent Endeavorers.

The crew of the train were all members of the Christian Endeavor society and stayed at Atlantic City during the convention with the rest of the Endeavors. They were engineer, S. L. Jones, of Jersey City; fireman, Wm. McMahon, of Jersey City; conductor, M. L. Rarick, of Dunellen; baggagemaster, G. B. Van Norwick, of Somerville; breakman, C. Van Derveer, of Jersey City.

The train arrived here today on the return shortly after twelve o'clock in a pouring rain. The run was an exceptionally fast one.

HIGH VALUATIONS.

Property Owners Ask Big Prices for Watchung Avenue Extension.

A member of the Borough Council in speaking of the amounts desired by the various property owners along the proposed extension of Watchung avenue said that nearly everyone placed an exceedingly high valuation on their property. In some cases a slight strip would be sacrificed, yet the owners want $500 or $600 for that little strip.

In the case of St. Joseph's church the new street will pass between the church and the house owned by Mrs. Josephine Boice, leaving both on a corner, yet the church wants $1,200 and Mrs. Boice asks $1,000.

It seems as though it will be necessary to appoint commissioners to settle the whole affair.

Coroner's Inquest on Monday.

The coroner's inquest to be held over the body of the Italian, who was murdered at Westfield a short time ago, will continue on Monday afternoon at two o'clock in the city court rooms.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

MUNYON'S

GRAND WORK FOR HUMANITY

Stop Killing Yourself With Dangerous Doses of Poisonous Drugs—Get Munyon's Guide to Health and Cure Yourself With a Harmless 25 Cent Remedy—Positive and Permanent Cures for Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Troubles and All Special Blood and Nervous Diseases.

Why pay big doctor bills to have your constitution ruined by old-fashioned doses of mercury, morphine and quinine? Why not try a 25c bottle of Munyon's Homœpathic Home Remedies? They are absolutely harmless and contain positive cures for the most obstinate diseases. A separate specific for each disease. Sold by all druggists.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure never fails to relieve in 1 to 3 hours and cures in a few days. Price 25c.

Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure is guaranteed to all forms of indigestion and stomach troubles. Price 25c.

Munyon's Catarrh Cure soothes and heals the afflicted parts and restores them to health. No failure. Price 25c.

Specially successful cures for nervous debility, all nervous diseases, specific blood and skin troubles, liver, kidney and bladder troubles, female weakness, piles and neuralgia quickly cured.

Personal letters to Prof Munyon, 1505 Arch st, Philadelphia, Pa., answered with free medical advice for any disease.

DRIVES IN DressGoods

Our Dress Goods Department has never been stocked with a more complete line of "Up-to-Date" Novelties than at at the present time. Our lines of Serges, Cashmeres, Crepons, Silk Warp Henriettas and Silks, are unapproachable in quality and price, and are the envy of all our "would be competitors.

At 47c—High-class novelties in worsted goods, 38 inches wide, 40 different shade effects; were 63c a yard.
At 45c—Fine Scotch Cashmere plaids, all the newest and latest designs; were 5 c a yd.
At 49c—A beautiful line of Crepon cloth, in brown, green, blue and black, were 65c a yard.
At 75c—An all-wool black serge, 52 in. wide, a genuine beauty; must be seen to be judged rightly; were 92c a yard.
At 45c—An all-wool black serge, 45 in. wide; very reasonable at 55c a yd.
At 39c—All-wool serges in blue and black, the regular 50c quality; further comment unnecessary.
At 50c—A very pretty line of all-wool figured dress goods, with changeable effects; were 59c a yard.
At 15c—38-inch worsted dress goods in all leading shades; can you match this elsewhere?
Talk about silks, why we are right in it, as far as prices and style goes.
At 75c—Fancy plaid silks, suitable for waists or fronts; the very latest combinations; were 90c.
At 39c—An immense line of plain silks an entire new importation; would be considered cheap at 50c a yd.

Millinery Goods.

Our opening in this department has greatly exceeded our fondest hopes. We wish to convey to our patrons in general the assurance that anything needed by them in this line, such as Sailors, Alpines, Tam O'Shanties, Toques, ribbons, and in fact, everything and anything pertaining to this line, will be sold at prices which cannot be approached by any other millinery house in this city.

Boehm's

113 WEST FRONT ST.

HOME

Building and Loan Ass'n.

Meets for payment of dues and interest, on the Third Monday of each month, at the rooms over City National Bank.

Dues are $1.00 per month for share of $200. Entrance fee 25c per share.

Members may obtain an advance of the full amount of their shares, by giving approved real estate security worth 25 per cent more than the amount advanced, at a cost for interest of $1.00 per month per share, and a premium which is usually very low.

New series will be opened at the April and October meetings. Members received at any meeting on payment of dues from the commencement of the current series.

ISAAC W. RUSHMORE, President.
S. R. STRUTHERS, Sec'y.
917 Madison Ave. 7 6 6m-Sats

Gold Dollars for Fifty Cts

No but full alue' C. E. MORSE, Painting and Paper Hanging, 37 Chatham st.

F. A. DUNHAM,

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

109 Park ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87—F.

UNDER HOT CROSS-FIRE

Durrant Comes Out Without Contradicting Himself.

The Prosecutor Reserved His Most Telling Points for the Close—Intimation of Rebuttal Testimony of a Very Important and Sensational Character.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Theodore Durrant, while losing none of his coolness and self-possession, and without being made to contradict himself in any way, did not fare so well in his struggle with District-Attorney Barnes yesterday as he did the day before. Barnes had reserved his most telling points for the close, and he brought them out with good effect. There were in his interrogations yesterday broad intimations of rebuttal testimony of a very important and, in one case, sensational nature, and he expects next week to complete the net which, in his direct examination, he partly wove around the accused man. Just how far he will be able to do this remains to be seen. Among his most important witnesses for next week will be several to whom it is alleged that Durrant made damaging statements at variance with his testimony given on the stand.

His Statements to Reporters.

When proceedings opened yesterday Durrant was confronted with statements alleged to have been made to two reporters, in which he said that on the afternoon of the murder he had arrived at the church between 4 and 4:20 o'clock. He admitted that he had made statements to the reporters, but said that he had been misunderstood. The time referred to his trip from the college to the church and not his arrival at the church. He said he had stated the time he left the college to have been between 4 and 4:30 o'clock. When he came down from the space above the ceiling to the Sunday school room, where George C. King, the organist, was playing, Durrant said he looked through the glass in the door and saw King before stepping through the doorway. When it was called to his attention that the glass was stained he insisted that he could see the outline of King's form through the clear spaces in it. He did not place his eye to the clear spaces, but stood about fifteen feet distant from them.

Knew Nothing About Bromo-Seltzer.

Barnes then questioned him as to his knowledge of bromo-seltzer, and he said he had never studied up on it and had not even read advertisements about it. He did not, as Barnes suggested, know that its active principle was bromide of potash. What little he knew of it was imparted to him by Dr. West, a prisoner in the county jail charged with murder. He learned that it was composed of acetanolid, caffeine, bromide of soda, soda and tartaric acid. He was asked why, if he knew nothing about it, he had sent King for it, and he replied that he thought it would stay on his stomach.

Didn't Know the Meaning of Alibi.

He denied that after his arrest he had asked Dr. Gilbert F. Graham, a fellow student, for notes of the lecture, accompanying his request with a statement that it would enable him to make an alibi. He said Graham had proffered his notes. Durrant said at that time he did not know the meaning of the word alibi, nor its operation in law. He also denied that after he had seen his name associated with the disappearance of Blanche Lamont and before his arrest he had borrowed the notes of student Glazer, but admitted that he had consulted Glazer's notes.

His Talk with a Woman Reporter.

The sensation of the day was then produced when Durrant was asked if he had not on the 22d of last month shown to Miss Carrie Cunningham, a reporter, an envelope containing a statement not to be opened except in the event of his conviction. He denied having done so. Barnes then asked him: "Did you on the 5th of October in cell No. 29 of the county jail in a conversation with Miss Cunningham say that when you were at work fixing the sunburners you heard a noise and followed it up to the belfry and there saw the dead body of Blanche Lamont on the second landing and did you say that she was murdered on the second landing of the belfry?"

He Becomes Dramatic.

"There was a story brought to me by Miss Cunningham," said Durrant, "which, like the 'Sweet Pea Girl' story, purported to be a rumor which she had heard about town, to the effect that I heard a noise while fixing the gas burner, and that I had followed the noise to the landing above to see what it was and discovered what you make reference to. I neither affirmed nor denied it, as I have done with every reporter who has brought a story to me. I asked her if she intended to publish this, and told her she would put me to great annoyance. She said she would say nothing about it whatever, and she stood on a box and said she would solemnly promise me she would say nothing about it until it could be proven. Now," added Durrant dramatically, "I ask for the proof to come forward."

The Story Put in His Mouth.

"Did she not ask you," persisted Barnes, "if you were sure it was the second landing, and did you not say that landing was not in sight from where you were, and then did she not say that it was the second landing, as that was where the blood fell on the cloth covered picture; and did you not say that there was no blood at all—that what seemed to be blood had been analyzed and found to be water? Did she frame her story in something of that way," replied Durrant. "I argued the point with her that a person could not see anyone in the belfry from the new ceiling. I told her that she should not come to me and put such stories in my mouth as she did when she wrote about the 'Sweet Pea Girl.' I told her that she had that young lady related to me and furnishing funds for my defense, and asked her where she landed with it. I told her that story was mythical and nothing more, and told her not to bring me any such stories or rumors, as I could not either affirm or deny them, and that was the end of it." This concluded Durrant's cross-examination. The case went over until Tuesday.

Treasury Gold Statement.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The treasury statement gold reserve this morning was $92,084,468.

DARKER FOR HOLMES.

Another Damaging Link in the Chain of Evidence Against Him.

Indianapolis, Oct. 12.—Interest in the famous H. H. Holmes case was revived here yesterday by the reappearance of Detective Geyer of Philadelphia. Going to the house in Irvington where Howard Pietzel was murdered and his body burned, Geyer fitted a key from his pocket in the front door night latch. It worked perfectly. The key had been found on the person of Holmes after his arrest in Philadelphia. Dr. Thompson, who lived in the house before Holmes occupied it, recognized the key as the one he had carried for two years. The detectives regard this latest discovery as final in identifying Holmes as the man who man had occupied the house with Howard Pietzel. Geyer has arranged to take Dr. Thompson, Dr. Beyer and other witnesses to Philadelphia on October 26. He will also take with him the remains of the Pietzel boy.

PENNSYLVANIA W. C. T. U.

In Session at Harrisburg—Governor Hastings Welcomes the Delegates.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—The state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union is in session in the Market Square Presbyterian church. About 300 delegates are present from all parts of the state. Mrs. Anna W. Hammer of Philadelphia, the president, is in the chair. Miss Frances Willard and others prominent in the work arrived yesterday. Gov. Hastings delivered an address of welcome last night. The convention will be in session until next Tuesday. Routine reports were presented yesterday, and they were all encouraging. This is the twenty-first anniversary of the organization.

POISONED 23 CHILDREN.

A Woman Arrested in Italy Confesses Her Crimes.

Palermo, Oct. 12.—A woman has been arrested at Aderno, seventeen miles northwest of Catania, on the charge of poisoning children. After her arrest she confessed that she had poisoned twenty-three children, her object being to avenge the death of her two sons, whose taking-off she declared was due to witchcraft. The bodies of ten of the poisoner's victims have been found in the places where she said she had caused them to be buried. The woman is not believed to have been alone in her crimes, and seven persons who are supposed to have been her accomplices are also under arrest on that charge.

MUST NOT INTERFERE.

Judge Dunbar's Injunction Against Boston Steam Fitters.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Judge Dunbar in the equity session of the superior court has granted a preliminary injunction against John J. Sullivan and other members of the Boston journeymen steam fitters' union restraining them from patroling or otherwise obstructing the sidewalk in front of the establishment of Albert B. Franklin of Franklin street, this city, or from interfering with workmen employed on any building where Franklin may have a contract.

TIMOTHY CUSHMAN DEAD.

A Naval Veteran Under Farragut and Wounded at Vicksburg.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Timothy Cushman, a veteran of the navy under Farragut in the famous Vicksburg attack, died in this city yesterday afternoon. In this engagement he was badly wounded by a shell, and, as a result, was compelled to wear a silver plate to cover the brain where his skull had been fractured. Two weeks ago he fell from a bridge over the Erie tracks—an accident which resulted in his death.

Henderson Not Indicted.

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 12.—The case of Charles D. Henderson, the Reading railroad brakeman, who shot and killed 15-year-old Harry Schofield of West Mayayunk, while the latter was riding on a freight train, was before the grand jury yesterday. After hearing the evidence the jury ignored the bill.

Hancock Statue in Place.

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—The bronze statue of Maj.-Gen. Hancock was put in position on East cemetery hill yesterday. The statue of Gen. Meade is here and will be placed on its pedestal just as soon as the stones arrive next week. The dedicatory exercises will likely occur in November.

Heavy Registration at Albany.

Albany, Oct. 12.—The first day's registration in this city was the largest in many years. The total is 8,747. The first day's registration in 1893, when the state officers were elected, was 4,231. The total for the first day last spring was 6,695.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Wheat—Spots are still held higher. October, 64 3-4c.; December, 66 3-8c.; May, 69 7-8c.

Corn—Spot strong, checking free trade. No. 2 white 38 1-2c. f. o. b. afloat. October, 36 1-8c.; November, 35 3-4c.; May, 34 3-4c.

Oats—Spot stronger, checking trade. No. 2 white, 25 1-8c.; No. 3 white, 23 1-2c.; No. 2 mixed, 23 1-2c.

Pork—Spot firm with a fair demand. Extra prime nominal, short clear, $11.50 a$13.50; family, $12.00a$12.50; mess, $9.75a$10.25.

Lard—Contracts are quiet and easier. October, $6.90.

Butter—Strictly fancy creamery is scarce and in demand at full prices. The lower grades remain steady with but slight change in prices. Creamery, western extras, 23c.; creamery western seconds to firsts, 19a21c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, fancy, 21 1-2c.; state dairy, half-firkin tubs, seconds to firsts, 14a18c.; western imitation, seconds to firsts, 11a16c.; western dairy, firsts, 12a13c.

Cheese—There was a fair inquiry from speculators for state full cream, large size, white, choice, 9 1-2a9 5-8c.; large colored fancy, 9 5-8c.; state part skims, choice, 9a9 1-8c.; fair to prime, 4 1-2a9 1-8c.; common, [illegible]

Eggs—Fancy quality, fresh gathered, are held at 19c.; but that is extreme, and potainable only for a small part of the arrivals.

Potatoes—The demand slow and choice lots steady, but prices rule in buyers' favor. Long Island rose potatoes in bulk, per bbl. $1.00a$1.12; Jersey Rural and Blush, choice, per barrel, 90c.a$1.00; Jersey Giants, in bulk, per barrel, 90c.$1.00.

Premature * Old Age

is deplorably prevalent in this nineteenth century. Thousands die annually—young in years, but as completely worn out as though the full allotment of their time had passed over their heads. The man who feels that he is "breaking down," experiences loss of strength, sleep, and appetite, should at once take that greatest of concentrated food preparations. It is not a medicine, but a builder-up of brain, nerve, and flesh tissue. By its strength-giving properties, and its action as an invigorator of each of the great life-maintaining organs of the body, it stops the decline, and gives to the prematurely broken-down sufferer a new lease of life, wherein poor health is an unnecessary adjunct if its use is continued.

Bovinine

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,

—BEGINNING—

Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.
9 27-30 1 5 8 11 12 15.

Educational.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM,
525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.
9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 623 East 88th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig. } Principals.

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French German, Latin, Russian, Drawing Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 126 East 2d st. eod

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE,

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Nov. 14, including Asheville, Chattanooga, Luray, etc. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

'Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MACDONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

COAL F. W. HAND,

132 North avenue.
929 South avenue.
197 North avenue.
Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

141 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

Formerly with Queen & Co. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office.

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-S t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK DEY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.
J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield,
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed

Rockview Home and Day School
REOPENS SEPT. 18.
Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.

Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS, — EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Ten Sweet Caporal Little Cigars for 5 cts.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Post-office box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop.

HIS VACATION ENDED

President Cleveland Starts for Washington.

The Entire Journey To Be Made by Water on Mr. Benedict's Yacht—Had a Most Enjoyable Time and the Fishing Was Never Better—Mrs. Cleveland To Follow Tuesday

Bussards Bay, Mass., Oct. 12.—The president has concluded his vacation so far as Gray Gables is concerned and left at 5:15 yesterday afternoon on the steam yacht Oneida as the guest of Commodore Benedict. Private Secretary Thurber accompanied him. Mrs. Cleveland, the children and other members of the family will leave next Tuesday in a special car. The president's entire journey to Washington will be made on the Oneida, a trip never before made, as the president generally sails only as far as New York, where a train is taken to Washington. They will proceed leisurely along the sound, and may possibly stop and fish if the weather is favorable. The president plans not to arrive in Washington before Monday and possibly not till Tuesday.

The Fishing Was Good.

In speaking of his vacation this year the President said it had been a most enjoyable one. The weather for the most part has been exceedingly pleasant and fishing, both fresh and salt water, was never better. There have been comparatively few callers of a political or official office seeking character and the president has had most of the time to himself. Secretary Thurber says that in no time in seasons past has the president been called upon to attend to such a volume of government matter as this year, and while he has appeared to have done considerable fishing he has, on the other hand, been very busy and has often times kept at work until midnight or after. The president has enjoyed excellent health this summer and he plainly shows it. In fact, he is fully rested and in the best of health and spirits.

THE ARMENIAN SITUATION.

British Fleet Ready To Sail for Constantinople.

Constantinople, Oct. 12.—During the evacuation of the churches here yesterday by the Armenian refugees who had sought safety in them after the recent rioting, the police were withdrawn from the vicinity. The cavasses of the embassies searched the refugees for arms, which, if discovered, were taken away from their possessors and deposited in the patriarchate. As the refugees left the buildings the priests entered their names in books. The English fleet is anchored in the Dardanelles, ready to proceed to Constantinople. A Russian fleet is anchored close to the Bosphorus. Sabri Effendi, a Mussulman lawyer, was arrested on Oct. 7 outside the British postoffice here for posting a letter from the Ottoman liberal committee to Lord Salisbury.

GEN. MILES' NEW HOME.

He Leases a Residence in Washington Owned by Mr. Kindleberger.

Washington, Oct. 12.—General Miles has leased for his residence in this city the house at the corner of Twentieth and G streets, owned by Surgeon Kindleberger of the navy. It is near the war department and one square above the residence of Secretary Herbert and directly opposite the house of Marshall Wilson of the district. Mrs. Miles has returned to New York to see to the packing of her household effects. General Miles will go to New York in a few days to superintend their removal and to bring his family to their new home.

WOMEN'S VOTE LIGHT.

A Significant Falling Off in Connecticut Since Last Year.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 12.—Full returns of the women's vote at the school elections in this state last Monday show that there were polled only 1,906 ballots, as compared with 3,241 in 1894 and 3,806 in 1893. There are about 170,000 women in the state entitled to vote if registered. The returns are pretty certain to be used effectively against appeals hereafter to the legislature by the women suffragists for extension of the voting privilege.

Harvard-West Point Football.

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—Arthur A. Knipe of the university of Pennsylvania will referee the Harvard-West Point game of football this afternoon. He is accompanied on his trip by quite a number of Pennsylvania graduates who are anxious to get a line on Harvard.

Gibbons Leaves for New Mexico.

Baltimore, Oct. 12.—Cardinal Gibbons left last night for Santa Fe, N. M., where he will invest Archbishop Chapelle of that province with the pallium. His eminence travels in the private car of R. J. Kenley of St. Louis.

For Embezzling Mail Matter.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The postoffice department has received a telegram from Inspector Dice at New Orleans announcing the arrest of John Snoddy, late postmaster at Big Springs, Tex., for embezzling ordinary mail matter.

Justice Jackson's Death.

Washington, Oct. 12.—A meeting of members of the bar of the supreme court of the United States will be held in the court room Monday morning to take action upon the death of the late Supreme Court Justice Jackson.

Money for the South.

New York, Oct. 12.—Telegraphic transfers of currency to the south and west through the sub-treasury yesterday were $50,000. Exchanges of large for small bills were $170,000.

Mailed His Resignation.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 12.—Alderman Herman Schmidt, who figured in a recent alleged crooked horse transaction with the city, mailed his resignation to Mayor Lechkuecher last night.

Comptroller Bowler Returns.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Comptroller Bowler has returned from his vacation, which he spent in Maine, and has resumed his duties at the treasury.

MAY SMASH A RECORD.

The St. Paul Spoken at Sea While Making Great Speed.

New York, Oct. 12.—If the new American line steamer St. Paul does as well for the rest of her voyage as she did the first twenty-two hours after leaving Sandy Hook she is likely to break the record between this port and Southampton. The steamer Fuerst-Bismarck from Hamburg exchanged signals with the St. Paul 445 miles out, and the new steamer was going along to the eastward with great speed. The sea was comparatively smooth at the time the Bismarck passed the Yankee steamer, and with a westerly wind everthing favored the new craft. Some of the passengers of the German boat say that she must have been doing over twenty-one keots an hour when seen. It has developed that before Capt. Jameson left this port on Wednesday he had instructions to smash the record if he could.

BELIEVED MORMON PROMISES.

As a Result West Virginians Are Returning Penniless from Utah.

Central City, W. Va., Oct. 12.—One year ago a party of persons arrived in this section claiming to be Mormon ministers, and numbers of them have since come here. Meetings have been held and graphic accounts are being told of the far west. Many men have been induced to sell their effects and go to Utah, and almost daily they are being brought back penniless through the aid of their friends. Several families passed through here yesterday enroute to their former homes in Logan and Scone counties. A meeting of ministers of all denominations has been called to take some action in the matter, and the result is awaited with interest.

JAFFRAY & CO.'S PROPERTY.

It is Liable for the Amount Due to Creditors of the Firm.

New York, Oct. 12.—It has been decided that the real estate of E. S. Jaffray & Co., is liable for the obligations of the firm. The creditors have now received 80 per cent. of their claims, which has used up practically all the assets except the real estate. The real estate is worth $1,000,000. It is mortgaged for something over $250,000, so that the equity in it exceeds $700,000. The remaining 20 per cent. will require $250,000 in round numbers. Therefore there will be in the neighborhood of $400,000 left for the Jaffray heirs.

TYPHOID IN WASHINGTON.

Over 600 Cases To-day and Danger of the Epidemic Spreading.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The health officer of Washington says that an epidemic of typhoid fever exists in this city and that unless sanitary precautions are observed by the inhabitants generally a serious condition of affairs may shortly be expected. Health Officer Woodward estimates that over 600 cases are under treatment in the district to-day. The epidemic is attributed to the low state of the water in the Potomac.

SACKVILLE'S PAMPHLET.

Feeling of Unqualified Regret in England over Its Publication.

London, Oct. 12.—The Chronicle today says it is expected when Ambassador Bayard returns to London he will decline to be drawn into a controversy with Lord Sackville. The feeling existing in reference to the pamphlet is one of unqualified regret. This finds its strongest expression, perhaps, in diplomatic circles, where the incident is a matter for general comment.

VOLUNTEERS FOR CUBA.

Spain Will Send Torpedoes To Be Used Against Filibusters.

Madrid, Oct. 12.—Dispatches from Cadiz report the arrival of the steamer San Francisco, having on board 835 Spanish volunteers from Buenos Ayres. The government intends to dispatch torpedoes to be used in defending the Cuban coast against filibusters.

SEVERAL WERE WOUNDED.

Further Rioting Among Barcelona Students—Charged by Police.

Barcelona, Oct. 12.—There was further rioting among the students here yesterday. The rioting was so serious that the gendarmes were compelled to charge the mob before they were able to disperse it. Several of the rioters were wounded.

Municipal Ownership of Railroads.

Albany, Oct. 12.—The special committee appointed by the last assembly which is inquiring into the feasibility of municipal ownership of street railroad franchises will continue its investigation on Monday next in Rochester. From there the committee will go to Syracuse and thence to Utica and Albany. After election the committee will hold several meetings in New York city.

U. P. Reorganization Plan.

New York, Oct. 12.—The $10,000,000 to be provided by the syndicate organized to underwrite the Union Pacific railway reorganization plan is to be used to pay off the past due coupons on the underlying liens and also the coupons on the same liens during the coming two years. By this action the right will be secured to foreclose the first mortgage.

Reward for Bibby's Arrest.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The postoffice department has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of William Bibby, late mail-carrier from Newton to Geneva, Ala., who absconded with a mail pouch. He is of English birth, but hails from Pennsylvania. Bibby is about 18 years old, and has a sailor's gait.

To Christen Gunboats.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Miss Gray, the daughter of the senior senator from Delaware, and Miss Guild, the daughter of the mayor of Nashville, Tenn., have been selected to christen the gunboats Wilmington and Nashville respectively, at Newport News, Va., on Oct. 19.

Danbury Day at Danbury Fair.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 12.—Danbury day at the big fair was a pronounced success. It was estimated that the attendance was at least 20,000.

Off for Her Trial Trip.

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—The battleship Indiana left Cramp's ship yard this morning for her official trial trip off the New England coast.

KEEPS POISON OUT.

Poison in the Blood. The Kidneys Filter it Out and Keep the Blood Pure. They Protect Us From Many Dangerous Diseases.

What Happens When They Get Out of Order. How to Cure Them Again.

Most diseases are caused by poison in the blood.

The poison should be kept out.

The kidneys are supposed to do this. That is what they are there for.

And they generally do. But when they are sick they can't; and then we get sick.

The kidneys may get sick from overwork, worry, excess, high living, etc.

The reason so many of our great men die from Bright's disease is that so many overwork themselves.

Bright's disease is only one of the many diseases the root of which lies in the kidneys.

Other folks suffer from diabetes, rheumatism, gout, gravel, sleeplessness, anæmia, nervousness, headache, neuralgia, etc.

All these diseases would go if the poison could be got out of your blood. If the kidneys would only do their work. If you would only take Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills to make your kidneys do their work.

It is not your kidneys' fault.

You should be trying to help them.

You can do it by taking Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

It is such an easy piece of knowledge to remember.

Your kidneys are simply filters. They need looking to now and then like other filters. If they are kept clean and healthy, they will keep your blood clean and healthy, and you will be strong and healthy.

Asparagus is a healing and strengthening tonic for the kidneys.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills give fresh life and power to the kidneys. They cause the kidneys to purify the blood, to make it redder and healthier and more nourishing. They put new life into your body, new color into your blood, new ambition into your mind, new youth into your joints and muscles.

They do not work miracles.

But they cure diseases.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills have cured so many people that they can be safely relied on to cure you.

They will cure you, not because they have cured others, but because they are made from herbs which have never failed to cure the kidneys when taken in the proper doses.

They are prepared by a physician who knows how to cure the kidneys.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

Sold by all druggists for $1 per box or sent postpaid on receipt of price.

Write for interesting pamphlet on the subject to Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

CATARRH ELY'S Cream Balm

Is quickly absorbed. Cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from additional cold, restores the senses of taste and smell.

COLD IN HEAD

It will cure. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren st., New York.

YOU DO NOT KNOW WHICH IS THE BEST PIANO
Unless you have tried the
Mason & Hamlin
With their patent SCREW STRINGER, which has proved such a success that it is pronounced "THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT IN PIANOS IN HALF A CENTURY."
DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE BY MAIL FREE.
Terms of payment to suit reasonable requirements.
36 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

Assignee's Sale.

Thomas J. Carey, Auctioneer, will, under the direction of the subscriber, expose to sale at public vendue, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, October 19th instant, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., at No. 220 West Front street, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., engine and boilers in basement, engine on third floor, two tailors' wagons, two cutting machines, three sewing machines, twelve hand tracks, eleven desks, one measuring machine, one spotting machine, one Herring safe, one letter press, chairs, sofa, forty sample trunks, all platforms, racks and old lumber one awning, lot of electric light fixtures, one large mirror, steam radiator.

Also eighteen open accounts aggregating over $7,000, twenty past due promissory notes aggregating over $14,000, and sixty-four judgments aggregating over $78,000, a detailed list of which book accounts, notes and judgments may be inspected upon application to the assignee, James F. MacDonald at his office, at No. 220 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

Terms cash.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J., October 3, 1895.

JAMES F. MACDONALD,
Assignee of Christian Schepflin and Peter Schultz, partners, etc., as Schepflin & Schultz & Co., and also as C. Schepflin & Co., for the equal benefit of their creditors. 10 7 taw td

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.
This new institution opened with a score of students, October 1st, in the Babcock building. The prospect brightens every day. The enterprise is an assured success. A grand opportunity is now offered to the young men and women of Plainfield and its neighboring towns. Beautiful rooms. Excellent systems. Good teachers. Four courses of study. Students enter at any time. Address, Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., Plainfield, N. J.

1882. Season of 1895-96. 1895.
D. W. HYDE,
TEACHER OF
PIANO AND HARMONY,
will resume instruction in the above branches on Monday, Sept. 23. For further particulars address Plainfield, N. J. 9 12 m

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., OCT. 12, 1895

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

The Weather Indications for Tomorrow are Cooler, With Cloudy Weather Followed by Clearing.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 58 Degrees.

The Jerseyman Who Went to Sleep Reading a Newspaper, and Only Awoke in Time to Save Himself from Being Embalmed by an Undertaker, Did Not Live in Plainfield. If He Had He Would Have Been Reading The Daily Press and Been Thoroughly Awake. There is Too Much Life in The Press to Go to Sleep While Reading It.

COMING EVENTS.

Announcements of all meetings, etc., will be made in this column, free of charge, if copy is furnished by 10 a. m.

October 12—Field day of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association at the Crescent Oval. 2:30 p. m.
October 12—Anniversary exercises at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church of New Market.
October 12—Baseball, Orientals against Monroe Avenue Chapel team on Clinton avenue grounds.
October 13—Christian Endeavor rally in the First Presbyterian Church.
October 13—Run of Crescent Wheelmen to Trenton.
October 14—Opening of the Y. M. C. A. Educational Department.
October 14—Run of Crescent Wheelmen to Rahway to attend lantern parade.
October 15—Opening of Crescent Cycle Academy.
October 15—Captain Jack Crawford in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.
October 15—Rally of Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Chapel.
October 15—Lecture at First Presbyterian vestry on "A Dream of Tomorrow" by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore.
October 16—Dance of Crescent Coterie at Olympia Hall.
October 16—Meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Health.
October 17—Tenth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church.
October 17—Gymnasium class of the Y. M.C.A. will begin.
October 18—Benefit for Daniel Manly by Pond Tool Social Club at T. A. B. Hall.
October 19—Tea and sale of the Guild of the Church of the Redeemer at 48 Grove street.

To no one is there more credit due for bringing the Christian Endeavor State convention to Plainfield in 1896 than E. E. Anthony. His efforts have been most persistent, and his arguments especially persuasive.

A New York sweat shop firm fine their girl employes ten cents every time they laugh while at work. The sweat shop methods, though, of the News editor in docking $2.50 a week compositors for lost time at a $12 week rate, are still worse.

The Daily Press demonstrated its superiority again yesterday over the sweat shop sheet in the quick dissemination of news, when the announcement that the Christian Endavor convention in 1896 would come to Plainfield was published a half hour earlier in The Press than in The News.

Plainfield has secured the Christian Endeavor State convention for 1896, and Plainfield can and will prove to the large number of delegates who attend the great gathering that the claims of "Plainfield '96" delegation at Atlantic City that the people are hospitable, that ample facilities and conveniences are at hand to accommodate the convention, and that, in a word, Plainfield is an ideal convention town, are nothing but words of truth.

At the annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of New Jersey, which closed in Paterson yesterday, resolutions were adopted deprecating the fact that writers of fiction felt no compunction about introducing into their books characters that were in the habit of getting "full" of liquor, thus indicating to the readers of the books that there was no harm in drinking spirituous liquors. They protested against the publication of the figures of nude women in the magazines. Living models were necessary to secure such pictures, and that, they held, was baneful.

A Y. M. C. A. Literary Club.

Preparations are now being made to organize a literary society of the Y. M. C. A. members. A meeting will be held next week to organize.

—The Woman's Exchange, 326 Park avenue, will open Tuesday next. 3

OWNERS STATE THEIR PRICE

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

Mayor Hegeman stated that the Council would have to consider the valuations and ascertain whether commissioners would have to be appointed.

In most all cases the members thought them too high.

Mr. Valiant then brought up the subject of Green brook, and quoted the remarks of Mayor Gilbert made at the last City Council meeting.

He thought that if the borough was emptying sewage matter in the brook it should be stopped, and if not the city should be made to prove their assertions.

Mayor Hegeman stated that Dr Honeyman, from the borough Board of Health, had informed him that the borough Board of Health had challenged Plainfield to produce a single sewer pipe running into the brook from the borough.

Mr. Lounsbury thought the borough should demonstrate facts and not let the matter drop. He also thought that Mayor Gilbert had acted rather cool in regard to the matter.

It was decided to let the matter rest for the present until it was seen what effect the City Council's action would have on the brook.

Mr. Lounsbury then offered a resolution, which was carried, that the license and marshal committee purchase overcoats for the marshals at a cost of $18 each.

Council then adjourned.

PARK CLUB COMMITTEES.

These Who Will Look After the Social Side of Life.

President Charles A. Reed, of the Park Club, has appointed the following committees to serve for the ensuing year:

House Committee—Elston M French, Samuel Townsend, Augustus Van Deventer.

On Billiards and Pool—Augustus Van Deventer, S St. John McCutchen, Roger Erickson.

On Bowling—Laurens Van Buren, Louis Waring, George C. Worth

On Whist—George T. Rogers, Samuel Townsend S. St. John McCutchen.

On Members—B. M. Day, G. C. Worth, William G. Roome.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—The "Birthday" social at Grace M. E. church will take place on Oct 25th.

—Save money by making your Saturday purchases at Edsall's. For list of bargains see adv.

—The first rehearsal of the Choral Society will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building Monday evening. October 21st.

—P. Ludwig Conde has decided to give his orchestral concert in the Y. M. C. A. building Thursday evening, Nov. 7th.

—A special meeting of Gazelle Engine Company will be held this evening for the purpose of discussing the coming firemen's fair.

—Capt. Crawford will appear in the first entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. course in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Tuesday evening next, October 15th.

—Hon. John T. Dunn has gone into the State of Ohio to stump for Gov. Campbell. He will return in time to be heard in Union county for Mr. McGill.

—The Piscataway Seventh Day Baptist church of New Market held anniversary exercises this morning. A large number from this city attended.

—A Christian Endeavor rally will be held at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow evening. A number of prominent speakers will address the meeting.

—E. J. Fitzhugh, leader of the Choral Society, will meet the new members of the society this evening at the Y. M. C. A. building to test their voices.

—The Ragmuffin social recently given by the Building Guild of the Mt. Olive Baptist church netted them $36 37, which will be used in paying for their carpet.

—H.C. Reynolds, of Linden avenue, while engaged in killing a calf yesterday afternoon for L. A. Hummer, received an ugly cut on the left hand between the thumb and first finger, caused by the animal kicking.

Killed the National Bird.

While out shooting on the farm of his father, J. Wesley Johnson, out Park avenue, yesterday, Herbert Johnson shot a large eagle.

Athletes

don't get their almost superhuman strength by resting, but by continual exercise. Tie up your arm and see how quickly it will lose its strength. Diet—rest your stomach and see how soon it becomes impossible to digest the lightest food.

Eat good nourishing food, and take Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, and see how quickly your stomach becomes willing and anxious to do its part. White wrapper if constipated, yellow if bowels are loose. Sample mailed free.

Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills.

DR J. A. DEANE CO., Kingston, N. Y

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's BAKING POWDER

"Absolutely the best and most desirable baking powder manufactured."

GEN. S. H. HURST, late Ohio Food Commissioner.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Fred Canfield, of Somerville, is visiting friends in Plainfield.

Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, was in Plainfield yesterday on business.

Mrs. Harry Swackhammer, of Dunellen, is the guest of Plainfield relatives.

Miss Florence Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, went on a visit to Philadelphia yesterday.

Miss Mary Hobbs, of Boston, is visiting Miss Mary Willard of West Seventh street.

Mrs. F A. Pope and son, of Park avenue, went to Philadelphia yesterday to visit friends.

Mrs. M. C. Conrady, of Haverstraw, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Frazee, of South avenue.

Miss Josie Martin, of Chatham street, has resigned her position at Edsall's Commercial Palace.

Miss Cora Laire, of East Fifth street left yesterday for Florida, where she will visit her uncle.

William VanDeventer, of East Fifth street leaves his position in Edsall's Commercial Palace, this evening.

Mrs Clapp and Miss Clapp, who have been abroad for four months, will set sail for home October 23d.

Mrs. Charles K. Stillwell and daughter, of Gravesend, are the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Oilif, of Arlington avenue.

Louis H. Brown, of Craig place, who is an attache of the City Bank, New York, is enjoying a ten days vacation.

Miss Ida Cuthbertson, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. W. Runyon of West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Laire, of East Fifth street leave today for Bound Brook, where they will remain until Sunday.

Mrs I. W Rushmore, of West Seventh street, returned home this morning after a ten-days visit in different parts of Maine.

Mr. Tompkinson, who was injured at Scott's a few days ago, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday entirely cured.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, who has been attending the State W. C. T. U. Convention at Paterson, is expected home today.

A Successful Business Firm.

Marsh Ayers & Co., the East Front street painters and decorators, have just finished painting the exterior of M. Estil's house on Grove street. It presents a handsome appearance and Mr. Estil is well pleased with it. On Monday they commence the painting of the exterior of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, which will give George Bilyeu, their high climber, another spire to paint, the second one he has done for this firm in a month.

Church Election.

The annual business meeting of the Mt. Olive Baptist church was held in the church last night after the regular prayer meeting. Rev. P. S. Gibson presided. The only business transacted was the election of five trustees for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: Spencer Conway, W. H. Manning, Nathan Pollard, Charles Barber and George Jones.

Justice Mosher's Court.

Justice Mosher issued a summons yesterday in the case of Arthur M. Griffin vs. Edward P. Thorn, on contract, returnable on the 17th at ten a. m. S. S. Swackhamer represents the plaintiff.

Summons were also issued in the case of Mary Z. Pierson vs. the Metropolitan Insurance Company, returnable on the 18th at ten a. m. S. S. Swackhamer is the counsel for the plaintiff.

—One of the borough's special marshals, Samuel Moore, has been seriously ill for a few days on account of indulging in clams that would not digest. Yesterday arrangements were being made to convey him to the hospital where an operation was to be performed, but a decided change for the better became apparent, and he is now on the way to rapid recovery.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters in the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

Leal's School football eleven has received a challenge from the Pingry's School team of Elizabeth for a game to take place at Plainfield in the near future. The challenge is now under consideration but the chances are that it will not be accepted as a strictly school team is hard to secure, so many players being laid off. A game may, however be arranged with a joint team from the High School and Leal's School.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

A meeting will be held at Elizabeth on Thursday evening to organize a bowling tournament between clubs of this neighborhood. The Crescent Wheelmen will be represented by H. C. VanEmburgh.

High School Notes.

Yesterday morning Henry M. Maxson resumed his regular Friday morning talks which were enjoyed so much by all last year. Mr. Maxson's talk yesterday morning was a very interesting account of the late war and its causes in Madagascar.

The third class follows the Juniors and compositions are also due from them on October 21st. The class has the choice of the following subjects: "The Boyhood of Walter Scott;" "Sir Walter's Country Life at Abbotsford;" "The Third Crusade;" "The Combat in the Desert."

—The petit jury will not meet at Elizabeth till next Wednesday, having been discharged till that time.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy: that he has used it in his family for eight years and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

NOTICE OF MEETINGS

OF THE BOARD OF

Registry and Election

OF THE

CITY OF PLAINFIELD

In accordance with a supplement to "An Act to Regulate Elections," approved March 23, 1894, notice is hereby given that the several Boards of Registry and Election of the city of Plainfield will meet at the various polling places in the said city on Tuesday, the 15th Day of October, 1895,

at 10 o'clock in the morning, and continue in session (recess from one to two o'clock) until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of making such registration of voters and that the said boards of Registry and Election shall also meet on at the place of the former meeting, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and remain in session until 9 o'clock in the evening (except that they may take a recess as aforesaid) for the purpose of revising and correcting the original registers. The place of meeting to be as follows:

Tuesday, the 29th Day of October, 1895,

First Ward, First District—At 147 North ave.
" " Second District—At 521 East 2d st
Second Ward, First District—At 347 Watchung avenue.
Second Ward, Second District—At 699 South avenue.
Third Ward—At 114 West 6th st.
Fourth Ward, First District—At 114 West 2d street.
Fourth Ward, Second District—At corner of South 2d street and Muhlenberg place.

Dated City Clerk's office, Oct. 11, 1895.

J. T. MAC MURRAY, City Clerk.

10 12 tf

Y. M. ★ C. A.

STAR COURSE

OF SEVEN

Entertainments!

IN

Y. M. C. A. HALL

Course Tickets - - $1.25
Single Admission - 25 Cts.

FIRST ENTERTAINMENT

Tuesday, October 15th.

CAPT. JACK CRAWFORD,

The Poet Scout, in his wonderful entertainment, "The Camp Fire and the Trail." 10 8 10 12 14 15

I THANK MY STARS
I HAVE FOUND PECK'S!

"Ever Ready" PREPARED
Buckwheat Flour.

Home-made and sold on its merits. Sold by all grocers and made by

FRENCH BROTHERS,

City Mills. 24 Somerset street. Plainfield, N. J.

School Suits,

$1.95, $2.45, $3.45, 4.25, $5.00, $6.00

BOYS' LONG PANT SUITS,

$5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10 and $12.

SEBRING'S.

EDSALL'S

SPECIALS FOR SATURDAY.

43 Nottingham lace curtains, 3 yards long, pretty designs, worth 59c a pair.

69 Nottingham lace curtains, 3 yards long, exquisite designs worth 98c pair.

25 Ladies' black all-wool cashmere gloves, all sizes, worth 39c pair.

29 Ladies' heavy ribbed fleecy-lined vests and drawers to match, worth 39c.

Children's white merino vest, pantalettes and drawers, heavy weight, 15c, 18c, 20c, 23c, 25c 28c, 31c, 35c, 38c, 50c. Sizes, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34.

9 Large size bleached Honeycomb towels, worth 12c each.

10 Buttermilk soap, an excellent agent for the skin, worth 30c for a box of 3 cakes.

5 Children's initial handkerchiefs all letters embroidered with colored wash silks, worth 10 cents each.

Ladies' heavy weight jackets made of fine black beaver, melton sleeves, ripple back.

75 Pair 10x4 white wool finish blankets, extra heavy weight worth $1.00 a pair.

Millinery Department.

A few items of interest selected from many.
Felt sailors in black, navy and red, 39c, 49c, 65c.
Beautiful velvet roses 25c, 49c.
Black ostrich plumes 79c.
Children's trimmed school hats $1.98, $2.49.

Carpet Department.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

55 CTS. Our entire stock of best tapestry Brussels carpet; a large variety of patterns. For this week only, special at 55c per yard.

49 CTS. Best extra super ingrain carpet, our entire stock, fine styles Special for this week at 49c yard.

In addition to our regular stock we have a sample department and carry a full and complete line of all grades of carpet from the stock of W. and J. Sloan, for whom we are selling agents in Plainfield. Call and see our new fall styles. Special attention given to special orders and estimates furnished on application.

In Our Big Basement This Week.

7c SALE — 5,000 useful articles to go at 7 cts each. Former price 9, 10, 12 and 15c each; for this week only. Tinware, woodenware, china and glass. — 7c SALE

Grocery Department.

BASEMENT.

New Goods. New Prices. Special Bargains.

Our Grocery Department for the fall trade offers inducements to buyers that can't be beat. Quality of the best. Any article not satisfactory exchanged cheerfully or money refunded.

READ THE LIST

Curtice Brothers white lable chicken soup ..... 15c can
Armour's one pound corn beef hash ..... 10c can
Armour's prime roast beef, one pound ..... 12c can
" " " two pound ..... 23c can
Richardson & Robbin's boned chicken or turkey ..... 41c can
Martell's sardines in good qnality oil ..... 9c can
Cook's Inlet Alaska salmon, selected ..... 9c can
New York State stringless beans ..... 9c can

Men's and Boys' Storm Shoes,

Cork-filled bottoms, heavy sole, water-proof uppers, just the thing for the cold wet days that are coming.

A woman's cork-sole lace boot, neat and comfortable, $2 a pair.

All the above and many other seasonable goods now on exhibition in our large show window.

We sell you a 28-inch canvas covered, flat top trunk for $2.48. The largest assortment and lowest prices in the city.

DOANE & EDSALL,

Babcock Building.

1888. 1895.

GARRET Q. PACKER,

BARGAINS IN

FURNITURE.

Upholstering a Specialty.

First-class work at low prices. Park Avenue, corner 2d street

A SUBURB'S AWFUL PLIGHT.

NO OFFICERS TO RESTRAIN LAW BREAKERS.

South Plainfield Is Said to Be Without Protection Because Republicans Won't Serve and Refuse to Elect Democrats.

The New York World this morning contained the following:

The burglars who have so stirred up the people of Somerville are also operating along the entire lower end of the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads. The easiest town they have yet found is South Plainfield, on the Valley road, about twenty-five miles from New York. Investigation into a recent robbery there reveals a truly startling condition of affairs. Although the place has nearly 500 inhabitants there is absolutely no local government. There is no peace officer within its precincts. At New Market, three miles away, there is a solitary constable.

Patrick Fitzgerald, hotel keeper, explains the situation thus: "The Republicans are in the majority here, and all of them are too proud to serve as Constable or Justice of the Peace. A Democrat would serve, but, out of spite, the Republicans won't elect one of 'em. That's why we haven't any government."

Other people, however, say the place is Democratic, and that the reason why no one cares to be a town official is because the fees would amount to practically nothing. There have been elections, nevertheless, and the latest successful candidates were Hiram H. Kelly for Justice and Daniel Sofield for Constable. Neither has ever taken out papers, and the official positions have consequently lapsed.

South Plainfield has more to complain of than burglars, however. There is no fire department, and not even a ladder or any part of a fire apparatus. Within a short time seven homes have been burned to the ground, all efforts of the bucket brigade to save them proving fruitless. And this is not all. Since there are no local officers, license of action is thus restrained. Plainfield, four miles away across country, is a strict and orderly place. It has twelve policemen, and the saloons are always tightly closed on Sunday. The rough element of Plainfield make pilgrimages to South Plainfield to drink and brawl. Two saloons, running night and day, afford ample facilities for orgies. Sundays the church people are jeered at and insulted.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Victor Wheelmen will hold an entertainment at T. A. B. Hall on October 22d.

—The recognized rival of the imported is Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles. 6

—John Goff is putting a number of interior and exterior decorations on his saloon on Liberty street.

—The Friday evening Bible class of the Church of the Redeemer resumed for winter work last evening.

—If you do not buy your fall goods until you can do better than at Peck's you are in for a lifelong wait.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., will meet Monday evening and work the first degree on one candidate.

—The dancing classes at Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School and at the Seminary begin on Wednesday.

—Borough Councilman W. C. Smith purchased a corner lot 51x1000 at Fairview avenue and Young street yesterday for $1,500.

—A. E. Bushnell is having his residence on East Second street, the Maple cottage, painted steel grey with white trimmings.

—Leggett, the druggist, has a fresh supply of a superior quality of cod liver oil, which he is selling for 35 and 50 cents a bottle.

—John Coffee, the butcher of West Third street, will soon take possession of the store on Grant avenue formerly occupied by Tingley.

—The Oriental Degree was worked on several candidates at the meeting of Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening.

—The twentieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and S. R. Bush, of Astor place, will take place Monday evening at their home.

—The women's prayer meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held at the residence of Mrs. A. D. Philips, of Central avenue.

—The new eight-inch well, which was recently bored for the electric light company, was tested yesterday, a powerful Blake pump being used.

—The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church began their regular meetings yesterday. At the conclusion of the meeting a social was held.

—The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Baptist Association was held at New Monmouth yesterday. A morning and an afternoon session were held.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Crescent Cycle Academy opens on Tuesday.

The Crescent Wheelmen go to Trenton tomorrow.

The Fairmont Wheelmen have a run to this city tomorrow.

It has been decided by the New Jersey Association of Cycling Clubs to postpone their ten-mile road race indefinitely.

The run of the Crescent Wheelmen to attend the lantern parade at Rahway, starts from the club-house at 7 o'clock on Monday evening. All are invited to go along.

When a man was on his way to the station yesterday morning to catch the 6:58 train, the chain to the wheel on which he rode broke at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street. There was an exciting time for a few seconds.

Harry Fulper and Wyatt Barnes, who rode their wheels to New Foundland, Morris county Thursday, returned home yesterday afternoon at 2:30. They left at 8 o'clock Thursday morning. The time was exceptionally good in view of the fact that they rode against the wind all the way.

The Manhattan Bicycle Club, which held a race meet here two weeks ago, has elected the following officers for its bowling team: Captain, Victor Pelin; Secretary, R. Lincoln McFarland; Treasurer, Joseph Oatman. The team will compete in the Uncle Sam and Metropolitan Association of Cycling Clubs tournaments during the winter.

A Sweet Flood.

There was an unusual kind of flood at the grocery of Councilman V. L. Frazee yesterday. Someone accidentally turned on the faucet to a hogshead of molasses and the entire contents flowed about the floor.

Dunellen.

Mr. Brower, of New Brunswick, was in town Thursday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl.

The Seventh Day Baptist church, of New Market, reopened today.

Miss Mary Bolton, of High street, has gone to East Orange to visit relatives.

Miss May Brown, of Finderne, was a guest of friends on Front street on Thursday.

Mr. Baldwin, of Sidney, was the guest Thursday of W. H. Cole, of Front street.

Mrs. T. J. Jones and sister, Miss Lewis, of Front street, spent Friday with relatives at Elizabeth.

Miss Philip Smith, of North avenue, has been entertaining her cousin from Bound Brook for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Snowden, of New Market, entertained at their home Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Boice, of Newark.

T. C. Morse, of Jersey City, rode to Dunellen on his wheel and spent the day with Wm. VanMiddlesworth and family, of Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arloud, of New York, who have been spending the summer months with friends on Dunellen avenue, have returned home.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church have accepted an invitation to a rally at the Monroe Memorial M. E. church, to be held Oct. 15th.

Mrs. and Mrs. VanDyke, of Metuchen, accompanied by Miss Allie and Miss Mamie Kelly, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tappan on Friday.

Mary A. Livermore.

The School Suffrage lectures which include Mrs. Livermore for October 15th, bring to the citizens of Plainfield a rare opportunity. With great fitness Mrs. Livermore has been designated the queen of the American platform. Emerson says, "There is no true eloquence unless there is a man behind the speech." Mrs. Livermore's eloquent utterance is doubly effective because of the force of womanly character, of rarest quality, behind it. Her early interest for the abolition of slavery; her self-sacrificing labors during the war in connection with the Sanitary Commission; her influential efforts for enlarged opportunities for women; her service in the cause of purity; her examplification of the choicest type of wifehood and motherhood, all combine to render her present platform service of very exceptional interest and value. She is a pioneer of the "new womanhood" in the best and highest sense. All who can do so, especially the young people of Plainfield, should improve the present opportunity to hear her.

Aaron M. Powell.

—Feigenspan's Newark India Pale Ale in bottles at the leading hotels, clubs and cafes. 6

SUNDAY SERVICES.

[Notices under this head are published by The Daily Press free of charge, when supplied fresh each week by authority. Copy must be in hand by 10 a. m. Saturday to insure insertion, and should be supplied Friday when possible.]

Wilson Memorial Chapel, Washingtonville—Speaking in the evening by E. C. Pease.

Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest—Morning prayer and sermon, 11 a. m.; Sunday-school, 2:45.

East Third Street Mission — Mr. Evans will conduct the meeting at 8 o'clock p. m. Sunday-school, 2:30; Christian Endeavor meeting, 7.

Trinity Reformed Church—Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by Rev. Edgar Tilton, Jr., of Jamaica, L. I. Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

Congregational Church, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor—Morning service, 10:30; Sunday-school, 2:15 p. m., Christian Endeavor service, 7:30 p. m.

Church of the Redeemer, Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone, rector.—Early Celebration, 7:30; morning prayer and sermon at 11:15; Sunday-school, 3 p. m.; evening prayer, 4:30.

First Church of Christ (Disciples of Christ)—Lord's Supper, 10:45 a.m.; Sunday-school, 3 p. m.; Christian Endeavor, 7 p. m.

Y. M. C. A. Building, 4:15 p. m.—E. L. Suffern will speak to men and George H. Batchelor to boys. There will be mandolin, guitar and vocal music at both meetings.

St. Joseph's (R. C.) Church—Rev. William H. Miller, pastor. Masses at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 2:30; evening devotions, 8.

All Souls' Church, Park avenue—Service at 10:45 a. m. Rev. Hobart Clark, the pastor, will preach. Sunday-school at 11:45 o'clock a. m.

St. Mary's (R. C.) Church—Rev. P. E. Smyth, pastor. Masses at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 a. m.; evening devotions at 8. Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

Grace Church, Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector—Early Celebration of Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon, 10:30; Sunday-school, 3:30 p. m.; evening service, 5 p. m.

St. Stephen's Church, Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector—Early celebration of Holy Communion, 7:30 a.m.; Sunday-school, 9:45 a. m.; morning prayer, litany and sermon, 11; evening prayer, 4. Free stages from railroad station at 10:30 a. m.

Monroe Avenue M. E. Chapel, Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor—Autumnal services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Morning subject, "Dry Leaves;" evening subject, "The Tree of Life;" Sabbath-school, 3 p. m. Epworth League meeting, 7:30 p. m.

First Presbyterian Church music—Morning—Prelude, Andante Religiose, Liszt; Anthem, "I Pray for the Peace of Jerusalem," Smallwood; Offertory, selected; Postlude in C, Rinck. Evening—Special Christian Endeavor rally and praise service beginning at 7:30 sharp.

First M. E. Church, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., pastor—Morning service, 10:30 a. m. subject of sermon, "Make Sure of Your Crown;" Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.; Epworth League prayer meeting, 6:45 p. m.; evening service 7:30 p. m, subject of sermon, "Don't Risk It."

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, pastor—Preaching by Rev. A. B. Hyde, at 10:30 a. m.; at 7:45 p. m. by the pastor on the subject, "Stumbling Blocks;" special service, "Glad Tidings Day" by Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.; Epworth League, 7 p. m.

Park Avenue Baptist Church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor — Morning theme, 10:30, "Liability to Temptation Warrants Solicitude;" evening theme, 7:30, third sermon in series on period between death amd the judgment, topic, "The Intermediate State;" Sunday-school, 2:30 p. m.

—There is no mistaking you can get good wall paper at Love's.

—Don't let it slip your mind that Capt. Jack Crawford will appear for the first time in this city at the Y. M. C. A. building next Tuesday evening.

—The lumber and iron work for Powlison & Jones' new building on East Front street will arrive Monday and work will immediately be begun.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed."

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy. Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My son was afflicted with catarrh; I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one. J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25c per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph, druggist.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore

"A DREAM OF TOMORROW"

—IN THE—

First Presbyterian Church Chapel

Front Street,

Tuesday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m.

Tickets 50c. 10 12 2

"ONLY SKIN DEEP", yet freckles, sunburn and tan detract add to one's beauty! What then, aside from the dangerous and poisonous "skin cures" so freely advertised, can women use to clear and bleach a bad complexion? Well, why not try your grandmother's cure—lemon juice? It will surely do all that can be safely done to clear the skin. And try it in the pleasant form of REYNOLD'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE. The results will please you. Sprinkler bottles 25 cents at

REYNOLDS'S PHARMACY only, Park and North avenues. (Established 1868.)

DIED.

ESTERBROOK—At Camden, N. J., Oct 11 1895, Richard Esterbrook, in the 83d year of his age.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, 232 North 2d st., corner Penn st., Camden, on Second-day, Monday afternoon, the 14th inst., at 3 o'clock. Interment in this city.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—A strong girl for general housework. 662 West 8th st.

WOMAN wants to go out washing by the day. 447 West 4th st.

SOUTHERN colored man wants position as coachman or waiter in private family; references. Johnson, 528 West 3d st.

YOUNG girl would like a place as waitress in small private family, or to do general housework. Call 1225 Watchung avenue.

FOR SALE—Two double heaters; first-class order. 41 Duer st.

FLAT to let, with improvements, $10; house 6 rooms $15. F. H. Martin, room 1, 135 North avenue, or 61 Sandford ave.

FOR SALE—Fine work team; young sound; sell separate; also cheap driving horse. Address Strong, care Press.

A RESPECTABLE girl wants a place as seamstress and to do upstairs work. Call 232 West 2d st.

WANTED—A place by a good seamstress, and would take charge of one or two children. F. L., care Press. 10 12 2

WANTED—Young man in butcher shop and to take care of horses and solicit orders; good reference. Apply A. G. Vogeler, 131 West Front street.

PONY and her colt for sale; has been used by a boy of 10; sold for want of use; or will trade for larger horse; can be seen at Johnson's farm. Address G. C. E., care Press. 10 10 3

RELIABLE man would like several furnaces for the winter. Address 322 East 4th st. 10 10 4

LARGE sunny front room with gas and heat, to let, with board. 231 East 6th st. 10 10 6

YOUNG lady would like to share room with lady; price reasonable. Address Lady, care Press. 10 10 6

TO LET—Handsome corner flat, all light rooms; every improvement. Apply Manning's City Marble Works. 10 10 6

TO LET—Houses, all improvements from $16 up, per month. W. D. Thickstun, 197 North ave. 9 14 tf-eod

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, att'y, cor. Park and North aves. 10 9 4

FOR RENT or on shares, 40-acre truck farm; easy terms to good tenant. Address 131 New st., Plainfield. 10 5 tf

OAK buffet, with mirror top, for sale very cheap for cash; owner has no room for it. Address Buffett, care Press. 9 28 tf

HORSES or cattle boarded for the winter; best of care. S. Beeching, Washingtonville. P. O. Box 346. 10 9 12 16 19 23 26 30-11 2

$20 A month rents nice house on 5th st., opp. Bryant school; bath room. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

WINDOW sash for sale very cheap 8 and 12 light. Apply at this office. 9 23 tf

FOR SALE—Dwelling, (bargain) 91 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. $300 down. Mulford, broker. 10 1 tf

LOANS NEGOTIATED. J. T. Vail, broker. 2 21 tf

$1,000 TO $10,000 to loan on 1st mortgage. Mulford, Broker. 10 1 tf

WANTED—A Protestant girl for general housework in a family of two; references required. Address A. B., care Press. 10 11 2

PIANO bargain; a little used Knabe square grand piano in first-class condition, will be sold at a great bargain. Address or call at once on Mrs. J. H. VanDeventer, 632 Woodland ave., Netherwood. 10 11 6-eod

LOST — Spaniel pup. Black and white. Reward for its return to owner, Central avenue and Randolph road. 10 11 2

WANTED—A girl for general housework. References. Call at 683 West Seventh street. 10 11 2

Do You Like Oysters?

—THEN TRY A—

SADDLE ROCK, FRY OR STEW,

It can't be beat, at

A. TITSWORTH & CO'S.

108 North Ave. Opp. Hotel Grenada.

Oysters by the Quart 35 Cents.

SPECIAL SALE

—OF—

FINE STATIONERY

—AND—

School Supplies.

A present given with every 50 cent purchase of stationery or school supplies during the next two weeks commencing Saturday, September 7.

HARPER'S

411 Park Avenue.

PLUMS FOR YOU.

The first man up the tree usually gathers the largest crop of plums, for in these busy days they are picked before they have a chance to fall. Many plums there are here for you to gather and little money

GATHERS THEM

GINGHAMS

1896 styles, and why we can make such little prices comes about in the most natural way. It's only a sacrifice of profits on our part. Worth 15c; our price 8c.

COATS AND CAPES.

All sorts and styles and every style right. Not the cheap, poor sort, but all well made of cloth that will wear. See them; the littleness of the prices will surprise you.

DRESS GOODS.

We have been doing some startling things in the way of naming low prices on new desirable dress goods. It's one of our ways of having you know the store better. 54 inch Gilbert ladies cloth 49c; 38 inch Scotch plaids 33c; 45 inch Imperial serges 45c; 38 inch novelty suitings 55c; 54 in. fancy blacks 58c. 36 inch wool mixtures 25c; 38 inch fancy mohairs 38c. Samples sent on application.

MILLINERY.

We want you to know what fine, stylish, tasty millinery is, so that when you want the newest, brightest hats you will think of White's millinery parlors. You can do as many of Plainfield ladies do, come in, tell Miss Daly what you want and she will do all the planning and choosing for you.

SHIRTS, WAISTS & WRAPPERS.

Three good things at attractive prices. Umbrella skirts, made of fine serge, both black and blue, $2.49. Wrappers made of fine dark stripe outing, full front, large sleeves, a beauty, $1.39.

UNDERWEAR.

We start the season with good warm underwear at prices that have been nipped close. Children's natural wool vests and pants size 18, 12c; 20, 15c; 22, 18c; 24, 20c; 26, 22c; 28, 25c; 30, 27c. Ladies' ribbed fleece lined vests and pants, 27c. Ladies' plain vests and pants were 50c, now 37c. Men's natural wool shirts and drawers, the 50c kind you buy for 37c.

BLANKETS AND COMFORTABLES

are ready for you at a third less than most stores ask for them. Cotton blankets in white and tan 55c. Ten quarter wool blankets $2.75, real value $3.50.

Every girl wants one of those Rob Roy caps; 50 different styles 49c each.

English linoleum stove mats. We have two hundred of them to sell at half their value. Size 36x54 in., price 50c each

WHITE OF PLAINFIELD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

the extra good value we gave you in ladies', children's and men's

Underwear

last fall? We are prepared to do as well, if not better, this season. Look before you buy. Also a new line of Ginghams, Cambrics, Outing Flannels, Canton Flannel and Linings.

Putnam & DeGraw

210 WEST FRONT ST.

Van Emburgh & Son

Will Tell You About

CORSETS

THIS WEEK.

Van Emburgh & Son.

Plainfield's Popular House, Babcock Building.

Fall Styles Hats and Furnishings Ready.

LARGEST STOCK, all grades. BEST GOODS, lowest prices.

U. B. CRANE. Hatter and Furnisher

120 West Front Street.

ENGAGED.

It was a little lonely at first. A man can't expect to shed the habits and usages of 40 years in a single night, as a cobra de capello sheds his skin.

But, upon the whole, I was very glad that I had instructed Swiggs, a real estate agent, to invest $12,000 in a desirable country home. Swiggs had shown good taste, only it was lonely.

"Jones," said I to my factotum, "who owns the property next door?"

"Don't know," Jones answered succinctly.

"I think I shall lay out a croquet lawn and build a boathouse, Jones."

Jones stared at me. "There ain't noth in like corn and potatoes for good payin crops, sir."

"Jones," I cried, "you are an iconoclast!"

"No, sir, I ain't," said Jones, highly scandalized. "I don't put no faith in none of them new systems of agricultur!"

I left to him to make out an order for nobody knows how many cartloads of plaster and guano and strolled down to look at my neighbor's fernery.

To my surprise, I perceived that the fernery was not unoccupied this golden July morning. A young lady was there, working diligently with a little trowel.

I had come so directly upon her that there was no loophole of retreat. So I stood my ground bravely and said, "Good morning."

"Good morning," she answered. "I suppose you are my new neighbor, Mr. Raymond?"

"I have that honor," I said, bowing politely. "Your father has a fine place here."

"I have no father," answered the spirit of the flowers.

"I beg your pardon. I should say your husband."

"Nor husband either."

"May I say your brother?" I persisted, feeling hot all over, but sticking bravely to my guns.

"Not if you have any regard for the strict truth," she answered, with a sort of demure enjoyment of my perplexity. "I never had either brother or sister. Now, don't guess any more, and I will introduce myself. I am the owner of this place, and my name is Bertha Joycelyn."

I started a little. "Bertha Joycelyn!" This, then, was the fiancee of Richmond Kent, the wealthy broker, of whose eccentricity and talent I had heard so much. Truly Kent had chosen well.

We went together over the fairy domains. We investigated the conservatories, tested the gold and purple contents of the graperies and looked at the gardens. The house itself was all verandas and awnings and cool glimpses of fluttering muslin curtains and cream colored matting, but the grounds were like a chapter out of the "Arabian Nights."

"If you will come over tomorrow, and if you aren't afraid of mosquitoes and sunburn," said Miss Joycelyn independently, "I'll take you down the river to my water lily plantation."

"With pleasure. Shall I bring Jones along to row us?"

"Thanks," with a little shrug of the white muslin shoulders. "I always row myself."

I felt myself nobody. I would straightway begin to practice with the oars, I inwardly decided. A girl to excel me in manly sports! Never!

As I sat on my piazza that evening puffing my solitary cigar I thought with a singular pang what a fortunate fellow Kent was. A wife like that! What more could a man need?

It was a sultry September afternoon when I met him on Broad street. The city seemed hotter, dustier, more intolerable than ever. I wondered how men could breathe and thrive in an atmosphere like that and secretly longed for the time to come in which I might bury myself once more in my rural solitude.

"Hello, Raymond! Why, where have you been hiding all this time?"

"Kent, old fellow," and we shook hands in genuine American fashion.

"So you've been turning ornamental farmer, have you? Well, I never had any very great fancy for that kind of life. Upon my word, you've grown as brown as a berry. Make any stay in town?"

"No; I go back tonight."

"Sorry. I should have liked to have you to dinner at our house this evening; got a cook who is great, and there's an article of 'dry' that I can really depend upon. Besides I should have liked to introduce you to Mrs. Kent."

"Your mother?"

"No, my wife."

I stared vaguely at him.

"Married last month—an English girl without a particle of nonsense about her. You would like her, Raymond, I know." And his face beamed as he looked at me.

"But—Bertha Joycelyn?"

"Oh, Bertha Joycelyn!" He looked a little discomfited. "That's an old affair. She was a splendid girl, a regular princess, but we never were suited to each other."

I went home as lightly as if I were treading on air and surprised her, sitting by one of the windows, her chin in her hand and the down falling hair veiling her face, just as when I had first looked upon her.

"Bertha!"

She started. There were tears on her cheek in the mellow glow of the harvest moon.

"Bertha, you have been weeping!"

She tried to smile. "I—I believe I have been a little low spirited."

Was not this a romantic lovemaking to blossom over a Wall street broker's dry life. My old grandmother used to say there was a romance in every existence, and I believe she was right.—Exchange.

Wanted to Fit His Coffin.

There is not in Europe a more magnificent burial place than the mausoleum in the park of Hamilton palace, where the late Duke of Hamilton is interred. This mausoleum was built about 60 years ago by the late duke's grandfather (Duke Alexander, the son-in-law of Beckford) at a cost of £150,000, and Italian artists and workmen were principally employed. It is a square building, surmounted by a round tower and a stone cupola with bronze gates, which are copied from those of the old baptistery at Florence.

Duke Alexander, who died in 1854, is himself buried here in the alabaster sarcophagus of an Egyptian queen, which he purchased early in life when traveling in upper Egypt. This he always intended to be his own coffin, and it was kept in Hamilton palace for many years. The duke frequently lay down in the sarcophagus, and finding it to be too small for his body he left another direction that if necessary his breast bone should be sawed through, so that it might be doubled up and the corpse laid in the coffin which he had so carefully preserved for its reception. The sarcophagus was an exquisite piece of work and covered with hieroglyphics.—Westminster Gazette.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

COLUMBIAS—They almost fly.

Bicycling for Women

Physicians recommend bicycling. Dame Fashion says it is "good form." Two new models for women's use in—

Columbia Bicycles

Model 42 COLUMBIA has been especially designed for the many ladies who prefer to wear knickerbockers rather than cumbersome skirts.

Ladies' wheels also in HARTFORD Bicycles at lower prices—$80, $60, $50.

Send for Catalogue. Free at any Columbia Agency, or by mail for two 2-cent stamps.

POPE MFG. CO. GENERAL OFFICES & FACTORIES HARTFORD, CONN.

BRANCH STORES: Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Providence, Buffalo

Six handsome paper dolls, showing ladies' bicycle costumes by noted designers, will be mailed for five 2-cent stamps.

The Eldridge Cycle Co. Park ave. and 4th st

Easy payments; old wheels taken in exchange; wheels to hire; fine repairing.

List of Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 7, 1895.

Booker Edward	Noles Squire
Bowers Mrs H C	Perretta Sig Antonio
Bradford Wm	Randolph A F
Buller Miss	Richardson Miss C L
Chas Mademoisell	Pangborn Elias
Cottington Wm H	Prine Robert
Condit H B 3	Perry Sarlena
Cox Wm	Ress Mrs R
Dunpsey Jno	Rungaloer Mrs J
Frost B J	Sarles Annie
Gunner Phillips	Sutton Chas G
Gaston Mr & Mrs L P	Sanford Mrs C W
Garrabrandt Eugene	Simpson Master H
Howard Mrs Ella	Stewart Mrs Leanora
Hillery Etta	Stead Mrs Sophia
Henderson Mrs M H	Smith Samuel
Jarvis Mrs E	Thorn Mrs Kitty
Kuhne F J	Stewart C M
Kitchen S P	Smith C M
Kerwin Lawrence	Scribner Mr & Mrs C
Little Mrs Mame	Sigler Jno E
Little Miss M V	Tabbert Paul
Miskel Comel'a	Tabor Paul
Mechling Geo	VanArsdale Mrs P E
Mills F	Wheeler Mrs Theo
Mexviskox Z	Wearren Mrs G
Martin Mrs Josephine	Wilson Mrs Francis
Messler Mrs	Youmans E W

Grenada Barber Shop,

No Sunday Work, 119 North ave.

Best appointments of any shop in the State. A power fan to keep you cool. Clean towels in abundance. All first-class work.

P. M. DECKER, PROP

Visiting Cards AND Wedding Invitations ENGRAVED.

R. C. RAND, 140 West Front Street.

The New Fall Shapes Out Today. Hats

COME AND SEE.

G. A. HALLOCK, Front street opposite Somerset street.

BATHS, Hot and Cold 15 Cents

Showers included, at WILLIAM CLAASSEN'S, Barber, 211 Liberty Street.

See Our Name, Take Our Number, Call and See Our Goods.

Woolston & Buckle, 141 and 145 North ave.

Smalley's CASH MARKET.

(Estate D. I. Smalley.)

94 Somerset, Corner Race Street.

We sell only first-class goods at low prices for cash. Orders called for and delivered.

ERNEST BARRETT,

Sanitary Plumbing, Steam and Hot Water Heating

All work guaranteed. Estimates cheerfully given. Jobbing promptly attended to.

325 WATCHUNG AVENUE.

S. D. FRAZEE,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

FRESH FISH.

Fresh every day. Terms cash. Goods delivered.

230 Park ave., ooo. North ave

A. Lusardi,

120 North Ave.,

will be pleased to serve his friends and the public generally with first-class fruits and confectioneries, cigars, etc. Fresh roasted peanuts every day 10c a qt. Branch store, corner Front and Somerset streets.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble and Granite Works,

SOMERSET STREET.

Our motto—Good work, good material, at fair prices.

MARVIN SAFE CO.,

(Established half a century.) contractors to the United States Government.

Marvin Patent Safes

(fire and burglar proof) in general use all over the world. Lowest prices. Drop a postal to

S. W CLARK,

General Agent, 118 West street, Plainfield, N. J., and he will call and give special attention and information. Large assortment of second-hand safes in first-class condition at low prices.

The Close Relation

between high art and the best wall paper is known to all who have seen our stock. You might as well have the most artistic when the superior design means no additional cost.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.

Three Good Things

The Miller Lamp,
The Oil Heater,
The Welsbach Light.

GAVETT'S, 129 East Front St.

HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS

The Queen of Uprights and in Grands Unsurpassed.

Established Nearly Sixty Years.

103 first prizes. Strictly high grade. Endorsed by the greatest artists. We cordially invite critical examination, and shall be pleased to show our pianos, even though purchase is not intended. Honest prices and easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Send for illustrated catalogue, giving full information.

WAREROOMS,

88 FIFTH AVE.

near 14th st., New York.

"Tway's Musical Guest," containing 8 pages of music, interesting reading matter and theatrical news, mailed free on application. 10 3 6m

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

and if you buy them girl's shoes you must not expect them to wear like our boy's school shoe or steel shod "Look for trade mark."

A. WILLETT & SON,

107 Park avenue.

Crescent Cycle Academy,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

On or about October 15, the building formerly known as the Crescent Rink, will be opened as a first-class

BICYCLE ACADEMY.

Instruction and indoor riding daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m.

Joseph L. Wiseman.

Hats, New Shapes, Trunks and Bags Cheap.

All sizes in Packing Trunks.

E. M. Laing,

105 Park Avenue.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect Sept. 7, 1895.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 38, 6 05, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 30, 7 58, 8 00, 8 15, 8 27, 8 31, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, 10 59 a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 9 23, 10 17, 11 28, p.m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 6 05, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 10 59, 11 16, a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 13, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17, p m.

Leave New York, Foot Liberty St., at 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00, 11 45, a m; 1 10, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 15, (except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 11 30, 12 15, 3 00, night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 15, 9 00, 9 15, a m; 12 00 m; 1 00, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 9 00, 10 00, p m; 12 15 night, 1 00 a m

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 38, 6 29, 6 59, 7 30, 8 00, 8 48, 9 32, 10 04, 10 27, a m; 12 06, 1 18, 2 07, 2 30, 3 12, 3 51, 4 48, 5 24, 6 40, 7 03, 8 30, 10 17, 11 28, p m. Sunday 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a m; 12 33, 1 45, 3 30, 5 36, 7 13, 8 23, 8 32, 10 17 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 05, 7 55, 8 39, 9 03, 10 05, 11 35, a m; 1 05, 1 35, 2 20, (Saturdays only) 2 50, 3 35, 4 05, 4 40, 5 04, 5 34, 6 00, 6 20, 7 15, 7 35, 8 40, 10 05, 11 25, p m. Sunday 7 30, 9 05, 9 30, 11 35 a m; 1 10, 2 35, 4 05, 5 40, 8 20, 9 25, 10 20 p m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 16, 9 54, 11 00 a m; 12 46, 2 11, 2 32, 3 43, 4 36, 5 05, 5 14, 5 34, 6 04, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 23 p m; 12 38 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 28, 9 55, a m; 2 03, 3 43 5 14, 6 35, 10 15, 11 14 p m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 31, 7 00, 7 25, 7 35, 7 48, 8 20, 9 05, 9 48, 11 40 a m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 25, 4 25, 4 59, 6 36, 8 07, 8 45, 10 26 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 35 a m; 12 08, 1 39, 5 10, 6 45, 8 05, 8 05, 9 40 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 16, 9 54 a m., 12 46, 2 11, 5 05, 5 14, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 28, a m; 2 03, 6 37 p m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 7 48, a m; 12 32, 3 42, 4 49, 7 00 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 52 a m; 6 40, 7 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 7 10 9 54 a m.; 5 05 5 14.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D L & W R R, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 46 p m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D L & W R R

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 05 p m., way for Easton, connecting with High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

5 14 p m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Bangor, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin. (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

8 28 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For at High Bridge for High Bridge Branch Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 00, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 3 51, 5 24, p m. Sundays, (except Ocean Grove) 8 52 a m; 4 30 p. m

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a. m. 1 18 3 51 5 24 p m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 38, 8 00, 8 15, 10 27, a. m., 1 18, 2 07, 3 51, 5 24, 7 03, p. m., Sundays 8 52 a. m.; 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m., 1 18 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 00, 10 27 a. m.; 1 18, 3 51, 5 24 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 45, 8 44 9 46, 10 44 a m; 12 17, 5 34*, 6 38, 8 21, 9 37*, 10 53 p m. 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 10 44 a. m., 4 55 5 14* 6 45 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 45 8 44 9 46 a. m. 12 46, 2 17, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37 10 53, p m., 1 17 night. Sundays—5 45, 9 55 a m., 4 55 5 14*, 6 35*, p. m. 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 44, 10 44 a m 5 34*, 6 45 p m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 10 44 a. m., 5 14*, 6 45 p m., 1 17 night.

For Chattanooga, New Orleans and all points South, with through vestibuled sleeping cars via Shenandoah Valley Line, at 5 34* p. m Sunday 5 34* p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 55 a m., 8 21 p. m. Sunday 6 35 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application and advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLDHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

Jones & Co., EXCAVATORS.

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Built.

Free to All!

A handsome watch, stem winder and setter, with a chain and locket, will be given away free at our fall opening, commencing.

Saturday, Sept. 21,

To every purchaser of a suit of clothes at the

Plainfield BARGAIN HOUSE, 126 PARK AVENUE.

Here Are a few of our Bargains,

Men's all-wool cheviot suits, in black, blue, and brown, any style, at $6, $7, $8. Worth respectively $10, $12, and $14.

Men's fine French clay diagonal suits, any style, $8, $10, $12. Worth $12, $14, $16.

Men's working pants 50c., 75c., $1. Overalls 39c. Men's fine derby hats, in black and brown, $1. Worth $1.75.

Children's suits, from 4 to 14 years, $1.25. Worth $2.50.

1895 TAXES.

Notice is hereby given to the taxpayers of the city of Plainfield that the taxes assessed in said city for the year 1895, are now due and payable, and that if the said taxes be not paid by

THE 20th DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT,

the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned to the City Judge for prosecution. The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation, will meet in the Council Chamber on the

4th Tuesday in November Next,

the 26th, and sit from 2 o'clock p. m. until 5 o'clock p. m., or longer, if found necessary, to dispose of all cases submitted to them for consideration.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Collector of Taxes.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 1, 1895.

GEO J. TOBIN,
187 North Avenue.
Practical Plumber.

Contractor for plumbing, steam and hot water heating, drainage, sewerage, ventilation and water supply; testing ventilation and sewer lines, under hydraulic and air pressure. This should be done before connecting with new sewer.

Telephone Call 158a.

Telephone 29b. Established 1878.

ADDIS & SON,
Plumbing and Hot Water Heating.

Have your plumbing system tested with the Smoke process under pressure, preparatory for the sewerage system.
Opposite Roberts's Livery. 132 North ave.

CHOICE
Lawn Seeds, Garden Seeds & Fertilizers.
Lawn Mowers Repaired, Plumbing, Tinning and Hardware
A. M. GRIFFEN,
119 East Front St.

H. DE MOTT,
Undertaker and Embalmer,
59 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.
Livery attached.

Edwin B. Maynard,
Hair Cutting and Shampooing.
Tonsorial parlor, 204 Park ave., Plainfield. Ladies' shampooing and children's hair cutting a specialty.

William Hand & Son.
STAGES
For Picnics and Parties, 518 Park ave.

Prospect Hill for Sale
AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.
Palms, Rubber trees, Begonias and Ferns for sale cheap. A few of the Casino Clematis, blooming sizes at 15c. At Denton's 131 Hillside avenue.

N. E. King,
High-Class
PORTRAITS
In Crayon, Pastel and Water Colors.
483 Lexington ave.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
Refers by permission to John A. Thickstun, L. B. Woolston, J. L. Blackford, L. W. Randolph, A. L. Force. Further information at the drug store of L. W. Randolph or office of The Daily Press, where specimen of work can be seen.

Lodge and Society Meetings.

Senate Lodge, 3543, Knights of Honor—The regular meetings of this Lodge are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month in Stillman Building, No. 212 West Front street, at 8 p. m.
John Fellows, Dictator.
R. A. Frey, Reporter.

Court Pride of New Jersey, No. 8024, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, meets in K. of P. Hall, No. 108 West 2d street, first and third Tuesday evenings in each month.
Samuel J. Flynn, Chief Ranger.
Samuel H. Lunger, Fin. Sec.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.—Meets second and fourth Tuesdays in the Babcock Building.
C. C. Howard, W. M.
T. A. Rogers, Sec.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.—Meets first and third Tuesdays at Babcock Building, West Front street.
D. C. Adams, W. M.
Charles Yeager, Sec.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum—The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p.m.
A. M. Rea, Regent.
H. A. Thorne, Secretary.

Lawyers.

W. K. McClure,
COUNSELOR AT LAW.
Supreme Court Commissioner.
First National Bank Building.

W. R. Codington's
LAW OFFICES,
Corner Park ave and 2d st.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery.
Notary Public.

STRANGE BUT TRUE
Even though you have
A Comfortable Bed,
You should
Lay in Your Coal
for the Winter.
George O. Stevens
747 West Front st.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE CO.

Having just completed new equipment the Postal is now prepared to give its patrons better service than ever before. Messengers furnished to any part of the city. Telephone 77A.

W. E. MARTIN, Manager.
104 Park Ave.

L. PAOLI & CO.,
Fruits, Confectionery, Temperance Drinks, Cigars, &c.
128 NORTH AVENUE.
Fresh roasted peanuts every day, 10c a qt. I take this method of informing my friends and the public in general that I am again in business at the old stand. I solicit your patronage. Store will close at sundown on Friday and open at sundown on Saturday.

E. H. Holmes,
Dealer in
COAL AND WOOD.
Yard—No. 208 Madison avenue. Office for coal orders with Woolston & Buckle, 145 North ave.

New Fall Millinery Goods.
MRS. L. ADAMS,
114 EAST FRONT STREET,
Opp. First National Bank.
Dressmaking and Bazar Glove Fitting Patterns.

CONFECTIONS,
Fresh, and from
Pure Materials.
TIER'S,
116 Park Avenue.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.
CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

unfortunate

Cod-liver oil suggests consumption, which is almost unfortunate.

Its best use is before you fear consumption; when you begin to get thin, weak, run down; then is the prudent time to begin to take care, and the best way to take care is to supply the system with needed fat and strength. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, will bring back plumpness to those who have lost it, and make strength where raw cod-liver oil would be a burden.

A substitute only imitates the original.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York. 50c. and $1.00

Please the Eye
with harmonious designs in wall paper and paints and see that the artisans who put the paper on the wall and the paint on the door and baseboards are thoroughly competent. It is our aim to satisfy you in both respects and we request an opportunity to convince you of our ability.
Paints, oils, varnishes, etc.
E. E. MARSHALL,
167 North avenue.

New! New!
YES
But Stop, Consider
what a combination of valuable medicines.
Sarsaparilla, Beef and Celery,
BLOOD PURIFIER TONIC AND NERVINE.
Try a bottle and be convinced.
50C.
Leggett's Pharmacy.

Your Valuables
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

PIANOS.
You can buy the best in the market at Factory Prices, at
J. C. DYER'S, 218 WEST FRONT ST.

MISS CLARIBEL JEFFERY
CONVERSE.
GOLD ARM BANJO
Teacher of mandolin, guitar and banjo; best references. Call Fridays 322 West Front st.

Say Boy, What Do You Mean?

I said obtain Randolph's Palm Oil Soap, no other. It's the soap for the toilet. No reason why it should not be used. Only 25c for 3 large cakes. Obtainable only at

L. W RANDOLPH'S,
Prescription Druggist.
143 West Front st., Plainfield, N.J.

(Copyrighted, 1895, by Irving Bacheller.)

PART III.

The corporal looked after his captain with an expression of mingled amazement, grief and philosophy. He seemed to be saying to himself that there unfortunately were times, after all, when one could not rely upon the most reliable of men. When he returned to the group he found the captain bending over the girl and saying: "Why is it that you don't want us to search up-stairs?"

The girl's head was buried in her crossed arms. Locks of her hair had escaped from their fastenings and these fell upon her shoulder.

"Won't you tell me?"

The corporal here winked again at the man next to him.

"Because——" the girl moaned. "Because——there isn't anybody up there."

The captain at last said timidly: "Well, I'm afraid—I'm afraid we'll have to——"

The girl sprang to her feet again and flung her arms with her hands. She looked deep into his eyes with her glance which was at this time like that of the fawn which it says to the hunter: "Have mercy upon me."

These two stood regarding each other. The captain's foot was on the bottom step, but he seemed to be shrinking. He wore an air of being deeply wretched and ashamed. There was a silence.

Suddenly the corporal said in a quick, low tone: "Look out, captain!"

All turned their eyes swiftly toward the head of the stairs. There had appeared there a youth in a grey uniform. He stood looking coolly down at them. No word was said by the troopers. The girl gave vent to a little wail of desolation. "Oh, Harry!"

He began slowly to descend the stairs. His right arm was in a white sling and there were some fresh blood stains upon the cloth. His face was rigid and deathly pale, but his eyes flashed like lights. The girl was again moaning in an utterly dreary fashion as the youth came slowly down toward the silent men in blue.

Six steps from the bottom of the flight he halted and said: "I reckon it's me you're looking for."

The troopers had crowded forward a trifle and, posed in lithe, nervous attitudes, were watching him like cats. The captain remained unmoved. At the youth's question he merely nodded his head and said: "Yes."

The young man in grey looked down at the girl and then, in the same even tone which now, however, seemed to vibrate with suppressed fury, he said: "And is that any reason why you should insult my sister?"

At this sentence, the girl intervened desperately, between the young man in grey and the officer in blue. "Oh, don't, Harry, don't! He was good to me! He was good to me, Harry—indeed, he was."

The youth came on in his quiet, erect fashion until the girl could have touched either of the men with her hand, for the captain still remained with his foot upon the first step. She continually repeated: "Oh, Harry! Oh, Harry!"

The youth in grey maneuvered to glare into the captain's face first over one shoulder of the girl and then over the other. In a voice that rang like metal, he said: "You are armed and unwounded, while I have no weapons and am wounded, but——"

The captain had stepped back and sheathed his abre. The eyes of these two men were gleaming fire, but otherwise the captain's countenance was imperturable. He said: "You are mistaken. You have no reason to——"

"You lie!"

All save the captain and the youth in grey started in an electric movement. These two words crackled in the air like shattered glass. There was a breathless silence.

The captain cleared his throat. His look at the youth contained a quality of singular and terrible ferocity, but he said in his stolid tone: "I don't suppose you mean what you say now."

Upon his arm he had felt the pressure of some unconscious little fingers. The girl was leaning against the wall as if she

"OH, HARRY, HE WAS GOOD TO ME."

no longer knew how to keep her balance, but those fingers—he held his arm very still. She murmured: "Oh, Harry, don't! He was good to me! Indeed he was!"

The corporal had come forward until he in a measure, confronted the youth in grey, for he saw those fingers upon the captain's arm and he knew that sometimes very strong men were not able to move hand nor foot under such conditions.

The youth had suddenly seemed to become weak. He breathed heavily and hung to the railing. He was glaring at the captain, and apparently summoning all his will power to combat his weakness. The corporal addressed him with profound straightforwardness: "Don't you be a derned fool!" The youth turned toward him so fiercely that the corporal threw up a knee and an elbow like a boy who expects to be cuffed.

The girl pleaded with the captain. "You won't hurt him? Will you? He don't know what he's saying. He's wounded, you know. Please don't mind him!"

"I won't touch him," said the captain with rather extraordinary earnestness. "Don't you worry about it at all. I won't touch him!"

Then he looked at her and the girl suddenly withdrew her fingers from his arm.

The corporal contemplated the top of the stairs and remarked without surprise: "There's another of 'em coming!"

An old man was clambering down the stairs with much speed. He waved a cane wildly. "Get out of my house, you thieves! Get out! I won't have you cross my threshold! Get out!" He mumbled and wagged his head in an old man's fury. It was plainly his intention to assault them.

And so it occurred that a young girl became engaged in protecting a stalwart captain, fully armed, and with eight grim troopers at his back, from the attack of an old man with a walking-stick.

A blush pased over the temples and brow of the captain and he looked particularly savage and weary. Despite the girl's efforts he suddenly faced the old man.

"Look here," he said distinctly. "We came in because we had been fighting in the woods yonder and we concluded that some of the enemy were in this house, especially when we saw a grey sleeve at the window. But this young man is wounded and I have nothing to say to him. I will even take it for granted that there are no others like him up-stairs. We will go away leaving your damned old house just as we found it. And we are no more thieves and rascals than you are."

"GET OUT OF MY HOUSE, YOU THIEVES!"

The old man simply roared: "I haven't got a cow nor a pig nor a chicken on the place. Your soldiers have stolen everything they could carry away. They have torn down half my fences for firewood. This afternoon some of your accursed bullets even broke my window-panes!"

The girl had been faltering: "Grandpa, Oh, grandpa!"

The captain looked at the girl. She returned his glance from the shadow of the old man's shoulder. After studying her face a moment, he said: "Well, we will go now." He strode toward the door and his men clanked docilely after him.

At this time there was the sound of harsh cries and rushing footsteps from without. The door flew open and a whirlwind composed of blue-coated troopers came in with a swoop. It was headed by the lieutenant. "Oh, here you are," he cried, catching his breath. "We thought—hi! look v

The captain said intensely: "Shut up, you fool!"

The men settled to a halt with a clash and bang. There could be heard the dulled sound of many hoofs outside of the house.

"Did you order up the horses?" inquired the captain.

"Yes, we thought——"

"Well, then, let's get out of here," interrupted the captain, morosely.

The men began to filter out into the open air. The youth in grey had been hanging dismally to the railing of the stairway. He now was climbing slowly up to the second floor. The old man was addressing himself directly to the serene corporal.

"Not a chicken on the place," he cried.

"Well, I didn't take your chickens, did I?"

"No, maybe you didn't, but——"

The captain crossed the hall and stood before the girl in rather a culprit's fashion. "You are not angry at me, are you?" he asked timidly.

"No," she said. She hesitated a moment and then suddenly held out her hand. "You were good to me—and I'm—much obliged."

The captain took her hand and then he blushed, for he found himself unable to formulate a sentence that applied in any way to the situation.

She did not seem to need that hand for a time.

He loosened his grasp presently, for he was ashamed to hold it so long without saying anything clever. At last with an air of charging an intrenched brigade, he contrived to say: "I would rather do anything than frighten you or trouble you.

His brow was warmly perspiring. He had a sense of being hideous in his dusty uniform and with his grimy face.

She said: "Oh, I'm so glad it was you instead of somebody who might have—might have hurt brother Harry and grandpa!"

He told her: "I wouldn't have hurt 'em for anything!"

There was a little silence.

"Well, good-bye," he said at last.

"Good-bye!"

He walked toward the door past the old man who was scolding at the vanishing figure of the corporal. The captain looked back. She had remained there watching him.

At the bugle's order, the troopers standing beside their horses swung briskly into the saddle. The lieutenant said to the first sergeant:

"Williams, did they ever meet before?"

"Hanged if I know."

"Well, say——"

The captain saw a curtain move at one of the windows. He entered from his position at the head of the column and steered his horse between two flower beds.

"Well, good-bye."

The squadron trampled slowly past.

"Good-bye."

They shook hands.

He evidently had something enormously important to say to her, but it seems that he could not manage it. He struggled heroically. The bay charger with his great mystically solemn eyes looked around the corner of his shoulder at the girl.

The captain studied a plum tree. The girl inspected the grass beneath the window. The captain cleared hoarsely: "I don't suppose—I don't suppose—I'll never see you again!"

She looked at him affrightedly and shrank back from the window. He seemed to have woefully expected a reception of this kind for his question. He gave her instantly a glance of appeal.

She said: "Why, no, I don't suppose we will."

"Never?"

"Why, no—'taint possible. You—you are a—Yankee!"

"Oh, I know it, but——" Eventually he continued: "Well, some day, you know, when there's no more fighting, we might——" He observed that she had again withdrawn suddenly into the shadow so he said. "Well, good-bye."

When he held her fingers she bowed her head and he saw a pink blush steal over the curves of her cheek and neck.

"Am I never going to see you again?"

She made no reply.

"Never!" he repeated.

After a long time, he bended over to hear a faint reply: "Sometimes—if there are no troops in the neighborhood—grandpa don't mind if I—walk over as far as that old oak tree yonder in the afternoons."

It appeared that the captain's grip was very strong, for she uttered an exclamation and looked at her fingers as if she expected to find them mere fragments. He rode away.

The bay horse leaped a flower bed. They were almost to the drive when the girl uttered a panic-stricken cry.

The captain wheeled his horse violently and upon this return journey went straight through a flower-bed.

The girl had clasped her hands. She beseeched him wildly with her eyes. "Oh, please don't believe it. I never walk to the old oak tree. Indeed, I don't. I never—never—never walk there."

The bridle drooped on the bay charger's neck. The captain's figure seemed limp. With an expression of profound dejection and gloom, he started off at where the leaden sky met the dark-green line of the woods. The long-impending rain began to fall with a mournful patter, drop and drop. There was a silence.

At last a low voice said: "Well—I might—sometimes I might—perhaps—but only once in a great while—I might walk to the old tree—in the afternoons."

THE END.

JUST A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME

PLEASE

to remind you that now is the time to buy your fall suit or overcoat. We have them in all the newest styles and fabrics.

SPECIAL.

To open our fall trade we will give you your choice of 250 suits, 17 different styles, in sacks and cutaways, at $10.00

PER SUIT.

These goods are worth from $14 to $18, and must be seen to be appreciated.

WERNER'S,
206 West Front st.

Back Number GARMENTS
ARE FULL OF POSSIBILITIES.

Let us see if we can't discover a way of cleaning or dyeing them and helping you to economize.

We do this work perfectly—we turn the old spiritless faded looking clothing into bright lifelike effects—into the goodness of newness—maybe cleaning will do it—maybe dyeing. Shall we send for the goods? A postal will bring us, or our laundry drivers will take the work.

HILLIER & CO.,
179 North Avenue,

TRADE MORE QUIET

Slight Slowing Down in Business Situation.

Previous Buying Too Extensive for Consumption—Price Outlook Not Entirely Favorable—Money Market Sound—Decrease in Iron and Steel Productions.

New York, Oct. 12.—Dun's review of the business situation for the week just closing will to-day say: The price barometer gives indications that are not entirely favorable. Cotton goods go up with increasing evidence that the crop of cotton is short. Prices of other manufactured products, of wool, hides and leather, all show a decline, a general abatement in new orders being the principal cause. With an immense volume of business, not much exceeded in the largest month of the exceptional year of 1892, and with evidence that in several important branches the volume has surpassed that of any previous year, there is a growing uncertainty about the near future of industries. Money markets are neither strained nor threatening, foreign exchanges no longer raise apprehension, and all fears about the great northern crops are past. There have been few advances in wages of labor within the past month, and only a few works have been closed by strikes for an advance.

Buying Exceeded Consumption.

The main cause of decreased orders has been repeatedly pointed out during the past half year. When business began to revive a million traders were in haste to order, not only the goods which each expected to sell within a given time, but enough more to replenish stocks which had been cut down to almost bare shelves by two years of prostration. Thus the buying was much in excess of the real consumption within the given time. Also, as prices rose, many hastened to buy in advance of visible needs, hoping that every purchase would mean a gain, while multitudes hurried to get in their orders before others could buy as cheaply. Under such conditions buying continued for six months, and still continues in cotton goods, which have risen less than the material. But in most manufactured products buying for the same reason can no longer be expected, and the steady and regular consumption is not yet known.

Less Activity in Iron and Steel.

The production of pig iron, Oct. 1, was the largest in the history of the country, 201,414 tons weekly, against 194,029 Sept. 1, 196,000 having been the highest in 1892. Stocks unsold are not stated, but substantially the whole production is in execution of past orders. On the other hand, new orders are exceedingly small. There is marked decrease in all finished product, tank steel is lower, bar iron is offered by some at concessions, plates are not firm, the structural demand has greatly decreased, and wire rods decline $1 to $29, with lower wire and a much reduced demand for nails. Bessemer pig has fallen $1 to $15 at Pittsburg, and Grey forge 25 cts., and prices of iron products average 1 1-2 per cent. lower for the week. Discontinuance of a demand, which could not be expected to continue at the same rate after prices had risen 52.9 per cent., leaves actual consumption in question.

Boot and Shoe Trade Light.

Boots and shoes have a very narrow demand, partly because consumers have not taken all the goods already distributed to the trade, and partly because few wish to buy after prices have risen so largely. Many factories are at or near the end of their orders, and if they go on must take leather when prices are declining and hides are sinking below the price reached May 7. Shipments on past orders were for the week 20.5 per cent. less than last year. A considerable demand still appears for goods immediately deliverable, but buyers generally hold back, expecting lower prices.

Woolens and Cottons.

In woolen manufactures a demand for dress goods and some specialties keeps many fully employed, but most of those making men's woolens, for which new orders are scanty, find not enough to keep them running. To pile up goods in advance, wholly in the dark as to future foreign competition, involves such risk that some concerns may close for a time. The cotton manufacture is peculiarly favored by the rise in materials, and by the extraordinary stocks of cotton brought over from last year, but goods are also advancing, those quoted last week now averaging 90.8 against 87.5 per cent. of the prices of 1890.

Business Nearly Equals That of '92.

The volume of business reflected by exchanges is nearl as large as in 1892, embracing more of the monthly and quarterly settlements. Money is softer, and call loans drop from 3 1-2 to 2 1-2 per cent., with a singular decrease of nearly half in western demands, and small offerings of commercial paper. Failures for the week have included two banks and several concerns of some size, and have been 268 in the United States against 231 last year, and 52 in Canada against 43 last year.

FATE OF THE KOREAN QUEEN.

Probability That She Was Killed by the Anti-Reformers.

Yokohama, Oct. 12.—Count Kumura, director of the political bureau, has forwarded from Seoul, the capital of Korea, a report upon the recent uprising there. It is now supposed that the queen of Korea was killed by the anti-reformers, who, headed by Tai-Ron-Kin, the king's father, and leader of that party, forced an entrance into the palace at the head of an armed force.

To Cremate Newport's Offal.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 12.—The board of aldermen yesterday voted to contract with a New York party for the disposal of the city's house offal by cremation for a period of ten years at $275 per month. At present the offal is towed out to sea and dumped.

Death of John H. Divine.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 12.—John H. Divine, a prominent merchant of Divine's Corners, died at Ellenville yesterday, aged 82 years. He was interested in the building of the Midland railroad and was the founder of Hurleyville.

FIGHTING THE FIGHTERS

Poor Outlook for the Big Contest in Arkansas.

Gov. Clarke's Threatened Opposition Greatly Discourages Corbett. He Will Leave Texas To Avoid Arrest—Government Lands at Hot Springs Must Not Be Invaded.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 12.—Private advices were received here from Austin last night that the Travis county grand jury would return an indictment against Corbett and Fitzsimmons. Immediately upon receiving this information Manager Brady decided to get Corbett out of the state as soon as possible so as to place him out of the reach of the Texas authorities. Brady left for Hot Springs last night, where he will ascertain for himself whether the fight can be pulled off there, and if he finds that it can he will secure training quarters for the champion and the entire party will be removed to the new battle ground within the next few days.

Corbett Is Very Blue.

Corbett is very despondent over the outlook to-day. The announced opposition of Gov. Clarke makes it very doubtful whether the fight can be pulled off at Hot Springs. The champion said to the United Press correspondent: "Fitzsimmons is preparing to get out of the state to avoid the possibility of arrest, and I do not want to remain here and be placed in the clutches of the law while he goes free. I am tired of this persistent persecution on the part of Gov. Culberson, and it is probable that I will remove my training quarters to Hot Springs within the next few days. This is a splendid training place, and I shall regret to leave it."

Uncle Sam May Stop It.

Washington, Oct. 12.—If any attempt is made to occupy any government lands for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight Secretary Smith instructs the government authorities at Hot Springs to prevent the fight taking place. The secretary said to-day that he would grant no permit for the fight, and if any lessees of government land granted permission to the managers of the fight to have it take place on his land, his lease would be speedily revoked.

DR. MEYER IS WATCHED.

He Cannot Smuggle Letters Now To Plan Another Murder.

Sing Sing, N. Y., Oct. 12.—It is believed Dr. Henry C. Meyer, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of Carl Brandt, has given up the plot to commit another murder. Meyer was discovered writing letters to his wife, planning a scheme to poison a man upon whose life Mrs. Meyer was to hold an insurance policy. He promised to send her a prescription for poison she was to administer. The plot was discovered by Chaplain Wells, who read a letter Meyer tried to smuggle out of the prison. Nothing has been done by Superintendent Lathrop, to whom the matter was referred, but a strict watch is kept upon the doctor.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Mrs. Gaffron, Daughter of a Wealthy Farmer, Arrested at Butler, Pa.

Bulter, Pa., Oct. 12.—On a telegram from the chief of police of Denver, Col., Sheriff Campbell has arrested Mrs. Caroline Gaffron, daughter of William Kennedy, a wealthy Pennsylvania township farmer, on a charge of murder. Mrs. Gaffron's husband was killed in Colorado, she claims, by burglars some six months ago, and this is the crime for which she was arrested. She was placed in jail to await the arrival of Colorado officers. A writ of habaes corpus will be argued in court.

Boy Burglars Arrested.

Nantucket, Mass., Oct. 12.—Charles Stackpole of this town, aged 18, and a lad named William Rice of Kansas City, Mo., aged about 16, are under arrest here on the charge of breaking open and entering a cottage at Wauwinet, nine miles from town, belonging to Bassett Jones of New York. Some of the stolen property was found in their room.

For Assaulting a Minister.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 12.—In the district court Thomas N. Deutney, the temperance evangelist, was fined $20 for assault on the Rev. W. A. Thurston at Beverly. He appealed. Thurston had denounced Doutney from his pulpit as an immoral character.

Light Registration.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 12.—There is a marked decrease in the registration in the thirteen districts of the town of Saratoga Springs as compared with the first day last year. This is ascribed to the new law relative to the personal registration of votes.

Shot His Wife; Killed Himself.

Alexander, Minn., Oct. 12.—Edwin P. Evans, son of Deputy Coroner Evans, shot his wife three times and killed himself on the street last evening. They had been married three years, most of which time their relations had been inharmonious.

Her 104th Birthday.

Moosup, Conn., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Mary Coffey celebrated the 104th anniversary of her birth yesterday by a a reception at the home of her son. Mrs. Coffey has been in the United States only a few weeks.

New York State Democrats.

Albany, Oct. 12.—Chairman James W. Hinkey has called a meeting of the democratic state committee to be held at the headquarters of the committee in New York on Tuesday next at 8 p m.

Belfast Shipbuilders on Strike.

Belfast, Oct. 12.—Three thousand engineers and their assistants in the shipbuilding yards here have gone on strike, their employers refusing to concede their demand for higher wages.

Hunting for a Candidate.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 12.—The republican city convention last night failed to nominate a mayor and sent out a committee to search for a candidate and report to-night.

PAULINE HALL.

Miss Hall Says Dr. Greene's Nervura Surely Cures.

She Recommends Dr. Greene's Nervura for the Weak, Tired, Nervous and Debilitated---Says It is the Best of All Medicines.

MISS PAULINE HALL.

Pauline Hall, the empress of song, is celebrated the world over as the Representative American Beauty, who has in the presentation of her new operatic comedy, "Doreas," achieved the success of her eventful life. In a conversation with the representative of this paper she stated:

"I have in my professional experience essayed a number of roles that have been more or less trying upon the physical and nervous system, but in none that I have attempted have I ever experienced the terrific strain that the various characters which I assume in my new operatic comedy, "Doreas," have subjected me to. The assumption of one character in a presentation is generally conceded to be a sufficient undertaking for any one person, but in "Doreas" I assume three, all different, and I might say diametrically opposite to each other.

"The terrific strain naturally resulting from each difficult work, which is a new and direct departure from anything I have ever presented to the public before, naturally had a very distressing effect upon me, and I was constrained to seek some relief from the mental and physical exhaustion from my labors. After trying several remedies that were commended to me as being exceptionally good for the nervous exhaustion which I was subjected to, I was eventually induced to make a trial of Dr. Greene's celebrated Nervura, and the great relief which it afforded me was almost instantaneous in its effect, and I have no hesitation in unqualifiedly endorsing Dr. Greene's Nervura as the best tonic and restorer of a nervous and debilitated system of any remedy that I have ever tested. It is remarkable for the rapidity with which its restorative qualities assert themselves. It is absolutely harmless, and the instantaneous relief which it affords to the nervous and tired system is grateful in the extremes. I can readily understand why it is that so many hearty recommendations are given by people of prominence, especially those in our profession, for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and my own experience justifies me in recommending it as absolutely the best remedy which I have ever used."

Harry M. Jaquett,

123 EAST FRONT STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

The Clothier,

HATTER AND FURNISHER,

Cordially invites you to visit his store and inspect his

Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing,

for the Fall and Winter Season, complete in all its branches. Special attention given to Children's Clothing, Hats and Caps.

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods

Complete assortment in Neckwear, Underwear, Hosiery, etc., just received. New invoice of over 50 dozen suspenders.

In hats—John B. Stetson's celebrated make in Derby soft hats in latest styles. Also other makes and shapes. Complete assortment in Children's Hats and Caps.

One Price CASH. One Price

and money refunded if goods are not satisfactory.

Freshest Oysters

will be found at

Rogers' Sea-Food Market.

HEATH & DRAKE.

Established 1841. Newark's first-class Dry Goods House.

Laces and Trimmings.

Magnificent laces in spangles and beads, some all black and chameleon effects, gold and silver spangled and colored beaded trimmings per yard

25c to $2.85.

Black and mourning jetted effects, in trimmings, per yard

25c to $6.50.

New Garnitures in blouse, sash or collar and pointed designs, a yard.

$1 to $8.

Guipure de Gene laces in the new linen effects, per yard

25c to $1.00.

Jetted nets in choice designs per yard,

$1.75 to $3.85.

Insertion effects for blouse fronts, ¼, ½, ¾ and ½ yd. wide, per yard

75c to $2.00.

Special Sale of SMYRNA RUGS.

18 inch by 36 inch,	85c
21 inch by 45 inch,	$1.25
2[illegible] inch by 54 inch,	$1.75
30 inch by 60 inch,	$2.00
36 inch by 72 inch	$2.95
48 inch by 84 inch,	$4.95
30 inch by 33 inch,	$1.30
36 inch by 40 inch,	$1.75
7 ft 6 in. by 10 ft. 6 in.,	$20.00
9 feet by 12 feet,	$27.50

50 rolls mattings 40 yards in a roll at $3.20.

Carpet Bargains.

Put short length carpets at half price to close out. Parties desiring these goods will please bring measure of rooms.

777 and 779 Broad Street,

Newark, N. J.

TALK OF THE TOWN!

AND EXPLANATION WHY

Amos H. VanHorn

LIMITED,

73 Market st., Near Plane Street,

are doing all the business. Our stock is the largest, prices are the lowest and terms the easiest in the city. Just give it a passing thought that you can get an antique oak bedroom suit, 8 pieces, for $15, $20, $25 and $30, including a woven wire bed spring and a mixed mattress. No house in the city offers such inducements.

And then to think again that you can get tapestry Brussels carpet for 50, 60, and 70 cents a yard, made and laid with paper, which is a saving of 15c per yard. Where is there a house in the city that will offer such bargains?

And then imagine and wonder how we can afford to give away a moquette rug or parlor table with a parlor suit for $25, $30, $40 or $50.

Some of our competitors say that our ads are too much sameness, and that this ad. is old. Well, we will admit, but as long as it does the business and saves the people money we will continue to run it.

PORTLAND RANGE

Well, there is no use saying anything about them. The eating of the pudding is always the proof of it. 75 of them sold last week.

STORING FURNITURE.

If it was the first of May our storage business could not be any better. We suppose it is on account of our low rates and cleanliness. Storage building 88, 90 and 92 Bank st. Furniture moved with vans. Telephone 80.

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Limited,

73 MARKET STREET,

Near Plane street, Newark, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL.

Rich & Maeder.....Lessees and Managers.
Bristow Aldridge.....Resident Manager.

One week, commencing

Monday, Oct. 14th

Matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

—THE—

Lizzie Evans

Comedy Company

—IN—

Reportoire.

at popular prices. Uniformed brass band and superb orchestra.

Monday Night---American Born.

Prices—10, 20 and 30 Cents.

Watch This Space.

School Shoes.

Children's Heavy Grain Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 1-2 to 2, 90c. 8 1-2 to 11, 75c.

P. Cox's Misses Lace Shoes,

Spring heel, 11 to 2, worth $2.00, at $1.25.

Boy's Lace and Button Shoes,

11 to 2, 95c. 2 1-2 to 5 1-2, $1.00.

We keep a full line of Children's School Shoes at very low prices.

M. ABRAMS, 229, 231, 233 West Front St., Opposite Music Hall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance,

177 NORTH AVENUE.

THE DAILY PRESS

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., MONDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1895. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR

DR. RODMAN'S ANNIVERSARY.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS RECTOR OF GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

Sketch of His Life and Work—One of the Three Remaining Pastors in the Diocese of New Jersey of 25 Years Ago.

It is usually a pleasure to recall the past, and to Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector of the Grace P. E. church, it is especially so as he has just finished his twenty-fifth year of faithful ministration to his flock, then a little gathering of God fearing people, but now grown to a large and powerful church.

Rev. Mr. Rodman was born in New York city in November 1830. He entered Columbia College and graduated in 1850, and then completed his studies at the Seminary of Virginia. His first parish was at Norfolk, Va., where he remained seven years, leaving there in 1861. He came to Peekskill for three years and then spent two years at his birth place. On October 10, 1870, he entered upon his duties in Plainfield where he has remained ever since.

The church to which he came was the old frame building which is now used for the parish house at the corner of Sycamore and Sixth streets, but was then located on East Front street, near Richmond street. There was a congregation of about three hundred, which had been under the charge of Rev. Dr. Charles M. Fox. Under Rev. Mr. Rodman the congregation grew and twice additions were made to accommodate the increasing number. In 1876 the church was moved to its present site and here the services were continued until three years ago when the new stone edifice was built on the corner of Seventh and Sycamore streets to make room for the congregation which now numbers about seven hundred communicants.

When Mr. Rodman entered the diocese of New Jersey, there were one hundred and twenty-two ministers on the list ahead of him, now death and resignations have reduced the number of those who have remained at their parish longer than Mr. Rodman to two, the Rev. Dr. Baker, of Princeton, and Rev. Mr. Phelps, of New Brunswick. Of the many families who were in the church in 1870, only ten now remain. They are the families of J. B. Dumont, Mrs. E. H. Depew, Mrs. C. J. Ames, Mahlon Vail, Mrs. E. L. Craft, the Misses Megie, Mrs. Ann McCarty, Mrs. Catherine Buxton, Mrs. Randolph Harriet, and Mrs. George Smalley.

During the last twenty-five years, the parish has raised for all purposes over $200,000, of which $30,000 was used in building the new church. The gain in numbers, during those years has been very marked, 405 have been baptised, while 327 have been confirmed and about 200 received from other parishes. The loss has been 42 by death and 141 by removal.

In 1870 there was one society in the church, the ladies parish aid society, and seventeen years ago that was merged into the present Guild. The other associations in the church at the present day are all about a year old.

In commemoration of his twenty-fifth anniversary, Rev. Mr. Rodman preached a special sermon yesterday morning. Owing to the storm there was not a very large number present, but those that did come were much interested in his words.

He took for his text the fifth verse of the seventy-seventh Psalm: "I have considered the days old and the years that are past." He spoke of the changes in the Diocese of New Jersey during the last twenty-five years, and then remarked on the growth of the parish and of the Episcopal church throughout the country in the last quarter century.

He gave some statistics which were very interesting, showing that during that time the number in the church at the present day was four times as large as in 1870, while the collections showed a corresponding increase. The clergy was almost doubled while the forty dioceses were enlarged to seventy-one of today.

He then told something of the work that had been done in the parish, over two thousand services having been held since his arrival, and also in the Sunday-school; he spoke of the efforts of his congregation in building the present church and the good service they had done in church and benevolent activity.

He closed with an exhortation to continue the good work and to do good, and give according to their means.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

ELOPED AND NOW IN JAIL.

James VanOrten Has Time to Ponder on His Follies.

The climax to the romantic elopement of Mrs. Scofield and James VanOrten, the story of which was told exclusively in The Daily Press at the time the affair was on the gossipy tongues of the ruralites of the Passaic Valley, can now be seen in the careworn figure of an individual who languishes behind the bars of the Somerset county jail at Somerville. It is none other than the once frolicsome eloper, VanOrten.

To make a long story short the love between the elopers grew cold long before the weather did, and they separated, Mrs. Scofield or the second Mrs. VanOrten, returning to her deserted domicle.

VanOrten's wife heard that her runaway hubby was in Sussex county, and while she did not want to live with him, she did want him to pay something for the support of herself and child. A warrant was issued for his arrest on the charge of desertion, and placed in the hands of Constable Ryman, of Warren township, who, after a brief search, found his man and brought him before Justice Austin. He was unable to furnish bonds for the support of his wife and child and in default thereof was remanded to the county jail.

ALLEN'S GREAT SCHEME.

It Did Not Result as Rogers Expected And Now He Sues.

When the pneumatic sulky first came out it especially pleased the eye of E. B. Allen, of Flemington. He came to W. H. Rogers, the bicycle dealer in this city, with a scheme which he said would benefit both of them. He proposed, it is claimed, that Rogers make one of the new sulkies, and each to stand half the cost. The rest of the plan was that Allen should take the sulky back to Flemington and there rent it out. The scheme looked feasible enough and Rogers therefore agreed to it. The sulky was built and sent to Allen, but the sulky was not rented and no money was forwarded.

After trying in vain to get his money, Mr. Rogers, represented by S. S. Swackhamer, took the matter to law. The trial is now set down for Monday, October 21st, when it will be held before Justice Davis at White House. The suit is for the entire cost of the sulky, which is $88.50, as it is claimed that Allen never rented it but used it for his own purposes.

WOULD NOT PAY ALL.

Duckworth Owed Hedden $200 and Paid All But $75.

Livery bills run up easily to one who drives most of the time, and Mansfield Duckworth, formerly of this city, is no exception to the rule. While he lived here he rented a rig from Albert Hedden, the East Fourth street livryman, and enjoyed a ride almost every day. The bill amounted to over $200, but he paid off all but $75 of it. He is now in business with his father at Clinton, and although Mr. Hedden tried to collect it, he claims that he could get no substantial response. At last he retained S. S. Swackhamer as counsel and took the matter to the courts. The case is called before Justice Davis at White House on next Saturday morning at ten o'clock.

Mrs. Livermore to Speak.

For twenty-five years Mrs. Livermore has been conspicuous on the lecture platform. She has spoken in nearly every State of the Union, as well as in England and Scotland. Notwithstanding her many years of hard service she is still actively at work. Happy in her home and in the society of her husband, children and grandchildren, she keeps steadily at work with voice, pen and influence, ready to lend a hand to the weak and struggling, and and strike a blow for the right against the wrong, and prophesy a better future in the distance, and to insist on a woman's right to help it along. Mrs. Livermore speaks in the Presbyterian chapel on Front street tomorrow evening.

Council Meet Tonight.

The City Council will meet this evening in adjourned session. Some important business will be transacted.

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Indiana, are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This Remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner of Park and North avenues.

A LIVELY FAMILY FUED.

BOROUGH FAMILIES QUARREL OVER A CHESTNUT TREE.

John Goodwin's Family Annoyed by Harry Watson's Children Who Gathered the Colic Producers—Grievances in Court.

The season for chestnuts has arrived and with it has come trouble, in one locality at least. It appears that on Manning avenue there stands a chestnut tree and the children in that neighborhood gather the nuts. There is often a considerable amount of noise made by the children.

John Goodwin and his family claim that they have been much perplexed by Harry Watson's family who live near by. Last Friday the Watson children were gathering nuts, when Fred Goodwin appeared, and Mrs. Watson claims that he took some nuts away from her daughter Jennie, at the same time hitting her on the hand. Mrs. Watson came out and talked sharply to the youngster, and also picked up a stick and hit him on the hand.

Then Mrs. Goodwin appeared and remonstrated, but Mrs. Watson told her she had better go in the house and mind her business. The families finally separated, but Mrs. Goodwin complained to her husband and he had a warrant issued for the arrest of Watson.

The hearing before Justice Crosley was held this morning, when a lively scene was witnessed as each side told their story.

Mr. Goodwin testified that Watson had used abusive language, while the latter claimed he had not molested him. The hearing ended amid much excitement, when Justice Crosley stated that he would fine Watson $5 and that he and his wife would have to sign a bond to keep the peace for six months. The Watsons claimed they could get no justice and said they were going to carry the case to a higher court. Watson told Goodwin that he had better get his life insured, for he might die.

BABCOCK ESTATE WINS.

Result of the Mechanics' Lien Case Against the Babcock Building.

Supreme Court Justice VanSyckel this morning handed down his decision in the mechanics' lien case brought by Karl Zimmerman against the Babcock executors to charge the Babcock building for bills incurred by John Chandler for materials bought of Zimmerman. The decision sustains all the points made by Craig A. Marsh as counsel for the Babcock estate, and authorizes judgment against Zimmerman for all costs of suit.

The opinion holds, one, that no lien could be filed because the contract was filed and proper releases were taken, and the plaintiff failed to show the making of any payments without releases; two, that the lien filed and the suit brought were fatally defective for want of parties; three, that the lien was also fatally defective because it failed to show who was owner of the building when the lien was filed.

The case is of great importance to the Babcock estate because other claims of a similar character were depending on this case. The decision vindicates the course pursued by the executors.

—Daniel Ginna returned home on Saturday from Lake Hopatcong where he has been spending a few days fishing. He had excellent luck. The trip both ways was made with a horse ann carriage.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Reynold's pharmacy, Park and North avenues.

STRUCK A FLOWING WELL.

SCOTT PRESS WORKS TAP THE UNDERGROUND RIVER.

Two Large Steam Pumps Could Not Keep the Water Level Below Twelve Feet—Volume of Cedar Brook Increased By It.

The Scott Printing machine works having found their water supply lower than ever before and requiring an increased supply for their condensing engines concluded to drive a new open well. Having previously experienced the difficulties attending such work they adopted a new plan. Instead of building the walls of the well on a wooden platform and digging the earth from underneath it, as is usually done in sinking large fire wells in this town, they constructed a cast iron cylinder, ten feet in diamater, made up in sections and bolted together so as to form a cylinder ten feet deep, the cylinder having numerous holes, one inch in diamater to let in the water.

On reaching a depth of fifteen feet, a stream was struck running in a southwesterly direction. So great was the flow, the the combined efforts of two large steam power pumps, and a three inch steam syphon, could not keep the water below a level of twelve feet. On starting up their condenser pump, which has a piston of 16 inches in diameter the water level was reduced to fifteen feet. Under this conditon the well was sunk to depth of twenty feet, working in five feet of water.

Cedar brook is completely dry north of the Scott Works. The flow during this week in the lower end of the stream has come from the pumps of the Scott Works, running day and night.

RALLY OF THE ENDEAVORERS.

Interesting Services Held in the First Presbyterian Church.

The Christian Endeavor rally at the First Presbyterian church last evening showed that the Plainfield Endeavorers had lost none of their enthusiasm.

The church was handsomely decorated with American flags and the State colors, orange and black.

The music was led by W. L. Remson, who was assisted by a large chorus choir. E. L. Gifford introduced the different speakers. On the platform were seated the speakers and the presidents of several of the Plainfield societies. They were E. M. Cave, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, Miss Estelle Bittenbender, Rev. D. A. McPhie, Rev. C. E. Herring, W. H. Parnell, of Washington, E. L. Gifford, Frederick Smith, Will Crawford, and John Herman.

Rev. C. E. Herring spoke a few words of welcome and told how Plainfield got the convention for '96, especially mentioning the work of E. E. Anthony, president of the local union. A selection was sang by a male quartette, composed of Messrs. Tallamy, Yaeger, Peck and Williams, followed. A number of two-minute talks came next. Miss F. G. Hawkins spoke on "Early Consecration." E. M. Cave told of the great aid to all of the Christian Endeavor movement. "What it Has Done and What it Will Do" was the topic of Frederick Smith's talk. "The Boston Convention" was spoken of by John Lindsay. E. E. Anthony then arrived and was heartily welcomed by all.

Mr. Anthony took the floor and turned the tables on Rev. Mr. Herring. He also spoke of the right-hand man of the committee, Joseph Hawkins, who, he said, also deserves great credit.

W. H. Parmell, the first signer of the Christian Endeavor pledge, was introduced and told of the signing. He also spoke on the great changes the society had made in the church. After the closing speech by Rev. C. E. Herring and the benediction, all crowded to the front of the church to shake hands with Mr. Parmell, who held an informal reception.

Off for the Tea Country.

Mrs. J. H. Ackerman and daughter, Miss Lydia, left this morning for Chicago where they will join ex-Councilman Ernest R. Ackerman. The former will accompany the latter as far as California. Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman will go from there to Japan. Mrs. Ackerman and daughter will remain in California for awhile.

Coroner's Inquest at Elizabeth.

The coroner's inquest over the body of the murdered Italian was not held in the city court rooms this afternoon. At the last moment Prosecutor Marsh telephoned to Chief Grant to send the jury to Elizabeth where the inquest is being held this afternoon.

—The Woman's Exchange, 326 Park avenue, will open Tuesday next. 3

STRANDED THESPIANS.

The Lizzie Evans Company Go To Pieces Before Opening.

While peltering rain drops made life miserable to the individual who was compelled to wander about the streets yesterday, a score of thespians and musicians sat in the Hotel Grenada and bemoaned their fate that they were stranded.

Last week the Lizzie Evans Repertorie Company arrived in this city with the intention of opening in Music Hall tonight. Manager Frank V. Hawley billed the town with catchy lithographs of the beaming soubrette all a' smiles, but suddenly Thursday night Miss Evans appeared at the desk in the Hotel Grenada and to the other members of the company proclaimed that she had been deceived by Hawley, that he had not the talent in the company that he had promised, and had failed to procure a sufficient number of plays to make a successful season. She paid her bill and left for New York. After she left Hawley claimed that he would take the company out, even if he was compelled to engage another star.

Friday night he went to New York, ostensibly to get Miss Evans to return and keep the engagement. But he has not returned, and the result is told in the first paragraph. The musicians of the company were with Thatcher & Johnson's Minstrel Company and were left in Brooklyn three weeks ago when the minstrels closed. The members of the company who are left here are a gentlemanly lot of fellows.

News From Atlantic City.

A very enjoyable and helpful meeting was held at the Congregational church last evening by the Christian Endeavor society. It was led by A.C. LaBoyteaux, and papers were read by Mr. LaBoyteaux, Rev.C. L. Goodrich, Miss Eda Beekman, and J. V. Beekman, Jr., on the work of the different committees. Open parliaments were held on all the committees, and Miss M. G. Morse and Miss Adalene Parsons, the delegates to the State Convention at Atlantic City, made their reports. Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux told something of the Junior work at the convention.

Debating and Football.

The many friends of Oscar Campbell, formerly of this city, and a graduate of the High School in '93, will be glad to learn that he is progressing finely at the University of West Virginia. Besides his regular studies, he has joined the debating club and takes a great interest in the work there. He has also entered into a new line. He is now playing behind the 'varsity football team and is enjoying football very much.

Ladies Welcome Here.

Ladies as well as gentlemen are invited to the exercises in connection with the opening of the educational department in the Y. M. C. A. Hall this evening. The programme will consist of an address by H. Coleman, President of the Coleman Business College, of Newark, vocal and whistling solos, and selections on the mandolin and guitar. The admission will be free.

A Returned Missionary.

Rev. Frank S. Dobbins, of Philadelphia, a returned missionary from Japan, will give an illustrated lecture in the First Baptist church Friday night, October 18th, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. There will be no admission fee charged and all are invited. His subject will be "The Celestial Empire, the Land of the Rising Sun."

At Y. M. C. A. Tomorrow Night.

Capt. Jack Crawford, according to the New York World, held his audience spellbound for two hours. The New York Advertiser says: "He does not deal in blood and thunder and vulgarity, but he paints the Wild West in its true colors. He has delighted large and intelligent audiences in and around Boston."

Snow Will Soon Drive Them Away.

The tramp nuisance is again making itself felt along the Central Railroad. At Garwood the women are in a state of terror on account of the vagrants. Last night thirty tramps gathered around a fire in the woods along the road between Westfield and Garwood, and sang and howled until long after midnight.

Ragan Dead.

Lecturer Ragan, who has so delighted Plainfield audiences for the last few years, died Saturday from pneumonia.

Will Speak to Passaic Democrats.

James E. Martine will address the Democratic county convention of Passaic county on Thursday of this week.

EMMONS MAY SUE THEM.

MADE ARRANGEMENTS TO FURNISH STONE FOR MACADAMIZING.

He Was the Lowest Bidder But After Overcoming Unforseen Difficulties Finds That the Borough Will Do the Work.

At the borough council meeting held one week ago Friday night bids were received for the macadamizing of Harrison street from John Emmons, Thos. Doud, Smalley Bros., and J. Y. Wilson. The proposals and specifications contained no clause by the committee to reserve the right to reject any or all bids, and it was generally understood that the work would be let to the lowest bidder. John Emmons' bid was 62 cents per ton for crushed stone; Thomas Doud, 65 cents; Smalley Bros., 75 cents, and J. Y. Wilson, 82½ cents. Mr. Emmons' efforts to purchase stone from the local dealers who run crushers was very unsatisfactory. One firm wanted to charge him 10 cents per ton for stone at the quarry, which they were selling to other parties delivered at [illegible] cents, and another declined to furnish him stone at any price, while dealers in Scotch Plains and Dunellen treated him likewise. Mr. Emmons could furnish ample security and concluded to hustle on his own account, and knowing parties who owned a movable stone crusher in Warren township paid a visit there and made arrangements for the use of the machine. He also contracted for a twenty-acre lot of mountain property, near Somerset street, which contains stone enough to macadamize all roads in this section. Friday, the chairman of the street committee, Councilman W. C. Smith, informed Mr. Emmons that the committee, which he is chairman, had decided to do the work themselves.

Mr. Emmons is very indignant and is considering whether or not he shall bring suit against the borough for the loss of time and expense that he has been put to in making arrangements to carry out the contract which he expected to receive as the lowest bidder.

The council at its meeting on Friday evening last by a unanimous vote ratified the action of the street committee.

The bids that were furnished the borough council on Friday evening, May 12th, 1895, were as follows: A. L. Smalley, all sizes, 2½, 1½ and 1, with dust, 75 cents a ton; delivered, 93 cts. a ton, with dust. J. Y. Wilson's bid was: top dressing, 90 cents a ton; No. 1, 82½ cents; No. 2, 80 cents; tailings, 75 cents; delivered, at the crusher 10 per cent less. J. Y. Wilson was granted the contract to furnish stone for the borough for the ensuing year.

TRANSFERS AND CONTRACTS.

Plainfield Matters Recorded in the County Clerk's Office.

The New Jersey Contractor reports the following transfers of property recorded in the Union County Clerk's office from October 3d to 9th inclusive:

Martha F. Williams, Newark, to James E. Richards, Newark, lot Columbia avenue, Plainfield, $900; Joseph D. Runyon, et ux, Plainfield, to Anna C. Lane, two lots West Third street, Plainfield, $2,100; Jeremiah Manning, et ux, et al, to Lottie A. Vanfleet, Basking Ridge, lot West Front street, $[illegible]50; Anna Latta, et ux, to Marshal Bazing, Piscataway, lot Carleton avenue, Plainfield, $[illegible]00; Mary Laura Chapman Fisk, et ux, Plainfield, to Frank C. Ard, lot (52x100 acre), North street, $12,00C; James Ryan, et ux, Plainfield, to Daniel F. Dugan, lot LaGrande avenue, $525; Central N. J. Land and Improvement Co., to James Ryan, Plainfield, lot LaGrande avenue, $315; Charles E. Roeny, et ux, to Jeremiah Manning, et al, Plainfield, lot West End Park, $100; Abram P. Voorhees, Plainfield, to Mary Harding, Plainfield, lot John street, $328.

The following contracts have also been filed:

Samuel Dreier, Plainfield, with Bryant R. Cain, carpenter work, painting, etc., two houses West Front street, $3,[illegible]; Samuel Dreier, Plainfield, with Charles W. Krausse, plumbing, heating, etc., house West Front street, $1,238.65; Samuel Dreier, Plainfield, with Charles H. Burnett, three buildings West Front street, $1,017; John P. Benson, Plainfield, with Pearson & Gayle, carpenter work and painting house, Hillside avenue, $4,100; John P. Benson, Plainfield, with Seaman Williams & Co., mason work, etc., Hillside avenue, $1,440.

Telephone Service in Plainfield $30, $40 and $50.

According to number of local messages sent and joint use of line; full long distance equipment. Private lines and speaking tube systems installed at reasonable rates. Address, The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., 175 North ave., Plainfield.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale at Reynolds' pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues.

GOSSIP FROM BERLIN

Prince Lobanoff's Visit to the Emperor

Little Significance Attached to the Russian Minister's Presence—Why Bavaria Refused To Listen to the Appeal from Washington in the Stern Case.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—The visit of Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, who has arrived here from Paris, after finishing his holidays in France, is regarded in official circles as having no significance beyond that of an act of friendly courtesy in return for the recent visit of Prince von Hohenlohe to St. Petersburg. Prince Lobanoff was received by the emperor at Hubersstock, and, according to the present arrangements, will resume his journey to St. Petersburg to-day. Count Ostensacken the Russian ambassador to Germany, has shortened his leave of absence, spent in Switzerland, and returned here in order to meet Prince Lobanoff. The fact that he hastened his return to Berlin in order to be here while his immediate superior was in the city has been construed by a few as signifying that diplomatic matters of importance were to be discussed, but generally it is taken as merely an observance of diplomatic amenities.

Prince Lobanoff's Interview.

In the meantime public and official curiosity attaches to the kaiser's reception of the Russian foreign minister after having read the report of an interview which Prince Lobanoff accorded to M. Blowitz, the Paris correspondent of the London Times, while the former was in Paris, which has been reproduced in newspapers here, as is doubtless well-known. In this interview the emperor, whose morning reports from the various departments and his secretaries, include most of the matter published in the German journals referring to himself, is referred to frequently and compared unfavorably with his father. Prince Lobanoff is represented as saying: "The young kaiser likes to fly with his own wings. He consults Prince Hohenlohe because the chancellor is wise and amiable of temper." Continuing, Prince Lobanoff adds: "I have recently seen how Prince Hohenlohe has occupied his post. He does not do so as an ambitious man, but merely with patriotic resignation."

Next Great Imperial Function.

After the ceremonies of unveiling the monument to the emperor's father, Kaiser Frederick III., at Woerth the next great imperial function will be the inauguration of the new Reichsgerichtshof at Leipsic. On this occasion the emperor and the King of Saxony will arrive at Leipsic at noon on October 26. They will be received at the railway station and a grand procession, military and civic, will escort them to the great cupola hall of the new edifice, smiliar to that of the new reichstag building, where the emperor will formally lay the capstone of the building. Dr. Von Boetticher, the vice-president of the imperial council, the president of the reichstag, representatives of the various federal states and the chief of the imperial departments will be present. After the ceremonies the emperor and the king of Saxony will take luncheon with the president of the supreme tribunal and in the evening will leave Leipsic respectively for Berlin and Dresden.

Bavaria's Reasons.

In the course of inquiries provoked by allusions in the Munich newspapers to the real reasons why the Bavarian government ignored the diplomatic influence of the United States in behalf of Louis Stern of New York, the revocation of whose sentence of fine and imprisonment for insulting Baron von Thuengen, the deputy commissioner of the Spa at Kissingen, was sought, the representative of the United Press found that the difficulty was traceable to the period when Mr. Bancroft was United States minister to Prussia and was at the same time accredited to the Bavarian and Wurtemburg courts, respectively at Munich and Stuttgart. In 1871, when the German empire was formed, Mr. Bancroft received new credentials to the emperor of Germany, and when he was recalled duly presented his letters of recall to the emperor. At that time Mr. Bancroft reminded the state department at Washington that his letters of appointment to the kings of Bavaria and Wurtemburg were still in force and asked permission to present to them also formal letters of recall. The state department deemed this ceremony needless and so informed Mr. Bancroft.

Met with a Positive Refusal.

Upon the receipt of this notification Mr. Bancroft wrote to the courts at Munich and Stuttgart informing them why he was obliged to omit the customary diplomatic courtesy. The Bavarian court has ever been a stickler for etiquette and has remembered the slight put upon it on that occasion. The United States embassy here continues to be officially ignorant of the decision in Stern's case, and it is rumored here that the secretary of state at Washington asked the German ambassador there to use his influence in behalf of Stern and met with a positive refusal.

Favorable to the Porte.

The semi-official press of Berlin has now distinctly assumed an attitude favorable to the porte as being subjected to harsh and unjust treatment at the hands of England. The North German Gazette publishes a communication from Constantinople which traces the Armenian riots and their attendant bloodshed to the machinations of agents sent from London. According to this authority, these agents were plentifully supplied with arms and money, both of which were widely distributed. The communication also denounces the Armenian patriarch and censures the English agitators, who are themselves characterized as Christian fanatics, for inciting Armenian fanaticism against the Moslems. The Turkish embassy here appears to be confident that the sultan will effect an arrangement with the powers which will be satisfactory to all of the parties concerned. The embassy denies that anything approaching an ultimatum has been addressed to the Porte by England or any other power, persistent assertions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Russo-Italian Commercial Treaty.

Advices from St. Petersburg report negotiations are impending looking to the conclusion of a treaty of commerce between Russia and Italy, the former offering Italy the most favored nation treatment in exchange for a preferential tariff on Russian petroleum. Under the existing tariff the duties upon petroleum are levied in Italy, not according to bulk, but according to specific weight. This has worked greatly to the disadvantage of the Russian product.

HARD ON PRIZE FIGHTERS.

Danny Needham Arrested in St. Paul, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 14.—Danny Needham, who was to have engaged in a prize fight yesterday with Dick Moore, was arrested and compelled to give $1,000 bonds that he would not fight. The warrant also contained the name of Dick Moore, but the officers were not able to find him. There was a bare possibility of the fight being arranged by other means than by the use of a boat, so the last preventive was resorted to by prevailing upon Attorney-General Childs to procure from the district court of Ramsey county a writ of injunction against the principals in the fight, their trainers and managers, and all the railroad companies whose roads led out of the city from in any manner aiding in bringing off the fight. When this had been done the anti-fight faction retired from the scene and left the officers of the law to carry out the various orders and mandates. Behind all this was the governor's proclamation, issued a few days ago, to the effect that the prize fight must not occur.

CROWDS SEEK CURES.

Schlatter Closes His Fourth Week of Public Healing.

Denver, Oct. 14. — Schlatter, the healer, closed the fourth week of public work here yesterday by treating as many people as usual. The crowd around the Cox home was the largest yet noted. They began to arrive as early as 1 a. m., and before Schlatter emerged the line extended four abreast for more than two blocks. After he returned to the house in the evening many disappointed ones could not repress their grief and they went sobbing away. Schlatter has announced that he has been told to fast again, and he will enter upon this duty before he leaves Denver. His strength shows no symptoms of failing, and he seems unchanged in disposition in spite of constant annoyances. Stories of cures difficult to believe are heard on every side, but not every one who takes the treatment is benefitted. Many sad cases occur where people come long distances only to fail in finding relief. Schlatter does not profess to cure all, and he safely leaves the cases with "The Father."

TO VISIT WASHINGTON.

Gen. Harrison Will Argue a Case Before the Supreme Court.

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—Ex-President Harrison will leave here on Monday or Tuesday of next week for Washington for the purpose of arguing a case before the supreme court of the United States. It will be the first time he has visited that city since he left it as the retiring president. The case involves a constitutional question and a vast sum of money. It relates to the law governing the irrigation of arid lands in California. Gen. Harrison began to study the case when he was in that state as a lecturer on law in the Stanford university. It is one of a number of profitable cases which have come to him since his retirement from the presidency. Mr. Harrison will not discuss his trip, but it is believed that he has other cases before the court which will receive attention at this time.

JOE NESBITT DEAD.

Passes Away in a Chicago Lodging House from Opium.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Sporting men on both sides of the Rocky Mountains will regret to learn the Joe Nesbitt is dead and that he died in want, a slave to drugs. Joe Nesbitt was known among the nigh class gambling fraternity from Chicago to San Francisco and all over Colorado, Montana and Idaho. Ten years ago his check was good for $100,000 in the Montana National bank at Helena. Saturday he ran way from the Cook county poor farm and came to Chicago for the purpose of begging enough money to buy morphine and cocaine. He died in a lodging house presumably from an overdose of opium.

BEAT A PATIENT TO DEATH.

Two Intoxicated Insane Asylum Attendants Arrested.

Morristown, N. J., Oct. 14.—William Mack and Henry Convery, two attendants at the State hospital at Morris Plans, were arrested on Saturday and brought to the jail here for beating to death Nicholas Dolfus, an insane patient at the hospital. The coroner's jury exonerated Medical Director Evans and his assistants from all blame. The attendants, who had heretofore borne a good reputation were intoxicated at the time they committed the deed.

RESIGNS HIS CHARGE.

Rev. Dr. Mott Retires from Flemington's Presbyterian Church.

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 14.—The Rev. George S. Mott, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church for the past twenty-seven years, surprised his congregation yesterday by handing in his resignation at the close of the service. He has devoted much of his life to minimizing Sunday labor, and succeeded the late Col. Elliott F. Shepard as president of the American Sabbath union. His pastoral connections will cease on Nov. 17.

Funeral of W. W. Story.

Rome, Oct. 14.—The funeral of William Wetmore Story, the distinguished American sculptor and author, who died on Monday last, took place yesterday at the American church of St. Paul. The principal American residents of the city and a large number of visitors attended the services. The remains were buried in the Protestant cemetery next to the urn containing the heart of Shelley.

Golden Eagle Appointment.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 14.—Supreme Chief of the Golden Eagle A. C. Lyttle has announced the appointment of Brigader-General Henry Renick of Philadelphia to be lieutenant general of the military portion of the order in the United States.

Convicted of Murder.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 14. — Pasquale, charged with the murder of John Demarco, was found guilty in the second degree yesterday. The jury was out for two days.

BALTIMORE'S VISITORS

To Entertain Three Big Conventions This Week.

Women's Christian Temperance Union's Twenty-second Annual Meeting, National Purity Alliance Congress and the Annual Convention of the Builders' Association.

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—Three national conventions will be held here during the present week. Workers in every department of social and moral reform who are marshaled under the snow-white banners of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be heard at the New Music hall; distinguished men and women will participate in the national Purity congress at the Friends' Meeting house, and representative builders from all parts of the United States will attend the annual convention of the National Association of Builders.

Purity Alliance.

The National Purity alliance will begin its sessions this evening with delegates representing all social purity, moral education, White Cross, W. C. T. U. organizations, religious bodies and philanthropic bodies in sympathy with the objects of the alliance. For three days general consideration will be given the questions involved in the purity movement.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union will begin its twenty-second annual convention the day after the Purity congress adjourns—Friday. The exercises and proceedings of the white ribboners will be of unusual interest this year. Special prominence will be given to the report of the London convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union and the British Woman's Temperance association. Between 500 and 600 delegates are expected to attend the convention, over which Miss Frances E. Willard will preside.

Builders' Association.

At the ninth annual meeting of the Builders' association, commencing Tuesday and continuing until Friday, there will be an effort made to put through some important amendments to the constitution, with a view to reorganizing the association upon lines which will bind the builders' exchanges of each state together in closer relationship and make the association more effective.

MURDERERS' HEADQUARTERS.

Rendezvous of Range Hustlers in Johnson County, Wyo.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 14.—Advices received here indicate the existence in the mountains of Johnson county of a habitual range rendezvous and headquarters of range rustlers. It is near the head waters of Powder river and is known as "The Hole in the Wall," being a deep mountain canon, or basin, the approaches to which are inaccessible to any one not holding the clue to the labyrinth. The range thieves are said to number forty or fifty and are under the most thorough organization and effective as well as daring leadership. This discovery is likely to solve the question that has served to keep alive the fire of political dissension in the state for three years and led to the killing of at least fifteen men at intervals on the range. The farmers have been generally accused of killing the stock of the range companies and the corporations have taken the most drastic measures to protect themselves from the ravages of the supposed small farmers. Within the last two months three assassinations have occurred and more than one farmer has been warned to leave the state, and the warning has been obeyed promptly, as to neglect of similar notices are ascribed the deaths of others.

CUBA'S INDEPENDENCE.

Gov. Matthews To Advocate Its Recognition by the United States.

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—Gov. Matthews will speak at the Atlanta exposition on "Cuban independence day," and it is understood that he will advocate the recognition by this government of Cuba as a belligerent power. He says that he has pronounced views on the question and believes that the belligerent rights of the revolutionists should be recognized. His speech at the exposition will be in harmony with this thought and may go to the point of advocating the recognition of Cuba's independence. The governor's friends say that he believes the recognition of Cuban independence would be followed by immediate annexation, and the island would thus become a part of the United States.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS.

What Prophet Johnson Has To Say of This and Next Month.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—Weather Prophet Horace Johnson of Middle Haddam, who predicted the great blizzard, announces that from Oct. 17 to 21 there will be a general disturbance passing over great space. Mariners especially are warned. The latter part of October and the first part of November, he says, will be remarkable for high temperature. It will be very low between Nov. 15 and 20. The winter will be very severe.

OUTRAGE BY RUSSIAN GUARDS.

They Loot an Inn at Polanovo and Murder Three People.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—The Bronberg Tageblatt says that a number of Russian frontier guards looted an inn at Polanovo and murdered the hostess, her daughter and a servant.

Chess Contest.

New York, Oct. 14.—N. Jasnogrodsky, the local chess expert, defeated M. M. Sterling, the champion of Mexico, yesterday in the first game of a chess match of five games up at the Manhattan Chess club in a queen's pawn opening, after sixty-two moves. The second game will be played to-day.

Cruised 11,000 Miles.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—United States revenue cutter Commodore Perry reached this port last night. The captain reported having cruised a total of 11,000 miles during the season. The Perry overhauled and searched twenty sealers, but found nothing contraband.

EXTRA!

To inaugurate our Great

WHOLESALE SALE

We offer as Special this week

800 Fine Suits and Overcoats

in Fall and Winter Weights, Genuine English Cheviots and Clay Worsteds, Black, Blue and Gray Mixtures; Retail Price, $18 and $20,

AT ONLY $12.

"We sell Good Clothing for Less Money than any other house in the world."

TWO BROADWAY STORES:
194 Broadway, below Fulton St.
AND STEWART BUILDING,
Corner Broadway and Chambers Street,
NEW YORK.

BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & Co.

Open Saturday Evening till 9 o'clock.

Mantels, Tiles AND Fire-Place Fixtures.

Curtis M. Thorpe,
Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Dancing Class

At Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's School, 303 LaGrande ave.,

—BEGINNING—

Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Josephine M. Robb, Teacher.

9 27-10 1 5 8 11 12 15.

Educational.

Kindergarten Only.

FROBEL SYSTEM.

525 Madison Avenue.

Will Open September 25.

Children received from 3 to 6 years of age. For particulars address

MISS ELEANOR DEMAREST.

9 4 tf

The Dancing Class

—AT THE—

SEMINARY

will re-open on

Wednesday, October 16,

under the management of

ROBERT RUTLEDGE.

master of the French School of Dancing, 423 East 58th st., New York. For particulars inquire at the Seminary. 9 28 m

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY

will re-open

SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

(28th year.) Miss E. E. Kenyon, Principal.

Miss Scribner & Miss Newton's School for Girls

Primary, Intermediate, and Collegiate Departments.

Plainfield French Kindergarten

Miss Scribner, Miss Newton, Miss Hellwig, } Principals

303 LA GRANDE AVENUE.

Will Reopen Sept. 18.

MISS HELLWIG, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the kindergarten. For particulars address the principals.

MISS CLARA S. HELLWIG,

PROFESSOR OF LANGUAGES,

Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honor awarded for studies, by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia.

will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing Painting and English Branches.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1895.

Address 426 East 2d st. eod

Miss Fawcett's School

And Kindergarten,

25 WASHINGTON AVENUE.

North Plainfield, N. J.

Re-opens Thursday, Sept. 12.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Dept's. Boys received until 10 years of age.

Honeyman's Private Tours.

NEXT—To the Atlanta Exposition, Nov. 14, including Asheville, Chattanooga, Luray, etc. Call at or address 181 North ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Piano Bargains!

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS

desire to say that they have just received a fine lot of

NEW PIANOS

of different makes which they will sell at prices never before offered. Among them are those wonderful

Behr Brothers' Pianos, also Behning & Sons'.

They represent also the Knabe, Hazleton, Chickering and many others. They offer from time to time excellent

Bargains in Second-Hand Pianos.

221 PARK AVENUE.

$1.00 AT J. F. MacDonald's

UPTOWN GROCERY

Buys $1.00 Worth of Groceries Every Business Day in the Year.

Our goods are sold at a profit so as to enable us to give weight and quality to our customers and have something left for ourselves. No fictitious prices. No man is in business for his health.

J. F. MAC DONALD.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

—Dealers in—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material, &c.

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

Bargains in Real Estate For sale or to let.

MONEY to loan on first mortgage.

E. C. Mulford,

Armstrong Mulford, Assistant.

BROKER.

Communications pertaining to the business mentioned, either by letter or otherwise, will receive prompt attention. Carriage service supplied.

COAL F. W. HAND,

132 North avenue.
929 South avenue.
197 North avenue.
Telephone No. 139.

DeWitt C. Ivins & Co.,

301-311 WATCHUNG AVE.,

—DEALERS IN—

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Materials, &c.

Agents for King's Windsor Asbestos Cement for Walls and Ceilings.

Fulper's.

Leech, Stiles & Co.,

EYE SPECIALISTS,

441 Chestnut street, Philadelphia,

formerly with Queen & Co., H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front st. Dunham's real estate office.

EVERY THURSDAY,

From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 4 13 tf-m t w s

Metropolitan Livery and Boarding Stables.

Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Especial accommodations for transient trade. Office and stables,

147, 149, 151 North Avenue, Opposite Railroad Station.

A. C. BLAIR, Proprietor. FRANK JAY, Manager.
Telephone 152, connected with all circuits of New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

INSURANCE.

First-class Insurance at Lowest Rates.

WM. H. ABBOTT,
General Insurance Agent,
COR. FRONT and NEW STS.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front st.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate, Insurance.
VanBuren & Timpson,
163 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

WM. D. THICKSTUN,
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Finest Elgin Creamery Butter, 20c.
Best Dairy Butter 18c.
Finest Dairy Butter 15c.
V. L. FRAZEE
151 West Front st.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park ave.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

You May Have Lost
many hours of comfort by not having worn a good reliable
Pair of Collier's Glasses.
103 Park ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

New York Mails.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:15 a.m., 2:45, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7 15 and 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 4 30 and 7:30 p. m.

Somerville and Easton Mails.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:40, 6:00 p. m.
Close—7:15 a. m., 4:30 p. m.
Warrenville mail arr. 12 m; closes 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Mails.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

L. A. HUMMER. L. B. MULFORD.
Hummer & Mulford,
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park avenue. Telephone call 29-A

CLEANER COAL.
L. A. Rheaume
Agent,
Watchung Ave., Corner 4th St.,
Invites the public to inspect the operation of his newly added steam vibrating mechanical screen for nut coal, which he confidently believes enables him to deliver cleaner coal than is possible by any other method of screening.
Upper Lehigh and Honeybrook Coal
in best qualities and various sizes carried in stock.
Rough and Dressed Lumber.
He would also announce recently increased facilities for turning and scroll sawing, and is prepared to execute orders for the same in the best manner and at short notice.

PAINLESS TEETH EXTRACTING
with the use of "Euchirisma," a newly discovered anesthetic, by
DR. C. H. CLARK,
Sole agent for Plainfield.
212 WEST FRONT STREET.

H. HAND
Licensed Auctioneer.
15 Years Experience
Residence and postoffice address
Scotch Plains, N. J.
Office in Plainfield at Terrill & Cole's livery 200 West 2d st.

A SPECIALTY OF
Plums, Pears, Apples
and choice Jersey and Delaware
PEACHES
Superior
Musk Melons.
NEUMAN BROS,
501-503 Watchung ave.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market.
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 6 12 tf

FLORIST.
A. E. LINCOLN,
226 PARK AVE.,
Large assortment of ferns and other plants. Choice cut flowers daily. Floral design work for all occasions a specialty.

J. W. VanSickle, Dealer in all kinds of
FRESH AND SALTED MEATS.
Game in season. No. 122 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 148b. Orders called for and delivered promptly.

Carpenters and Builders.

UTZINGER & KLINE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Jobbing promptly attended to.
V. Utzinger, 75 Grandview ave. L. C. Kline, 54 Jackson ave.

JOHN P. EMMONS,
Mason and Builder,
Washington avenue and Prospect place,
North Plainfield, N. J.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vine st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vine st.
All work promptly attended to.

GEO. W. STUDER,
Carpenter and Builder.
985 Arlington avenue.
Jobbing of any kind promptly attended to. Estimates given, charges reasonable.

McCullough's STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop.
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

C. W. LINES.
Mason and Builder,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, 18 Elm place.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Jobbing promptly attended to

James E. Baily, 97 Jackson ave., Plainfield, N. J.
Trucking of all Kinds Done.
Two and four-horse vans and trucks. Particular attention given to moving furniture and pianos.
Satisfaction guaranteed

Rockview Home and Day School
REOPENS SEPT. 18.
Kindergarten, Normal Training Class for mothers and teachers, under Miss Emily M. Coe of New York.
THE MISSES PECK, Principals.

M. Powers & Son. Superior quality of
LEHIGH COAL.
No. 2 Coal Only $3.75 in the Yard.
A No. 1 Kindling Wood.
Yard and office 763 South ave. Down-town office with Lyman & Petrie, 171 North ave., opp. railroad station.

THE
Bee Hive

Kid Gloves!

Ladies' 4-button kid gloves in tan and browns 69c.
Ladies' Foster hook gloves in tans, slates and browns, 79c.
Ladies' kid gloves with 4 large pearl buttons, in tans and browns, 85c.
Children's kid gloves with pearl buttons 75c.
Louis Callman,
222 West Front st.

FISCHER PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED 1840.
Nearly 100,000 Now in Use.
RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARD, WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO.
EASY TERMS, — EXCHANGED.
Catalogue mailed on application.
110 FIFTH AVE., cor. 16th St., N. Y.

Acute pains require prompt relief. The best remedy is one that can be used immediately and by anybody.
Allcock's Porous Plaster
meets the case exactly, for all sorts of pains and aches, as sprains, strains, lameness of the back or limbs.
When you Buy Allcock's you obtain the best plaster. Don't be duped into taking any other.
Allcock's Corn Shields, Allcock's Bunion Shields,
Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills
purify the system, and thus remove the cause of many diseases.

CODDINGTON'S
Furniture and Freight
EXPRESS.
Offices 24 West Front st; 33 Park ave. Postoffice box 329. Piano moving a specialty. Large covered trucks; goods sent to any part of the country; charges reasonable; satisfaction guaranteed

WALL PAPER
Painting, Decorating.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Paints, Oils.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Shades, Carpets, Rugs.
E. LOVE.

WALL PAPER
Mouldings, Glass.
E. LOVE,
Corner North and Watchung aves.
Opposite Depot.

L. L. MANNING, Marble AND Granite Works,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

HOTEL Grenada,
NORTH AVENUE.
Now open for the reception of guests, under the management of George and Wallace V. Miller. House has been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished throughout, and contains all improvements. First-class accommodations for families and the traveling public.

Madison Avenue Hotel,
Madison Ave. and 58th st., New York
$3 PER DAY AND UP.
American Plan
Fireproof and first-class in every particular. Two blocks from the Third and Sixth avenue elevated railroads.
The Madison and Fourth Avenue and Belt Line cars pass the door.
H. M. Clark, Prop.
Passenger elevator runs all night.

REVERE HOUSE
Park Avenue,
7th and 8th Sts.
GEO. B. DE REVERE & CO.
Thoroughly renovated and now open for transient and permanent guests.

CITY HOTEL,
Plainfield, N. J.
Corner Park avenue and Second street.
Stables attached. J. E. Beerbower, Prop.

QUEEN WAS MURDERED

And Korea's King Is Now Held a Captive.

Japanese Troops Were at the Palace Gate When the Queen Met Death. Tai-Won-Tun Proclaimed Dictator. The New Cabinet To Be Pro-Japanese.

Paris, Oct. 14.—A dispatch from Seoul, the capital of Korea, confirms the reports that the queen was murdered while the Japanese troops were at the palace gates. There is nothing to show, the dispatch adds, that the Japanese minister was aware of the plot. The king is now a prisoner, and his father, Tai-Won-Tun, the leader of the reactionary element, has been proclaimed dictator. The new cabinet will be made up of pro-Japanese elements. The queen's officials have fled. A Japanese named Sosai has been arrested for the murder of the queen.

NO FIGHT AT HOT SPRINGS.

Gov. Clarke Determined To Prevent the Mill.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 14.—Gov. Clarke said last night: "You may put it in your pipe and smoke it that there will be no prize fight at Hot Springs. There may be a fight and riot, for these people are very determined, but there will be no prize-fight. This force bill (referring to the old statute discovered Saturday) empowers me to organize an army of 100,000 men if necessary and take possession of any section of territory in this state, hold possession of such territory until order and quiet are restored. Under this statute it is not necessary for the governor to be called on by the sheriff, and I am empowered to step in and stop this fight should an attempt be made to bring it off at Hot Springs or any other place in the state. This law gives me the power, and if necessary I will use it. You may state positively that there will be no prize fight at Hot Springs."

The Sheriff Against the Fighters.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 14.—Sheriff Houpt of Hot Springs, who was here to consult Governor Clarke regarding the proposed prize fight, in reply to a question said: "Most certainly the fight will not come off. If they attempt to fight I will stop them," and the earnestness of Sheriff Houpt's manner of speaking showed that he meant every word of it. "My word is out for it that the fight will not occur in my county and I mean to keep it."

Corbett Continues His Training.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 14.—Corbett spent all of Sunday training. He began work at 9 o'clock and quit at 5. He is in jovial spirits to-day, having received a telegram from Brady stating that there is a fair chance of the fight being pulled off in Hot Springs.

Protection Guaranteed.

Corbett later received another telegram from Brady telling him to leave for Hot Springs at once. The telegram further stated that training quarters had been secured and that protection is guaranteed. Corbett said he would leave to-night. It is very evident that Corbett still doubts the ability of the Florida Athletic club to bring off the fight at Hot Springs, notwithstanding the reassuring telegram from Brady.

FOUR MEN DROWNED.

A Ferryman's Yawl Capsized on the Patapsco River.

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—A ferryman's yawl boat, in which six passengers were crossing the eastern branch of the Patapsco river yesterday, was capsized and four of its occupants were drowned. The dead are: Fred Volkman, James Hunter, William Reynolds and Harry Steiner. The first three named were married. The accident was witnessed by hundreds of people who lined either side of Spring Gardens, and several boats put off immediately to the rescue. One of the unfortunates was found clinging to the overturned boat, and another managed to keep himself afloat by the aid of an oar.

BOUGHT FOR $2,000,000.

New York Capitalists Purchase the Golden Reward Mines.

